The Story: Lucille Le Jambon, whose mother's name is Higgins, is the star of the Merry Models Burlesque Company. The stern moralists of Sycamore declare that the models shall not be permitted to permeate the sanctity of the town. The show is stopped and the manager descamps. Lucille opens an ice cream parlor in the town. Once more Sycamore is roused, and it is determined to make the girl leave town. The minister is sent to her, but she proves to him that she is better than her accusers. However it is not until Lucille gets a motion picture of the Dearborn chief accuser, having a gay time with Chicago chorus girls, that she silences opposition—and marries the minister.

Program and Advertising Phrases: History Daily's Theatre setting for Photo-play Interiors.

Ragtime Music Changes Purity Leaguers Into Two-Steppers.

How a Two-Track Girl Captured a One-Track Town.

She Admits and Proves That She's a Perfect Lady.

When Performers and Reformers Fight It Out.

Advertising Angles: Play up Miss Kennedy and recall that the play, by Rennold Wolf and Channing Pollock, enjoyed a long run. Whoop up the fact that Miss Kennedy is to be seen as a burlesque star. You can probably arouse some curiosity by asking, "Just what does a perfect lady wear—when she is a burlesque actress?" They are apt to come to find out. You can handle this up with W., S., S., too, with good results.

Advertising Aids: One one-sheet, two three-sheets, one six-sheet, one 21-sheet display. Lobby displays, both in serp and color; also 2x35. Slide. Campaign book. Cuts. Released by Pathe.

"EYE FOR EYE"

Nazimova Productions Presents the Internationally Famous Star, Nazimova, in a Wonder-Ful Story from the Belgium of Kustnermecker.

Cast.

The Story: Hassouna, the daughter of an Arab Sheikh, becomes famous as Captain de Cadriere, a young French captive, and provides him with a knife with which he can have way to freedom. In punishment she is left behind in the desert by the tribe. She is captured by hostile Bedouins and sold into slavery, being purchased by the proprietor of a French circus, who uses her dancing as an attraction. Here she comes under the notice of Cadriere, who takes her into his home, explaining to his wife that she saved his life. The wife elopes with Lecoix and Cadriere's love for Hassouna grows. When she comes Tabei, to whom she was betrothed in the desert, who tells her that Cadriere killed her parents and demands that she exact an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth. Vainly she tries to kill the man she loves. In her absence she even plans to be avenged through his nephew, but in the end love proves stronger than hate—but she goes back to the desert with Tabei. Her ways are not the ways of the man she loves. She must go to her own people.

Feature Madame Nazimova as Hassouna and Charles Bryant as Captain de Cadriere.

Program and Advertising Phrases: Photoplay More Wonderful Than the Arabian Nights Up-to-Date. Depicting Eastern Passion and Western Chivalry.

The Story of a Girl Who Welcomed Life with Open Arms. As Mysterious as the Desert from Whence She Came.

Presenting Nazimova whose charms have swayed the world.

Advertising Angles: Work the name of the star for all it is worth, but make full use of the story, dwelling upon the rich oriental scenes and upon the fascinating dance in which she seeks to serve herself to kill her lover. The love story is colorful and vivid. Make your patrons realize this. Use plenty of paper and cut material, for this is all planned to make...
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD November 30, 1918

THEMANWHO WOULDN'T TELL

Vitagraph Presents Earle Williams, supported by bow-wow-wow, in a peculiar story of a British Secret Service Man in America.

Cost

Hawtrey Burke..............Earle Williams
Elinor Warden.............Grace Darmond
Dudley Warden.............Charles Sear
Eric Warden.................Edward Cecil

Directed by James Young.

The Story: Hawtrey Burke, a young Englishman in America at a time when his money runs out on the light of day finds it hard to endure the scorn of Elinor Warden, who is also English, and who, though brought up in Belgium. Her brother, Dudley, on a furlough, is involved in a murder mystery, for which he is tried. He is shot over and the witness stands and Burke stands accused as his assailant. Then America comes into the war, the British High Commission arrives and at last Burke's lips are unsealed. He is a British Secret Service Man and Elinore realizes the love she has vainly tried to suppress is fully justified.

Feature Earle Williams as Hawtrey Burke and Grace Darmond as Elinor Warden.

Secret Service Duty Forces Hero to Pose as Slacker.

American Girl Back from Belgium serves him. He Accused as Slacker.

Appearances are Often Deceitful in Judging Slackers.

Parade U-Boat Plot, Becomes Hero and Is Accused of Cowardice.

Advertising Aids: Play up the stars for their drawing capacity, and tell that this is a typical situation. Use such lines as "Branded as a coward though he had earned the Victoria Cross," to arouse interest. Another good line would be "Could you love the man who tried to kill your brother?"

Released December 3.

"THREE A GORDON"

Cost

Harold Chester Winthrop Gordon.

Jim Gordon....................J. Warren Kerrigan
Derrie Webster.................Lois Wilson
Mr. Webster....................Gordon Sackville
Gilbert Walter..................Jay Belasco Farmer Middun..................Walter Perry Farmers' Wife....................Beatrice Joy
Thos. Jefferson Higgins

Directed by Edward Carter

The Story: Gordon finds three given names too many and cuts them down to three X's from which he derives his peculiar cognomen. In one afternoon be is refused by the girl he loves, disinherited and requested to resign from his club. Stung by the loss of the selling, he barely had money enough to get across the river with Archie, who feels that there is a fortune in the West. They obtain a job on a ranch and run a ranch and引 the girl, too, and the troubles of the sweethearts is over.

Feature Lewis S. Stone as John Adams and Marguerite Clayton as Mary Lawton.

Producer and Advertising Phrases: He Burned the Home to Which He Had Planned to Bring His Wife.

Thrilling Romance of Love and Intrigue in Western Wilds.

When West Meets East the Rugged Man Wins the Battle. A Passionate Love Story of the Western Wilds.

How a Statue Made a Wonderful Difference in a Girl's Life.

Advertising Aids: Identify Mr. Stone through his work in "Inside the Lines" and tell that this gives him an even greater chance. Play up the striking scenes in the art world and give a hint of the story.

Advertising Aids: Two one-sheets, two three-sheets, two six-sheets, two eight-sheets and one 24-sheet. Eight 8x11 black-and-white, eight 11x14 colored, and two 22x28. Cuts, heralds, one six-sheet, cuts, slides, press sheets and music cues.

Released December 9.

"THE CHEAT"

Jesse I. Lasky Presents as a Reissue Fannie Ward and Susie Hayakawa in One of the Most Famous Stories of the Screen.

Cost

Edith Hardy.................Fannie Ward
Dick Hardy (her husband)........Jack Dean
Tori (one of Long Island's Smart Set)........James Neil

Directed by Cecil B. De Mille.

The Story: Custodian of a Red Cross fund, Edith Hardy, wife of a stock broker, whose passion is dress, invests the money in stocks—and loses. To conceal her peculation she borrows from a Chinese curio dealer. Tori, promising her love in return. She fails to meet this condition and

THE SPREADING EVIL

JAMES KEANE'S SEVEN PARTS

JAMES KEANE'S NOT A WAR PICTURE!
Tori tears the dress from her shoulder and brandishes it with her private mark. She shoots him, and her husband, coming upon the scene, takes the dress and runs it upon his shoulders; but as he is about to be condemned Ethel takes the stand, barring the instant execution of her story. Hardy is acquitted and Tori narrowly escapes with his life.

Feature: Fannie Ward as Edith Hardy and Sessee Hayakawa as Tori.

Program and Advertising Phrases: Two Great Photo-Stars Seen in Brilliant Revival of Past Screen Success.

Fancy Ward and Sessee Hayakawa Stars of Brilliant Photoplay
How a Society Woman Met Strange Adventure Under the Red Cross Intrigue and Villainy Thyred by Noble Womanhood.
A Wonderplay of Romance, Intrigue and Love.

Advertising Angles: Play up the joint appearance of the two stars and recall the sensation the story made when first released. Make capital of the fact that this is the first motion picture to be dramatized for the stage, being given the title of L. O. U. in the stage version recently done in New York.

"SNOBS":
Jesse L. Lasky Presents Victor Moore in Bronson Howard's Famous Stage Success of the Same Name.

Cast:
Charles Disney ........ Victor Moore
Ethel Hamilton ......... Anita King
Laurence and Villainy by Noble Womanhood.
Ernest Joy

Directed by Oscar Apfel.
The Story: Charles Disney is driven on a milk wagon route when the news comes that he is heir to his fortune and fortune of an English dukedom. He abandons the milk wagon and goes into society such as he finds, but in the long run he finds that they are snobs and he turns again to his daily rounds and finds real love and happiness.

Feature: Victor Moore as Charles Disney and Anita King as Ethel Hamilton.

Program and Advertising Phrases: Brilliant Satire on English Nobility and the Snobs of American Society.

An Evening Broad and Fat Bank Roll
Don't Always Mean Genteility.
The Romance of Milkmans Inflected with an English Title.

Advertising Angles: It has been some time since the story has been seen in a five reel story. Recall his previous successes, using those you have played. Tell that this is a real stage success. Get up a throwaway that milk wagon drivers can deliver with the milk, hinging it on the fact that he is a milk route man when fortune found him.

"SPECIAL ROLL TICKETS"

Your own special ticket, any time, any place, any car, any date, any time, any roll guaranteed. Coupon tickets are available for the following days:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Time</th>
<th>Tickets</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Five Thousand</td>
<td>$1.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ten Thousand</td>
<td>3.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fifteen Thousand</td>
<td>5.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Twenty Thousand</td>
<td>10.00</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

National Ticket Co., Shamekin, Pa.

Three Years Profit in One in a book for five-cent theatre owners. Fantry Sales more than doubled as you will have to wait, but there are worth waiting for.

BURRE & JAMES, Inc.
210 E. Ontario St., Chicago
225 Fifth Ave., New York

Adopt a SOLDIER and Supply him with "SMOKES" for the Duration of the WAR!

Y
OU know that our fighting men are beginning to smoke, tobacco cheers them. They need it. "Send more cigarettes, dear, but don't send enough names over here." "A cigarette is the first thing a wounded man asks for."

Fifty Thousand 1.00

One Hundred Thousand 12.00

("MEN'S WEAPONS")

Jesse L. Lasky Presents Ethel Clayton in the Story of a Woman Who Won Her Husband Through the Weapons Women Know.

Cast:
Anne Elliott ......... Ethel Clayton
Nicholas Helmer ....... Karl Hackett
Esmee Hall ......... Vera Doran
Peter Gregory ......... James Neill Nicolai, Jr. ......... Pat Moore

Directed by Robert Vignola.
The Story: The Lifted Curtains of Anne and Nick Elliot's married life is marred by Nick's infatuation for Esmee Hall, an artist who illustrates one of his books. Esmee is looking for a soul mate and decides upon Nick. Esmee is quarantined with the child he conceives from scarlet fever, and Esmee improves the clear field. Meeting her demands, Nick offers her a home. But, Anne has many years in her own right and they go to the shore to begin work on a play. Nick takes Esmee with him. Anne perhaps dig up pent, pent-impulds that will be worth a lot of publicity to you.

"A DAUGHTER OF THE OLD SOUTH"

Adolph Zukor Presents Pauline Frederick in the Story of a Proud Daughter of an Old Creole Family.

Cast:
Dorothea, a Creole, .... Pauline Frederick
Pedro, a Rich Spaniard, .... Pedro de Cordova
Vera Beresford Daughter .... Mrs. T. Randolph Forti
Grandmother .... Mrs. R. Campbell
Housekeeper .... Myra Brooks
Father .... J. P. Laffey

The Story: Dorothea Jardine, the young daughter of an ancient Creole family, is betrothed to Pedro de Alvarez, a wealthy Spaniard. She resents the idea of her sumptuous betrothal and meets her affections upon Dick Forti, a young novelist who returns her interest. But Dick meets an old flame and turns once more to her. Dolores invites him and his fiancé to dine and tells him that she has poisoned his wine. In an ecstasy of terror Dick implores her to save him and she promises to give him an antidote on condition that he marry her. He makes the promise, when Dolores tells him that the poison was water. She merely wanted to disgracem his fiancé turns from him and Dolores at last yields to Pedro's protestations of love.

Feature

Pauline Frederick as Dolores and Pedro de Cordova as Pedro.

Program and Advertising Phrases

Pauline Frederick Star in Delightful Story of Love in the Old South.

How a False Villain Wore and Needy

How a Daughter of the Confederacy Won a Northern Victory.

How a Pretty Girl Rebelled at Her Grandmother's Choice.

Advertising Angles

In the north it will be necessary to explain that a Creole is not of negro blood, but one of the descend-

The Committee on Public Information, Division of Films, Presents the Great Picture of the Way We Won the War. Released Through World Film Corporation.

The Story: The first picture of this series dwelt with the preparations at home. This second official war picture, made by United States Government photographers, deals with the provisions made abroad. It shows the huge dock improvements made to ac-

The Salvation Army for assistance during the long winter months.

“OTHERS”

The late General Booth's message to his Officers all over the world: “OTHERS”

There are thousands of poverty in all our big cities who de-

Our territory is ours for assistance during the long winter months.

Will You Help Us

Help “OTHERS” I am fortunate than yourself?

Send Your Gift to Commander Evangeline Booth

120 West Fourteenth Street, New York City

Or Commander Eunice, 108 N. Dearborn Street, Chicago

Duhem Motion Picture Mfg. Co.

La Cinematografia Italiana ed Estera

PERFECTION IN PROJECTION

Gold King Screen

10 Days' Trial

No. 1 Grade, 75c.; No. 2 Grade, 50c.

Stretchers included

Try before you buy. Sold by all the leading supply dealers throughout the country.

Factory, ALTUS, OKLAHOMA

TransVertiRe

Automatically supplies only such voltage as are required. No waste of current in ballast.

HERTER ELECTRIC CO.

West 114th Street, Cleveland, Ohio

4 K. W. Electric Generating Set

60 or 110 volts for stationary or portable moving picture work and theatre lighting. Smooth, steady current, no flicker.

Portable type with cooling radiator all self-contained.

Send for Bulletin No. 26

Universal Motor Co.

OSHKOSH, WISC.

“THE TESTING OF MILDRED VANE”

Metro Presents May Allison in a Vivid and Unusual Story of a Fiendish Revenge That Failed.

Mildred Vane ———— May Allison

Albert Moreland ———— Darrell Foss

Directed by Willifird Lucas.

The Story: Before the story opens Matthew Vane has left his wife in Paris in the care of Dorothea Hernandez. He does not know that his wife has had to protect herself from Hernandez, and that in doing so his hand has been injured so that his career as a surgeon has been ruined. On her death, Hernandez determines to be revenged upon her daughter, Mildred Vane. Letters come to Vane from Paris—long letters from her wife to another man. He is not even certain that Mildred is his daughter. He appeals to Hernandez, who promises to study the girl carefully. To the end Vane is sent away, and Mil-

Frequent May Allison as Mildred Vane and Darrell Foss as Albert Moreland.

Program and Advertising Phrases

Strange

Story of Intrigue and Villainy Pictured in Event That Leads to Happiness.

Directed and Made Victim of Strange

Intrigue and Villainy.

Love Finds a Way to Baffle Conspiracy

Against Girl's Happiness.

How Three Contemptible Creatures Were Thwarted in Dastardly Plot.

Plotting Against Girl's Good Name Is Suitably Avenged.

Photoplay by Famous Dramatist Introdu-Ces Skilled Players.

Advertising Angles: Play up the star, but you can interest many in the fact that the story is the work of the author of “In Old Kentucky" and other plays. Use the opening of the story to play curiosity, and it will sell.

Advertising Aids: Four styles one-sheet, three three-sheets, two six-sheets, one twenty-four-sheet, Popular Sheet Music cue sheets. Special heralds. Special hand-

Duhem Motion Picture Mfg. Co.

La Cinematografia Italiana ed Estera

Development, Printing and Coloring

CAMERA OUTFITS AND RAW FILM SUPPLIED

CAMERA MEN SENT ANYWHERE

953 Market Street

San Francisco, Cal.

La Cinematografia Italiana ed Estera

PUBLISHED ON THE 15TH AND 30TH OF EACH MONTH

Foreign Subscription: 20 francs per annum

Editorial and Business Offices:

Via Cumania, 31, Turin, Italy
List of Current Film Release Dates

General Film Company, Inc.

BROADWAY STAR FEATURE.
Toby's Palm (O. Henry Story—Two Parts—Drama).
The Heir of the Broken O (Rolfville Tale—Two Parts—Drama).
The Rose (Rolfville—Wolffville—Two Parts—Drama).
A Rambling in Afghanistan (O. Henry Story—Two Parts—Drama).

FORT PITZ THEATRE CO.
The Italian Battalion (Eight Parts—Patriotic).

ESSAYAN COMEDIES.
Snakeville's New Sheriff (One Part).
Sophie's Birthday Party (One Part).

RAINBOW COMEDIES.
Nearly aSlacker.
My Lady's Slipper.
Some Jeeves.
How She Hated Men.
The Canebrake Baby.
The Pipe of Peace.
Hooverizing.

OAKDALE PRODUCTIONS.
The Midnight Burglar (Five Parts—Drama).
Wanted, a Brother (Five Parts—Drama).
Little Miss Grown-Up (Five Parts—Drama).

SCRANTONIA FILM COMPANY.
(Fabulous Charlie Fong.)
Parson Popp (One Reel—Comedy).
Pang's Fate and Fortune (One Reel—Comedy).

OFFICIAL WAR PICTURES.
(Commissions on Public Information.)
Our Bridge of Ships (Two Reels).

AMERICAN RED CROSS.
The Historic Fourth of July in Parts (One Part—Patriotic).
Soothing the Heart of Italy (One Part—Patriotic).
Of No Use to Germany (One Part—Patriotic).
First Aid on the Scene (One Part—Patriotic).
Rebuilding Broken Lives (One Part—Patriotic).
The Kiddies of No Man's Land (One Part—Patriotic).
Victorious Scritt (One Part—Patriotic).
The Helping Hand of Sicily (One Part—Patriotic).

COSMOPHOTO FILM.
I Believe (Six Parts—Drama).

AMERICAN FEATURE FILM CORP.
Hearts of Love (Six Parts—Drama).

MAXWELL PRODUCTIONS.
The Married Virgin (Six Parts—Drama).

BANCHO SERIES.
(All Two-part Dramas.)
In the Shadow of the Rockies. Where the Sun Sets Red.

Mutual Film Corp.

STANDARD.
Oct. 1—Keep Smiling (Elinor Field—Comedy—One Part).
Oct. 8—The Girl in the Box (Elinor Field)—41CST-1.

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION.
Sept. 29—The Great Goshen (Five Parts—Drama).
Oct. 5—No Release This Date.
Oct. 15—The Baffled Devil (Gall Kane—Five Parts—Drama)—21-FK-5.

MUTUAL.
Oct. 22—Screen Telegram (Topical)—68-T-1.
Oct. 25—Screen Telegram (Topical)—69-T-1.
Oct. 30—Screen Telegram (Topical)—70-T-1.

OUTING-CHESTER PICTURES.
Oct. 6—A Tramp Melting Pot—15-6-1.

OUTDOOR-ROTHACKER PICTURES.

Pathé Exchange, Inc.

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF NOV. 17.

THE MANTELLE OF CHAITY (Marguerite Fisher).
All the World to Nothing (William Russell).
Wives and Other Wives (Mary Miles Minter).
Fair Enough (Marguerite Fisher).
When a Man Hides Alone (William Russell).

Foxy Film Corporation

BIG TIMELY PICTURES.
Nov. 24—Why I Would Not Marry.
Dec. 1—18 to 25.

FOX STANDARD PICTURES.
Nov. 17—The Woman Who Gave (Evelyn Nesbit).
Dec. 1—The She Devil (Theda Bara).
Dec. 15—I Want to Forget (Evelyn Nesbit).
Jan. 12—The Siren's Sons (Theda Bara).

EXCEL PICTURES.
Nov. 17—Will it Last? (Jane and Katherine Lee).
Dec. 1—Fuchama's (Virginia Pearson).
Dec. 15—Calculate the Act (Peggy Hyland).
Dec. 29—The Danger Zone (Madame Traverse).

VICTORY PICTURES.
Nov. 24—Panama and the World (Tom Mix).
Dec. 8—The Strange Woman (Glady's Brockwell and Allen).
Dec. 22—I'll Say So (George Walsh).
Jan. 5—Don't Lend the Money.

FOX-LEHRMAN SUNSHINE COMEDIES.
Nov. 17—Mongrels.

MUTT & JEFF ANIMATED CARTOONS.
Nov. 17—The Dough Boy. Without Notice.
Nov. 24—Around the World in Nine Minutes.
Dec. 1—Two Pals of the Ritz.
Dec. 8—The New Champion.
Dec. 15—3,000 Miles on a Gallopin' Gas.
Dec. 22—Hitting the High Spots.

FOX EXTRAVAGANZAS.
Nov. 17—Pan Pan.
Nov. 24—All Baba and the Forty Thieves.

Metro Pictures Corporation.

METRO PICTURES CORP.
Nov. 18—His Bonded Wife (Emmy Wehlen—Five Parts—Drama).
Nov. 23—Five Thousand an Hour (Hale Hamilton—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 2—Testing of Mildred Vane (May Allison—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 9—Hitting the High Spots (Bert Lytell—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 10—Sylvia on a Spree (Emmy Wehlen—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 23—A Poor Rich Man (Bushman and Bayne—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 30—Her Inspiration (May Allison—Five Parts—Drama).

SCREEN CLASSICS, INC., SPECIALS.
Blue Beans (Viola Dana—Seven Parts—Drama—Rolf).
To Hell With the Kaiser (Laurence Grant and Olive Toll—Seven Parts—Drama).
Pain First (Harold Lockwood—Six Parts—Drama).
Wilson or the Kaiser?
The Fall of the Hohenzollerns.

XAZIMOVA PRODUCTIONS.
Revolution (Seven Parts—Drama).
Toys of Fate (Seven Parts—Drama).
Eye for Eye (Seven Parts—Drama).

Triangle Film Corporation.

Dates and Titles of Triangle Release Subject to Change.

TRIANGLE PRODUCTIONS.
Sept. 29—The Grey Parasol (Claire Anderson).
Oct. 6—Tony America (Francis McDonald).

TRIANGLE RELEASES CONTINUED ON FOLLOWING PAGE.
C

Classified Advertisements

Remittances must accompany all orders for classified advertisements as follows: One dollar per insertion for copy containing twenty words or less. Five cents per word on copy containing over twenty words. Each word to be counted including names and addresses.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS.—The Publishers expect that all statements made in every advertisement will bear the strictest investigation.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

FIRST CLASS ORGANIST AT LIBERTY for immediate engagement. Experienced, reliable man; thorough musician. Fine picture player and recitalist. Splendid library. Pipe organ and good salary essential. South preferred, but will go anywhere. Satisfactory work guaranteed. Address Organist, Box 412, Hagertown, Md.

FREE LANCE CAMERADIAN; 2½ years' experience, wishes position as assistant to cameraman. Q. B., 177 Essex St., N. Y. City.

EXPERT, modern, rapid theatrical sign and card writer, does anything. Wishes position with amusement enterprise. W. Robinson, 437 Linwood St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

HELP WANTED.

WANTED.—Young man to operate Power's motion picture machine. Short hours, good wages, permanent, references required. 1611 Flatiron Building, N. Y. City.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

FOR RENT, Immediate possession given, one outdoor stage, 50 by 59 feet, with scenery loft, 6 by 70 feet, both equipped with all necessary room for offices, carpenter shop, etc. Very reasonable terms by the season or month. There is no finer climate for the production of pictures than that of Jacksonville. Inquire H. H. Simmons Realty Company, Jacksonville, Fla.

CAMERAS, ETC., FOR SALE.

ONE PATHE and one Still Camera for sale, may be seen at 101 East 1st St., or phone Madison Square 4101.
List of Current Film Release Dates

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

An ANIMATED WEEKLY.

October 25th
- No. 48 (Topical) — 03239.
- No. 49 (Topical) — 03242.
- No. 50 (Topical) — 03237.
- No. 51 (Topical) — 03232.
- No. 52 (Topical) — 03233.

Century Comedy.

September 12th
- Untamed Ladies (Alice Howell—Two Parts) — 03220.
- Nuts and Noodles (Eva Novak—Two Parts—Comedy) — 03219.
- The Pretender (William Desmond—Five Parts—Drama).
- The Harland (Helen Lynch and Dick Smith—Two Parts—Comedy).
- Pals of the Parade (Helen Gibson—Two Parts—Comedy) — 03226.

Goldwyn Distributing Corp.

Star Series Productions.

- Sept. 30th
  - Laughing Bill Hyde (Rex Beach—Five Parts—Drama).
- Oct. 7th
  - Hidden Fires (Mae Marsh—Five Parts—Drama).
- Nov. 17th
  - Thirty a Week (Tom Moore—Five Parts—Comedy Drama).
- Nov. 24th
  - A Perfect Thirty-Six (Mabel Normand—Five Parts—Comedy).
- Dec. 1st
  - The Hell Cat (Geraldine Farrar—Six Parts—Drama).
- Dec. 8th
  - A Perfect Lady (Madge Kennedy—Five Parts—Comedy Drama).
- Dec. 15th
  - Too Fat to Fight (Rex Beach Story—Six Parts—Drama).

Goldwyn Specials.

- The Max Man (Seven Parts—Drama).
- For the Freedom of the World (Seven Parts—Drama).
- Heart of the Sunset (Rex Beach Story—Seven Parts—Drama).
- For the Freedom of the East (Bettwood—Seven Parts—Drama).

Capitol Comedies.

- Sept. 22nd
  - Bill’s Sweetie (Two Parts).
- Oct. 7th
  - Camp Out (Two Parts).
- Nov. 17th
  - Pink Pals (Two Parts).
- Dec. 1st
  - Proposing Bill.
- Dec. 15th
  - You’ll Jilt Me.
- Dec. 29th
  - Poor Innocent.
- Jan. 12th
  - You Know What I Mean.

Paramount Pictures Corp.

Paramount-Bennett Comedies.

- Oct. 6th
  - Beware of Beards.
- Nov. 17th
  - Whose Little Wife Are You?
- Nov. 24th
  - Her First Mistake.

Paramount-Abrucke Comedies.

- Oct. 13th
  - The Cook.
- Nov. 24th
  - The Sheriff.

Famous Players-Lasky Corp.

Paramount Features.

- Oct. 13th
  - When We Eat? (Enid Bennett—Five Parts—Comedy Drama).
- Oct. 13th
  - Such a Little Pirate (Lila Lee—Five Parts—Drama).
- Nov. 17th
  - The Make Believe Wife (Billie Burke).
- Nov. 17th
  - The Gypsy Trail (Dyanis Washburn).
- Nov. 24th
  - Women’s Weapons (Ethel Clayton).
- Nov. 24th
  - A Daughter of the Old South (Pauline Frederick).
- Nov. 24th
  - Mirandy Smiles (Virian Martin).
- Nov. 24th
  - Fuss and Feathers (Enid Bennett).

Aircraft Pictures.

- Sept. 29th
  - Joanna Eustis (Mary Pickford—Five Parts—Drama).
- Oct. 6th
- Nov. 17th
  - My Cousin (Enrico Caruso).
- Nov. 24th
  - Under the Greenwood Trees (Ethel Clayton).

Paramount-Aircraft Special.

- Oct. 15th
  - Private Peace (Private Peace—Five Parts—Patriotic).
- Nov. 24th
  - Sporting Life (Maurice Tourneur Production).

Paramount-Flagg Comedies.

- Oct. 15th
  - Tell That to the Marines.

Releases continued on following page.
A Dependable Mailing List Service

Saves you from 30% to 50% in postage, etc. Reaches all or selected list of theatres in any territory. Includes name of exhibitor as well as the theatre in address. A list of publicity mediums desiring motion picture news. Unaffiliated exchanges looking for features. Supply houses that are properly characterized as such. Producers with address of studios, laboratories and offices. Information in advance of theatres being or to be built.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY
50 Fifth Avenue, New York
Phone—Chelsea 3227
Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

In Answering Advertisements, Please Mention the MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

Companhia Cinematographice de Portugal
HEAD OFFICE IN LISBON, PORTUGAL
Owns the biggest stock of films in Portugal. Renting contracts with practically every theatre in Portugal, Madeira, Azores, Mozambique and Angola. Working contracts with Spain. Sole Representative in America:
SALM LIMITED
141 Broadway, New York

Moving Picture Machine Patents My Specialty
PATENTS
WILLIAM N. MOORE
PATENT ATTORNEY
LOAN AND TRUST BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D. C.

The first important step is to learn whether you can obtain a patent. Please send sketch of your invention with $5.00 and I will examine the patent records and inform you whether you are entitled to a patent, the cost and manner of procedure.

Personal Attention Established 25 Years

Screencraft
BY LOUIS REEVES HARRISON
An invaluable help to the writer who is making a serious effort to evolve stories for screen production.
Of great interest too to the individual who is watching the development of "the silent drama."
$2.00 PER COPY, POSTPAID
Published and for Sale by
MOVING PICTURE WORLD
516 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY
Schiller Building, Chicago, Illinois
Wright & Callender Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

JAMES KEANE'S
THE SPREADING EVIL
IN SEVEN PARTS

NOT A WAR PICTURE!
List of Current Film Release Dates

(Continued from preceding page)

SUCCESSFUL ISSUES (REISSUES).
Oct. 6—Man from Mexico (John Barrymore—Five Parts—Drama).
Oct. 23—Seven Women (Pickford—Five Parts—Drama).
Nov. 17—Sauds (Violet Moore).
Nov. 21—The Cheat (Fannie Ward and Susse Hayakawa).
Nov. 24—Cartier (Mary Pickford).

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES.
Nov. 17—Fiji Does It Bit.
Nov. 21—Fire Walkers of Bequin.
Dec. 1—The Belgian Sisters of Luxun.

PARAMOUNT-BRAY PHOTOGRAPH.
Nov. 10—A Modern Miracle Worker; Our Newest Possessions: How Movies Move.
Nov. 17—Tortola, the Fisherman’s Paradise; A Machine That Thinks; An Original Wrestling Match; Cartoons, “The Greased Pole.”

World Pictures Corp.
Oct. 7—The Appearance of Evil (June Eulridge—Five Parts—Drama).
Nov. 11—America’s Answer.
Nov. 17—Just Sylvia (Barbara Castleton and Johnny Hines).
Nov. 23—The Grouch (Montague Love).
Dec. 2—Hitting the Trail (Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Gresley—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 9—The Sea Wall (Lewis Stone—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 16—The Zero Hour (June Eulridge—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 23—The Love Net (Madge Evans—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 30—The Sea Wall (Louise Huff—Five Parts—Drama).

WORLD COMEDY RELEASES.
0, Susie Behave (Pay Tinker).

Feature Releases

AFFILIATED DISTRIBUTORS CORP.
100 Broadway, Lafayette, We Come! Pershing, 17—(Perrit Productions).

BLUEBIRD.
Oct. 7—The Lane of Luxury (Ruth Clifford—Five Parts—Drama) 00226.
Together (Violet Dyer—Five Parts—Drama) 00226.
Nov. 22—Hugon the Mighty (Monroe Salisbury—Five Parts—Drama) 00226.
Nov. 30—All Night (Carmel Myers—Five Parts—Drama) 00226.
Nov. 27—Three X Gordon (J. Warren Kerrigan—Five Parts—Drama) Comedy- Hampton.
Dec. 2—Goddess of Lost Lake (Louise Glaum—Five Parts—Drama).

CHRISTIE FILM COMPANY.
Oct. 25—Two Company.

EDUCATIONAL FILMS CORPORATION.
Aug. 28—A Mexican Venile (Wright).
Sept. 2—Cigars for Kings and Millionaires (Herald Horaton).

FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS’ CIRCUIT.

Perishing’s Crusade.
A Dog’s Life (Charlie Chaplin).
Sheriker Arms (Charlie Chaplin).
Ambassador Gerard (My Four Years in Germany).
Tarzan of the Apes (Elmo Lincoln and End Markey).
Tempered Steel (Madame Petrova).
Itlay’s Flaming Front—Official Italian War Pictures.

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CO.
Times Building, N. Y.

FORD EDUCATIONAL WEEKLY.
Nationallly Distributed by the Grierson Distributing Corporation, 51 East 42d Street, New York City.
No. 110—The Milky Way.
No. 126—The Red Cross for the Wounded.
No. 121—On Foot with our Army and Navy.

HARRY GARDON.
Apolian Building, New York.
The Hushed Hour (Blanche Sweet).
The Uninvited (Blanche Sweet).

W. W. HODKINSON CORP.
Sept. 10—Heart of Italy (Bessie Barriscale—Five Parts—Drama—Paras).
Oct. 7—Whatever the Cost (Anita King—Five Parts—Drama—Plaza).

HOPP HADLEY.
130 West 46th Street, New York.
The Vow.

JEWEL PRODUCTIONS, INC.
The Gerer of Berlin (Century Production—Two Parts—4011).
The Sinking of the Atlantic (One Red Pen Picture by Winsor McCoy—4011).
For Thousands Only (Shoim Parts—Drama) 00289.
Crashing Through to Berlin (Seven Parts—Paramedic-Tropical) 0188.
The Yellow Dog (Six Parts—Plaza).

MARTIN JOHNSON FILM CO., INC.
516 Candidle Bldg., New York.
Among the Cannibal Isles of the South Pacific (Educational).

LEONACE PERRER PRODUCTIONS.
1402 Broadway, New York.
Stars of Glory.

GEORGE KLEINE.
Rialto Deluxe Productions.
Conquered Heards (Drama).

Edison.

The Unbeliever (Seven Reels).

Essanoy.
Young America (Seven Parts).
Triple Trouble (Charlie Chaplin Picture).

PSYCHO-ANALYTIC RESEARCH ASSOCIATION.
1510 South 222 Street, Lincoln, Neb.
What Does a Woman Need Most (Six Parts).

SELECT PICTURES.
Sept.—The Burden of Proof (Marion Davies—Five Parts—Drama).
Sept.—The Better Half (Alice Brady—Five Parts Drama).
Sept.—The Forbidden City (Norma Talmadge—Five Parts—Drama).

WILLIAM L. SHEPHERD SERVICE.
720 South Avenue, N. Y. City.
Marriage (Catherine Calvert—Keeney Production).
Facing Death on the Bumalap (Burlingham—Travel).
Unknown Switzerland (Burlingham—Travel).
The Plutus Railway (Burlingham—Travel).
Allied War Heroes Arrive in Switzerland (Burlingham—Travel).

State Right Releases

ADVANCED MOTION PICTURE CORP.
1403 Broadway, New York City.
The Eleventh Commandment (Drama).

ARROW FILM CORPORATION.

The Million Dollar Mystery (Six Reels—Dr.)
The Finger of Justice (Drama).
My Husband’s Friend (Five Parts—Drama).
Her Aviator.
Huns within Gates.
The Perfect Model (Audrey Munson).
Susan Princess (Margery Daw).
A Woman’s Law (Florence Reed—Five Parts—Drama).

ATLANTIC DISTRIBUTING CO.

The Devil's Playground (Seven Reels—Drama).

BEAR STATE FILM COMPANY.
220 N. State St., Chicago, III.

BERNARD H. BEHRNSTEIN.
923 Longacre Building, New York City.
The Lion of the Party (Drama).

CHESTER BERCOFF.
501 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City.

COSMOSFOTO FILM COMPANY, INC.
690 West 42d Street, New York City.
(Reclassified).

CREST PICTURES CORP.
Times Building, New York.
The Lust of the Ages.
A Grain of Dust.

THE FILM MARKET, INC.

401 Times Building, New York.
Suspicion (Six Reels).
What Becomes of the Children.
Gathem Film Novelties (Split-reel patriotic and classic released monthly). The Line Sprangler Banner (300 feet) Gotham Film.

COHEN (500 feet) (Gotham Film). Home, Sweet Home, and The Girl I Left Behind Me (Gotham Film).

FOURSQUARE PICTURES.
729 Seventh Avenue, New York.
The Great White Trail.

COSMOSFOTO FILM COMPANY, INC.
690 West 42d Street, New York City.
(Reclassified).

GAUMONT CO.

Flushing, L. I.
Gaumont News—Released every Tuesday.
Gaumont Graphics—Released every Friday.

GAUMONT CORPORATION.

Episode No. 5 ("The League of Silence"—Two Parts—Drama).
Episode No. 6—The Mysterious Man (Two Parts—Drama).
Episode No. 7—The Secret of the Night (Two Parts—Drama).
Episode No. 8—The Kidnapped Student (Two Parts—Drama).
Episode No. 9—Baby Girl in the Hotel (Two Parts—Drama).
Episode No. 10—A Girl’s Aid Two Parts—Dr.

GENERAL ENTERPRISES, INC.

Longacre Building, New York.
Mother (Six Parts—Drama—McClure Pictures).

HILLER & WILK, INC.

Raffles the Amateur Cracksman.
Sept.—Sporting (Maurice Tourneur Production).
Woman (Maurice Tourneur Productions).
The Silent Mystery (Francis Ford serial in fifteen episodes).

Plymouth (Seven Parts—Drama—McClure Picture).

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD
November 30, 1918

THE SOCIAL SECRETARY.

PITY PITY.
Subjected to accurate tests at every point in its manufacture never has an opportunity to be anything but right.

EASTMAN FILM

Identifiable by the words "Eastman" and "Kodak" in the film margin.

EASTMAN KODAK CO., ROCHESTER, N.Y.

---

SILVERTIP

DIRECT CURRENT

MOTION PICTURE CARBONS

The Silvertip used with the Columbia upper gives a light source that fills the bill in every particular. The Silvertip is heavily plated, making it capable of carrying the heavy currents used in projection without harmful heating.

We wish to call special attention to the new copper adapter which was designed for use with our Silvertip negative carbon. This new adapter, shown in the illustration below, has several outstanding features; it is made in one piece and cannot get out of adjustment while the jaws form a positive clamp, giving a better contact on a smaller portion of the carbon.

The illustration also shows the extent to which the Silvertip can be burned with the aid of this new adapter. The ruggedness of construction together with the quality of the material from which it is made gives the adapter a life equal to that of the rest of the projection apparatus.

Write for circulars.

National Carbon Company, Inc.
Cleveland, Ohio
List of Current Film Release Dates

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Stars</th>
<th>Length</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Trooper 44 (Five Parts—Drama)</td>
<td>by Neil Shipman</td>
<td>Bessie Barriscale</td>
<td>Five reels</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Tiger of the Sea (Seven Parts—Drama)</td>
<td>by Neil Shipman</td>
<td>Bessie Barriscale</td>
<td>Seven reels</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bill Singers’ Poems (A series of one-reel patriotic comedy-dramas issued semi-monthly)</td>
<td>by C. E. Thompson</td>
<td>Bessie Barriscale</td>
<td>Series of twenty-eight one-reel Eagle Key subjects</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Al and Frank Jennings</td>
<td>by Edwin Franze</td>
<td>Edwin Franze</td>
<td>Two parts</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Haunted House (Mystic Comedy—Two Parts)</td>
<td>by Edwin Franze</td>
<td>Edwin Franze</td>
<td>Two parts</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>United Film Corporation, Crime of the Hour (Seven Parts—Drama)</td>
<td>by Edwin Franze</td>
<td>Edwin Franze</td>
<td>Seven parts</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Francis Ford Producing Co, Berlin via America (Six Parts)</td>
<td>by Edwin Franze</td>
<td>Edwin Franze</td>
<td>Six parts</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Haunted House</td>
<td>by Edwin Franze</td>
<td>Edwin Franze</td>
<td>Two parts</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Haunted House</td>
<td>by Edwin Franze</td>
<td>Edwin Franze</td>
<td>Two parts</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

BOUND VOLUMES OF THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

You Need Them in Your Business!

Each issue of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD represents the fruit of studied effort on the part of experts to provide just what the average reader of trade publications in the moving picture field can use to best advantage in his business.

Since this is true, the bound volumes of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD, each comprising the complete issues printed during a period of three months, take immediate standing as The Reliable Reference Book of the Trade

NOW READY—VOL. 37.—JULY TO SEPTEMBER, 1918

WE HAVE AT YOUR DISPOSAL

Bound Volumes for the years 1912, 1913, 1914, 1915, 1916 and 1917. Four volumes each year. Shipped as per your instructions at $1.50 per volume—transportation charge additional.

CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 516 Fifth Ave., New York City

---

The Exhibitor Who Is a Subscriber to the Moving Picture World

Is kept constantly in step with the progress of the business in which he is THE MOST FACTOR.

$3.00 the year Domestic

$3.50 the year Canada

$4.00 the year Foreign
Don't experiment with the DEVELOPING and PRINTING of your films. The safe and sure way is to entrust this work to the house that stands for reliable efficiency backed by experience and responsibility. Note our address.

EVANS FILM MFG. CO., 416-24 West 216th St., New York City

COMMERCIAL LABORATORY WORK
In all its branches, receives INDIVIDUAL attention. Has the QUALITY and PUNCH which SELL prints.

RELEASE WORK
Specially equipped for QUANTITY production. Uniform SUPERIOR QUALITY such as only EXPERTS with scientific supervision can produce.

SPECIALTIES
If you have work requiring EXPERT SCIENTIFIC knowledge, we are BEST qualified to do it.

Empire City Film Lab., Inc.
345 West 40th St., New York City
Bryant 5437 Bet. Eighth and Ninth Aves.

The Essential Requirements
FOR Improved Projection
ARE SPEER CARBONS

Speer Alterno Combinations
for A. C. Work

AND

Speer Hold-Ark Combinations
for D. C. Work

Produce Incomparable Results

Write today for descriptive folders.
Read the unbiased opinions of operators.

Place an order now with your Supply House.

"The Carbons with a Guarantee"
MANUFACTURED BY
SPEER CARBON COMPANY
ST. MARYS, PA.

PORTER EQUIPS THEATRE FOR GRIFFITH'S
SUPREME TRIUMPH "HEARTS OF THE WORLD." Installs Two UP to The Minute Type S SIMPLEX PROJECTORS with Robin TIME and SPEED INDICATORS in the 44th St. Theatre, New York. The Marvelous PROJECTION of this greatest picture of modern times is synchronized accurately to the fraction of a second with the beautiful music and effects.

B. F. PORTER, 729 7TH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY, 11TH FLOOR

KNOWLEDGE BRINGS SUCCESS
Messrs. Exhibitor, Exchangeman, Operator, and Film Men Everywhere:—The moving picture business is one of the youngest but one of the leading industries of the world to-day. We may well be proud to be connected with it. Are you keeping up? Do you know all about it? It will yield larger returns for an equal amount of work to the men who know. Each weekly issue of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD contains more up-to-date information than you can get from all other sources. Subscribe now if not already on our mailing list. You will get your paper hours earlier than from the newsstand and it costs $4.80 less.

ONE YEAR ........................................... $2.00
SIX MONTHS ........................................ $1.50

See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
516 Fifth Avenue, New York

Please fill in the name of your Theatre.
Cut Out and Mail To-day—Now!
"LET THE SIMPLEX TWINS MAGNETIZE YOUR SCREEN"

The Screen is the Vital Spot of the House. It is what people pay their money to look at, and its attractiveness determines the number that come back for another look.

And there's no other way of making and keeping the Screen one-hundred-per-cent attractive than to employ the Simplex in the Projection Room.

The design of its Intermittent Movement, the excellence of the materials used, the lightness, large bearing surfaces and extreme accuracy of the intermittent parts, the manner of lubrication—these and other factors contribute to a permanent steadiness that leaves the wise Exhibitor no other choice.

Your Interests Are Protected by Films Wisely Selected and Simplex Projected
When buyers of "prints" are more interested in standards of quality than they are in mere price, true economy will be established.

When you buy "prints" you are not buying raw material. You are buying the screen reproduction of your valuable negative investment.

When you dicker about cost you are not really talking price, you are dickering on the way your "picture" will appear in the theatre.

It is not the fraction of a cent per foot you are "saving," but the pleasing and pulling power of your picture you are sacrificing.

Our Way Secures Quality and Satisfaction.
Projectionist Ray says

"In the reconstruction period which is close at hand the best is the thing that will win out in any line. Isn't it wise to forestall the future and be in the swim when the swimming is good?

"How about a Power's Cameragraph in that projection room of yours? You know the only route to success is by the satisfaction path; and what pleases your audience will satisfy your pocketbook.

"Power's Cameragraph has pleased the public since this business began. It sends your audience away with the satisfaction that always brings them back.

"This pioneer projector is a powerful lever for your success because always,

"IT PUTS THE PICTURE ON THE SCREEN"

Nicholas Power Company
Pioneers of Projection
90 Gold Street, New York, N.Y.
LEADERSHIP in motion pictures is now being determined by the quality and power of a company's productions and stars.

Goldwyn Pictures are today the best-made Quality Pictures in the entire market. It is impossible to think of good pictures without thinking of Goldwyn first.

"This is a Goldwyn Year!"
SMILING WITH A VENGEANCE

ROY STEWART has captivated a large following by his realistic characterizations of the fine young American Westerner. His sportsmanship, physical energy and dare-devil riding win applause wherever his pictures are displayed.

Horsemanship was never shown to greater advantage than in his portrayal of—a vigorous narrative of the great ranch country picturing rangers, rustlers and round-ups: with Ethel Flemming and directed by Cliff Smith. Scheduled for early release.

"The Silent Rider"

Triangle Distributing Corporation

1457 Broadway

New York

SAVE AND BUY W. S. S.
To Executive Heads Of Motion Picture Producing Companies:

It costs you a certain price per foot to process your film. There is a certain variation in quality in old methods that cannot be controlled. At a price less than the price your finished product is costing you—no matter what that cost is—we guarantee:

1. A tangible money saving.
2. A superior standard of work.
3. A service unequalled.

Mr. Charles E. Stark, our Sales Manager, will give you details.

George K. Spoor

Spoor-Thompson Laboratories:

1333 Argyle Street Chicago
Sales Office and Service Bureau 110 W. Fortieth Street
New York City, Telephone Bryant 1490

Spoor Prints
Out of the 25 Theatres on Broadway New York City Have Booked

Mrs. Charlie Chaplin
(Mildred Harris) in Lois Weber's Latest Dramatic Gem "Borrowed Clothes"

Are you in on it? If not, get in while the getting is good.

Jewel Productions
Executive Offices: 1000 Broadway New York City
NOW with their Minds at ease, show your Patrons this mighty History of the War:

"CRASHING THROUGH TO BERLIN"

THE MOST GLORIOUS PAGE IN THE TRIUMPHANT HISTORY OF CIVILIZATION—GLORIOUSLY ENACTED ON THE SCREEN—
The only Production in the World that gives the complete History of the War in Moving Pictures

DO YOU REALIZE
— that with the signing of the armistice, the value in Box Office power of "CRASHING THROUGH TO BERLIN" has nearly doubled thru the desire of America's millions to see all that has transpired?

DO YOU REALIZE
— that millions who didn't care to view the events of the great war while the Allies were in a dangerous position, are now eager to see how the hun was smashed?

DO YOU REALIZE
— that this is the ONLY authentic, complete history of the great war in pictures, that starts right from the beginning and goes right thru to the end?

DO YOU REALIZE
— that you can take advantage of the mighty fact that this is the ONLY complete history of the war? And have you seen the huge campaign of advertising backing it up? Get these facts and more at your nearest Universal Exchange.

Book thru your nearest Universal Exchange or communicate with the Universal Film Mn’fg. Co., Largest Film Mn’fg. Co. in the Universe, Carl Laemmle, President, 1600 Broadway, New York Distinctly different is this story of a breezy New York shop-girl and the rich fellow who kept asking her to marry him and whom she would not accept because—she loved him truly! The people in the picture are so many creations from real life, they are so wholly human and understandable. Audiences will chuckle over them, and they will love Alice Brady in the role of Lola Gray as they have never loved her before—for this is a picture to warm up to!

Larded with humor from end to end—"Her Great Chance" has caught and crystallized on the screen the American trait of seeing the happy side even of life's most tragic moments.

"Do you know why I refused you the other night, Charlie?"
As a Select star Alice Brady has been seen in eight productions prior to this latest of her pictures. These offer the Exhibitor a brilliant group of attractions of high merit, splendidly produced and presenting an artist of international repute on both stage and screen. Show these pictures at short intervals, and benefit by their value as a patronage-building series.

David Powell as Charlie, Alice Brady as Lola, and Jefferson de Angeli as the genial Innkeeper, in "Her Great Chance."

"Alice Brady was always the sincere and emotionally effective actress on the screen, but better productions have made Miss Brady greater than she was a year ago."

Picture-Play Magazine.
This splendid feature is offered to the theatres of the country as a SELECT PICTURES SPECIAL ATTRACTION ready for immediate showings. Book through the Select Exchange in your territory.

While nurse Cavell's life hung in the balance

"I will not remove the wounded English! But I will care for the Germans, also."

At this moment, when the responsible heads of the Allied governments are weighing scrupulously the charges against Germany, the name Edith Cavell is on the tongue of every guardian of Justice and the Cavell Case is being cited as an historic example of the Hun's wanton cruelty. The interest in this picture will never die!
Edith Cavell, British Red Cross Nurse in Belgium, hears her indictment

IN

THE CAVELL CASE

THE WOMAN THE Germans Shot

Picturized by Anthony Paul Kelly
Directed by John G. Adolfi

"The Cavell Case" is in six reels. Its action is tense, direct, compelling. The interest never flags. When presented at the Strand Theatre, New York, for the week beginning October 27th a new Sunday turn-away record for that theatre was created.

Every critic who has seen it has praised it. Not a one has appeared that has not been a boost.

Harry Raver submits

The Battle-Scarred Adonis of the Alps

In a 24,000 Foot Laughing Drama

The Liberator

From the story by Agnes Fletcher Bain

The most unique and fascinating Serial ever contributed to Screenland

Address, in the first instance

Harry Raver Inc. 1402 B'way
New York
THE DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS OF ITALY" (N.Y. TIMES)

IS BACK!

"A PERFECT CAVE MAN"
N.Y. AMERICAN

"HE IS MAGNIFICENT"
N.Y. TRIBUNE

The Soldier-Hero,- D'Annunzio's Discovery whose Herculean Exploits in "CABIRIA" and
"THE WARRIOR" Amazed The World

"MACISTE"
-Once Believed Dead-
Comes Back in
THE LIBERATOR

To Gladden and Thrill
The Millions Who Worship at his Shrine

FULLY PROTECTED IN ALL LAWFUL COUNTRIES
NORTH AMERICAN RIGHTS OWNED BY HARRY RÄVER INC. 1402 B'WAY NEW YORK
Billie Rhodes in "The Girl of My Dreams"

The first of a series of eight de luxe features produced by the National Film Corporation of America

"There are many great bits of comedy, not of the stereotyped order but so natural and amusing that they were a treat. There are also big "punches."

"Billie Rhodes is certainly as clever as the best of them. Her comedy was a "scream" and her pathetic scenes were delicately handled, showing a truly artistic temperament."

—Canadian Moving Picture Digest

Available December 15th at all offices of the

EXHIBITORS MUTUAL DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION
Los Angeles had a pre-view of BILLIE RHODES initial effort in a big picture - the critics of the daily newspapers were unanimous in praising the little actress —

"A new and delicious personality" Times

"A full-fledged film star" Herald

"Little doubt of her success — Express

ROBERTSON — COLE COMPANY

controlling world's rights
Martin Johnson and his plucky little wife traveled 18,000 miles alone among the remote isles of the lonely South Pacific, visiting savages who had never before looked upon a white face. They risked their lives every second of their perilous trip, made by small steamer, sailboat and native canoe, but they returned with the most remarkable authentic pictures ever filmed of the least known people on the face of the earth.

Once captured by cannibals, only to escape by a hair’s breadth, the Johnsons discovered a tribe of pigmies, watched head hunters bury their old people alive, looked with civilized eyes upon strange, primitive races for the first time. Through it all they managed to keep their motion picture camera; and the resultant film is the most amazing thing ever exhibited. "Cannibals of the South Seas" is rife with the spirit of adventure, the lure of azure seas and green savage isles, the undying romance of Conrad, Stevenson and London.

Audaciously Original
Unconventional Startling pictures of Savages, Naked Treacherous, Man-killing and frequently Man-Eating
A feature attraction
Photographed at the risk of life

"We guarantee they have ten times the grip of an average photoplay."

ROBERTSON-COLE COMPANY
controlling world's rights available December 8th at all offices of the
EXHIBITORS' MUTUAL DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION
Here is how the PALACE Theatre, New York, the parent house of all vaudeville, features

AMERICAN RED CROSS
Motion Pictures

If the Red Cross films of the war and its aftermath are worth headlining at the Palace, they are at least worth playing at your theatre!

These Remarkable Single-Reelers Are on All the United Booking Offices Time

Produced by American Red Cross Bureau of Pictures

W. E. Waddell, Director

Distributed for American Red Cross by General Film Company
"They Sparkle Like Wine"

Snappy One-Reel Stories with Capable Casts and the True Atmosphere of Light-heartedness Which Appeals to Everyone.

Brilliant Subjects Such as Every Program Needs to Become an Ideal Entertainment.

With LILLIAN VERA and EDDIE BOULDEN
Directed by Jos. Richmond

A New Release of RAINBOW COMEDIES Every Other Week

Produced by United States Motion Picture Corporation
Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

GENERAL FILM COMPANY, Distributor
November 16th We open with the

"ROMANCE of TARZAN"

tomorrow and I feel sure that the biggest crowd in the history of THE DAYTON THEATRE will attend the premier.

The people of Dayton are human, just like the people of your community who will pack your theatre and lobby to capacity to see Tarzan in this wonderful sequel production.

Mr. Gates has entered his advertising on "The Romance of Tarzan" in the exhibitor advertising contest for $1,200 in Liberty Bonds offered by First National Exhibitors’ Circuit for the best local campaigns.

And then attach specimens of your newspaper advertising and photos of your lobby display to an entry blank and mail it to the Tarzan Editor, 6 West 48th Street, New York.

You can get an entry blank, containing complete information, from your First National Exchange, the Moving Picture World, or Tarzan Editor.
With a cast that reads like a Benefit Performance

Miss ANITA STEWART

Mr. EDWIN ARDEN
Mr. CONWAY TEARLE
Mrs. DeWOLFE HOPPER
Mr. WILLIAM BOYD
Mr. GEORGE STEWART

Directed by
Mr. GEORGE LOANE TUCKER

IN

The First
ANITA STEWART PRODUCTION

"VIRTUOUS WIVES"

By Owen Johnson

A FIRST NATIONAL ATTRACTION
The First on the Market
The Most Timely Picture Ever Released
The Dramatic Sensation
The Production Supreme

"AFTER THE WAR"

The BIGGEST WINNER in Years with Fortunes
For BIG STATE RIGHTS MEN who ACT as they think - Never again in our time will this generation see another such opportunity. Telegraphic reservations should be wired instantly to The Argosy Film Co. 729-7th Ave New York City
Compelling Newspaper Ad Campaign for the Mightiest State Rights Picture of Years

Dont miss the Sensational Photo Drama of the Hour "AFTER THE WAR"

Featuring the Brilliant Star GRACE CUNARD and Wonderful Cast

A picture that will rouse the world AT LAST

THE BIG PICTURE The First Mighty War Picture

The War Story Without One Battle Scene

PHOTO DRA MA OF THE HOUR

THE MIGHTY PICTURE

ARGOSY FILM CO. 729, 7TH Ave New York City
SMASHING 24 SHEET E-OTHER SIZED POSTERS FOR

AFTER THE WAR
"ONCE A HUN ALWAYS A HUN"

The Woman
The Ambassador
The American
The German Wife
The Hun

The PRODUCTION SUPREME
With GRACE CUNARD and a brilliant all-star cast

THE BIGGEST STATE RIGHTS PRODUCTION IN YEARS

"AFTER THE WAR"

Posters - Lobby Displays - Press Matter - and Advertising Ready Prepared...
ARGOSY FILM CO., 729-7TH Ave New York City
Write-Wire-Call by Long Distance Telephone or better still take the First Train to New York and clinch this life time opportunity NOW. The Picture that is destined to Sweep the Country

"AFTER THE WAR"

WHEN we say that "Never in this generation will State Rights Men have such an opportunity to clean up", we mean exactly what we say. When will there ever be another such world war? When will we living in this time ever see such sights of frenzied joy over the ending of the war? When will our people ever experience such a thanksgiving as this year? And ALL THIS bears directly on this huge production "AFTER THE WAR" for it hits the masses at the exact psychological hour of our existence.

MILLIONS are asking the question—"What will happen after the war". Millions are clamoring to see and to know. Here then is the FIRST big production that begins to answer the questions of the world. That makes "AFTER THE WAR" the tremendous sensation it is. The signing of the armistice gives it timeliness over and above any production now on the market. This is the State Rights opportunity extraordinary. Territory apportioned in order of receipt of applications AND NO OTHER WAY. First come first served WRITE. WIRE OR LONG DISTANCE PHONE immediately.

ARGOSY FILM COMPANY
729—SEVENTH AVE., NEW YORK CITY.
WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH HIM?

WATCH FOR ANNOUNCEMENT
MCLURE'S-WORLD
FOR everybody who is glad the war is over, D. W. Griffith has produced this splendid story.

For everybody who admires Lillian Gish and Robert Herron—

For everybody who seeks a vivid drama that shows the world that in this victory we have won bigger things than wars—

For everybody who knows D. W. Griffith's work and for everybody who is eager to see his newest productions—

That is, for everybody—

D.W.GRIFFITH

Presents

"The Greatest Thing in Life"

An ARTCRAFT Picture

Contrary to the rumors that have doubtless originated with those who would profit in the event that they were true, the PATHE NEWS has NOT been sold and will NOT be discontinued.

Our justifiable pride in the Pathe News after a career of nearly ten successful years, causes us to think not of discontinuance but of development on a scale hitherto unthought of.

The thousands of exhibitors who show the News twice a week; the many who have shown it ever since the first number was released, may well be pleased that the one reel feature that the business has produced will continue, better than ever, and under the PATHE name.

PATHE EXCHANGE, Inc.
25 West 45th Street
New York
FOLLOW THE ALLIES INTO GERMANY!

With the American, French, Italian and British troops as they advance into German territory are official cameramen, directed by their various Governments. As the great Council meets at Versailles there also will be similar official cameramen. As town after town is freed of the four year enemy the official cameramen will enter with the conquering armies of Liberty.

What wonderful motion picture material, historic, fascinating, thrilling!

Your audiences will see it all in OFFICIAL WAR REVIEW issued one reel each week.

Presented by

COMMITTEE on PUBLIC INFORMATION
George Creel, Chairman
DIVISION of FILMS
Chas. S. Hart, Director

Distributed by PATHÉ
The Committee on Public Information
GEORGE CREEL, Chairman announces through the Division of Films
CHAS. S. HART, Director that the Official War Review

containing the official war pictures of the British, French, Italian and American Governments, will not be discontinued, but will be released weekly by Pathe for some time to come.

This announcement has been necessitated by the many requests for information from exhibitors who have found the Official War Review an excellent attraction, and have feared that the Armistice meant the early discontinuance of the film.

The Division of Films is glad to announce that the supply of excellent material has greatly increased during the past two or three months; that this material will continue to be received for some time, and that the negatives now coming in are of subjects far more interesting, even, than any hitherto received.

We are justly proud of the splendid record made by the Official War Review!

Committee on Public Information
GEORGE CREEL, Chairman
Division of Films
CHAS. S. HART, Director
PRODUCERS ATTENTION!

INDEPENDENT SALES CORPORATION

Arranging for a Cash Advance of Negatives and The Financing of Prints and Advertising

FURNISHING AND MANAGING SEPARATE GROUPS OF SALESmen for EACH PRODUCING COMPANY TO MARKET THEIR PICTURES EXCLUSIVELY

MAINTAINING A POWERFUL SALES FORCE IN EVERY EXCHANGE CENTER IN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA TO BOOK

Single Productions, Groups of Productions, Star Series, Director's Series, Author's Series, Serials, News and Magazine Weeklies, etc., etc.

Securing physical distribution for producers Through FILM CLEARING HOUSE, Inc.

Where weekly reports and weekly settlements are guaranteed with our special representatives in every territory fully responsible for maximum bookings

Independent Sales Corporation
126-130 West 46th Street
New York
ORGANIZATION MEANS SUCCESS

The Hearst News Reel Organization (International Film Service Co., Inc.) has been the Maker of News Reel History in the Past and has the stage all Set for even Bigger Events in the Future.

Mr. C. F. Zittel, Vice-President and General Manager of the International Film Service Co., Inc., quotes the following extract from a conversation he had recently with Mr. J. A. Berst, formerly Vice-President and General Manager of Pathe Exchange, Inc., now President of the United Pictures Corporation.

"The connection of the Pathe Exchange with the Hearst organization, through the International Film Service Co., Inc., was a most beneficial one for Pathe, and the turning point which led to Pathe's great success. The contract made by me with the International, which went into effect December 24th, 1916, was considered a great victory for Pathe, and from that moment the profits of the Pathe Exchange began to accrue very largely, and the Pathe News, combined with the Hearst International News under the title of the Hearst Pathe News, showed a profit that it had not shown for three years previous to the combine. In fact, for some time previous to the combination the Pathe News was not a paying venture."

The Past:

The International Film Service Co., Inc., has purchased the Universal Current Events, the Universal Animated Weekly and the Mutual Screen Telegram and the gathering forces of all these organizations are now being molded into the greatest news film amalgamation that has ever been in existence.

The Present:

After December 24th, 1918, the name of Pathe will be eliminated from the Hearst Pathe News and this famous reel will be released under the title of the Hearst News. The names of the Universal Current Events and the Mutual Screen Telegram will also be retained, making three news reel issues a week to be made by the International Film Service Co., Inc., and released through the countrywide exchanges of the Universal Film Manufacturing Co. The unequaled facilities of the Hearst camera forces, augmented by the forces of the other recently acquired companies, will mean the furnishing of news reels of a magnitude never before attempted. A unique and novel advertising and publicity campaign in the Hearst newspapers, magazines and affiliated papers, has been arranged for the promotion of these reels.

The Future:

International Film Service Company, Inc.
729 Seventh Avenue, New York City
A Great Primitive Drama of the Plains

An action story filled with the vitality of life in the open; a story of hot blood and strong passions.

The kind of story and tremendous production that has, under the Goldwyn name, doubled the drawing power of the most commanding personality of the screen.

GERALDINE FARRAR
in The Hell Cat

By Willard Mack
Directed by Reginald Barker

Think of the popular appeal of this brilliant artist in a virile picture made among the Wyoming hills—melodramatic, romantic, pulsing with emotion. Big in theme, big in conception, big in execution and bold and colorful in treatment. Big in money-making possibilities. Challenging you to use your best business judgment as an exhibitor and increase your playing time to enlarge your profits. Released everywhere December 1, but playing pre-release in twenty cities where enthusiastic showmen were eager to draw capacity business back again into their theatres.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION
Samuel Goldfish, President       Edgar Selwyn, Vice President
16 East 42nd Street            New York City
Exhibitors Themselves Suggested These Farrar Stories.

Goldwyn for months sought the best exhibitor opinion of the nation as to the type of stories they wanted Geraldine Farrar to make in her Goldwyn Star Series.

Hundreds of them responded, saying: “Put this great star in a wonderful outdoor story filled with action and containing strong love interest.”

The scenes shown on this page from “THE HELL CAT” forecast the success of this powerful story.

In a single production you have the benefits of the judgment of successful exhibitor-showmen; the work of Willard Mack, a brilliant playwright; the bold, masterly direction of Reginald Barker and an all-star cast including Milton Sills and Thomas Santschi.

Add these elements to a star of unparalleled popularity and the Goldwyn perfection of production and you instantly realize why all alert exhibitors are rapidly booking the Geraldine Farrar Star Series for their houses.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President  EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President
16 East 42nd Street  New York City
A Strong Melodrama Filled with "Punches"

Every exhibitor knows that audiences are now demanding powerful plots. The American public, filled with enthusiasm over the triumph of our forces, loves and demands ACTION. The pulse of the nation is beating fast. You therefore appeal directly to the popular taste and demand with

Belzwood Film Company's Spectacular Production

FOR THE FREEDOM OF THE EAST

with LADY TSEN MEI
Conceived and directed by IRA M. LOWRY

Obtaining instantly a 70-day booking on the Marcus Loew Circuit of theatres; playing to a clean sweep of every non-competitive neighborhood house in Philadelphia after a record-breaking first run at the famous Stanley Theatre; repeating the successes scored by "For the Freedom of the World"—the other Lowry production that has been a year-long success all over the world. Goldwyn advises exhibitors to book and play this unusual production, with the first Chinese star the screen has ever known, while the picture is enjoying the nation-wide recognition of the critics in the first run cities. Write or wire your nearest Goldwyn office for booking dates and prices.

GOLDWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION
Samuel Goldfish President
16 East 42nd Street New York City
Exhibitors of America: Meet Mr. Louis Bennison

You will welcome him on your screens because he has the habit of taking cities by storm. Overnight he captured the large cities of America in the successful play, "Johnny Get Your Gun" and made the critics say things like these:

"He caught the fancy of the town instantly. . . . "A breezy bird that all Americans will like." . . . "A husky human fairly exuding good nature." . . . "The most lovable fellow we have seen in ages."

Now Louis Bennison brings his breezy charm and manliness into the picture theatres of the world as the star of a Star Series of six Betzwood Film Company productions to be distributed exclusively by Goldwyn.

You will be quick to book for a holiday season premiere his first production

LOUIS BENNISON in

Oh, Johnny!

By Wilson Bayley
Directed by Ira M. Lowry

prints of which now await your inspection in all Goldwyn offices.

This star and his pictures are being promoted with a nation-wide campaign of exploitation to link up with his popularity in every section of the country.

GOLDWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

16 East 42nd Street

New York City
He Is Popular With The Women Of America.

Wise, capable exhibitors always try to find out quickly what their women patrons think of stars and productions. They represent the majority patronage of theatres everywhere. The striking success in 2,700 theatres of “SMILING BILL” PARSONS in CAPITOL COMEDIES is due in a great measure to feminine liking. Here is a comedian who is laughable and funny without ever offending decency and good taste. These are his newest releases:

Dec. 1 “Proposing Bill”
Dec. 15 “The Jelly Fish”
Dec. 29 “Poor Innocent”
Jan. 12 “You Know What I Mean”

GOLDWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President
16 East 42nd Street, New York City
The stage has its Bernhardt
Grand Opera has its Caruso
The Screen has NAZIMOVA

METRO
PICTURES CORPORATION
Exclusive Distributors of
NAZIMOVA PRODUCTIONS

The Great NAZIMOVA in EYE for EYE
Adapted from Henry Kistemaekers’ drama “Occident” by June Mathis and Albert Capellani and directed by Albert Capellani.
MAXWELL KARGER
Director General

Read what the Exhibitors Trade Review says

This Is a Real One

THIS is a real feature. It should be heavily advertised with big space in the newspapers. Your town should be billed completely and a good snappy advance campaign put over. You can’t go too strong on “Eye for Eye,” for it will not disappoint patrons, so you need have no fear of any comeback and therefore can go the limit.

As the picture is good for double the run that usual features get, it will pay you to loosen up, put quite a bit of extra money into a real advertising campaign and do all in your power to put the feature over in the way it deserves. Suppose you do put extra money into it. The chances are a thousand to one that you’ll get it back with a dividend that will make you feel happy for months.
This man is discussed by all the world today because he represents the best in human life and thought.

The Great Victory
WILSON or
The Fall of the Hohenzollerns

Directed by Charles Miller. Scenario by June Mathis and A.S. LeVino SCREEN CLASSICS INC.
METRO PICTURES CORPORATION
The Most Despised!

This man is cursed by all the world today because he represents arrogance, cruelty and greed of power, now happily no longer a menace to human freedom.

The Great Victory

The KAISER

The Fall of the Hohenzollerns

MAXWELL KARGER, Director General
SCREEN CLASSICS INC.

EXCLUSIVE DISTRIBUTORS -
The man who laughs all over makes his bow as a METRO Star in $5000 AN HOUR in a George Randolph Chester success provides the new type of entertainment which motion picture audiences seek.

HALE HAMILTON

Adapted by June Mathis from the novel published by Bobbs-Merrill & Co. and directed by Ralph W. Ince.

MAXWELL KARGER
Director General

METRO PICTURES CORPORATION DISTRIBUTORS
"I'm satisfied that 'The Iron Test' is even stronger than 'A Fight For Millions,' and am signing a contract now for your next serial on the strength of it. We went back to the old days on this serial, and gave out the red checks. Not only did it break box-office receipts, but the crowds broke my door trying to get in."

HARRY FOGARTY
The Screen Theatre
8th Ave. and 149th St
New York City

---broke the doors to get in to see

"THE IRON TEST"

VITAGRAPH'S LATEST AND GREATEST PHOTOPLAY SERIAL

FEATURING

ANTONIO MORENO and CAROL HOLLOWAY

15 SMASHING EPISODES OF ACTION

Written by ALBERT E. SMITH and CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

Directed by PAUL HURST

"YOU may book for our use 'The Iron Test,' to start Saturday, December 21. Send contracts for my signature. We have tried at several times the—serials and also the—, but Vitagraph has them stopped.

"In the future we will not experiment with other concerns, but book Vitagraphs continuously."

GLOBE THEATRE
St. Johnsbury Vt.

By H. A. GRAVES

VITAGRAPH
Albert E. Smith
President
After the War—What?

The war is over. Reconstruction is the order of the hour—business, political, physical reconstruction. And abreast of the spirit of the times is the FOX IDEA. To interpret the common thought of a happy and triumphant people—to aid the exhibitor to the greatest profits by the way of least resistance—William Fox now offers two Big, Timely Pictures that epitomize American thought and ideals and point the way of triumphant American progress.

The Reconstruction Problem
The greatest picture—the picture that draws the biggest crowds and piles up the biggest box office receipts—is one that appeals to the greatest number of passions in the human heart. Based on the Fox Idea there has just been completed a production built on the three greatest passions known to our race—the love of a mother for her son, the love of a man for a woman, the love of a patriot for his country. It is the most powerful drama of mother love ever thrown on the screen.

EVERY MOTHER'S SON
(With CHARLOTTE WALKER)

is a tremendous epic of the American woman's part in the World War—the heroism, the suffering, the supreme sacrifice of the millions of mothers who gave their sons to their country. It is a beautiful romance of an American soldier and a peasant maid of Alsace. It is a mighty film spectacle of patriotism, depicting not only the Great Draft and the battlefields of France, but also the final Peace Conference at Versailles and the glories of the new world that is to be born of reconstruction. EVERY MOTHER'S SON is a picture for every man, woman and child in America. It was directed by R. A. WALSH and temporarily titled "18 TO 45." It is a picture for you to book—now.

The Morality Problem
The Fox Idea has developed what is beyond all doubt the most unusual, most fascinating, most amazing photoplay ever produced—a timely, striking morality picture that is pitiless in the searching light it throws on matrimony. It will make the selfish, thoughtless, complacent husband squirm. It will cause wives to look at life in a new light. It is a challenge to the world, ripping away the veil of hypocrisy and deceit that has ensnared marriage and helped to make it a mockery.

WHY I WOULD NOT MARRY
(All-Star Cast)

is the story of a beautiful girl who was able to see that those men who fawned upon her and sought her hand in marriage only desired her as a sacrifice on the altar of Mammon. She saw poverty, bitterness, struggle—but at length also perceived that which brought happiness to her heart and hope to lift her spirit. WHY I WOULD NOT MARRY was directed by RICHARD STANTON. It will be the sensation of the season, with a box office appeal bigger than the capacity of the largest theatres.
Peace for the Exhibitor

Profits are what interest you. One picture that you know will be a box-office power is safer than all the untested productions combined. Booking a picture that is backed by a record of successes in the big first-run houses means peace of mind for you. It is your assurance—the best assurance obtainable—that your money, time, energy and advertising will not be wasted. And this is the sort of pictures William Fox offers you.

PROFIT MAKERS
The one new thing in motion pictures this season has been the development of the Fox Idea of timeliness—the production of pictures possessing news value. The Fox Idea has been the biggest success of the season. These pictures today are making more money for exhibitors than any other series of productions obtainable. They are timely and are being kept timely.

THE PRUSSIAN CUR
THE LAND OF THE FREE
QUEEN OF THE SEA

This is especially instanced by THE LAND OF THE FREE, based on the life of General Pershing and released as WHY AMERICA WILL WIN. Sweeping revisions have been made which place the film as far ahead of the times as it was on the day of release. These pictures are proved money-makers. The Fox Idea is to keep them so. Book them now—today—while public interest is at fever heat!

PROVED VALUES
No exhibitor could compile a list of the biggest pictures of the last year without paying tribute to the Fox Idea. No one who is familiar with the amusement business could name the record box office pictures without including the products of the Fox Idea. And no productions have more convincingly demonstrated the soundness and the money-making possibilities of that Idea than

CLEOPATRA
LES MISERABLES
THE BIG SIX

These pictures have been shown around the world. They have visited many communities again and again. And they are producing big profits today just as surely as they did in the memorable week of their release. They are pictures to bank on—pictures that will clean up for any exhibitor anywhere—pictures that will be cleaning up for wide-awake exhibitors a decade hence. Why experiment? Book certainties! Get these pictures now!
A Million-Dollar Group of Feature Pictures that Make Big Profits Absolutely Certain.

The Great Nine

Book Now!

Don't Wish for Luck—Grab The Great Nine

Theda Bara
in
THE SERPENT
Big bore hunt—battle scenes—surprising climaxes—R. A. Walsh's direction—Miss Bara's greatest work of character portrayal—assure big crowds and big profits.

In UNDER TWO FLAGS
Ouida's most famous novel—a rapid-fire picture with a 100 per cent. proved record for box-office hits—a non-vampire role and a story known to millions.

In The DARLING OF PARIS
Based on Victor Hugo's "The Hunchback of Notre Dame"—a gorgeous, costly spectacle with scenes of thrilling action that insure a splendid clean-up.

Valeska Suratt
in The SOUL OF BROADWAY
This story of the fashion parade at Atlantic City and expose of the night life of Broadway was a box-office sensation three years ago, and will repeat.

R. A. Walsh's great melodrama REGENERATION
You will recall the big scenes—the steamboat fire—the rescues—the gang fights—the great success of the picture—and will book it certain of turn-away business.

William Farnum
in FIGHTING BLOOD
Swift, tense action—the story of a battling clergyman who "came back." Profit? Well, this picture has played a greater number of days in all parts of the world than any other William Fox has released.

In THE BROKEN LAW
Love—romance—conquest—the free and easy life of the highway. Its great cast and powerful heart theme will make it one of the biggest of THE GREAT NINE revenue producers.

In HOODMAN BLIND

These Million-Dollar Feature Pictures Booked as a Group on a Strictly Independent Basis.

WINFIELD FILM CORPORATION
The Silent Mystery

FEATURING

FRANCIS FORD
MAE GASTON and
ROSEMARY THEBY

The Serial Sensation of the Century.
Demanded by a Million Fans.

Built on the sure foundations of the brilliant methods of the master-serial-maker of the universe—"The Silent Mystery" is the supreme money-getting Serial of the age. 15 amazing episodes. Francis Ford at his superlative best.

"The Silent Mystery starts with a Francis Ford Wallop"
—Exhibitors' Trade Review

Get ready now, Mr. Exhibitor, to connect with regular money, on this made-for-you, coin-getting thriller.

THE BIGGER PROFIT PLAN

Will be announced next week. It is a just and equitable measure designed to give Exhibitors their fullest right to Please their Patrons—Pack their Theatres—Play a Big Box-Office Success and—Collect their Profits. Watch the Trade Papers next week for the plan that has flooded our offices with inquiries the past month. If you can't wait—write for full particulars to

HILLER & WILK, Inc.
912 Longacre Bldg.—New York
CHAS. A. TAYLOR PRESENTS

THE GIRL AND THE HORSES

A wonderful story by a master of melodramatics introducing one of America's most beautiful society girls and champion horse woman of the world with her million dollar stable of arabians.

SUPPORTED BY FRANK MAYO

AND AN ALL STAR CAST INCLUDING

CLAUDE McDOWELL

GEORGE GEBHARDT

MRS. CHAS. A. TAYLOR

DELL BOONE & MANY OTHERS

LITTLE BEN-ALEXANDER

IN A THRILLING SPECTACULAR SCREEN DRAMA WITH A TITLE AND STORY THAT WILL STARTLE THE ENTIRE PICTURE LOVING WORLD.

WHO IS SHE

READY SOON

COMMUNICATIONS

CHAS. A TAYLOR - STUDIOS

1745 ALLESANDRO ST.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.
RETRIBUTION
Conceived and directed by George Edwardes-Hall

A story of melodramatic sweep and intensity—with the Abdication of the German Emperor for the first time accurately portrayed in a photoplay

NOTABLE CAST INCLUDING JOHN MASON
 VICTOR SUTHERLAND
 TEFT JOHNSON
 STANLEY WALPOLE
 DONALD HALL
 PEGGY SHAW
 EUGENIE WOODWARD

Ready for presentation November 30th

Production supervision by George A. Rush
September 10th, 1918

Mr. Al. E. Christie,
Christie Film Co. Inc.,
Hollywood, Cal.

Dear Mr. Christie:—

Your comedies keep coming so good, and fresh, and clean, each one better than the last, that an impulse has caused me to write and let you know that we thoroughly appreciate the good work that you are doing.

After running sixty-five consecutive releases, my patrons look forward each week for the coming release with as much interest as I do myself.

That the patronage of the Palace is so steady and constant I attribute to the great help that the CHRISTIE COMEDIES lend so steadily to the rest of the program.

Wishing you continued success, I am,

Yours truly,

[Signature]

H. B. Breckwold, M.D.
EDY SERIOUSLY
IGHTS OF CHRISTIE COMEDIES
AT THIS DOWNTOWN THEATRE
REAL BOX OFFICE VALUE

ALL COMEDY WEEK

SOME CAVE MAN
A RIOTOUS CHRISTIE COMEDY WITH BOBBY VERNON

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS IN BOUND IN MOROCCO

CHARLIE CHAPLIN IN HIS MILLION DOLLAR JOB

BOOKED THRU FOREMOST INDEPENDENT EXCHANGES
PRE-RELEASE SHOWING AT KEITH'S THEATRE, Washington, D. C.—A SENSATION

You All Voted

"DAMAGED GOODS"
"WHERE ARE MY CHILDREN?"
"ENLIGHTEN THY DAUGHTER"

GREAT PICTURES

Then read what
Hon. JOSEPHUS DANIELS
Secretary of the U. S. Navy wrote about

"THE SPREADING EVIL"

(Extract from letter of endorsement)

"It is a powerful portrayal of an evil to whose ravages the public must be awakened, and I am sure your photo-play will do much toward arousing the American people to their duty."

MORE ABOUT THIS NEXT ISSUE
It was great before
It is greater now

TO HELL WITH THE KAISER

The greatest repeat production in the history of motion pictures.

The Screen Classics Inc. super success has doubled its business since the German collapse.

Featuring Lawrence Grant with Olive Tell. Story by June Mathis
Directed by George Irving.
Maxwell Karger, Director General

Book it and clean up!

Metro Pictures Corporation - Exclusive Distributors -
TO CONTENTS

Advertising Aids for Busy Managers 1121
Advertising for Exhibitors 1074
"After the War" (Argoey) 1118
Akko President to Auction Peace Session 1094
Film Rights 1060
"All Hail" (Post) 1113
"All Night" (Blucron) 1113
Allen Again Extend Theatre Chain 1110
Ames, Ten Thousand See Bill Hart 1103
Among the Independent Producers 1100
Attractions at New York Theatres 1062
Bennison's "Oh, Johnny!" to be Issued by Goldwyn 1096
Berger to Combat Efforts of German Propa-gandists 1090
"Borrowed Clothes" (Jewel) 1115
"Breadwinning Broadway" (Aircraft) 1130
Canadian Take Steps to Have Real Tax Revised 1060
Campbell Heads Society of Engineers 1051
Canal Picture at Hotel Astor 1060
Chicago News Letter 1067
Civil War Play Sinyary May Repeat 1063
Country Almost Freed of Secrecy 1052
Crandall Opens Metropolitan 1057
Criticism, Function of 1071
Critical Reviews and Comments 1115
Debya, Gaby, Heads Path for December Opening 1062
Eastern States Now Freed from Lightless Nights Order 1064
Eastman Company Prepares for Business Exension 1063
Evridge, Jane, Marries 1063

TO ADVERTISERS

CARBONS & CARBON ACCESSORIES. Speer Carbon Co.... 1133
CHAIR & SEATING MANUFACTURERS. Du Pont Fabricolol Co.... 1133 ELECTRICAL & MECH. EQUIPMENT.
Amusement Supply Co. 1123
Hertner Electric Co. 1132
Northwestern Electric Co. 1131
Porter, B. F. 1124
Typhoon Fan Co. 1123
Universal Motor Co. 1121
LEN'S MANUFACTURERS. Gundlach Manhattan Opt. Co. 1120
LOBBY DISPLAYS. Newman Mfg. Co. 1124
MFRS. OF INDUSTRIAL PICTURES. Cromwell Film Laboratories 1123
Duhem M. P. Co. 1131
Erbergraph Co. 1129
Evans Film Mfg. Co. 1124
Rothacker Film Mfg. Co. 1133
MFRS. OF MOVING PICTURES. American Red Cross 1020
Anita Stewart Productions. . .Colored Insert Advertising Corp 1125
Armstrong Film Corp. 1025-26
Christie Film Co. 1061-76

Facts and Comments 1070
"Fan Fan" (Post) 1111
Favorable Changes in Export Rules 1064
"Five Thousand an Hour" (Metro) 1118
Fox Employees in Service May Have Old Positions 1067
General Film to Release Red Cross Christmas Films 1096
"Goose Girl, The" (Paramount) 1117
"Hell Cat, The" (Goldwyn) 1118
Healy Signs Long Contract 1056
Ideas on Exploiting "After the War" 1097
Ince Culver City Studios Near Completion 1073
Industrial Division Gets $58,782,73 in War Drive 1052
Kansas Exhibitors Solve Organization Work 1090
Kansas City Film Men Hold Meeting 1080
Katterjohn Headquarters to be in Los Angeles 1061
Keenan, Paul, Makes Promises 1067
King, George of Landon Here to be 1072
Let's Start Something 1071
"Liberator, The" (Harry Raver) 1116
List of Current Film Release Dates 1126, 1128, 1130, 1132
Los Angeles Players Form a Union 1072
"Love's Pay Day" (Triangle) 1117
"Lure of the East" (ScreenCraft) 1116
McCormick Roopped Comedian, How 1068
"Man of Bronze, The" (World) 1068
Comm. on Public Information 1031
Essanay Film Mfg. Co. 1007
Famous Players-Lasky Corp. 1028
First Natl' Ex., Circuit, Inc. 1022
Fox Film Corp. 1040-42
General Film Co. 1021
Goldwyn Pictures Corp. 1051-58
Haworth Pictures Corp. 1122
Hiller & Wilk, Inc. 1043
Independent Sales Corp. 1062
International News Serv. 1052
James Keane 1027
Metro Pictures Corp. . .Colored Insert, 1949
Palmer Photoplay Corp. 1125
Pathé Exchange, Inc. 1020-25
R. D. Marson Attr. Co. 1122
Harry Raver, Inc. 1041-55
"Retribution" 1045
Robertson-Cole Co. 1048-49
Select Picture Corp. 1010-13
Chas. A. Taylor Studio 1044
Triangl Distript, Corp. 1000
Universal Film Mfg. Co. 1048
Vitaphon Co. 1059
World Film Corp. 1048
MISCELLANEOUS. Automatic T. S. & C. R. Co. 1122
Hues, The 1123
Cinema, The 1123
Classified Advertisments 1127

The Advertisers Who Use the Columns of The Moving Picture World Represent the "Class" of the Industry

We Exercise a Strict Supervision Over the Business Announcements Which We Print
This Protects the Prospective Purchaser It Also Adds Force to Our Advertisers' Messages

The MOVING PICTURE WORLD
December 7, 1919
CAMPE HEADS SOCIETY OF ENGINEERS

At Its Largest Gathering in Cleveland, Westinghouse Man Is Chosen—Offer Services to Fuel Conservation Officials—Interesting Papers Read and Discussed

MONDAY, November 18, saw a goodly gathering of motion picture engineers in Cleveland, where the regular semi-annual meeting of the society of Motion Picture Engineers was scheduled to take place in the form of a two-day session, which, however, was quickly changed to a three-day session when the body sized up the mass of business awaiting its attention.

President C. Francis Jenkins called the meeting to order and read his report, or rather his address. It contained several valuable suggestions. The report of the treasurer, Will C. Smith, supplied ample evidence that the organization is in a healthy financial condition. Several applications for membership were received. At this meeting the regular annual election of officers resulted in the following, which, it may be remarked, is a roster giving promise of most excellent things for the future.

President, H. A. Campe, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company (President Jenkins having refused to allow his name to be placed in nomination for re-election); vice president, A. C. Roebuck, Enterprise Optical Company, Chicago; secretary, E. K. Gillett, Motion Picture News, New York City; board of governors A. F. Victor, Victor Ani-matograph Company, Davenport, Iowa; for a two-year term; R. P. Burrows, General Electric Lamp Works, Nela Park, Cleveland, two years, and Dr. Herman Kellner, Bosch-Lomb Optical Company, Rochester, one year.

The organization created the office of past president, the first incumbent of which will be Mr. Jenkins, who is the father of the organization and who has filled its chief executive office with credit both to himself and the organization during the first two years of its life.

National Association Invitation Declined.

A communication was received from the National Association suggesting that the Society of Motion Picture Engineers take some action looking to aiding the National Association when matters came up necessitating the employment of expert engineering knowledge. This proposition brought forth considerable discussion, the consensus of opinion being that Motion Picture Engineers cannot, as a body, in any way affiliate with the National Association or any similar body, it being purely a scientific engineering body, in no way connected with the commercial side of the industry. A committee was finally appointed to draft a letter to the National Association setting forth its attitude in the matter.

The organization appointed a committee through which the services of the organization are to be tendered to the Fuel Conservation officials in Washington. This committee consists of R. P. Burrows, representing the incandescent lamp end of things; J. C. Moulton, representing the converting machinery; W. R. Rothaker, representing the laboratories; Max Mayer, representing the studios; W. C. Kunzman, representing the carbon industry; F. H. Richardson, representing... the projectionist; F. G. Gillett, who is professionally acquainted with Dr. Garfield, head of the Fuel Administration, and C. Francis Jenkins, past president of the organization.

One of the important actions of the meeting, from the viewpoint of the writer, was the adoption of the word "projectionist" as the society's designation for the man who projects motion pictures.

Largest Attendance Yet.

The attendance at the meeting was much larger than at any previous gathering; also almost every one remained for the day session, convincing evidence of the interest and value of the business coming before the body.

Monday evening a banquet was tendered the association by the Cleveland manufacturers connected with the industry. It took place in the French Room of the Hotel Vinton, where the convention was held, and the sight of our dignified friend, A. C. Roebeck, in a most respectable paper pluck hat was among the most strikingly noticeable things of the meet- ing, for nothing of "Skinny" Cumdore, who filled the position of toastmaster, lending great weight to that office.

The following are the papers read before the association, which later will be published in its proceedings and thus be made available to the industry at large:

Philadelphia Next Meeting Place.

Philadelphia was unanimously chosen as the next place of meeting, Will C. Smith and K. P. Barrows being appointed a committee to make the necessary arrangements.

Taken altogether, it may now be said that the Society of Motion Picture Engineers is an established institution—a tab standing absolutely upon its own bottom. It has already accomplished a very great deal in putting the interest in scientifically accurate knowledge of the various phases of the industry, and in the collection of papers of which every member has his own copy, the same adding fair to form the nucleus of what will, in time, be a library of surpassing value.

Mr. Campe, the new president, is a man of many interests as well as a man of purpose. We are not merely handing out bouquets when we say we are expecting great things from his administra- tion. He has appointed K. P. Bur- rows as chairman of the Papers Com- mittee, the really one most important committee of the organization, and one upon the activities of which hinges, to a very large degree, the success of its meeting.

RICHARDSON.

PICTURES MEN HIT HARDEST

In War, Says Goldfish

THE effect of peace on the cinema industry? Well, obviously the first and happiest result you will see will be the oneBox Office Shouting pictures for so long—better pictures," said Samu- el Goldfish, president of Goldwyn.

"In times of war," he explained to us. "Of course, we were prepared and organized to stand an indefinite period of war conditions, although we were harder hit by the suddenness of the war than by the institu- tion, the country, probably.

"You see, quite apart from taxation—a tax on raw film, a tax on the finished product, income tax and so forth—and tremendously increased expenses, we had to face a serious curtailed revenue. In the first place, great many very keen regular fans were for the time being eliminated by enlistment and the draft. What has been still more serious for us is that while they were away from home, or at any rate as long as the war lasted, their women folk stayed away from the theatres. This was particu- larly noticeable in the towns, where this is partly a matter of senti- ment and partly of convention and im- posing on the neighbors. Already re- ports from the towns all over the country show an extraordinary in- crease in theatre-going since the news of the signature of the armistice was con- firmed. So, although a couple of years may elapse before all the men return from Europe, the relief from worry and anxiety has been great to many of the indis- pensable fans back to the theatres.

War Playing Hob with Exports.

"Furthermore, the war was playing hob with our export trade. The cinema is one of the few industries over which Amer- ican supremacy is generally recognized, even abroad. Foreign producers may dislike to admit it, but foreign picture fans and foreign box-offices admit it all right.

"Now, our nice, helpful and welcome foreign business is about to be multiplied many fold, for there is no doubt that the war will be a blessing even to the layman that the more our revenue the better pictures we can make.

"Then, too, some of our most invalu- able personnel is back, and people we have sorely missed, writers, di- rectors, cameramen, actors. The diffi- culty of securing good leading men has been enough to keep us all awake of nights. And frequently when we did get a good one he would become so pop- ular that we would have to make a star for him.

"Again, during the war the censorship has made things very difficult for us. I believe censorship is bad for the industry, but the local censorship, which is par- chial enough in pipings of time of peace. So altogether it would be difficult to find any body of men more exultant—quite apart from natural patriotic and humane consideration which one takes for granted—over peace than the producers of moving pictures.

Exhibitors Want Clubhouse.

After the executive committee meet- ing of the New York Exhibitors' League held on November 14, signatures were made by some of the members that a motion pic- ture club be formed and a suitable club- house be secured, where theatre owners can bring their friends and be proud of it.

Twelve men immediately agreed to advance $100 each to start the club with the understanding that organiza- tion would not be started until $500 had been subscribed, the time limit being January next. John Manheimer, Max Oestricher, Le- A. Ochs, Samuel Rhoneheimer, Ike Hart- stall, Charles Steiner, A. D. Stockheimer, Sol Coleman, Dr. Samuel Winton, William Hilkemeier, Charles Harlng, James Needle, Louis Blumenthal, and Harstn guaranteed to subscribe as charter members, and to pay future applicants. Already more than a dozen exhibitors have sent their checks to the treasurer, Mr. Needle.

In understanding the object of this intention to have a thoroughly equipped clubhouse which will do credit to the exhibitors' branch of the industry.

Industrial Division Gets $38,782.73 in War Drive

WITH several companies still to be heard from when the drive closed Wednesday night, November 29, the total raised by the War loan of the Film Exchange, sponsored by the Allied Theatrical, Motion Picture, Music and Entertainments Committee in the United States, amounted to $38,782.73. When all the companies which this division solicited have reported in full it is expected that this total will ex- ceed $40,000.

The first two days of the drive were of little or no value owing to the fact that the news of the actual signing of the Armistice came in the middle of the campaign started. The peace cele- bration which followed was of such mag- nitude that it might be supposed we got sufficiently interest themselves in giving until two or three days later.

For this reason much of the circula- rization work of the committee had to be duplicated as numerous concerns called up to say that in the confusion of the celebration and the days immediately following that they thought the committee had sent out had been mislaid. This had the effect of making the returns from the various companies and their employees extremely slow.

Nehls Returns from Eastern Trip.

Because of the ending of the war and the consequent changes in the foreign film situation, General Manager K. R. Nehls of the American Film Company made a trip to New York and Boston to confer with the principal exporters and distributors for foreign countries. Upon returning to the executive offices in Chicago Mr. Nehls stated that there will be a sudden and unexpectedly large increase in foreign orders on the basis of the opinion that subjects based upon good, interesting stories will be in much greater demand than war stories or even real war pictures or any pictures of the theatres or incidents of the war. He returned just in time to see "When a Man Rides Alone," a superwestern feat- ured by William Russell Productions, and "Idaho," distributed through Pathe Exchange. The news of the sale of almost the entire sales force of the Pathe Exchange, compr- ising more than the 150 film rental re- presentatives, has been added to. Mr. Nehls is going to prove an ideal one, according to Mr. Nehls.
ACCORDING to the consensus of this, the forecasts from the correspondents of the Moving Picture World the country is practically free from the ban on amusements owing to the diminishing of the influenza. Theaters everywhere are opening, but to varying volumes of business. In Utah the lifting of the ban was greeted by the best business in the history of theaters in that state, and the same report holds good with houses in the Twin Cities—St. Paul and Minneapolis—where the embargo was lifted on November 14 and 15, respectively.

San Francisco and other cities in California, where the ban was managers lifted, are enjoying capacity business. But in San Francisco in the interests of safety the wearing of gauze masks is still compulsory.

Upon the lifting of the quarantine over sixty small towns in scattered sections of Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas opened their daily amusements hungry public, leaving possibly only a dozen places in the Southwest still under the ban. Kansas City and Louisville opened to full business.

A setback comes in the recurrence of influenza in some Michigan and Ohio towns, with reports that the places affected in these states have again been placed under quarantine. Cincinnati also has a flare-up of influenza, and again may be placed under the ban.

Utah Theatres Open to Best Business Ever

AFTER having been closed for more than one month under an order of the state board of health, the theaters in Salt Lake City and throughout Utah were allowed to reopen Monday, November 18. In Salt Lake City the influenza appears to have passed the epidemic stage, and the health authorities are of the opinion that no harm will now come from indoor gatherings. Schools, also, reopened Monday.

The theaters in Salt Lake City and a number of other Utah cities and towns closed with the end of performances on the night of October 10. Subsequently the order was extended to cover the entire state. While the forced closing proved a severe hardship on places of amusement, the thea managements were disposed to make the best of the situation, and the health authorities immediately had their hearty co-operation, and this, in spite of the fact that no formal order was ever served upon them. The only notification received was the general order of the health department published in the local newspapers.

Business was better than ever with the reopening, however, and the community appears to have entirely recovered from the shock caused by the epidemic, which for three weeks assumed serious proportions.

Managers took advantage of the closing to give their houses a thorough cleaning, and renovations of a minor nature were made in some of them. Several were newly decorated and presented a much improved appearance on the opening day.

The public appeared to be even more impatient for the lifting of the quarantine than the managers. The doors were opened again, and the crowds flocked into the houses. Especially was this true of the motion picture theaters, of which Salt Lake City has eleven.

Return to sun time also is having a salutary effect upon the theater business. Business was hurt somewhat by the daylight saving time, especially during the summer months when summer resorts were open.

Two local motion picture people died victims of influenza—Arthur Morse Moon and his wife, Tina Moon, formerly of Atlanta. They were both educated in Salt Lake City, and although their deaths occurred at Butte, Mont., the bodies were brought to Salt Lake for interment. Both were well known at the California studios.

Twin Cities Authorities Lift Embargo on Theatres

THE Twin Cities are open towns again as far as moving pictures are concerned, and business, especially in Minneapolis, has started off with a rush that is bringing cheer to the film interests of this territory.

St. Paul opened Thursday, November 14, after a comparatively brief closing period of ten days. Minneapolis enjoyed its first good, hearty laugh, and its first "weepy sob" in more than a month on the following day because the movies there had reopened, too.

After thirty-six unhappy days, the influenza ban on Minneapolis moving picture houses was lifted over moving picture houses in schools, public dance halls, billiard and pool halls, at 11.30 a.m., Friday, November 15, was lifted by the city health department.

The public at large, which had not been at large for more than a month, became aware of the lifting of the ban at just 11.31 a.m., when a downtown moving picture house opened its doors to the passing throngs.

And the passing throngs stopped passing. They hesitated, still uncertain as to whether or not one huge joke was in the process of being played, walked up to the cashier's cage, and then, sat down and waited that it was all true, entered joyously.

By noon scores had learned the glad tidings. By 4 p.m. thousands knew. By night more and more houses downtown and in the residence districts were going full blast. The thirty-six days' drought had ended, and cash drawers gurgled thankfully as the drip of nickels, dimes and quarters began flowing again through the little crescent opening in the glass cage. Picture exchange managers stood on the sidewalks and rubbed their hands as they watched the files of eager fans pass in. House managers stood just inside the door and registered happiness, their faces wreathed in smiles.

Rejoicing at the lifting of the influenza ban spread to all parts of Minneapolis' theatrical world. Musicians, ushers, operators, ticket sellers, and all the rest had visions of a real pay envelope once more.

Strand Gets Rather a Slow Start

Just thirty seconds after the board of health passed the motion raising the influenza ban, the lights flashed on at the Strand, the operator started the motion picture machine and the show was on.

All during the week Charles Branham, the manager, felt certain that the theater's first show would be packed and he didn't want to lose a minute after action had been taken by the board of health. So on Monday he ordered the complete house to open daily at 11 a.m.

Every day during the week the employees reported, only to be dismissed a few minutes later. On Friday, however, with the board in session, Mr. Branham held his assistants at the theatre. Chester Bass, head usher, was sent to the city hall with instructions to telephone the theatre the moment the board had acted.

The machine operator threaded the first film of "The Man from Funeral Range" into the machine and all was ready.

At 11.30 a.m. the motion to lift the influenza ban was passed. And one minute later Bass, using the automatic telephone to prevent delay due to the strike of telephone operators, was instructed by Mr. Branham that he could open.

Persons passing the theatre at 11.31 a.m., Friday, were surprised to see the theatre's flash on and a street seller take her place at the window.

Several hundred theatre managers, ministers, school officials and other men, women and children who had been waiting an hour for the meeting to open at the courthouse, hung on every syllable that passed from the lips of the health department head, Dr. H. M. Guilford.

In Minneapolis the epidemic has waned until there are now on an average of about 11 deaths and 100 cases daily. Despite a motion by Alderman C. A. Dight that children under fifteen of age be excluded from the picture theaters for another week, which was lost, the vote to remove the ban on public gatherings was unanimous.

Practically all of the theaters of the Northwest are now back on the old business basis.

San Francisco Houses Open to Capacity Business

FOLLOWING an enforced period of darkness of four full weeks the theaters of San Francisco, with the exception of a few suburban houses, have been opened and are doing a tremendous business. The influenza epidemic has been wiped out, but in the interests of safety the use of gauze masks is still being insisted upon by the health authorities, and for the time being these are worn in theatres, as on the streets, and theatre owners are being held responsible for the proper protection of patrons in this respect. A few days before the opening date finally decided upon the city health officer advised theatre owners not to hope that by the first of December, but the improvement in conditions became so rapid that a decision was finally reached to permit them to open their houses two weeks earlier. It was stipulated, however, that patrons must be masked and that slides be thrown upon the screen before every performance calling attention to this requirement. Despite their heavy losses during the past month theatre owners offered to give the net proceeds of the opening day to the United War Work campaign fund.

Other California Cities Also Open.
The suburban city of Oakland has followed the lead of San Francisco in permitting theatres to reopen November 16, and the theatre managers there have likewise offered the opening receipts to the United War Work fund. The theatre owners in Fresno, Stockton and San Jose also opened on this date, as well as those in scores of smaller communities. Within a period of ten days it is likely that every theatre in the San Francisco territory will again be in operation.

Over Sixty Southwest Towns Open.
The third week in November found business in the Dallas territory back to normal after influenza quarantine conditions. Some sixty odd small towns in scattered sections of Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas opened their theatres Saturday, November 16, and possibly only a dozen or so theatres in the Southwest are now closed by quarantine.

Dallas film men are working harder than in years handling bookings. Business, especially in the larger cities, is reported as good.

A good help to motion picture exhibitors was the release from army quarantine granted by the southern departmental headquarters of the United States army. In Dallas soldiers had been barred from attending theatres for over a month. Military police were stationed at every theatre entrance to enforce the rule. On November 15 Dallas army posts permitted soldiers to attend the theatres, and a rush of khaki followed. Civilians who may have been keeping away owing to the military rule are now attending and making up for lost time.

South Bend Opens to Good Business.
After approximately a month of closed doors occasioned by the epidemic of influenza, the motion picture theatres at South Bend, Ind., were reopened to the public on Saturday, November 9, and enjoyed an exceedingly big business on Saturday night and Sunday. Many changes were made in the various theatres during the closing period, but perhaps the most noticeable changes occurred at the Auditorium.

During the four weeks that the theatre was closed, the interior was thoroughly renovated. The lobby, in addition to receiving a fresh coat of paint, has been decorated attractively with the flags of the allies.

Eighteen new six-inch electric fans and one of the best ventilating systems in the country, one of which distributes Amthozilized air to every part of the house, have been installed. The theatre is now claimed to be one of the most sanitary places of amusement in Northern Indiana.

Condemn Fort Wayne Health Board.
Angered because the closing ban has not yet been lifted, a delegation, seventy strong, consisting of owners of all motion picture theatres in Fort Wayne, Ind., along with representatives of the motion picture operators union, the musicians union, and various other organizations, representing some 12,000 persons, met at the city hall last Friday night and drew up resolutions condemning the health board for its action.

The ban at Fort Wayne was to be lifted on Saturday, November 9, but at the last minute announcement was made that it would be continued for at least another week.

The resolutions, among other things declared that those present were of the opinion that conditions in Fort Wayne did not warrant the continuance of the order, which has been in effect for nearly five weeks, but that if conditions are as bad as the health board says, the closing order should be extended to include all business houses where people congregate. "If closing is a preventative against an epidemic, travel from infected areas certainly should be restricted, and it appears to be equally essential that every possible precaution be taken, even to the closing of all industries except absolutely necessary supply houses," the resolutions said.

Attaches of the office of the State board of health, Indianapolis, said the health commissioner at Fort Wayne had reported that conditions were generally improved. They said they had not been able to determine why the ban had not been lifted.

Hull, Quebec, Is Finally Opened.
The exhibitors of Hull, Quebec, have been in a "hull" of a state as a result of difficulties in the way of the reopening of their theatres following the influenza epidemic.

Hull theatres were closed early in October, and it was not until November 11 that the local authorities decided it would be safe to permit the resumption of operations on the part of the exhibitors. Every preparation was made to reopen on that date and everything looked rosy once more because the theatres of Ottawa, just across the river, had been permitted to reopen. The Hull theatres had hardly opened their doors when an order was received from the Provincial Board of Health for Quebec to keep the lid on. Hull officials were also asked as to their authority in granting permission for the theatres to be reopened. There was nothing for the Hull exhibitors to do but put up the shutters again.

The Quebec Board eventually decided to remove the ban four days later, although the same board had granted a special concession to the exhibitors of Montreal to resume operations on November 12. The Hull theatre men did not care whether they ever opened again or not because the conflicting orders just about killed all chance for good business.

Business Poor in Kansas City.
The ban on theatrical exhibitions has been generally lifted in Kansas City territory, but the public is quickly forgetting that there ever was an epidemic of influenza. Business is not coming back.
Michigan Suffers a Recurrence.

Influenza in Michigan has again loomed up as dangerous, and while the ban is still off in Detroit, Grand Rapids, and most of the principal cities as far as the state board of health is concerned, the local boards of health in many of the smaller towns have ordered all theatres closed, with the result that at the present time there are at least fifty towns where pictures cannot be shown. Among them are Port Huron, Pontiac, Saginaw, Bay City, Reed City, Alma, Ishpeming, etc. Bay City is the hardest hit city of all—it looks as if this place will not get opened much before December 15, if then. The number of cases and toll of death has been heavy, and it has forced the health authorities in Saginaw to close down owing to its adjacency.

Louisville Opens to Mild Business.

Although all amusement houses in Louisville started operations again on Sunday, November 10, and handled a capacity business on that day, business as a whole hasn't been anything like what the exhibitors had predicted it would be following the opening. The city is still full of influenza, and hundreds and thousands of patrons of theatres are still afraid to attend the shows. The result has been that a fair business has been done at the downtown houses, but the suburban houses haven't been doing hardly anything, due largely to the fact that parents are afraid to allow their children to go, especially young school children.

Embargo Lifted in Seattle.

Seattle theatres were opened on Tuesday morning, November 12, with the lifting of all inluenza regulations from the city. Other cities and most of the towns of the State were declared open at the same time, so the difficulties of the film exchanges were much less than had been anticipated.

Seattle theatres for the most part opened with the features scheduled for the week of October 6, when they were closed, but subsequent bookings have been entirely rearranged. The first day's business, after the opening, was a record for all the houses. The people were hungry to see a show after their five weeks' forced abstinence.

Cincinnati Opened November 12.

The opening of Cincinnati theatres on Tuesday, November 12, after a lay-off of over five weeks, was a great event for amusement, and highly appreciative of the offerings of the moving picture houses and the others as well. All of the theatres had taken advantage of the period of darkness to brighten up their interiors and to renovate everything thoroughly, and their opening showed them more attractive than ever.

Some Kentucky Towns Open.

The lifting of the ban against public amusements and gatherings, especially in theatres, was made in the Kentucky towns across the river simultaneously with that in Cincinnati. The authorities in Covington, Newport, Dayton, Belleveue and Ft. Thomas took this action, effective November 12, and the numerous moving picture houses in those towns were permitted to open on that date. In Ludlow, Ky., another of the string of towns opposite Cincinnati, a renewed outbreak of influenza, due apparently to the crowds which visited Cincinnati to celebrate the peace news, made it necessary to continue the restrictions.

Ohio Towns Close Again.

A recurrence of Spanish influenza caused the reclosing of Marietta, Pomeroy and all Ohio River towns. Outbreaks worse than first in Martin's Ferry, Bridgeport, New Lexington, Ohio, may cause the closing again of these towns. The State Health Board has given warning of too early closing. The compulsory wearing of masks may hurt business in Indianapolis. Cincinnati may have to close again, because of more new cases.

Paul Gray.

Barter and Sale: "Swap" what you don't want for something you need. The World's Classified advertising means ready means to quick transactions. If you have never tried—don't say we didn't tell you about your opportunity.

HAROLD J. BINNEY, who has for some time past been working on productions featuring the Valentine, announces that he is taking his entire organization to New Haven, Conn., where he has made all arrangements for a permanent home for the company. Mr. Binney says that about two months ago and shortly after coming to New York from Jacksonville, where he had been operating for some time past, he was invited by several citizens from New Haven to look into the advantages offered by that city. He was so pleased with the scenic advantages and with the promised co-operation of the citizens that he has made arrangements to take his staff as well as his stock company of artists to that city for future production.

The remodeling of a large building in the heart of the city has already been started and will be extensively equipped with the most modern lighting effects as well as extensive office accommodations and pleasant dressing rooms. The studio proper consists of a large indoor space 57 by 132 feet, with 30 feet overhead space. Mr. Binney says that this is being fitted with a new floor and complete heating equipment. There is also being installed a modern laboratory equipment that will enable the company to do its developing each day.

The first or sample print will be turned out there and all cutting and assembling will be easily handled, as a cutting room and projecting room will be included in the improvements.

It is expected the new plant will be ready not later than December 6.

Changes in Fox Branches.

Charles Muehliman, formerly manager of the Denver exchange of the Fox Film Corporation, has been transferred to the management of the San Francisco exchange, where he is now in charge. Mr. Muehliman supplants George Mann, who has become connected with the management of the Rialto Theatre, San Francisco.

Leonard A. Quill, formerly salesman of the William Fox exchange in Pittsburgh, has been promoted to manager of the Denver exchange, assuming his new duties November 26.
CONTRACT, the details of which were settled by telegraph, has been signed by Lois Weber and Louis B. Mayer which gives Miss Weber the direction of Anita Stewart in "In Old Kentucky," second of her special super productions for distribution by First National Exhibitors' Circuit, at a salary of $3,500 a week, said to be the highest price ever paid in the development of production, with the possible exception of D. W. Griffith.

Negotiations with Miss Weber were started from a series of letters in which she offered her this sum to assume the directorial responsibility for his second First National release. This brought a reply from the noted woman director for detailed information about matters pertaining to the production of "In Old Kentucky." A series of telegrams and wire letters, in which questions were asked and answered by both parties, then came the following and final wire from Miss Weber to Weber:

"I am happy to report that the prospects in our business association, have engaged a staff. What is your idea of leading man and man salary? Have you bought any halls or studios for Miss Stewart. Have you any preferences as to their character? Am I anticipating most pleasant relations with her. Will exert every effort to pick best productions and will try in every way to justify your confidence."

The reply from Mr. Mayer was a wire, which is a brief of his production policy. It reads:

Mayer Outlines His Ideas.

A representative of the Louis B. Mayer Productions declared that he was ready to consider this offer, and that he believed the name of some leading man would already be prepared for another. Here's the reason for the change of name. Miss Hesterheim declared that although Romeo was a splendid name and one of traditions, it hardly suggested the heroic quality of the picture. It sounded like the name of some lover who was waiting for his Juliet. She suggested the name, Romeo, that a change in nomenclature would be advisable. So Mr. Romeo thought of this new leading name, Raven, and from now on he will be so known.

Charles P. Raven Now.

Charles P. Romeo will hitherto not be known by that cognomen. The reason therefor is a peculiar one. Before going further it may be announced that the handsome young leading man of the screen has been labeled Charles P. Raven. He has just concluded an engagement with Elaine Hammerstein in Harry Rapf's production, "Wanted for Expiration," and is already preparing for another. Here's the reason for the change of name. Miss Hammerstein declared that although Romeo was a splendid name and one of traditions, it hardly suggested the heroic quality of the picture. It sounded like the name of some lover who was waiting for his Juliet. She suggested the name, Romeo, that a change in nomenclature would be advisable. So Mr. Romeo thought of this new leading name, Raven, and from now on he will be so known.

Navy's Job Only Half Done

Declares Lieutenant Childs

THE following article by Lieutenant H. D. Childs, Retired United State Navy, now connected with the Navy Mobilization Station in the Transportation Building, Chicago, shows the urgent need at this time by our Government of more men, and sets forth the need of many more of our men to be engaged in both departments of the moving picture industry:

"Every soldier who sailed for France was given a round-trip ticket. The Navy took them over here. The Navy must bring them back. There can be no relaxation of effort until the job is done. Until every one of our boys is returned to his home. To complete this task, the Navy needs more men, and the need is just as urgent now as it was before the armistice was signed. This condition offers you an opportunity to be identified with the Great War, your last chance."

The cancellation of the November draft will call for trained thousands of men of the privilege of participating in the war, but the Navy's call for men enables you to volunteer your services. If you have a call for any of the vacancies now existing you can be inducted into the service at once.

"Men are needed now, if not to fight, for services equally essential to the re-establishment of normal conditions. The Bureau of Navigation has issued a call for several hundred men and can qualify for posts which require specialized ability. Only those men who are registrants of September 12, 1918, or registrants of deferred classifications of previous registrants are eligible. Applications will now be received for camera repairmen, appliants for which must be experienced in the repair of photographic instruments and the necessary chemicals required for the development of prints, or develop in the United States-Navy Mobilization Station, in the Transportation Building, Chicago. Mail should be addressed to Lieutenant H. D. Childs, Retired, commanding officer."
AFTER a delay of about a year due to war conditions and the inability to obtain needed materials, Crandall's Metropolitan Theatre opened Saturday evening, November 23, presenting what will probably be the last Govern-patented echo attachment. An orchestra of twenty-five will occupy an expecially constructed pit, surrounded by an ornamental balustrade surmounted with growing plants and ferns.

The lighting system installed is of the newest design, consisting of sixty-eight triple dimmers being included in the house and stage switchboard, which makes it possible to illuminate the entire auditorium in nine distinct colors, blending almost imperceptibly into one tone. A novel effect will be gained by throwing an appropriate color corresponding with particular scenes projected upon the screen. Another innovation is the installation of a synchronizer, an attachment running from the projection matches to the desk of the orchestra conductor, which automatically registers the time and speed of the projected picture.

Personnel of Company.

Crandall's Metropolitan Theatre is owned and controlled by the Crandall Theatre Company, of which H. M. Crandall is president; Col. Barry Bukley, vice-president; R. W. Bukley, treasurer, and A. E. Boettel, secretary. These men, together with P. A. Drury, Michael Keane, C. C. Calhoun and G. F. Schutt, form the board of directors. The house will be managed by Arthur L. Robb, forerly identified with Crandall's Knickerbocker Theatre, and the orchestra will be handled by Dr. Jesse Heitmuller.

The opening of the new house has brought with it quite a change in the duties of the employees of the company, and the position of chief inspector of theatres has been created for Joseph Morgan, who has been released from the position of manager of the Savoy Theatre, and will exercise supervision over all of the houses and will handle the booking as well.

Joseph P. Morgan is one of the best known theatre men in this section of the country, and incidentally one of the most popular. With Harry Crandall he has headed many of the activities of the local exhibitors and has always worked for the benefit of the trades-tions in the business locally. He broke into the business nearly twelve years ago, in the old pioneer days, as half owner with Tom Moore of the Scenic Theatre, in Georgetown. He was also interested in an exchange at this time.
In 1911 he sold out his interest in these two enterprises and took over the control of the Princess Theatre, on H street, Northeast, remaining at this house until about March, 1916, when he became financially interested with Mr. Crandall, soon afterward assuming the management of the Savoy. As the chain of Crandall Theatres extended, Mr. Morgan undertook the supervision and arangement of the shows for the different houses, and through his untiring efforts he has done much toward the building up of the Crandall circuit.

Robb Appointed Manager.

Arthur L. Robb is released as manager of the Knickerbocker to become manger of this latest addition to the Crandall string. He entered the theatrical field about twelve years ago, at which time he severed his connection with newspapers, and he has since managed theatre in Philadelphia and Baltimore.
Mr. Robb came to Washington about six years ago and was connected with the Moore string of theatres until September last, when he went to the Knickerbocker.

"Tom" Eastwood returns to Washington to succeed Mr. Robb at the Knickerbocker. Mr. Eastwood is another well known moving picture man, for he has been managing Washington houses for the better part of the past twelve years. He successfully managed the Dixie Theatre, at Eighth and H streets, Northeast, from the time of its establishment until the opening by the same owners of the Apollo. He remained at the latter theatre until it was taken over by Mr. Crandall, when he became connected with the Hofheimer interests in Norfolk, Va. Mr. Eastwood has also had some little experience in the exchange end of the game.

Crandall's Initial Adventure.

Harry M. Crandall, the little-big man behind this growing string of theatres, needs no introduction to filmland. With extensive interests in Washington, and a grasp of conditions in a national way has also been very fully interested in all quarters of the country. He started in business in Washington at a time when he was very fully interested in a projection or anything else, and when it was customary to have an electric piano drumming out weird tunes in muichensation.

His first real work, after the initial experience gained at the airmode on Capitol street, came some few years ago when he pur chased model a business property at Ninth and E streets into a theatre. It required some $30,000 to put this deal across, and Mr. Crandall had the time of his life raising the money. Today, the Metropolitan alone represents expendiutes his entrance into the motion picture business when about a dozen years ago he was employed at the Crandall airdrome, as he puts it, sweeping up, taking tickets and running the projector for the general factotum. Now he is entrusted with the handling of all of the moneys that accumulate daily from each of the theatres, as well as the secretar-y to Mr. Crandall. His work car-ies with it a great deal of responsibility.

The vacancy caused by these changes will be at the Apollo, and the Northeast section of Washington will lose one of its most popular house managers.
"Steve" Elbacher gets his promotion with the moving up of Joseph Morgan for he goes to the Savoy as the latter's successor. Mr. Elbacher joined Mr.
Morgan when the latter took over the Princess Theatre, and later, when Mr.
Crandall acquired the Apollo, Mr. Elacher rejoined his friend. It is not at all unusual then that his name is with the Savoy, now that this opening has come.

CLARENCE L. LINZ.

Eighty-first Street House Leads.

We have it on the authority of A. L.
Shakman that the Eighty-first Street Theatre led all other New York City playhouses in the matter of results in booking the recent United War Work drive. Mr. Shakman states that his house lost two days in working because they did not know the drive officially started on that date it did. The collections from the Eighty-first Street Theatre totaled $16,070—surely a lot of money from what is practically a neighborhood house.
MANDELBALM DESCRIBES RENT PLAN

Cleveland Exhibitor and First National Franchise Holder of Ohio Outlines the System Adopted by His Organization Equitably to Assess Cost of a Picture

LESS than $600 a week for first run in Cleveland on Chaplin comedies, with return dates rental free and assessing exhibitor members for film rentals only by what subject has proved returns to independent stars and producers on larger investments of money and time for the attainment of high quality in their work, who are some of the startling features claimed for a new and radical exhibitors' cooperative booking plan originated and launched in recent weeks by E. M. Mandelbaum, owner of the state franchise for the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Inc.

Sponsors of the plan, and they include many of the prominent exhibitors of Ohio, claim it is more fair and profitable for the independent producers and stars than money back for the first time in the history of the motion picture industry a distributing policy is in actual use which enables a producer or a star to invest $75,000 or more in a quality picture with positive assurance that they will be repaid with a commensurate profit.

According to Mr. Mandelbaum, whose business religion is exhibitor co-operation, the enfranchising and booking system he has adopted for the First National Exchange in Ohio was conceived and put into operation as the result of constant complaints from leading theatre owners that the "take-what-we-give-you-or-leave-it-alone" policy of some of the program exchanges, particularly those controlling the productions of big stars.

Ohio Situation Said to be Intolerable.

"The situation in Ohio," declared Mr. Mandelbaum, "has become almost intolerable for exhibitors, large and small. I understand that the same conditions exist in practically all territories. And the theatre owners are losing money on their productions or failing to make a justified profit because of it are experiencing financial difficulties, not with the exhibitors.

"What happens when a manufacturer produces a picture which can properly be called an exceptional good subject but loses on its quality, because it features a well known star? He has invested possibly $75,000 or $100,000 in it. He wants money back, as well he should.

"He is entitled to it as a matter of business principle. If he disposes of that production on a program he cannot make money. Program releases are under contract to exhibitors at rental prices proportionate with production cost of $3,000 to $40,000 a picture. With contracts he is entitled to pay-off profit on that amount, how can he expect to have his $75,000 production return money and still make a margin above his cost? It has never been done, and it never will be done.

"There are a number of manufacturers in the industry, men who have made really good pictures, men to whom the industry owes a debt of gratitude for having the courage to attempt to elevate standards of quality, who are sitting back, waiting and hoping that their productions, taken over by a program company, will some day earn enough at least to make up their investment."

$75,000 Cost Too High for Program.

"There are other manufacturers, who, through their intimate relations with executives of program companies, know that a feature costing $75,000 could not be placed on the program if it was to show a profit. The result has been that these productions have been offered to get first call? He certainly does not. Instead, he gets up some morning and finds, the opposition house plastered with six-sheet announcements of the offer of a series of Masterman features. He can read over again the trade journal announcement of three or four weeks before that Masterman was under contract to the district whose productions this exhibitor uses on contract. But that doesn't make any difference. The exchange promptly notifies him that he is booked, that he cannot cancel without forfeiting his 'goodfaith-I-won't-steal-but-you-can' cash deposit, and that the opposition is paying through the nose as much, if not more, for Masterman specials as it is paying for the regular stuff. The fact that this exhibitor would have been willing to pay the same amount didn't merit consideration.

"Some manufacturers, stars and special producers seem to have the idea that exhibitors are quick to forget that sort of treatment. They appear by their actions and policies to consider the exhibitors only as a sort of necessary evil in the industry, upon whom any kind of gangster tactics will leave only a temporary physical impression.

As to Nut and Run of Mine.

"Suppose a manufacturer of automobiles went to a coal supply company and requested a contract for his winter's supply of two thousand tons of nut coal, and he was told by the distributor that we would have to take the run-of-mine, which would have to total eight to ten thousand tons to give him the desired quantity of two thousand tons of nut coal. I cannot imagine that the manufacturer would be gulill enough to pay the nut ton price for eight or ten thousand tons of run-of-mine to get his winter's supply of nut coal.

"Still as an exhibitor, I want the production of stars who are certain profit earners in my theatres, and have to compete for the engagements near stars, whose pictures, if I played them, would mean a loss, in order to book those features that I really want. I told one exchange manager, not long ago, that I was prepared to pay his price, no matter what it was, for the productions of three popular stars. He told me I could not have them exclusively. Instead, I would have to sign a contract for sixteen other pictures featuring stars who have absolutely no popularity with the patrons of my theatres.

Exhibitors Doubtful of Sincerity.

"When our co-operative booking policy, based on the fundamental features of the franchise system upon which the First National Exhibitors' Circuit is founded, was first presented to Ohio exhibitors, they looked upon it with suspicion. They had been fooled and betrayed too many times, by so many different methods, that any long new was distrusted. They admitted that there was an urgent and vital need for some system that would relieve them of the profit-multiplying premiums demanded by exchanges for permitting them to book star productions of known financial appeal, and which were doubtful not of the practicality of our plan but of the sincerity of purpose behind it.

"This plan consists of making each exhibitor who adopts it a stockholder in The First National Exhibitors' Company, and it is on the same basis that exists between the exchanges owning First National franchises and the First National Exhibitors' Company of Ohio. The exhibitors of Ohio, similarly with the various exchanges of First National, have their position and perception determined for them. These percentages vary from 10 per cent. down to 1 per cent., and as low as one-tenth of 1 per cent. To illustrate: one theatre, because of size, location, gross earning power and necessity for first runs, is classified as a ten per cent. franchise holder. Its stock holding in the First National Exhibitors' Company is determined by that percentage, and after the franchise is granted, it pays in on cash production as it is purchased by the circuit, and the percentage per cent. of the cost price. This sum represents its rental for the film. The duration of this is determined by the term of the exhibitor at the time he obtains his franchise. He plays the picture for the agreed length of time, meanwhile having absolute protection against competition, and against the possibility that another exhibitor, competing with him, may go to the exchange and have his offer of a higher rental accepted.

No Rental Charge for Repeats.

"The print then goes to the franchise holder to run, if he so desires. If he should run it again, he can do so by application for the first open time which does not conflict with later run accounts in his territory. He pays no film rental for this repeat booking. The only charge made averages one dollar a reel to pay for the lab expense of printing and handling the print in the exchange.

"The exhibitor owns the film for their territory, and by this plan of co-operative production and subsequent opportunity, they want to make every production earn the greatest possible revenue for them and for the star or producer who makes it.

"The dollars and cents value to exhibitors of real co-operation is shown in numerous instances which have arisen since the First National Exhibitors' Company was started. One theatre, a first run house, is paying less than $600 a week for a first National Exhibitors' Company production. If Chaplin comedies were on a program that an exhibitor would pay possibly $2,000 a week for his pictures, and he obliged to book a dozen other productions he did not want, and could not use, to get Chaplin. And if he wants to play repeating pictures of 'Fatty' or 'Buster Keaton,' it costs him nothing but the so-called reel tax of a few dollars at the most.

"Consider the value of this rental system to stars and independent producers. It enables the exhibitors to vary their rental prices in accordance with the value of the office or the importance of each individual production. A producer who distributes, by a system of this kind, a production costing $100,000, can obtain not only his costs but a real profit, without working any hardship on the exhibitors, without worrying about bookings, and without the necessity for weeks of negotiations and bargaining for terms. The quality and volume of the bookings and the determination of its value. And he gets it back instantly.

"It is understood that a booking policy somewhat similar in application is in operation in the Dallas exchange of the First National, under the management of E. H. Halsey.

Kansas Exhibitors Solve Organization Work Problem.

EXHIBITORS in Kansas City, Kan., have solved the problem of local organization work—and have gleaned some exceedingly important results from it. The Moving Picture Exhibitors' Association was organized several months ago, and it now has a membership of eleven, practically all the exhibitors of the community. The exhibitors of all parts of the city are included, from Argentine and Armourdale, isolated districts within the city limits, and also from the smaller town "next door," only half a mile from the larger city. William Meyn, an exhibitor of Argentine who is well known to all Kansas City distributors, is president; J. R. Liggett, manager of the Gene Gauntier Theatre, Kansas City, Kan., is secretary and treasurer; Mr. Meyn's brother, J. S. Meyn, is one of the officers. Mr. Meyn, of course, is the chairman of the board. Mr. Meyn, who is also the city councilman, is secretary of the Kansas City State Association. He is the second largest exhibitor in the city. Mr. Meyn's father, and a brother, are also in the business. Another exhibitor, C. E. Willey, is vice-president of the association and a director. He is a prominent business man and one of the officials of the Kansas City Board of Trade. The treasurer is Mr. Meyn's business manager. Mr. Meyn's father, and a brother, are also in the business. Another exhibitor, C. E. Willey, is vice-president of the association and a director. He is a prominent business man and one of the officials of the Kansas City Board of Trade. The treasurer is Mr. Meyn's business manager.

"Our attorney gets it, from the magazines and from us. Then, when there is necessity for the industry producing a special body of people to know just what should be said—and he goes and says it. We do not try to 'gang' any official body, though often hear cases and have to look where the presence of our number would help back up the presentation made by the attorney. We have found that having a good man or officer is amenable to reason. They all want to do what is right—but they have to get the information from somebody. If we can give the information, if we can keep the film business, we know the facts are straight—and they know it, too.

"Any number of exhibitors that has been having trouble with its local officials, or even with state officials, could do no better than to effect such an organization—and hire a man to keep on the job of serving it. It takes a man who is especially assigned to the task, to keep the information up to date, and in such a manner as it can be used. This is the only way. And it also takes a man who keeps studying the subject, to get this information up in shape for most effective use.

Thinking of installing a new projection machine? Be rid of the old one through the World's Classified advertising.

Nixon, Big Theatre Man, Dies at Philadelphia Home.

SAMUEL F. NIXON, theatre man, for years one of the important figures in a syndicate that controlled many of the leading playhouses in the United States, died Wednesday, November 13, at his home 842 North Broad street, Philadelphia, and was laid at rest the following Sunday. Mr. Nixon was 70 years old.

Mr. Nixon was born in Fort Worth, October 18, 1872. His parents' name was Nirdlinger, and Mr. Nixon was born Nirdlinger, but early in life he changed it to Nixon, and it was as Nixon that he was known in theatrical and public life.

Mr. Nixon's theatrical career began when he became acquainted with George K. Goodwin, lessee of the Walnut Street Theatre, and was shortly appointed business manager. Mr. Goodwin at that time was also lessee of the Chestnut Street Opera House, where Fred J. Zimmerman was business manager. In 1881 Mr. Nixon and Mr. Zimmerman formed a co-partnership, and the latter year, 1881, the Chestnut Street Theatre was leased, and the theatre was named the Walnut Street Theatre, which name prevailed until the time of Mr. Zimmerman's death. Mr. Zimmerman died in 1918, and Mr. Nixon continued to own and operate the theatre for a few months, when he sold his interest to Charles E. Fawcett, who became manager of the theatre, and to a few days later, Mr. Nixon became manager of the Chestnut Street Opera House, which theatre he owned and operated for a few years.

McTyrer of General Film, Dead.

The southern district manager, of General Film, T. F. McTyrer, died in Atlantic City, New Jersey, November 13, after a severe illness of two weeks, removing from the organization one of its most energetic and capable sales executives. Mr. McTyrer was the New York headquarters of the company when his illness became acute that Mr. McTyrer wished to retire, following a siege of poor health which had threatened his life. The death was sudden. With the hope that he would improve, no successor was appointed, but Mr. McTyrer succumbed after a rapid decline.

Before joining General Film Company last spring Mr. McTyrer was connected with the Paramount organization in Atlanta. He was one of the South's best known of film men and was noted for his successful methods. At the time of his death he was supervising the Atlanta, New Orleans and Dallas offices of General.
News of Los Angeles and Vicinity

By A. H. GIEBLER

FOX OPENS UP.

GLADYS BROCKWELL was the first of the Fox stars on the West Coast to begin work following the months closing on account of the health regulations. Miss Brockwell, who has worked in her last eight pictures under the direction of Edward J. Le Saint, is now being directed in "The Framers," her new picture, by Lynn Reynolds, who has been in charge of the Tom Mix productions. William Scott is playing opposite, and J. Barney Sherry and Harry Davenport have important parts in the picture. Le Saint will assume the reins in the next Mix picture. Jane and Katherine Dunning are immediately on a new picture with Arvid E. Gillstrom directing Madlaine Traverse still has two weeks to go before starting a new production.

May Go to England.

The latest rumor about Fannie Ward is now that the war is over she may run over to London upon the expiration of her contract with Astra to see if her house in Berkeley Square is still there. If it is, and Miss Ward is sufficiently attracted by an offer she has received from an English film producing firm to make pictures in Britain, she may divide her time between that country and the United States in the future.

Mary at Sunset.

Mary Pickford has returned from New York after signing up to make three pictures for the First National Exhibitors, and with Marshall Neilan as her director, will begin work in the immediate future on "Daddy Long Legs," which Agnes Johnson is putting into a scenario form. Miss Pickford will probably direct the Sunset plant for the production of the three First National features.

Weber Contract Sold.

A deal that has been consummated within the last few weeks is the transferring of Lois Weber's contract with the Universal Film Company, to Louis B. Mayer, manager for the Anita Stewart Company. The agreement calls for Miss Weber's services in the matter of directing Weber's new Stuart features, which are to be released through the First National Exhibitors' Circuit. Miss Stewart is expected in California any day to begin work on her first production under the new arrangements. The picture will be filmed at the Weber studio, and Philip Smalley will be co-director with Miss Weber.

Lasky to Make Salvation Army Film.

Evangeline Booth, head of the Salvation Army to London, America, is expecting a production in Southern California, to film a story dealing with the daily activities of the Salvation Army organization, both in peace and war times, as its method of relieving the misery and distress of dwellers in slums and tenements, and of other destitute persons of all ages. Edward Jose is said to have been chosen as director for the production.

Jack Standing's Widow Injured.

Mrs. Jack Standing, widow of the screen actor, was seriously injured one day last week, when an automobile in which she was riding skidded, throwing her out and causing her to break her ankle in the fall. Two companions in the car were also injured, but Mrs. Standing suffered the worst bruises. Besides the broken ankle, her wrist was badly sprained, and she received several severe cuts on her head.

Back to His Native Heath.

Arthur Shirley, himself an Australian, and well known to stage patrons of that country, has been engaged to star in features to be produced in Australia by John F. Gavin. A company, which is just being organized, will leave for Australia about the middle of January, and will film a number of scenes in San Francisco and Honolulu on the trip. Besides a number of players, the company will take along various American-made equipment, including high-powered lights and Bell & Howell cameras.

Ince Studios Soon to Be Completed.

The new studios under the construction at Culver City for the accommodation of the Thomas H. Ince players, will be ready by the first of the year, according to present plans. The new plant, in addition to being equipped with all the very latest methods of technical processes, will have its own electric light plant, its own waterworks, its sewer disposal system, and its own fire department. The fire engine will be furnished by a huge 1000-horse power, and will carry a stream over any building on the place, besides coming in handy for rainstorms, cloudbursts, etc. A large natatorium, to be used for special water scenes, will be filled as required by means of the power plant.

B. B. Features.

The pictures in which Bessie Barriscale will appear in the future will be produced by the B. B. Features Corporation, a company which has been under the state laws of Arizona, with Howard Hickman as president, and J. L. Frothingham of New York as treasurer. Mr. Hickman will continue to direct Miss Barriscale's pictures, and Mr. Frothingham will have charge of the financial end of the organization. The pictures will be produced at the Brundton studios, and the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation will release them through Pathe.

Vitagraph Busy.

The Vitagraph studio in Hollywood opened the week of November 10 after the regulation four weeks closing, with five companies at work, including Earle Williams' in "An American Ace," William Duncan's in "A Man of Might," and Bessie Love's.

Four Weddings Within Few Months.

The Lois Weber studio, now affectionately called "Honeymoon Studio," has furnished four weddings in Film-land within the past few months. The first first couple to step off were Lillian Greenberger, aloyee of the studio, and Clayton Boardman, her best man; next came Miss Marshall, of the studio, and Douglas Sanders, a Lasky employee; Mildred Harris, the bright particular star of the plant, was the third bride from the studio, and then were a sort of anti-them to the news that Arthur Ford, studio manager, had led to the altar Maude George. Miss Weber expects to be besieged by love-lorn applicants for work at her studio after this.

California's Novel Sign.

The huge electric sign for the new California Theatre has been completed and tested, and is now ready for business when the house is formally opened.

Los Angeles News Notes.

Fred. Miller, of Miller's Theatre, is about again after a severe siege of the flu.

When verification of the news arrived in Los Angeles that world peace had come, J. A Quinn, of the Rialto, routed out his electricians to arrange a new sign in front of the theatre which voiced his sentiments in one word—Yanks.

Studio Shots

ROBERT HARRON, who was attacked by Spanish influenza immediately after the death of his sister, Anna, of the same malady is recovering.

B. A. Rolfe, formerly a Metro official, is looked for shortly on the West Coast, as he is going to California for several pictures during the winter months.

Eileen Percy is learning to play golf.

H. H. Van Loan, photoplay author, has returned from a fishing trip to Catalina.

The date of the Motion Picture Directors' Ball, which had been originally set for New Year's Eve, has been definitely settled for New Year's Eve.

Mary Pickford has received a souvenir of the war from one of her godsons at the front in the shape of a portrait of herself painted by a German prisoner. Another of Lizzie Mary's godson sent her his Christmas label, because he hated to think of Christmas passing without even a hello from anybody.

Al Roy, who was made a corporal two days ago and according to the agreement scheduled to leave California for an army camp in Texas the day the armistice was signed, but his troop was stopped by order of the Government, and Al is still under California skies.

Charlie Ray is practicing with a bat and bat and baseball photoplay, material written for him by Earle Snell, soon to be filmed stunt man. Charlie was out of practice since "The Pinch Hitter," but he claims he has had to pay for only also ever before.

"Snowy" Baker is having his Australian picture, "The Lure of the Bush," produced at the Moresco Studio under the direction of Mr. Edwards.

Mme. Yorska's finished film, "The Internal Net," will be released as "The Internal old-fashioned Europe."" unaware comes nearer the meaning of the author, Sarah Bernhardt.

Anita Stewart is another Eastern star coming to Los Angeles to make pictures during the winter.

Helen Eddy, who has just finished her work in "The Turn of the Road," will play the part of Emma Brereton in "Lonesome." She will be given at the Community Theatre in Hollywood as soon as the "Bu" ban is lifted.

Edwin Carewe, director for the late Hap Enriquez, has had, received a personal token of remembrance of his recent star—a gold-rimmed monocle worn by Lockwood during the filming of "The Yellow Daze," which was sent to Carewe by Lockwood's mother.

Nell Ritchie, film actress, returned to her former profession, nursing, during the influenza epidemic. Miss Ritchie donated her services on first call for the men enrolled on the staff of the county hospital, where she had received her training.

Bert Hineman, local film ingenue, was fusioned to have the "flu," but she admits to having had a rather severe attack of just plain cold.

Earl Bennett and her company, in charge of Fred Niblo, director, spent several days and nights in the desert recently filming scenes for a release by Paramount.

Naomi Childers, who was playing opposite Harold Lockwood in "The Yellow Daze," after his death, is on her way to California to put the finishing touches on the picture.

Al Shean, with a picture in town a few days ago from the North to see the Orpheum vaudeville officials in Los Angeles seeing future appearances in Southern California.

Bert Glassmire, photoplay author and editor, is writing scenarios for Jane and Katherine Lee and otherwise assisting Arvid E. Gillstrom, director of the little Fox starlets.

William Earle is directing Lillian Walker in her first production, "Pran," now being filmed at the Brunton plant.

After finishing her work in J. Warren Kerrigan's new feature, Etta Linder has done nothing but read and wish that the "Bu" ban would be raised so that all the studios would resume work again.

Helen Keller, who recently announced her intention of going to France to help the blind soldiers overcome their handicap, may go first to Russia, she says. Miss Keller will go to Washington soon to recommend the fortifications concerning her plan for foreign service.

William Sheer, Bluebird leading man, was loaned by Universal to Fannie Ward to play the juvenile in her new Pathe production.

Carol Holloway has been granted a divorce from Elisha M. Holloway, better known as Jack Holloway, of the Naval Reserve, formerly a director at Diando.

Aurora Mardiganian, an Armenian girl, who admits that she cannot act, but that she can dance, is to play a leading part in H. L. Gates' story, "Ravished Armenia," soon to be transferred to film at the Selig studios in Edendale under the direction of Oscar Apfel. Irving Cummings and Anna Nilsson are said to be cast for the leading parts.

Julian Josephson, scenario writer at the Ince Studio, who had never before in his life been sick enough to go to bed, enjoyed the rare privilege when he was attacked without warning by the dreaded Spanish "flu" recently.

Douglas Fairbanks has returned from his extended Liberty Loan tour in the East, and, with his director, is considering a number of stories for early production.

Dorothy Dalton, whose Boston Bull terrier, Roxie Jane, has won six bench show ribbons, has purchased another terrier, which she calls Honey Blossom, with which she expects to carry away high honors at future kennel shows.

Ruth S. Allen, formerly scenario writer and editor for the Douglas Fairbanks Company, is now associated with the Palmer Photoplay Corporation as manager of its Manhattan office.

Paul Conlon, former publicity manager for Rorose Arbuckle, is now established at the William S. Hart studios in a similar capacity.

Mrs. Charles Chaplin (nee Mildred Harris) has been suffering from a nervous breakdown for the past two weeks.

"Sunshine" Mary Anderson is looking for a larger house in Hollywood, as her mother, Mrs. Kellie Anderson, well knows. Mary was loaned for her clever character work in Vitagraph films, is coming to California for the winter with Mary's little sister.

Because Madalaine Traverse used a ride a bicycle she thinks she ought not to have any trouble in learning to run her automobile—and she has learned to run it—but stopping before it hits pedestrians and things is what she is concentrating on just now.

The Mack Sennett photoplay entitled "Yankee Doodel," which features both well Browne, female impersonator, has been renamed "The Kaiser's Last Squeak." Mitchell Lewis has arrived in town.

Horace Harper Starts on Extended Trip to Far East

FROM New York to Australia, India, Dutch East Indies, China, Japan, the Philippines and back to the Inter-Ocean Film Building in West Forty-second street, was the 30,000-mile jour- ney Horace G. Harper entered upon Friday evening, November 22. Mr. Harper carries with him some 25,000 feet of sample prints to merchandise in the territories of the Inter-Ocean Company.

When he reaches San Francisco he may start his journey via the Philippines or via Japan, but for the first year and a half months that he is away he will visit every exhibitor or possible purchaser of film territory in the countries mentioned. The inter-insular territory of this land will be more closely covered than the other districts, but the larger centers of every great country in the Far East will be specified his careful attention.

Mr. Harper has established a reputation in the Antipodes through his early days in motion pictures which he spent in Australia in association with the Australasian Film Company, his travels then taking him into the countries he is now proposing to visit. He came to America a few months ago as the assistant representative of the Australasian company in this country, and he only recently switched his business connection to the Inter-Ocean.

In addition to his promotion of Inter-Ocean's interests on this trip he will carry out as a personal mission a number of special objects of American manufacture, believing that conditions that peace has awakened, after the years of war, when Germany has been shut down, makes the time especially propitious to introduce and foster American exports of all kinds. As his specialty is films, Mr. Harper will carry film accessories into the markets he visits, and thus bring American manufactures to the attention of exhibitors and buyers in the several countries he visits, believing with opportunities for doing American business.

Pearl White to Push Coal Mining

Pathé Exchange, Inc., has the honor of being the first company and Pathe's star, Pearl White, the first film celebrity to make a government propaganda picture since peace was declared. Full Brunet, vice-president and general manager of Pathe, announces that at the request of the War Department Miss Pearl White and her entire company will work at the Pathe Studio in Jersey City on this picture, which is designed to increase the production of coal per capita in the mining districts. It will be the first of a number to be issued by the Fuel Administration in an endeavor to bring coal production up to the absolute maximum.

Proctor on Coast for Pathe

Ralph O. Proctor, who has "grown up with Pathe," gaining promotion respectively from salesman to branch manager at Chicago and from branch manager to district manager of the central western division, was recently transferred by Sales Manager Ousby to the Pacific Coast Division. He now has supervision of Pathe's branch exchanges in Denver, Salt Lake, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Spokane and Seattle. His genial manner and good business methods are quickly earning him friends among all classes of exhibitors throughout that territory.

The World's Classified advertising is a quick and low-priced means to business ends. Buy, sell or exchange classifieds? That's an effective method, as hundreds can testify.
RUBBERNECKING IN FILMLAND

FILMLAND is waking from its five months' sleep, and you can see the evidence on hand. Directors who have not worn puttees for over a month are observed with their legs crossed, and their faces are all marked with these strange but unmistakable signs of their calling.

Megaphones are being tuned; dramatic clitches are being dusted off; situations overhauled and tightened; and the back porches of their bungalows are being put to rights.

People in Hollywood who have been passing the studios with hurried steps because of the ghostly silence of the places now linger and listen to the dull and dulcet thuds of low comedians falling from high places and the musical sound of helpless heroines being choked by heartless heroes.

Villains who have worn their features in repose are reassuming their senatorial dignity, and western drama are practicing looking at folks from the corners of their eyes with steady glances newly burnished; in general, a roll of the eyes and the back porches of their bungalows are patronizing the permanent hair wave shops.

Another week and smoke will be pouring from the flues and funnels of film factories everywhere. All Movieland will command the clang and clatter of film making and our celebrated sun will be busy from the time he arises over the oil wells to the east until he sets at the west. It will allow back of Bundy's Bath House, writing records of tense and thrilling dramas.

How a Mental Legacy Works Out.

I had the pleasure of rubbernecking one of our most prominent Flu victims this week. I refer to Benjamin, otherwise known as "Bennie." Zeidman, address, Fairbanks Lot, Hollywood.

Mr. Zeidman being by profession a personage of the utmost probity, and personally one in whom the love of truth amounts to almost a passion—and as he had the health with great severity and all of the trimmings, including pneumonia and a day and night nurse, I feel that his experience will be of infinite benefit to those who wish to attain a flock of Flu germs in their system.

A history of the devastating influence of the Flu was gathered from a brief yet comprehensive conversation with Mr. Zeidman.

The Flu germs make their first attack on your sneezer. You sneeze with great rapidity and abandon; your eyes weep without effort; your nose assumes a hue as the barleycorn pink. Your temperature rises, you take aspirin, to your bed, and everything the doctor orders, which—if he is in touch with a well-stocked drug-store—is considerable. And the next day you decide that life made up entirely of sneezes holds no charm, and you begin to put your house in order by making mental legacies of your most cherished possessions.

You decide to give your automobile to Tom Geraghty, and the silver cigarette case presented to you by Mary Pickford to Pat Dowlings.

The next day you remember the tree-climbing habit of your car and wonder if those wires may yet have to a perturb of the temperamental character of Tom Los Angeles Correspondent

Personally Conducts Our Readers Through the West Coast Studios

By Giebler

Geraghty. Maybe Pat Dowlings, being in the Navy and having less time, could cut it with less trouble, blow-outs, and police Tree Climber Becomes a Sailor.

You change the bequests. Pat gets the car, Tom the cigarette case. That night you dream of Pat racing around and around the deck of a battleship in your car and getting court-martialed by an admiral that looks like Paul Jones.

Pat shall not have the car. He shall have the cigarette case, and that night you see Pat offering a cigarette to the admiral and saying: "This case once belonged to Bennie Zeidman," and six sailors get busy and mop up the tears that flow from their eyes.

The next day you notice for the first time that the day nurse wears a Flu mask, and you wonder how she looks without it. You as: her if there is any rule against eating in this hospital, and when she brings you a trace of tapioca pudding, you want to know if Hoover is doing the cooking.

You decide that you will think it over again about the car and the cigarette case. The doctor looks at you more and gives you the batch of telegrams that have come for you, one of which reads:

"Heard that you were dead, but satisfied it is press agent's yarn. Wire confirmation or denial at once. Al Cohen. Collect."

You finally leave the hospital with a light head and a feeling that it will take you at least two years to get back to the old pep that was yours before the Flu.

Lehman to Make More Sunshine.

Having heard that Henry Lehman, of the Sunshine comedies, had erected a new office building, I went over to the Sunshine lot and found the report to be true.

Henry has got a new office building, and it is just about the "dernier cri" in office buildings. It is as fine as a doll— a whole orchestra of fiddles, in fact—and a structure that is an ornament to the film colony and a credit to our fair and famed city.

The office building is not the only new thing on the Sunshine lot, either. There is a brand new publicity representative there in the person of J. H. Walra- ven of New York and elsewhere, a Pub Rep that is amply on to his job, and who hands nice cork-tipped cigarettes to the clappers and cuts himself down as a good guy should. "Wally" is hereby welcomed to our midst.

Things were busy at Sunshine, and they are awful careless with their props when they are busy at that plant.

I got out on the stage at the same moment that Hugh Fay made his entrance into a scene that represented the hall- way in a hotel. Hugh was accompanied by 37,000 gallons of water—and they let all that good water run around all over the place, and nobody tried to mop it up.

What the Players Do to the Water.

I told Director William Campbell that they ought to dam the water, and he said, "That's what they all do when they have to slosh around in it."

Jack White was working on a big set—one of the largest I have ever seen used in a comedy. It represented a Hunt breakfast in a swell country place. Vera Steadman, Lloyd Hamilton, Jimmie Adams and a lot more were in the set. I got very much interested in the work and thought I would stick around and see it all until I found out that the action of the story included one of the hunters mistaking a polo cat for a rabbit in one of the scenes, and not knowing but that this was the scene, I decided to go away from there while the going was good.

A Working Girl in Peacock Blue.

I then watched Fred Fishback direction Jack Cooper and Mac Swain in one of those go-like-the-devil panorama comedies, and if I ever had the idea that a comedian doesn't earn his money, I changed my mind after watching Jack Cooper at work.

I saw Ethel Teare going somewhere with a comedy make-up on and two dogs, and got her to stop long enough

The First Reading of "Cheating Cheaters," at the Sunset Studio, Los Angeles. Besides Miss Young are to be seen Anna Q. Nilsson, Jack Holt, Tully Marshall, Frank Campeau, Edwin Stevens, Mayme Kelso, Frederick Burton and Nicholas Dunnaw. Under the direction of Allan Dwan.
FAVORABLE CHANGES IN EXPORT RULES

Removal of Restrictions Should Assist American Producers in Regaining Foreign Trade

Reoval of restrictions upon exports should assist American film producers materially in regaining the foreign trade of the United Kingdom, which is expected to improve our business with new markets developed during the past few years. How much ground we have lost in the opinion figures of the Department of Commerce, which give the exports of exposed film during the first nine months of the current year as being $4,793,098, as compared with $12,362,032, with a value of $5,571,613, during the corresponding period of 1917. The exports of exposed film during the first three quarters of last year amounted to 86,745,357 feet, worth $4,793,098.

Our exports of unexposed film also have fallen off. Whereas, during the nine months period of 1916 they amounted to $3,041,359 linear feet, with a value of $1,955,369, during the same period of 1918 they amounted to only $46,753,910 feet, valued at $1,198,153. Last year the total for the nine months was 49,242,907 feet; valued at $1,719,172.

Practically all the loss in exports of exposed film is in shipments to countries engaged in the war. The United Kingdom, for instance, to which during the first nine months of 1916, we shipped 75,692,219 feet, valued at $3,247,390, during the corresponding period of 1917 only took 23,459,426 feet, with a value of $1,824,627, and this year, 13,132,998 feet, worth $854,120.

This was, of course, by far the greatest blow the United Kingdom having been our heaviest customer. France, however, also showed a tremendous loss. In the nine months period of 1918 being 1,077,776, worth $183,860, as compared with 9,627,550 feet, valued at $236,998, in 1917, and 14,708,901 feet, valued at $412,336, in 1916. Italy also shows a big loss, although her imports jumped from 7,068,938 feet, valued at $193,516, in 1916, to 10,957,102 feet, valued at $254,066, during the same period of 1918 being 1,077,776, worth $183,860, as compared with 9,627,550 feet, valued at $236,998, in 1917, and 14,708,901 feet, valued at $412,336, in 1916. Italy also shows a big loss, although her imports jumped from 7,068,938 feet, valued at $193,516, in 1916, to 10,957,102 feet, valued at $254,066, during the same period of 1918 being 1,077,776, worth $183,860, as compared with 9,627,550 feet, valued at $236,998, in 1917, and 14,708,901 feet, valued at $412,336, in 1916. It Exports of unexposed film also have fallen off. Whereas, during the nine months period of 1916 they amounted to $3,041,359 linear feet, with a value of $1,955,369, during the same period of 1918 they amounted to only $46,753,910 feet, valued at $1,198,153. Last year the total for the nine months was 49,242,907 feet; valued at $1,719,172.

Canada shows a slight increase as the new mills' work, the total this year being 9,905,554 feet, with a value of $791,018, as compared with 9,418, 601 feet, valued at $706,623, in 1916. Her imports last year, however, amounted to 11,070,394 feet, valued at $837,841, for the nine-month period. Exports to Newf

Eastern States Now Freed from Lightless Nights Order

LIGHTLESS nights in the Eastern States caused by fuel shortage have been abolished by the United States Fuel Administration effective November 22. Exhibitors in New England, New York, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Maryland and the District of Columbia no longer need dim their lights with their hand, or on Tuesdays and Thursdays by the following Thursdays and Tuesdays in those in Michigan and Ohio on Mondays and Tuesdays.

We will have the people of the country lived up to the coal conservation program of the fuel administration that the policy will hereafter be to eliminate all such orders gradually, and to carry on necessary voluntary conservation through educational means, it was announced. Accordingly, the only exceptions to the lightless night's order's removal will be those States, while the State fuel administrator believes the situation is such as to necessitate a continuance of the regulations.

The text of the order limiting the ban is as follows:

"The State Fuel Administrator, acting under authority of an executive order of the President of the United States, dated August 23, 1917, appointing said administrator, and of subsequent executive orders, and in furtherance of the purpose of said orders and of the act of Congress therein referred to and approved August 10, 1917: "Hereby orders and directs that the order of said administrator, dated November 7, 1917, establishing a regulation empowering the administrator to regulate the use in cities, villages and towns of light generated or produced by the use or consumption of fuel, and the regulation established by said order, be and the same hereby is, vacated and set aside as of the effective date of this order; provided, nevertheless, that the said Federal Fuel Administrator for any State may make an order in writing signed by him, provide for the continuance of said regulation, or any of the requirements imposed on the use of light, then such regulation, or the restrictions specified in the order of such Federal Fuel Administrator, which is effective within such State until other or further order in the premises of such Federal Fuel Administrator, or of the United States Fuel Administrator,"

"This order shall be effective November 23, 1917."

Thomas F. McTyer Dies.

Thomas F. McTyer, well-known and esteemed motion picture film company manager, died in Atlanta Tuesday evening, November 19, in a private sanitarium following illness of several weeks. As division manager for the General Film Company, southern territory, Mr. McTyer by his dealings enjoyed himself immensely. He was at one time connected with the Triangle and the Arcturus offices, became connected with General Film about a year ago.

Mr. McTyer is survived by his parents and a number of brothers and sisters, who reside at Columbus, S. C., to which city the body was taken for burial. There was a honorary escort of brother film men.
ANITA STEWART TALKS ENTERTAININGLY
Off for Los Angeles, the Popular Little Star Carries Magnificent Wardrobe for Studio Work

ANITA STEWART, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Martha Stewart; her manager, R. W. McFarland, and her assistant manager, Miss Virginia Norden, stopped over in Chicago between trains Tuesday, November 19, on her way to Los Angeles, where she will at once engage in her second feature for the First National Exhibitors' Circuit under the direction of Lois Weber.

I called on the party in the Hotel Sherman, where I found that Miss Stewart was slightly suffering from a cold. But this did not dampen the fervor with which she discussed anything pertaining to her moving picture activities.

She dwelt for a moment on her work in "Virtuous Wives," her first picture for the First National, letting me know in passing that it will be given its premiere at the Strand Theatre, New York, sometime in December. In this feature she plays the part of Amy Forrestor, with Conway Tearle in the opposite role. She pronounces the cast a superior one, which also includes such well known players as Edward Arden, Mrs. DeWolfe Hopper and William Boyd, the latter now being leading man with Ethel Barrymore. She also spoke enthusiastically of the merits of the production as directed by George Loane Tucker.

The cast is now being selected for Miss Stewart's second picture and when she arrives in Los Angeles her approval will decide the final choice. The title of this feature was let out for obvious reasons. Miss Stewart did say, however, that among the photo plays to be produced while she is in Los Angeles will be "In Old Kentucky," in which she will have a strong support. Just who will direct it has not yet been decided.

At this juncture Miss Stewart's cold made it a trifle difficult to continue conversation and this was sustained thereafter by her able lieutenant, Miss Norden. With her line, instinctive love of things sartorial, Miss Norden drew my attention to the magnificent wardrobe purchased by Miss Stewart before leaving New York, most of which will be used during her Los Angeles work before the camera.

When Mac Grabs for a Dictionary
Pardon me, rugged, masculine reader, if for a moment I should appear effeminate; but as a news gatherer I cannot forego the pleasure of enumerating some of these fifty articles of a woman's wardrobe in the dictionary. Among them are four fur coats—four, mark you, of ermine, beaver, seal and kolinsky. Being a bachelor, I was obliged to thumb the dictionary to find out what the last mentioned fur is and where it comes from. My labors show that it is one of the best mink furs to be found, the animal wearing it having its habitat in northeastern Russia. It may also mean the fur of any one of several Asiatic minks.

But the coats are only the beginning of this costly wardrobe. There are a full dozen of evening gowns, for which the claim is made that they are the most exquisite and most elaborate which the smart shops of New York have ever turned out. In addition, there is a dazzling list of afternoon gowns and a collection of hats, of the very latest styles, which would turn the head of the fairest debutante.

In my crude judgment of grace of form and personal attractiveness, and their adornments, I would say that Miss Stewart is of a type which is especially suited to the wearing of smart clothes.

Now please bow your grateful acknowledgment, Miss Stewart!

R. W. McFarland, at one time the most trusted and able lieutenant of the managerial forces of Henry W. Savage, is manager of Miss Stewart's company and Louis B. Mayer, of Boston, is the president. It is known to the trade as Anita Stewart Productions, Inc.

Lubliner & Trinz Buys the Lakeside
When Lubliner & Trinz opened the Pantheon on Sheridan Road, near Wilson avenue, every informed man in the business knew that the Lakeside, one block north, on the same thoroughfare, would be badly pinched, for the simple reason that the latter had only 700 seats or thereabouts, as against the 2150 seats of the Pantheon. The expected has come to pass, for the Ascher Brothers, who are good business men, knew they were up against a losing game, and so had to sell the Lakeside to the owners of the Pantheon. Under the new management, the Lakeside will charge the same admission as the Pantheon, and acquire it—namely, 17 cents, while the Pantheon will continue to charge 22 cents. This makes the thirteenth house for Lubliner & Trinz circuit in Chicago.

Mutual's Pacific Coast
Manager Visits Chicago

JOSEPH MERRICK, who has been district manager on the Pacific Coast for the Mutual Film Corporation (now known as the Exhibitor's and Distributing Corporation) for some time past, with headquarters at Los Angeles, arrived in the city Sunday, November 17. He will remain until about November 25, then he will return to the coast by way of Seattle.

Mr. Merrick was seen Tuesday, November 19, and informed me that all of the Pacific Coast theatres were under strict quarantine since October 10 on account of the influenza epidemic. Mr. Merrick himself had a severe attack, which lasted two weeks. Conditions had abated a little when he left, on November 14.

The theatres in Los Angeles were closed October 10, and on November 11 the cases had increased 500 per cent, showing that the partial closing law in operation was not equal to the emergency. The Theatre Owners' Association then went to the city authorities, and after showing them that partial closing had been ineffective demanded that the entire town should be closed, excepting only groceries, drug stores and meat markets.

There are many cafeterias in Los Angeles, one of them seating 900 persons, and it was shown by the association that from 12 to 1 o'clock p.m. in one day 2700 people had visited it—more people than usually attended any one theatre in the city for the entire day. The self service method prevalent in such places, it was shown, had tended to scatter germs broadcast, and it was insisted that the authorities should close all such places.

The City Council then told the Association that it would either close or open the town on Sunday, November 17. In the time of writing, Mr. Merrick had not been advised of the Council's action.

During our conversation Mr. Merrick received a telegram from the Coast to the effect that San Francisco, Sacramento and San Jose had been opened November 14, and also that Oregon, Montana, California, Nevada, Arizona, and New Mexico had been closed tight since October 10, not a theatre being opened in any part of

Chicago News Letter
by Jas. S. McQuade

December 7, 1918
any of those states for about five weeks.

During this closed period all theatres in army camps had been kept open and not a single case of "flai" or pneumonia had been reported in any of them. This was due to the strict quarantine established in each camp, no one being allowed to leave or enter.

The severity of the epidemic in Los Angeles was such that the business of the street car system of the city lost $5,000 daily during its run.

Chicago Censor Board
Holds Second Meeting

T
HE second meeting of the Chicago Censorship Commission—composed of fifteen lay members and four experts appointed by Alderman Otto Kernor, chairman of the judiciary committee of the City Council, to recommend back to that body the censorship ordinance, which was also incorporated in a revision of the present censorship ordinance—was held in the rooms of the judiciary committee, in the City Hall, Friday afternoon, November 15.

The industry on this occasion was represented by George Kleine, Joseph Hopp, M. Hopp, and Mr. Donovan, the latter being manager of the Chicago exchange of the Exhibitors' Mutual Distributing corporation. Messrs. Choynski and Donovan addressed or interrogated the commission briefly, while Mr. Kleine occupied an hour and a half in answering questions put to him by members of the commission or explaining his stand on the censorship question.

Hopp Speaks on Pink Permits.

Mr. Hopp, referred to the fact that the proposed censorship would include all forms of advertisement for films as well as the films themselves, and pointed out that great care should be exercised so as not to injure the property of the manufacturer. He was asked by a member of the commission what he thought of the "pink" permit, and he replied that proper discrimination had not been exercised with respect to it in the issuing of such permits. He asserted that some pictures for which "pink" permits had been asked should have been given "white" permits and vice versa, thus showing that the required intelligence had not been exhibited.

Mr. Choynski charged that the "pink" permit had tended to arouse unusual curiosity on the part of the public and resulted in large patronage, whereas a "white" permit had been issued only when the normal advertising would have been secured by the picture.

Mr. Donovan asked a few questions concerning the object of the meetings of the Commission. He was answered by the Rev. Father Dineen at some length, who said that the present investigations would be conducted along the lines followed by a similar body in London, that body having been appointed on the request of the exhibitors themselves. The work of the London commission was presented in their reports on censorship which have worked admirably ever since they were adopted and enforced.

Kleine Upholds Reasonable Censorship.

George Kleine recited his views on censorship in a lengthy, conversational manner. He upheld reasonable, legalized censorship, saying he differed with many of his competitors in this respect.

He was severe in his condemnation of salacious situation, but desired attention to the fact that the makers of such films were few in number and were steadily growing less.

He held that there should be a board of censors, of three or four intelligent people, of broad views, and that they should be paid handsomely. He held that other boards, of the same number of members, should be appointed in case the work was too great for one or two such boards, thus protecting manufacturers from loss caused by any delay in the censoring of their films.

The Commission will hold these meetings Friday afternoon, every week, until the labors of the members have finished.

Paul C. Hinz Goes to New York.

Paul C. Hinz, who has had charge of the business department of the Chicago office of the Moving Picture World for the past four years, left for New York Tuesday, November 12, where he joined the business department of the Hopp, which is known in film circles in Chicago and was a great favorite with patrons of this paper. Since his departure many have asked me how he moved to a new field, but everyone wishes him the greatest success and feels certain that he will achieve it. Paul is widely recognized by the office, and where he was always to the front to render efficient service and then more.

Chicago Epidemic Dying Out.

The deaths from influenza and pneumonia in Chicago show a steady decline for the week ending Friday, November 22. On Saturday, November 16, a total of 199 new cases were reported—135 influenza and 64 pneumonia, the deaths being 43 in all.

Friday, November 22, showed 101 new cases of influenza and 29 of pneumonia, the deaths being 18 from influenza and 17 from pneumonia—35 in all.

Henry B. Walthall Goes to Coast.

Henry B. Walthall passed through this city Tuesday, November 19, on his way to Hollywood, where he will begin work as the star in several features for the National Film Corporation, of which "Smiling Bill" is president. On the way Mr. Walthall will stop over at Phoenix, Arizona, for about two days to visit his brother.

Mr. Walthall was seen for a few minutes at the Hotel Sherman and advised me that three stirring stories have been lined up, from which will be selected his first feature for the National. He could not just say at the time, who would be the leading woman of his company. N. W. Aronson, manager for "Smiling Bill," accompanied Mr. Walthall to the Coast.

Mutual’s Advertising Manager Here.

My old friend, Colvin W. Brown, advertising manager of the Exhibitors’ Mutual Distributing Company, has set down in his new quarters on the eleventh floor of the Merchandise Mart building, in the executive offices. Mr. Brown held the position of advertising manager under Terry Ramsay for the Mutual for nearly two years.

Joseph Hopp Resigns Position.

Joseph Hopp, who has been the American Film Company’s representative in Chicago territory since August 19, operating from the Paris Exchange, has tendered his resignation to R. A. Post, general manager, which took effect November 16. Mr. Nehls replied in a complimentary letter, in which he expressed regret and regretted the loss of the company for the efficient services rendered during Mr. Hopp’s term in the office. Mr. Nehls also stated that most of his time for the immediate future would be devoted to personal business interests, with offices in the Masonic Temple.

Asks President to Auction Peace Session Film Rights

PRESIDENT WILSON has been asked by Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitagraph Company, to consider selling in the open market by bidding among the American motion picture concerns the American rights to make moving pictures of the coming Peace Conference. His communication was sent to Washington, November 22, and Mr. Smith has said that in part of the profits of the sale be devoted to the erection of a wing to the Metropolitan Art Museum in Central Park, to the library extension, and to public projection hall where the best cinema history of the war and the Peace Conference may be stored and exhibited to the time to come during the years to come.

For Moving Picture Museum.

In the announcements a few days ago of the departure for Paris to do this Peace Conference work of members of the Division of Films of the Bureau of Public Information, no mention was made of any possibility of the subsequently exhibited would yield a profit or just be shown at cost. Mr. Smith evidently believes that their exhibition all over the civilized parts of the globe should afford an immense profit.

Mr. Smith says he hopes the President will approve the project and start the bidding immediately. The consequent official channels. "There are a dozen big picture concerns in the United States and Canada," he adds, "which have factors in the field, and there is ground with cameramen in a few days. Most of them are already represented in the war field. The bids can be telegraphed, confirmed by mail, and results cabled to Europe, all before the President arrives there. Men of the motion picture industry are accustomed to work fast—they love speed. I think all should be given a chance to do this historic work of photographing the most momentous events of the world.

A Kansas Banquet for Goldwyn.

The Kansas State Board of Review has accorded the highest approval possible for two Goldwyn Star Series productions recently released. "Hidden Fires," the M. I. Star series picture, and Rex Beach’s "Laughing Bill Hyde," with Will Rogers, received the coveted star mark from the Kansas censor.

Manager Richard Robertson, of the Goldwyn Kansas City office reports that the star rating is giving productions which are not ordinarily approved for general exhibition in the state, but which also are highly recommended for use on the so-called "family nights," even though the most select attractions are suggested for use of exhibitors.
FRANK KEENAN MAKES PROMISES

He Is to Become Independent Producer, Releasing Through Pathe, and Declares He Will Make Evenly Good Pictures at Brunton's Eight Times a Year

Representatives of the trade press were invited to Pathe headquarters in New York one afternoon last week to hear from Frank Keenan a statement of his ideas on picture production and distribution. For more than an hour Mr. Keenan discussed upon his plans and aspirations; told how he had studied the picture producing business and explained his purpose to depart, in a general way, from the usual methods of preparing pictures for the screen.

Mr. Keenan made many statements that recalled like expressions that have come direct from the publicity department of the trade press; and old things that were not, in the same measure, "old stuff." Taking him entirely at his word, believing in the sincerity of his purposes and expressing an entire willingness to let time tell the story, it is only fair to state that if Mr. Keenan goes on as he plans he will pitch up in greater public esteem than a vast majority of the adventurers who have voyaged into picture production.

Not that Mr. Keenan may be considered an adventurer in anything save actual production of pictures as applied to show business in general and pictures in particular; his record of experience, his splendid reputation as an actor and stage producer warrants even the most skeptical "Missourian" in giving him credit for his experience. But the actor now comes forward as the producer of pictures—simply as the untrammeled director, actor and deliverer of the finished product.

Will Make Eight Pictures.

In the eight pictures that Mr. Keenan will produce will be told the story of an actor's venture into the realms of production—they may be the most important pictures ever made and the combination of this splendid reputation as an actor and stage producer warrants even the most skeptical "Missourian" in giving him credit for his experience. But the actor now comes forward as the producer of pictures—simply as the untrammeled director, actor and deliverer of the finished product.

Make as much money as is possible to make under the circumstances, and to make them without the handicap that is part and parcel of wholesale production of pictures at Pathe. "We have reached the stage in motion pictures today where our public knows pretty nearly as much as men who make the pictures—and do not make any error about it. The man who works for the public today in a motion picture is and must be a slave to a certain extent.

Director Thinks of the Conventional.

"The director thinks of the conventional moving picture situation. Now we are getting beyond that. We are reaching the stage where the public demand reasonableness. We have guied exhibitors. Some people think some of them are rather primitive; but they have, as a rule, a wonderful conception of what their public wants, because their tempo comes from the box office; and the tempo of the public, as registered by selling tickets, is the finest thing to establish right and wrong of anything I know of in motion pictures.

"We must think of the democratic and personality in the endeavor to bring about a splendid general result. Otherwise we are lame, and the thing I am coming at is that to a dominant directing force, a man who knows the game artistically and dramatically and all that sort of thing, the making of the pictures itself others can do the same; or if not, I would not have signed contracts with them.

"I am releasing through Pathe, because I believe it is the biggest growing concern. It is going to do bigger things; and, above everything else, Pathe is listened to, in all my connection, has never broken its word to me. It has given me more than I asked for. My idea of working with Robert Brunton is because he is distinctly honest, I know he will perform every detail." Paul Brunet, vice president and general manager of Pathe, announced the signing of a contract with Mr. Keenan for the distribution and exploitation of a series of eight pictures.

"We consider ourselves fortunate, indeed," said Mr. Brunet, "in being associated with Mr. Keenan in this project; taking to which he will bring his ripe stage experience as both actor and producer, his concededly high personal gifts as an actor and his high ideals regarding the making and the quality of pictures. He will do big things in a big way, so far as artistry is concerned.

"His place as a screen artist is secure, and I am absolutely sure he will brilliantly achieve in shaping these pictures, made without restrictions and into which he has put the quality and convincing elements he considers essential to his ideals. "His screen version of 'The Bells' is now being shown to the highest appreciation, and as an actor and director Mr. Keenan promises to give all of the best he possesses in sincerely endeavoring to make pictures that will mark a big step forward in the advancement of the art of the cinema."

Fox Employees in Service

May Have Old Positions

With the return of American soldiers and sailors a matter of the near future, the Fox Film Corporation announces that all of its employees who had entered the service of the country will find their jobs open for them when they return to civil life. Nearly every department of the organization throughout the country was affected. There are two gold stars and one of silver on the Fox Film Corporation's service flag. Word was received this week that Arthur Fickie, formerly an employe of the auditing department in the office, was in this undertaking while fighting with the 107th Infantry in the campaign in Picardy.

The other gold star is for George Tyson Shean of the Denver offices, who was killed April 17, on the supply boat Florence H.

The silver star is for Corporal Harry A. Murray of the Contract department. Murray was gassed but not seriously wounded. Recovering from this, he returned to his command, Company M of the 165th Infantry, and took part in several of the battles of the Rain. In one of these Murray was wounded in the jaw by a piece of shrapnel, and at present is in the hospital.
HOW McCORMICK'S BOOMED COMEDIAN

Indianapolis Manager Made the Excitement Over the Victory Help Push the Latest Chaplin Issue

ALWAYS interesting as an advertiser, S. Barrett McCormick, of the Circle, Indianapolis, conducted an unusually good campaign for the Chaplin "Shoulder Arms." This picture opened November 3. Unconditional surrender was the cry of the moment, and this was the keynote of the first example, which demanded the unconditional surrender of General Gloom. The catchline was right in the spirit of the moment. It was described as "a three-reel laughing-gas attack upon Heinie's dugout." It was run on Saturday, the day before the opening. A second advance took up the other angle of the news and presents the comedian in a more or less martial attitude with "Say, who said soft peace?" The under billing remains the same. Both examples hook a comedy directly to the biggest news event of the day, and do it legitimately, the appeal is direct and powerful. It demands a place in the attention along with the world news.

Examples One (at Right) and Two.

Somewhat the same idea as in the second example was followed for the opening day. Four fifteens and three elevens were used for the advance. The Sunday space was also four fifteens, and the rumors that the Kaiser was ready to abdicate were accounted for by the picture order in full marching order as shown in example three. It might be noted in passing that all of these displays make use of the signature with the war news. The signature appears only in the new "million-dollar" product. In none of these displays is any great amount of selling talk used. Not much is really needed. Not only does the comedian sell himself to a very great extent, but the news value of the title backs up this. It is considered necessary only to hook up the advertising to the news and let the imagination of the public do the rest. For this reason there is also little done for the dramatic attraction, the five-reel feature being announced below the three-part comedy.

Examples Four to Seven.

The first example shown in the next cut, in the upper left hand corner, was the Monday display. Here the obvious reference is to the capture of the town, and this was played up in a three sever, which three does good natured the three example the more is considered very this was.

Examples Eight and Nine.

Examples Ten and Eleven.

number six, used two verses from "Over There:" "And they won't come back 'til it's over, over there." It has no direct hookup with the news, but is in the general spirit of the public temper-

Examples eight and nine are general run display, one three cases and the other two fours with a white top and bottom. "Cootie Cottage" is an improvement on the "Vermin Club" of the original advertising, but the scene cut is from the stills. They merely serve to keep alive the interest in the campaign and hold the name before the public. This letter is the smallest space taken during the run. It would be large for many houses, but is comparatively small for the Circle's policy and space.

Example ten was run the day Germany was told to apply to Marshal Foch for the terms of the armistice. It is a two sexes and the chief text reads: "Universal messages that make the world happy. Germany—see Foch. America—see Charlie Chaplin." The second example on this strip is a three-sevens employing a cartoon to take a good-natured fling at the men and women who pretend that they do not care for Chaplins and yet to see him. It is a old story of the entire family of adults who were busily employed in taking one small boy to the circus, but it is applicable to those who are too highbrow to admit that they like good comedy. Even this is hooked up with a war phrase and the picture is referred to as "a three-reel raid on General Gloom's divisions."

The last example shows the McCormick's preparedness. It did not seem probable that an advertising campaign would be agreed upon before the ending of the run, but early in the week the cut shown in example twelve was prepared and the striking advertisement was set up and held in the newspaper offices for release as a three sevens should opportunity offer. It was a hundred to one Example Three, a Four Fifteens.

CANNIBAL PICTURES AT HOTEL ASTOR

SPIRIT or Adventure Characterizes the Subject—
Beynon Musical Score Replete With Atmosphere

A PRIVATE showing of the Martin Johnson interesting collection of pictures, "Cannibals of the South Seas," of which the world rights are controlled by the Robertson-Cole Company, was given on Tuesday evening, November 19, in the small ballroom of the Hotel Astor, New York City. The exhibition was attended by a large and appreciative audience, who during the intermission were privileged to listen to a few words concerning their trip to the South Seas from Mr. and Mrs. Johnson. On her wrist Mrs. Johnson, who vivaciously confided to her listeners that she felt safer with the South Sea Islanders than she did on Broadway, carried a beautiful bird of the parrot family taken from one of the islands which they visited. This bird of wonderful plumage is evidently a rare specimen, none of whose particular kind has been discovered at any of the zoological gardens here.

Those of the audience who viewed some of these pictures at the Rivoli Theatre during the summer realized that double the footage was being shown on Tuesday evening. To the 5000 feet exhibited at that time an equal length had been added making in all about 10,000 feet. These pictures are well subtitled, splendidly photographed and were accompanied by a musical setting arranged and partially composed by George W. Beynon, and interpreted by an orchestra directed by Mr. Beynon. The score was especially well arranged, and great credit is due Mr. Beynon for the colorful character which he was able to impart to it. The writer was especially conscious of this as the journey progressed from civilized shores to the habitats of the savages. The growing mystery was splendidly brought out in the arrangement of the music, which prepared the mind for the scenes which were to follow.

Carries Spirit of Adventure.

There can be no doubt of the success of "Cannibals of the South Seas" for the reason that the pictures carry with them the spirit of adventure. It is evident that dangers which thrill the heart of the true sportsman confronted the Johnson party as they advanced to the very heart of the cannibal country.

The journey which took them to Honolulu, Sydney, Australia, and then to Samoa, continued from here to the Solomon Islands and thence to the New Hebrides. The various peoples met with on the journey included a tribe with long brown hair, kindly in disposition, and who, owing to certain conditions with which they are confronted, are dying off with alarming rapidity. A tribe of pigmies, so fearful of strangers with their camera that they darted back into the forests from which they emerged, like frightened animals at the approach of the white man, are shown among many others of equally interesting characteristics.

Most thrilling of all is the visit to the domain of Chief Napagate, of the tribe of Big Numbers, on an isolated island of the Hebrides. This reveals the unvarnished cannibal. Heaps of skulls are not uncommon sights, and the meeting with the big chief and his people leaves little to be imagined as to their intentions and customs.

We are not attempting a full review of these remarkable pictures, for the reason that considerable detail was included in a review which appeared in the Motion Picture Educator of our issue of August 10.

Reading Houses Book Through Stanley.

The Stanley Booking Corporation, of Philadelphia, is continuing its activities in securing new houses for the booking lists. The latest additions to the list are announced by Louis Sablosky, manager of bookings, to be the houses of Messrs. Carr and Schad, the largest directors of photoplay resorts in Reading, and in that vicinity of Pennsylvania. The houses are the Colonial, Princess and Arcadia.
the past ten years or more all efforts to get a majority of the exhibitors of the country into a compact organization have failed. Exhibitors have been keen to ask for help when their interests have been threatened, but they have never discovered the necessity of being prepared in advance against adversity. Time and again they have come post haste to New York for aid in fighting their battle. True, those battles have been the battles of the trade at large, but the unfortunate feature of the fight has been in most instances lack of proper local organization upon which to build an effective defense. The great need has been and is a nucleus—a definite center of organization, something to be built around provided with facilities for building. In other words some one who will make the work of organization a work to be prosecuted to completion.

Heretofore there has been in almost every state an organization of exhibitors, but in no state have such organizations been able to exist for any considerable time. Lack of interest on the part of either officers or members or both has caused the speedy disintegration of many promising beginnings. State organizations that exist at this writing are, for the most part, moribund. Some come to life for annual meetings, but in the interim they are dead to the world. In but one or two states have a majority of the exhibitors ever taken part in the state leagues, and at no time since the first effort was made to band exhibitors together have more than three thousand been enrolled in the several state organizations. This lack of interest is partly due to individual indifferencce, but mainly due to incompetence and indifference of administrative officers or their too great readiness to use their positions in the trade for personal advantage.

Now, then, if by making a combination with the National Association a permanent rallying point shall be established and effective mechanism of organization shall be set in motion by which a definite purpose shall be defined and interest therein be kept alive, it should be possible to form and to maintain effective units in every state and thus establish an effective line of defense against any unjust official or legislative restriction or encroachment. To establish such a central and adequate organization and to maintain it at the proper degree of efficiency will cost a pretty penny, but with all the exhibitors of motion pictures in America back of it the pro rata of cost would be small. Properly administered it would be of incalculable benefit to all interested.

The MOVING PICTURE WORLD has always maintained that a combination of all branches of the trade could not be accomplished, but the prospect for good that is held out by this new effort is so alluring that we are willing to set our prejudices to one side and give the promoters a chance to demonstrate what can be done when all hands unite in one cause.

** * * **

DAILY press reports announce modifications in the forthcoming tax bill which is to be trimmed from eight billion to six for 1919. So far nothing definite has been said publicly regarding a possible reduction of the taxation proposed to be levied upon the motion picture industry. It would be mighty interesting to hear that the ten per cent. film tax has been abandoned and that the admission tax would be no more than it now is. This would not be asking too much, for with that reduction there would still be the seating tax and the present admission tax, which is burden enough for one industry to carry.
FUNCTION OF CRITICISM
By Robert C. Mcelravy.

If we are to look upon art as a game in which the artist or creator strives to interest those watching on the side lines, we are perhaps equally justified in regarding the critic as an umpire or referee. If it is the business of the former to exert himself for the general amusement of the spectators, it is equally the business of the latter to render decisions on doubtful points and see that the game is properly played. The effort by all concerned should be to play the best possible game, and to this end neither players nor referee should be too conscious of the watching crowd while the contest is on. If the game is baseball and the man at bat fans out, he must expect an adverse decision; and the umpire in making this decision should be entirely unmindful of hoots and jeers or flying pop bottles from the bleachers. If the game happens to be literary golf, the referee has a right to demand that the player use the proper club at the proper time and to see to it that he does not try to go round the course with a driver and a putter.

The critic's lot, like that of Gilbert and Sullivan's policeman, is not entirely a happy one. He is often regarded as a mere interloper. But his function is nevertheless a valuable one and is regarded by experienced players, who welcome an unbiassed outside view. An occasional player is misled by easy cheers from the grandstand and holds the less vociferous views of the critic-referee cheaply, but in the long run he comes to respect the latter's decisions as representing greater knowledge and experience. The referee who knows the game is the player's best friend, for his decisions are based on points and not upon the shifting breeze of temporary popularity.

The critic, to get away from our analogy, has difficulties that even the artist, or creator, does not face directly. The artist turns out a novel, a play or a scenario; it may represent by the merest fraction his entire philosophy of life, the thing that so far as he is worthy of consideration at all the public is most anxious to understand. The "world globes itself in a drop of dew," but the artist does not always reveal himself in a single paragraph, or even in an entire volume. This in itself is a stumbling block for the critic, and some amusing errors of judgment often follow if the critic lacks experience, is prone to jump at conclusions, or to read meanings into the work of the artist that are not really there. For to criticise effectively, and we are speaking now of more serious efforts, the critic must know the motive that animates the creator of a given piece of work. One or two stories of O. Henry may leave the observer pleased yet uncertain, but the cumulative effect of several of them almost invariably creates a desire to see more.

Even in passing upon average stories, the critic must be careful not to miss the occasional gem that flashes out among more indifferent offerings. It is not always the ambitious production that brings the most pleasure; we think rather that the real popularity of the moving picture rests upon the every-day feature, with its quiet, unexpected story that touches the heart. And with all due respect to "box office" reports, which have a curious way of swaying at each other, we do not think it possible for an exhibitor to tell from the casual comment he hears in his lobby just how successful an offering has been. The loose comment of a crowd is not a good criterion of judgment, for people do not readily admit it when their feelings have been deeply stirred; if anything they are apt to remain silent. If an exhibitor will sit quietly through a picture and trust his own reactions as he watches it, and nothing else, his judgments would probably be better than that of the crowd around him, but few exhibitors have time for this.

The work of criticism calls for a curious compound of detachment and self-revelation on the part of the critic, something that usually requires long experience to acquire. In passing upon a story the critic is not governed entirely by his personal likes and dislikes, but keeps in mind always the universal aspect of his occupation. He may well remember the advice of Henry James and "try to be one of the people on whom nothing is lost." At the same time he cannot claim omniscience and perhaps does not want it. For Anatole France says, "If we knew everything, we could not endure existence for a single hour." On this latter theory a lot of us would seem destined to live to a ripe old age, for truth is hard to capture.

While there may be more or less obscurity about the motives of the creator of a story, the standards of the critic are easily understood, for he passes upon a finished piece of work. His decisions are human and necessarily subject to error, but if they are fair and consistent in every case the exhibitor, or anyone else who follows them, can usually get a pretty close idea of the offerings under consideration.

LET'S START SOMETHING
By Edward Weitzel.

In the chaotic phrase of one of the masters of a particularly ostentatious style of disjointed English, most people are "much satisfied to leave things well enough alone." Others, again, are filled with an ardent desire to start something. Good idea, that! The wonderful little man with the marvelous brain who is the chief wizard of the General Electric Company has pointed out that it is the dissatisfied man who is the motive power in this world, with his constant desire to start something new. This is invariably true—except when the discontented person happens to be a woman.

During the years that the moving picture has been attracting spectators to the theatre it has stuck almost exclusively to a form of construction which ignored the dramatic climax. Eight and ten reel pictures have been shown in two parts, but of dramatic climax as it is understood on the stage the screen has furnished but one notable example, the finish of "War Brides."

This play was written by a woman, discussed nothing but woman, and now a motion picture with the title of "Woman" has been built upon lines which permit the introduction of not less than five legitimate climaxes during the action of its seven reels.

It is more than possible that "Woman" has started something.

* * *

The novelty of getting away from the conventional form of the screen story is an advantage in itself; and there is no question as to the value of building up a big situation and bringing it to a climax that thrills the spectator, and then give him time to feel the full effect of the scene before taking up the thread of the plot again. Not every moving picture can be handled in this way, but the full stop at the end of each episode in "Woman" is an innovation that completely justifies its use in the Charles Whittaker scenario. It is most forceful in the Messalina episode. From the moment that Claudius gives the order for the death of his sinful empress until the shrinking and horror-stricken woman is literally forced to bury a sword in her own breast. The dramatic tension increases step by step, and the suspense keeps gaining in force.

Nothing is allowed to divert the attention from the act of retribution that is being enacted before the spectator's fascinated gaze. The human element exalts every other thought, just as her terror drives every other feeling from the mind of Messalina. Such an effect would have been impossible without the wide artistic range of the director, Maurice Tourneur, and the care and skill he has lavished on the episode. Its finish has the compelling power of the stage climax.

* * *

The Heloise-Abelard episode is handled with the same mastery of sustained action and cumulative strength. The quiet intensity of the assassins' movements while stealing upon the doomed monk, the murder in the moonlit room when the uncle of Heloise gives the signal, and the death of the girl herself at the hands of the relentless churchman, lead up steadily to a climax that permits the spectator to retain the full effect of the tragedy, by stopping the action at its moment of highest suspense.

The Cyrene-Fisherman episode has been shaped with equal artistic perception. Its end is tragic, but the legendary nature of the story prevents the climax from having so poignant and so dramatic an appeal as the finish of the second and third episodes.

* * *

It has always been the opinion of the writer that the climax is too valuable an adjunct to drama to be neglected by the moving picture. "Woman" has demonstrated that its use in the form of suspense fiction is not only feasible but highly desirable. With a better understanding of its technical requirements there will follow a larger field for its employment. The ending of some situations strike upon the senses with such force that a pause, a breathing spell in which to recover from the mental shock, is absolutely necessary. Sound may be entirely absent. The effect can be reached on the screen as well as on the stage; the episodes of "Woman" prove it beyond a doubt.

LOS ANGELES PLAYERS FORM UNION

Elects Officers Under Charter from American Federation—To Co-operate With Manufacturers

The formation of Local No. 1 of the Picture Players' Union, which took place in Los Angeles on November 16, is the second of a series of steps to be taken to bring the players into the ranks of organized labor, and follows closely on the granting of a charter to the union by Samuel Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor, at a recent convention, held in Laredo, Tex. The charter of the first local are: Duke R. Lee, president; B. C. Apling, first vice-president; Andrew E. Arbuckle, second vice-president; Seymour Hastings, financial secretary and treasurer, and Jack McCready, recording secretary.

Mr. Lee says that while efforts to give the players the benefits of organization have been made for the past nine years, little of a practical or lasting nature has been accomplished, and he feels sure that the present movement, which is built up along the right lines, will succeed and prove to be a lasting benefit to both players and producers.

The aim of the union is to give the player the same standing and protection that is enjoyed by any other craftsman who belongs to a labor organization. No attempt will be made to dictate to the producers or studio heads. On the other hand, every effort will be made for perfect harmony at all times. With the exception of a minimum of wages, no attempt will be made to establish a salary scale.

It is expected much good will result from unionizing the players and that many evils heretofore uncontrollable and many undesirable conditions deplored by the producers as well will be eliminated by the friendly co-operation between the union and the industry in general. Locals will be organized at all producing centers until the entire picture field is unionized.

Approximately one thousand applications for membership in the Los Angeles local are under consideration, and a total of at least two thousand is expected. The roster of the local will be kept open for the reception of charter members, which will be admitted for a fee of $1, until January 1.

As soon as the influenza ban is lifted an open meeting, to which all members of the picture colony are invited, will be held at Labor Temple. Due notice of the open meeting will be given.

GIEBLER.

George King, of London, Here to Purchase Films

One of the first steamships that crossed from England without dimmed lights and war-time precautions George King, of London, came to New York for the purpose of negotiating some large transaction in American films. The World representative found him at the Hotel Astor too late to prepare the extended interview we shall present next week, but in the plans Mr. King outlined we see some extensive investments in the products of the American producer and distributor.

Mr. King is general manager of Oswald Stoll's film interests—a separate organization from the London circuit that has made the name of Stoll a familiar word among English theatre-goers. He came purposely to extend Mr. Stoll's dealings with Goldwyn and has arranged to present first at the London Opera House all of the product of that firm on a long-term contract.

The Stoll picture interests are represented in eight distributing centers for films outside of London; in the management of the Alexandra Palace, Stoke Newington, London, and the London Opera House, a beautiful structure which, it will be recalled, was built by only Oscar Hammerstein before the war. It is to supply these demands that Mr. King has come to New York, where he will remain for three or four weeks looking at features, visiting our picture theatres and getting a line on matters of interest to Mr. Stoll in his undertakings.

World Offices Become Division Branches

Because of the unprecedented number of bookings secured by the World Film Corporation on the second official government picture "America's Answer," all branches of the organization have been made branches of the Division of Films, Committee on Public Information. This has been done through a special arrangement with Mr. Hart, director of the division, and the honor has been accorded the World because of its great success in distributing this government picture.

While all records for wide distribution of films were broken by "America's Answer," the indications are that this distribution will be excelled by the third government picture, "Under Four Flags," which is also being distributed by World Pictures. Coming at a time when everyone is interested in seeing the final punches in the great war as they were delivered in France, England, Italy and the United States, "Under Four Flags" is attracting a simply tremendous amount of attention from exhibitors everywhere.

For Sale, To Rent, For Exchange, Help and Positions Wanted are some of the items in The World's Classified advertising. Look them over and try for yourself this quick and reasonable way to action.

| Harry L. Garson. |
Rainbow Soldiers to See Peace Festival in Film

Happy Minneapolis celebrating its joy at the end of the world war was brought straight to France for a Christmas treat to its boys of the famous Rainbow division already dreaming of home.

"Big Bill" Locher and his cameramen in charge of the "Mile of Smiles Film for France," to be sent to the front for release during the holidays, were on the job all day when the great peace news came, and gay Nicollet avenue, with its joyous mobs, horns, confetti and impromptu floats and parades, will all be shown in panorama and "close-ups."

Pictures were also taken of the Christmas boxes being packed at the Red Cross for the soldiers, completing the film.

The "Mile of Smiles" film will be sent to Paris, November 25, in care of a representative of the local Y. M. C. A., whence it will be rushed to Base Hospital No. 26 in time for a showing Christmas eve, Mrs. Arthur A. Law, in charge of the film, said.

Colonel George E. Leech, of the Rainbow division, has notified the company to have an orderly in Paris Christmas morning to take the film to headquarters of the 151st Field Artillery (former First Minnesota Field Artillery) for a special entertainment that day. It will be returned to Paris, shown briefly there and then sent to all American military camps in France.

Permission to show the film during the week of November 17 was granted to the New Lyric Theatre. Money derived from the showing will be used in relief work among disabled soldiers. The business details of the enterprise are being handled by the Base Hospital No. 26 organization of home folks, which has purchased 6,000 seats for the showing of the film.

Holah Goes to Boston for Pathe

General manager Paul Brunet of Pathe Exchange, Inc., announces the appointment to the Boston Exchange of A. M. Holah, formerly Cleveland manager, who is succeeded at Cleveland by H. E. Elder, formerly eastern district manager of the General Film Company.

Ince Culver City Studios Rapidly Near Completion

The new Thomas H. Ince photoplay studios at Culver City are rapidly nearing completion and promise to be the last word in efficiency and expediency in motion picture production. It is announced by the builders that they will be ready for occupancy in about three weeks.

The stages and buildings have been grouped so they will require little or no lost motion in the handling of scenery, players and films.

The dressing rooms and directors' offices, not shown on the detail design, are located along the rear of the administration building, facing immediately upon the lot. Beyond the buildings now being erected is a big expanse of land which will be used for exterior sets and the construction of additional stages and buildings as required.

The studios are situated on the main boulevard, running from Los Angeles to Venice of America. So on the one side is the big city, on the other the ocean and to the rear is an imposing range of mountains. Picture atmosphere of every quality is conveniently available.

The studio will be complete in itself, Mr. Ince having provided the installation of his own electric, water, heating and sewerage plants. A private fire department will also be maintained, the swimming pool serving as a water reservoir. Engines are being secured that will throw a hundred-pound stream of water.

In these buildings Mr. Ince is placing the most modern equipment available.

Standing, Left to Right: G. A. Carlson, Assistant Manager; C. B. Campbell, Chief Operator; Miss Roland, Custodian; R. Edmondson, Doorman; Samuel Thornton, Organist. Sitting: C. Meyers, Porter; A. Orden, Operator.

Bring Pershing Picture Up To Date

"The Land of the Free," a big special production which not only shows the close of the Great War, but also, it is said, gives a vivid, moving epic of American heroism and sacrifice, is announced by the Fox Film Corporation as having been completed and now ready for bookings. This picture, including the events that occurred up to and through the signing of the armistice, is described as being one of extraordinary timeliness and authenticity, and affords exhibitors unique opportunity to give their patrons a photodrama that pictures the closing chapters of the Allies' and America's triumph, including the capture of Sedan.

"The Land of the Free," it is stated, is based on "Why America Will Win," the William Fox photobiography of Gen. John J. Pershing; but the revisions made in this picture have converted it into what is announced as a picture that brings the war up to the minute.

THOS. H. INCE STUDIOS
CULVER CITY:

[diagram of studio layout]
Tell it All.

TAKE up copies of any newspaper and look over the advertisements and you'll notice that the effort is made to tell of complete stocks. A dry goods store does not merely announce that it is selling silk stockings. It aims to suggest the entire stock. A meat market does not merely announce that it sells steaks. It may add that it has pork and mutton. A cigar store may sell many things besides cigars, and most drug stores carry side lines and admit it. Why not tell that you sell entertainment and not merely a five-cent feature? Why not tell that you have a certain comedy, instead of merely "a good comedy?" Good comedy means something, while telling its name means a lot more. Telling what a news feature you carry will help, and it helps, too, to tell of other music, unless you're ashamed of it. More than once a neighborhood house has taken forty cents because it has named a comedy we wanted to see. Another house does not tell of Farnam, and we either are attracted by the feature or do not see the show. It is the same with a lot of other places. Steve Farrar sends in some of the advertising done by other small town houses in his territory, which is southeastern Illinois. Steve has not given up the idea of getting the department quarterly, and he sends in the examples to show that good might be done. Apparently something should be done for the showing is very poor. Steve does not mark in the towns, but take the Joy and Gem, for example. The Joy is a two

Joy is winding up a run and refers to past patrons. The Gem is just talk, save for a little punch in the three line bank. There are no sales in the statement that it is "A picture to deepen the sympathies of men and women." The Gem also takes three $3 1/2 now and then. Here is one for Constance Talmadge that is not correctly stated. If the copy had omitted the "in" between the star and her play, then it would have read, "Up the Road. We have Constance Talmadge, etc." but the "in" makes Constance Talmadge give Constance Talmadge the role. Possibly not many realize that there is something wrong, but even the illiterate cannot read without a mental bump, even though they may not realize the cause of the bump. All these examples are too hackneyed in their setting. They attract because of their size and not because of any tasteful placement of the type. The next display is much worse. At least the Gem and Joy may be read with ease, but the Family and Isis cannot. The Isis is particularly poor; about as poor as they come. There is no display at all here, merely a program announcement, which would be all right were it not intended to make the advertisement last the week. But apparently this is from a daily paper, and even in the Saturday edition there is no excuse for this catalogue. The right use the Friday show the preceding Saturday, it should assuredly pay to advertise the Saturday show the day before, but not straight through to the Friday bill on Saturday evening, and gradually pull in the advertising space as the days are played off. There may be some more stupid way of doing things than this, but we cannot imagine it. The Family had a better scheme in the two day advertisements, but should get more dressing in a five-inch space, even though it is but a single column wide. Possibly the same Family house is responsible for triple sizes and then the family, "The Unbeliever," That on the right is badly punctuated and read. Such breaks as "nobilite," and "consistent," are inexcusable. For some reason a cut wholly unrelated to the play and put in just because it is "cute" has been taken as a cut by the advertising company. Smashing big scene cuts should have been supplied, but they were not, and the Family does not supply this deficiency with type, but trails along with some rather bold facts and little appeal. In better than this, a family is not good. It is a relief to find one fine use, the Opera, really doing something in a four fives. Here the copywriter seems to know something about the pictures he is talking about. He uses three styles in a single space, but all three are well planned in their way, and we think the middle section tells the most and should have pulled the most business. It tells that the story deals with that section of society which, in its chase after pleasure, "becomes utterly reckless and too frequently immoral." You can almost see the crowd coming to take that picture in. We agree with Steve that there is ample room to improve, but it takes a hustler to get results out of a country office, and not many are hustlers.

Where space is largely wasted.

A four fives covering three days.

Waltzswing.

Johnny Mack, of the Hill, Newark, is getting to be a regular poetry guy. Without the following:

Autumn days are with us once more. And most of the folks leave from the shore. You'll forget their freckles and tan. Soon they'll remember the Johnny Mac poems worked, and he's planned while you've been away. He's been on the job, by night, booklet stories of love, and stories of hate, stories of fun that the screen will relate, from city, from hillside and farm, come stories to instruct, to please and to charm.
With handshake and smile at the door he will meet you. With whole-hearted welcome once more he will greet you. So remember to allow for it, for we know that you will.—Remember a welcome awaits at the "HILL."

"It’s not so good as it might be, and yet a whale of a lot better than it might be, too. It will, at any rate, attract more than double the attention than a prose effusion would. Many will glance at it, see that it is a Waltz and read it carefully all the way through just to see if it keeps up. And reading it, the argument will sink in. Try it sometime, or get someone else to write it for you."

Mc Cormick and the State Fair.

Instead of being afraid of State Fair week, S. Barret McCormick, of the Circle, Indianapolis, who has had three full programs for which he has been making up a carpet for the attractions it offered. It was all type, save for a cut of the theatre, and it told why the Circle stood by itself. Only the lower third gave the space the bill required. This was done on a smaller scale in a three-elevens. He knew that the fair would bring more patrons from all over the state. He knew that it would pay to send them back talking about the house and not only booked in a strong show, but he talked to them about the house and gave them facts to take home to the neighbors. For years the Eden Musee in New York was supported by the out-of-town patronage. New Yorkers only went when they were from some country—visit them, but to go back home and admit they have visited. The Circle is wax works was to admit the failure of the trip. In the same way Keith’s Theatre, Boston, had to be seen by all visitors to the Massachusetts capitol, because there was red velvet carpet on the engine room floor. The house was handsomely furnished, but the carpet was the talking point that sold most of the transient admissions. Mr. Mc-

A Cross Page Elevens Advertising a Double Bill at the Circle, Indianapolis. Note the Amount of Small Type Talk.

Cornick, working on the same lines, makes the Circle the test of a successful trip. A five elevens is more particularly devoted to a double bill with a war picture and a Fairbanks comedy, and made the war picture the feature. A cross page eleven is largely eight and ten point type, and more eight than ten point. He had something to talk about in the Italian picture, so he used the space for good reason with which to back up the drawings. One good line is the box near the centre of the space. It reads, "Yours are the eyes of a general when you see this picture." It is a nice line to suggest the survey of the battle affair by the censors elaborated in another similar space when Balzac’s "You have a soul, man!" is the air, on earth and sea when you watch these pictures. Both are good lines for any war picture. The drawing is effective, but the replies would be sent Miss Pickford, and there were plenty of replies. The inside pages are so laid out that the name and address of the recipient are on one sheet and the replies on the other. The last sheet can be taken off and sent Miss Pickford and the rest kept to build up the mailing list. Ruff’s latest slide stunt is a good one. He explains:

A Five by Eight Four-Pager Asking for Data on Pickford Subjects.

Pickford and the rest kept to build up the mailing list. Ruff’s latest slide stunt is a good one. He explains:

A Three Elevens, a Five Elevens and Part of a Three Fulls for the Circle, Indianapolis, Those on the Right and Left Carrying a Special Advertisement of the House to Visitors to the State Fair.

The porcuit of Fairbanks, apparently looking over his shoulder for another airship, is a bit out of place. It would have been better to put him in left hand corner even though it is separated from the battle scene by the house signature. McCormick’s artist is unusually successful in handling black masses. He knows how to make them throw up the display instead of overloading it.

Ralf Staff.

Ralph Ruffner writes that he pushed up the record at the Rialto, Butte, by $180 with a double bill for which he took seven elevens; practically a half page. He might have done better, but the Fox office could send him absolutely no newspaper stills whatsoever for "Riders of the Purple Sage." He sends the letter from the exchange to prove this. We think it would pay the home office to see to it that each exchange has plenty of press material for the big stories for the sake of the Fox reputation. If newspaper stills will help clean up, then they will help the Fox reputation for money making. Zane Gray is a widely liked author, and his stories will clean up almost anywhere, but they must be properly advertised to do this, and the man who can run a Zane Gray campaign cannot use newspaper cuts. He needs the stills to work from. This half page is nicely displayed, but Ruff does not claim credit for the cut, which came from the Coast houses of the circuit. Another display is a 5 by 8 slide stunt Ruff got out when he received a circular letter asking for some dope on the Pickford pictures. The front carried a cut of Miss Pickford with a line to the effect that the star wanted the Rialto audiences help her pick her repertoire. It added that all

A Half Page for a Double Bill That Helped Run the Record Up $180.

Mary Wants To Know?

"Is the Picture To Be Played at the Fair during the Fall?"

"Yes.""Thank you.""

"I would like to order a registration card to be sent to me at the Fair.""

"Your registration card will be forwarded promptly after the Fair closes."

A Five by Eight Four-Pager Asking for Data on Pickford Subjects.

Pickford and the rest kept to build up the mailing list. Ruff’s latest slide stunt is a good one. He explains:

The appearance of this order we have been running two slides at every performance: "Every man in the house with a Registration Card in his pocket--STAND UP!" The big hand greets them immediately, and we finish off with: "If only William could see us now. Ach! Gott in Himmel!"

It’s just a little "hokum," but like the Pickford appeal it will do a lot of work for the house. It keeps the Rialto to the fore.

Ruff Comes Back.

In reply to C. Post Mason’s claim that he was the first to work the fire department in connection with "The Still Alarm," Ralph Ruffner writes that he read of the stunt in the Denver paper at the time his own department was at work. Seems to be an even break.

Better.

Don’t be content merely to keep your houses going—keep it growing. That’s the better way.

What Counts.

A two fives that sells films is better than a five fives that sells no films.

Hooking Up the Stores.

This is not part of a display from some country town, but is part of a two tens from San Francisco, in which a clothing company gives almost two collars has been necessary to maintain our original price policy but we are doing it.

$16 Sixteen Dollars Sixteen Dollars as usual.

Coats

Suits

Advertise Coats

Walk in without obligation.

and

Denies that she per-

and is a pit-

Benevolent and

Endorsed by

Listen! We..."Nineteen of our best customers, Dillen are in pretty hats, and dressed in pretty suits, and"infinitely grateful.

Sole Pacific Coast Distributors for Sweet Street Currents.

964 Market Street—Above Mason.

Part of a Clothing Advertisement Showing an Advertisement for "America’s Answer."
unn inches to "America's Answer." We have shown how merchants have advertised with full and double pages for "Pershing's Crusaders," but here is a scheme for tying up with all sorts of advertisements from grocers to groceries and getting the benefit of reiterated advertising. You can do it only with the Government issues, and markedly propaganda pictures, but you can do it with these, and do it easily. Try it.

Colored Covers.

Here is a rather new idea in layouts for a colored cover of the short sort. It is that of the Pastime, Havana, Neb., and covers two weeks in a space 1½ by 7½, not counting the house signature. This leaves plenty of room for advertising on a six by nine sheet—almost from the competition of the theatres, but we think that right now the picture house can more than hold its own against the theatre on account of the prices. The picture advertising is slightly in excess of the space bought by the drama and vaudeville houses, but it is more of an even break with the French issue. The displays are well laid out and intelligently set.

"Art Work."

One of the funny things in life is that this cut was probably billed at the house as "art work," though it is far from being artistic. We do not think that it pays to run such a cut, yet this was used as the attractor for a four fivers. Better to use type or gimmick than to offer a monstrosity with which to advertise attractiveness. Miss Farrar may be interested to know that this is supposed to look like her.

Huff Stuff.

All over the country the order has gone forth to discount advertising the correct time to telephone users. Ralph Ruffner advertises, "Call ten for the correct time. That's the Iliado." He gets an average of a thousand calls a day, and to each call the time response is made with the addition of some brief and carefully prepared comment on the current bill. The idea was first used by the Liberty, Portland, a sister house on the Jensen and Von Herberz Circuit.

Both Count.

"What do you think counts most in an advertisement?" asks a correspondent, "the way it reads or the way it is set up?" The answer is both, for the two are inter-dependent. In one sense the text is perhaps a trifle more important than the display, but selling talk is of small value unless it is carried by the general typographical layout. The two are so nearly related that the slight advantage held by selling talk is hardly worthy of consideration. The good advertisement must be both well written and well displayed. Some managers trust too much to the display, however. If the advertisement looks pretty, they think it must be good. They do not realize that mere arrangement of type cannot sell entertainment. The types must be made to talk.

Franklin and Chaplin.

Here's Harold H. Franklin's idea of an advertisement for Chaplin. It is a three fives, and the border is in benday. Most managers would not think they were getting their money's worth if the silhouettes were not as black as ink could make them, but Mr. Franklin knows that the sketchy effect will get more attention because it is different from the heavy black borders more generally employed. The chief factor is Chaplin, and the line drawing of the star will better dominate the space without a heavy border in competition.

Hoist Both.

It is poor economy to pay an extra $9 for service and then "save" it on your advertising bills.

Picture Theatre Advertising

By EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

Conductor of Advertising for Exhibitors in the Moving Picture World

TEXT BOOK AND A HAND BOOK, a compendium and a guide. It tells all about advertising, about type and setting, printing and paper, how to run a use program, how to frame your newspaper advertisements, how to write form letters, posters or throw-aways how to make your house an advertisement, how to get matinees going, how to improve on weather and rainy days. All practical "the way it has helped others. It will help you. By mail, postpaid, 2.50. Order from nearest office.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

516 Fifth Ave, New York

Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill.
The Photoplaywright

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

Notice!

questions relating to the writing of photoplays and photoproducts are referred to by mail where a return envelope, properly stamped, is enclosed in the inquiry. No attention will be paid to questions relating to the market, nor can manuscripts or parts of manuscripts be criticized.

Wordy, But Wise

W. ENTWORTH BARRAN, who signs for "Barran Bros. & Bills," more or less like a vaudeville act, sends in a four-page letter with a lot of big words, but also a lot of good sense, though it is not predicted that he will demand the right to write continuity when the manufacturers insist upon synopses only. We agree that many stories would be lost in the synopses only, particularly one largely dependent upon the action to bring out the full value of the plot, and we take it that the real film story is almost wholly dependent upon the action), but if the man who signs the checks says "Synopsis," then send the synopsis on it.

The fundamental requisites of the play; the limitation of the cinema; the parameter factors in general, before submitting any material; and now—"we have sent out a call for the "green synopses," I. e., the broad-tailed scripts as you have said—with bits of scenes and titles shot in here and there. But of course we are not working. Stu. Why? we'd strain a nerve that we might wax qualified. We've been known to sit through a five-reel feature twice; once for story, once for sub-title and scene-counting, and lastly for analysis. And at this writing we are threshing out grammar in the curriculum of high English and rhetoric, that we may put forth, diction, punctuation, capitalization, spelling, etc., on a par with any newspaper man. And we might add that in order to delineate good syntax, one must know, at least the parts of speech, from article to gerund (ver-noun), inclusive.

We now contemplate taking a close range shot at the game, but want the light conditions.

We have on paper the main scenes of what we think is a 100-hour-photo detective drama, and should say that it would be a crime to submit any material devoid of the working script. A page or two may seem a huge chance of dying the death of a rag baby if ever mailed in synopsis form. But, girls, keep it fresh! Keep it light and green.

Our initial consideration after the germ is hatched is: Is it novel material? Secondly, will it get by the censor? Thirdly, it must not necessitate the hereto unknown, will it enable the producer to "mop up" with it (to use the slang term), thereby reaping a harvest? Then comes the market, and the star, and has the title drawn already? As yet, we have never written a timid letter to any editor, neither have we ever asked questions or even tried to prevail upon any authority to scrutinize a script for use. This is the way of many beginners. (Of course we're knocking wood.)

We believe that sub-title writing is an art in itself and a separate lesson in "screencraft."

We do not profess to be writers of an air-tight scenario which will not warrant the injection of, or the striking out of, anything on the part of the coach.

Tempo is the thing—the speed of the story, throttled down at the commencement and running wide open when nearing the big finale; i. e., the climax. Tempo and make-up are the two main ingredients, and when coalescent and kept alive they keep the story high in the interest at its vertex—without anything to flag.

The jack-of-all-arts, come into its own when he contemplates writing for the picture sheet; but he must be master of this one element.

The only person that has a monopoly on thought is nobody.

When one takes up photoplay writing he doesn't know how much he has to learn, but it is a lot. The more so, the sooner he learns it.

Trying to sell scripts is just as hard as it is for a small-time actor that is trying to get the U, H, O, big time.

Judging the capability of stuff might be so far in advance of its time that the editor will not take it seriously.

We are in no hurry whatever to submit our material that we may dream of the check which it "might bring."

When the grammatical sense will warrant, and without robbing it of its merit, we focus our main title down to one or two words. This we term juggling the main title.

The plot is the intrigue of the story. Right? Broadly and strictly, to write absolute novelty, a certain amount of inconsistency must be woven in, but masked (camouflaged), so as not to stand prominently.

We are inclined to the issue on that last proposition. Novelty does not necessarily mean inconsistency, though inconsistency is the shortest road to novelty. The art of writing the really novel is not to write the inconsistent (though it cannot be done) but to make consistent what has hitherto seemed to lack plausibility. Take the seeming inconsistent and through skillful treatment make it plausible and you are not only making a novel, but in implausible is also to make it impossible. It is true, for example, that a certain amount of arraignment can make Frankenstein possible and consistent, but the telling gives a certain sense of plausibility, even while we know that it is not possible for man to endow his handiwork with life. We know that it is not humanly possible to shoot a projectile to the moon, but Jules Verne made such a trip seem and sound plausible during his clever story.

Knowing the Market

You positively must know the market before you undertake to sell. Even at this late date we get letters from readers expressing surprise that we cannot sell one-reel plays. Yet we know that the man who insists that his story was sent back because the plot was too slight for a one-reeler, and he points out that not long ago Carl Laemmle declared that the one-reeler would never go out of the market. This man reads the department regularly, and it is to be presumed that he reads some of the columns. If he will turn to the calendar of current releases, he will probably be surprised to find that Universal does not release one-reel dramas. Turn to the list in this issue and it will be found that Universal releases only two-reel novelty weekly, some one-reel educational comedies and romances and five and six-part features. It is also doing some special two-part western stories of a sort that the free lance writer might write to suit the needs of a one-reeler, or two- or three-part dramas. We do not know where you can turn to find current one and two-part dramatic releases other than the market, and there are two or three. No one who pays the cents of the market will now see one of these novels, and yet this writer is trying to market his lone one-reeler, apparently his first and only effort, though he has been studying for some time. We hope he has the material to sustain him. It is often difficult to sink in, so we say it again and probably shall again and again.

'Simmons and Stories'

Edward B. Akester, who lives in the peralmon belt, takes the toothsome 'simmon for his text when he writes:

Took a look at a 'simmon tree the other day and the young 'squaws are like my 'simmons; those particular ones are from a well-watered day) stories. They are just starting. The big idea is them, yet it was very foolish to try to get anyone interested in those green 'simmons. Next fall, after the frost has supplied the climax, they will be more interesting.

If you have ever eaten the green persimmon and the ripe fruit, you know a great deal about a green 'simmon; but when the fruit is good only when it is matured, and the green story is no more puckerish than the green 'simmon. Let your stories get fully ripened before you seek to interest others in them. It pays better.

Retire the Vamps.

Retire the vampire stories for the duration of the war. We are only saving time and more room for the more important melodramatic stories; the latter type being stories of action rather than of the crime type. Most markets are not now open for the horrible and the unholy. Perhaps the motion picture theater, must offer enjoyable entertainment as an offset to the horrors of the war, and the gloomy and depressing story has no place on the modern program. Perhaps after the war there will again be a demand for the same story, but right now you must at least make them smile if they do not laugh.

One Advantage

An author recently remarked, more or less with envy, that one of his stories, "far more original than Tarzan and yet more plausible," had been rejected because it was not plausible. Apparently he did not realize that the wide sale of the Tarzan books had prepared audiences for the film story, and even before a first script is offered for the screen. Perhaps the script is written in speech instead of being permitted to figure it out for himself, as was done in the original story. That is one advantage the filmed fiction enjoys. It is the same with the novel. Let your novels make your stories of fancy and do not get too fanciful. Write so you make your stories of fancy and do not get too fanciful.

TECHNIQUE OF THE PHOTOPLAY

By EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

A book replete with practical pointers on the preparation of stories for the screen which "will stand the test of hundred and fifty" with an audience is a work of "how to write the story" instead of being permitted to figure it out for himself, as was done in the original story. That is one advantage the filmed fiction enjoys. It is the same with the novel. Let your novels make your stories of fancy and do not get too fanciful.

By Mail, Postpaid, Three Dollars

PUBLISHED AND FOR SALE

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

515 Fifth Ave., N. Y.
SCHILLER BLDG., Chicago
WRIGHT & CALLANDER BLDG., Los Angeles

December 7, 1918

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

1077
Projection Department

Conducted by F. H. Richardson

Manufacturers' Notice.

IT is an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods reviewed hereinafter will be remitted editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor.

Important Notice.

Owing to the mass of matter awaiting publication it is impossible to give the department in less than two to three weeks. In order to give prompt service to the projections, four columns, twenty lines (less than actual cost), will receive carbon copy of the department reply, by mail, with a weekly stamp, replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in the department, one dollar.

In future, the second set of questions are now ready and printed in neat booklet form, the second half being exchanged in number. Each booklet may be had by remitting 25 cents, money or stamps, to the editor, or both for 40 cents. Cannot use Canadian stamps. Every live, progressive operator should get a copy of these questions. You may order one at this number you cannot answer without a lot of study.

As to Optics.

John Solar, Watertown, New York, arises to remark:

Referring to Friend Griffiths' interesting article appearing in issues of October 19 and 26, it is evident he is not letting any optical grass grow under his feet. Page 278, October 19 issue: I can see no reason why a larger diameter lens would require a wider cutting blade in the revolving shutter. The correct shutter position is in the plane of the image (aerial image) for a condenser focused by the projection lens, and the conjugate distances of object and image and focal length expressing the size of the image. The aerial image of the condenser would therefore remain the same regardless of projection lens diameter. (Quite right, but other equations enter. First, there is the item of vagrant light, which, however, cuts no figure if a shield is at hand.)

Page 279, October 26 issue: The lens focal length of 250 is really 200, which is correct. I would like to point out that no matter how well the lens is focused, the image will be reversed and reduced as well as out of conjugate distance. There are so many different ways of looking at this puzzling thing that 'tis certain I can get little balled up on it.—(Ed.)

As to photographic and projection lenses, you were quite right in correcting Brother Griffiths in the matter of converging rays, unless he is considering the principal ray of each pencil. There is always one ray in each pencil of light from a point in the object to the corresponding point in the image which, aside from slight displacement in passing through glass, forms a straight line. These rays are termed the principal rays of the pencils, the same as the axis of the system is called the principal ray. As these principal rays all pass through the lens, and the lens is much smaller than the receiving which is now being considered as being a photographic plate, they must be converging, but in considering several pencils from points on the screen they must be diverging to the lens. In projection we have an objective system (condenser) back of the projection lens, and, as Brother Griffiths stated, the rays diverge from a point on the axis of the centre of the condenser, and the principal rays will not be a straight line from point to point in object and image. Griffiths' statement was: "In other words the photographic lens receives them as diverging rays. If the word pencil were changed to "point," the statement would then be correct, and I think that was what I intended to say. Therefore, if the light was used for photography the strain would be greater than if it were used for projection. (October 26 copy not at hand.) If I really said that I meant precisely the opposite,—(Ed.)—Friend Richardson, can't see it. In photographing the screen the light would be somewhat diffused but one; also in projection there is highly concentrated light over small and consequent tendency to reflection and vagrant light. Under such conditions it would be impossible for me to see any difference since the lens used in projection does not have placed upon it a very much heavier strain (as to its optical powers) than does the one used under conditions where the object is normally illuminated, and is situated a comparatively long distance from the lens. You may claim that, as to the latter, the conditions are merely reversed, but I am afraid that I would frankly I would be puzzled to put my view of this into words. Perhaps I might plain by saying that in photography the lens does its work by handling light rays of comparatively little divergence which take considerable relative long distance. True they are delivered to a screen (film or plate) at wide angle, but I leave the lens the work of the lens is finished. In projection the opposite is true, and to it is added the concentration of illumination, the heat generated therein and the tremendous magnification of a very small photographing (not original) object. That is an extremely crude statement, but maybe you can give me the same explanation you cannot. Anyhow, Griffiths has an article saying that he really meant the central ray, but I am so accustomed to the idea that it is some how all amounts to the same thing, my own view of the whole matter is somewhat different.

In the illustration we have two sections, A and B. A represents my view of what we are discussing as applied to photography. From each pin-point of the object a cone of light represented by the lens diameters and any ray from them will go forward in every direction within the view of the object. This cone is sent to the operator. B represents the view of the screen, and the illumination that pin-point of the screen will receive in relation to the brilliancy of illumination of the object, its reflective powers and distance from the lens. Draw a line from any two points on the condenser surface through a point in the aperture, and you will have a pencil or cone beginning at that point and diverging toward the screen. The same relation will be true of any two points you may name on the photographic surface. The location of the crator image has nothing to do with the pencil or cones. The Diameter of the screen is between two pencils of light. Therefore, in projection the crator image is reversed, reduced, and out of conjugate distance. If the light were used for photography the strain would be greater than if it were used for projection. principal rays I am not concerned, since they have already been dealt with.

In B we have the projector system as I see it. A pin-point in crater D sends forth rays which are converted by the lens in the projector and projected on the screen. That means that rays from that point (and every other point) are received by the film and thus form the screen. In this way the image was made which would be projected to the screen if we were focused at A. So much for the projector system. Now for the condenser. We now have an aperture which is a half-denser, and hence by the general light rule, we would limit the individual cone of light to its area at plain of Lens). The dotted line indicates the transmitted cone as a whole under condition shown in drawing. There now, rip that up the back of the paper. I rewrote it in an understandable language, so that all may understand; also as brief as is practicable.

A Bundle of Whys.

From an eastern projectionist, who wishes his name and address kept a dense, dark, and secret. Following dope on screen and package of why's:

After six months of operating automatic printing presses ("mother kind of "operator." Ed.) am back in the good old game. Have just finished a screen which is giving fine results. Have pulled the back of it, that is when, in some way, all of which proved successful, hence I will pass the dope along for what little it's worth. It was a very large, densely packed house that is not able to afford a manufactured screen. Here it is: a size of canvas, plaster, etc. with at least two coats of pure white Alabastine. Be sure to tell them to be sure and doing anything further. Next, purchase ordinary aluminum powder, together with the oil prepared to mix it with, and coat entire surface of screen with same. This usually leaves brush marks or other spots where oil covers, but aluminum rubs off under brush. Re-touch all such places when aluminum is dry. Use canvas to coat the surface once, using 15 more water than on direction on package of powder. Use light Alabastine, say one ounce of the blue to three quarts of water. Mix well and apply with brush or roller, large, flat brush, starting at upper left hand corner and working down across and back to corner. Be sure to work fast and keep edge of work wet, because if edge dries the dope will crack and will not stick. Apply quickly, and evenly, you will have a screen equally good for white or narrow houses; also which will give fully twice the light value to be had from an ordinary, plain white surface; also there is a distinct quality of glare. The Alabastine surface gives a projection free from rain, such as films a few feet thick will cloud. The minimum beneath the thin coat gives the reflective power necessary to save the Julius over the Peine. The screen on this picture is on, the whole, more artistic than on a metallic surface screen, most of which reflect too much.

Regarding "Lens System Up To Date."" Ed. I think in the last article, we are using what we found in machine when we took over the house. Have not yet determined which is the best we can do. If you will tell me exactly what information you require to know what condenser lenses we need, distance they should be from each other, etc. etc. I would be glad to know whether it is A. C. or D. C. and at least approximately accurate amperes, and what voltage of charge there is for same. (No charge, unless you want mail reply.) See a note at top of this article, and I have learned a lot about projection during past seven years, but don't know these. I am thinking of the subject to do some studying this winter. Before closing let me offer suggestion to invention for light-ray dispersers. Use ordinary signal for light-up, then invent a fireproof box, similar to film magazine, to go between upper magazine and inside this box arrange electrical contacts so that signal will sound when tails-pieces passes through and out. (Nothing doing, brother, Scot! Bun stuff! You must never allow tail-piece to show on screen. Better here, if condenser next arc throws diverging ray, why not have condenser of longer diameter, and thus reduce losses of light? It is done in England, Germany and France—or rather an arc condenser of smaller diameter is used. There is little if any advantage in using a lens greater than 4.5" diameter, for these for reasons, Ed. And I own start their pictures out of frame. Say, Brother R., why don't machine manufacturers? Another way to cut down the slide carry which cuts off cut a lot of light? (Good stunt. One machine, the projectionist by sliding the slide carried swings out of the way.) Ed. And say, Brother R., why not attach an ice slide to the polaroid line? Running a very tiny hinge inside head, pointed at aperture edges, so that we may keep the head of the dust and garbage which accumulate when we run the dirty, oily, Heaven forestone J-U-N-K foodsexpeses hand on. On the aperture edge it looks small; on the screen it looks like a mountain. Dogs. (Use auto horn bulb, small hose and suitable nozzle, Ed.) And say, Brother R., put some sort of light which will illumine inside of mechanism so a fellow can see to thread in frame. More tail-piece expense, at least $8,000. And say, Brother R., when will the first left-hand machines be out?

Last named is up to machine manufac- turers. When we have demand, double. As to the screen, why I pass the idea along without comment, except to say I am not in for some new thing in it though I very much doubt a gain of the 1905 efficiency the good brother claims. His advice on the thing of Alabastine, the idea being that light will be reflected back through or upon back of the thin coating. If this is the case it would be well to have the aluminum applied to a smooth surface and polished. However, it is quite possible to try out the scheme by making a small screen, say a yard square, finishing it according to directions and laying it over a newly coated machine. I mention the subject to have reports on tests of this kind. The thing may have real value. At least, I think it worth a try. There is no good inside of head, why many plans for that have been published in this department during the past year, though it is easy to do. A one or two c. p. low voltage bulb inside the head, connected with battery, will be suitable. We have another is a small lamp on front wall, arranged to swing over in front of projection lens and to automatically light when swung over and extinguish when swung back. These plans are described on pages 595-96 of June number of this magazine. Good Neighbor is a live one. He notices things and realizes that he has much to learn.

Gets Action Quick.

Clifton Peirce, manager Star Theatre, Springville, Utah, had trouble with a portion of his projection equipment. An elect-rician had only been in the town a few days and did, rather. His projectionist effected temporary insulation with paper, and a new bulb was installed. It was quite different, and much more expensive, was received; also it failed to work. This was examined, and the bulb was sent much delay, received, but that, too, failed to work. After Mr. Peirce had, as he explained, suffered the electrician's out-lassars' worth of annoyance, besides the danger of short circuits, he called in entirely at any time, he appealed to the electric- ment. We immediately took the matter up with the manufacturer of the appa-ratus. Mr. Peirce now writes: "You cannot imagine how I appreciate your interest in this business, and taking action, and got it quick. Received the coil today, and it works just fine. It is a start. I did not know what to do, but I really thought I was myself in error—that it was I who didn't know anything. I now have evidence, however, that it really was the manufacturers' Salt Lake agent who was the solid ivory top."

Getting action and getting it quick is one of our specialties. The reason lies mainly in the fact that we don't monkey with branch managers or other under-strappers, but go straight to the head of house, whoever he is, be it Far Down, and when Mr. Further Down receives request from Mr. Higher Up to know what what what what AT- ELEY proceeds to get extremely busy. He would much rather tell Mr. Higher Up to know what he will look into it, hence the slow and dilatory handling of the quick and entirely satisfactory settle- ment of things which have dragged along indefinitely and might not get settled indefinitely, but for the pointed question of Mr. Higher Up.

Local Union 306 Moves.

Local Union 306, New York City Projectionists, has moved into new and larger quarters. It now occupies half the space of the former location, 1547 Broadway, in the center of the the-atrical district. The telephone number remains the same. The business agent reports things running smoothly, and that the local is in healthy condition. Many of the members being generally accepted by Greater New York theatre managers. The officers are: Editor, Joe Bruck; Secretary, Richard E. Weis, vice president; Harry Sherman, financial secretary; Morris Smith, treasurer, and Sam Goldfarb, business agent. The latter, I am informed, will be given new office. Gold-farb is, I think, a man who has ability and honesty, too; another who is small an office of that kind, especially in a large city.
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

December 7, 1918

Put on a Stamp.

Albert H. Estes, whom department readers will doubtless remember, writes from New Orleans.

Dear Brother Richardson: Just a few lines from one of the projection fiends now in the service of Uncle Sam. We certainly had to leave the projection room. I am right at the end, and I have a friend, but when we have read the last episode of old Bill Kaiser, I am going right out for the left. I have a request to make. Won’t you ask exhibitors, projectionists, and anyone else to take advantage of the offer of the postoffice department, stick a 1-cent stamp on the dear old "W," and along too. I have two boys, both here and over there. It is extremely hard for us to obtain it, and I would surely appreciate the kindness very much. Would send something, but I have an animal around here. My best regards to the boys, to the M. P. W. and to you.

This would be an act really worth while. We appreciate the fact that you wish to keep your Worlds, but nevertheless advise you now in the very reasonable request of Brother Estes. There are many projectionists and exhibitors in the above position. Mail the World as a message from home.

Is it not true that the human eye is the most delicate of all the senses of the human organism; that it is the most susceptible to injury; that no person has a legal right to injure another by so doing; that it is the function of the law to prevent such an injury; that it is the duty of any person to guard against such an injury? It is a question now before the courts, and the decision will be binding on all persons.

The world is over and the war is at an end. The soldiers are coming home, and the people are thinking of the future. The future will be better if we learn from the past.

As to Ordering Repair Parts.

This department again points out to projectionists and to exhibitors the absolute necessity for giving full and very specific information of any order sent. If it is a part for a motor generator, for instance: A "laboratory" might make the wrong or too much or too little. All above all things give everything on the brass plate attached to the machine when possible, viz:

Lack of sufficient definite data places the dealer or manufacturer in a bad position. It may be fulfilled, after delay and the other additional expense, or must "take a chance," well knowing he will be cursed long, loud and deep in case the wrong guess is made—

The theatre man will most emphatically not blame the dealer, who is not to blame. The dealer or manufacturer may put out several different models of any given apparatus. He may have half a dozen in use at the same time, each put out at different times. The theatre man has not having improvements over the one which went before. Not only this, but it is quite possible to make mistakes, as rectifier relay coils, for instance, may be used for a variety of purposes, and that it is necessary to have the box, the machine, it is to be installed in trouble to be avoided. This involves the serial number of the machine, which must be sent, if the machine has one. In fact, look the machine over carefully and give every word you find thereon. You may take it for granted that the dealer and the manufacturer want to please you. That is how they make their living. They will do it too, barring carelessness in doing so.

Try and Have Patience.

This department is being called upon just now to pull out a great many of seemingly inexorable blunders in filling orders for repair parts, and errors in the order, which cause managers and projectionists, write highly indignant letters, pointing out the lack of necessity for some mistakes made or for failure in other directions.

This would be entirely true in normal times, but these are not normal times. Manufacturers and dealers, both great and small, have had their very best men taken away through war's grim necessity, and have consequently been unable to substitute trained, or partially trained, help in their stead. This explains the whole trouble. All is the best possible, and you can do the same.

It is quite possible that the dealers have sent a red hot letter to the Harley Davidson Company, makers of his Nancy. Hanks the Go livens will be abroad a perfectly stupid blunder on their part in filling an order sent them. Mr. Davidson himself interceded for the complaint to himself personally, and wrote me a letter which made him blushing for shame. In effect it said: "Just count stars on our service flag. Mr. Richardson, consider yourself to have been a large percentage of our very best men, and then tell me how we can do any better—if you can. If you can't, we will entirely justify in normal times. The mistake would then be beyond pardon. But now, why worry as you suppose we can and be thankful it is no worse." And what Mr. Davidson said about the motor generators is true of every manufacturer and dealer in motion picture equipment. We have all have patience, remembering that the dealer and manufacturer is harrassed and almost at his wit's end blaming himself, but give 100 per cent. service with his organization shot almost all to pieces by the requirements of war.

Projection Experience

Motion Picture Handbook

For Managers and Operators

By F. H. Richardson

The recognized standard book on the work of projection. Complete descriptions and instructions on all apparatus for projection. Illustrated. There isn't a projection room in the universe in which the thickly bound and well worth will not save 15 per cent on purchase price each month.

Buy it Today $1.25 (when, Postpaid

Moving Picture World

1058 FIFTH AVENUE NEW YORK $16

Schiller Building, Wight & Gassler Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.,

To save time, order from nearest office.

Film Renovator Wanted.

The manager of the Kansas City, Mo., branch of the Southern Triangle Pictures Company writes asking if we can recommend any special process for renovating old film. We suggest thoroughly with that particular proposition, and would give you advice like information to its worth and look for results that are now on the market; also details as to its nature. The address is the Kansas City branch is 22d and Grand avenues. Write them direct if you have anything to offer.
Music for the Picture
Conducted by GEORGE W. BEYNON

Lest "Chickens Come Home to Roost"
Let Cue Sheets Be Properly Prepared

A last, the producer is alive to the value of properly prepared cue sheets, and scents the danger in those that are not the work of competent musicians and put out in a manner acceptable to the average leader. This fact is a source of infinite satisfaction to musicians who have for years patiently devoted themselves to missions vital to the musical profession, knowing that the time would surely come when the importance of music would be appreciated and honest and conscientious endeavors receive their reward.

The film magnate is now strongly convinced that good music will put his picture over and that poor music will ruin the work of priceless months. He is beginning to ask questions—a very hopeful sign. Real music service will be the result if a thorough investigation is begun. The average business man knows but little of music values, but once convince him that "fitting business" and the musician has won out.

Monetary remuneration should not be considered as of paramount importance by either the producer or arranger. Every laborer is worthy of his hire; but money should not be discussed except as a secondary consideration, because the lack of ability of the arranger, coupled with the length of the picture and the necessary time, is made the sheet. Technical work of this kind can be bought at practically any price, and the result obtained will always reflect the sum paid. Cheap opinions will convey poor suggestions; and, unfortunately, some of the more unscrupulous musicians will charge a high figure for mediocre cue sheets, because they are trading upon the musical ignorance of their employer and they feel safe. That much-abused ignorance is fast disappearing, we are glad to state, and with it will go theuffers, the pan-handlers, and those who use their positions to exploit their own wares, thus abusing the trust imposed upon them.

Recently, we were informed through the columns of the musical department of an esteemed contemporary, greatly to our edification, that there were but two men capable of preparing cue sheets. It was solemnly stated, with many recriminations upon the heads of all "claiming to be musical film experts," and an urgent call was sent out for the elimination of "these pseudo-professional music experts." Undoubtedly funny in its puerile attempt to corner the market on cue sheets, the article did not fail to throw common into a situation that now bids fair to bear fruit, than all the poor attempts to cue pictures. The leader knows and appreciates the defects of a poor cue sheet and has complained to the proper authorities and, as has already been stated, the producer begins to see the matter from the leader's standpoint.

There are many excellent musicians arranging cue sheets in a conscientious manner and they are meeting with more or less success. There are also some who use it as a means of publicity, while the worst offenders are those men who are subsidized by, or hold an interest in, a music publishing firm.

Bad form also has had much to do with the 멀티미널 of cue sheets. The arranger may possibly have had an excellent idea of the musical requirements of the picture and probably prepared a fine selection of cues from the standpoint of their suitability; but the printed form was not accomplished in a workmanlike manner and it looked like a page of Egyptian hieroglyphics, and was about as intelligible to the leader.

In a previous article we have gone into the subject at length; but for the benefit of the producer, the exhibitor and some leaders, we shall try to explain in a few words the requisite qualifications for a properly prepared cue sheet.

Our personal opinion will play no part in the explanation which is based upon hours of study through all the music of the country, expressing the needs of the leader in an orchestra playing pictures.

According to the number of reels and the releasing company, the cue sheet begins. First, there must be the cue to start the scene. This must be signed together with subtitles, descriptions of actions, or inserts, but they must be clearly defined in any case. They should be printed in large or bold type so that the leader can read them in the half light of the pit when the house is dark.

Next should come the duration of the scene started by the cue, in minutes and fractions of minutes. These should also be plainly indicated. It is useless to attempt to time a scene to the exact second, for music is elastic and two measures will easily account for anything up to fifteen seconds. Thus minutes, their quarters, halves and three-quarters are ample indications for the leader. The time may be placed at the right, the left or below the cue, but must be printed in a comprehensible form and must not prove an arithmetical problem in subtraction.

Following this the placing of the time correctly suggested over which should be followed by the name of the composer. Some cue sheets contain no mention of the author responsible for the music but take particular pains to indicate the music publisher. The clever idea back of it all is apparent, but why should the producer advertise the publisher? The printing of the musical suggestion may be in small type if necessary, for, after the leader has fitted his picture and the musical setting has been arranged in rotation, he has no further need for that portion of the cue sheet.

The tempo of the music suggested is most important, for it provides the leader with an alternative. If for any reason he cannot play the music suggested upon the cue sheet, he may select something else of the same tempo and character that will fit equally well. This may be placed under the numerical number for convenience.

Thus we have five essentials in the properly prepared cue sheet form, the tempo, the cue, the time duration, musical suggestion, its composer, and its tempo. Its very simplicity proves its effectiveness.

The proper qualifications of a musical arranger must be ascertained by the producer. The said arranger must be capable of playing every scene with due regard for atmosphere, scene action, and plot gradation. He must have practical experience in fitting and playing for pictures in a theatre. He should have a large library of all the available material suitable for pictures, produced from all possible sources, which should be properly classified and catalogued. He should never suggest a number about which he is in doubt and which do not indicate a number which must be repeated many times to fill out a long scene.

Above all, the film companies should check the music noted in the cue sheet and see to it that no particular music firm predominates in that column. Music publishers have their own pecular field of operation and should play no part in arranging cue sheets for films. The temptation invariably proves too great, no matter how conscientiously they may embark upon the enterprise, and results in a tearing down of the woven fabric of which good music is the wool and the picture is the warp.

Sooner or later greed and selfishness defeats itself. The time comes when the motives which actuate actions are understood and appreciated by every one. It does not take long, however, even when men are as busy as the average producer, for a realization that cue sheets which continually mention only six or eight composers have behind the seeking madness, a well-schemed-out method. When the method is comprehended and the producer learns that he is not getting the service for which he is paying the cue sheet, he may expect, will be become disgusted, discontinue the service, and the avunculous and unprofessional musician will find the old adage verified.
CUE SHEETS for CURRENT FILMS

“All Night”
Released by Universal—Five Reels.
Prepared by J. C. Bradford

THEME—None.
1. AT SCREENING—Midsummer...MacQuarrie 2 min. 15 sec.
2. T. RESULT OF BRIGHT IDEA—Valse a la Mode...MacCleure 2 min. 15 sec.
3. T. I’LL SHOW YOU—The Hobbledey...Olsen 3 min. 30 sec.
4. T. JIM BRADFORD—When You Come Back...Frey 2 min. 30 sec.
5. T. YOU’RE TOO PRETTY—Air de Ballet...Borch 1 min. 15 sec.
6. T. DID IT—Jump Jim Crow...Romberg 2 min. 20 sec.
7. D. ENTER RECEPTION ROOM—Al Fresco...Herbert 2 min. 45 sec.
8. T. LIKE TO GO—Vanity...Jackson 1 min. 30 sec.
9. T. ANY TIME I MISS—Couttelette...Mathews 2 min. 15 sec.
10. T. CUNNEL LANE—Passageway...Delibes 2 min. Allegro.
11. T. DO YOU WALK?—Pas De Deux...Rubber 1 min. 15 sec.
12. T. YOU’RE GOING TO BED—Buddah...Friel 3 min. 15 sec.
13. T. MR. H. WAS AWAY—Over On Top...Romberg 2 min. 30 sec.
14. T. HE’LL BE QUIET FOR THE—Burlesque...Lanercost 1 min. 15 sec.
15. T. BOY ON BALCONY—Oh How I Wish I Could Sleep...Wendell 2 min. 45 sec.
16. D. COOK ENTERS KITCHEN—’I’m On My Way to Dublin Bay...Allegro 2 min. 15 sec.
17. T. LET ME EXPLAIN—My Little Bilkene...Lester 1 min. 30 sec.
18. T. HE PROBABLY LOST—Boy of Mine...Carruso 1 min. 30 sec.
19. T. WHY BOTHER ME—Oh How I Hate to Get Up...Allegro 1 min. 45 sec.
CHARACTER

ATMOSPHERIC

“Eye for Eye”
Released by Metro—Seven Reels.
Prepared by S. M. Berg.

THEME—Love Song Orientale...Andante Moderato...Kiefer 1 min. 30 sec.
1. AT SCREENING—Sunrise and Incantation...Borch 3 min. 15 sec.
2. T. FRANCE IS SENDING HER—THEME 1 min. 30 sec.
3. D. WHEN OUTPOST SEES—Patrol Orientale...Kiefer 3 min. 15 sec.
4. T. MIDNIGHT—Misterioso Dramatico No. 61 3 min. 45 sec.
5. D. WHEN CAPTAIN REACHES—Agitato No. 80...Sheppard 1 min. 15 sec.
6. T. WHY DIDST THOU HELP—Dramatic Tension No. 67 2 min. 15 sec.
7. T. SUNRISE—Sunrise and Incantation...Borch 30 sec.
8. D. WHEN CAPT. CADIERE—Grave...Berge 3 min. 30 sec.
9. T. AN OUTCAST BRANDED—Indian Lament...Herbert 1 min. 30 sec.
10. T. WITH UNSERVING PURPOSE—Blue Devils...Levy 1 min. 30 sec.
11. T. FACING THE GRIM—Rest...Borch 1 min. 30 sec.
12. D. WHEN HASSOUNA SEES—Indian Love Song...Herbert 1 min. 30 sec.
13. T. I CAME HERE TO BUY—Shadows of Night...Borch 2 min. 45 sec.
14. T. SCUM OF A REPUB...THEME 1 min. 30 sec.
15. T. TIME HAD DRAWN ITS VEIL—Marseillaise. 3 min. 30 sec.
16. D. AT END OF SALUTE—Intermezso Francais...Pranko 3 min. 30 sec.
17. T. LEECH TO DROP—A La Mode. 3 min. 30 sec.
18. T. MEMORIES—THEME 1 min. 30 sec.
19. T. LIFE IS A CLOCK—Pierrot and Pierrette...Leher 2 min. 15 sec.
20. D. WHEN ACROBAT APPEAR—Champagne Galop...Lumbye 1 min. 45 sec.
21. D. WHEN HASSOUNA ENTERS—Shadows of Night...Borch 1 min. 45 sec.
22. D. WHEN HASSOUNA PAINTS—Dramatic Tension No. 36 2 min. 45 sec.
23. T. THE ORCHESTRA AT THE HIRTH...THEME 3 min. 15 sec.

24. T. IT’S THE SEARCHLIGHT...Agitato Appassionato...Borch 1 min. 15 sec.
25. T. COME TO ME IN...Dramatic Agitato No. 35...Mine 3 min. 15 sec.
26. T. WHY DID YOU DO IT...THEME 3 min.
27. D. WHEN HASSOUNA SEES PAUL—Dramatic Tension No. 41...Borch 2 min. 30 sec.
28. T. FOR WEEKS GRATITUDE...Organ Improvising 1 min. 45 sec.
29. D. WHEN HASSOUNA CLIMBS—Perpetual Motion...Borch 2 min. Allegro Agitato.
31. T. THROUGH TANGIER'S STREETS—Patrol Orientale...Kiefer 2 min. 45 sec.
32. T. AFTER MONTHS AT THE...Peacefulness...Borch 2 min. Andante Simplex.
33. T. ALL ARE DEAD...Orchestra Tacet 2 min. 30 sec.
34. D. AS DESERT SCENE PADES—La Balladora...Tobani 3 min. 15 sec.
35. D. WHEN HASSOUNA APPEARS...Shadows of Night...Borch 2 min. 30 sec.
36. T. WHEN GUESTS APPLAUD...THEME 2 min. 45 sec.
37. T. YOUR WIFE BADLY HURT...Dramatic Narrative...Pement 1 min. 15 sec.
38. D. AS SCENE PADES TO SHIP—Blue Devils...Levy 1 min. 15 sec.
39. D. AS SHIP SCENE PADES...Heavy Dramatic No. 37 2 min. 15 sec.
40. D. WHEN HASSOUNA PLAYS...THEME 2 min. 15 sec.
41. D. WHEN HASSOUNA HEARS...Andante Appassionato No. 57 3 min. 30 sec.
42. D. WHEN TAHIR ENTERS...Tragic Theme...Vegy 3 min. 15 sec.
43. T. WHY DID YOU DO IT...THEME 2 min. 30 sec.

CHARACTER

ATMOSPHERIC

African Desert, France.
MECHANICAL EFFECTS

Their pantomime, shots, knock on door, marching soldiers, automobile.
SPECIAL EFFECTS...

Orchestra Tacet for "All Are Dead."

DIRECT CUES

None.

REMARKS

None.

“Heart of Rachael, The”
Released by W. W. Hockinson—Five Reels.
Prepared by Film Music Co.

THEME—Love Theme...Agitato 3 min. 30 sec.
1. AT SCREENING—Reflections Waltz...Foster 1 min. 30 sec.
2. T. CLARENCE BRECK—The Vampire...Levy 1 min. 30 sec.
3. T. WIT THE EVENING—Andante Pathetique No. 23 1 min. 30 sec.
4. T. HAD BILLY TOLD YOU—Andante Pathetique No. 21 2 min. 15 sec.
5. T. IF A HEART—Peppinland No. 13 A...Kiefer 1 min. 15 sec.
6. D. I’VE GOT THE ROADSTER...Dramatic Tension No. 9 3 min. 15 sec.
7. T. FATHER AND DAUGHTER—Peppinland No. 13 A...Kiefer 1 min. 30 sec.
8. T. WITH THE SUMMER...Dramatic Andante No. 32 1 min. 30 sec.
9. T. A CLOUDBLESS DAY—Allegro Moderato...Lake 1 min. 30 sec.
10. T. SIX MONTHS LATER...THEME 1 min. 30 sec.
11. D. DANCE SCENE...Molly, Dear, It’s You I’m After...Pether 1 min. 30 sec.
12. T. BUT A CERTAIN FOUR—Mysterioso No. 3...Minton 1 min. 30 sec.
13. D. MAN DROPS GLASS...Repeat One-step and stop with 1 min. 15 sec.
15. D. FATHER TIME APPEARS—Six Gong Beats 2 min. 15 sec.
16. D. BARRISCALE APPEARS...May Dreams...Allegro 1 min. 30 sec.
17. T. THE FIRST WEEK-END...Pathetic Andante...Berger 1 min. 45 sec.
18. D. CHILDREN AT PIANO...Piano play to action 1 min. 15 sec.
19. T. AND THEN THE THUNDERBOLT, Tympeny Rolls 1 min. 45 sec.
20. T. ONE EVENING IN MARCH...Basket of Flowers...Albers 1 min. 45 sec.

Allegro.
"Tenting on the Old Camp Ground."

The majority of patriotic songs have been sung from the pulpit because of an intense love of country and an inspired desire for service. There are exceptions, however, which are better left unsung when an appeal must be made to heroic effort, for the effect is very likely to be less press- ing rather than stimulating. Among these, and ranking in the same class, are "Old Camp Ground," by R. Root, and "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," by Walter Kittredge. During the War, Mr. Root had such a ten- dency toward lowering the spirits of the army and causing them to feel so small and insignificant toward the soldier on the eve of battle, that the troops were discouraged from singing either, and frequently regimental bands were ordered to refrain from playing the music associated with them.

Born of poor parents on a farm near Merrimac, New Hampshire, in 1833, the tenth of eleven children, the advantages for study accorded to Walter Kittredge were almost nil. His education embraced what he could learn by observation and diligent application. He was apprenticed near his home. As to music—he never had a teacher in the art, but at a remarkably early age discovered his talent. He says: "My father bought one of the first Seraphines made in Concord, and well do I remember the day it came to put it up. To hear him play a simple melody was a great treat, and this event was an impor- tant incident in my early life."

Little harmonicum coming into the home when the lad was dully growing into a greater appreciation of the art, which interpreted, completely changed the out- look on life for the music-starved boy.

A natural bent to play and work out his compositions gave the lad an impetus and an inspiration that reshaped all the future. When he was but twenty years old—at the age when most boys are in college—he began giving ballad concerts by himself, and a bit later joined forces with Joshua Hutchinson in the same professional work.

In the first year of the Civil War, Mr. Kittredge published a small Union songbook. Shortly afterward he was drafted into the army. But while making his preparation for the front, he found time to write "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground." Both the words and music are original.

This little poem was in good company, for, like many other and more ambitious efforts of the same period, it was first published and then prestained and refused publication. But Mr. Kittredge was not easily discouraged. He sang it in public, putting into his voice all the pathos which inspired the words. Their effect was so marked that he obtained his wish to write the lines. As he had hoped, a re- markable and spontaneous popularity resulted. A certain Boston publishing con- cern was not slow to see the possibilities of the song and engaged someone to write a sequel with a similar title. History fails to state why it did not obtain the original "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground." This may do so meant a bit of good fortune for the Messrs. Ditson, another publishing firm in Boston, who availed of the opportunity of privilege and showed their business acu- men thereby. The song was in great demand everywhere and the sales exceeded even the brightest expectations of the author and the publishers, being enormous.

The poetic work was placed in every essential quality from the grand rank and file of war songs so contagious and popular among the troops as "Old Camp Ground." It did not express a warlike sentiment in a single line, but breathed a spirit of sor- row, reflection and confidence—pro- fering consequent upon the conflict. The thought conveyed an echo in scores of heartfelt and well discoraged over the bat- tling between brothers and the breaking up of erstwhile peaceful homes by inter- nal dissension and strife. The music pos- ssessed the characteristic rhythm of a negro melody which lifted the words a bit from the melancholy tone which they alone expressed, and pleased and charmed by the very simplicity of the composition.

Victor L. Schertzinger.

Music's relationship to the photo-play art is strikingly exemplified in the person of Victor L. Schertzinger, who is now directing pictures for Thomas H. Ince in Los Angeles, California.

From a musical career as soloist, director and composer Mr. Schertzinger laid down the bow, baton and pen to use the megaphone. The productions which have appeared under his direction forcefully substantiate his contention that the eye is as susceptible to the delights of rhythm, harmony and the poetry of motion, as the ear.

Public and critics alike have accorded to Mr. Schertzinger's pictures a pleasing individuality, and he generously credits this to his musical instinct. What is now being realized by the public was forseen by the keen vision of Thomas H. Ince, the master producer. Appreciating the im- portance of musical settings for pictures, he engaged Mr. Schertzinger to write scores for Triangle productions, under Mr. Ince's supervision. Thirty-one of these were written by the man who pro- vided the song hits in "Tik Tok Man" and Kitty Gordon's "Pretty Mrs. Smith." Then Mr. Ince assigned him to the work of writ- ing music for "Civilization." It was de- cided as a novelty to present this great spectacle with a pantomime prologue with living actors. As Mr. Schertzinger wrote the music for this he was asked to direct the production, which he did perfectly in the music. So successfully did Mr. Schertzinger suit the action to the rules of music, making a superb impres- sive scenes, that Mr. Ince at once saw a new development in screen story telling and offered Mr. Schertzinger one of his directorships.

The photo-play, which has become distinc- tive art," said Mr. Schertzinger in commenting on his work, "is developed much along the same lines as a musical composition. The inspiration is given in inspiration for his music by some theme, and in the developing of this he conveys to the ear of the listener an impression of his own mental picture. So it is with the photo-play. The director receives from the scenario a story written about a theme. It then devolves upon him to visualize this for the human eye. The methods of development are practically the same—the tools of expression are differ- ent. The composer must use the varia- tions of key, the scale, the tempo, the modulations of volume, the recession of the diminuendo, etc. The director has at his command the color and the mixture of the various modes of expression in living be- haviors, the effects of lights, the contrasting of the human and the object. And the picture as in music there must be har- mony. The character must fit into the proportions of the whole, and the Blue Monday plays no small part. Every scene may be perfect in detail, but if the scenes are not arranged with care it will fail so acutely to the eye as is the mis-straiking of piano keys to the ear. One might well call this a matter of tempo. If the musical director does not maintain his tempo, the musician is well aware of the result; if the same principle is not applied by the photo-play director, he gets a 'jumpy' picture.

"There is unquestionably a great kin- ship between the musical composition and the photo-play. The one is poetry to the ear, the other to the eye. The sense of music, I am sure, is responsible for what- ever successes the public may be kind enough to accord the productions I have directed."

Before entering the picture profession, Mr. Schertzinger had a notable and en- viable career as a musician and an artist, while seven years old he was featured by the symphony orchestra of Philadelphia, his own city, and then the town, as a viol- inist. After studying with numerous in- structors in this country he went abroad, and for three years under the tutelage of Brussel's masters. He was then featured as a soloist, and with Mr. Schertzinger, was the only vocalist in both Souss and Prior. He became musical di- rector for Oliver Morose and then at- tended the attention of "The Tik Tok Man" and "Pretty Mrs. Smith" were due to his genius. Then in a vaudeville tour he demonstrated his ver- satility by proving himself a master of both piano and violin. He also plays the cello and practically any string instru- ment one may place in his hands.

Under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince he has directed photo-plays featuring Chauncey Olcott, Dorothy Dalton and Emil Bennett.

Devolutions of Picture Player to the Art.

Having always maintained that the picture playing profession is a dignified art and that musicians should be appreciated of its possibilities, it was with much pleasure that we had our convictions sustained in a letter from a picture theatre operator of a western city. We are quoting in part from this letter, believing it will be an inspiration to other musicians in this field:

"I am most anxious to obtain a position near New York. With a little help I believe I could find an opening. I am studying the organ, harmony and coun- terpoint. My organ experience has been limited to work upon a three manual "Moller."

"I am an earnest worker and am not satisfied with the results I am getting, and would like to have the opportunity to study and advance in this city affords me. But I do not want something I can work with and grind out my salary, but where I can study three hours a day on the organ and piano. I want an organ teacher who has had legitimate knowledge combined with picture experience. With the above spirit who are taking away the obloquy formerly attached to motion picture playing, and who are placing the operator, who is where only the best instrumentalists can hope to obtain positions in this field."
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

December 7, 1918

22. T. MAGNIE WAS HERE .......... Dramatic Tension No. 36, 3 min 15 sec. Andino.
25. T. WITH ANOTHER ROUND ....... Men Plaisir Waltz... Roberts 3 min 30 sec.
26. T. AUTUMN SEES THE RETURN .... Agitato No. 6... Klefert 6 min 30 sec. Allegro.
27. D. CHILD ON OPERATING ... Andante Dolore No. 70, 2 min 45 sec. Andante.

CHARACTER = Dramatic. ATMOSPHERE = Neutral.

"His Bonded Wife."

THEME—Love Theme. Moderato Lee 1. AT SCREENING—Frills and Furballs—Crespi 2 min 45 sec. Rondo Rococo.
2. T. THERE ARE TWO THEMES ...... THEM 2 min. 3. T. THAT'S SWEET .......... Tragic Theme...... Vey 1 min 15 sec.
4. D. WHEN AN AUDIENCE APPLAUD.... Silent Sorrows... Borch Andante. 5. T. PARTNER UPTOWN ....... A Functul Vision... Rubinstein 1 min 15 sec. Allegro moderato.
6. T. A WEEK LATER .... A Frivolous Patrol... Gobull 1 min 15 sec. Allegro.
7. D. WHEN DORIS CALLS ....... Agitato No. 49... Shepherd 43 sec. Adagio.
10. T. THE WRONG END OF A THEME .... THEM 1 min 45 sec.
11. T. PHILIP'S WORK BECOMES ... Love in April... Kriens 3 min. Allegro Moderato.
12. T. FILET MIGNON HAD .... A Garden Dance... Vargas 2 min 15 sec. Allegro Moderato.
13. D. CLOSE-UP OF VICTROLA .... The Sunshine of Your Smile. 2 min 45 sec.
14. T. YOU MAY GO AS FAR AS .... Dramatic Tension No. 9Andino 2 min 45 sec. Allegro.
15. T. YES, A DREAM THAT HELD .... THEME 2 min.
17. T. SO YOU'RE THE YOUNG .... Dramatic Tension No. 36, 3 min. 15 sec. Andino.
18. T. IN THE PLAIN ABOVE ....... Adieu... Karganoff 3 min 30 sec. Moderato.
20. T. THE FIRST STEP, A GRAND .... Piano Improving. 1 min 30 sec.
22. T. FRANCO IS ORDERED ME ... The Angel's Whisper. Sommerr. 4 min 15 sec. Lento e Dolcissimo.
23. T. A LITTLE JIMMY VALENTINE ....... Gruesome Misadventure... Borch 4 min 15 sec.
24. D. WHEN DORIS HEARS NOISE ...... Harry No. 26... Minot 4 min 30 sec. Allegro Moderato.
25. D. WHEN DORIS RECOVERS ....... Perpetual Motion... Borch 3 min 45 sec. Allegro Agitato.
26. T. I'M DETECTIVE BANGS ...... Babillage... Castillo 3 min 30 sec. Allegro.
27. T. I HAVE BEEN CALLED .... Harry No. 33... Minot 2 min 15 sec. Allegro Moderato.

CHARACTER = Comedy. ATMOSPHERE = Sea shore and society. MECHANICAL EFFECTS = Wave effects, telephone, bell.

SPECIAL EFFECTS = Piano solo for number 20.

DIRECT CUES = None.

REMARKS = None.

"My Cousin."

Released by Armet—Five Reels.

Prepared by S. M. Berg.

THEME II—Love's Torment ... Valse Lento... Caruso 15 sec.
2. T. AS RUDOLPH IN BOHEME ... Racconci di Rosella... Puccini 33 sec.
3. T. AS CANIO IN PAGLIACCI ... Si Poo... Leoncavallo 15 sec.
4. T. AS SAMSON IN SAMSON AND... Moss Geur... Saint-Saens 48 sec. (Aria from "Samson and Delilah")
5. T. AS THE DUKE IN RIGOLETTO... La Donna e Mobelle... Verdi 30 sec. (Aria from "Rigoletto")
6. T. IN LITTLE ITALY ....... Giazzelle... Kertschner 5 min 30 sec. Valso Italiane.
7. T. ROSA VENTURA, WHO BRINGS... THEME II 1 min 45 sec.
8. T. TOMMASO MAY HAVE CAROLI...... From Italy...... Largy 4 min 30 sec. (Selection Italian folk Songs)
9. T. I'M GOING TO THE OPERA...... THEME II 1 min 15 sec.
10. D. WHEN TOMMASO LEAVES... Capricious Annette... Borch 30 sec.
11. D. WHEN CARUSO COMMENCES... Borch 5 min 30 sec. Orchestra Tactet. 1 min 15 sec. (Solo)
12. D. WHEN CARUSO STOPS...... THEME II 1 min 45 sec.
13. T. THE GALA PERFORMANCE...... Italian Songs... Borch 45 sec. (Medley March)
14. T. CARUSO IN HIS DRESSING...... THEME I 1 min 30 sec.
15. D. WHEN LIGHTS ARE LOWERED, Opening choral of "I Pagliacci" 1 min 30 sec.
16. D. WHEN CLOWN ENTERS...... Si Poo... Leoncavallo 1 min 30 sec.
17. T. THE END OF A PERFECT ... Vesti la Guibba... Leoncavallo 4 min. (Aria from "I Pagliacci")
18. D. AT END OF PERFORMANCE...... Orchestra Tactet. 15 sec.
19. T. OH, TOMMASO, IF YOU ... Babillage... Castillo 2 min 45 sec. Intermezzo Allegretto.
20. T. PUT ME IN A QUIET ...... THEME I 1 min 45 sec.
21. T. I HAVE SIT IN THE ...... THEME II 2 min.
22. T. TOMMASO YOU WOULD NOT... Carbrilbin... Pestalozza 2 min 29 sec. Italian Waltz.
24. T. FAINT HEART NEVER WON...... THEME II 1 min 45 sec.
25. T. CAROLI'S MORNING ...... THEME I 1 min 30 sec.
26. T. WE CAN'T SEE ANYONE ... Scherzetto... Borch 2 min 45 sec.
27. T. WHEN ACCOMPANY STARTS... My Heart Is Thine... (Solo) 1 min 45 sec.
28. T. MY DEAR GIRL YOU HAVE... Alborada... Andino 1 min 45 sec. Caprice Espagnol.
29. T. COME BEGIN SONG........... Bartole Solo.
30. T. SIGNOR CAROLI REGRETS ... Agitago... Borch 1 min 45 sec. Agitato Appassionato... Borch 45 sec.
31. T. THE POOR MAN, HE ... Agitato Appassionato... Borch 45 sec.
32. T. WHEN A MAN HAS NO PROOF. Dramatic Tension No. 36, 2 min 30 sec. Allegro Moderato.
33. T. A FEAST BRINGS SMALL... Funiculi, Funiculi... Italian Air 2 min 45 sec. (pp and ff to action)
34. T. GIVE YOU A NICKEL.......... THEME II 2 min 30 sec.
35. T. MY COUNS I HAVE NO... THEME I 1 min
36. D. WHEN SCENE OF CARUSO... Agitato No. 69... Minot 1 min 30 sec. Allegro Agitato.
37. D. WHEN ROSE ENTERS...... Adagio Castabile... Borch 1 min 30 sec. Allegro.
38. T. PARIDON ME COUSIN...... Joyous Allegro... Borch 3 min.
39. T. ROSA HE WILL BE YOUR...... THEME II 1 min.

CHARACTER = Comedy. ATMOSPHERE = City Life. MECHANICAL EFFECTS = Guitar, dog howling, audience applauding, chime crash.

SPECIAL EFFECTS = Orchestra Tactet for "At End of Performance" and "When Caruso Commences Soprano Solo."

DIRECT CUES = Aria from "La Bohème," "Pagliacci," "Samson and Delilah," "Rigoletto."

REMARKS = Follow Grand Opera Scenes carefully with appropriate music.

Three New Puccini Operas Presented.

Lovers of Puccini music will be glad to know that his three latest one-act operas will be heard for the first time on any stage at the Metropolitan Opera House, on Saturday night, December 14th. "Il Tabarro" is a tragedy; "Suor Angelica," a mystery play; and "Gianni Schicchi" is described as a "side-splitting farce." Morazan will conduct all three operas. A diversity of operatic music is especially welcome at this time when the war has relegated the German music to the background.
GORDON'S
Motion Picture Collection
IN TWO VOLUMES
PRICE, $1.00 POSTPAID
Volume I.—Contains music for 19 standard types of motion pictures. 131 selections altogether.
Volume II.—Contains 43 selections. National airs, miscellaneous scenes and special effect music.
This is not a folio but might almost be called an Encyclopedia of Motion Picture Music. It contains no instruction but is actually being used as a Text Book for Motion Picture Pianists. It is invaluable to all picture pianists.

DESCRIBING CIRCULARS ON APPLICATION
Published by
HAMILTON S. GORDON
141-145 West 36th Street
New York, N. Y.

We Are Equipped to Copy, Print, Autograph, Arrange and Transpose
All Classes of Music.
Music Scores Pasted
Workmanship Guaranteed  Prices Reasonable
CHARLES GREINERT
306 W. 48th Street
New York

EXHIBITORS
If you want a real picture organist or pianist, write us. Endorsed by biggest exhibitors East and West.
PROFESSIONAL SCHOOL
of PICTURE PLAYING
Strand Theatre
Los Angeles

AMERICAN
Fotoplayer
(Trade Mark Registered)
The Musical Marvel. Write for Catalogue
62 West 45th Street
AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO.
New York City

Announcement
of the Music Service Exchange
507 Fifth Avenue, New York

ITS POLICY
We do not and will not publish any music nor ally ourselves with any publisher. Service is our middle name and we serve to please.

ITS PURPOSE
We will select or buy music of all kinds from any publisher for the benefit of musicians who cannot come to New York or for those who through lack of time cannot write for small orders to many and various firms. For this service we charge no fee.

ITS OPERATION
Send us your order for music with a deposit cheque, showing good faith, and we will procure your music from the various publishing houses, ship it as one consignment on the same date of receipt of the order, charging you the usual retail price less your deposit.

ITS MEANING TO YOU
Quick action, accuracy in filling your order, a retail store at your door, a saving of carfares and postage and a service that you have long needed.

EXHIBITORS—
Avail yourself of this opportunity to build up a musical library for your theatre.

LEADERS—
Send in your lists of music wanted. If suggested in any cue-sheet, indicate the name and the number and we will do the rest.

THANK YOU!

SEND IN YOUR SUBSCRIPTION NOW
FOR
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD
presenting
MUSIC FOR THE PICTURES
A Real Music Service to the Leader
CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO.
516 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK

The Great War Song
The Battle Hymn of Democracy
The Song of Human Freedom Triumphant
Band, 25c; six for $1.00
ARMAGEDDON, Ltd.
141 BROADWAY
NEW YORK

The World's Standard Theatre Organs
Unified Theatre Organs
J.P. SEEBURG PIANO CO. • REPUBLIC BLDG. CHICAGO
Cannibal Music at the Hotel Astor.

It seems almost impossible to conceive that the piano should play a dignitously compatible with the atmosphere of the Hotel Astor. But November 19 will go down in history as the day when the music was introduced as the featured performance of the evening. The music was produced by a group of pianists, all of whom have been associated with the Astor in some capacity. The program consisted of a series of pieces which will be given by Messrs. Robertson & Cole. Very many promising young pianists will be presented in a spectacular way in pre-releases.

Leader's Service Bureau.

Questions Answered—Suggestions Offered.

Q. Can you give me some information regarding a place where I can obtain a clavier? I wish to practice several hours daily and feel the need of one.

A. Mrs. A. M. Virgil, 11 West Sixty-eighth street, New York City, is an authority on the clavier and its use. She will be able, we feel sure, to give you any information you may desire, if you will communicate with her.

Q. I wish to obtain orchestrations of the dances in "Prince Igor," and selections from several of the most noted grand operas. Will you tell me how to obtain them, as there is no music store carrying anything but popular music in my little town?

A. If you will write the Music Service Exchange, 507 Fifth avenue, New York City, we feel sure these people will be able to give you any information you may desire, and they are also able to do so at the usual retail prices.

Unconditional Surrender to "SALOME" MUSIC

Never before has such a wonderful score been made. Critics everywhere highly endorse it. It adds fifty per cent. to the picture presentation.

GET THE MUSIC

When you play "Salome"

George M. Rubinstein

126 West 46th Street, New York

In quality. But the audience was keenly alive to the situation and appreciated the splendid work that had been done.

This picture is one of the first of a series of programs which will be given by Messrs. Robertson & Cole. Many very promising young pianists will be presented in a spectacular way in pre-releases.

December 7, 1918
Film on Social Hygiene to Have Wide Distribution—
Is Method of Presenting Subject Right or Wrong?

A STARTLING exhibition of a seven-reel film whose chief mission is the teaching of social hygiene took place in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Astor on the afternoon of Thursday, Nov. 14. The exhibition, sponsored by Katherine Bement Davis, director of the section on women's work of the social hygiene division of the War Department Commission on Training Camp Activities, took place at the close of the afternoon session of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs, and the picture is entitled "The End of the Road."

This film, the story of which was written by Katherine Bement Davis, promises to do a great deal, opening with illustrations of the right and the wrong way of meeting the inevitable question of the child, "Why Do Babies Come from?" One of the salient points of the picture will be found to reveal truths regarding syphilis, including the dangers of infection and necessity for prompt treatment. It includes also a series of horrible revelations of the outcome of non-treatment of the disease photographed in a hospital in which these cases are isolated. The dangers and indignities to which girls and young women expose themselves through flirtation are illustrated by stories of individual cases which have come before the notice of the author, and which include a number of stories of the soldiers at the cantonments, and revealing the vagrancy of the Y. W. C. A. workers in attempting to restrain and direct the erring girls.

The picture was intended for selective use and exhibition before women and girls. Since its completion, however, there has come a request from the Y. M. C. A. to have it distributed for exhibition throughout the camps at home and abroad, which has been granted.

The fact that the production would gain in appeal by being assembled in a more compact form and by a more dramatically correct arrangement does not erase the fact that it is a production of unlimited usefulness distributed in the proper channels. As it now stands in the telling of the original story, other stories which have no relation to the original story except in similarity of suggestion, or subjects which have been incorporated in a disconnected manner. The way in which it has been arranged does, however, admit of showing the portions without the others which may prove at times to be an advantage.

There are two ways of presenting the lesson that "The End of the Road" proposes to teach. The one to which Miss Davis has resorted follows the idea that a revelation of its consequences may prove a preventive of the evil.

The other would seek to arrive at the same goal by eliminating the evil thought which is father to the deed through glorification of purity and an appeal to the reason and a sense of justice to humanity, which includes also a feeling of social responsibility. Whichever the effect of the presentation of the horrible side of life to the uninitiated youth will be good or not is not yet as yet professed and doubt that neither a careful combination of the two ideas might not have been made to meet all conditions, the furtiveness as well as the untruth is a revelation. MARGARET I. MacDONALD.

"How Life Begins" Is a Record Educational Film

A N example of what can be done with a truly educational film skillfully made and properly exploited is seen in the instance of the biological picture made some years ago by George E. Stone, of Berkeley, Cal. This picture has been in circulation almost constantly for at least two years, during which time it has been in the hands of Mrs. Katherine F. Carter, of the Exhibitors Booking Agency, 220 West 42nd Street, New York City.

At the recent convention of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs, New York City, it was exhibited accompanied by a delightful address by Mrs. Stone, who is a teacher, lecturer and writer. This instance reminded the writer, who was present at the showing, that our readers might be interested in a brief summarizing up of the career of this film which should serve as a precedent for other strictly educational pictures. The following sub-request by Mrs. Katherine F. Carter will no doubt be welcomed:

Ever since the motion picture has been used as a means of entertainment for the great masses of people, there has been much speculation as to what its value would be in the field of education.

"How Life Begins" has solved that problem and has proved theцень the motion picture as an educational medium has come to stay.

During recent years, scientists have come to realize that motion pictures are one of the most powerful means of teaching the young. They not only attract the attention of the pupils, but they also have the advantage of the opportunity offered them of receiving free instruction in English and in the duties and privileges of American citizenship.

The films, which are intended to show clearly what a Governor of the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited at the men in the field of school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of America, particularly to the Great Outdoors, and the United States stands for and what aims to do for its citizens, will be exhibited to the members of night school classes, the films of aliens and the Americans of American land along the Atlantic to a country of millions on millions of free peoples spreading over a continent; the conflict of 1861-65 to preserve the united nation. The years of reconstruction, the development to a world power and the final participation of America in the world war against autocracy.
The Moving Picture World

December 7, 1918

There will be travelogue pictures displaying the splendors of America’s scenery and governmental, industrial, commercial and educational activity. There will be films showing the service rendered the citizens by each of the great federal departments of Reconstruction in working through the screen of, for example, the latest scientific methods of farming; the highest development of industrial machinery, penmanship, letter writing, marketing by mail, through the parcel post, household economy—in brief, the aliens seeking homes in America and a part in this national and community life will be afforded visual representation of the benefits and responsibilities of an American and of the social and business institutions that make up the machinery of daily living. To a considerable extent the audience will be reproduced in the form of the printed pages of the text-book of Americanization written by Raymond F. Crist, deputy commissioner, for the schools of the very audiences who will see the unrolling before their eyes of the drama of a nation.

Nineteen hundred schools throughout the country have expressed already their willingness to cooperate with the Department of Labor in the campaign, and it is estimated that there has been wound up for carrying out the work by David K. Niles, motion picture expert of the Information and Education Service, the Department of Labor. The films will be distributed from 28 centers and will reach practically every American community that has alien inhabitants. The exhibitions will be held in the local motion picture houses of each city and town, provided the school house is not equipped for showing such pictures. The classes will be transferred for the occasion from school house to motion picture theatre, by virtue of the cooperation of local managers and owners of the motion picture industry, without whose cordial assistance, Mr. Niles declares, the inauguration of the campaign on such a magnificent scale would have been impossible.

On Caribbean-Lipped Shores.

This is another Post-Pathe scenic number devoted to the West Indies. It gives further scenes from the life of the Christopher Columbus in 1492, under the impression that he had encircled the globe and reached India. A bull fight, various religious edifices, a native drink known as “The Swiss” and mud volcanoes come in for special treatment. The tropical verdure of the islands is also shown in some striking photographic views.

The Ghost of Slumber Mountain.

A novelty film presented at the Strand Theatre, New York City, during the week of Nov. 17 by Herbert M. Dawley and produced by Willis H. O’Brian will be included among the semi-educational. It opens with a scene showing a couple of children being told a story by their uncle. The story which he tells is then illustrated, and we follow a couple of mountain climbers and their dog up the mountains and over the valleys until they come to Slumber Mountain. There the dream of the dreamer, Mr. "Uncle" takes him to the cabin of Mad Dick, a former resident of the mountain, where he is greeted by the ghost of the dead man. Through the mystic glass in which he sees scenes of prehistoric times. The glass shows him the thunder turtle, the dinosaur, and other prehistoric animals roaming over the earth. This part of the picture was made in the studio with the employment of figures, especially made for the purpose. Considerable success has been met with in this effort, and the idea suggests itself that similar great efforts of this sort might be made after the same principle. "The Ghost of Slumber Mountain" has its faults, the most noticeable one being the failure of the animals to measure up to their backgrounds. In other similar trials faults of this sort could easily be eliminated.

A Mile in the Sky (Ford-Griever).

One of the most remarkable of aeroplane pictures that has been made is that which the Griever Distributing Corporation’s film, "A Mile in the Sky," and is especially fortunate in having been well photographed. We get the sensations of the "nose spin" and the "loop-the-loop" in viewing the former it really seems as if the earth in revolution is being photographed. One of the most interesting features of the picture is the photography of Niagara Falls and river from the aeroplane. This is remarkable and could be used to advantage in schools.

Old New England (Ford-Griever).

This number of the Ford Educational Weekly is divided into three parts, each of which will be sent out by the exchanging plan. Exercises in the history of Boston, Mass., and in making the picture great pains has been taken to cover the subject thoroughly. The scenes are of special interest to the city and also its public buildings and monuments are shown. This picture will be a welcome addition to the ever-increasing number of films which are suitable for school use, and is also guaranteed to entertain a theatre audience partly by reason of its carefully worded subtitles.

Official Review, No. 22 (Pathé).

Another collection of actual views on the various fronts. Big guns being transported, railway workers, soldiers visualizes something often read about in the news dispatches. There is also more than a touch of interest in the fact that the whole film is constructed for information. Transportation of supplies, speeding forward of batteries, views of the motorcycle corps and big tanks are included.

Bruce Returns With Twenty New Ones.

Robert C. Bruce, whose artistic service to both the moving picture industry and the public has placed him among those whose coming and going is watched with more than the ordinary amount of interest, has again returned to the east. Mr. Bruce has been absent on a picture making tour for several months and has spent considerable time in his camera during that time considerable ground, including California, Oregon, Colorado and Idaho. He has brought back with him some fine dramatic pictures and has been busy for the past couple of weeks with the editing of Bruce’s return which was filmed in the John Howie laboratory in Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

These films will be as usual distributed through the Educational Films Corporation of America.

Screen Magazine Resumes Business.

After several weeks of non-releasing the Screen Magazine which was temporarily halted, now announces its intention of returning to the screen December I. This issue (No. 95) contains subjects of interest which are as follows: "The Birth of a yard Poster," in which James Montgomery Flagg is seen making his famous poster subject; "Tell That to the Marines," and "Falling Up to the Long Horns," which lives up to its title and shows us what a group of broncho-hustling cow-punchers can do in the way of a cattle round-up. Other items are an animated interview with Richard E. Enright, a musical revue staged by children, a group of paragraphs from different sources, "Flowers for the Kaiser’s Grave," and an animated clay cartoon by Willie Hopkins, entitled "Made in Germany.

Nelan Under Garson Grant to Direct Pickford Picture.

Special arrangements have been made with Harry Garson, who directs the destinies of Clara Kimball Young and Blanche Sweet, to have their new project directed by James P. Neilan in "Daddy Long Legs," Miss Pickford’s first production under her new contract with the First National. Mr. Neilan has already completed his film "The Unbearable Sin" from the story of that name by Major Rupert Hughes, in which Miss Sweet is being starred, and which picture by the way is a favorite in the Sunday papers. The popular actress back to the screen after more than a year’s absence. Mr. Neilan will direct Miss Pickford in this one picture and Mr. Garson and Mr. Garson have some big iron in the fire for the coming winter, which will result in at least one or two important productions, which will be announced later.

Arrangements have also been made with Mr. Garson, whereby Miss Pickford will occupy Mr. Garson’s part of the Sunset studio and the use of the entire Garson organization intact, including all employees from office help to stage hands.

Mr. Garson found this arrangement dovetailed very well with his plans of coming East to place "The Unbearable Sin" in one of the Broadway Theatres for a run, which project he wishes to see safely launched before starting on the new big production. Mr. Neilan has completed his film and will make and Mr. Garson will then proceed with the plans which have been formulated for the coming season.

Clara Kimball Young, who has just finished what is said to be one of her best pictures, "Cheating Charlie," is also expected in New York within a few days on a flying business trip, and may remain over the holidays.
KANSAS CITY FILM MEN HOLD MEETING

A Luncheon Held at Muehlebach Hotel a Committee Is Appointed to Develop a Plan or Organization

KANSAS CITY amusement men will soon be busy in the organization of an industry which can tackle problems efficiently—and win. The most important meeting of moving picture industry leaders staged at the Muehlebach Hotel Friday noon, November 15. It was the most important, because representatives were the first time from thirty-five local houses, and of “legitimate,” burlesque and vaudeville theatres were present.

And—constituting the meeting features of the occasion—the members of the Kansas Board of Review were present, expressing their desire to join in co-operation.

The meeting was arranged without the explicit purpose of producing an organization. L. D. Balsly and other exchange managers, in conversation with W. B. Tuteur, exhibitor; J. B. Fitz-attrick, manager of the Shubert Theatre, and others, conceived the idea of luncheon leadership's talks to be participated in by all phases of the amusement business. The affair was batted around, and the meeting resulted in the following:

The finest banquet room in Kansas City was engaged and decorated; the orchestra from the Royal Theatre and singers provided music. Seventy men and women attended.

Dr. Sophian Speaks on Epidemics.

W. B. Tuteur presided. The principal speaker was the Rev. Burris A. Jenkins, a popular local pastor, who has spent years in the past in the war zones. Dr. A. Sophian, a physician who was brought to Kansas City three years ago to help fight an infantile paralysis epidemic, explained the cause, rise and fall of epidemics, with particular reference to the influenza. Dr. Sophian pointed out that when an epidemic once starts it is fairly certain that practically everybody is almost immediately exposed—at least after the disease has seemingly gone away. The community must take the only measures that can check its spread are preventive for the individual, such as vaccination, personal cleanliness and proper hygiene of the home. He pointed out the lack of logic and reasonableness in continuing a ban on gatherings, when everybody in the gatherings had undoubtedly already received the infection, and either would get sick or would effectually continue to resist the disease. Dr. Sophian had advised exhibitors and exchanges during the recent epidemic, and it was only because of his expert support of their position in the past that they had proceeded with their suggestions to the board of health with reference to removing the ban on shows.

Film Industry Wants Co-operation.

The introduction of J. B. Fitzpatrick, manager of the Shubert Theatre, was a climax of the session. Mr. Fitzpatrick asked this question: "Why is there this indefinite feeling between the theatrical man and the picture man?" He said there shouldn't be such a line, and declared that this feeling of shortcoming. "Let us co-operate—let us get together as one man, so that if there is need to present a case we can go as one man and get something," he urged.

L. D. Balsly, manager of the Metro-office at Kansas City, spoke for the exchange men, pointing out that the present condition of amusement enterprises. "Theatricals and moving picture enterprises are more tampered with by ill-aimed public officials than any other," he said. He referred to the new "loyal support of all war enterprises—and of local projects by amusement men, referring especially to the Four-Minute Men of the theatre and picture industry that is involved in the many drives. He suggested that the moving picture industry would provide an important field for the exchange men, particularly the jobs for operators.

Censor Board Strives to Strengthen.

Mrs. J. M. Miller, chairman of the Kansas state board of review, declared that while the board was generally supposed to be antagonistic to moving picture enterprises, the fact was that the board deeply appreciated the helpful counsel of the board and urged "We try to kill, but to strengthen," she said. She commended the spirit of cooperation—and declared that the board wanted to cooperate and bring about closer co-operation in the industry.

William Flynn, of Richards & Flynn, owning two local houses, declared that as a member of the city council, he had tried faithfully to serve the public and that every effort was made to protect the community from any individual that would seem to be hurting somebody or other and that criticism would result. M. Lehman, manager of the Orpheum, said that as much as he appreciated the theatre and moving picture business would not have been discriminated against if an organization had been on the job to foresee and plan proper presentation of facts. George Gallagher, manager of the Gayety, burlesque, urged a big continuing organizing of amusement interests.

Plans Organization.

Charles W. Harden, manager of the Equitable Film Corporation, brought the discussion to a definite point by suggesting a result of his motion, Chairman Tuteur appointed the following committee to develop a plan of organization, and report at a later meeting: J. B. Sophian, manager of the Royal and Regent theatres; George W. Curtis, manager Doric Theatre; Charles W. Harden, manager Equitable Film Corporation; L. D. Balsly, manager Metro; Martin Lehman, manager Orpheum Theatre; J. B. Fitzpatrick, manager Shubert Theatre.

Cambria County Exhibitors Organize.

The "flu" epidemic and resultant closing order in Pennsylvania had no good effect, at least. It has resulted in the Cambria Exhibitors of Johnstown and Cambria county getting together for the first time.

During the epidemic showed in all branches of the business met to go over the "flu" situation, and decided to effect a permanent organization. H. W. Shubert, manager of the Shubert Theatre, organizating the Cambria, legitimate, and the New Park, motion pictures, was made president in recognition of his position as the oldest showman in the county. H. H. Gardner, of the Lyric theatre, Merrelville, a neighborhood house, was made vice president. L. W. Barday, advertising manager of the Grand Amusement Company, controlling the Nemo, Parkview, Grand and Victoria, was elected secretary and treasurer. An effort will be made to get every exhibitor in the county into the organization.

People We Have Met Recently.

Lionel Belmore, who was for several years a Vitagraph director, is playing with "The Masqueraders." He has just returned from Australia with this company. "The Masqueraders" was presented at Melbourne and Sydney for eighteen weeks, with Guy Bates Post in the lead. Under the management of L. & N. Tait.

Henry Davenport, an old time member of the Vitagraph players, is with Tom Wise in "Three Wise Fools," playing on Broadway.

Albert Roccoardi, formerly of the Vitagraph stock, is now one of the casts of Eyes of Youth.

George Proctor, of the Pathé and World scenario departments, is temporarily employed in the dramatic department of the New York Evening Journal.

A. C. Cadwell, cameraman for Will Rogers in the production of "Laughing Bill Hyde," is in New York City after a long sojourn in Los Angeles and vicinity.

Fred Held, who has been a cameraman since motion pictures started and was with the Vitagraph for many years, has returned from the motion picture industry located in New York. He has just finished several productions for Educational Films.

Mark S. Nathan, of Wilmington, N. C., is Manhattan salesman for American Films, distributed through the Pathé Exchange, Inc. Mr. Nathan was for several years in mercantile business in Wilmington.

T. M. Alexander of the Fuel Administration department of Washington, was in New York City last week on official business. Mr. Alexander was for some time connected with propaganda pictures.

Paul P. Perry is now on his way back to the Famous Players-Lasky studio at Hollywood, Cal., after having photographed "Good Gracious Annabelle," a forthcoming Billy Burke feature from the play by Claire Kummer.

Fox Directors Change Stars.

Within the resignation of activities in the William Fox studios at Hollywood, changes were made in the assignment of directors. Gladys Brockwell, who has just begun work on a production temporarily titled "The Framers," is now working under Lynn Reynolds. Tats Cox is about to start work on a new picture, "The Wilderness Trail," under the direction of Edward J. LeSaint, who has directed Miss Brockwell for some time.

Better opportunities are offered in The World's Classified advertising than in any other medium known where large ranges have been supplied by small advertisements. Think it over and then "give it a try."
A SIGNIFICANT deal was closed November 20, when a long time running dispute was settled between the Robertson-Cole Company, the Exhibitors Mutual Distributing Corporation and the Affiliated Distributors' Corporation. The officials of the two corporations who have been in conference in New York since Monday with Walter Hoff, director of the department of motion pictures of the Robertson-Cole Company, are William J. Clark, H. A. Brink, James M. Sheldon, H. C. Cornell and Charles C. Pettijohn.

The Robertson-Cole Company is a banking institution, and was one of the country's important exporting organizations before it became interested in the handling of pictures. Finding a steadily growing demand for American films in every part of the globe, they entered the motion picture business. At first they were interested in film solely for export. Realizing that in order to secure a good play at home productions for the world market they must also control the same pictures for this country, a domestic department was organized. First Robertson-Cole has been applying established business methods to the exploitation of their film products.

Recent its entrance into the field of motion pictures Robertson-Cole has steadily demonstrated that it intends doing things differently. By the terms of the contract Robertson-Cole will furnish all the pictures for the Exhibitors' Mutual Distributing Corporation. The company is in full operation in two out of six exchanges in the United States and three in Canada, which guarantees a remarkable and consistent distribution.

Company Acts as Banker and Agent.

"The Robertson-Cole Company is not going into the producing or distributing business," said Walter Hoff, secretary of the department of motion pictures of the Robertson-Cole Company. "It is determined to act solely as banker and exclusive agent for manufacturers of high grade pictures who are worthy of the support and cooperation which Robertson-Cole Company is able to offer through this organization and offices throughout the world. We have made a contract with the Mutual and a contract with the Affiliated, because we believe we represent the best thought in the industry, and have the most comprehensive plan of distribution and operation.

"The Mutual and Affiliated have been equally complimentary to Robertson-Cole and have, therefore, expressed their satisfaction at dealing with the Mutual and the Affiliated because it is a policy always to make sure that pictures of approved merit; and the only way to insure this is to control the entire program. It also signifies that there is no hysteria or peculiar opinion about the organization of these plans. They are based solely on business ideas which have their foundation in extreme conservatism."

By the terms of the contract the Affiliated Distributors' Corporation, which is owned and controlled by exhibitors, will maintain a committee, which represents them in contracts purchased by Robertson-Cole those best suited and adapted to be marketed as distinct affiliated releases.

Will Supply One Feature Weekly.

The Robertson-Cole Company is now prepared to furnish to the exchanges of the Exhibitors' Mutual Distributing Corporation at least one feature a week. It has acquired control of the world's rights to the series of de luxe features starring Billie Rhodes, of which eight will be produced in the next twelve months; eight with Henry B. Walthall, eight William Desmond productions, eight features starring Bebe Barrera, eight with Sessue Hayakawa, besides Martin Johnson's remarkable feature, "Cannibals of the South Seas." News of the transaction by Robertson-Cole control the rights to the Barrie and Hayakawa pictures to fight last week.

Several other contracts of significance to the exhibitor are now pending, including the release of a number of super-features. One of these, announcement of which is authorized by Robertson-Cole, is Hallie Erminie Rives' story "Long Lane's Turning," which the National Pictures are producing with Henry B. Walthall in the stellar role.

Robertson-Cole announces that the deal will not affect its foreign business, which will be handled as heretofore along the lines which made the organization one of the biggest factors in the world's general exporting trade. In connection with the announcement of the new deal by Robertson-Cole, corroborating statements have been issued by officials of the other corporations interested, James W. Smiley, chairman of the board of directors of the Exhibitors' Mutual Distributing Corporation; William J. Clark, president of the Exhibitors' Mutual Distributing Corporation, and the Affiliated Distributors' Corporation; and John A. Brink, secretary and treasurer; and H. C. Cornellus, vice-president.

Charles Christie Is Cheerful.

Charles Christie, who is the business end of the Christie family in the Moving Picture World office the other day radiating optimism. He said that the progress his company was making was gratifying, and that the plans his company had adopted for the disposition of its product had proved so productive of profits that there was no disposition for any change therein. Mr. Christie made several stops on his way to New York, which resulted in increased bookings for Christie Comedies. This and some of the prospects gathered here since his arrival undoubtedly accounted for his cheerfulness.

Canadians Take Steps to Have Reel Tax Revised.

TIE Motion Picture Exhibitors' Protective Association of Ontario, with headquarters in Toronto, has made its first definite step in the direction of securing a revision of the present fifteen cents a reel a day tax imposed by the Dominion Government on all motion pictures produced or used in Canada.

Secretary Thomas Scott recently made a trip to Ottawa as the official representative of the association to interview high government officials regarding the tax which hinders our small exhibitors. Since that time Mr. Scott has received encouraging letters from both Sir Robert Borden, Prime Minister of Canada, and the department of inland revenue.

Mr. Scott declared that he has received assurances that the tax will receive special consideration at the next session of the Canadian Parliament. The latter will convene early in January.

Complaints have been received from many parts of Canada regarding the injustice of the Canadian reel tax. Many small exhibitors have suggested that the tax, instead of being required to pay as much as the big theatres in large cities.

Would Duplicate Tax on Tickets.

"Ridiculous" is the expression used by Secretary Scott in reference to a suggestion by Finance Commissioner Brashaw, of the City of Toronto, that the tax be graded so that the small exhibitors will only recently that the tax on high-priced tickets was materially increased. CommissioneBrashaw now believes that the small exhibitors will be subjected to an added tax a year by the imposition of a special tax on tickets amounting to one or two cents on each ticket.

The civic legislation committee was supposed to have met on three different occasions recently to consider the proposal, but only one or two members of the committee have attended, and the meetings have had to be postponed. It is hinted that the members of the committee are liying off a portion of their time in civic elections. They do not wish to incur the wrath of local exhibitors just before election time.

The Provincial Legislature also meets in January, before which time the city is supposed to have its drafts of proposed legislation ready for approval by the Ontario Government.
TEN THOUSAND AMEXES SEE BILL HART
How George Balsdon Traveled 200 Miles to Provide Hurry-Up Entertainment for Soldiers

OLD BILL HART, who sneers into the apertures of six-shooters which he fills up, and rounds on him by bad, bad guys, here goes on record as having played to the largest audience to witness a motion picture in France. Which the same is some record, when one considers that on an average 2,500,000 Americans, soldiers, marines, sailors, laborers and other war workers in France witnessed the Y. M. C. A. and K. of C. movies each week; a considerable record for "Bill," who played to 10,000 at one run!

Here's the scenario: A General, anxious to have entertainment provided for several thousands of new troops just arrived at a concentration camp in the south of France, called his chaplains and demanded suggestions. "Movies," they chorused. The general asked where they obtained them and they again chorused "From the Y. M. C. A. in Paris." So the general urged them to it. A chaplain sped to Paris and sought George Balsdon. Almost everyone in the "movie" game knows George. Almost everyone knows that when George starts anything he never stops until he finishes it.

George listened to the chaplain's story and put on his cap. "Let's go," he remarked in words of one syllable, quoting a noted strategist. He loaded a generator, a projector and a few reels of "Bill" Hart's choicest scenes into a camionette, which had been turned into a studio and twice acclaimed. He drove nearly two hundred miles without any trouble except a couple of flat tires, a carburetor that kept displaying a mean temper and a brake that worked only when coaxed, and reached his destination at half past 8 o'clock that night.

"Just in time for a show," gloated the chaplain. George groaned, having hoped for a night's rest first. However, he asked for the best place to set up.

Place Screen Across Hotel.

The town square was the place. The screen was stretched right across the front of the leading hotel and the generator up on an idle wagon and fixed the projector on the camionette's trailer. Meantime a few trusty soldiers circulated with the glad tidings of "movies." At 9 o'clock everything was ready and ten minutes later the town square was filled with soldiers that a fat man couldn't have squeezed in without the aid of a crowbar. Other spectators hung out of windows around the square. Fully forty exciters climbed all over the camionette.

"Ten thousand in this crowd," estimated the chaplain, who was good at figures, and his fellow officers agreed. "Fair enough," said George Balsdon, fighting his way back and forth between generator and projector. He had discovered who could operate the projecting machine, so there was never a hitch as "Bill" Hart rode, sneered, rounded on the bad guys and finally permitted the adoring heroine to hurl herself into his arms.

The record crowd went wild with joy and declared the Y. M. C. A. and the K. of C. would have to project a lot more film before they ever entertained a larger audience of Americans at one showing. Still audiences ranging from this size down to a hundred soldiers make up those which weekly enjoy the film shown by the Y. M. C. A. and the K. of C. in France. A. H. GURNEY.

June Elvidge Marries
Canadian Soldier Hero

JUNE ELVIDGE, who has appeared for some time in World Pictures Pictures, Inc., is attracting considerable attention in Canada. Miss June Elvidge was married last Tuesday, November 19, to Lieutenant Fran C. Badgley by Magistrate Peter T. Barlow. The bride, who has been playing in pictures for the past three years, was born in St. Paul, Minn. Her first professional work was concert singing. Then she came to New York and appeared in "The Passing Show of 1914" at the Winter Garden, after which she joined the World Pictures Company.

Lieutenant Badgley was in the first Canadian Expeditionary Forces which went overseas in 1914 and was a member of the field artillery. He remained on the Western front until December, 1916, when he was wounded, having won the military cross for bravery at Courcellette in the meantime. He was invalided home and later was placed in charge of the photographic section of the British Bureau of Information.

Mr. and Mrs. Badgley are spending their honeymoon at the Badgley home in Ottawa, Can.

Salt Lake City Operators
Demand Increase in Salary

DEMANDS for an increased salary schedule are made upon the Salt Lake City picture theatre managers by the Salt Lake Moving Picture Machine Operators' local No. 259 in a new contract submitted recently. The regular operators are seeking an increase of $5 a week. Under the new contract they ask $35 for a week, or $7 a day for anything less than six days' work. For relief operators they ask 70 cents an hour and for overtime $1 an hour.

The operators have been receiving $30 a week of seven days. Now they demand $35 for a week of six days. Seven hours will constitute a day's work under the contract terms and overtime is described as time put in after 11 p.m. or before the regular opening of performances.

It is proposed that the new contract shall be binding until December 1, 1919. A meeting of the Salt Lake City theatre managers has been called by George E. Carpenter, manager of the Paramount Empress Theatre, to consider the terms of the contract, which has received the indorsement of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, with which the motion picture operators' local is affiliated.

Katterjohn Headquarters
To Be in Los Angeles

THE announcement of the formation of Katterjohn Films to produce a number of special productions during the coming year has caused numerous inquiries from state rights buyers evidencing the interest created by the announcement. However considerable competition has developed among those operating state rights exchanges anxious to secure the Katterjohn Films for that territory, and an invitation has been received to establish a studio in the Colorado city. Similar interest has been aroused among exchanges in the south.

San Francisco has come forward with an offer of a studio site, and an especially attractive proposition, was made by Mr. Katterjohn to fully determine, however, to produce his pictures in Los Angeles.

Bebe Daniels Drives Four Nails.

The Rolin "family" told Bebe Daniels she could not drive a nail straight, but she did—drove four of them straight and true when she posted the studio sign for the Motion Picture War Service Association.

The little leading woman of the Harold Lloyd comedies has taken an active part in Liberty Bond campaigns, Red Cross, Red Star and many other branches of war work.

June Elvidge.

Bebe Contemplating a Driving Job.
Eastman Company Ready for Business Expansion

The Eastman Kodak Company at Rochester, N. Y., is ready for the period of reconstruction that is to follow the war. It is making all of the raw materials which before hostilities it purchased from Germany. Instead of cutting down the number of employees the company is preparing to add to the size of the plant and to furnish work for at least 500 additional persons as fast as that number are available. This information is given out by George Eastman, in response to a question regarding business and financial conditions following the war.

Beginning about four years ago, the industries of the country have increasingly devoted themselves to producing war materials, and for the last year practically everything has been subordinated to war work," said Mr. Eastman. Rochester's largest employer, "During these years replacements have been postponed, improvements have ceased and stocks of merchandise have been depleted.

"Why, then, should there be a business recession at this time?" asked the editor. "If there is a depression it can come only from lack of confidence and lack of skill in readjustment from war to peace work. If rightly directed there ought to be work for everybody, including soldiers and those who have entered industry and want to stay."

"If the Kodak Company can maintain supplies of raw materials we have work for all of our present employees, and as soon as we can obtain additional supplies, which we believe will be forthcoming very soon, we can find work for at least 500 more."

"Our engineering force is already at work on plans for a number of new buildings, including one which will quadruple our production of gelatine, a material we formerly purchased from Germany. In this connection I may say that the Kodak Company is making practically all of the raw material it formerly purchased from Germany.

"Plans have already been approved for the erection of an immense gelatine plant by the Eastman Company on its property in Dewey avenue. The building will be 400 by 600 feet, with a three-story center and two main floor wings. Kodak Park and the lands adjacent to it, which the company owns, are humming with activity that promises to increase during the next few months. A large overflow office building will rise on the Ridge road to house many of the offices now laboring in the cramped quarters of the main office of the plant.

A big warehouse is partly completed and a great film storage building is now being finished for use. The material aspects of things at Kodak Park promise the prosperity which Mr. Eastman says will follow the conclusion of peace.

Gaby Deslys Heads Pathé for December's Opening

The Pathé program for the week of December 10 is especially strong, being headed by the six-reel special feature, "Infatuation," starring Gaby Deslys, with Harry Piker. It is a charming rendition of Marcel L'Hermier's romance, directed by Louis Mercanton and produced by the Eclipse Film Company of France. It is both romance and big spectacle, and great masses of brilliant costumes are handled to advantage in the scenes taken in Casino de Paris.

"Milady o ' the Beaustak," starring Baby Marie Osborne, is a Pathé program feature which shows the little favorite at her best, the story being a commingling of fairy tale of youth and of hard realities of maturity. It is equally strong in its appeal to both kiddies and grown-ups.

Harold Lloyd, Rolin comedy star, disports himself in a series of laugh acrobatics in "Hear 'Em Rave." And the spectator in witnessing the attitude of some of the characters, realizes just what a blessing the silent drama is on such an occasion the nimble Harold has 'em all ranging.

The eighth episode of "Wolves of Kultur," with Leah Baird and Sheldon Lewis, is called "In the Hands of the Hun." It has high tension and many thrills.

The Post Travel Series No. 21 affords an interesting insight into life in Java and Malay Archipelago; while the Official War Review No. 23 gives a comprehensive view of the incidents and action along the far flung battle line of the triumphant allies.

November 24 Attractions at New York Theatres

RIVOLL—Enrico Caruso, the famous tenor, made his screen debut at the Rivoli in "My Cousin," written by Margaret Turnbull. Carolina White, the noted soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, heads the support. Robert C. Bruce scenic called "A Wee Bit Odd," the Rivoli Animated Pictorial, and Mack Sennett's extravaganzas, "Who's Little Wife Are You," were also shown. Vincent Ballester and Anna Rosner were the soloists.

RIALTO—Pauline Frederick in Alicia Ramsaye and Rudolph de Cordova's stock story, "A Daughter of the Old South," a Paramount production, was the screen star at the Rialto. Pedro de Cordoba and Vera Beresford are members of the cast. The Animated Magazine, a Sunshine comedy called "Monteels," and a travel picture of Java completed the program. The soloists were, The Rialto Male Quartette and Sascha Feldman.

STRAND—Geraldine Farrar in the Goldwyn picture, "The Hell Cat," the first wester with the star, appeared on the screen for the first time ever appeared on the screen, was the chief attraction on the Strand program. Another comedy entitled "A Straight Crook," was also on the program. The Strand Quartette and Malita Bonconi furnished the special musical features.

EIGHTY-FIRST STREET.—First half, Julia Arthur in "The Cavell Case. Latter half, Mildred Harris in " Borrowed Clothes."

BROADWAY—Second week of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Chaplin, "Shoulder Arms" and "Borrowed Clothes" remained the pictures. "After the War" is announced as the attraction at this theatre starting December 1.

If you could rent your theatre you might move to that other town where you believe you will fit into community life less like a square peg in a round hole. Try the World's Classified Advertising. The man you may deal with may possibly be waiting to see your offer.
CIVIL WAR PLAY HISTORY MAY REPEAT

If It Does, the Best Screen Drama of the Great Conflict Will Not Appear in the Present Decade

LEE KUGEL, publicity producer for the Moving Picture World, the other day and proceeded to ask a question.

"Any of you boys alive at the close of the Civil War?" He was looking straight at Tony, the office-boy, then he spoke; so Tony shook his head and answered, "No, sir."

"Neither was I," said Lee; "but I advise one of you to look up the Civil War crop of plays. Their history should be interesting reading for the men in the film game. The war closed, you now, in '65, and they were grinding out war plays as late as '89. 'The Drummer Boy' was produced in '90, and the 'Loyal League,' for Fair Virginia, and 'The Heart of Maryland' were among the winners that held the boards, season after season, and set new standard for the American drama. The crop of war plays that will result from the Great Conflict just closed will be spread over as many years and will show the marked improvement in technique and depth of thought as time brings a leader to the front."

Lee then turned his attention to the best man on the staff and proceeded to interview him.

"How old are you, Old-Timer?"

"Old enough to remember the close of the Civil War," was the reply.

"What about the war plays then?"

War Plays Were Crude Affairs.

"This was long before the days of the traveling combination, but the stock companies around the country all produced war plays. Crude affairs, all of them, but full of patriotic fervor and early support of the Union. One of the favorites was called 'The Drummer Boy,' which was the first theatrical performance ever witnessed, and I have a vivid recollection of the scene in Libby Prison, where the drummer boy reached over the dead line and picked up a piece of bread and was shot by the guard. I remember how hard I cried when his big brother, also a prisoner, held him in his arms and received these last messages to the folks at home."

"How long did the stock companies continue to put on this class of dramas?"

"Not intended by the public as being war plays, but they were kept before the public by a number of one-man organizations, ex-soldiers mostly, who traveled around the country and produced war plays of their own manufacture with local amateurs, recruited largely from the G. A. R. posts. The first really successful Civil War play was 'William Gillette's Held by the Enemy,' produced in 1886. This was followed by the same author's even more successful 'Secret Service.' It had the long runs in New York, you remember, and one in London."

The latter information was a well-thumbed page out of Lee's own history of the drama.

Best War Pictures Will Come Later.

Said he: "Bronson Howard's Shanandoah, produced in 1889, and Belasco's 'The Heart of Maryland' brought out at the Herald Square Theatre in 1895, both gave 'Secret Service' a close run for first money. Thomas Dixon's profits from the picture, 'The Birth of a Nation,' had a counterpart in the easy money made by Uncle Dick Hooley, manager of Hooley's Theatre, Chicago, out of 'Forty-Thieves.' Just before Charles Frohman produced the play at the Twenty-third Street Theatre he was in need of a little ready cash, so, when he met Uncle Dick on Broadway, he persuaded him to buy a third interest in the play for fifteen hundred dollars. Uncle Dick did it more as a matter of accommodation and because he liked Frohman. Nice tidy interest he got on his money."

"Just how do you think the film manufacture can profit by the experience of the Civil War play?" Lee was asked.

"The moving picture histories of the great battles and the interesting side-lights on actual events connected with the war and the after-effects in the near future will have first call for some time to come. Screen fiction dealing with the 1914-18 struggle for world freedom will repeat the history of the Civil War play: its finest examples will not be produced in the present decade."

WEITZEL.

Henley Signs Long Contract to Direct Goldwyn Pictures

SAMUEL GOLDFISH, president of Goldwyn Pictures, has made public the fact that Henley has signed a long-term renewal of his contract to direct the productions of various Goldwyn stars. His first assignment will be with Bill Marsh and shortly to make her bow in her big Goldwyn star series productions.

Though Mr. Henley is the youngest Goldwyn director in point of years, he is the senior in point of service. He has successfully directed six Goldwyn productions—four starring Miss Marsh and two written by Rex Beach.

Mr. Henley's service at Fort Lee began with the making of Mac Marsh's "The Face in the Dark." In his first production, the story of which was written by L. S. Cobb, Mr. Goldfish was delighted to find a certain indefinable quality he knew existed in Mac Marsh but which had not heretofore been particularly evidenced on Henley's stage. It justified his belief in Miss Marsh and in her new director.

Mr. Henley's first success was followed rapidly by three other Goldwyn productions that immediately became box-office successes. These were "All Woman," "The Glorious Adventure," and "Money Mad."

Mr. Henley's directorial skill was even better evidenced in his next production, the Rex Beach story called "Laughing Bill Hyde," featuring Will Rogers, famous cowboy monologist of the stage. Wisecakes shook their heads when Mr. Goldfish and Mr. Beach announced that Rogers had been engaged for the leading role in this picture. They said nobody could be found who could transmit the unique Rogers personality to the silver sheet. They said Rogers was a world-beater with his pate, but that, arrived at of '18, he could be no better than ordinary. And Hobart Henley stepped right in and fooled everybody.

The critics of the country have yet to pass judgment on the Rex Beach effort, a Goldwyn production of Rex Beach's unpublished story, "Too Fat to Fight," in which Frank McIntyre has the leading role.

"I regard Hobart Henley as one of the most able directors," says Mr. Goldfish.

Famous Players Take "Little Women."

The Famous Players-Lasky Corporation has purchased the William A. Brady production, "Little Women," which delighted capacity audiences at the Strand Theatre during the week of November 10. It will be released through the Famous Players-Lasky exchanges as a Paramount-Artcraft Special probably in January.

Dolores Cassinelli.

A. C. Bromberg, Vice-President and General Manager, Southeastern Pictures Corporation.
Some Sub-Titles for Pictures

That Never Were Presented.

Atlanta Alive with Union Soldiers as Sherman Starts His March.

Thorns Revertently Listen While President Lincoln Speaks.

Some Sub-Title for Pictures

the Screen Will Soon Show.

460 Warships of the Allies are in Line to Accept Surrender of Germany’s Fleet.

46 Submarines and 22 Warships Enter English Harbor and Unconditionally Surrender.

General Pershing Calls Upon the Duchess of Luxembourg While American Troops Hařt.

American Army in Battle Array Marches to the Ithine in Task of Occupation.

S

HOW this to your local editor, Mr. Exhibitor, and ask him to write an editorial on the importance of motion pictures to your community. He is apt to welcome the text for an editorial. It will give him a chance to develop his own ideas on how great a debt the world owes to the camera and the screen.

How would you like to have first run on a news-weekly showing George Washington crossing the Delaware? Or Woodrow Wilson addressing the Rulers of the World at the Peace Conference?

The exhibitor of moving pictures is one of the most vital factors in community advancement. He will only realize it and run his theatre accordingly.

Give it a couple of thinks.

Sohal!

— w s —

Making Us Do Press Work

Dear Rambler: I dare you to tell why I know my holding up to belong to a motion picture director. Sincerely,

— w s —

Because of his megaphone bill.

Mr. and Mr. John Wild announces the arrival of Eileen Gertrude on November 19. She’s a Wild baby; not a wild woman.

His Face for His Film Fortune.

Ambassador Walter Hines Page, in the Carroll & Herbert-Julia Arthur picture—home of the unfortunate English nurse. Edith Cavell, is played by Frederick Melville, who found his way into the picture because of his physical and facial structure. Mr. Melville has long been known to the varieties and music halls at home and abroad through his management of Molierton, the queen of mechanical acts.

— w s —

“Why the Bolsheviki?” (General Film). Here’s the answer:

The Germans are ignorant of the hero’s loyalty to his country, send him to Germany. There he succeeds in killing the Crown Prince and himself with high explosives. He thus dies true to the principles of democracy.—From a professional criticism of “The Kaiser’s Finish.”

Publicist Expresses Surprise that Theatre Seating Are Comfortable.

MISS NEWBURY-HERSCIGE is a most remarkable young person. In company with a girl chum, she approached the Fashion box office and ostentatiously waited on the line, purchased two orchestra tickets and made her way into the theatre. After a delay an usher succeeded in locating two seats quite a distance from the screen and considerably to one side.

The all-observing publicity man, ascertaining that there were two logo seats vacant, deferentially suggested that the girls occupy them as guests of Mr. Rothschild. Imagine his surprise when the screen queen thanked him sweetly, but insisted that she was quite comfortable where she was.—W W.

— w s —

Worry not. The shortage will soon be made up, despite the lay-off.

— w s —

We Always Like a Bit of Verse.

Please don’t mention that the writer is associated with the Nicholas Power Company, but the spasms indulged in by your “fly poets” suggest this out of the dim and misty past:

“A fly and a sea in a flute Were imprisoned; so what could they do? Said the fly, ‘let us flee’; Said the Sea, ‘let us fly!’ So they flew through a flaw in the flute.”

— O. Warren Landon.

— w s —

Freddie Schader’s familiarity with German and other languages makes him a most competent authority that “uber alles,” which means over all, is the word to use for “alles uber,” so far as the Hun boast may be concerned.

— w s —

Two Close-Ups by Lee Kugel.

JOHNNIE HINES, noted for his affection for the dollar sign, is back in New York with this famous Stutz. He modestly acknowledges that he started out to tour Pennsylvania with three gallons of gas and returned home with a half gallon left in his tank (gasoline).

Johnnie averns that the most welcome news to him coincidental with that of peace was that resumption of salaries would take place with the renewal of studio work at Fort Lee.

Carlville Blackwell, after being fined $25 for infringing on certain speed regulations in Vogue on the highways of New York and environs, has spent the last two days motoring past the cop who made the arrest. In a small-like pace. Another way to get partner.

— w s —

Settling a Dispute in Advance.

A. D. V. Storey, publicity manager for the William Fox circuit of theatres, gets credit for being the first to advertise Mrs. Charles Chaplin in association with representations of “Judy Harris” in “Borrowed Clothes.” Three hours after the papers brought this news that Miss Harris and Mr. Chaplin had merged into matrimony, special slides were displayed in all the Fox theatres announcing Mrs. Chaplin as being none other than the Mildred Harris who was due upon the Fox screens immediately. Special strips were printed and posted on the regular paper issued for “Borrowed Clothes.”
We Present Important Item of News in Film Society.

THE following is a verbatim report of a series of speeches that occurred at the offices of the Arrow Film Corporation on Tuesday: A boy enters and bawls out: "Edith Baum." Miss Baum is the genial stenog and assistant bookkeeper of the Arrow Film Corporation, but the boy betrays no emotion over the news. "What's the C. O. D. for?" says Dave, the office messenger. "It's a hitchen' ring," answered the messenger.

And Miss Baum opened the package and there was revealed a wedding ring.

The 60 cents was for an inscription, which read "I L. to E. B., November 17, 1918."

When Miss Baum returned, David with much ado and without malice aforethought, kissed her on the cheek and said: "I congratulate you!" and showed her the ring. The cat was out of the bag, and she confessed that on the previous Sunday her showman's knot was tied and she became the lawfully wedded wife of one Irving Levy.

When representatives of the various daily newspapers, as well as of the Associated Press and the National News, called to interview Miss Baum she was asked: "Are you still going to stick to the "Arrow Film" and the motion picture business?"

And she replied: "I committed bigamy; I'm a film showman's widow. I'll stick to the "Arrow Film.""

She said she was married last month at the hotel on the house at one of the presentations, a good joke has been fastened on Bill Herschberg, the Jubilee Theatre, Forty-third street. Bill was out in the lobby talking to a friend.

"Why there was only a thousand people in the lobby alone," said the friend to Bill. "Are you crazy, replied Bill. "Why, man, there must be over a thousand people in the Chicago Correspondent of a Trade Paper.

"Hold a dollar too close to your eyes and you lose sight of the sun,"—Watterson Rothacker.

Likewise showmen frequently lose sight of the country's biggest dollar, that is lying flat, just beyond the dollar.

Rambles Round Filmtown.

Fooling the Fool Editors.

PRESS agents of thirty-two of the foremost producers were scattered along Broadway in front of as many cinemas afternoon and evening making publicity for the celebration. Taking flash-light pictures of the jubilee crowds.

From the pictures taken electors will be made for use in publicity work, the results to be bear snappy captions, such as: "Broadway was deserted by crowds attracted to the Strivalto Theatre when this tremendous package featured a special Saturday matinee." Monday afternoon and evening, November 11," etc., etc., ad lib.

I have this to be so, for a certain "hard boiled egg" declined to "fall" for the publication of one of the flash-light's.

Famous Men's Familiar Sayings.

"A lot of damn fools get together and talk about something!"—W. S. Zyl.

Joe Miller Comes Back as Bill Herschberg.

REGARDING the number of people in the house at one of the presentations, a good joke has been fastened on Bill Herschberg, the Jubilee Theatre, Forty-third street. Bill was out in the lobby talking to a friend.

"Why there was only a thousand people in the lobby alone," said the friend to Bill. "Are you crazy, replied Bill. "Why, man, there must be over a thousand people in the Chicago Correspondent of a Trade Paper.

Wade Knew Him When.

JOHN P. WADE, who plays John Craig in J. Stuart Blackton's "Safe Democracy," confesses that in the early days when real actors put little faith in the "clickers" and only lost their dignity long enough to make a few dollars to tide them over until they could pursue art for art's sake on the stage, he was induced to play a few sections of the productions produced by an old and well-remembered company for the remuneration of $20 a day.

Here's the point: An "extra" who carried a spear in the same picture went today to one of the finely produced in the business. The extra had faith and stuck to his own work, and he can't count so much fame and money today as 'tong can.

If You Can Get What He Meant.

NPLUENZA Cases 97 was a bulletin displayed in the Queen Theatre, San Antonio, by Manager William Pullitzer, who was co-operating with the Board of Health.

This sign puzzled certain Mexicans who were among the audience.

"Señor, that is a long serial, 51 instalments. We fear we will not be here to end it. Quier sabe?" politely remarked one Mexican movie fan to Manager Pullitzer after the performance.

Don't You LOVE This Line of Bunk?

THOSE who read between the lines of the Theatre and show business will realize the importance of the announcement.

"It is a distinct step toward eliminating haphazard and confusing business. The new organization will establish the country's fifth biggest industry upon a same basis as when Mr. O. U. President said: (Here proceed to write against space. It'll help the scrapbook—if you get it all printed).

Julius Singer Has Proof That Friendship Is a Valuable Asset When It Comes to the Film Business.

J. DUNBAR, manager of the Princess Theatre, Jersey City, N. J., has a genius for showmanship. Aside from knowing how to run a show, he also knows how to restrain himself under the trying circumstances thatury that he is a houseful of people waiting to see where he has promised. Here is Manager Dunbar's report to Julius Singer when matters took an exasperating turn yesterday:

"Leaving all jokes aside you sent me a comedy film; a roll of tape that you seemed anxious to have called "The Test." It may mean that you are right. Far be it from me to make a jest of it, but I must make a little bit of junk. The thing has no name to tell what it is, so I guessed it was right because "The Test" of trying to use it is some "teat," believe me.

"Trying to run it was the only way we had to find out what it might be; but whatever it is the ding basted thing isn't half there and what there is of it is so badly assembled that the lens was cock-eyed showing it. A man going out said it was rotten if true, which I understand, Julius, "rotten"—I wonder what that means? However, my beautiful 1-0-theatres won't stand any more such tape.

"I am now going to tell you a secret. One of my machines has a little lick on itself; but this is really and truly the first time it ever refused to run a reel of film, as true as it may be. Sitting here writing to you, it kicked up a row and refused to run until we fed it some good dog's, and then you think of that? Now if I were you I'd make up this set of tape and overlays it to your best ability. Yes, it is surely a good binder of friendship."

Three Pionies of Three Star Brandy.

Roland Burke Hennessy, editor and writer on theatrical topics, has done it again. On Friday evening, his third offspring, already named Cecile, arrived at the New Rochelle Hospital.

Congratulations are pouring in on Mr. Hennessy, many of them referring to the new addition's first birthday.

Mr. Hennessy's jubilation yesterday was unlike that of his first two—due to the story being told by Henry Clay. The fact that he was the father of three lusty offspring induced him to write and celebrate, and, in the course of his revel, he arrived at the Friars' grill room.

"Nobody have any "suck"," shouted Mr. Hennessy. "I'm the father of three—think of it. Have another drink. No race aside in my family. Guess I'm going some. No slander about me."

"Don't see why you are making such a fuss about yourself," declared one of the crowd. "It strikes me that the mother of those babies is entitled to most of the credit. Here's what she went through, the anguish and the suffering. Where do you come in?"

"Well," replied Hennessy, "I gave her the idea, didn't I?"—Rennold Wolf's Sunday Telegraphing.
General Film to Release Red Cross Christmas Films

One of the most elaborate and thrilling of all single-reel novelty production, "The Greatest Gift," just announced for free distribution by the American Red Cross Bureau of Pictures. This film is to be used in the same manner that the Liberty loan films provided by the motion picture industry were used in the recent Liberty Loan drive—that is to say, in the theatres of the country. It is offered to all theatres in the United States free of charge in showing in behalf of the great forthcoming Red Cross campaign which will be known as the "Christmas Roll Call." Intensive appeal through motion picture interests has made this special Red Cross release available. "The Greatest Gift" was produced for the Bureau of Pictures by the American Red Cross by courtesy of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, which employed the facilities of its eastern studios to carry out the story. Generous help was given by Red Cross people. Some to its most important players and directors aided in making the production attractive, and nothing was spared in the way of costumes and scenery. "The Greatest Gift" in fact is a spectacular achievement not only because its length is confined to the footage of one reel.

A liberal number of prints of "The Greatest Gift" have been provided, by courtesy of the Spoor-Thompson Laboratories, and these will be immediately available. Exhibition of the picture is expected to begin December 9 and to continue through the week of December 16-23, the period of the Christmas Roll Call. The Red Cross organization in the United States is undertaking a tremendous campaign for membership during December and it expects more than to renew its roll of over 23,000,000 additional junior members.

Distribution of "The Greatest Gift" is by courtesy of General Film Company. The story of "The Greatest Gift" is altogether real, the scenes being related to each other in the underlying idea, that of self-sacrifice.

Fairbanks Going Abroad.

Douglas Fairbanks has started negotiations with the Government transport department which will give him the distinction of being the first prominent star to take a company of film actors to Southern France for the purpose of staging a series of pictures.

The selected subjects will not deal with war conditions, but will be typical Fairbanks stories laid abroad. It is quite possible the company will be taken on a tour of Europe for a special scenario now being developed by Director Albert Parker.

The Artcraft actor-producer will make one more picture in this country to follow "Arizona" and will then start bag and baggage for foreign shores accompanied by ten members of his organization which will remain abroad for three months.

World Officials Attend Theatre Opening.

The opening of Washington, D.C., newest picture theatre, The Metropolitan, under the direction of Harry M. Crandall, was celebrated in fitting style November 23, when "Under Four Flags" was shown at the Nation's capital for the first time. One of the greatest audiences in the history of this country were present. The entire roster of World Picture stars, including Montagu Love, June Elvidge, Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greely were present and made their personal appearance coupled with fitting remarks dedicating this theatre, which is the last word in theatre construction. A special car carried World officials and stars, who made the journey to assist in the festivities, which were rounded out by a banquet.

Bennison's "Oh, Johnny!" To Be Issued By Goldwyn.

Louis Bennison, who captured the fancy of America's cities when he scored his sensational success in "Johnny Get Your Gun," is the newest acquisition of the screen. He is put forth under the imprint of the new Betzwood Film Company of Philadelphia and the distribution of his productions has been won by Goldwyn Distributing Corporation.

Announcement is made by Goldwyn of a series of Louis Bennison productions annually to be released under Star Series, beginning in December. Already three Bennison pictures are completed, and the first of these is in the hands of all the Goldwyn offices in twenty cities for trade showings for exhibitors.

"Oh, Johnny!" is the production selected by Mr. Bennison's debut. It is a fast-moving romantic drama of the East and West, which presents the handsome star as his most natural self. The story is by Wilson Bayley and was directed by Ira M. Lowry.

Three seasons ago Bennison took New York by storm in "Johnny Get Your Gun," being at that time absolutely unknown in the metropolitan theatre. For the greater part of a year he continued to enlarge his success in New York and during the next season duplicated his eastern hit in all the large cities of the country.

For the dealer in motion picture supplies The World's Classified advertising offers rare opportunities to reach a quick market

Berger to Combat Efforts of German Propagandists.

Henry Diamant Berger, director of the French film trade paper Le Film, has arrived in New York with the object of establishing in Paris the central distributing agency for all films in order to defeat efforts of the German film industry to capture the film trade in neutral countries.

"We have been working on this line for some time," said Mr. Berger. "For two years we have been trying to maintain control of all motion picture houses in the French part of Switzerland and in Zurich. We have built a bigger and more effective organization throughout the entire Allied countries. As we shall be able to offer much better propaganda, it is obvious that we shall get the patronage of those who up to now only went to see German films. There is a great field in this district to be conquered—we have to cover Switzerland, Holland, Spain, Scandinavia, Rumania and Russia, where the Germans have already started their propaganda tactics."

Brings Film Taken in Paris Under Bombardment.

"The French film industry has been practically at a standstill during the war, but still we have taken a few very interesting pictures and I have got one with me which was taken in Paris before the town was being battled by German long range guns. I hope America will like this film. I shall stay here and conditions for two or three months. I see, however, a great co-operation between the French and American film interests."

Mr. Berger has made his offices with Adolphe Osso, 1457 Broadway, where he will be pleased to discuss his plans further.

"The Challenge Accepted" December 23.

The W. W. Hodkinson Corporation announces that it will release December 23 "The Challenge Accepted," starring Zane Grey, the picture to be produced by Arden Photoplays, Inc. Edwin L. Hollywood directed the story from the original scenario by Donald Gordon Reid.

"The Challenge Accepted" is the story of the natives of the Blue Ridge Mountains who knew little about the world war and understood less about why they should have their freedom taken from them for something that did not interest them, as, for example, the cast includes Chester Barnett, John Hopkins, Charles Eldridge, Warren Cook, Sidney D'Albrook, Russell Simpson and Joel Day.

World Studio Getting Busy Again.

The World Studio at Fort Lee is all agog with preparations for the renewal of activities. June Elvidge, having spent her vacation in taking on a husband will not permit her honeymoon to divorce her from her picture career, as co-star with Montagu Love in a new play.

Tom Mix Begins Work.

Completely recovered from the recent operation on his left leg which he underwent for his benefit, Tom Mix has begun photography of a Fox Victory Picture at Hollywood.
IDEAS ON EXPLOITING "AFTER THE WAR"
Problem Play Starring Grace Cunard Offers Great Chance for "Cleaning Up" with Right Publicity

By Walter K. Hill

BECAUSE "After the War" is the first of what will probably be a long procession of features based on events incident to the downfall of the Hun, and because of its timely interest, the World sent me to the projection room of the Argosy Film Company, 729 Seventh avenue, to see the picture screened in the form that it will go to exhibitors. Showmen who traffic in state rights will market this picture, just as now they are marketing "Get筇ket," which was contracted to be shown before their local public, and one of the pictures which show that the films should be viewed from an exploitation standpoint.

In the proper department of this issue "After the War" has been reviewed in that spirit of fairness and justice that has always marked the World's reports on films. This review, coupled with the following exploitation matter, should guide exhibitors to a logical conclusion which will help them decide upon how they will, having contracted for the feature, exploit it from the showmanship angle.

Showmen Follow Their Own Business Bent.
Generally speaking, there are two classes of exhibitors—those who play to transient audiences and those who must lock upon their business as a repeated appeal to practically the same public. For the "transient" there will be ample opportunity. In the paper and publicity furnished by the distributor, to "flash" and boost patronage sensationally. True, this class of showmen and audiences "After the War" may be meant to signify whatever will get the most money in certain particularities. In the paper that the distributor promises to supply will be "flash" enough to form the basis of a banner and lobby "bally-how" that should get the idler and transient off the street in profitable numbers.

There is neither opportunity nor inclination to lead readers through an "A, B, C" lay-out of publicity. We hold that the man who is competent to run a theatre is able to apply his ingenuity to exploitation of the film once he is given, as we propose to do, 16 pages of guide material, one page of which has looked at the picture. What is here presented (passing up the transient showman as being unable to get his crowds from the passer-by) is written to aid the larger and more essential element among the exhibitor body of those who depend upon practically the same people week in and week out.

Scene from "After the War." The Heart of the Hun Beast Is Stilled by the Hand of His Own Wife.

Grace Cunard is Star of "After the War," the First of Post-Bellum Problem Plays.

Don't Use the Title to Mislead.
Don't promise your audience that discussions at thepeace table are to be forecasted. This picture is a problem play, carrying a theme as vital to the women of France, Italy and Belgium as may be involved in the very Peace that has at last sent win e rays across their path. "After the War" is a money-getting title—but get the money in a way that no one may leave your theatre complaining that they have been deceived by misrepresentation. Let it be known that "After the War" is a problem play and a picture play that will appeal to the thoughtful element in all creation.

Good Play, Fine Production and Cast.
Grace Cunard should be a name to draw money if properly exploited. She is the same Grace Cunard your patrons have seen in Universal serials and sensational melodramas. But she is a different actressing for the child, she rises to another duty—to spare the man she loves unhappiness resulting from her helpless submission to brute force. The child lives to become the cause of retribution; to inspire the Hun's love with a will for her personal conduct. And then the murderer begs that the child be given to her as her own property—a situation that promises to give the youngster a name in future, while it clears the way to happiness for the heroine in the love of her soldier-hero for whom she has suffered so deeply.

In the months that "After the War" is being marketed and exhibited the Yank's will be coming home and scattering themselves into "old home towns" throughout the land. This will be beyond question, be able to give first hand, upon the word of men who will gain credence, numerous instances of Hun brutality to keep the hearts of our people stewed against the wild beasts of war. Capitalize the soldiers. Watch the papers. Couple the stories that come from "over there" with the purpose of "After the War."

Bid Fearlessly for Women's Patronage.
Problems are being met face to face in our own land—where our fireside has been kept free from the reach of the Hun. Greater problems are being faced every day by women of the Allies. The fatherless child is a fact on the freedom front. Our children here at home are sewing and mending, working and helping the little ones of France and Belgium. Women who have left their homes to keep the hearts of our people steeled against the wild beasts of war. Capitalize the soldiers. Watch the papers. Couple the stories that come from "over there" with the purpose of "After the War."

The Longer the Hun the Better for You.
As the theme of the picture is its greatest asset, the discussion the first showings are destined to inspire, it is indispensably beneficial. Therefore (within reason) the longer the run the more money is likely to be gleaned from your community. Mothers will have their own opinion as to the heroine's decision to part with her child. There will be an element in every community that will maintain the girl did right; there will be some who will de cry the motive of the murderer, who, cleared by a court of justice, would have the fruit of her husband's perfidy in her possession. Picky that we know all among the problem plays that are bound to follow in the wake of world-strife the exhibitor who takes on "After the War" will, by all the omens of showmanship, get a lot of money with it if he deals squarely with his public; tells the truth in advance and makes no extreme effort at sensationalism.

OUR SOLDIERS WILL KNOW THE TRUTH.
We have read of Hun brutalities to women and children in conquered territories. This picture is based on an act of brutality by a Hun militarist, who forces himself upon a girl in order to save the life of the soldier she loves. The child afterward becomes a barrier to the woman establishes herself and the sweetheart who is home from war a hero. Amid the conflict of mother love and loath-

"Made in America" Is Unique Among War Pictures

UNIQUE among the many war pictures which have been produced is "Made in America," in that its principal motif is not the valor of the American soldier in battle, though it is not lacking in heroic incidents, but it deals more with those great constructive forces which made American valor count for victory—the selective draft and the training camp.

It is the story of three American boys: two of them. John and Jimmy Evers, are called to the colors to serve their country, the other, Joe Nelson, is a slacker who tries to dodge the draft and, when unsuccessful, yields a sulky obedience to military rules. How, under the influence of the wonderful spirit which pervades the Nation's great training camps, he gets the right perspective on things and becomes interested in his work and patriotic in his sentiments, is one of the object lessons which abound in the eight reels of "Made in America."

Joe Nelson not only develops into a splendid soldier, but, upon his return to, civil life, Croix doréion will fill more useful citizen with far higher ideals of citizenship. There is a pretty love story running through the picture.

Of the two brothers, John goes to France, where he wins promotion to a war correspondent. Mrs. Evers is a beautifully drawn character of the sacrificing mother. War correspondent is found in thousands of American homes.

The camp scenes were all taken in one of the great army camps of the country and show every phase of the soldier's life in camp, from reveille until taps.

"Made in America" is being produced by Ashley Miller, with the co-operation of the War Department through the Division of Films, and is published and distributed by the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation.

Rothapfel Directs Marines in "Too Fat to Fight"

COUNTING themselves fortunate in obtaining the co-operation of the United States Marine Corps, Rex Beach, as author of "Too Fat to Fight," and S. L. Rothapfel, who directed certain of the trench scenes, took full advantage of the aid offered them. The "soldiers of the sea" responded magnificently under command of Mr. Rothapfel, managing director of New York's Rialto and Rivoli theatres. "Too Fat to Fight," in which Frank McIntyre is the featured player, and the scenario of which was prepared by Charles A. Logue, is in no material sense a war drama. But it is a patriotic story with thrilling trench scenes in it, and the background of battle is seldom out of the picture. It was in connection with the trench episodes that the help of the Marine Corps was sought. For days the Goldwyn studios in Fort Lee, where the production was made, resembled a barracks.

Under the direction of the Marines the trenches had been dug and all the details of the battle scenes rehearsed. They first at the imaginary Huns with no thought of anything except their complete annihilation. Their yells and jubilant cries drowned the megaphoned directions of Lieutenant Rothapfel, and for a time the boys had things all their own way. Finally they were got under control, and the actual business of the scenes was carried out. Needless to say, the fighting scenes were invaluable and will be seen in their entirety when "Too Fat to Fight" is shown.

Among the Marines who took part were Sergeants M. F. Henderson, William Hickey, William Bird, Walter Burke, L. J. O'Brien and J. Dill.

"Musical Comedy Film" for Lee Kiddies

"Smiles," described as "the first musical comedy of the screen," has been started in Los Angeles by Jane and Katherine Leu, the Wallis Fox baby grands, under the direction of Arvid E. Gillstrom.

Ralph H. Spence, special writer of humorous subjects and subtle specialist for William Fox, wrote the original story of "Smiles," and in constructing his comedy introduced several novelties which are expected to mark a radical departure in film plays. Mr. Spence has managed to fit each episode in the play to some well known musical composition. The picture is punctuated with 132 of Mr. Spence's characteristically humorous subtitles, thirty of which form definite orchestral cues. Other music is provided in an unmistakable manner by the action of certain scenes.

Red Cross Film Shows McKey

In "First Aid on the Plave," the American Red Cross relief film is pictured the first of the American Red Cross leaders in war work to have paid the supreme sacrifice—Lieutenant Edward M. McKey. He was killed on the Plave while in command of Red Cross Rolling Canteen No. 1. He was serving Italian soldiers as they came out of the trenches at San Bernardi, when a shell of large calibre exploded near him and ended his labors of mercy.

Lieutenant McKey was a young American studying in Paris. When the Italian debacle alarmed Europe, McKey went into service there for the American Red Cross. He wore the Croix de Guerre, a recognition of France for his heroic work on the Plave. The story of this gallant spirit is told to some extent in "First Aid on the Plave," the camera having taken him in his work at its height, and several weeks before he met his death.

That Italy withstood in those memorable days on the Plave and the telling help which was rendered by the American Red Cross is thrillingly unfolded in the many activities shown in the film.

Scene from "The Beloved Imposter" (Vitagraph).
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

December 7, 1918

Path Signs Ruth Roland for Fifteen-Part Serial

THE vice-president of Pathé Exchange, Inc., Paul Brunet, announces that a contract has been signed with Ruth Roland for her appearance in a fifteen-episode serial which will be ready for the screen immediately at the conclusion of Pear's popular serial, "The Lightning Raider." The new serial has been tentatively entitled "The Long Arm," and gives exhibitors a record-breaker from every standpoint.

"The Long Arm" was written by Arthur Reeves, of "Craige-Kennedy" fame, and Charles Logue. The scenario is by Gilson Willems, who wrote "Hands Up," Miss Roland's most recent Pathé serial.

The story is declared by the Pathé scenario department to be the strongest they have ever accepted and will offer thirty reels of sustained interest and intense climax. It deals with the theft of a tiger idol from a band of natives in Sumatra by three adventurers, and the many attempts of the band to recover the idol and furnish the action and conflicting themes of the serial.

Miss Roland, as Belle Boyd, the heroine, will have one of the strongest roles in which she has ever faced the camera, and it will afford her exceptional opportunities to demonstrate her remarkable ability on the screen. The news that Pathé will present Miss Roland in another serial will undoubtedly be enthusiastically received by exhibitors and picture patrons alike, as she has made secure her place as one of the most popular serial stars.

"The Long Arm" will be the sixth Pathé serial in which Ruth Roland has been starred, those previous being "Who Pays?", "The Red Circle." "The Neglected Wife," "The Price of Polity" and "Hands Up." "The Long Arm" will be produced by Astra Film Corporation.

Ruth Roland.

Vitagraph's Releasing Plan Aims to Aid Exhibitors

THERE is much satisfaction among the executives of the Vitagraph Distributing Organization over the fact that their new Star Series releasing plan, which went into effect on September 30, has proved so successful in the wake of the receding epidemic.

When it was announced at the beginning of the season that Vitagraph would release, during the course of the year, six series of rotating star features, totaling fifty-two five-reel productions, a serial episode for each week in the year, and, likewise, a two-reel Big "V" Special Comedy each week, it was claimed that from the standpoint of elasticity and accommodation to the individual exhibitor's requirements, the Vitagraph plan had introduced a new era in film merchandising.

Vitagraph states that in the so-called reconstruction period of the industry, following the epidemic shutdown, its releasing plan and policy is proving a big aid to exhibitors in the re-building of their business. Despite the shifts and adjustments made necessary throughout almost every branch of the business, with the consequent uncertainty on the part of exhibitors with regard to their booking arrangements, the Vitagraph releasing plans are enabling exhibitors to know exactly what will be available on the Vitagraph program for each week during the entire year.

Vitagraph's weekly program for the year includes three separate and distinct units of service, which, nevertheless, offer in their entirety or in a variation of combinations, a service that the company claims will fit every need of every theatre.

Each week Vitagraph releases a five-part Blue Ribbon Feature. These rotating star features may be booked in their entirety or on the basis of individual Star Series.

Vitagraph's serial service provides a serial-episode for every week in the year, giving exhibitors an unbroken chain of chapter-plays.

There is, in addition, a two-reel comedy service. Each week Vitagraph releases a Big "V" Special Comedy, and it is claimed for them that they have grown into country-wide popularity with amazing rapidity.

With these three units of service, therefore, and with the entire year's program definitely laid out, and the dates of releases given so that exhibitors may know exactly what will be available for the period of the entire twelve months, the reconstruction of the exhibitor's booking arrangements far in advance becomes a simple matter, so far as the Vitagraph program is concerned.

"Retribution" Held Up to Insert Flight of Kaiser

Mr. William Hohenzollern had hardly reached Holland when mimic scenes depicting these very moments of the Kaiser's downfall were in course of filming for the six-reel feature production, "Retribution." The picture is being made under the direction of George Edwardes-Hall, scenario writer and director.

"Retribution" is a story of mystery and intrigue dealing with the war, revolving around an American girl who pluckily outwits the agents of autocracy. The production had been under way for some time, and was nearing completion when the news of the Kaiser's departure came. The scenario was immediately rewritten, and "Retribution" brought right up to the minute. The photo-feature will be ready for presentation about November 26, and the releasing plans will be announced early in December.

"Retribution" has a noteworthy cast, numbering such well known plays as John Mason, Victor Sutherland, Teft Johnson, Donald Hall, Stanley Walpole, Peggy Shaw, Helene Hart and Eugenie Lindeman.

The author, who has been connected with both the Continental and American stages, wrote the scenario of "War Brides," Alla Nazimova's first film vehicle; "The Lone Wolf," in which Bert Lytell scored his first screen hit; "Babbling Tongues," "The Iron Hand," the historical production, "The Fall of the Romanoffs," "The Poul of Broadway," "The Kreutzer Sonata," and many other big film successes.

"Retribution" is being produced under the supervision of George A. Rush. The photography is in the hands of Max Schneider and Walter Blakely.

The picture is said to be marked by a vigorous and interesting melodramatic story of unhalting action, by magnificent sets and excellent playing. Several hundred supernumeraries appear in "Retribution."
Vitagraph's New Serial Meeting with Big Success

WITH the reopening of territory all over the country, Vitagraph's newest serial, "The Iron Test," is sweeping into what is indicated will culminate in a record career, judging from the enthusiastic reports of exhibitors all over the country.

For the past two weeks exhibitors' congratulations have been pouring into the Vitagraph offices, and it appears to be the unanimous opinion of representative exhibitors that the serial will eclipse its predecessors. Exhibitors who have run the previous Vitagraph serials agree that "The Iron Test," which features Antonio Moreno and Carol Holloway, will, in box-office power, surpass them all.

The serial is the product of the pens of Albert E. Smith and Cyrus Townsend Brady, and they have given this serial a radically different turn and twist in theme and treatment than their earlier serials. This novelty of theme has found great favor with exhibitors.

"The Iron Test," is the second of the four-serial-a-year schedule of Vitagraph. Its stars, Antonio Moreno and Carol Holloway, will form a permanent combination, alternating with William Duncan, who, on January 27, will be presented in another big fifteen-episode production, "The Man of Might," in which he will be supported by an all-star cast, including Edith Johnson and Joe Ryan. This, like the previous Duncan serials, will be directed by the star.

Striking Poster for Martin Johnson.

"The poster plays a vital part in the success or failure of a film," declares one of the officials of the Robertson-Cole Company. "A poster is good or bad, according to its advertising value. It goes without saying that a good poster attracts and that a bad one repels. When we secured the world releasing rights to Martin Johnson's 'Cannibals of the South Seas,' we decided to place our ideas upon posters in operation. We secured the best poster artists in the country. The result is that 'Cannibals of the South Seas' has, to our way of thinking, the most colorful, artistic and atmospheric posters of the year. We didn't merely want a graceful, eye-catching poster. We wanted something in the very spirit of Johnson's adventurous cruise through the South Pacific. 'I think our posters have caught all this.

The designs are of tropical greens, yellows and blues. The atmosphere of the South Seas, with its azure skies, tropical seas and emerald isles, is in these posters."

Frank Rembusch Talks About Affiliated's Plans

THE Affiliated Distributors' Corporation, which recently formed a co-operative plan of booking and distributing motion pictures whereby a group of producers and a national circuit of picture theatres are associated in merchandising good pictures on a profit-sharing basis, now have extended the principles of co-operative marketing to every part of buying and selling of pictures. Recently Messrs. Brink, Clark and Cornelius, of Grand Rapids, the prime movers in the Affiliated booking plan, took over a controlling interest in the Mutual Film Corporation and its exchange branches throughout the United States and Canada in order to insure the Affiliated a permanent distributing medium.

At a meeting held in the home office of Mutual in Chicago, attended by a group of prominent exhibitors from various parts of the country and the new managers of the Mutual, a request was made that the tie-in between producer and exhibitor be extended so that exhibitors could share in the holdings of Mutual to the extent that exhibitors have a controlling interest in the Mutual exchanges of the United States and a priority franchise on all pictures distributed by Mutual exchanges.

After much deliberation, the Mutual owners agreed to turn over to exhibitors of the United States the controlling interest in Mutual on the same terms and valuation that they took over Mutual, provided that exhibitors are allotted a limited amount of holdings in various sections of the country. Under this plan co-operation is complete, because one works for all and all for one. It is claimed great economy in operating expenses and better and more suitable pictures will result with protection against a speculative market. An advisory board of exhibitors is being formed to be extended throughout the country, and completed as soon as possible.

Several prominent producers are arranging to market their product through the Mutual exchanges because of this policy of co-operation. Both producer and exhibitor realize a great saving in the overhead, and elimination of the speculative factors in the film market will result. A plan so attractive and solidly founded cannot fail to be successful.

FRANK REMBUSCH,
Temporary Chairman.

Interstate Reports Big Business.

Interstate Films, Inc., 729 Seventh avenue, New York, which is releasing Ford Educational Weekly for its territory, is now supplying over 500 theatres with this release. The weekly has earned a place in the program of leading them because of its quality and the timeliness of its subject matter.

The Standard Film Service Company, 316 Sloan Building, Cleveland, which is handling the release in its territory, has announced its release for the following week days: Standard Theatre, Cleveland; Crescent, Cleveland; Grand, Canton; Colonial, Akron; Park, Youngstown.

In Chicago, where the release is handled by the Bee-Hive Exchange, 207 North Wabash avenue, Mr. Well, manager of the Castle Theatre, praises the excellence of the weekly.

Baby Marie a Climber.

Baby Marie Osborne, when it comes to climbing and second storey work, is an infantile Douglas Fairbanks. She gives a remarkable exhibition of her adventurous agility in "Milady o' the Beaustalk," released at a Pathé program feature on December 10. It is to be expected in such a role that she climbs the Beaustalk which reaches up into the land of the Pei-f-o-fum Giant, who loves broiled small boys for lunch, but the way this talented little shins up a vertical fire escape evokes admiration at her gymnastics and her courage.

Eighth "Kultur" Comes December 1.

The eighth episode of the Pure and Patriotic serial, "Wolves of Kultur," featuring Leah Baird, will be released December 1, and is sure to receive the national homage and climatic incident from start to finish. It begins with a thrilling leap from a high cliff into the ocean, the characters of Alice Grayson, the heroine. The chauffeur has been cornered by Carter, the butler of Zoremba, the master spy, and his only means of escape is by leaping into the ocean from the cliff.\n
C. C. Pettijohns,
General Counsel, Affiliated Distributors' Corporation and Exhibitors' Mutual Distributors' Corporation.
Famous Players-Lasky Reports December Releases

T
death

HE Famous Players-Lasky Corporation has compiled its list of new feature releases for December, presenting a most attractive array of box-office attractions. There will be nine Paramount releases next month, five Artcrafts and one Paramount-Artcraft Special, aside from the short subjects and the release of the Success Series. Four of the films to be offered in December were produced under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince, who has contributed many Paramount and Artcraft successes during the past year.

The first of the month witnesses the release of "Sporting Life," the picturization by Maurice Tourneur of the Drury Lane melodrama, which has been selected as the third Paramount-Artcraft Special. The Western, "The Green God Tree," an Artcraft picture, with Elsie Ferguson as star will be released. This is an adaptation by Adrian Gil-Spear of Henry V. Emond's play in which Maxine Elliott achieved one of her greatest successes. It is directed by Emile Chautard, and contains many charming scenes of real gypsy life. On this date also is released "Puss and Feathers," a Paramount picture from the Thomas H. Ince studio, starring Edna Bennett. This is an original story by Julien Josephson, and the production was directed by Fred Niblo under Mr. Ince's supervision.

Two noteworthy productions will be released under the Artcraft trademark on December 8. They are the D. W. Griffith production, "Understanding," Douglas Fairbanks' screen version of "Arizona." The Griffith production, his second for distribution through Artcraft, is especially timely, being a distinctly after-the-war picture, magnifying the great lesson for American manhood to be drawn from the world conflict. It was personally directed by Griffith himself and the usual sterling cast of Griffith players is featured. The Paramount release for that date is "Aigui Million," an adaptation by Gardner Hunting of Porter Emerson Brown's story, "Someone and Somebody," which Mr. DeMille made for Artcraft in the stellar role. This is the first work of James Cruze as a Paramount director.

In the trio of productions scheduled for December 11, William K. Howard will be presented in his new Artcraft picture, "Branding Broadway," a unique story by George D. Cohan, written for the Western star, after a reel or more of the typical Hart action of the frontier, trans- formas his activities to New York. Mr. Hart himself directed, Thomas H. Ince supervising the production. On the same day will be released Cecil B. DeMille's new version of Edwin Milton Rossy's play, "The Squaw Man," which Mr. DeMille made for Artcraft with an all-star cast. Beulah Marie Dix wrote the scenario. The third picture for December 15 release is the John Emerson-Anita Loos Production for Paramount, "Good-bye, Hill," starring Shirley Mason and Forrest Tucker.

Charles Ray, the popular Thomas H. Ince star, returns to the Paramount schedule December 22, after an absence of two months, in "String Beaus," by Julien Josephson. Victor J. Schertzinger directed under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince. Another Ince-supervised production is released the same day on the Paramount schedule, namely "Quicksand," starring Dorothy Dalton. The scenario is by R. Cecil Smith, from a story by John Lynch, and was also directed by Mr. Schertzinger. On this day also comes "The Mystery Girl," with Ethel Clayton starring, this is an adaptation by Marion Fairfax of George Barr McCutcheon's story, "Green Fancy," William C. DeMille directing.

Marguerite Clark is starred in "Little Miss Hoover," released on the Paramount schedule December 29. This is a story by Maria Thompson Davies, originally "The Golden Bird," which was scenarioized by Adrian Gil-Spear. John Stuart Robertson directed. Dorothy Gish appears in her second Paramount picture, "The Hope Chest," released on the same date. Edna Clifton, who produced "Battling Jane," also directed this picture, which is an adaptation of Mark Lee Luther's book by M. M. Stearns. The third release, "The Way of a Man with a Maid," is in Bryant Washburn's second Paramount starring vehicle. This comedy is the creation of Ida M. Evans, and was adapted by Edith Kennedy. Donald Crisp was the director.

Bessie Love a Vitagraph Star.

Bessie Love makes her bow as a Vitagraph star in the Blue Ribbon feature, "The Dawn of Understanding," scheduled for release the week of December 26, "The Dawn of Understanding" was produced and directed by Frohman some years ago under the name of "Sue," and starred Annie Russell. It was adapted from Bret Harte's "The Judgment of Bolinas Plains." In this love story from the pen of the famous delineator of western life and character, it is said that Bessie Love has the fullest opportunity to show her talent as a clever comedienne and a dramatic actress. The feature was made in Southern California and out on the Mo-have desert. David Smith directed the feature and obtained many striking scenes. He crossed the California-Arizona line and invaded Death Valley in search of the true Bret Harte atmosphere, and in this he is said to have been remarkably successful. Miss Love is fortunate also in her first feature in color. She possesses unusual balance and strength, including J. Frank Glendenning, William Silver, Jack Gilbert, George Kunkle and Jack Abrams.

The story is a quaint romance, colorful of the West in the gold days, of pathos and near tragedy, and relieved by touches of comedy typical of Bret Harte stories. There is action at all times that commands and holds the interest.

Gladys Brockwell Resumes Work.

Gladys Brockwell, her enforced influenza vacation being at an end, has begun a new picture at the William Fox studio in Hollywood. The play bears the temporary title of "The Framers," and is founded upon a story written by Charles Van Dyke. In this picture Miss Brockwell is being directed by Lynn Reynolds. The principals in the cast besides Miss Brockwell include William Scott, J. Barney Sherry and Harry Duncannon.
Tom Santschi to Support Lewis in Select Picture

OX of the larger announcements issued by Select Pictures Corporation recently is that this firm has acquired Mitchell Lewis as a series star, and that his first assignment would be "Code of the Yukon." Mitchell Lewis as a Select star needs no second introduction.

The cast for "Code of the Yukon" contains several names that stand out, particularly that of Tom Santschi, while the name of Vivian Rich runs a close second. The comedy end of "Code of the Yukon" is headed by Jack McDonald, familiarly known as Snapjack for his performance of that role in "The Spenders."

In addition to acting Mr. Santschi is also a director. He commenced his career in stock on the speaking stage and then became a citizen of the film world. Since his debut on the screen he has appeared in such successes as "The Crisis," "Beware of Strangers," "The Garden of Allah," "Who Shall Take My Life?", "The Smoldering Flame," "The Still Alarm" "Little Orphan Annie." He is one of the few actors whose "bigness" on the screen is measured in two counts. Mr. Santschi is big in stature and big in importance. In "Code of the Yukon," Mr. Santschi is seen as Dan Creagan, a worthless being who maintains a dance hall and saloon in one of the mining communities of the North. Creagan is the man for whom Mitchell Lewis, as Jean, has been searching half his life. At last they come together, and the fight is one that should go down in motion picture history.

Vivian Rich's work in the Fox picture, "The Awakening," first brought her attention, and then followed strong performances in "A Brandied Soul," "The Bumble Bee" and "The Bull's Eye." Vivian Rich, as Lola Crawford, becomes the wife of Jean in Mr. Lewis' first attraction. It is the sort of human role for which Miss Rich is best adapted, and her accomplished acting furnishes another cog in the wheel that is bound to spell success in this big northwoods production.

Others who have already been mentioned are Goldie Caldwell, Margaret Landis, Franklyn Hall, William Effe and Arthur Morrison.

"Code of the Yukon," as already announced, is a story of the gold fields, in which there is a strong underlying current of love and humor, written by Anthony Paul Kelly, author of "Safe for Democracy," another picture in which this company is now engaged, and also "The Cave Case," the Plunkett and Carroll story of Edith Cavel, in which Mr. Santschi acted. This production was recently acquired by Select as a special and is already being presented at leading theatres throughout the country.

Much Publicity for "Infatuation."

When Pathe's big feature, "Infatuation," starring Gaby Deslys, is released on December 1, exhibitors who book this picture will have at their disposal, through Pathe branch offices, every practicable method for exploiting both star and feature.

One of the most comprehensive campaign books ever issued by Pathe has been prepared by the exploitation department. It covers a wide and varied field of publicity and advertising hints. The pictorial possibilities with this star are exceptionally fine, as there are many photographs and cuts of Miss Deslys wearing the gowns and millinery creations for which she is world-famous. In addition, Pathe has prepared a series of hand-colored stills, frames which may be secured from the branches at a nominal rate.

Norma Talmadge Finishes "The Heart of Wotona"

NORMA TALMADGE'S forthcoming Select picture, "The Heart of Wotona," a screen version of the famous David Belasco success, is finished, and Miss Talmadge has returned to New York with her company, including Director Sidney A. Franklin, Thomas Meighan, her leading man; Gladden James and others.

But there were times during the star's work at Idyllwild when it looked as though the snow would come and go before the picture was finished. Miss Talmadge is glad to get back home, while Director Franklin and the members of their company, are thrilled with their blood-chilling stories of their experience in the West.

According to all reports—and there are vital statistics from the coroner's office to prove it—there were wild times at Idyllwild, an Indian reservation 6,000 feet above sea level. Chief Darkcloud, who was scheduled to play Quannah in this delightful Indian story, succumbed to the ravages of Spanish influenza. Darkcloud was the ideal type for the character, and it took several days to locate another redskin who could play the part. But at last they found one, a stalwart buck with a spine as straight as Hiawatha's arrow, and, after a deal of coaxing andprompting, he managed to get through the difficult role in a manner that called forth praise.

Another calamity occurred when the big corn scene was staged. The weather was so hot when the scene was put on that Miss Talmadge almost fainted, but she rallied her nerve and kept on the job. Later in the day, during a sensational on-chase section, the Indian's horses stumbled, piling ten horses and as many redskins in a heap. Five of the Indians were seriously injured, and one was so severely cut that only Miss Talmadge's presence of mind and knowl-

"Roaring Lions on the Midnight Express" (Lehrman).

"The Far Flung Battle Line."

A deeply impressive conception of the scope and immensity of the great war, with its herculean tasks, is given by No. 23 of the Official War Review released by Pathe December 2 and called "The Far Flung Battle Line of the Allies." It shows how, from the Persian gulf to the English Channel, on desert sands and amid Alpine snows, the armies of democracy waged the fight for humanity. And, strangest of all, it seems the fight has taken the din and tragedy of the war not only into the most sacred shrines of humanity, but up to the very portals of the Garden of Eden, the birthplace of all the nations of men; for the camera shows the British gunboats on the Tigris, near the Biblical spot, bombarding the dogged Turk.

Scenes from "Who Will Marry Me?" a Bluebird, Featuring Carmel Myers.
December 7, 1918

Independent Company to Direct Film Salesmen

CONFINING all of its activities to the actual booking of productions and their operation as a separate and distinct unit from all producing companies and exchange organizations, a company which promises to attract attention in film circles has been formed under the name of Independent Sales Corporation.

As the name indicates, the problem of sales will occupy the whole attention of the new concern. From its headquarters in New York, it will direct the sale of all activities of film salesmen in every territory in the United States and Canada, and any producing company or group of producers may arrange with the Independent to book its pictures.

It is the idea of the incorporators that the separate groups of salesmen will be detailed to give all the attention to each set of productions placed with Independent Sales Corporation for booking.

Harry F. Mollenhauer, a director and officer of Ohio Sugar Refineries, appears as one of the directors; G. Towbridge Hollister, of Hollister & Barnes, bankers and bondsmen, is another, while Frank G. Hall and William M. Seabury are officers of the company.

Arrangements have already been completed by Independent Sales Corporation whereby it will maintain headquarters for its activities in the East, and an office in the West. These offices have been organized for immediate entry, with its main offices at 330 West Forty-sixth street, New York City. It has taken over the building and has been operated as the new system of exchanges called Film Clearing Houses, concerned only in the present-day needs of exchange, to begin operations immediately.

When Miller Lost 7,000 Extras

The declaration of peace and the consequent halting of the draft deprived one director of some seven thousand members of his cast. Ashley Miller, who is producer and director of the "Made in America," says that the first picture made in the East, a these-mile operation of the excess, has cost him some seven thousand dollars, and it is all ready for the arrival of the raw material that a few months' military education would transform into trained soldiers.

But the train never arrived. Before reaching the station it was sidetracked and sent back, and every man returned to his local board. However, Miller succeeded in getting together all the arrivals of the few preceding days and the scenes were completed.

"Made in America" is being produced with the co-operation of the Government through the War Films of the Committee on Public Information. The W. W. Hodkinson Corporation is publishing and distributing the picture, which will be released one reel each week for eight weeks. Each reel is complete in itself.

Billie Rhodes in "The Girl of My Dreams."

December a Busy Month for William Fox Offices

DECEMBER promises to be one of the busiest months of the season in the William Fox offices, so far as releasing new pictures is concerned. (See pictures being scheduled. Divided according to their brands, there will be one William Fox Big Timely Picture, three Standard Pictures, two Victory Pictures, three Excel Pictures and one of the Great Nine, past successes which are being released by Mr. Fox.

The Big Timely Picture on the December schedule is "11 to 45," R. A. Walsh's masterpiece. This picture, starring Charlotte Walker, is said to tell a powerful story of an American mother's sacrifice in the Great War. The play has a large and capable cast, and has been staged in a lavish manner.

In the Standard Pictures group the first picture to be released is "The She-Devil," written by Nele Hopkins and staged by J. Gordon Edwards. It tells the story of a Spanish countess who plays hob with the hearts of a Spanish brigand and a Parisian artist.

"I Want to Forget," second in the series of pictures which Evelyn Nesbit is producing for William Fox, is another Standard release set for December. This picture was directed by James Kirkwood.

Another of William Farnum's de luxe productions is set for December. This is "The Man Hunter." Several powerful scenes on shipboard during a storm at sea mark this film, which also contain no fewer than three big fights.

"The Strange Woman," starring Gladys Brockwell, has been heralded as one of Miss Brockwell's best. It is a picturization of the Broadway stage success of the same name.

"I'll Say So!" is George Walsh's release for December. This also is a Victory Picture, and in it the agile George performs some of his most amazing athletic stunts. One of the best known novels written by the late Justus Miles Forman furnishes the story of "Duchman's Wife," the Excel Picture for December will be featured. Charles J. Brabin directed the play.

Penny Hyland will be seen in "Caught in the Act," a rapid-fire farce-comedy adapted from a magazine story, written by Fred Jackson.

The first Excel Picture starring Madeline Scott will be released, with the story of which was written by Marshall Bruce Beannington and the scenario by Densmore Clift. The picture was directed by Frank Beal.

The first of the Great Nine will be "Fighting Blood," the de luxe production in which William Farnum achieved one of his triumphs.

Viola Dana Has Big Cast in "Oh, Annice!"
A cast of favorites will surround Viola Dana in her forthcoming Metro production, "Oh, Annice!" picturized from Alexine Heyland's two-part novel, which appeared originally in the Woman's Home Companion. There are practically two leading men in "Oh, Annice!," the interest being about equally divided between young Vance Dunton, played by John McGowan, and the "uncle," who is only a few months older than himself, Michael Darcy, played by William B. Davidson.

Howard Hall plays Annie's father. Dr. Palsh, Elise MacLeod has the part of Annie's girl chum; the part of Robert Cord, the detective, is played by Fred Jones.

Franklyn Hanna plays "the other Michel"—Michael Connors—who finally succeeds in clearing up the mystery, after having badly complicated matters without the slightest intention of doing so. Ed. Mack, Julia Hurley and George Dowling have parts of interest. This photodrama was directed and adapted by John H. Colins, being the last completed work by him before his death.

Dodge Talks to Chianganns.
Henry Irving Dodge, author of the story, the "Yellow Dog," appeared recently in Chicago and delivered addresses to big crowds in three theatres which were showing the film version of his story. The Jewel production proved a big drawing card on its own merits, and the added attraction of Mr. Dodge appearing in person was added to make it altogether a fine entertainment. The theatres in question were the Twentieth Century, Boulevard and the Marshall Square.
"Made in America" Shows How Soldiers Are Trained

This story of an American mother's two boys—all she had to give—who were drafted, trained, and taught to fight to safeguard democracy and her own home, is a feature called "Golden Play," being released shortly by the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation through the Pathé Exchange. This photoplay is the latest series that will be released shortly by the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation through the Pathé Exchange. This photoplay has been produced with the co-operation of the Government, through the Division of Films of the United States Information Service on Public Information.

"Made in America" is a story of the hero's breast in a base hospital "somewhere in France." It tells adequately the story that every American wants to know—how "your boy and my boy" were treated at camp and how they were developed into men through its training course. How the physical, mental and psychological tests were made; how the man is lifted from the bosom of his family, to the Clayton, taking those who view it, step by step, from the period of isolation to the day when he is to return to the hero's breast in a base hospital "somewhere in France." It tells adequately the story that every American wants to know—how "your boy and my boy" were treated at camp and how they were developed into men through its training course.

Call for "Mothers of France"

Quite some time ago World Pictures released on its program a feature entitled "Mothers of France," in which Sarah Bernhardt was the star. It not alone made a lot of money for World Pictures, but also for the exhibitors throughout the country. During the past week, that is, since the beginning of the armistice, renewed interest has been shown by the exhibitors for this picture. The reports that are coming into the World Film offices disclose that it has taken on a new lease of life, so much so that it promises as many bookings as it had when originally released.

Mexican Fiesta Shown in Metropolitan

An irresistible combination of attractive features is being told in Farnum's coming Metro production, "Fighting the High Spots," written by himself and produced by Louis B. Mayer, releasing the gayest Mexican fiesta, and Mexican in its entirety to date. This picture is also, in full progress, and this colorful scene furnishes the opportunity for a display of the star's remarkable athletic skill.

Fox Film for War Service

The Academy Awards for Miss Wildred Harris, starring in Farnum's picture, "Zane Grey's" novel, "Golden Fleece," from which Mr. Maigne adapted the scenario, Alice Brady is undeniably seen at her best as "Her Great Chance." This is said by the life of a clever young saleswoman in one of New York's big department stores. Miss Brady assumes the role of Lola, the shop girl. The leading man is David Proctor, who will be remembered for his excellent work as Michael Thalwitz in Alice Brady's "The Better Half."

Mr. Maigne made good use of his experience as a motion picture expert, having carefully eliminated any theatrical, or the "villain." In addition, melodrama and death scenes are conspicuous by their absence. Mr. Maigne makes his debut as a director, and has, as well, written all of the titles and supervised the assembling.

First World War Pictures

News describing the surrender of the great German battle fleet, which was being held at Wilhelmshaven, to the Allies, is declared by the Universal to throw particular weight on the current reissue of the serial, "Fighting for Freedom." The episode is the seventh of the series, and is entitled "Britain's Battling Bulldogs." The chapter gives a complete review of the events of this time. Particular attention to the huge dreadnoughts that conquered the German fleet on the famous charge of the Skagerrak. The Skagerrak. The film shows the British fleet operating in battle order.

Lacey to Have Goldwyn Week

Another "Goldwyn Week"—and this time it will be held in Howell, Mich. Vernon Lacey, proprietor of the Temple Theatre, Howell, has arranged to play seven Goldwyn first-year releases and seven Capitol comedies, starring "Smiling Bill" Parsons, beginning December 25 and ending January 1. Mr. Lacey is determined to make his holiday business an event to be remembered.

Mr. Lacey has announced his intention of using extra big space in two Howell newspapers to announce the list of Goldwyn attractions. Despite the fact that Howell has a population of only 2,000, Mr. Lacey employs big-city advertising methods and is known among the trade as one of the most careful and intelligent users of space.

General Pershing Sees "The Land of the Free"

It has been given to only one man in the world to see his life portrayed before him on a motion picture screen. That one man is General John J. Pershing, who, besides being a soldier, is also a student. When, several weeks ago, General Pershing was invited to attend a showing of the film "The Land of the Free," which was produced by the Fox Film Corporation, he accepted the invitation and attended the showing.

The American commander saw the film in a Y. M. C. A. hut near his headquarters. Told the story of the American Expeditionary Force and the film, which is described as "an epic of American opportunity and American character," was offered to the General. The General, who is known for his knowledge of the world and the film, was highly complimentary of the film and its portrayal of American life.

Exhibitors Quick to Seek Film of Chaplin's Bride

EIGHTEEN out of twenty-five big film playhouses on Broadway, New York, made quick contracts last week for bookings of "Borrowed Gowns," a new Fox Film production featuring Mr. Charlie Chaplin. This is the announcement issued by Jewel in connection with a general statement of the enormous demand brought all over the country for this film. In New York alone, Carbys, one of the largest houses, has already prepared special signs and posters proclaiming the star of the film under her new name.

Lloyd Finishes "For Freedom"

Before leaving for Los Angeles last week Director Frank Lloyd put the final touches on "For Freedom," which contains numerous examples of his skill in weaving little incidents of humor and pathos into the fabric of a drama. "Most scripts," said Mr. Lloyd, in talking of his methods, "are written from the main, plot of the story, so that it devolves entirely upon the director to introduce 'business' to a picture. Unless the director is determined and watchful he is likely to make his production without putting this incident or that into the film. He is told that this must be done. He must be true to the director adheres religiously to the script. I have found that by planting a 'little incident' as part of the film I can arrange it that it works into the story much better than if I made up my business as the occasion arose."

Classified Advertising is the quick way to prompt action. The largest needs have been supplied through Classified. The World takes your announcement to the market where what you want is on sale.
Edna Mayo
Star of "Hearts of Love" (American Feature Film).

Universal Brings East
Great Romantic Drama

DOROTHY PHILLIPS, star of Universal Special Attractions, with Allen Holubar, her director, and Frank J. Lawrence, were expected to arrive in New York this week bringing a complete print of Miss Phillips' latest picture. The film has been the subject of discussion on the coast for some time. The filming required seven months.

The Universal arranged to have the picture and "dance special" showing before officials of the company and others concerned. Later it is planned to put the subject on for a premiere at the Broadway Theatre.

The title has not yet been selected, but in the general discussion concerning it the picture is described as a great romantic production, with an interweaving of war as a background. The love theme is said to predominate throughout. The print brought from the coast measures twelve reels. This will be cut down to ten reels or slightly less.

Jewel officials have begun to arrange for the distribution. They expect to make the production their chief offering for several months, and to conduct a great campaign of exploitation.

Chari Laemmle, president of the Universal, witnessed fifteen reels of the picture before it was cut and edited to its present form on the coast recently. He declared that it was without exception the greatest production he had ever witnessed.

In connection with the announcement of the Phillips picture, Universal has issued notice that it will confine its production operations hereafter to the making of Special Attractions. Several stars previously featured in Bluebird pictures have been transferred from that list to Special Attractions.

The complete list of stars in this group is now Priscilla Dean, Mary MacLaren, Monroe Salabury, Harry Carey, Edith Roberts, Dorothy Phillips and Carmel Myers.

The release dates of "The Wildcat of Paris" and "Danger. Go Slow," have been changed to put the latter out on December 18 and the first named on December 30.

Karger Evolves New Plan to Introduce Characters

A NOVELTY in screen introductions has been evolved for Emmy Wehlen's forthcoming Metro feature photodrama "My Name is Sylvia," by Maxwell Karger, director general of Metro and Screen Classics, Inc., productions. Mr. Karger has improved on the usual slowness with which many stories of the screen get under way. He believes that his introduction of characters through lengthy descriptive subtitles tends to weary the spectator and lessen his interest in the picture as it starts.

In this next Wehlen feature, Mr. Karger will eschew lengthy and involved talk but by action. A "flash" may tell the name of the person, but the explanation will be supplied more by deeds than by words. People will be shown in characteristic actions. One member of the dramatic personage mentions another in a brief speech; for instance, the young heroise, Sylvia. Without further parley, she is there, her own charming self, ready for a drive, and by the kind intervention of Fate, just about to meet "the" man, Jack Brandley, and the drama of the play are made known to the audience without further ado, and "They're on!" The picture is begun without interruptions, "flash-backs," or "visions," and there is no need to call the wheels of the action after the picture has got to "going strong."

Written by E. Forst and scenarized by Jack Wilson, the picture has been directed by Harry L. Franklin and produced under the personal supervision of Sidney Franklin. The latter, veteran producer, is played by Miss Wehlen. W. I. Pecival plays Jack Bradley, and the cast of players includes Frank Currier, Eugene Acker, Rose Wood, Bliss Milford, Beatrice Morgan, Peggy Farr and Isabel O'Hagan.

Fanny Cogan Portrays Mother of Ex-Kaiser

Fanny Cogan will play the important part of the Empress Victoria, mother of the ex-Kaiser, in the coming Screen Classics, Inc., superfeature, "The Great Victory, Wilson or the Kaiser? The Fall of the Hohenzollern." Miss Cogan is a well known player of "mother" parts of a slightly bearing, generally appropriate to the part for which she has been chosen by Director Charles Miller in the new production. Miss Cogan has played in several Metro productions.

"The Great Victory" is a seven-act superfeature written by Maxwell Karger, scenarioted by June Mathis and A. S. Le Vino and produced under the personal supervision of Mr. Karger. Against a background of world events of historical importance, it presents an absorbing romance and is a worthy successor to the former Screen Classics, Inc., offering, "To Hell with the Kaiser."

Government Buys Cameographes

Things are moving in the plant at 80 Gold street. The Nicholas Power Company report the following installations: Through the Commissions on Training Activities, War Department, Camp Humphreys, Maryland, 1          Cameographes, and Camp Las Casas Liberty Amphitheatre, Camp Las Casas, Porto Rico, 2 B Cameographes. The Empire Theatre, Chelsea, Mass., has installed two B Cameographes through the Boston branch of Universal Theatre Equipment Corporation. The St. Louis Theatre Supply Company report that they have lendied and that machines are selling well.

Do you want a camera? Have you a camera for sale? Are you a camera man looking for a position? Do you offer the services of a cameraman? The World's Classified advertising is open for your use. Why not?

"18 to 45" Changes to "Every Mother's Son"

THIS secret is out. The big production upon which H. A. Walsh has been working for the last five months is "Every Mother's Son." It is a powerful story of human hearts and reconstruction and will be released by William Fox, December 8.

It is understood that it was William Fox's intention to show "Every Mother's Son" as a special road attraction. The influenza epidemic, however, interfered with this plan, so that now Mr. Fox has decided to release the production as one of his series of Big Timely Pictures, putting the subject on an independent booking basis and making it available to all exhibitors immediately.

The title of "18 to 45," by which the picture heretofore has been known, was only temporary, and was adopted and advertised merely as a protection to the producer, it is stated. This was done because the opening scenes of the picture deal with the great draft, its justice and its effect on every American home. "Every Mother's Son," however, is not a war play. It is announced, but dealt chiefly with the tremendous sacrifice of American mothers and with the great economic and social problems which will arise during the period of reconstruction.

Director Walsh has been working on the picture for five months. The opening days of the big draft found the picture completed, and arrangements were all made for its showing as a special attraction. During the non-release period, however, developments in the war situation were such that it was deemed advisable to make certain changes in details. Mr. Walsh had several conferences with Government officials in Washington, and it is reported that some of the reconstruction scenes are based on ideas which he obtained from Government sources.

Some of the most powerful scenes in the picture have to do with the war's after-effects on American life—the problems of business and industrial changes, social readjustment, employment questions and the realignment being handled in a way that is expected to make the picture one of extraordinary timeliness.

The cast is headed by Charlotte Walker. Exceptional publicity and advertising campaigns have been prepared.

Claire Whitney
Who is a member of Metro's all-star cast making a photo version of "The Man Who Stayed at Home."
Among Independent Producers

Conducted by C. S. SEWELL

Latest Tourneur Production on State Right Basis

DEFINITIVE decision to release his latest production, "Woman," on the open market has been made by Maurice Tourneur. Tom Moore has purchased Maryland, Virginia, Delaware and District of Columbia rights and arranged to open his million dollar theatre, the Rialto, in Washington, early in the new year, with this production.

Tourneur has just completed his visualization of the late Jacques Futrelle's mystery romance, "My Lady's Garter," and departed for the Coast, accompanied by his executive and studio staff, numbering sixteen, to take over a portion of the Big Triangle studios at Culver City, Calif., where he will film his next three productions, which will be made during the coming winter.

The decision to release "Woman," as well as his third production, "My Lady's Garter," in the open market is said to have been reached because Mr. Tourneur believes these productions require special individual handling "Woman" is one of the unique productions of the cinema field. The production scored a hit at the New York Rivoli Theatre.

Following upon this decision, Hiller & Wilk, Inc., the selling agents of Maurice Tourneur Productions, announce they have also disposed of the New England territory to George A. Dodge, who is organizing the Paragon Pictures of Massachusetts. The sale of the territory is another link in an open releasing system for Tourneur productions.

Mr. Tourneur took the negative of "My Lady's Garter" with him when he left for the Coast this week. He will personally supervise the cutting and assembling of this production, which will shortly be ready for release.

Arrow Closes Another Big Deal

The Arrow Film Corporation announces closing of contracts under its consolidated plan of distribution with the International Film Corporation of Denver, which call for the delivery of two productions a month for Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and New Mexico.

The International Film Corporation is under the management of C. John Predard, formerly general manager of the La France Feature Film Company, of Denver. Mr. Predard will shortly open an office at Scranton and will specialize in feature attractions.

"Rhythms" Sold for Several States

Samuel Cordynski, of Washington, has purchased another block of territory on the motion picture "Rhythms," from the Empire Film Company. The new blocks purchased as follows: Santa Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, Florida, Arkansas, Mississippi. Mr. Cummins already controls the rights on this subject for Delaware, Maryland, Washington, D. C., Virginia and North Carolina. This picture will be sent through the territory as a road show.

Madame Alice Blache to Make "Peace" Film

MADAME ALICE BLACHE, the well-known French picture directoress who at the present time is engaged in filming an as yet unnamed production under the supervision of Leonce Perret, featuring Dolores Cassinelli and Albert Gossos, is also, when not at work in the studio, preparing the scenario for a symbolic production on the theme of "Peace." Says Madame Blache: "For weeks, I have jotted down every beautiful thought, and hope to be able to create a picture visualizing my conception of peace, of happiness and beauty as expressed in the one word 'peace.' The moment peace is finally signed, I want to cross the ocean and take pictures in France, to visualize the rebuilding of France with the aid of America, to picture the transformation of the ruins of Rheims and Ypres and other war-ridden districts into prosperous cities, to show how the barren ground filled with shell holes where not a tree or a blade of grass has grown for the last three years will be transformed by the peasants into a rich beautiful agricultural district.

It is announced that the preliminary work for this production will be made in this country, and that several American film players, who have as yet not been selected, will appear in prominent roles.

H. L. Dollman Visits New York

Among the out-of-town film men who visited New York during the past week was H. L. Dollman, of the Doll-Van Pucket Company, Indianapolis. Mr. Dollman disposed the acreage of independent productions and announces the purchase of Illinois rights on "Wives and Infidels" and Illinois rights on "The Still Alarm." Both of these feature pictures are distributed by the Pioneer Film Corporation. Mr. Dollman is also negotiating for the purchase of rights to other productions for his territory.

Paragon Pictures, Inc., Formed in New England

PARAGON PICTURES, Incorporated, is the title of the newest concern to enter the independent field in the New England States, and it is announced that they will handle independent features and choose real box-office value. The executives of the company consist of George A. Dodge, president; John C. Pemberton, vice-president and general manager, and Hovey Dodge, secretary and treasurer.

All stockholders are well known throughout New England. George A. Dodge conceived and built Paragon Park, at Nantasket Beach, also the Georgian, at Boston, and Pemberton Inn and Hotel Pemberton, at Hull, Mass, while Stanley W. Pemberton was formerly in pictures with World and Pathe exchanges, which he served in important executive capacities in Cincinnati, New York and Boston. Hovey Dodge, for the past two years has been sales representative for Pathe in New England.

The office manager of the new concern, whose exchange and general offices are located at 18 Pemberton Street, Boston, is E. E. Weakley, of Pathe's Boston office, while his chief assistant is Miss Dorothy Peman, also formerly of the Messrs. Dodge and Hovey announce that they intend to cover New England in the interests of the company, maintaining close relationship between the company and exhibitors carrying out the policies of Mr. Hand, who is known as "Billy Sunday Hand."

The first pictures announced by this company are "Stolen Orders," William A. Brady's big spectacle, which they will release December 1, and Carmen of the Klondike, the Selevart picture distributed by S. A. Lynch Enterprises, which they will offer to New England exhibitors on November 20. Negotiations are also under way for the purchase of additional feature productions for this territory.

More Sales Announced for "Mickey."

The rights to "Mickey" for the New England territory have been bought by the Paragon Film Corporation, of Boston, the first National Exhibitor Circuit of New Jersey, for New Jersey.

On November 18, "Mickey" was shown for the first time at the Regent Theatre, Paterson, N. J. In spite of unfavorable, rainy weather, the Reede is said to have done the biggest business in its history. The theatre was filled to capacity all day, and the "Mickey" was enjoyed by a large audience of several thousand people. According to the W. H. Productions announcement this is a record that no even Chaplin productions have equaled.
Argosy Feature at Broadway Week of December 1

This first public showing of the Argosy Feature Film Corporation's time-lapse production, "After the War," which was scheduled for the week of November 25 at Broadway Theatre, New York, has been postponed for a week. This was brought about by a conference between M. H. Hoffman, Salesman of Argosy, and M. A. Kasim, manager of the Broadway, so as to allow more time in which to conduct an advance advertising and mailing campaign in connection with this picture, and also to enable the Broadway to prepare for special effects in connection with the presentation.

As its name implies, this feature deals with events of the future, that is, some years ahead, and only refers back to occurrences during the great war. Grand Cunard is the star, while Joseph DeGrasse directed the production. Miss Cunard is well known for her work in many screen productions, especially in serials. The remainder of the characters in the picture are all portrayed by players of note, including Gertrude Aster, L. M. Wells, Harry Carter, Herbert Pryor, Edward Cecil, Dora Hoggers and Gretchen Lederer. The story is the work of Kingsley Benedict.

This production is being released on state rights by the Argosy Feature Film Corporation throughout the country, and is being sold to those pictures riders of the range who formerly were so necessary a part of the atmosphere of the great West. The cowboy tradition has gradually disappeared, or so changed that he is hardly recognized in the modern product. No cowboy film is complete without a group of riders to ride the daring Arab to handle a herd of cattle. In this picture, the workday overalls and old boots of the westerners have been replaced by the suit and tie, and Tom Mix is one of the few of the band who swears by his horse and leather chai. No one is better able to portray the real western character familiar to romance. He is not merely an actor, but has worked for years on a range. When quite young he roamed the Canadian northwest as one of the mounted police, and lived in the south-west during the war in the Philippines. The result of his experiences is fully realized in his screen work, and the power, strength and virility of the soldier and puts his own unique screen personality into it all.

Dalton Issues Statement on "Beyond the Law"

Following the announcement in our last issue that the first production of the Southern Feature Film Corporation was due for release, the public premiere for the trade and press was held on Tuesday, November 12th, at Wurlietter Hall, New York. Some days preceding this showing, however, a private presentation was arranged for the officials of the company, at which there was considerable favorable comment expressed. Mr. Dalton is too well satisfied with the work of Emmett Dalton, who not only appeared in the initial release, but has been assigned to a production under the direction of Theodore Marsten.

The picture, originally made in eight reels, has been cut to six, which has the effect of quickening the action and sustaining audience interest. A preliminary version of the production, Mr. Dalton states: "The motion picture industry has been flooded with advertising material and the current features, and the public has come to regard the Western in particular as not much more than to its actual self. I have lived in the great West all of my life, and have known its problems in detail. It has become a part of my life. "Beyond the Law," which I wrote, is an accurate account of western life, and depicts something real and typical of western life. Exhibitors and state rights buyers can expect a western production which is perfect in every detail."

New State Right Company Operating in the South

The Southeastern Pictures Corporation, lately organized, has engaged a large number of central offices, one at Atlanta, Georgia, and secondly has offices to be operated, one in South Carolina, and one in Mississippi. A. C. Bromberg, vice president and general manager, has charge of this new organization, which has a base in southern territory as one of the first exchange managers in the South. Mr. Bromberg has extensive experience with the industry since he has been a member of the board of directors of a company for fifteen years, and his acquaintance with the western territories is also used to an active connection with the industry as an exhibitor, having built and operated several theatres, and later became an exchange manager for Triangle, then Mutual, General Film and Consolidated Film Supply Company, Atlanta.

However, before his connection with General Film, Mr. Bromberg was engaged in the independent field. Mr. Bromberg has also made a study of the general development of production, in addition to which he took a course in publicity and advertising, and has been employed upon by exhibitors to adjust obstacles in the management of their houses, and served in several important capacities in the management of theatres for a brief period.

Mr. A. Samuels, president of the Southwestern Pictures Corporation, is the owner of a chain of theatres in Georgia, controlling three houses in Atlanta, five in Macon, one in Valdosta, one in Griffin and one in Newnan, with a total seating capacity of over nine thousand.

The Southwestern Pictures Corporation have constituted the Arrow Film Corporation, their exclusive buying representation, and through the Arrow Film Corporation, they have made their initial purchases of a number of attractions listed in our last issue, and, in addition, Messrs. Bromberg and Samuels, have selected "The Woman's War" and also procured from the W. H. Productions thirty (30) three-reel reissues of the Kay Bee productions and the single-reel "Keystone," "A. Buckle" and "Chaplin" reissues from W. H. Productions.

Mr. Bromberg stated: "Mr. Samuels and myself are not interested in the sale of these productions, but serve exhibitors with the best that can be secured, and to conduct an indestructible exchange, and to make a book a picture. We hope to be of real help and assistance to exhibitors in the southern states."

Messrs. Bromberg and Samuels will continue to be in the market for attractions, and request that all subjects be presented to their New York buying representatives.

Selgo Polyoscope Sells All Tom Mix Negatives

EXCLUSIVE Features, Incorporated, located at 126 West Forty-sixth street, New York, announced that they have purchased the property of the Polyoscope Company all negatives for the comedy-dramas in which Tom Mix appeared for Polyoscope. The pictures are known as "Twisted Trails," which will be followed throughout the series by two-reel productions, or "Twisted Trails." An official of Exclusive states in connection with this deal: "Tom Mix is the last of those picturesque riders of the range who formerly were so necessary a part of the atmosphere of the great West. The cowboy tradition has gradually disappeared, or so changed that he is hardly recognized in the modern product. No cowboy film is complete without a group of riders to ride the daring Arab to handle a herd of cattle. Instead, the workaday overalls and old boots of the westerners have been replaced by the suit and tie, and Tom Mix is one of the few of the band who swears by his horse and leather chai. No one is better able to portray the real western character familiar to romance. He is not merely an actor, but has worked for years on a range. When quite young he roamed the Canadian northwest as one of the mounted police, and lived in the south-west during the war in the Philippines. The result of his experiences is fully realized in his screen work, and the power, strength and virility of the soldier and puts his own unique screen personality into it all.

Aviator in Rapf Film Later Killed by Fall

A FEW days after he had completed a series of daring stunts for the Harry Rapf photoplay "Wanted for Murder," Allen Adams, a U. S. Army air pilot, was killed at Central Park, L. I., when his plane, became unmanageable. Some of the feats which he performed are said to be in the "Birth of a Nation." He was warmly complimented by Mr. Rapf and Director Frank Crane.

The pilot's stunt work is featured in this production, which is described as dealing with an international theme, semi-military in character, but by no means a war picture. One of its chief aims is to depict the close friendship existing between the soldiers of the United States and the French and British armies.

About five hundred American soldiers appear in the picture. They were filmed at various points on Long Island, and William Sutton Green were duplicating the entertainment they gave for the boys in training. Mr. Rapf has announced that the names of these boys with their home address have been procured and will be supplied to exhibitors for local publicity reasons. Aside from this feature the story is said to be a timely one, and Mr. Rapf is satisfied he has a sure fire success that will be a money-getter wherever shown.

Emmett Dalton.
Unique Trade Showing for “The Spreading Evil”

T
d recent pre-release showing of James Keene’s production, “The Spreading Evil,” has been received as a large uplift picture, created considerable attention. A novelty in connection with the press and trade generally, was that the audience was not left in doubt regarding the character of the pictures. A large lobby, which was formed before they were to see, for upon entering the lobby an elaborate display of posters and other advertising material was arranged. The walls, dealing comprehensively with the subject.

An attractive twenty-four-sheet was hung on the left wall of the foyer, while two special and decorator windows were decorated on the right wall, and in between were one and three-sheets, all being excellent examples of high-class work. In the lobby there was an oil painting of Honorable Joseph Danals, Secretary of the Navy, and James Keene—producer of the Keene’s King-Entry. Mr. Danals is being congratulated Mr. Keane upon his picture, upon which occasion Mr. Warner, with a strong letter of endorsement. This letter, together with some twenty odd other equally fine endorsements, from representatives and senators, were in a large frame and created a great deal of excitement.

In addition there were about a dozen oil-painted enlargements of well chosen scenes from the respective pictures. This is done in the manner of the show in the lobby, and is effective. Mr. Keane announces that already he is in receipt of numerous inquiries regarding the picture.

“Stolen Orders” Selling Fast.

William A. Brady announces the signing of contract with Paragon Pictures, Inc., for New England rights to “Stolen Orders.” The Southwestern Film Company has also secured rights to this production. Both companies claim the production as their own. The plot is given in the following paragraph, and is, as far as known, the only picture of this subject. It is said that this production, interpreted by the stars, Kitty Gordon, Carlisle “Blackwell,” Montana “Blackwell,” and many others, has shown a remarkable box office wherever presented.

“The Kaiser’s Finish”

A Timely Production.

A TTENTION is called by A. Warner, sales agent of the eight-reel feature picture, “The Kaiser’s Finish,” the excelling business enjoyed by this picture since the signing of the armistice with Germany. Says Mr. Warner: “It has an apt illustration of the value of a timely production and the support which can be expected from the public when an agent visualizes for his patrons the subjects holding the uppermost place in their minds. It will be found that the most popular features of the present day are those who have played the picture during the last week are complimentary beyond our most ambitious expectations. It is most important. In capacity wherever shown, and theatres in which it was booked for two or three days, I have extended their contracts to a week.”

Manager Lytic of the Empire Theatre, San Antonio, ran this production for a week, and it was “peace celebration” day, without preliminary advertising or publicity, and notwithstanding the fact that he did not receive his posters and lobby display until Wednesday, W. H. Hickey, of the Dallas exchange: “It is a first-class picture. I think to Mr. Hickey, the Empire theatre is the first time that a special production has opened in Texas to a week’s run without any advance preparation.

In the excitement over the claims to have established a new record for book- legs, as he has already closed contracts by more than thirty cities, serially and telephone aggregating $26,000. Among the houses in Texas which will play this production are the Hippodrome, the State, and the Bijou. The Hippodrome, Waco; Queen, Galveston; Majestic, Wichita Falls; Crystal, Greenville; Lyric, Longview, and many others.

R. Arthur; Liberty; Orange; also the Hauber, Pine Bluff, Ark., and the Jewel, at Helena, Ark.

W. H. Productions to Defend Suit.

The W. H. Productions Company, in a statement to the effect that the proceeding instituted against it by the Federal Trade Commission, announces that it will now proceed to defend the suit. Their attorneys, Seligberg, Lewis & Strouse.

Art-O-Graf Company Formed in Colorado

FOR the purpose of producing and marketing feature films, the Art-O-Graf Film Company, a Colorado corporation, has been formed by Tom Gibson, of Denver. Gibson is president, and J. Towle, of Denver, vice-president. The first production will be a six-reel feature. “Wolves in Wall Street,” adapted by Tom Gibson from his story, “The Golden Wolf.” A lease has been secured by the Art-O-Graf Film Company upon the Englewood Studio of the National Film Corporation.

Odis B. Thayer, president and producing manager for the Art-O-Graf Film Company, is a man of many years’ experience in the motion picture industry. He was formerly a director for Wm. N. Selig Chicago studios and is said to be the first man to bring the film industry to the film “Western” stories. Since that time Mr. Thayer has been identified with pictures and is an independent producer. He is to produce the “Unborn,” “The Awakening of Bell Morton,” and several short subjects.

For the past five years Tom Gibson has been actively identified with several large companies as producer and editor, including Lubin, Chratic, Balboa and Universal and National Film Company. At Universal he produced sixty-seven reels in eleven months.

The production plans of the Art-O-Graf Company, according to Gibsoms, “Wanderers” subject a year. They have already arranged for the first four and are negotiating for rights to popular novels. “The Last of the Open Range” is another feature. Gibson’s stories slated for early production, and it will be a story of the early-day struggles of the sheep and cattle men. Mr. Gibson is co-author of the serial, “The Bull’s Eye,” made by Universal.

Special Engagements

For “Romance of the Air”

CARL E. CARLTON, under whose personal supervision of the “Romance of the Air,” the aerial motion picture featuring Lieutenant Bert Hall and Edith May, a production of the Airmont Company, which had its premiere at the Rivoli Theatre, New York, played to the biggest receipts of any picture of the kind since this house has been booked for the past twelve weeks. Pending his decision as to how this picture will be released for general distribution, he is to arrange for special engagements in Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, San Francisco, Los Angeles and other cities. Lieutenant Hall will appear in person as he did at the Rivoli and relate some of his exciting adventures.

Lieutenant Hall, who, with Major William Thaw, are said to be the only surviving members of the original Lafayette Escadrille, was decorated seven times and honorably discharged at the end of the war.

The recent special showing of “A Romance of the Air” held in Boston, this city having been selected, as Edith Day, who is featured with Lieutenant Hall, is now appearing in the show, assumes the principal role of the musical comedy “Going Up.”

Herron, standing, well known for his work in a military capacity, has been busy with a marked resemblance to the well known American “Ace.”

General Film Handling “Hearts of Love.”

Thomas Beddington, of the American Feature Film Company, advises that he has received numerous inquiries from various buyers throughout the country. Appear to have gained the impression that “Hearts of Love,” the feature production which he handled for his company is being distributed on a state rights basis. Mr. Beddington states that this is not the case; however, is unwilling to go into a proposition, but is on the General Film program. The foreign rights, however, are under different handling.

Feature Film Corporation, 220 West Forty-second street, New York.

State Rights Sales

Reported This Week

ARROW Film Corporation announces that under its consolidated plan of operation that it has sold to the Utah, Wyoming and New Mexico rights to a number of productions, details of which are carried in another article in this issue.

A. Warner announces the sale of rights to the “Kaiser’s Finish” to the New Grand Central Film Company, St. Louis, for Missouri, and to Central Film Company, Chicago, for Illinois.

Paul Smith Pictures Company has sold through the American Film Corporation rights to the “Finger Show,” the first National Exhibitors’ Circuit of Virginia, for Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, and Florida. It is announced that this production will be exploited as a road attraction.

Paragon Pictures, Inc., 16 Piedmont street, Boston, have secured from Ernest Selplan rights to the Allen Jennings production, “The Lady of the Dugout” for the six New England states.

As announced in another article in this issue, Samuel L. Cummins has secured from Louis B. Mayer Company a feature production “Birth” for nine Southern states.

Hiller & Wilk have disposed of the following rights on the Maurice Tropener picture, “The Presence of Other Eyes” in Washington, Maryland, Delaware, District of Columbia and Virginia, and to Paragon Pictures, Inc, for New England.

Southwest Film Company have secured from William Selig the rights to “Stolen Orders” for Louisiana and Mississippi, in addition to the territory they are already handling.

W. H. Productions Company have sold the New England rights to "Memories" to the Boston Photoplay Company; Wisconsin rights to the Wisconsin Film Company, and New Jersey rights to the First National Exchange, Paterson, New Jersey.
PROHIBITS SALE OF STANDING ROOM

Michigan's Fire Marshal Orders That Tickets Cannot Be Sold After Seating Capacity Is Occupied

By Jacob Smith, 117 Free Press Building, Detroit, Mich.

REED SUCCEEDS STUART AT GENERAL

A. J. Reed has been appointed manager of the General Film Exchange, Detroit, succeeding Frank Stuart, who resigned. Mr. Reed has for the past eighteen months been in charge of the George Kleine Exchange in Detroit. Mr. Stuart has been with the General for three years, starting in as one of the clerks. He has announced no future plans as yet.

NAMED MANAGER OF FILM CLEARING BRANCH

W. A. Haynes has been appointed manager of the Detroit branch of the Film Clearing House, third floor, Film Building. He joined the Dawn Masterplay Company, and later went with the Producers Distributing Corporation. He also operates an exchange under the name of Haynes Features.

BREEZY DETROIT ITEMS

Alvin Smith, of the Fine Arts Theatre, has adopted a new policy of continuous performances from 2 to 11 p.m. daily. The theatre has been completely redecorated and many beneficial changes made. The new Deluxe Theatre will open November 27 with "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots," starring Joel Flavor. The price of seats in the evening at Woodward No. 1 Theatre have advanced to fifteen cents.

C. E. Shurtliffe, general sales manager for the W. H. Hodkinson Corporation, was recently a Detroit visitor, making final arrangements for the transfer of the physical distribution from the General to Pathe.

J. C. Fishman of the Standard announces having secured the Michigan rights to "The Kaiser's Finish." The Standard will also distribute a war picture for the Government, "Fit to Fight."

Arthur S. Hyman, of the Hyman Attractions, Owen Building, has been appointed Unit Supervisor of the Central Eastern States for the Affiliated. He will start a drive at once for new members.

IOWA NEWS LETTER

By J. L. Shipley, 615 Locust Street, Des Moines, Iowa.

IOWA RECOVERS FROM INFLUENZA.

IOWA has completely recovered from the influenza, and film exchanges report business normal in every way again. Local exchanges have been fortunate in retaining for the most part their entire clerical force and roadmen as well. The layoff of two weeks or more was in reality a vacation to some of the boys who had not had that much time off in months.

MYERS TAKES OVER COTTON THEATRE

W. L. Myers, former manager of the Palace Theatre, Waterloo, and lately in charge of the Plaza in that city for J. E. Hestetttll, has taken over the Cotton Theatre in Cedar Falls, renamed it The Regent, brightened the house in many ways, including a new lighting fixtures and all-round improvements. Mr. Myers always makes a success of any theatre he handles and he is counted upon to put the Regent over with a bang. Cedar Falls is a college town of 7,000 inhabitants and has one opposition theatre.

PARAMOUNT OFFICIAL VISITS DES MOINES.

Hiram Abrams, of Paramount, spent a day in Des Moines recently in conference with local Paramount officials. While here Mr. Abrams stated that no local changes were contemplated for the present at least.

GRIFFITH FILM BOOKED WELL AHEAD.

W. F. Jacka, manager for Griffith, representative for "Hearts of the World," is again on the job after the Influenza ban and has the dual job of booking pictures well booked into the winter. He plans a three weeks' run in Des Moines at the close of the regular theatrical season. Frank Hurst, who was his company manager with "The Birth of a Nation," is back with the "Hearts" show.

ROALD'S NEW HOSPITAL

The Royal is now running first-run pictures at ten cents, and doing a good business. Its only opposition at this price is the Majestic, which is getting ten cents for second-run subjects, with fifteen cents on first-run pictures.

RALPH WILK IN MEDICAL SERVICE.

Ralph Wilk, brother of Jake Wilk, well known New York theatrical and picture star and member of the firm of Hilger & Wilk, is attached to the medical staff at Camp Dodge. Young Wilk is a former Hollywood star, and does the odditorial work at Duluth and other towns in the iron range.

Cleveland Trade Letter

By M. A. Malaney, 268 Sloan Building, Cleveland, Ohio.

EXCHANGES COMBINE QUARTERS.

The Union Film Company, Exclusive Features and the Ohio Ivan Company have combined their business quarters in line with the recent combination ideas which have affected other companies. These concerns are now located on the fourth floor of the Belmont Building.

STEELE IN WEST.

B. C. Steele, former Cleveland exhibitor, is now in Los Angeles, manager of the Symphony Theatre there. During the Influenza closing he redecorated the house.

REAYE GOES TO METRO'S CHICAGO OFFICE.

Harry Reaye, well known salesman who has traveled the Ohio film territory for several years, has departed from this territory to Chicago, where he will work in the future.

Harry has been with Metro for some time back, will continue the same concern, working in Illinois and Indiana.

Cleveland Brevities.

Charlie Chaplin's new picture, "Shoulder Arms," was shown at the Cleveland, week of November 17, and played to a very big business.

C. D. Hackett is the new assistant manager of the Cleveland Pathé exchange.
ALLENS AGAIN EXTEND THEATRE CHAIN

Acquire the Windsor at Windsor, Ontario—Now Operate Thirty Picture Houses in Canada

By W. M. Gladish, 33 W. E. S. R. S.

J. P. Allen, of Toronto, have made further advances in their extension of their business interests in the Dominion.

Announcement is made that the Allen's have purchased the Strand Theatre of the largest theatres in Windsor, Ontario.

This house has had a milque history, but in recent times was acquired from the former owner, a Windsor alderman.

George Rotski, manager of the New Grand Theatre, St. Catherine and Stanley streets, Montreal, has been appointed general supervisor for Allen Theatres in the Province of Quebec. With this announcement comes the news that the New Grand has also been acquired by the Allens, making the Allen's theatres in Montreal for them, in addition to the Francois Theatre, which was leased temporarily for the war. The management of this theatre has also been acquired by the Allens.

It has also been reported that the Allens were negotiating for the lease of the Toronto Regent Theatre.

Mr. Rotski will be the overseer of the New Grand, Allen Theatre, of Westmount, Montreal, and the Shaw, Lachine, and other houses. The New Grand is not a new theatre, the seats are hardwood, the balcony is connected with the church. It is centrally located, however, and is a good proposition.

Allen's Door Street Theatre, Toronto, is not soon to complete and will shortly be opened. Allen's Theatre, on Danforth avenue, which has been vacant for several years, was recently sold on account of objections from rival exhibitors and clergy of the community, and it is expected that the owners of this one will be some time before it will be opened.

The new Allen theatres in Edmonton and Regina are progressing nicely despite labor shortage and the epidemic which is spreading over the country.

The Allens now have approximately thirty moving pictures in Canada, either in the picture houses or in storage.

McKearl Resorts from Shea's Hippodrome

Announcement is made that E. A. McArdle has resigned the management of Shea's Hippodrome, Pittsburgh, in succession to A. J. McKeilvie. Mr. McKearl was in Pittsburgh for four years, and has been in charge of the Hippodrome theatre there for more than a year. He was formerly assistant to Ben Trone, who is at present owner of Allen theatres, with headquarters at Toronto.

Ottawa May Have a Screen Club

A movement is in foot to organize a Screen Club in Ottawa. The Ottawa Journal is considering the subscription of Will McAulchlin, motion picture editor of the Ottawa Citizen.

Major Graham Buys the Strand

An interesting change in the Canadian West has been the sale of the Strand Theatre, Saskatoon, to Major J. Graham, of Regina, for a consideration said to have been $20,000.

The Strand Theatre was formerly leased by the Groves-Walker Theatre Company, but in recent times was leased out under the management of Harry Mee.

Toronto Operators to Nominate

The Moving Picture Operators' Union of Toronto is scheduled to hold its annual general meeting on Monday, December 1, and the annual elections will be held on Sunday, January 2, 1919. The Toronto boxoffice is at the present time in regular November meeting because of the epidemic. The city local is described as being in its strongest position since its organization.

Dominion Theatre Holds "Siberian Day"

The Dominion Theatre, Ottawa, observed Monday, November 18, as "Siberian Day," the members of the Canadian Siberian Expeditionary Force stationed in Ottawa, being guests of Manager Hunitch at the evening performance on that date. Several members of the force presented to the former madiff numbers for the entertainment of their comrades. The "Siberians" turned out 256 strong.

Coliseum Theatre Beautified

The Coliseum Theatre, Kew Beach, Toronto, looks like a new house since its renovation. The curtain windshield at the front has been replaced by a hand- some partition of the lattice-work style. The theatre also has a big orchestra pit and a painted stage and appears more handsome than ever. There is also a rather ornate frame around the screen. Added to these features are some decorations to kill the bare-wall effect. The front wall has also been redecorated and remodeled. The windows in both of the stores in the Coliseum are now used for display advertising purposes, the advertisements consisting of transparent signs covering the plate glass. The spaces are used to draw attention to coming attractions.

Shows Part of Coming Attractions

Manager of the Regent Theatre, Toronto, has added another idea, new to Toronto, to the list of many innovations with which he is changing the old Toronto house since he took over its management a few weeks ago. The latest stunt is the showing of the coming week's attraction on the screen, along with the title of the picture and a trailer, that the feature will be shown during the Regent during the coming week. Mr. Elliott is also using a special Regent title and tail-piece for the news weeklys which are being presented.

Boy Scout Picture at the Allen

The English serial, "Boy Scouts to the Rescue," opened at the Allen Theatre, Toronto, November 16. Local Boy Scout organizations paraded to the theatre with a bond on the front, and were given a show of the management at performances throughout the week. The serial, which comes in for the Christmas holidays, is controlled in Canada by Clair Hague, of the Canadian Universal.

Motion Pictures to Advertise Canada

B. E. Norrish, of Ottawa, Ontario, has been given charge of the official moving picture campaigns of the Canadian Government, and is associated with the Department of Trade and Commerce. Mr. Norrish is in a special position under the Ministry of Education. He is in charge of the Canada campaign, is controlled in Canada by Clair Hague, of the Canadian Universal.

Canadian views in the United Kingdom, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa.

Front of Moss Park Theatre Beautified

The Moss Park Theatre, Queen Street East, Toronto, Ontario, is a theatre that is a real study in art. Incidentally, the Moss Park Theatre, under another name, was formerly the Imperial. It was that so uninviting that the house was closed for a number of months. Mural paintings of the De Chauvin family and panels of the entrance, the scenery, typifying drama and comedy as presented on the stage, are also a credit to the management.

Schreiber Still Under Ban

On November 16, practically the only censorship which the Pictures of All Nations still was keeping the lid on public gatherings was Schreiber, a small town in Northern Ontario. The authorities of all other cities and towns had seen fit to live the embargo on theatre performances by that date. The result was that the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Protective Association of Ontario sent a short letter by delivery to the manager of Schreiber to ascertain the reason for the delay in removing the ban there.

Says News Films Will Be More Valuable

C. G. Ouinot, of Montreal, president and general manager of the Specialty Film Import, Ltd., Canadian distributors of Fathe releases and official British pictures, declares that news weeklies will now become more valuable than ever. He feels that through censorship, that the "war views" will become less popular, novel in the war over.

"The next six months will see many changes throughout the world," says Mr. Ouinot. The public is hungering and eager for detail. The motion picture is the greatest recorder of details. The new information which the news pictures will now be removed, as secrecy is no longer necessary. Cameramen will have subjects to record. New information that will be released and how theatre patrons will want to see and know the inside workings of the wonderful military machine that crushed Prussianism.

Cincinnati News Letter

By Kenneth C. Crain, 307 First National Bank Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

"America's Answer" at the Strand

A unique subject, as strong interest now as while fighting was going on, if not stronger, judging by the attendance at the Strand on Monday night to see "America's Answer," one of the official Government films showing the kind of army Uncle Sam raised. This was the first shown at the Strand after the lifting of the ban, and more than a little interest was added by reason of the fact that Ohio troops were among those shown in the picture. It was seen previously at the Grand, before the opening of the regular season, at high prices. John Needham and Bill Smith, the Division of Films, Committee on Public Information, were in Cincinnati to promote the run of the picture as for the showing of "Under Four Flags" later on.

"Smile" Film for Cincinnati Soldiers

A unique film, the taking of which was preceded by a visit of the officer of the photograph of the patient, who contracted the influenza epidemic, was finally made at the Cincinnati Zoo, under the auspices of the Rotary Club, and will be sent overseas as a Christmas present for Cincinnati soldiers, in some future "over there" camp. It shows views of the more than 2,000 fathers, mothers and children of the Cincinnati Boys' and Girls' clubs, the divisions, one being especially devoted to six "war babies," born since the departure of their fathers. These pictures were shown downtown, and have since been forwarded so as to reach France by Christmas.

December 7, 1918

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

1110
Seattle News Letter

By E. J. Anderson, 807 Leary Building, Seattle

Yamada and Kaita Open the Atlas.

WITH the lifting of the influenza ban a new competitor entered the ranks of Seattle's flourishing motion picture business this was the Atlas Theatre, opened by Mears, Yamada and Kaita.

The theatre, located on the site of the old Crockett Theatre, both theatres being in the lower downtown section of the city.

The new houses which the managers of their own, is on Maynard avenue, in the Japanese residential district. It is a fine, well-equipped house, seating about 500. Service has been signed for four first-class films, including two of Pathe and Universal.

The opening feature was Theda Bara's "Cleopatra." The admission charges are 15 cents and 10 cents, the latter being the price for children. On the day of the opening, November 12, no less than fifteen large floral pieces were received by the management from their various business friends and well-wishers.

Hamrick Buys Back the Gem.

John Hamrick, manager of the Rex Theatre, has bought back the Gem Theatre, which he opened for a monthly engagement on September 25, on the east south of Yesler Way, and sold a week or two afterward.

He now is running business on Tuesday and Wednesday with the Douglas Fairbanks and Fatty Arbuckle pictures. He has a Big Review, "Bright Lights," respectively. With the reopening of the Rex Mr. Hamrick has changed his former policy of a change only once a week, instead of twice a week, which he was trying out when he took the theatre.

Sandell Opens the Pictureland.

E. W. Sandell, manager of the Dream Theatre of Snoqualmie, and former manager of the Movietheatre in Belltown, Washington, opened the new Pictureland on November 13. Mr. Sandell just closed the Movies when the influenza order went into effect, and he took the opportunity offered by the closing of all houses to get ready the new house, which he had contemplated opening for some time. The Pictureland is a $70,000 house, equipped with the latest film projector, screen and a Power's 6A and Simplex machine. The service to be used is Artcraft-Paramount, which will establish an excellent business at North Bend, owing to the prosperity of the extensive lumber interests of the region.

Coliseum Installs Wurlitzer Organ.

A big new Wurlitzer organ is being installed at the Coliseum Theatre, Seattle, and the management has promised that O. G. Wallace, organist, will perform on the new instrument for the first few days.

Thall Sells His Interest in the Victory.

C. M. Thall has sold out his interest in the Victory Theatre, Camp Lewis, to his associates, Messrs. Cassidy and McKee; but will retain control of the screen house. The Victory opened the latter part of this week, several days after the ban had been lifted in Seattle.

Arnold Recovers from Influenza.

J. E. Arnold, manager of the Star Theatre, Bellingham, has been seriously ill with the Spanish influenza, but has recovered sufficiently to attend to the details of his wholly successful enterprise. His operator died from the disease, however.

Haubrook Opens the Rex Theatre.

E. H. Haubrook has closed the Apollo Theatre in North Seattle and has opened a new theatre on Harris avenue. This gives South Bellingham one of the best theatres in the Northwest. The new house will be known as Rex Theatre.

BUSINESS AGAIN BOOMING IN DAYTON

On Sunday, November 17, the Dayton Theatre opened to 10,004, Memorial Hall to 3,000 and the Strand to 7,000.

By Paul Gray, Dayton Theatre Building, Dayton, Ohio.

SUNDAY, November 17, brought back the business that had been lost by the influenza epidemic in great shape and one of the reasons for many moons was registered on the different daily reports of the past three weeks, and the three openings on Sunday worthy of mention that did very good, chief among these being the three and a half hours at the Dayton Theatre. This house played to 10,004 people on that day, making a new work for attendance records. This bears the record set at the Dayton by "Tarsan of the Apes," which played to 5,956 patrons, making it four less than ten thousand.

"Hearts of the World" opened at Memorial Hall to about 3,000 admissions, which was very good considering the fact that only one show was given at its premier.

The Strand opened with Douglas Fairbanks and Fatty Arbuckle pictures and played to capacity all day. It is thought that about 7,000 patrons passed through the doors with theatregoers of the downtown houses were hurt the first few hours of the afternoon by the strong competition, which was held between the hours of one and three, but were boosted by the good business that is coming back strong in Dayton.

Thomas Back at the Dayton.

Hewitt H. Thomas, who had been sick for the past three weeks, is again at his post, directing the orchestra at the Dayton Theatre here. Mr. Thomas' wife passed away November 6th from suffering from an attack of pneumonia contracted after having had the influenza.

Schwerin, Operates in Dayton.

Charles Schwerin, of Cleveland, and who is now out for himself with several big pictures, visited Dayton for a week in November. Interests of his productions. Mr. Schwerin has "The Devil's Playground," with Vera Michellina, "The Crucible of Life," and many other recent successes. Mr. Schwerin imparted the information that he had found Dayton a good market time in addition to himself and hoped to add more in the near future.

Dallas Trade Letter

By Phil Fox, Times-Herald, Dallas, Texas.

Fairbanks Addresses Big Texas Crowds.

TEXANS turned out by hundreds of thousands to greet Douglas Fairbanks, who made a tour of the state in the interest of the United War Work campaign fund during the second week in November.

Fairbanks was at San Antonio when the news broke that Germany was whipped and that fighting was over. There was an immediate celebration. The star was called upon to address a great crowd which had gathered around his car at the railroad station.

Marshal Eskridge, of San Antonio, presided at the dedication of a cask of Burgundy wine, which he declared was the only one in the exceedingly dry city of San Antonio.

The work done by Douglas Fairbanks in Texas proved of real value, his pictures were not too great for every community visited. Constant speaking caused Fairbanks to become so husky that it looked as though he would reach the end of his tour. His work was mostly done in Southwest Texas. He did not visit Dallas or any of the major Texas cities, although they had hoped to see him.

Must Put On Good Shows to Keep Patrons.

"If the small-town motion picture exhibitor does not want his business taken away from him, via the automobile route, by the larger cities, he must wake up and hit the ball right now," declared John C. Ford, manager of Mineral Wells, one of the most popular of North Texas exhibitors. He went on to point out that the influenza quarantine most of the small-town theatres were closed at once, while in the larger cities the quar-
ALL NIGHT THEATRES PAY DIVIDENDS

December 7, 1918

Maritime Province News

By Alice Fairweather, Standard, St. John, New Brunswick.

Imperial Theatre Renovated.

The Imperial has been thoroughly renovated during the period of the epidemic. The theatre was closed for a few weeks, and the high-ceilinged room was painted dove gray, new lamps have been installed on the ground floor and the doors, and the stage has been decorated in olive and gold, with gold furniture.

Babineau, of Palace Theatre, Dies.

R. Babineau, for the last ten years owner and manager of the Palace Theatre, Chatham, N. B., passed away last week. He was a pioneer exhibitor, one of the first in the province, having opened the C. C. W. house during the period of 1905-1906, and conducted it most successfully ever since.

An open-hearted manner made him the friend of everyone with whom he came in contact, and his integrity was unswerving.

The city's most powerful and influential department is the Board of Health, and this is widely known to thousands upon thousands of theatre-goers in Washington: Robert E. Long, as he is familiarly known, has the new Rialto Theatre, now being erected, named after him. Mr. Long's position is as assistant manager of the Keith Theatre, and he has been up North for his new establishment, the Rialto, in the old Cornwall Avenue, near the, and there is no saying that the Board of Health will permit their being opened.

Washington City News

By Clarence L. Linz, 622 Riggs Building, Washington, D. C.

Long to Manage the Rialto.

BOE' ONX. One of the most familiar names among the theatre-going public is that of Mr. Bob Long. He is as widely known to thousands upon thousands of the theatre-goers in Washington: Robert E. Long, as he is familiarly known, has the new Rialto Theatre, now being erected, named after him. Mr. Long's position is as assistant manager of the Keith Theatre, and he has been up North for his new establishment, the Rialto, in the old Cornwall Avenue, near the, and there is no saying that the Board of Health will permit their being opened.

Bob Long is one of the veterans of the theatrical game in the National Capital, having a continuous record of nineteen years to his credit. He was born in Xenia, Ohio, in 1897, and has been in the theatre business for more than a quarter of a century, and has been in New York, Philadelphia, and other cities in the eastern part of the country. He has been in the theatre business for more than a quarter of a century, and has been in New York, Philadelphia, and other cities in the eastern part of the country.
San Francisco Trade Letter

By T. A. Church, 1567 North Street, Berkeley, Cal.

Theatre Men Feature Carnival.

IN THE interest of the projectionists of the local trade, a carnival was held recently during the luncheon hour at Tait's to ratify the action taken at a meeting a few days ago to increase the rates on trotting over the net receipts of the first day's performances in local moving picture houses under the War Work campaign.

At this gathering several new members were added, as follows: Verdi Theatre, Unique Theatre, Palace Theatre, Odcon Theatre, Malo Mio, A. M. Bowles, representing the American Film Manufacturing Company, motion picture theaters of the United Feature Pictures of America, represented here by William J. Citron.

Mayflower Theatres

The Liberty Feature Films Company, 376 Sutter street, recently completed its second patriotic picture, a two-reel production, entitled "Where's Your V-Signature Card?" The picture was made here in its entirety and shows many locations of surpassing beauty. This third patriotic production, "Unconditional Surrender," is under way. Florian Fisher is acting director, Mabel Buhler, third assistant director. The camera work is being done by Raymond A. Mendelsohn.

Rialto Theatre Finance.

The Rialto Theatre Company has been granted permission by the Commissioner of Corporations to issue five thousand shares of stock to Howard J. Sheehan and George M. Mann, these being in exchange for several thousand dollars that the late owner bequeathed to the Rialto Theatre and its equipment.

Rejuvenates Hamblen Theatre.

Several changes have been made in the management of the Hamblen Theatre at Alameda, Cal., since this house was opened about a year ago, and for a time its fortunes were not bright. But Capt. P. Donnellan, a pioneer exhibitor of this field, took charge last June, when Sheehan & Lunn, the operators, were transferred to a house and when the latter disposed of their interests remained with the new owners as director-general.

The Hamblen has been closed during the period of enforced closing and has reopened with a flying start.

Trade Briefs.

The New York and Pacific Coast Amusement Company, which formerly conducted a moving picture theater in San Francisco, is reported to be making a complete change of place of business to Los Angeles. The Lyric Theatre at Tulara, Cal., has been reopened, under new management, the new owners being Lloyd Miller, Earl Brown and Forrest Kyle.

December 7, 1918

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

BLUEJACKETS HONOR "DADDY" STRONG

Operator at Universal's Minneapolis Exchange, Given Gold Watch by Dunwoody Sailors—Is Civil War Veteran

By U. E. Mulligan, Minneapolis Journal, Minneapolis, Minn.

GEOE D. ("DADDY") STRONG, star on a Mississippi gunboat in the Civil War, and owner of the present-day bluejackets, is the possessor of a gold watch and chain, presented to him by the Dunwoody Sailors' Home of Minneapolis last week. The presentation was made after the regular Dunwoody bat- tlement, similar to those in the hotels of the "Daddy" Strong, who is 76 years old, has known every morning, rain or shine, sleet or snow. He has passed by on Hennepin avenue at 6 a.m., from their quarters in the Radisson and Higgin hotels to Dunwoody Institute.

As a veteran motion picture operator new serving at the Minneapolis Universal Exchange, he has provided many entertainments for them during their stay here. He has not missed a single concert given for the sailors, and he was in attendance as usual when he was surprised by the gift.

With the armslist signed and peace seemingly assured, "Daddy" states that he will continue to exchange "military courtesies" with the bluejackets in Minneapolis.

Metropolitan Gets "Hearts of World."

Following the lifting of the influenza ban the Metropolitan Theatre reopened Sunday, November 17, with "Hearts of the World" which has been booked for a two weeks' showing.

The Griffith picture was making a sensational showing at the Metropolitan Theatre prior to the advent of the epidemic. There was a rush on the opening bill at the Shubert when redecoration work carried on by the new Fox management is finished.

Two Big Jewel Pictures Released Here.

The Yellow Dog and "Borrowed Clothes," two novel special productions, were released in Northwest territory November 15 through the Universal Exchange. In the course of these films, manager of the Minneapolis Exchange, expects to cover the pictures a wide distribution in this region.

Many exhibitors viewed "Borrowed Clothes" at the Universal projection rooms and expressed themselves as being greatly pleased with the story, the acting and direction of the film.

Raynor New Shubert Manager.

W. H. Raynor has been appointed house manager for the Minneapolis Shubert Theatre, which has been taken over by the Fox film interests of New York City. The house is still in the process of being remodelled.

Keough Manages Chicago House.

James Keough, former manager of the Strand and more recently of the New Lyric in Minneapolis, is now manager of the Holms as long as the Lyric is away here.

Manager of the Holms house with a seating capacity of 3,000.

Tom Kress with Fox.

D. Leo Dennison, manager of the Fox film exchange in Minneapolis, has appointed Tom Kress as Minnesota representative for the Fox Corporation.

American Gets Meyer.

Fred S. Meyer has been appointed as representative of the American Film Corporation in Minneapolis territory, succeeding E. S. Flynn, who resigned several weeks ago and left for New York. Mr. Meyer has for several years been prominent in Northwest moving picture circles. He left Minneapolis a year ago to manage the Minneapolis Universal Exchange.

Northwest News Brevities.

Thomas Furniss of the Lyric Theatre at Duluth, will reopen his house when the influenza ban is lifted, with Forrest Phillips, Duluth, in the special attraction, "The Talk of the Town."

Mr. Furniss, of the Unique Theatre at Litchfield, Minn., has been allowed to reopen after a four weeks' closed period, due to influenza, showing "The Kaiser, and Boys of Berlin," at increased admission prices.

Crookston, Minn., where the influenza ban was raised recently after a shutdown period of several weeks, is a closed town again. The influenza epidemic has broken out and is raging worse than ever, according to reports just received from that town.

Philadelphia News Letter

By F. V. Armato, 114 North Solford Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Business Good in Philadelphia.

BUSINESS among the theatres and exchanges has been good during the past week. The familiar nightly crowds have returned to see their favorite shows and the house was full to the limit. Several dramas and comedies again can be seen eagerly looking up the big screen hits at the numerous exchanges. All that the exhibitors present can do is to keep their "box office expression of delight," while the smiling on these beclouded days appears more brightening than ever. The buses and the busy machines hum in the booths, the ladies are again able to realize their importance, as being a cog in the wheel of the successful turn of events, and keep a vigilant eye towards the screen, not even a "ghost" can get by now. At the exchanges time-tables have been pilled high in anticipation of the many trips to be made by the salesmen.

Buhlcr Has Tonsilittis.

Frank W. Buhler, managing director of the Municipal Theatre, has been confined to his bed with tonsillitis and has been greatly missed along the radio. His many friends wish him well.

Uses Victroia with Caruso Film.

Alexander R. Boyd, of the Arcadia Theatre, at Sixteenth and Chestnut, created added interest early on Monday night at the presentation of Enrico Caruso in "My Cousin," which was shown here for the first time in this city. The novel scheme, which was successfully carried out, consisted of having a Victrola installed near the screen so that when the part in which Caruso appears as Pagliacci is shown, the voice comes from the record in well-timed accord with the spoken speech, thus rendering this beautiful solo. This production has made a big hit from the start and will be continued during the week of November 18.

Abrams Joins Select Sales Force.

Ben Abrams, formerly manager of Warner Feature Exchange, is currently one of the first exchanges to open in this city, is back again with the boys and announces that he has joined the sales force of the Select Feature Exchange. Mr. Abrams arrived from Baltimore last month and is now one of the leading exchanges of that city.

Buck Is with Goldwyn Exchange.

A. J. Buck, formerly manager of the Perfecton Pictures Exchange, has returned to this city after a short leave of absence and has become associated with the Goldwyn Exchange.
BUILDS THEATRE FOR ITS EMPLOYEES

Atlas Powder Company Opens 600 Seat Picture House at Perrys Point, Md.—Proceeds to go to Red Cross

By J. M. Shellman, 1902 Mt. Royal Terrace, Baltimore, Md.

The new up-to-date theatre with a seating capacity of 600 which has been constructed at Perrys Point, Md., by the Atlas Powder Company, in which the employees of the plant may find amusement, was opened on Victory Day, November 11, 1918, and attracted large crowds. This playhouse has been christened the New Theatre and is under the management of Mr. O’Dell, who formerly was in the theatrical business. The Atlas Powder Company does not wish to retain the investment and built it solely for the amusement of the workers engaged at this plant, and profits will go to the benefit of the Red Cross.

The theatre is thoroughly modern. The front is of stucco and the doors are brass trimmed. There is a cement sidewalk in front. The reception room is roofed and built of concrete and the doors are metal covered. It is equipped with two of the latest power motors. There is a Rewinder. The screen is estimated at 110 feet. The color scheme throughout is gray and old ivory. The wainscoting is mahogany color. It has the inverted lighting system. The chairs are upholstered. There is an orchestra pit and the stage is built so that vaudeville plays can be given. The curtain is of black velvet and the floor covering is of linoleum. Dressing rooms are located under the stage. The music is now furnished by a player piano.

At the present time only night shows are given. They have the devices of a soldier operator. The lobby has inset panels for three 33 1/3 and one 78 records. These will probably be used for photos of the stars. On the outside there are located two 33 1/3 recorders and one each side of the doors, and photo frames.

The program looked at the present time is: Two days Goldwyn, two days Paramount, one day Fox, one day World and the Mutual-Strand. Tuesday, Saturday, Goldwyn-Catholic and Sunlight comedies.

Premiere of "When Men Betray"

A Premiere showing of "When Men Betray," which is being handled in this territory by the Varsity Pictures Corporation, was given at the New Theatre, 210 West Lexington street, through the courtesy of Manager J. H. Good and Mr. Milton Caplon, president of the Variety. The screening of this feature was a special private for the Baltimore exhibitors and their families and friends. About 200 attended.

Two Parkway Benefits

The Parkway Theatre Company has given permission to the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Western High School Girl Scouts of Baltimore, through arrangements made with Bernard Depkin, Jr., the supervising manager of all the theatres in their chain, for benefits of the nurses. The benefit of the Girl Scouts was held on Wednesday and Thursday, November 20 and 21, at the Parkway, Parkway, Peabody, Strand and Wizard theatres. Through Mrs. Oscar Leser, chairman of the entertainment committee of the D. A. R. in Baltimore, a benefit will be held on the afternoons of Tuesday and Wednesday, December 10 and 11, and the proceeds will be used for the work of the state society.

Memorial Service at the New Theatre

A joint memorial service is being planned by the Patriotic Order of Americans, and its auxiliary, the Patriotic Order of Americans, to be held at the New Theatre, 210 West Lexington street, on Saturday, December 15. This service will be a memorial for the deceased members who have died since December 1, 1917.

Indiana News Letter

By Indiana Trade News Service, 69 Layman Avenue, Indianapolis, Ind.

COMPLETE motion picture outfit has been installed by the Government in the atrium of the former West Baden Springs Hotel—now a big military hospital—at West Baden, Ind., for the entertainment of wounded soldiers. A rolled screen is used which rolls down in the inner court, and a projector is placed in the parlors opposite it and about 200 feet away. There are always several medical officers and the up-patients sit at ease around the tables and enjoy the show. The screen is arranged so that the in-bed ones can view the pictures from their rooms without even raising their heads.

Mishawaka's Two Theatres Reopen

After an enforced absence of five weeks because of the influenza epidemic Mishawaka's two motion picture theatres, the Lincoln and the Paramount, reopened Saturday night, November 16, to enormous crowds of film-starved fans. Both houses were thoroughly cleaned during the closed period and special attention was paid to the matter of ventilation.

Auditorium Theatre Opens

The Auditorium Theatre, new motion picture house which has been erected at Calumet Avenue and Hoffman street, in Hammond, Ind., was opened this week by William S. Hart in "The Lone Ranger," and Catharine Calvert in "A Romance of the Underworld." The theatre, which is under the management of Mr. DeHoff, is said to be one of the closest and most up-to-date in that section of the state.

Parade Boosts Showing of "America"

A big street parade, headed by the Regimental Band and followed by the Terre Haute Liberty Guards, was held in Terre Haute on Monday night in connection with the presentation at the American Theatre of the official Government picture of the premier defense drive. Tuesday night a large part of the theatre was reserved for employees of the Red Cross, and other loyal citizens — the last night of the exhibition—employees of the Columbia Enameling Company occupied the theatre.

A Busy Man Is Exhibitor O'Donnell

Hugh O'Donnell, proprietor of the Grand Theatre, at Washington, Ind., is one busy man. In addition to operating the motion picture business he is a hardware store owner and serving as a director at a couple of banks, this Hoosier exhibitor has entered the newspaper field by writing a column of news notes concerning motion picture stars for the Washington Herald, one of the daily newspapers in that city. The column, which contains breezy and up-to-date news items, appears about twice a week and is eagerly devoured by Washington film fans.

Dollman Makes State Right Purchases

Henry Dollman, president of the Doll Van Film Company, of Indianapolis, has returned from tours of railroad trips throughout the East. While in New York he purchased "Wives of Men" for the state of Illinois and "The Last of the Mohicans," which will be eagerly devoured by Indianapolis and Illinois.

Celebrate Sixth Anniversary

Lyndhurst Theatre, Rochester, Commemorates November 26 With a Special Program. M. Salyerds, Manager

By L. E. Skiffington, 61 Main Street, East Rochester, New York.

On Tuesday, November 26 the Lyndhurst celebrated its sixth anniversary. Manager M. Salyerds arranged a special bill for that day and issued a general invitation to the public to attend. The management saw that it was the right time to give the manager of the house since it opened and was in charge of the affairs throughout the theatre. Before it was completed, so the success which has come to the Lyndhurst is entirely due to him.

The Lyndhurst is situated on the corner of North Avenue and Lyndhurst street, and today is considered one of the most successful theatre ventures in Rochester. It has built up a large clientele of regular patrons which is constantly on the increase. Not only does it draw patronage from its own immediate neighborhood, but the excellence of its program attracts lovers of the silent art from all over the city.

The Lyndhurst as a purely business institution is a valuable one to the section in general, being a part of the town that might be called the border between the business and residential sections. In many ways added to the prosperity of the section. The first of several handsome, modern buildings to be erected in the neighborhood, it has become a sort of an institution. Around its brightly lighted doors, every area and place has sprung up. The business men of the section attribute a large part of their prosperity to the theatre and his active interest in the community affairs, and heartily joined in with him in observing the anniversary event.

Miss Fennyvessey Has a Kiddies' Day

Saturday, November 16, was kiddies' day at the Strand Theatre. It was all originated and planned out by Mrs. Paul Fennyvessey, the manager of that house. In connection with a special showing of the Fox kiddies she promised a present to every kid who attended the show. The kids came early and they continued to come until it was soon seen that the supply of toys which she had on hand for presents was altogether too small. In order that no business trip throughout the day was disappointed she got a big automobile and, with a couple of ushers, made a "raid" on the local department store and purchased some presents.

Miss Fennyvessey is the daughter of Albert and Alice Fennyvessey, the general manager of the Theatres Operating Company. She has several brothers who are successful theatre managers. She succeeded her brother, Paul, at the Strand, when he accepted another appointment in the management of a Liberty theatre, which job he later resigned to go across as a private in the cavalry.

Taylor Visits Rochester

Charles A. Taylor, perhaps better known as "Buck," was in the city last week. He is the manager of the Pathe exchange at Buffalo, which serves Rochester as well as the Southern tier counties. He reports that he has no kick to make and that business is booming.
IN THIS ISSUE,

Fan Fan (Fox),
Ali Baba (Fox),
All Night (Bluird),
Broadway Clothes (Jewel),
Branding Broadway (Arctraent),
The Lure of the Circus (Universal),
The Liberator (Harry Raver),
The Mystery Girl (Paramount),
The Goose Girl (Paramount),
Miss America (Vitagraph),
Love's Pay Day (Triangle),
The Profidgal Wife (Screenart),
The One Woman (Select),
The Narrow Path (Pathe),
After the War (Argosy),
The Hell Cat (Goldwyn),
The Man of Bronze (World),
Five Thousand an Hour (Metro),
One to Every Man (Foxman),
My Cousin (Paramount),

"Fan Fan",
Pretty Screen Fantasy, Typically Japan,

Reviewed by Walter K. Hill,

Want something new, Mr. Exhibitor? Do you think that novelty which every season of entertainment needs to make the public sit up and take notice is something which will show your offerings with an unusually delightful photoplay—"Fan Fan" and "Ali Baba" which have just been released? The studio naturally felt that, if prepared for release, deserve a place in your plans and will reward you in a box-office way at all. We see anyone who has been one to try to this film has brought to view. As Fan Fan she is always a delight. Francis Carpenter, as Hanki Pan, the hero, is brave and manly who commands admiration for everything he does. Of course, we must dispel the villain of the book, a woman, and in recording our discussion of her villainous conduct toward sweet little Fan Fan we find her highest compliment—for what's the use of playing a villain if one is not a success?"HAKLA PAN,"

Dashing Melodrama Acted by Clever Children Reflects "The Forty Thieves"

Reviewed by Walter K. Hill,

This delightful serial-comic melodrama we have reviewed in the booking with "Fan Fan," mentioned in detail elsewhere in this issue. The story of Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves has been coupled by some to look for a chance to show the interesting possibilities that the film offers for a chance to tell the story of the Forty Thieves. The film is all that. William Fox has brought your 'Open Sesame' of fiction to swing wide the faculties of photo-play enjoyment; to gladden the observer of this pretty fantasy with every detail of its production and artistic presentation. Followers of the screen will thank their lucky stars that they have had opportunity for such rare enjoyment as "Ali Baba" (and "Fan Fan") afford—and the exhibitor who does not capitalize on this opportunity to hook both extravaganzas is looking over a very fine roll. In foolish laxness of good showmanship, a chance to win the favor of your patrons with your public and fatten his bank roll.

Gertrude Messinger and George Stone play the haunted bride who is being manipulated by Ali Baba. Bill Druid and the bright, intelligent and gifted little girl doing Morgaina, the greatly suffering slave-girl who won Ali Baba's sympathy and love. Budde Messinger is a deep-dyed and grasping piece of selfishness who does himself credit in one of the leading roles—and there are a lot of boys and girls who enter into the scenes with pleasing result. Only a few of the roles are played by grown-ups: the children control the horses.

Because of the juvenile cast, get no idea that this is a play especially for children. There will be plenty of romance and their elders; a bit of screen blending of tragedy, serio-comic and dramatic revelations that will make the juvenile audience think before the screen a period of pure delight.

"ALL NIGHT"

Five-Reel Bluebird Offering Presents Mixture of Comedy and Farce.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy,

This subject in five reels, entitled "All Night," was reviewed last week in a short story by Edgar Franklin and directed by Hal Powell. The latter thing never quite loses its short-story character, as much of the plot is told in subtitles. The action at the beginning is treated quite seriously, and the situations are like those found in polite comedy, but in the last two reels things take a farcical turn. The picture as a whole fails to live up to its possibilities for some reason that is difficult to understand. It contains good material for a breezy farce, but there is a certain vagueness in the opening reels and a lack of reality that is never quite overcome as the piece develops.

Carmel Myers is cast in the role of Elizabeth Lane, the heroine. She is supported by a cast which includes M. Rodolfo De Valentina, Charles Dorian, Mary Warren, William Dyer, Wadsworth Harris and Jack Hull.

The plot concerns a young financier named Harcourt, who is in bad straits, although he has constant prospects of making a fortune. He loses his temper one night and discharges all of his servants, just as his wife has invited Elizabeth Lane and Richard Thayer to dinner. The guests arrive and also an eccentric millionaire from Montana, named Bradford Thawson, who has a ranch in the desert. It turns out that he has an important deal. Before Bradford comes the Harcourt's plan to act as maid and butler and pass off their guests as themselves. This brings up a number of complications which promise greater humor than is developed.

William Dyer, as Bradford, struggles hard to put the character over, but no matter how much it works out."

"BORROWED CLOTHES"

Jewel Presents Six-Reel Lois Weper Production Featuring Mildred Harris.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

A STRONG example of the strictly emotive type of subject in this six-reel production, adapted and produced by Lois Weber, is "Borrowed Clothes," by Marion Orth. It gives Mildred Harris, now the wife of Charlie Chaplin, the best opportunity she has had to demonstrate her abilities at emotional acting. In the subjects in which the reviewer has seen her perform her best, she is a more than passing personal charm, but in this number she does some very creditable bits of hard work, coming through as a real and suffering individual out of Mary Kirtos, the heroine, but the character is too weak to command admiration, and the story hardly worth six reels.

The central character of the story,
Mary, a girl living happily with her sister and parents. The sister, Louise, is a maniac, and Mary is employed by some sort of orphans' home to make this desire to marry her. Mary is happy with the love of George Weston until Stuart Furch comes in. She moves to a new city and stays with her sister's friend, Rita. The mere wearing of these borrowed garments wrings the secret from her, and she gives up Weston to his sister andphi for more of Furch's society. Almost all her honor, but Furch's rooms are raided by the police at the behest of Rita just in time to save Mary.

THE LURE OF THE CIRCUS

New Universal Serial Features Eddie Polo in a Story of the Tented Ring.

This new Universal serial, of which the reviewer has seen ten install- ments, is a story that is almost as well named. It has from the very first the atmosphere of the circus in good measure. Of course, the imagination of the observer can almost smell the ani- mals.

The story features as its hero Eddie Polo, who will be remembered for his work in "Liberty" and "The Bull's Eye." He is provided with plenty of opportunities in this present offering to delight his admirers, and performs a great many acrobatic and horse-riding stunts which are much more artistically performed than are those in ordinary stunts.

What we particularly like about this serial is the fact that it begins with the young woman who is the hero, and is not the villain of the piece, Richard Van- norman, and remains with it. In other words, while the story leads off to the villain for a time, he is never the one who is the central character of the serial. It is a very strong imaginative story, and the heroine is about the only lapse in charac- terization.

 review of the cast are Lewis J. Cody, Edward J. Peel, Helen Rosson, Fantine Lalou, George Nichols and Edythe Chapman.

BRANDING BROADWAY

Artcet presents William S. Hart in an Interesting and Strikingly Original Comedy by Gardner Sullivan.

Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison.

WHAT a pleasure to see Hart in an entirely new role, though it be on the stage. He is not the familiar figure, but a new one, and it is a pleasure to watch him in his new role. He is a different man, with a difference in an original play by an author of abundant resources with whom he has been working. The characters are adapted to the screen and the male figure is a new one, and Hart plays the part with a naturalness and an air of authority which makes the audience believe in his performance.

THE LIBERATOR

Twenty-Four Reel Serial Starring "Mac- ciste" Contains Many Stunts for the Public.

Reviewed by Edward Welsel.

NO ONE who saw Maciste, the giant screen serial hero of "The Warrior," is ever going to forget him. He is being featured in a new picture called "The Liberator," a twenty-four reel serial that is to be released in twelve two-reel episodes by Harry Haver, on the state rights plan. The story is credited to Agnes Fletcher Baine, Giovani Pastrone, producer of "Cabiria," directed the picture, which was made in Italy.

"The Liberator" is difficult to classify. It is a modern strip story with its plots of dramatic situations, and no effort has been made to give each episode the regulation serial story, but rather a group of stand- connected with it is the presence of "Ma- ciste" at the head of the series. He is such an imposing figure in the story, so much in the picture, so much a symbol of the serial, that it is impossible not to enjoy and applaud everything he does.

His support is also of excellent quality, and the production is one of unusual studio resources. It is an actual scene. Imposing exteriors of palaces, quaint village streets, massive archi- tecures, ornate furniture, and rich interior, old stone bridges, inside views of an Italian circus—glimpses of life in the land of Cabiria are reproduced by the man who created "Cabiria" with a fidelity and a humor which are a constant delight.

Neither is there any lack of incident in the story. It moves at a ponderous pace, that are always acted with skill, Mark A. Blake, review of "The Liberator" by Gerald, Julian Bernard, Ittia Manzini and Edward Daveses being among the more prominent. The music is of the most perfect and quite astonishing. Melodrama, emotional drama, comedy, farce, comic and bewildering. The serial is a most successful attempt and gives the impression of three stories rolled into one in order that "Maciste" may have a chance to save the hero and heroine from traps, strong men about like the latter, and have a lot of action. It is a most exciting story, and it is a story which will appeal to the weak and innocent and amuse the spectator with his prodigious strength and his ingratiating smile.

One of the things to be said against the serial is that it does not contain enough of the big fellows. The other is that the plot is too much involved to obtain the best results for a story told in twelve numbers. On the other hand, its novelty, foreign atmosphere, fine acting and "Ma- ciste"'s mighty manhood make it want of constructive perfection. Ernest Pagano is "Maciste's" right name.

THE MYSTERY GIRL

Ethel Clayton in Paramount Screen Version of a Gabor- McCutcheon Romance.

Reviewed by Edward Welsel.

AMIRERS of the George Barbic- cuteon-Maciste can call up a manly young American wood and weds a titled beauty of some mythical origin by the name of "The Mystery Girl" to their liking. This five-part Paramount production of Macutcheon's "The Mystery Girl" has been directed by Marion Fairfax and directed by William C. DeMille, with Ethel Clayton as the heroine.

Matters get under way rapidly. The mystery girl is the Countess Therese, who is engaged in an intrigue with a harmonica player on the French front and is known as "Driver 477," Prince Sebastian, her uncle, ruler of the land, has been killed, and he is now in hiding. Therese has the crown jewels, and the prince sends her word by Ugo, a mysterious personage, that he plans to escape to America, and for her to join him there with the jewels. In fact, Ugo, her mysterious suitor, is also is to get hold of the jewels and Therese is the only one who can do it. Naimith, known as the clearest thief in Europe, Naimith agrees to help him get the jewels for himself, but is to keep the jewels for himself.

A WAR with a "triumph" heart, falls in love with "Driver 477," and when she arrives in America he turns up at the right time to help her out of serious trouble for her. She goes to "Green Fancy," Spanish Falls, Me., and occupies an old mansion on the out- skirits of which has been cut for her by Ugo and the introduction of a troupe of stranded actors to assist Cap- tain Barnes, and of a magnificently killed while trying to kidnap the Countess. The zems are recovered and Therese and her jewels go to France and take up their old work for the cause of freedomvised.}

The "Mystery Girl" is not a perfect example of a moving picture story. There are some weak spots in the story and the continuity skips a few stitches. It is well produced and acted, however, and Ethel Clayton is a perfect Countess. Harry Woodward as Capt- tain Barnes, Clarence Barton as Prince Ugo, Charles Wets as Chester, Maym Kelso as Mercedes and Parks Jones as Fordussi are the other members of the cast.
THE GOOSE GIRL
Paramount Reissues Old Release with Margarette Clark in Title Role.
Review by Edward Weitzel.

The story of a king in this day of no kings who marries a "goose girl," and the subsequent events that take place when she is discovered to be a princess, is one that has been told many times. In modern day language it seems far below the demand for pictures, these releases should not be confined to stories whose subject matter is still vivid, in which there is at least a trace of topical and common sense. They will certainly not add to the reputation of the star, nor to that of a house whose standard has advanced far beyond these products of other days.

MISS AMBITION
Corinne Griffith's Acting Is Great Help to Vitagraph Five-Part Picture.

Review by Edward Weitzel.

The heroine, as the author of "Miss Ambition," a five-part Vitagraph picture, has not made a very profound study of life. Her heroine displays little depth of character, but Corinne Griffith, as the author of the story that riches alone cannot bring happiness. The incidents are fairly well put together, but they do not add up to a convincing picture. The picture is a safe one for a family theatre. Corinne Griffith as the heroine has helped to the story. Her sympathetic personality and the sincerity of her acting win the spectator from the first mask to the last. Miss Griffith is a name that means in society drapery, as she recalls the time she posed for a statue of Ambition. She is out of place in this picture.

"Miss Ambition" is the romance of a young woman who has worked at a sewing machine and is content to love Larry Boyle, who is just starting to make his way in the world, until she is offered a situation as maid in a wealthy family. Here she meets a sculptor and is prevailed upon to pose for him. This leads to an introduction to a wealthy old man, who offers her marriage. Martha accepts, and Larry, knowing the girl he loves, gets the money out of the mistake that they have made. The husband is killed by being crushed under the tree of a man. Miss Marta commences to think again of the man she once loved. Larry is a contractor now and poses for money. He gives all the money he has left from her husband's fortune, so that her old lover can complete an important piece of work. When Larry discovers this he repays her by making her Mrs. Boyle.

Henry House has directed the picture with good judgment. Walter McGrail as Larry, Betty Blythe as Edith Webster and Temperl Saxe as Dudley Kelland are the leading members of a capable cast.

LOVE'S PAY DAY

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

There is considerable new material in "Love's Pay Day," a Triangle picture, which has been directed by Mason Hopper, but the selection of Rosemary Theby for the part of the heroine is a very nice acting actress, and her work in several releases of recent date prove the truth of the saying, that the "New England Girl," in "Great Love" and the revengeful East Indian Princess in "The Silent Mystery," are a type of girl who will appeal to the leading actresses. Judith, the simple village girl of "Love's Pay Day," is not suited to her personality. Quiet intensity is Rosemary Theby's forte. The portrayal of so unpromising a character as Judith Britton requires a different style of acting. Understanding and earnestness are not sufficient to her to carry the picture.

The story of "Love's Pay Day" is melodramatic. Its characters are mostly primitive. The heroine is a village girl, with no lack of physical action as the plot is unfolded. The scenes along the coast are often striking. Miss Rosemary Theby has kept the tempo of the acting from lagging behind. Judith is engaged to Jean, a fisherman, who is a pack-planting in the village. She is not contented with her prospects in life, however, and a rival is heard. She is looking for her husband's home over to Wilton, and she is trying to embrace Judith when Jean enters the room. He kills Wilton, casts off his wife and leaves the village to start life over again. The rest of the story is developed to the final reconciliation of Judith and Jean.

Pete Morison has the build and the strength of mind for the character of Jean. He is the rough, but honest-hearted, fisherman. Other parts are well played by Billy Dale, Lilian Weil, Alberta Lee, John Lince and Harvey Clarke.

THE PRODIGAL WIFE
Screencraft Picture Featuring Mary Boland and Lacy Cotton Has Strong Emotional Appeal.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

No MOVING PICTURE has ever been made to be called the "East Lynne" of the screen as this is the magazine picture of life. This Screencraft Pictures production, adapted from Edmund Barre-Delano's story, "Flaming Blushes," directed by Frank Reicher, has the strong emotional appeal which gave long life to the celebrated stage drama and made so many actresses anxious to attempt the role of the unhappy heroine. Marion Farnham is another lady Isabel, and the fatal error made by both women leads to the same harvest of tears and vanities.

Thanks to the always adequate efforts of Mary Boland, Lacy Cotton, Director Richter, and their associates, "The Prodigal Wife" is told on the screen with perfect clearness and compelling emotional power. It has the upward sweep of genuine drama, and no footage is wasted in wandering off into picture-postcard lines and tracks. Its story has often been repeated in fiction and in real life, but its theme will never lose its interest or its moral influence.

The woman who deserts her husband and children for a young man she has known, and learns, too late, the terrible consequences of her mistake, is shown in "The Prodigal Wife." Since this story has been offered in so many versions of the theme will permit. Marion Fairfax, the wife of a struggling young man, has deserted him and her four-year-old daughter and runs away with Thomas Byrne, because he promises her the luxury of the society that is denied her. For the next fourteen years she lives the life of a FAILED neglect, sinking lower and lower as she is forced to accept the companionship of the different men who enter her life.

In the meantime her husband has become famous and wealthy, and has become the husband of the woman who died and to revive her memory. When the girl, Mona, is married and about to start on her honeymoon, she is shocked by her mother's happiness, the prodigal wife, who has put her past behind her and, unknown to her daughter's home, saves the young mother from deserting her husband and child. The doctors learns of this and his heart softens toward the repentant woman. He offers to give both wife and child to her, and plucks his wife. Marion will not accept. Mona must never know the truth, she must return to her husband. Mona and husband and wife forever.

"THE ONE WOMAN"
Photoplay by Thomas Dixon and Harry Chandler Is a Deftly Constructed Story.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

EX and not Socialism is the foundation of "The One Woman," a five-part story by Thomas Dixon and Harry Chandler. Sidney Franklin and Reginald Barker directed the production. It has more than average commercial merit. The material is developed cleverly, and there are many worthy people who care only for emotional appeal of moving picture fiction with whom the overdrawn sentiment and weak-kneed logic will pass for the real thing. Excellent acting by the entire cast, artistic direction by Reginald Barker and the employment of several sure-fire situations of the dramatist will secure the picture an interesting fol.

Its appearance in any theatre is bound to excite some feeling. Thomas Dixon novels will be among its strongest supporters. Friends of Socialism will condemn its鹜ins and arguments; the man who cares to look beneath its surface will find only a sex dramatic, which is not what he expects. Unfortunately for the good of humanity, is of an extremely rare type.

The religious and dangerous thing for a minister of the gospel. The Rev. Frank Gordon mistakes animalism for inspiration, and the girl he is in a badly balanced brain which panderers to sensationalism and theatrical display can work her way through. The Rev. Frank Gordon is blessed by the propertied man and two beautiful children, he persuades the father to bring him the disfavor of the trustees of his church. When publicly reburied for preaching his newly acquired doctrine from the pulpit he strips off his vestments, casts them at the foot of the altar and completes his denunciation of the present social order in his shirtsleeves.

Forced to resign his charge, he persuades his wife to become a common law wife into a common law marriage with a woman who gives him a million dollars with the promise to build a new church. The result is that his sociological followers are as difficult to manage as a cage of howling hyenas. It is a plea for the Rev. Frank Gordon to tire of him and throw him over for a new lover as it was for him to abandon his wife and children.

The minister comes upon a passionate embracing scene just after he has been thrown out of his Temple by his flock. He falls into the disposer of his honor and ends by choking himself to death. He is tried and convicted, and is sentenced by the governor at the earnest entreaty of his former wife, who has lived with the convict, to bring him to his senses and to cease to love will one day come back to her. The last scene shows him kneeling at his wife's feet and embracing the children. In a moment of righteous indignation the forgiving woman called him a common murderer. It is an interesting, but it is not known the minister's opinion of his father if the boy grows up and learns the truth.

The two of the minister's children, who are delightfully played by Ben Alexander and Mona O'Brady. The Inviting Destiny, which has Rev. Frank Gordon, Clara Williams as Kate Ransom, Herschel Mayall as Mark Overholt, James Addis as Tom Weitzel, and Thurston Hall as Governor Morrison are the adult members of the exceptionally able cast. The photographic work of Clyde Miana is finely executed.
"THE NAIRROW PATH"

Five-Leaf World-Picture Presents Fannie Ward.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

This five-leaf subject, adapted for the screen by Sulivan from Cunningham from A. H. Woods' play of the same name, is a well-made offering. The look of certain of the subtitles of history, King Solomon and riches and romance throughout the story. The play has a strong sex interest, but is one of the best of its kind. It has no doubt appeal to almost any audience.

Fannie Ward is cast in the role of Markham. The portraitist of Paris' famous run-about at the large barrow's shop with modern appointments. She is in love with a newspaperman, Dick Smart, played by E. W. Allen, who pays an important part in the story and the role has been cleverly handled by Irene Aldwyn.

There is considerable novelty in the situations in this number, which gets entirely through the conventional treatment usually found in this type of story. The young manifurturist finds her name heavily publicized in scandal, not through her own actions, but in trying to save the reputation of Gladys, the sister of her beloved. She is taken to a fast girl at the boarding house, who leads her into bad company. Gladys is victimized by a blackmailer, who is willing to give justice for the girl that the heroine herself becomes entangled in the scandal. There are no inevitable moments of interest and the number on the whole reflects careful attention to detail.

Cut: Sam De Grasse, Mary Alden and Antrim Short.

"AFTER THE WAR"

Grace Cunard Star of a Problem Drama That Reflects Woman's Greatest War Burden.

Review by Walter K. Hill.

HELE will very likely be scores of pictures approaching, from many angles, the theme advanced by "After the War," but the feature in which Grace Cunard plays a part is the first of the procession and has that much of an advantage for exhibitors. Make no mistake as a woman who has been written off will solve no diplomatic problems, dispose of no class or faction in the aftermath of war. After all, the problem found in the back-wash of war.

Grace Cunard plays the role of a woman who has been written off in foreign circles. The war is over. The singer moves in aristocratic Parisian circles where she meets the diplomats and men and women of artistic tastes. There is a whisper of her past, and this "suspicions" moves from vagueness to reality when the cry of a babe is heard in the singer's home where nobility and society has assembled at a reception.

The German ambassador has awakened his wife's jealousy because of his open attentions addressed to the singer. The wife carries her anger into the singer's home, accusing the girl of unwomanly conduct. The singer lets the wife listen while the world and potentates are accepted, and when the parentage of the singer's child is disclosed during the conversation, the singer shows her spouse dead in his tracks.

There has come into the singer's life the love of a man who has come from war fame for his valor. The singer tells him their lives may never be blended into holy wedlock. The German ambassador must support and cherish. When the father of the child is shot the wife who killed him is the singer. The situation that she may be permitted to adopt the nameless child. Thus is removed the principal excuse for the singer's reluctance to wed her first love. The man contemplates the wreck of war, considers how the singer surrendered to save his own life—and the fade-out visions a happy future for the pair.

Shorn of the many interesting details and scenes that supply the completed action of "After the War," the story is made with many out-of-the-way effects. The problem is there, skillfully handled, and presented as the issue that is torturing the hearts of the French and Belgian women today. The problem will live while present generations last; it will be met and overcome. There are no sufferings and who will bear their burden.

Grace Cunard gives a remarkably fine performance in the acting and make-up of the character. It is a difficult acting. The singer is attended by a number of close students, who have suffered and who will bear their burden.

"THE HELL CAT"

Geraldine Farrar Shows Artistic Advance as Western Heroine of "Hell Cat".

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

In many respects Geraldine Farrar's impersonation of Panchita O'Brien in "The Hell Cat" is her best achievement in the development of her career screen. Willard Mack has taken her measure accurately and furnished the Western opera-screen star with a story that gives her a new character for her list of moving picture creations and permits her to add a fresh face to the types of Western heroines, The doings of the men and women that people "The Hell Cat" is in the line of the ballet and the well-tested trail, but they are guided by a keen dramatic sense and a resourcefulness that has learned how to avoid every pitfall along the way.

No Goldwyn production has been more completely adapted to the screen in recent films. The locations are impressively authentic, most of the exteriors having great pictorial beauty. There are stretches of fertile valley and vistas of towering mountain and distant sky that stamp themselves on the memory by reason of their broad sweep of line and grandeur of composition.

Priscilla Dean is the keynote of the plot. An untamed savage of a man, swayed by animal instincts, powerful of build and proud of strength, his heart is determined for a tense desire for a young woman, the daughter of a neighboring ranchman. When he turns his bold advances on her, his partner murders his father, takes her to his own home and subjects her to the deepest indignities. He feels himself as if he is being led to believe she is ready to accept his fate. At the first opportunity she buries a dagger in his heart.

Told briefly, the story seems repellent. Willard Mack's skill as a dramatist and the direction of the story by Reginald Barker, supplemented by the fine acting of Geraldine Farrar and Tom Santschi, the leads, bring the story and its pathetic and moving appeal, and make it a worthy appeal that will do credit to the original talent, the acting, direction and the production. The Goldwyn production of "The Hell Cat" is a lesson of efficient surprise and the value of utilizing the speaking talent of actors. The script and the treatment are excellent.
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD 1119

December 7, 1918

this author's works, as he has previously appeared in the stage version of "Get Out and Get Married." The production, which is a rapid fire one, has been skillfully directed by its author, Ince, and is well mounted, and the star, down to his last dollar through the crooked work of a former associate. He takes $5,000 in cash, leaves town with a girl with whom he falls in love, and on learning that she will lose a fortune of one million dollars, he leaves her and starts the business of his own, making a profit of his own. The manner in which he accomplishes this feat and wins the girl has been well handled, and the plot is so well plotted that the plausibility a rapid pace is kept up throughout.

The acting role fits Mr. Hamilton well, and not only in the lighter moments, but throughout the production his work is fine, and may be credited with an artistic and interesting joy, and the remainder of the large cast, including Florence Short, Isabel O'Driscoll, Gilbert Douglas, Robert Whiting and others are satisfactory in their respective roles.

"ONCE TO EVERY MAN"

Jack Sherrill and Mabel Wethee Are Co-Stars in Paramount’s Good Purpose.

Reviewed by Walter K. Hill.

T HE Frohman Amusement Company, of which Mrs. Mary Pickford is a part owner, and omega, has constructed a fine piece of moving picture property in "Once to Every Man," which is being released today by Paramount. Sherrill is co-starred with Mabel Wethee. Mr. Sherrill much in his favor is known in film circles for his interpretation of the character of the Miss for Miss Wethee is necessary in bringing her to screen prominence. She has been for a number of years a co-star of Al Jolson’s Winter Garden productions, and has won favor on the road as Mr. Jolson has Pleasure. Miss Wethee is a new hand and it is her first time upon the screen in "Once to Every Man," and may be credited with an artistic and thoroughly adequate performance in a role that serves as the inspiration for Jack Sherrill’s character of a youth who fought a moral and physical fight and won. The opportunity that is credited with knocking out once every man’s door is the basis of a plain and straightforward story of interest and entertaining.

The young hero has been the heritage of the picture. The lumber camp where most of the action takes place is the scene of the young man’s fight. It is in fighting for the girl who helps the youth to fight his battles that he is directly responsible for his ultimate triumph, not alone over his inherent weakness, but over the figid champion, whom he downs in stirring battle. It is the story of a youth that climaxes a series of red-blooded episodes and stand-up-fights. The young hero engages in while giving his way through adversity in the rugged surroundings of the lumber camp. Despite the fact that he is an expert for the young hero, a "scraper." a local "scraper" has won fame as a prize fighter, our hero decides to go to New York the champion is an expert sporting writer, and wres the championship from the new title-holder. This he does, and the hero, in the ring comes a message of cheer from his sweetheart. The outcome of the campaign, our hero takes new courage and strength, goes into the final round, and the price is won. Little remains to be done after the final punch—the reunion of loving hearts makes all picture work well. There is an interesting story, told in interesting detail without any questionable angle or ultra-sensational effects. It’s a stand-up-and-fight picture: a type of entertainment that will interest every class of screen follower. For all the world loves a lover who fights and wins the girl of his choice. Walkers in love affairs don’t amount to much in anybody’s estimation.

Tom Hunter has directed the picture with fine vision. He tells his story without delaying details or needless trips. The picture is well told, little is unfolded in a speedy and direct forcefulness that leads to the best possible measure of production. The picture is well done by Joe Farnham, and splendidly done. They are among the delights of the occasion.

MY COUSIN

Paramount presents Carlo Caruso in Dual Roles, Himself and His Cousin, Both Interpreted with the Skill of an Actor.

Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison.

WHEN Caruso appears on the screen he must be judged according to its own terms, for here he is and he scores an unqualified success within the narrow limitations of a mere vehicle. The story is that of a poor cousin of a great opera singer who brags of the relation and is ridiculed on that account in "Little Girl of the Chalk Path." But he wins her during a festa and proves it is true. There is a slender thread of love story, but practical that story is except that created by the artist in a revelation of his many-sided temperament. Magnificently, the atmosphere, in the matter of convincing atmosphere, some of the scenes of a grand opera audience being presented on a huge scale. Then an admirable choice of types rounds out and completes the artistic production. When this to add the skill of a Rohrfel in enhancing effects, there is something wonderful, for the Rivoli audience warmly approved.

The most interesting feature of Caruso's two interpretations is the freshness of the gives of what is known as "temperamental" in human nature, himself one of the most brilliant of his generation. His strength, its emotionalized support, his weakness of purpose under slight discouragement, his lapses of judgment and indiscipline, then the reactions with their tremendous appeal of ardour, native feeling and strength, these constitute a revelation well worth watching, for they are plainly true to the man himself. As the cousin, he is his weakness and more charming self, sensitive, impressionable, impetuous, a man easily moved by sympathy, jealousy and anger, amiable and magnanimous one moment, suspicious, hesitant and wary the next, and all this is most carefully maintained in contrast to the great artist at the zenith of his success, cynically humorous, bored by those who come to he help in their hopeless attempts at a career, weary of empty plaudits, yet of unspotted dignity and sweetness, the whole constituting one of the most remarkable revelations of character ever shown on the screen.

THE CAPRICE

Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.

ALL NIGHT (Bluebird) — A five-roles subject, based on a story by Edgar Franklin, and directed by Paul Powell. The story is of the love of the two lovers, and others are in the cast. This number contains a mixture of comic and comedy and is well mounted. There is a lot of promise, so that it will develop much humor. The production is below the Bluebird standard, but it is well done. The Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

The MYSTERIOUS GIRL (Paramount) — Ethel Clayton is the heroine of this screen version of a George Barr McCutcheon novel. As the Countess Theroe the star is first discovered driving an ambulance on the fringes of the town. He falls in love with her and helps defeat her enemies, when the action is transferred to the heart of the city. A longer review is printed in this issue.

CAPRICE (Paramount). — A Success Series. This story of an early day magazine printer and his picture is based on the life of Mary Pickford’s early days. It made four years ago, and is a Moore’s is a member of the magazine business. The story is a charming one and portrays a young woman with a country girl who marries a city chap and finds his love grows cold when he realizes how undutiful and his own lord and master. The trouble is patched up and he again becomes a journalist. "Caprice" is a simple little story and an interesting example of a 1916 best seller, and of how the moving picture has improve since it was made.

Fox Film Corporation.

FAN FAN (Fox).—Promoted as an extravaganza, "Fan Fan" is really a delightful picture of the entertainment that is provided by children, with Virginia Lee Corbin, a dainty and artistic leading lady, and Francis C. Carver, a manly and leading male. There is the best of entertainment here for both children and grown-ups. The atmosphere of the picture is very skillfully conveyed to the screen, and in every scene and incident there is delightful entertainment. It is soft and sweet and will have you hailing as a benefactor and your house will advance in their esteem.

AL ALBA (Fox).—Here is a chance for mentioning George Stone and Gertrude Messinger as the leading players, this play for children for both children and grown-ups may be equally coupled with the comment above, as applying to "Fan Fan." William Fox has given us a delightful picture portraying these two delightful little romances. In production and presentation both "All Baby" and "Fan Fan" are flawless. They are each a rare treat in a screen way.

Greater Vitagraph Co.

THE TIDE OF DEATH (Vitagraph).—The finish of this number of the Vitagraph serial, "The Iron Test," is a real thriller. Both boys are lowered over a high cliff into the water. The tide is racing in, and the water climbs up to the very side of the men. The two men hang there helpless. The events leading up to this situation keep the interest tender.

MISS AMBITION (Vitagraph).—Corinne Griffith is a tower of strength to this five-part The adventure is that of a sailor who is caught in a storm. The plot is faulty in places, but the acting helps to bridge this over. Henry Houy was the director. A longer review is printed in this issue.

Jewel Productions, Inc.

BORROWED CLOTHES (Jewel-Lois Weber).—A six-roles emotional story, featuring Mildred Harris, now the wife of Charles Chaplin. This story is one which was made by Lois Weber and Phillips Smalley from a story by Marion Orr, is a strong one of its type. The theme is not altogether pleasant, but the presentation is delicate and forceful and the cast shows much acting ability. Reviewed at length elsewhere.

Mutual Film Corporation.

PEAKS, PARKS AND PINES (Rothacker).—This is the best thus far of the Outdoor Series being released by the Mutual Film Corporation. It takes the spectator through Ranier National Park, the camera following the group at times through the forest past waterfalls and other beauties of the park. A nice view of the Tatoosh range is included and also views of a glacier well up toward the peak of old Mount Ranier.
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

December 7, 1918

SCREEN TELEGRAM No. 75 (Mutual).—This issue contains interesting material, including a brief article about the "twilight of the giants." The usual series of current events is presented, including scenes of patriotic interest with Uncle Sam's soldiers and the JOSH HOME MAIL (Strand).—This literature relates to the exhibition of "Saidin, a fair sampl. It is perfectly harmless in type, but fails to present situations either convincing or consistent. The story is of a young couple who lives in a small Calif. flat. The wife, wishing to earn some money, brings her wealth and an audience of picturesque scenes. The plot itself is slow in movement, but well above the average level of things usually good. This sets a new record for this type of comedy and is certainly pleasing.

EVL WATER'S (Universal), Oct. 19—Episode No. 11 of "The Brass Bullet." This is one of the strongest installment yet made. It contains many exciting incidents, all directed in fine style. This serial has not the imaginative interest of certain others, but is strong in melodramatic action. This winds up with Rosalind in danger of losing her life. ON TRIAL FOR HIS LIFE (Universal), Nov. 9—Episode No. 14 of "Brass Bullet." This instalment shows Rozz making her escape from the blackmailers' headquarters, but Jack is taken prisoner. She SPEAKS (Universal), Nov. 23—This opens with a struggle between "Pop" Bates and the aviator and Mrs. Strang's remarriage. There is good work by the various fighting forces, during which Two-Gun Carter shoots Killman and puts an end to his career.

THE HANDS OF THE RUX (Pathé).—Episode No. 8 of "Wolves of Kultur." This number is full of action, but contains no big scenes, until toward the close when Alice is suspended over the edge of a cliff but is rescued by her father, the vengeful rescue of Barkay by his assistant, Helen, and pictures the manner in which Alice once more fell into the power of the chief spy.

HEAR 'EM RAVE (Holow-Pathé).—A continuation of "Harold Lloyd" is featured by the performance of the artist, Harry Lloyd and Bebe Daniels. The action in this number occurs in a large shop where the hero is seen amusing himself by amusing stunts and rejuvenating customers. This is characteristic and has some laughs in it.

Harry Raver.

THE LIBERATOR (Raver).—A twelve episode, two-reel continued story about the little giant "Clownce" as the star, this picture is splendidly acted and produced and contains a long list of the big fellow's stunts and is a winner. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

Screeencraft Pictures Corporation.

THE PRODIGAL WIFE (Screeencraft).—Mary Boland and Lucy Cotton are the stars in this story of the prodigal son. The narrative is handled by Edith Barnard Delano's story, "Flaming Rumpers," it is full of emotional power sufficient to make an arresting performance. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

Triangle Film Corporation.

LOVE'S PAY DAY (Triangle).—New England's favorite dairy, the delicious characters in this five-part picture. It is melodramatic and full of action. Rosemary Theby is the outstanding leading part. A longer review appears in this issue.

Universal Film Company.

THE KICKLE BLACKSMITH (Nestor).—A character comedy, by W. Warren Sebene, enacted in burlesque style. Ralph McComas, Eileen Sedgwick and Doley O'Brien are in the picture. The story deals with romance and love affairs of a young blacksmith, who deserts his own sweetheart for an artist's model, but is finally saved by the main character. The subject runs along in a fairly entertaining manner, though none of it rises above the ordinary.

THE HUSBAND HUNTED (Western).—A splendid three-reel ranch comedy, by Bob Burns in his portrayal of Harold Hart, A. K. W. C. Kromen, Joe Rickson, Countess Du Cello and Caroline Vaughn. This contains a wonderful cow party, and an amusing and picturesque scene. The plot itself is slow in movement, but well above the average level of things usually good. This sets a new record for this type of comedy and is certainly pleasing.

World Pictures Corporation.

HITTING THE TRAIL (World Picture).—A five-reel subject, written by Roy Sun- day for the company's star, John Edward Temple. The cast includes Carlyle Blackwell, Evelyn Grecly, Muriel Ostriche and Joseph Smiley. This is a western melodrama of the East Side and deals with real slum life. The melodramatic incidents are well managed and there is much interest on the whole. It makes an offering of about average strength. Reviewed at length elsewhere.

Picture Theatres Projected

ST LOUIS SPRINGS, Ark.—Edward McCall will probably rebuild business with some of the cameras that he has removed. A longer review appears in this issue.

UNION SPRINGS, Ala.—Criterion Theatre has closed hands.

OAKLAND, Cal.—Kinesma Theatre will be remodelled, eranz and new projection machines installed.

AUGUSTA, Ga.—Princess Company has been incorporated with $5,000 capital by E. Cy. Darby, G. Lloyd Preacher and R. L. Hearr.

CARLINVILLE, Ill.—Nathan wool house has been purchased by Daley & Dale as site for new moving picture theatre.

LITCHFIELD, Ill.—Gem Theatre has been completed. It is a fireproof structure.

BURLINGTON, Ia.—Jewel Moving Picture Theatre will be remodelled. Joseph Miller is manager.

PORT MADISON, Ia.—W. C. Marsh has converted the Majestic Theatre to Orpheum, to cost $2,000.

BOSTON, Mass.—Walder's Amusement Company has been incorporated with $50,000 capital for purpose of conducting theatres, and balcony moving picture theatre, 21 by 125 feet, for Frank Robinowitz, Em- mett and Strad Theatre, Dubuque, to cost $12,000.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—J. & M. Levin, Inc., 118 First Avenue, has been incorporated for an extension to Peerless Moving Picture Theatre for William Wharton, to cost $16,000. Lessee, A. F. Boyer, Inc. 225 Fulton street.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—J. Krapp is preparing to erect a new moving picture theatre at 381-27 Broadway.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Greenwich Theatre Company has been incorporated with $10,000 capital for purpose of conducting theatres, N. Frankel, 1485 Fifth Avenue, is interested.

BLACKPORT, Ont.—Cambria Clay Products Company has plans by De Voss & Donaldson, 38 First National Building, for a modern fireproof moving picture theatre.

PORTLAND, Ore.—McCarty, 512 Lombard Street, will remodel moving picture theatre.

PORTLAND, Ore.—Improvements will be made to Pantages Theatre, 153 Broad- way.

ELKH. PA.—A. P. Wesciler has plans by P. Swirsky, 102 Marine Bank Building, for moving picture theatre.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—John Roymay will erect a new moving picture theatre at 4910 Wayne avenue.

EAST NITIO, W. Va.—Moving picture theatre is planned by Baker-Myrty Reynolds Company.

ASHLAND, Wis.—Royal Theatre, owned by Latts Brothers, will be remodelled.

CHILTON, Wis.—E. Korte has purchased Princess Theatre from Matthew Franzen.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Merrill Theatre Company has been incorporated for the purpose of erecting theatre and will conduct it under management of E. C. Bostick.

TWO RIVERS, Wis.—Edward Nequate has taken over Strang Theatre.

STAUNTON, Va.—Staunton Amusement Company has been incorporated with $20,000 capital for purpose of erecting and operating moving picture theatre.

MINOQUA, Wis.—David L. Johnson plans to erect moving picture theatre here at an early date.

RACINE, Wis.—Dr. George E. Mason will build a new theatre at 110 Wisconsin street for amusment. Moving picture pictures most likely will be main attraction.

WASHINGTON, Wis.—Building on East Main street will be taken by Benja- min Ward and R. H. Freeman. They will remodel it for moving picture theatre.
Advertising Aids for Busy Managers

"HILADY O' THE BEANSTALK"
The Presents Baby Marie Osborne in the Story of a Little Tot Who Used a Fire-escape for a Modern Beanstalk.

Cast
Baby Marie Tompkins
Dora Tompkins, her mother.  Ellen Cassity
Jill Holgate.  Jack Connolly
The Janitor's Son.  Sambo

Directed by William Bertram.

The Story: Dora Tompkins divorces her husband for cruelty and drunkenness. Her country neighbors do not approve of divorce and ostracize her. She seeks to earn a living in the city and is helped to a position by Jim Walton, a former acquaintance, now a prize fighter. In time they become engaged. When Jim's promise to give up the ring, Baby Marie, Dora's daughter, dreams of Jack and the beanstalk. Having no beans handy she utilizes the fire-escape as a stalk. The first time she climbs to happiness, for she reaches Jim's apartment and he takes her to the beach, but a second climb results disastrously. The baby falls and Jim goes back in search of her. Dora Tompkins will pay for the operation to save Marie from lifelong lameness, but his broken promise is forgiven and they live happily ever after.

Feature Baby Marie Osborne as Baby Tompkins and Jack Connolly as Giant Jim Walton.

Program and Advertising Phrases: How a Child's Wanderlust of Jack and the Beanstalk Worked for Her Mother's Happiness.

Using a Fire-escape as "Beanstalk" Little Girl Climbs to Happiness.

4D.  Give Your Vision through Makes for Brilliant Entertainment.

Photoplay of Thrills and Sensations Rest on Advertising Aids.

A Delightful Photoplay Story Told by Cast of Skillful Players.

Advertising Aids:
11x14, three-sheets, one six-sheet, one 24-sheet. Lobby displays, 11x14, both in sepia and color; also 22x28. Slide. Campaign book. Cuts.

"BORROWED CLOTHES,"
Jewel Presents Mildred Harris in Her Newest and Greatest Production Under the Direction of Oscar Smalls.

Cast
Mary Kirk.  Mildred Harris
George Weston.  Edward J. Peel
Loulou Faller.  Helen Bishop
Stuart Firth.  Lewis J. Cody
Rita Morris.  Fantine LaRue
Mary's Father.  George Nicholls
Mrs. Kirk.  Edythe Chapman

The Story: Mary Kirk, urged by her family, consents to marry George Weston, member of the firm for which she works. She is interested in Stuart Firth, whom she has never met. Firth maintains Rita Morris in an expensive apartment, Mary goes to the beach and the bath-house burns while she is in the water. Stuart takes her in her car to Rita's apartment and Scoped Rita's clothes,因而烧了 Rita's dresses. The vampire protests and is turned out. She persuades the police to raid the place, Mary escapes, but her appearance at her home in borrowed finery is misunderstood, and her father beats her. Her engagement is broken and life seems dark, but all comes out right in the end.

Feature Mildred Harris as Mary Kirk and Lewis J. Cody as Stuart Firth.

Program and Advertising Phrases:
The Bride of Charlie Chaplin Starred in Brilliant Photodrama.

See Mildred Harris, Bride of Charlie Chaplin, on Her Film Homescene.

How a Girl Willingly Sacrificed Herself for Her Family's Ambitions.

How a Bride Won of Happiness Covered a Heart of Misery.

Advertising Aids: Quite apart from her excellent work in previous productions, Miss Harris has a new interest as the wife of Charles Chaplin. Work on both angles. Also get the credit that lies to the uniformly good work of these producers. Use the newspaper ads shown in the press sheet, or type ads along those lines.

Advertising Aids: One, three, and five and twelve-sheet. Various heralds in rotogravure. Window cards. Lobby displays. Advertising book. One, two and three-column cuts.

"LOVE'S PAY DAY,"
Triangle Presents Rosemary Theby in the Story of a Love That Was the Stronger for Coming Late.

Cast
Jean LaRoque.  Pete Morrison
Judith.  Rosemary Theby
Antone Brauzard.  Billy Dale
Marie Brauzard.  Lillian West

Directed by E. Mason Hopper.

The Story: For generations the fortunes of the little fishing village of Hearts Depression have lain in the hands of the Larroques, owners of the packing plant, and well have they fulfilled their trust. Jean, last of his race, loves Dora, Britains, but Judith longs for the life of the city, and resents his openly expressed desire for an English girl. She promises to marry him and the day is set. The packing plant trust seeks to purchase the plant. Jean will not sell when he learns the tactics they will pursue, but Judith gains title to the plant and sells to Wilton, the trust agent. Jean, broken-hearted, goes away, Judith, too late, realizes that she loves him. The trust, through their oppression, drives the village to rebellion, Jean returns, and finds not only that Judith loves him but that the sale of the plant was illegal. It is once more in his possession and he marries the repentant Judith.

Feature Pete Morrison as Jean LaRoque and Rosemary Theby as Judith.

Program and Advertising Phrases: Romance and Adventure Blend in Simple Story of Sea and Shore Brought to Happiest of Endings.

Released December 1.

"THE GREAT VICTORY, WILSON OR THE KAISER? THE FALL OF THE HOHENZOLLERNS" Screen Classics Presents the Seven-Act Feature of the Hour Dealing with the One Question Which Interests the Whole World.

Cast
Conrad Rea Brett.  Creighton Hale
Vilma, her sister.  Florence Billings
President Woodrow Wilson.  Fred C. Truesdell
Nurse Edith Cavell.  Margaret McDade
Kaiser Wilhelm II.  Henry Kolker
General Von Bising.  Joseph Kilmer
Lieut. Ober.  Efrn Schenck
Eline.  Florence Short
Eline's Child.  Baby Ivy Ward
Frederick III.  Leo Delaney
William Gordon.  Frank Carrier
Deacon Looming of the Chinese Arling.
Japanese Ambassador.  T. Tamamato
Sergeant Gross.  Fred R. Stutzer
Together with forty-three other characters, representing prominent personalities among the Allies and Central Powers.

Directed by Charles Miller.

The Story: This is the story of the great wrong done by Germany, told through the story of German outrages. Vilma Brett comes under the notice of Lieut.
Ober, of the Prussian Army, stationed in Alsace. Her brother, Conrad, has just completed his compulsory military training and is about to be drafted, but he is wounded and in Belgium is nursed by Amy Gordon, an American, who works as a nurse in the Red Cross Hospital where Cavell is matron. Nurse Cavell saved Amy from the German Governor and aids her escape. The problem for Hugo is to get Amy away from the British lines and take her to his sister, Louise George, in Switzerland. Louise George is a famous Swiss singer. She is the daughter of a Swiss Postmaster-General and a Princess of Liechtenstein. Louise George is the wife of a wealthy financier in London. She is a famous singer and has a beautiful voice. She is also a great philanthropist and enjoys helping the poor and oppressed. Louise George is being held by the British authorities for her activities in the war. Hugo is determined to rescue her and bring her back to Switzerland.

Program and Advertising Aids: Great advertising for the benefit of Child Life in Great Cities. Powerful scenes brilliantly acted by Oliver, an All-Star cast. A powerful and stirring story of the war. The story of Hugo and Amy is told in a series of powerful scenes. The story is full of suspense and action. Hugo is determined to rescue his sister and bring her back to Switzerland. Amy is determined to help the poor and oppressed. The story of Hugo and Amy is full of adventure and excitement. The story is full of drama and action. Hugo is determined to rescue his sister and bring her back to Switzerland. Amy is determined to help the poor and oppressed. The story of Hugo and Amy is full of adventure and excitement. The story is full of drama and action. Hugo is determined to rescue his sister and bring her back to Switzerland. Amy is determined to help the poor and oppressed. The story of Hugo and Amy is full of adventure and excitement. The story is full of drama and action. Hugo is determined to rescue his sister and bring her back to Switzerland. Amy is determined to help the poor and oppressed. The story of Hugo and Amy is full of adventure and excitement. The story is full of drama and action. Hugo is determined to rescue his sister and bring her back to Switzerland. Amy is determined to help the poor and oppressed. The story of Hugo and Amy is full of adventure and excitement.
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

December 7, 1918

spoil the effect with a crude slapstick comedy. Use the scenes and the news weekly instead.

Advertising Aids: One, three, six and twenty-four sheets. Lobby displays $3.99, 1x32, 5x28, stiltis and gelatins, 1-column, two 2-column, one 3-column cuts, type advertisements, stills, music cues. Released November 21.

"THE STRANGE WOMAN"
William Fox Presents Gladys Brockwell in a Screen Version of William J. Butter's Striking Stage Play of Free Love and What It Meant in a Small Town.

Inez de Pierrefond........Gladys Brockwell
The Baron..................Charles Clay
John Hemingway...........William Scott
Charles Morality Photodrama....Harry Dorf
Mrs. Hemingway, John's mother...Ruby LaFayette
Walter Hemingway..........Raymond Nye
Mrs. Abby................Ado Beecher
Kate McMasters...........Eunice Moore
Chet de Pierrefond........Grace Wood
Cora Whitman..............Margaret Cullington
Molly McGuire.............Lucy Donahue
May Armstrong............Miss Bily Arnst
Henry McMasters...........William Hutchinson
The Princess................Miss Gerard Grasbey
The Professor.............Lola Froy

Directed by Edward J. Lesaint.

The Story: The town of Delphi, la., is provincial and contains diversified types. The son of the lawyer, a manly and ambitious young fellow, has been abroad studying architecture. There he meets Inez de Pierrefond, a girl who, though born in America, has spent most of her life in Europe. The young couple find they have much in common and their engagement follows. Inez is a woman of intellect, charm and brilliance. She is the apostle of the newest views of life, particularly where marriage is concerned. She is not a "new woman," but is opposed to taking a life-long marriage vow. To Delphi John Hemingway brings Inez and introduces her as his intended bride. The play results from this woman and her ideas being landed in the narrow community, and the outcome is entirely unexpected.

Feature: Gladys Brockwell as Inez de Pierrefond, and William Scott as John Hemingway.

Advertising Angles: Play up the star and give plenty of space to the fact that the play ran for nearly a season in New York. To open the campaign use lines hitting the high lights in the story. These can also be used for snipes or throwaways. Make it plain that the story is sensational but clean.

Advertising Aids: One, three and six sheets, two styles of each. Lobby display $5.99, 1x32 and 5x28. Advertisement slides. Cuts, mats and press sheets (cuts are made on special order at rate of 20 cents per house; mats and press sheets are mailed gratis).

Released December 8.

4 K. W. Electric Generating Set
60 or 110 volts for stationary or portable moving picture work and theatre lighting. Smooth, steady current, no fluctuations. Portable type with cooling radiator all self-contained.

Send for Bulletin No. 26
Universal Motor Co.
OSHKOSH, WISC.

SPECIAL ROLL TICKETS

Your own special ticket, any quantity, any colors, accurately numbered, guaranteed. "Organ" Tickets for Dramas, Varieties, etc.

Tickets for Pets and Dogs:
5.00, 7.50, Prompt shipment. Cash with the order.

Get the special. Send diagram for Reserve Seats. Tickets limited.

Price
Five Thousand...........$1.50
Ten Thousand...............3.00
Fifty Thousand............4.00
One Hundred Thousand.....6.00

Write for our up-to-date price list.

Amusement Supply Co.

Largest Exclusive Dealers to the MOTION PICTURE TRADE

300-302 Malters Bldg.
1 South Wahash Ave.
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Dealers in Microtograph, Standard and Simplex Vitascope Picture Machines, National Carbons, Minus Screens and Everything for the Theatre
WE SELL ON THE INSTALLMENT PLAN

For the fullest and latest news of the moving picture industry in Great Britain and Europe—for authoritative articles by leading British technical men—for brilliant and strictly impartial criticisms of all films, read
THE BIOSCOPE

The Leading British Trade Journal with an International Circulation
85 Shaftesbury Avenue, London, W., Specimen on Application

"THE RECKONING DAY"
Triangle Presents Belle Bennett in a Holding Story and Propaganda in America, and Shows How It Was Unearthed.

Casts:
Jane..................Belle Bennett
Kube...................Jack Richardson
Secretary.............Barney Sherry
Frank Wheeler........Tom Buckingham
Lola Schram...........Lenhore Fair
Mrs. Schram...........Louise Lester
Jimmy Ware............Lee Phelps
Tilly Ware.............Lucile Desmond
Directors.............Sidney Dexter
Directed by Harry Pollard.

The Story: Jane Whiting, "the Underworld Portia," is persuaded by her friend to go to Senator Wheeler to clear up a matter of charity, which connects the Ambulance Sanitaire with a suspected German agent. Lola Schram and her mother are workers for the ambulance. Frank, Senator Wheeler's son, is in love with Lola. The coils tighten, and Kube forbids the girl to marry Frank, shunting her when she starts to confess her share in the affair. Frank is arrested for the crime, and circumstances evidence him strongly against him, but in the end Jane breaks the real offender to book and clears up the entire matter.

Feature: Belle Bennett as Jane and Tom Buckingham as Frank Wheeler.

Exposing Ingenious Scheme of the Hun to Promote Foul, Black Star. Charity Covers a Multitude of Hun Schemes and Intrigues.

How a Woman of Heart and Beauty Crumbled the Villainous Structure of German Intrigue.

Photoplay Exposes Enemy Schemes on Basis of Discussed Facts.

Splendid Public Service Event Provided by Gripping Spy Story.

Advertising Angles: This story is based upon a recent scandal in New York in which many wealthy girls were induced to enter an ambulance service, a heavy fee being demanded of them. It was shown that the money went into the pockets of the organizer. Your editor can probably locate the story in his files, and you can use this as the basis of press work. For another angle warn against indiscriminate war charity, and refer them to the play as a reason why. You can make a small sensation by first running an advertisement against war charities (carefully worded), and in a following advertisement tell why.

"ALL NIGHT"
Bluebird Presents Carmel Myers in the Sportive Story of a Married Couple Who Were Not Married and Had to Pretend They Were.

Casts:
Elizabeth Lane..................Carmel Myers
Richard Mayer................Richard Mayer
William de Valence...........William Harcourt
Charles Dorian
Maud Harrcourt..............Mary Warren
Jack Wadsworth...Colonel Lane
Wadsworth Harris
Jack Hull

Directed by Donahue.

The Story: Dick Thayer loves Elizabeth Lane, but never can get her alone to tell

WE NEVER DISAPPEAR "ROMLOW FILM LABORATORIES INCORPORATED
220 WEST 42ND STREET NEW YORK

TELEPHONE BRYANT 5576

ALLAN A. LOWNES GEN. MGR.
“NEWMAN” Brass Frames and Rails

DO YOU KNOW that 50% of all the frames used in the making picture houses throughout the country are made by "NEWMAN"?

WHY?

Because we modestly refuse to claim or lower the quality of our product, even though others have sought to undermine our prestige by underselling genuine product. That is the reason why you will not find ten frames made by the name "NEWMAN". insist on only quality made money. You ought to have your latest catalogue, "NEWMAN". We manufacture the frames in a variety of styles which do not require polishing.

ESTABLISHED 1883

117-19 S. Maryland St., Baltimore, Md.

45 W. Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

ADOPT A SOLDIER AND SUPPLY him with “SMOKES” for the Duration of the WAR!

YOU KNOW

that our fighting men are begging for tobacco? Tobacco makes them work hard, and "Smoke more cigarettes." "We can't get half enough smokes over here." A cigarette is the first thing a wounded man asks for. Almost every mail brings many such letters. Every dollar sends four 45c packages of tobacco. Mail the Captain of a political bureau.

OUR BOYS IN FRANCE TOBACCO FUND

19 West 44th Street, New York City

I wish you all possible success in your admirable effort to get our boys in France tobacco.

THOMAS ROOSEVELT.

Endorsed by

The Secretary of War

The Secretary of the Navy

The American Red Cross

The American Red Cross

“OUR BOYS IN FRANCE TOBACCO FUND”

19 West 44th Street, New York City

GENTLEMEN—1 want to do my part to help the American soldiers who are fighting our battle in France. If you can lend me $1.00 today, I will send it to the boys in France. If you cannot send a dollar, I will send many dollars. In your letter, please include the names of the soldiers you wish to support. This will enable me to send them the most needed gifts.

THOMAS ROOSEVELT.

The Story: General Harter becomes a refugee and the effect it has upon the life of a girl of the slums.

Marna Royal—Miss MacLaren

Gerald Harper—Thomas Holding

Carol Harper—Annie Q. Nilson

Drew Garrett—Frankfurth

Uncle Penny—Winter Hall

Winter Hall

Frank Brownlee

Diana Casper

Marin Sala

Mia Royal—Virginia Chester

Mr. Royal—W. H. Marks

Miss Key—Mary Taibot

To: May Park

The Story: Carol Harper is ambitious to become the wife of the Governor and seeks the promotion for her brother, John, who has been the object of political assiduity. Marna Royal, who is friendly with Flirt, the political boss. While Carol is pulling strings for her brother, she becomes interested in Marna Royal, who disowns his good natured interest and thinks he wants to marry her. Marna discovers what she supposed to be an affair and seeks to compel Carol to get engaged by offering her the price of her silence. When he refuses, she turns to her lover, Wally, and Marna finds in Carol the man she thought might be her husband.

Feature: Miss MacLaren as Marna Royal and Thomas Holding as Carol Harper.

Program and Advertising Phrases: Miss MacLaren, the Screen’s Dresden Lady, Lead’s Skiffil Company in Grippin Photodrama. Heroine of “Shoes” and Other Remarkable Photoplays Here Again. Gripping Society Drama Told in Beautiful Scenes by Brilliant Cast. The Screen Puts to Its Best Use in Telling This Gripping Story.

Mary MacLaren, Prettiest Girl in Pictures, Star of Engaging Play.

Advertising Angles: Miss MacLaren’s appearances have been made in a series of really human stories. Recall this fact and add to this a worthy companion to earlier productions. Sketch the plot briefly; laying straight up the given subject and let us be the first to say that this is a brilliant subject. The kiss is equivalent to a proposal and to the action of Carol, whose vanity leads her to believe her wife the girl she believes to be her husband’s mistress.

Advising Ads: One design each, one three and six-sheets, One stock one-sheet of star, colored and black-and-white lobby displays. Slide, Herald, Players’ cuts in three sizes. Scenes cut one and two columns wide. Press book.

Released December 7.

THE MIDNIGHT PATROL

Select in Picture Weekly Thomas H. Ince’s Masterly Production of a Story of Chinese Life in a Western Metropolis.

Cast:

Patrolman Terrence Shannon.

Thurston Hall.

Patsy O’Connell.

Rosemary Theby. Wu Fang.

Kino.

Jim Murdock.

Charles French.

Minnie.

Marjorie Bennett. Harmoni Holland.

Chink Ross.

William Magnus.

Sing Bok.

Yamamata.

Sergt. Joe Duncan.

Harold Johnson.

Directed by H. Ince.

The Story: Wu Fang rules the destinies of the Chinese underworld of a Western city. Jim Murdock, a political boss, shields his operations andWAYS. Sergt. Duncan, head of the police force, is killed during a raid and his assistant, Shannon, is charged with seeing that the Chinese do not transgress. Shannon not only wants to make a reputation, but he has Duncan’s death to avenge and Wu Fang fears him. He is planning a smuggling shipment of opium and warns Shannon that if there is an interference with his traffic, he will be avenged. When Wu Fang learns of the new patrolman, his plans begin to crumble. The raid cleans up Chinatown and Shannon is advanced to the position of a police chief.

Feature: Thornton Hall as Patrolman Shannon and Rosemary Theby as Patsy O’Connell.

Program and Advertising Phrases: Here’s the Question—Would Duty Impel You to Risk the Life of the Girl You Love?
"OTHERS"

The late General Booth's message to his Officers all over the world: "OTHERS"

There are numbers of poor folk in all our big cities who depend upon The Salvation Army for assistance during the long winter months.

Will You Help Us

Help "OTHERS" less fortunate than yourself?

Send Your Gift to Commander Evangelie Booth
120 West Fourteenth Street, New York City
Or Commissioner Emil, 118 N. Dearborn Street, Chicago

"FAN FAN."

William Fox Presents His Famous Juvenile Company in a Kiddy Comedy of Richly Oriental Type.

Cast

Fan Fan............. Virginia Lee Corbin
Hanki............. Francis Carpenter
The Ancient and Honorable Lady Shoo............. Carmen DeLeon
The Chief Executioner.... Violet Haddad
Head Collector......... Bud Messinger
The Emperor............. Joe Singleton

Advertising Angles: Play up the Fan name for all it is worth. For the rest tell it is a smashing big melodrama of the Chinese underworld. Present Shonan's problem for one talk.

Advertising Aids: Two one-sheets, two three-sheets, one six-sheet, one 21-sheet. Window cards, 1 x 21. Heraldas. Lobby display photographs, 8 x 10, 11 x 14, 22 x 28. Slides. Cuts, two one-column, two two-column, one one-column, one one-column cut of star and one one-column and one two-column cuts of star.

THE CINEMA

NEWS AND PROPERTY GAZETTE

30 Garrard Street
W. I. London, England

Has the quality circulation of the trade in Great Britain and the Dominions. All Official Notices and News from the Association is its members are published exclusively in this journal.

YEARLY RATE
POSTPAID, WEEKLY, $7.25

ADVERTISING RATES ON REQUEST
Appointed by Agreement Dated 7/814

THE OFFICIAL ORGAN OF
HE CINEMA EXHIBITORS ASSOCIATION OF GREAT BRITAIN & IRELAND, LTD.

AUTHORS

Recognized photoplay and fiction writers may place their synopses with our Manuscript Sales Department for submission by our professional representatives to Southern California. Commission basis. Unpublished or unproduced synopses may obtain competent constructive advice and help through the Palmer Plan and Advisory Service. Write for our free explanatory booklet.

Palmer Photoplay Corporation
105 E. W. Holland Bldg., Los Angeles, Calif.

PERFECTION IN PROJECTION

Gold King Screen

10 Days' Trial

No. 1 Grade, Tec.; No. 2 Grade, Tec.
Stencher included

Try our instrument before you buy. Sold by all the leading supply dealers throughout the country.

Factory, ALTUS, OKLAHOMA

gelatines. One, two and three-column cuts. Type advertisements, slides and music cues.

Released November 17.

Would you sell a second-hand machine? Would you like to buy one? The World's Classified advertising is a prompt means of business action.

"HITTING THE HIGH SPOTS"

Metra presents Bert Lytell in an Action Comedy of an American Engineer who Foisted the Mexican Plotters and Won a Mine for His Father-In-Law Elected.

Bob Burland............. Bert Lytell
Alice Randolph............. Eileen Percy
Morgan Randolph, Alice's father

Winter Hall

Mrs. Randolph............. Helen Dunbar
Jack Randolph............. Gordon Griffith
Harry Randolph............. Charles N. Hall
Tonia............. Jean Hume
Van Hoke............. Stanton Heck
Lopez............. E. E. Clive
Jose............. William Eagle Eye
Felipe............. William Courtwright

Directed by Charles N. Hall.

The Story: Morgan Randolph, president of the Balboa Oil Company, is told by his engineer that it will be impossible to work on Mexican territory. He gives the two additional months required by the contract. It looks as though Randolph would be bankrupt, but Bob Burland, who is in love with Alice Randolph, offers to take the place of the former engineer. He dares Harold Blake, his rival, to go as his assistant. Blake takes the dare, but things grow too hot for him and he escapes to America. Bob sticks it out, wins the concession and returns to America just in time to beat up Blake, who has traduced him and who is about to marry Alice, who believes Bob dead and who is willing to marry Blake to save her father's falling fortunes.

Feature Bert Lytell as Bob Burland and Eileen Percy as Alice Randolph.

Program and Advertising Phrases: How Love Foiled Intrigue in a Great Adventure in the Oil Fields of Mexico. American Oil and Will Power Foil Hun Plotters in Mexico.

Thrilling Drama of Intrigue and Plotting. Filled with delight and suspense. Sensational Drama Made Intensely Interesting Through Love Plot.

Baffled Intrigue Turned to Advantage by Strange Trick of Fate.

Advertising Angles: Play up the rapid action of the story. Specify that the Publishers select his high spots suggested by the title and told in the full synopsis for individual comment, playing up, especially, the defeat of the German agent, with such lines as "Darling American defeats German commercial agent in Mexico."

Want anything? Wouldn't sell anything? Seek a prompt market through The World's Classified advertising. These small ads have made many a dollar for shouters.
List of Current Film Release Dates

General Film Company, Inc.

BROADWAY STAR FEATURE.
Tobin's Path (O. Henry Story—Two Parts—Comedy).
The Heir of the Broken O (Rolfiwite Tale—Two Parts—Drama).
The Rose of Wolfeville (Wolfeville Tale—Two Parts—Drama).
A Ramble in Aphasia (O. Henry Story—Two Parts—Drama—Drama).

FORT FITT THEATRE CO.
The Italian Battalion (Eight Parts—Patriotic).

ESSANY COMEDIES.
Snakeville's New Sheriff (One Part).
Sophie's Birthday Party (One Part).

RAINBOW COMEDIES.
Nearly a Bachelor (My Lady's Slipper).
Some Joke.
How She Hated Men.
The Camouflaged Baby.
The Pipe of Peace.

OAKDALE PRODUCTIONS.
The Midnight Burglar (Five Parts—Drama).
Wanted, a Brother (Five Parts—Drama).
Little Miss Grown-Up (Five Parts—Drama).

SCRANTONIA FILM COMPANY.
(Featuring Charlie Fong.)
Parson Pang (One Reel—Comedy).
Pang's Fate and Fortune (One Reel—Comedy).

OFFICIAL WAR PICTURES.
(Committee on Public Information.)
Our Bridges of Ships (Two Reels).

AMERICAN RED CROSS.
The Historic Fourth of July in Paris (One Part—Patriotic).
Soothers the Heart of Italy (One Part—Patriotic).
Of No Use to Germany (One Part—Patriotic).
First Aid on the Pave (One Part—Patriotic).
Rebuilding Broken Lives (One Part—Patriotic).
The Kiddies of No Man's Land (One Part—Patriotic).
Victorious Stiet (One Part—Patriotic).
The Helping Hand of Sicily (One Part—Patriotic).

COSMOPOTOFILM.
Believe (Six Parts—Drama).

AMERICAN FEATURE FILM CORP.
Hearts of Love (Six Parts—Drama).

MAXWELL PRODUCTIONS.
The Married (Three Parts—Drama).

RANCHO SERIES.
(All Two Part—Drama).
In the Shadow of the Rockies.
Where the Sun Beca Red.

Mutual Film Corp.

STRAND.
Oct. 1—Keep Smiling (Elmer Field—Comedy—40-CST-1).
Oct. 8—The Girl in the Box (Elmer Field)—CUT-1.

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION.
Sept. 30—Treason (Edna Goodrich—Five Parts Drama—Deauville—28-PIC-1).
Oct. 5—No Reply (This Date).
Oct. 13—The Dare Devil (Gall Kane—Five Parts—Drama—Deauville—29-PIC-1).

MUTUAL.
Oct. 22—Screen Teleogram (Topical)—65-T-1.
Oct. 23—Wife of Pharaoh (Topical)—65-T-1.
Oct. 23—Screen Teleogram (Topical)—70-T-1.

OUT-CHESTER PICTURES.

OUTDOOR-ROTHACKER PICTURES.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF NOV. 17.
The Bells (Frank Keenan—Five Parts—Drama).
Wolves of Kultur (Episode No. 6—"Trails of Traitors"—Two Parts—Drama—Astra).
Far Flung Battle Line No. 12—"British Flying Corps"—Topical.
Hands Up (Episode No. 14—"The Oracle's Deed"—Two Parts—Drama—Astra).
Official War Review No. 21—"Under the Masterly Leadership of Marshal Foch"—Topical.
Post Travel Series No. 19—"Caribbean Lapped Shores"—Topical.
Nothing But Trouble (Rollo—Comedy—Harold Lloyd).
Heast—Path News No. 94 (Topical).
Heast—Path News No. 95 (Topical).

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF NOV. 24.
Wolves of Kultur (Episode No. 7—"The Leap of Despair"—Two Parts—Drama—Astra).
Angels of the Sun (Toto—Rollo Comedy).
Hands Up (Episode No. 15—"The Celeslial Messenger"—Two Parts—Drama—Topical).
Post Travel Series No. 20—"Sumatra"—Topical.
Official War Review No. 22 (Topical).
Heast—Path News No. 96 (Topical).
Heast—Path News No. 97 (Topical).

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF DEC. 1.
Infatuation (Gary Devis and Harry Pilcer—Five Reel Feature—Drama).
Mildy of the Beanstalk (Malcolm Osborne—Five Reel Feature—Drama).
Wolves of Kultur (Episode No. 8—"In the Hands of the Hun—Two Parts—Drama—Topical.
Official War Review No. 23 (Topical).
Post Travel Series No. 21—"Jaya"—Topical.
Hear 'em Rave ( Harold Lloyd—Rollo Comedy).
Heast—Path News No. 98 (Topical).
Heast—Path News No. 99 (Topical).

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF DEC. 8.
Wolves of Kultur (Episode No. 9—"The Predators of Death—Two Parts—Drama—Astra.
Just Rambling Along (Stan Laurel—Comedy—Harold Lloyd).
Post Travel Series No. 22—"Celeste"—Topical.
Winning the War (No. 2—Topical).
Official War Review No. 24 (Topical).
Heast—Path News No. 100 (Topical).
Heast—Path News No. 101 (Topical).

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF DEC. 15.
The Narrow Path (Fannie Ward—Five Parts—Special Drama)
Wolves of Kultur (Episode No. 10—"When Woman Wars—Two Parts—Drama—Western—Astra.
Official War Review No. 25 (Topical).
Take a Chance (William Howard Lloyd).
Post Travel Series No. 23—"Borneo"—Topical.
Heast—Path News No. 102 (Topical).
Heast—Path News No. 103 (Topical).

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF DEC. 22.
Fortunes of Corinna (Dorothy Dix—Two Reel Special—Drama).
Wolves of Kultur (Episode No. 11—"Heaven and Earth"—Two Parts—Drama—Western—Astra.
Official War Review No. 26 (Topical).
Post Travel Series No. 24—"Singapore."
Check Your Baggage (Rollo—Comedy—Toto).
Heast—Path News No. 104 (Topical).
Heast—Path News No. 105 (Topical).

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF DEC. 29.
Dolly's Vacation (Baby Marie Osborne—Five Parts—Drama).
Wolves of Kultur (Episode No. 12—"The Tower of Tears"—Two Parts—Drama—Western).
Post Travel Series No. 25 (Topical).
Official War Review No. 27 (Topical).
She Loves Me Not (Rollo—Comedy—Harold Lloyd).
Path News No. 2 (Topical).
Path News No. 3 (Topical).

AMERICAN PRODUCTIONS RELEASED BY PATHE.
The Eyes of Julia Bella (Mary Miles Minter).
Money Isn't Everything (Marguerite Fish).
Hobbs in a Hurry (William Russell).
Rosemary Climbs the Heights (Mary Miles Minter).

The Mantle of Charity (Marguerite Fish).
Delilah to the World to Nothing (William Russell).
Wives and Other Wives (Mary Miles Minter).
Fair Enough (Mary Miles Minter).
When a Man Rides Alone (William Russell).

Fox Film Corporation

BIG TIMELY PICTURES.
Nov. 24—Why I Would Not Marry.
Dec. 1—The She Devil (Theda Bara).
Dec. 15—I Want to Forget (Evelyn Nesbit).
Dec. 23—The Man Hunter (William Farnum).
Jan. 12—The Biren's Sons (Theda Bara).

EXCITING PICTURES.
Nov. 17—Tell It to the Marines (Jane and Virginia).,
Dec. 1—Buchanania's Wife (Virginia Pearson).
Dec. 15—Cry, Quit in the Act (Peggy Hyland).
Dec. 29—The Danger Zone (Madame Traverse).

VICTORY PICTURES.
Nov. 24—Fame and Fortune (Tom Mix)
Nov. 25—Mounted (Tom Mix).
Dec. 22—I'll Say So (George Walsh).
Jan. 5—Troum (Tom Mix).

FOX-LEHRMAN SUNSHINE COMEDIES.
Nov. 17—Morgrels.

MUTT & JEFF ANIMATED CARTOONS.
Nov. 17—The Dough Boy.
Nov. 24—The Dance in Nine Minutes.
Dec. 1—Pot Luck in the Army.
Dec. 2—The New Corporal.
Dec. 15—5,000 Miles on a Gallon of Gas.
Dec. 22—Hitting the High Spots.

FOX EXTRAVAGANZAS.
Nov. 17—The Woman Who Gave (Evelyn Nesbit).
Nov. 24—All Basha and the Forty Thieves.

Metro Pictures Corporation

METRO PICTURES CORP.
Nov. 18—His Marital Wife (Emmy Wehlen—Five Parts—Drama).
Nov. 23—Five Thousand an Hour (Hale Hamilton—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 2—Testing of Mildred Yane (May Allison—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 9—Hitting the High Spots (Bert Lytell—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 16—Sylvia on a Spree (Emmy Wehlen—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 23—A Poor Rich Man (Bursham and Bayne—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 30—Her Enchantment (May Allison—Five Parts—Drama).

SCREEN CLASSICS, INC., SPECIALS.
Blue Jeans (Viola Dana—Seven Parts—Drama—Reel).
To Hell With the Kaiser (Laurence Grant and Olive Tell—Seven Parts—Drama).
Palm Thief (Harold Lloyd—Six Parts—Drama—Reel).
Willson or the Kaiser?
The Pains of the Hohenzollers.

NAZIMOVA PRODUCTIONS.
Revelation (Seven Parts—Drama).
Tears of Fate (Seven Parts—Drama).
Eye for Eye (Seven Parts—Drama).

Triangle Film Corporation

Dates and Titles of Triangle Releases Subject to Change Without Notice.

TRIANGLE PRODUCTIONS.
Oct. 6—Tory America (Francis McDonald—Five Parts—Drama).
(Triangle Releases Continued on Following Page)
SITUATIONS WANTED.
FIRST CLASS ORGANIST desires immediate engagement. Experienced, reliable man. Fine picture player and recitalist. Spleadul library. Pipe organ and good salary essential. Satisfaction guaranteed. Organist, Box 472, Hagerstown, Md.

EXPERIENCED MANAGING DIRECTOR seeks connection with large theatre or circuit of houses. Have opened and managed some of the largest and most costly theatres in the country. Expert on settings, music, publicity and every detail of efficient theatre management. Can furnish highest of references. Address Liberty December first. Address Managing Director, c/o M. P. World, N. Y. City.

CAMERAMAN desires position. Expert photo-grapber, 10 years' experience in studio, educational and industrial work. Will go anywhere. A. R. Marier, 145 W. 54th St., N. Y. City.

MANAGER—Six years' experience, best ref-terences, married, age 28, also first class operator. Address Dema, c/o M. P. World, N. Y.

AT LIBERTY February 1, 1918. Reliable manager picture theatre; wife organist, pianist. Past five years have had charge one of the best theatres in W. Virginia. Well known all Pittsburgh and Washington exchanges. Must have contract. All correspondence answered. Write S. c/o M. P. World, N. Y. City.

MANAGER AT LIBERTY—Fourteen years' experience picture or vaudeville theatre; will put your theatre on paying basis; sober, reliable, experienced. Address Expert, c/o M. P. World, N. Y. City.

HELP WANTED.
HIGH CLASS, ambitions, sober manager, good showman with original ideas to conduct high-class motion picture house within one hundred miles of New York. A man with a capacity for detail who pays attention as well as anyone. Prefer a man who has been successful in a small city. Salary and share in profits; no competition, a cinch for bright, intelligent man willing to work. Write giving former connections and references. Original, Box 312, World N. Y. City.

THEATRES WANTED.
WANTED THEATRE—Will lease or purchase high grade theatre for vaudeville, picture or both. Seating not less than 750 in good town of 75,000 or over. Location must be the best. In answering give complete information. Address Purchase, c/o M. P. World, N. Y. City.

THEATRES FOR SALE OR RENT.
NEW THEATRE in New England, modern, seats 1,000, centrally located, doing good business. Owner leaving city. If interested, and have $20,000, address "Theatre," c/o M. P. World, N. Y. City.

CAMERAS, ETC., FOR SALE.
BIG BARGAIN, practically new Professional Ernemann camera, F.8.5 Eton lens, complete with tripod. Chas. R. Svinling, 1500 E. 60th Place, Chicago, Ill.

FOR SALE.—A Muy camera fitted with spiral focusing jacket, reverse drive, film pouch, one turn, one picture handle; view finder, four dark boxes, one 2-inch Zeiss lens, one 3-inch Zeiss lens, and English made leather carrying case for outfit; also one Motion Picture Apparatus, one early Hektor, one 4x5 hand camera, leather cover. Complete outfit practically unused. State best cash offer and address in the first place. Camera, Box 13, Station G, N. Y. City.

MECHANICAL REPAIRING, experimenting, lenses, dissolvers, cameras, shutters, fladers, polished, printers, developing, emergency darkroom, novelty cabinets. Eberhard Schneider, 219 Second avenue, N. Y. City.

CAMERAS, $80, with F.5.5 lenses; tripods, $30; projectors $55; home projector, $55; twin arc lamps half price. Ray, 326 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City.

SENSATIONAL MONEY SAVING bargains is the title of the latest photographic book just off the press: a 32-page catalog filled from cover to cover with wonderful offers in every standard make of tested and guaranteed motion picture apparatus, cameras, lenses, kodaks, etc. It's the biggest; little thing in the current photographic field. Worth its weight in gold to you, and in fact no cameraman in the country can afford to be without a copy. Send for it today; yours for the asking. David Stern Company; in business since 1883; 1676 Madison St., U. S. A.

EQUIPMENT FOR SALE.
800 UPHOLSTERED OAK CHAIRS, first class shape, 900 steel frame veneer, good as new at slaughtered prices, one dood and spot-light. J. P. Redding, Scranton, Pa.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS FOR SALE.
FOR SALE Wurlitzer orchestra style K, used only 8 months, perfect condition, Sacrifice price, $7,500. Address D. E. McAltrath, Box 382, Knoxville, Tenn.

EQUIPMENT WANTED.
WE BUY second-hand machines of all makes, lenses, calcium lights, tents, chairs and all theatres supplies. Highest prices offered. What have you? Monarch Film Service, 228 Union avenue, Memphis, Tenn.

MISCELLANEOUS.
HIGHEST PRICE paid for old film in reels, rolls or cartons. Let me know what you have. J. J. Norton, 110 Broad St., New York, N. Y. Phone 9078 Bowling Green.

The Moving Picture World

There Is a Great Deal of Country Beyond the Hudson River

Hell Gate and High Bridge Don't Mean Much Outside of Manhattan

The Moving Picture World Goes Into the Country Town Where the Small Exhibitor Needs Its “Aids” and “Helps” to Successful Showmanship—and the Small Exhibitor, in Small Towns and “One Night Stands” Form the Backbone of the Moving Picture Industry.
From Canton, Illinois, to Canton, China, movie fans are looking at pictures made on

EASTMAN FILM

The demand for the clearest pictures possible is world wide.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY,
ROCHESTER, N.Y.

FOR SALE CHEAP

Three (3) Bell & Howell Continuous Printers; guaranteed in good working condition.

THIS IS A BARGAIN

Write or wire for price.

KALEM CO.
235 W. 23rd St., New York City

Gundlach Projection Lenses

give clean cut definition with the utmost illumination. This is all that you can expect from perfect lenses. The universal use of these lenses is the best evidence of their superior quality. They are sold on approval by all dealers and furnished as the regular equipment with the best machines.

Gundlach-Manhattan Optical Co.
808 So. Clinton Ave., Rochester, N.Y.
List of Current Film Release Dates

(Paramount Releases Continued from Preceding Page)

SUCCESS SERIES (REISSUES).
Oct. 6—Man from Mexico (John Barrymore—Five Parts—Drama).
Oct. 12—Seventeen (Jack Pickford—Five Parts—Drama).
Nov. 17—Snowbound (More).
Nov. 24—The Chest (Pannie Ward and Sexue Hayakawa).
Nov. 24—Caprice (Mary Pickford).

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES.
Nov. 17—Pjji Does Its Bit.
Nov. 21—Five Walkers of Bequa.
Dec. 1—The Belgian Sisters of Lazon.

PARAMOUNT-BRAY PICTOGRAPHS.
Nov. 10—A Modern Miracle Worker; Our Newest Possessions: How Movies Move.
Nov. 17—Tortola, the Fisherman's Paradise; A Machine That Thinks; An Oriental Wrestling Match; Cartoon; "The Greased Pole."

World Pictures Corp.

Oct. 14—The Road to France (Carlyle Blackard; Evelyn Gresley—Five Parts—Drama).
Nov. 11—America's Answerer.
Nov. 17—Just Sylvia (Barbara Castleton and Carlyle Blackard).
Nov. 25—The Grouch (Montague Love).
Dec. 2—Hitting the Trail (Carlyle Blackwell; Evelyn Gresley; Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 9—The Man of Bronze (Lewis Stone—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 16—The Zero Hour (June Elvidge—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 23—The Love Net (Madge Evans—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 30—The Sea Stall (Louise Hult—Five Parts—Drama).

WORLD COMEDY RELEASES.
O, Suele Behave (Pattie Tynor).

Feature Releases

AFFILIATED DISTRIBUTORS CORP.
1600 Broadway.
Lafayette, We Come! Pershing, 17—(Pertet Productions).

BLUEBIRD.
Oct. 7—The Page of Luxury (Ruth Clifford—Five Parts—Drama)—05240.
Together (Violet Merseras—Five Parts—Drama).
Nov. 23—Hugon the Mighty (Montre Salisbur —Five Parts—Drama).
Nov. 30—All Night (Carmel Myers—Five Parts Drama).

CHRISTIE FILM COMPANY.
Oct. 7—Why Get a Divorce?
Oct. 11—There's Three Husbands.
Oct. 28—Two's Company.
Nov. 18—Why Husbands Flirt.
Nov. 25—The Case of the Blue Flame.
Dec. 3—All Mixed Up.
Dec. 9—Johnnie, Go Get 'Em.
Dec. 17—Peggy Mixes In.

EDUCATIONAL FILMS CORPORATION.
Aug. 26—A Mexican Voyage (Wright).
Sept. 2—Clinks for Kings and Millionaires (Harold Horton).

FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS' OWN CIRCUIT.
Pershing's Crusaders.
A Dog's Life (Charlie Chaplin).
Shoulder Arms (Charlie Chaplin).
Ambassador Gerard's "My Four Years in Germany."
Tarsan of the Apes (Elmo Lincoln and Enid Markey).
Tempered Steel (Madame Petrova).
Italy's Flaming Front—Official Italian War Picture.

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CO.
Times Building, New York.

FORD EDUCATIONAL WEEKLY.
Dec. 12—The Red Cross Cares for the Wounded.
Dec. 12—On Foot of the Army and Navy.

HARRY GARNER.
Asilom Building, New York.
The Hushed Hour (Blanche Sweet).
The Unparalleled Sin (Blanche Sweet).

W. W. HODKINSON CORP.
Sept. 29—Heart of Rachel (Bessie Barscale—Five Parts—Drama—Parallal.
Oct. 7—Whatever the Cost (Anita King—Five Parts—Drama—Pallas).
Nov. 25—Three X Gordon (J. Warren Kerrigan—Five Parts—Comedy—Hampton).
Dec. 2—Godless of Lost Lake (Louise Gium—Five Parts—Drama).

HOPT HADLEY.
130 West 46th Street, New York.

JEWEL PRODUCTIONS, INC.
The Geer of Berlin (Century Production—Two Parts)—03141.
The Sinking of the Lusitania (One Reel Pan Picture by Winsor McCay)—03140.
For Husbands Only (Six Parts—Drama)—0250.
Crashing Through to Berlin (Seven Parts—Par- tite Drama—Toplbaum).
The Yellow Dog (Six Parts—Drama).

ROBERTSON-COLE, INC.
1000 Broadway, New York.
Among the Catholic Knights of the South Pacific (Educational—Martin Johnson Film Co., Inc.).

LEONACE PERRIT PRODUCTIONS.
1446 Broadway, New York.
Stars of Glory.

GEORGE KLEINE.
Rialto DeLuxe Productions.
Conquered Hearts (Drama).

Edison.
The Unbeliever (Seven Reels).

Young America (Seven Parts).
Triple Trouble (Charlie Chaplina Picture).

PSYCHO-ANALYTIC RESEARCH ASSOCIATION.
1510 South 220 Street, Lincoln, Neb.
What Does a Woman Need Most (Six Parts).

SELECT PICTURES.
Sept.—The Burden of Proof (Marlon Davies—Five Parts—Drama).
Sept.—The Better Half (Alice Brady—Five Parts Drama).
Sept.—The Forbidden City (Norma Talmadge—Five Parts—Drama).
Oct.—The One Woman (Select Special).
Oct.—Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots (Constance Talmage—Five Parts—Drama).

WILLIAM L. SHEPPY SERVICE.
720 Seventh Avenue, N. Y. City.
Marriage (Catherine Calvert—Keeny Production).

FACING DEATH ON THE BUMMISUP (Birmingham—Travel).
Unknown Switzerland (Birmingham—Travel).
The Pitius Railway (Birmingham—Travel).
Allied War Heroes Arrive in Switzerland (Birmingham—Travel).

State Right Releases

ADVANCED MOTION PICTURE CORP.
The Eleventh Commandment (Drama).

ARROW FILM CORPORATION.
Times Building, New York.

B F. MUNSON (Ripin), The Mystery Ford serial in fifteen episodes.

BEAR STATE FILM COMPANY.
220 S. State St., Chicago, Ill.

BERNARD H. BERNEIN.
923 Longacre Building, New York City.

CHESTER BEECROFT.
501 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City.

COSMOPHOTO FILM COMPANY, INC.
220 West 46th Street, New York City.
Believe.

CREST PICTURES CORP.
220 West 46th Street, New York.
The Lost of the America (Drama).

THE FILM MARKET, INC.
4037 Times Building, New York.
Suspicion (Six Reels).

Gathem (Two Parts—Drama).

GERMANY (home Sweet Germany), the Star Spangled Banner (500 feet; Gotham Films).

Hillman, Home, Sweet Home, and The Girl I Left Behind Me (Gotham Films).

FOURSQUARE PICTURES.
729 Seventh Avenue, New York.
The Great White Trail.
One Hour.
The Cast Off.

A Woman's Experience (Backer—Backer Production—Drama).

GAUMONT CO.
Flushing, L. I.

A Woman's News—Released every Tuesday, Gaumont Grable—Released every Friday.

GEORGE W. MAGUIRE.
Longacre Building, New York.
Mother (Six Parts—Drama—McClure Pictures).

HILLER & WILK, INC.
Raffles, the Amorous Crackman.
Sept.—Sporting Life (Maurice Tourneur Production).
Woman (Maurice Tourneur Productions). The Silent Mystery (Francis Ford serial in six episodes).

THE SOCIAL SECRETARY.
Fifty Fifty.
WORTH WAITING FOR UNIVERSAL MOTION PICTURE CAMERAS

Uncle Sam is taking out entire output of Universals. His needs come first. You must wait awhile; but, remember, a Universal is worth waiting for. Now is the time to get acquainted with this wonder camera. Write for catalog. Special booklet to theatre owners.

BURKE & JAMES, Inc. 210 E. Ontario St., CHICAGO 225 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK

A Dependable Mailing List Service

Saves you from 30% to 50% in postage, etc. Reaches all or selected list of theatres in any territory. Includes name of exhibitor as well as the theatre in address. A list of publicity mediums desiring motion picture news. Unaffiliated exchanges looking for features. Supply houses that are properly characterized as such. Producers with address of studios, laboratories and offices. Information in advance of theatres being or to be built.

W74
MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY 10 Fifth Avenue, New York Phone—Chelsea 3227
Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

Duhem Motion Picture Mfg. Co.
Expert Developing, Printing and Coloring
C A M E R A O U T P U T S A N D RAW FILM SUPPLIED
C A M E R A M E N
SENT ANYWHERE

985 Market Street San Francisco, Cal.

In Answering Advertisements, Please Mention the MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

PORTER EQUIPS THEATRE FOR GRIFFITH'S

SUPREME TRIUMPH "HEARTS OF THE WORLD." Installs Two UP to The Minute Type S SIMPLEX PROJECTORS with Robin TIME and SPEED INDICATORS in the 44th St. Theatre, New York. The Marvelous PROJECTION of this greatest picture of modern times is synchronized accurately to the fraction of a second with the beautiful music and effects.

B. F. PORTER, 729 7TH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY, 11TH FLOOR

Studio For Rent

Well equipped Studio for rent to responsible party.

Apply to—

KALEM CO.
235 West 23rd St. New York

PERFECTED PROJECTION

"Movies" are made possible at any time, anywhere, with a DeVry Portable Motion Picture Projector. The DeVry is always and instantly ready for an evening's entertainment or instruction; attached to any ordinary light socket, it practically runs itself. Adopted by the United States Government in all Departments where motion pictures are used, and by the American Red Cross, at home and abroad. Used also in all Y. M. C. A. work, at home and "over there."

Write for Catalogue G-2

THE DE VRY CORPORATION
160½ North Wells St. DE Chicago, U. S. A.

"MARTIN" ROTARY CONVERTER FOR REAL SUN-LIT PICTURES PERFECT REEL D'ESOLVING WRITE FOR FURTHER INFORMATION

NORTHEASTERN ELECTRIC CO. 412 S. Hayes Ave., Chicago 10th Broken Bldg., New York

Screencraft

BY LOUIS REEVES HARRISON

An invaluable help to the writer who is making a serious effort to evolve stories for screen production.

Of great interest to the individual who is watching the development of "the silent drama."

$2.00 PER COPY, POSTPAID

Published and for Sale by

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

516 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY

Scherl Building, Chicago, Illinois

Wright & Calander Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

Moving Picture Machine Patents My Specialty

P A T E N T S

WILLIAM N. MOORE

PATENT ATTORNEY

LOAN AND TRUST BUILDING

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The first important step is to learn whether you can obtain a patent. Please send sketch of your invention with $5.00 and I will examine the patent records and inform you whether you are entitled to a patent, the cost and manner of procedure.

Personal Attention Established 25 Years
List of Current Film Release Dates

(Edward Arnold, Players). 5.00
(Two Reels—Drama.)

1. Who's Who? (Drama.)

WOLF

The

When Men Betray (Drama).

No. 31. Rider in the Rain (One Reel-Comedy).

3. After the Storm (Feature). 4.00
(Two Reels—Drama.)

THE

The

5.00

GREGORY

Blind Justice (Drama). 2.00

M. H. HOFFMAN.

Suspicion (Six Parts—Drama). The Craving.

Ivan Film Production, 136 West 4th Street, New York.

Two Men and a Woman.

Humanity, Life or Honor.

JESTER COMEDY CO.

220 West 42d Street, New York.

(Featuring Twede-Dun.)

Oct.

1—Ain't It So (Two Parts).
Nov.

1—Some Baby (Two Parts).
Nov.

15—Camouflage (Two Parts).

MONOGR. PICTURE COMPANY.

1476 Broadway, N. Y. City.

Mothers of Liberty.

PHYSICAL CULTURE PHOTO PLAYS, INC.

113 West 40th Street, New York.

Zongar (Drama).

PIEDMONT PICTURES CORPORATION.

737 Seventh Avenue, N. Y. City.

His Daughter Pays.

PIONEER FILM CORP.

130 West 46th St., New York City.

The Still Alarm (Bullfighting). Women of Men.

HARRY RAYNER.

1402 Broadway, New York.

The Hand of the Hun (Four Parts—Novelty). The Master Crook.

ROMAYNE SUPER-FILM COMPANY.

221 Marcy Strong Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.

Me and Gott.

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES.

The Light of Western Stars (Sherman Production—Six Parts).

ERNST SHIPMAN.

17 West 44th Street, New York City.

—Pea Vultures (Five Reels). Sept.

—The Prince of the Penn War (Five Reels).

W. H. CLIFFORD PHOTOPLAY COMPANY, INC.

Featuring Shorty Hamilton, One Five-Reeler Per Month.

The Coast Guard Patrol (By Neil Shipman—Seven Part Patriotic Drama). A Nugget in the Rough (Five Parts—Comedy Drama).

Trooper 44 (Five Parts—Drama).

The Tiger of the Sea (Seven Parts—Drama—by Neil Shipman).

Billy Stingers' Poems (A series of one reel patriotic comedy-drama issued semi-monthly).

Al and Frank Jennings.

Lady of the Dugout (Six Parts—Drama).

Lloyd Carleton Productions. Mother I Need You.

Edwin Frueree. The Haunted House (Mythic Comedy—Two Parts).

United Film Corporation. Crime of the Hour (Seven Parts—Drama).

Francis Ford Producing Co. Berlin via America (Six Parts). The Isle of Intrigue (Six Parts).

We Manufacture Complete EXIT Signs

65 to 70 Cents in Quantity Also Fire Escape Signs and Other Specialties

T. L. ROBINSON & CO.

105 W. Monroe St., Chicago

GUARANTEED Mailing Lists

MOVING PICTURE THEATRES

Every State—total, $5,300; by States, $3.50 per State. 1,500 film exchanges 5.00 313 manufacturers and studios 2.00 268 machine and supply dealers 2.90 Further Particulars:

A. F. WILLIAMS, 166 W. Adams St., Chicago

HARRY RAPF.

SOUTHERN FEATURE FILM COMPANY.

117 Broadway, New York. Beyond the Law (Kimmel-Dalton—Six Parts).

TOPICS OF THE DAY FILM COMPANY.

UNIVERSAL FILM COMPANY.

200 Broadway, New York. Song Hits in Photoplays.

U. S. EXHIBITORS' BOOKING CO.

W. H. PRODUCTIONS.

71 West 36th Street, New York. Mickey (Seven Parts).

(Two Reels—Drama.)

WARNER BROTHERS.

220 West 42d Street, New York. The Kaiser's Finish.

FELIX F. FEIST.

130 West 46th Street, N. Y. C. The German Plot.

STOLEN ORDERS (Eight Reels—Drama).

PLENKETT & CARROLL.

220 West 42d Street, New York City. The Woman the Germans Shot.

PRODUCERS DISTRIBUING CORP.

130 West 46th Street, New York City. Her Mistake (Evelyn Nesbit).

SCHOMER PHOTO-PLAY PRODUCING CO.

1440 Broadway, New York City. Ruling Passions.

BOUND VOLUMES OF THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD You Need Them in Your Business!

Each issue of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD represents the fruit of studied effort on the part of experts to provide just what the average reader of trade publications in the moving picture field can use to best advantage in his business.

Since this is true, the bound volumes of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD, each comprising the complete issues printed during a period of three months, take immediate standing as The Reliable Reference Book of the Trade The Record of Moving Picture History In the Making

NOW READY—VOL. 37.—JULY TO SEPTEMBER, 1918

WE INVEST $16.00 Bound Volumes for the years 1912, 1913, 1914, 1915, 1916 and 1917. Four volumes each year. Shipped as per your instructions at $1.50 per volume—transportation charge additional.

CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 516 Fifth Ave., New York City
The Essential Requirements FOR Improved Projection ARE SPEER CARBONS

Speer Alterno Combinations for A. C. Work
AND
Speer Hold-Ark Combinations for D. C. Work
Produce Incomparable Results

Write today for descriptive folders. Read the unbiased opinions of operators.

Place an order now with your Supply House.

"The Carbons with a Guarantee"
MANUFACTURED BY SPEER CARBON COMPANY
ST. MARYS, PA.

Modernize Your Theater
By installing seats like this, They will remain beautiful, comfortable and serviceable for years because they are covered with Du Pont Fabrikoid, Craftsman Quality, which doesn't wear shabby; isn't affected by heat or moisture, and is as cleanable and sanitary as glass.

Du Pont Fabrikoid Company
Wilmington Delaware
Canadian Factory and Offices New Toronto, Canada

Bulletin No. 11, Just Out, Lists Motion Picture Cameras

At a Saving of 30% to 60%

APPARATUS FEATURED IN THIS MONEY-SAVING BULLETIN INCLUDE ALL LEADING MAKES NEW AND SLIGHTLY USED.

Every item listed is a tremendously GOOD BUY—values you will be mighty glad to know about. Every Motion Picture Camera has gone through the thorough "Bass Test," and is Shipped under our unalterable guaranty to Satisfy you completely. Note below one or two items quoted from this valuable bargain bulletin:

1. DEBBIE STUDIO. 400 Feet Capacity Professional Model. Mahogany case, brass trimmed, forward and reverse movement without change of mechanism. Trick crank, one picture per turn. Heart-shaped cam and shuttle. Focusing by means of a magnifying tube, when camera is hooded. Lens mounted on a micrometer screw. Outside masking. Film register for regular work—also for trick work. Fittings all of the finest quality. The aluminum magazines are interchangeable and one extra magazine and a hand dissolve included. The lenses are a 50-M.M. Krauss Zeiss Tessar F:3.5, also a 4½" B. & L. Tessar F:3.5 for telephoto work. Also a heavy professional panoramic and tilting top tripod. The outfit is in brand new condition, overhauled in our own shop, and is worth $1,200. Our price complete only $750

2. URBAN BIOSCOPE M. P. CAMERA. 200 Feet Capacity. Dimensions, 2" wide, 11" high, 12" long. Fitted with regular crank, eight pictures per turn; trick crank, one picture per turn. Footage register. Complete with 50-M.M. Zeiss Tessar F:3.5 lens, direct finder for outside focusing. An excellent camera for all-around work. Our price with two extra magazines is only $415

3. 1918 MODEL UNIVERSAL, in brand new condition. Our price only $245

Fresh Eastman Perforated Stock at $37.50 per 1,000 feet.

BASS Great Camera Values are already known to readers of this magazine, we are glad to say, as well as BASS reliable business methods. We seek to satisfy you completely at all times.

Write for Bulletin No. 11 TODAY

BASS CAMERA COMPANY

111 No. Dearborn St. Dept. 11, Chicago, U. S. A.
Consider the Evidence

Since the Projector is (or should be) a fine piece of mechanism, to perform work upon which depends the success of your undertaking, you owe it to yourself to consider all the evidence that can help you in the selection. Let us present it:

(1) The Simplex never dominated the field just because it was alone and no one had yet undertaken to build a better Machine. But it entered a closely fenced-in market with an argument of quality so convincing that it quickly grew into favor, until to-day it dominates the field of high-quality projection, proved by the fact that three out of four go to replace other makes and that it is practically the only Machine considered by the masters in the industry.

(2) When you buy a Simplex you not only buy the best make of Projector, but the best Simplex ever made as well. Our Distributor will not offer you a new Machine of an old model for the sake of getting your order on a price basis. There is but one model and one quality of Simplex—the highest.

(3) When you buy a Simplex you buy it of a man with whom doing business contains the utmost of satisfaction. He doesn't sell the Simplex because he makes most money on it; and he knows that the after-profits for repairs are almost nil. He sells the Simplex because he thinks more of his reputation than of immediate profits. He never needs to go around another street when he sees you coming. He knows he's sold you the best there is and that you appreciate it because it makes you more money than even next-to-the-best could.

Verdict: In Favor of the Simplex

How could the jury bring a different verdict, with such evidence before it?
Hold a dollar too close to your eye and you lose sight of the sun.

And, so you can hide the brilliance and screen value of your negative by employing ordinary "prints."

The man who buys "prints" on mere price usually shows inferior "pictures," faulty business judgment and practices rank extravagance.

We offer quality prints and personal service at prices which represent true economy.
Projectionist Ray says

"Few people ever get rich entirely by their own efforts. They get others to work for 'em.

"Does your audience work for you? Mine does, 'cause I always run a Power's. After the show every one in the audience becomes a press agent for the house.

"Use a Powers and you'll have your house freely advertised also. Give the folks what they want—good pictures PROPERLY PROJECTED—and they'll give you what YOU want—a snug bank account.

"Satisfy your public and you'll have a line in front of the box office that'll make a merry jingle of the coins in your little old till.

"Power's Cameragraph is the best satisfier ever.

"IT PUTS THE PICTURE ON THE SCREEN"

Nicholas Power Company
INCORPORATED
Pioneers of Projection

90 Gold Street, New York, N.Y.
GOLDWYN POWER

proves itself each week in the greatest theatres of the nation where

Goldwyn Pictures

are presented. The audience-attraction of these productions is due to their quality and strength, to their convincing dramatic stories and to the most popular group of stars available to exhibitors through any one company in the industry.
When President Wilson

signed the Selective Service Draft bill, he started two million young Americans overseas to victory. Now they are coming back. The story of how America's armies of Victory were made is strikingly told by

"Made in America"

in a series of eight episodes, to be released one each week—the first Pictorial Review of the making of the American soldier. It is 100 per cent. Patriotic; 100 per cent. American.

In "Made in America" Ashley Miller, the well known director, makes his debut as a producer. By special permission of the Secretary of War, Mr. Miller spent several busy weeks at one of the largest training camps in the country and as a result "Made in America" presents the only authoritative picturization of the training of the American soldier.

It will be absorbingly interesting to the soldiers. It will touch the hearts of the women folk because its dramatic story is typical of the sacrifices and devotion of the thousands of American families and because of the original and realistic presentation in sequence and in its entirety, of the experiences of millions of young Americans.

Victory has only whetted the appetite of the American people for "Made in America." It tells how the war was won in America.

First release December 29th, 1918
Try a Washburn Night Each Week!

If you haven’t played all of these Washburn comedy-dramas, you have missed something. If you have, every one is worth a repeat. They are filled with laughs, carry strong, intensely interesting plots, and are the essence of high-class entertainment. Try one a week and you will crowd your house and please your patrons.

BRYANT WASHBURN AND HAZEL DALY

"SKINNER’S BABY"

BRYANT WASHBURN AND HAZEL DALY

"SKINNER’S BUBBLE"

BRYANT WASHBURN AND VIRGINIA VALLI

"THE GOLDEN IDIOT"

BRYANT WASHBURN AND VIRGINIA VALLI

"THE FIBBERS"

BRYANT WASHBURN IN

"THE BREAKER"

BRYANT WASHBURN IN

"THE MAN WHO WAS AFRAID"

ESSAY

GEORGE K. SPADA PRODUCERS

GEORGE KLEINE SYSTEM DISTRIBUTORS

REPRESENTATIVES AT ALL GENERAL FILM EXCHANGES
NOT A WAR PICTURE
BUT NEVERTHELESS A PICTURE OF THE HOUR
A SENSATION
WORTH WAITING FOR

CARLYN WAGNER as LENNON MORRETT
"AN INNOCENT VICTIM"

RELEASED SOON
JAMES KEANE PRODUCTIONS
Candler Building, 220 West 42nd Street, New York City
now

The most talked about girl in America

Mrs. Charlie Chaplin

Mildred Harris in Lois Weber's Triumph

"For Husbands Only"

JEWEL Productions

1609 Broadway, New York City
Just released and Millions are clamoring to see her

Mrs. Charlie Chaplin

Mildred Harris

in

Lois Weber's Production de Luxe

"Borrowed Clothes"

JEWEL Productions
coming

—the biggest attraction on the screen today

Mrs. Charlie Chaplin

Mildred Harris

in

Lois Weber's Great Heart Picture

"When a Girl Loves"

JEWEL Productions

1000 Broadway New York City
"THE REASON WHY"

"THE CLAW"
Clara Kimball Young's first series of Select Pictures embraces a group of seven splendid productions consistently fine in quality. Experienced exhibitors have proven the great value of this series to a theatre seeking photoplay attractions of the highest merit. If you have not already shown them to your patrons consult the nearest Select Exchange. Clara Kimball Young pictures are a powerful asset for any house.

SELECT PICTURES CORPORATION
720 Seventh Avenue  New York City

"THE HOUSE OF GLASS"

"THE SAVAGE WOMAN"

"MAGDA"
The Road Through the Dark is one picture alone is enough to explain the success and fame of Clara Kimball Young. In this story of a woman who never hesitated to drive ahead through the one road which was open, she is superb, brilliant, compelling!

Scenario by Kathryn Stuart from the story by
MAUD RADFORD WARREN
Directed by
EDMUND MORTIMER
"The Cavell Case" is on the tongue of every authority as one of the important counts in Germany's reckoning, to be paid at the Peace Conference.

JOSEPH L. PLUNKETT and FRANK J. CARROLL

present

JULIA ARTHUR as EDITH CAVELL
THE BRITISH RED CROSS NURSE, in
"THE CAVELL CASE"
THE WOMAN THE GERMANS SHOT

The brutality of the commanders who condemned Edith Cavell to death is shown through the coarse quality of their revels.
Contrary to the rules of nations and the laws of warfare—Edith Cavell faces the firing squad.

The Cavell Case" is as permanent as history. It is a drama of man versus woman that is rooted in the basic struggle between justice and tyranny—the struggle that has returned civilization as victor.
Great news, isn’t it? About the Drews coming back. Like finding a five-dollar bill in an old suit of clothes; like a check from a fellow who has owed you a hundred for a year. Makes you feel good all over. And your patrons—they’re going to be tickled, too.

Especially when they hear about the new Paramount-Drew Comedies.

For a long, long time Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew have hoped for just one thing—they wanted to take their time.

One one-reel comedy a week, they were making. Fifty-two reels a year. They were rushed to death. No wonder they took a rest.

Now, under their new arrangement with the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, they are to make one two-reel comedy a month.

Twenty-four reels a year instead of fifty-two.

And they’ll be, of course, vastly funnier, vastly better than the ones they made in a hurry.
The Vampire Couldn't Stand the Breakfast Table Test!

She was stealing a husband from his wife until Ethel Clayton, the wife, thought of a way to win him back.

"Come and stay with us," the wife told the vampire and the trap was sprung!

Hubby had a chance to compare the two women right in his own home—cooking, washing dishes and mending socks.

Vamps are all right in a restaurant where the lights are low, but in the morning! It's some different!

A picture for every husband and every wife.
MAURICE TOURNEUR presents "SPORTING LIFE"

A Paramount Artcraft Special

Will It Draw Crowds?

THAT'S what you're anxious to know about Maurice Tourneur's "Sporting Life." Well —

Have the people in your town emotions—do they love and laugh and gasp?

Do the women like to see beautiful gowns, society folk enjoying Derby Day or at week ends in the country? Do the men like racing and fighting and thrills?

Do you know how to advertise a big production when you have it?

Yes? Then Sporting Life's a clean up for you.

A TREMENDOUS tale of fast horses, flying fists and beautiful women. A melodrama with an appeal to all men who play and all women who love.

THIS great Drury Lane melodrama of society out-of-doors packed the biggest theatres of two continents. Now it's in a moving picture, produced by Maurice Tourneur, with all the world for his stage.
Jesse L. Lasky presents

Cecil B. De Mille's
Production

"The Squaw Man"

An ARTCRAFT Picture
By Edwin Milton Royle

A modern version of Edwin Milton Royle's famous play, "The Squaw Man." Adapted for the screen by Beulah Marie Dix.

You Believe in Names

So do your patrons. The name of your theatre is a guarantee of quality—if you try conscientiously.

The name of Cecil B. De Mille means a production of distinctive merit.

Edwin Milton Royle's "The Squaw Man" is a play the name of which is internationally famous.

And the cast! Look at these names:

Elliott Dexter  Jack Holt
Ann Little    Thurston Hall
Katherine MacDonald  Tully Marshall
Theodore Roberts  Herbert Standing
                  Edwin Stevens

From Cecil B. De Mille down, a list of guarantors of exceptional entertainment as dependable as the list of directors of the National City Bank.

DON'T forget to tell your people that "The Squaw Man" is another production by the man who gave them "Till I Come Back to You," "We Can't Have Everything," "Old Wives For New," and "The Whispering Chorus."
A PRODUCTION
PIONEER FILM CORPORATION
Presents

"Little ORPHANT"

WITH COLEEN MOORE
AND
THOS. SANTCHI

THE PATHETIC STORY
OF THIS LITTLE ORPHAN GIRL MAKES A MOST REMARKABLE 6 REEL SCREEN MASTERPIECE

FOR STATE AND FOREIGN RIGHTS APPLY TO THAT IS DIFFERENT

A SCREEN ADAPTATION OF JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY'S BEAUTIFUL POEM

ANNIE'

A STORY FOR YOUNG FOLKS AND YOUNG OLD FOLKS

AT WM. A. BRADY'S PLAYHOUSE
NEW YORK, THE STAGE PORTRAY-ALS OF RILEY'S POEMS ARE-SCORING A TREMENDOUS HIT.

PIONEER FILM CORPORATION, 130 WEST 46 ST. N.Y.C.
Producers of "WIVES OF MEN" with FLORENCE REED
Herbert Lubin
Presents
E.K. LINCOLN
in a series of Special Film Attractions

1476 Broadway
New York
E. K. Lincoln as "Bob Stokes" in the first Ralph Ince Film Attraction Announce

E.K. LINCOLN

as the Star of the first

RALPH INCE FILM ATTRACTION

Arthur H. Sawyer  Herbert Lubin
1476 Broadway
New York
BRENTWOOD FILM CORPORATION

Presents

THE TURN IN THE ROAD

Story and Direction by King W. Vidor

All Star Cast Including = Helen Jerome Eddy
Winter Hall
Pauline Curley
Lloyd Hughes
Charles Arling
George O. Nicholls and little Ben Alexander

"As Staple and Wholesome as Sugar and Wheat" A Picture that'll Grip and Charm, every member of every American Family

For Release Information

BRENTWOOD FILM CORPORATION
4811 Fountain Ave. Los Angeles Cal.
Another Tremendous Goldwyn-Farrar Success is "THE HELL CAT"

THE growth of an organization in power and exhibitor-confidence is based directly upon the proved power and popularity of a producer's released productions. Prestige is built on what you have delivered; not on your promises to deliver.

Following up her nationally-popular first Goldwyn production, "The Turn of the Wheel," Geraldine Farrar now is filling the theatres of America with capacity patronage in what the critics boldly declare to be "the greatest motion picture she has ever made—THE HELL CAT."

These dynamic reviews point the way to those exhibitors who want to know what to do to help their box-offices:

N. Y. MAIL: The best motion picture Geraldine Farrar has ever had is "The Hell Cat." It is also the best Goldwyn; packed with elemental drama and passions.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD: "The Hell Cat" is melodrama as David Belasco does it; a big picture of the year and the best and most powerful story Geraldine Farrar has ever had.

N. Y. HERALD: Geraldine Farrar thrilled the Strand audiences in "The Hell Cat," the strongest dramatic role this remarkable actress has ever had.

N. Y. AMERICAN: It was a clever idea to put Geraldine Farrar in a big outdoor picture of the west. A strong Willard Mack melodrama is "The Hell Cat" filled with thrilling incidents and elemental romance.

N. Y. EVE. SUN: Miss Farrar has never had a stronger picture than "The Hell Cat." Her most wonderful emotional role since she entered motion pictures.

N. Y. POST: A magnificent picture and Miss Farrar makes the most of the most suitable role of her career.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION
SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President
EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President
16 East 42nd Street
New York City
Capacity Business All Week—A Line Always At the Box-Office

THAT'S the story of GERALDINE FARRAR in her great Goldwyn success, "THE HELL CAT," at the New York Strand—with its 3,500 seats. It takes a whale of a picture to fill this tremendous institution from pit to ceiling for a week; it takes a great production that sets the people of New York talking, and a personality of unparalleled drawing power.

All week outside the Strand a giant uniformed sentinel has been crying while keeping the block-long crowds in line: "All tickets purchased are subject to delay." This is the personal report of the Managing Director of the Strand.

Here, in additional reviews, are more reasons for the great success of "THE HELL CAT":

NEW YORK WORLD: A lively, dramatic story in which Miss Farrar delights the fans with her energetic impersonation of Pancha O'Brien.

EVENING TELEGRAM: Intensely thrilling and brimful of action is "The Hell Cat." The most powerful play in which Miss Farrar has ever appeared.

MORNING TELEGRAPH: A daring, absorbing story. Farrar is superb in this superfine production. In photography it surpasses any production in months.

EX. TRADE REVIEW: "The Hell Cat" is the strongest screen vehicle in which Geraldine Farrar has yet appeared. It is well directed, beautifully photographed and of intense melodramatic interest.

JOURNAL OF COMMERCE: The Hell Cat" affords plenty of thrills. A picture as big as Farrar's reputation.

TOLEDO BLADE: Do not miss seeing "The Hell Cat." It is the most unusual production of the season. Equal honors for Miss Farrar and Goldwyn.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION

Samuel Goldfish, President Edgar Selwyn, Vice President
16 East 42nd Street New York City
Here's What They'll All Say About Louis Bennison:

A BRAND new, likable, wholesome personality on the screen who is destined to gain instant popularity.

"Louis Bennison is just wonderful," will be the verdict of women fans.

"O, what a smile; what a boy he is! There's no one else like him," the men will say approvingly.

Your public will be watching for the first screen appearance, on December 22 and thereafter, in the first of his Betzwood Film Company's Star Series of

LOUIS BENNISON
in Oh, Johnny!

By Wilson Bayley
Directed by Ira M. Lowry

All over America he has been welcomed on the stage. In the theatres of the country he was the biggest individual hit of two seasons in "Johnny Get Your Gun."

At the end of a show patrons will stop you in the lobby to say: "Well, I'm glad to see you get this new star. He brings new life to the screen."

All Goldwyn offices have prints of "Oh, Johnny!" and are holding trade showings and signing contracts for the star who is immediately going to capture the fancy of the country.

GOLDFYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION
SAMUEL GOLDFYN President
16 East 42nd Street New York City
American audiences admire feminine beauty. They buy millions of magazines with "pretty girl" covers. They flock to the musical shows with beautiful choruses. They demand beauty in their motion pictures.

"SMILING BILL" PARSONS in CAPITOL COMEDIES

26 a Year Every Second Monday

knows this, which accounts for the bevies of lovely youngsters always in his pictures. Besides the basically funny stories, he has selected the next biggest element of screen popularity.

We invite exhibitors to view at once "The Jelly-Fish," released everywhere December 15. It's another winner.

GOLDWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFISH President
16 East 42nd Street New York City
ALBERT E. SMITH
presents

EARLE WILLIAMS in

"THE MAN WHO WOULDN'T TELL"

SECOND RELEASE OF THE
EARLE WILLIAMS STAR SERIES

Written by Bess Meredyth
Directed by James Young

A SILENT hero in this day of silent heroism—that is the enviable role portrayed by Earle Williams in this romantic drama of secret service.

There seemed no reason why Hawtrey Burke should not have been in khaki when his country called. And yet he chose the polo field instead of the battle field, the cozy country clubhouse instead of the damp dugout.

EARLE WILLIAMS STAR SERIES SCHEDULE
(Current Releases)
"A Diplomatic Mission"
"The Man Who Wouldn't Tell"
to be followed by six additional features on these dates:
January 20, 1919 May 26, 1919
March 3, 1919 July 7, 1919
April 14, 1919 September 29, 1919

But was there a reason why he risked even the greatest prize of all—the girl he loved, and who loved him but could not respect him? Was he taking greater chances fighting the enemy at home than the enemy abroad?

TENSION throughout—action—love interest—mystery—suspense—these essential elements, all well blended, make "The Man Who Wouldn't Tell" one of the most powerful features in which this premier box-office star has ever appeared.
J. STUART BLACKTON

Presents

His Latest Film Production

The Story With a Laugh, a Thrill and a Throb

"THE COMMON CAUSE"

With an All-Star Cast Including

Herbert Rawlinson—Sylvia Breamer

Lawrence Grossmith,
Charles and Violet Blackton
Huntley Gordon    Louis Dean
Mlle. Marcel and Philip Van Loan and in the Prologue and Epilogue

Julia Arthur
Marjorie Rambeau
Irene Castle
Effie Shannon
and 'Violet Heming'

Story by
J. HARTLEY MANNERS and IAN HAY BEITH
Scenario by ANTHONY P. KELLY
Musical Score by MANUEL KLEIN

VITAGRAPHS
ALBERT E. SMITH President
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

PERRET PRODUCTIONS

Present

The Italian Cameo Girl

Dolores Cassinelli

Directed by Alice Blache
Supervised by Leonce Perret
Story by Leonce Perret

In a series of productions

Perret Productions Inc.
220 West 42nd St., New York
GABY DE SLYS

in a special feature directed by one of the world's greatest photoplay directors, Louis Mercanton.

INFATUATION

An enthralling story by Marcel L'Herbier, superbly acted, with Harry Pilcer and M. Signoreti in the cast. 'He lifted her from the very gutter; gave her fame, fortune and love; yet through a conscienceless infatuation she was willing to put him where she once had been.'

Six Parts, Released Dec. 1

PATHÉ
DISTRIBUTORS
A.H. Woods presents

FANNIE WARD

in the photoplay
adapted from the stage success of the name

THE NARROW PATH

a striking story based on man’s eternal injustice to woman through the double standard, showing how the woman must pay, even though innocent.

Produced by ASTRA
Directed by Geo. Fitzmaurice

Scenario by Jack Cunningham and Ouida Bergere

PATHÉ DISTRIBUTORS
THE SURRENDER OF THE GERMAN FLEET—ONE OF THE MOST TREMENDOUSLY SPECTACULAR EVENTS IN HISTORY, will be shown in an early number of

OFFICIAL WAR REVIEW

The Division of Films is advised that official cameramen of the British Government secured a full reel of scenes of this surrender, which in importance and in the size of the fleet given over by the Germans exceeds anything in history.

This one reel picture would bring very large prices as a “special”. It will be issued in a regular number of the Official War Review.

This picture, together with many other exclusive and intensely interesting pictures, assure to exhibitors showing the Review that it will continue to be an unexcelled box office attraction. The French, British, Italian and American Governments are still taking pictures which will be found only in the Official War Review.

Presented by

COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC INFORMATION
George Creel, Chairman
DIVISION OF FILMS
Chas. S. Hart, Director

Distributed by PATHÉ
It's good for you to read this, Mr. Exhibitor!

"The only single reel comedies worth running in our house," says the Gem Theatre of Peoria, Ill., of the

HAROLD LLOYD COMEDIES

"In our opinion these are the only single reel slapsticks on the market worth running in our house. They surely cannot be beaten for quality, as each one seems to be better than the preceding one. If Lloyd has any rival at all it may be Chaplin, but we doubt if Charlie surpasses him."

The Gem Theatre, Peoria, Ill., in Exhibitors Herald of Nov. 23rd.

One One Reel Comedy Every Other Week.
Produced by Rolin

PATHE
DISTRIBUTORS
MAURICE TOURNEUR PRODUCTIONS

ANNOUNCE THE SALE OF

NORTHERN NEW JERSEY

To

FRANK GERSTEN, Inc.

130 West 46th Street, N. Y. C.

For

The Film World’s Most Unusual Picture

"WOMAN"

Directed by Maurice Tourneur

Negotiations Pending for All Territories

For information regarding distribution, apply to

MAURICE TOURNEUR PRODUCTIONS

STUDIOS—FORT LEE, N. J.

SELLING AGENTS, HILLER & WILK, Inc.

Longacre Bldg., 42nd and Broadway, New York City
Read these Success Reviews

From The MOTION PICTURE WORLD:
"Packed with Thrills and Creepy Doings."

"The new Francis Ford Serial lives up to its title. * * * The Silent Mystery is packed with melodramatic thrills and creepy doings. * * * Francis Ford directed the story and he also plays the hero detective. * * * Everyone in the cast follows the pace set by the director. * * * The regular following of the serial will get a run for its money."

The EXHIBITOR'S TRADE REVIEW:
"Starts With a Francis Ford Wallop."

"Mystery has come to be the keynote of serial pictures, and if The Silent Mystery doesn’t make your hair stand on end, and cold shivers take possession of your spinal cord, then probably you have died of fright. Sets are lavish and picturesque. The cast keeps the plot humming. It is impossible not to keep one’s eyes glued to the screen. It is doubtful if an audience which is following The Silent Mystery would leave the theatre if it started to burn down around them. Such is the power of The Silent Mystery."

WID'S DAILY SAYS:
"A Full Limit of Stuff to Advertise."

"Has enough novelty, action, creepiness and kick to register as a very good serial. They certainly hand you a full limit of stuff to advertise. * * * Certainly has wild action that will cause gasps, giggles and gulps."

From THE MORNING TELEGRAPH:
"Cannot Fail to Find Favor."

"There is an atmosphere of mystery and suspense about The Silent Mystery which cannot fail to find favor with the eager and enthusiastic followers of serial productions. * * * This latest Francis Ford effort is replete with excitement and action. It would be unwise to attempt to steal forty winks during the course of the production because during that few minutes so much would have taken place that it would be difficult to take up the thread of the story again. The Silent Mystery is indeed cram full of happenings."

From the BILLBOARD:
"The First Episode Presages Success."

"Packed with punch, a thrill to every minute, Francis Ford’s latest serial, The Silent Mystery, has gone its predecessors one better of originality, continuity and gripping interest. * * * The synopsis does not convey an idea of the marvelous stunts indulged in by a company of superlative merit. The very first episode presages success, for it has a tense grip upon the emotions, and iswithout logical and convincing."

From the MOVING PICTURE NEWS:
"Should Please Mightily."

"This should please mightily in every theatre that makes a practice of running serials—and especially in those localities where Francis Ford has a good following. Every episode is full of fist fights to bring the average fan to his feet many times, and the continuity is easy to follow. * * * Francis Ford is not alone in passing out the wallops. * * * It has the sustained mystery so necessary to serials."

The Greatest Money-Maker Produced This Year!
presents

in his Newest and Greatest Serial

FORD

SILENT MYSTERY"

Handle Through the Open Market the Same as All Other Unusual Productions

Productions that are too large to be handled on programs or through releasing organizations—especially huge productions like “The Silent Mystery” with its great Box-Office value—are properly sold on the open market—therefore Francis Ford’s greatest serial will be handled the same way.

My first announcement of a new and greater Ford Serial brought a flood of inquiries from Program and Releasing organizations. They didn’t even wait for the splendid reviews shown on the opposite page. They Knew the Box-Office Value of a Francis Ford Serial.

Some had novel propositions to offer. There were so many that distribution was held up till they could be analyzed. But, as my associates pointed out none of them considered the Exhibitor.

Louis Burston, President.

HILLER & WILK, (Inc.)

Selling Agents

912 Longacre Building

New York City

After mature deliberation my associates and myself determined the most advantageous way for all was to handle this notable serial.

In the Open Market—
In this we found the Exhibitors’ and State Rights buyers’ views identical.

I have insisted from the first that since the fans demanded this big picture that ALL EXHIBITORS should have an equal chance to book it. And I knew then and know now that the best way to insure this was to handle it in the big way it deserves—through State Rights Buyers.

Hiller & Wilk, selling agents for the serial wish to thank the Exhibitors and State Rights men for their kindly interest. As the various territories are sold announcement of the buyers will be made through the trade papers. Watch for them.

Silent Mystery Company.

42d and Broadway
HENRY B. WALTHALL

in

"AND A STILL SMALL VOICE"

First of a series of eight big dramatic pictures produced by the National Film Corporation of America

Released by the EXHIBITORS’ MUTUAL DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION
No Star in the Screen world is better known or has a greater following than HENRY B. WALTHALL. He came to the front in the famous old Biograph days when D.W. Griffith was laying the foundation of the modern photoplay. No portrayal before nor since has so endeared a player to the American public as Walthall's famous depiction of the little Colonel in that screen classic "The Birth of a Nation."

Walthall's Colonel Cameron still stands as the best loved characterization in the realm of the Silent drama.

ROBERTSON—COLE COMPANY
Controlling world's rights
Mr. Carle E. Carlton Presents

LIEUT. BERT HALL and EDITH DAY in "A ROMANCE OF THE AIR"

A BIG box office attraction now booking the principal cities. Lieut. Hall himself appears at each performance.

Released through

Crest Pictures Corp.

Times Bldg., New York City originals

LAFAYETTE ESCADRILLE-

Left to Right: — CONDELOT— HALL—THAYL— ViUASS— LADY CHATEAU— PRINCE— McCONNELL— BEECHMILL— Capt. HEAULT— VICTOR— CHAPMAN,

THAYL and HALL only American survivors

"TAKE IT WITH YOU, JUST FOR LUCK!"

He fought in the Foreign Legion. He was decorated by Genl. Joffre. He received the Médaille Militaire. He received the Croix de Guerre with 3 clasps. He was decorated by the Czar, four days before he was deposed. He bombed the Kaiser's Palace at Sofia.
In the Rivoli, New York, week of December 22nd
In your theatre, When?

November twenty-second
Nineteen-eighteen

Mr. Richard A. Rowland,
Metro Pictures Corp.,
New York City.

My dear Mr. Rowland:

I have just finished seeing Nazimova in "HE FOR HER" and I want to compliment you upon having one of the best pictures I have been in a long time. It will lend itself to a wonderful presentation and I am sure will be a great box office attraction also.

Mrs. Nazimova is absolutely a revelation and her personal performance has not been surpassed upon the screen. I am looking forward to its presentation at the Rivoli on the week of December 22nd with a great deal of pleasure.

Very truly yours,

Managing-Director.

NAZIMOVA PRODUCTIONS

M E T R O
EXCLUSIVE
DISTRIBUTORS

MAXWELL KARGER
Director General
Call it luck-
Call it genius or
Call it good management-

The Most Despised
He was dragged from his throne by a great idea.

The GREAT
Wil
The Fall of the Kai

Directed by Chas. Miller. Scenario by June Mathis and A.S. LeVine
SCREEN CLASSICS INC.

NOW BOOKING AT ALL
The Best Beloved!
This man provided the great idea that did it.

VICTORY

son

the ser

Hohenzollerns

It anticipated actual events.
It beat history to it.
It is the timely money coining attraction of

NOW

story by MAXWELL KARGER
Director General
SCREEN CLASSICS INC.

METRO EXCHANGES
MAY ALLISON is appearing in METRO All Star Series
Productions that are so fine, so charming, that audiences everywhere are insisting upon seeing more — No Star is climbing to great heights faster than

MAY ALLISON presented by METRO in
The TESTING OF MILDRED VANE

By Charles T. Dazey adapted by George D. Baker and directed in 5 acts by Wilfred
Lucas. George D. Baker
Manager of Production.

Released by METRO

DECEMBER
SECOND
STATE RIGHTS! The Peace Shot Is Here! Hence the EXPLOSION!!

The first ULTRA Sensation reflecting the Current of THOUGHT OF THE MOMENT!

- NOT A WAR STORY, YET GRIPPING WITH INTERNATIONAL CONFLICT! NOT A LOVE STORY, YET WITH ROMANCE QUivering IN EVERY SCENE! NOT A DETECTIVE STORY, YET WITH MYSTERY AND SUSPENSE IN EVERY SITUATION!
- The first big picture since the close of the WAR to Sharpshoot directly at a subject of world-wide interest!
- Every reel detonating with substance for a SUPERPICTURE!
- Every one of its leading characters of Irresistible Attraction!
- Every one of its more than a score dramatic situations BIG ENOUGH FOR THE BIG SPOT IN ANY SPECTACULAR DRAMA!
- GET ON YOUR TOES FOR A FIRST LOOK AT THE MOST ABSORBING! MOST TIMELY!! VIVID!! STUPENDOUS!!! THRILLING SCREEN WONDER PLAY OF THE YEAR!

WATCH THE MOMENTS!

State Right Buyers

KEEP YOUR CLOCK WOUND!

Our FRANCHISE BOOKING PLAN will make it possible for you to make BIG MONEY on this Ultra PICTURE SENSATION!

Exhibitors

KEEP YOUR CALENDAR CHECKED UP!

Get in touch with our Booking Department immediately, giving us your OPEN DATES, for we will give you one of the BIGGEST, MOST INHERENTLY PROFITABLE BIG BUYS!

WIRE, WRITE, PHONE! For Particulars, Release Date, etc.

WILLIAM STOERMER ENTERPRISES
Temporary Office
Suite 707, 729 Seventh Ave. Phone Bryant 10359
BROADWAY WANTED FOR MURDER

Former Kaiser May Surrender to the American Authorities

Professor Joseph E. Howard of Columbia University, who has been in touch with the Kaiser, reports that he is quite

NEW YORK TIMES

Great Britain

London

The Daily News

Belgium

Holland

German Empire

Process

Extradition

Wanted for Murder

Harry Rapf presents

Elaine Hammerstein

WANTED FOR MURDER

by S. J. Kaufman

Ex-Husband of of Kaiser at a Prison.

2ND WEEK

BROADWAY THEATRE

Direction, N. KASHIN

Ex-Kaiser of Germany is reported to be in Holland.

The New York Times

London

Belgium

Holland

German Empire

Process

Extradition

Wanted for Murder

Harry Rapf presents

Elaine Hammerstein

WANTED FOR MURDER

by S. J. Kaufman

Commencing Sunday, December 8th

BROADWAY THEATRE

Direction, N. KASHIN

Pirate's Trial for Kaiser Is Deemed

Holland for Wilhelm

Unanimous Decision Has Been Arrived At, Says Attorney-General.

BECKMANN-HOLLENS Очевидно, это телеграмма из Берлина.

Paris Experts Hold Wilhelm Can Be Extradited, as Atrocities He Ordered Constute Crimes Against Common Law—Keeps in Touch With German Affairs.

EX-ROJLER OF GERMANY FACING CEL
ALLIES DEMAND KAISER, MURDER

TRY KAISER AS PIRATE, PLAN OF ALLIES

WANTED FOR MURDER
W.M. HOHENZOLLERN
ONE TIME GERMAN KAISER

HOLLAND EXPECTED TO GIVE UP HOHENZOLLERN

President Wilson Said to Have Made Suggestions in Method of Procedure in Getting the ex-Kaiser to Trial. Dutch Cut Off Exports to Germany.

LONDON, Dec. 2—A demand for the surrender of William Hohenzollern will be submitted to the Netherlands government in the name of all the allied cabinets, according to the Express. Views of France and Italy have been fully communicated to the British government, and President Wilson has also made suggestions relative to procedure in the case.
INDEPENDENT SALES CORPORATION

NOW MAINTAINING A POWERFUL SALES FORCE IN EVERY TERRITORY

TO BOOK

NOW Making Cash Advances on Negatives, and Financing Prints and Advertising

NOW Furnishing and Managing Separate Groups of Salesmen for EACH Producing Company to Market THEIR Pictures Exclusively

NOW Securing Physical Distribution for Producers through FILM CLEARING HOUSE, INC. Where Weekly Reports and Weekly Settlements Are Guaranteed

INDEPENDENT SALES CORPORATION
126-130 West 46th Street, New York
SUCCESS IS ASSURED

EMMETT DALTON'S

Six-Reel Motion Picture Version of His Famous Story

BEYOND THE LAW

Scenario by WM. ADDISON LATHROP

A TRUE, HISTORICAL, RED-BLOODED WESTERN PICTURE—FULL OF ACTION IN EVERY REEL

Directed by THEODORE MARSTON

Fully protected by copyright

READ WHAT THE CRITICS SAY

THE BILLBOARD:
For screen entertainment it has an abundance of thrilling episodes and will delight many who like to see rapidfire action and Western atmosphere. Emmett Dalton played the trio of desperados with naturalness and a certain surety of manner that promises well for future releases.

TRADE REVIEW:
To the exhibitor who is on the lookout for a big production which will bring results in dollars and cents, and also add prestige to his theatre, Emmett Dalton's powerful screen version of his famous story is especially recommended. Not only is the picture well directed and well edited, but it possesses something more than this; it contains a world of human interest. Human interest is the dominating keynote of the entire production, and it is carried through in a manner which will appeal to everybody.

STATE RIGHTS AND FOREIGN BUYERS ARE EAGER TO NEGOTIATE FOR TERRITORY

NOW READY FOR SALE!
TERRITORY GOING FAST!

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION COMMUNICATE AT ONCE WITH

SOUTHERN FEATURE FILM CORP.

SUITE 801-806 LONGACRE BLDG., NEW YORK

TELEPHONE—BRYANT 7835
The handsomest "lounge lizard" that ever infested a tea dansant.

The girl who deliberately married a man whom she feared.

The step-mother who fed her own jealousy by promoting a mock romance.

MAXWELL PRODUCTIONS present

THE MARRIED VIRGIN

by HAYDEN TALBOT

Here is a Picture that for Class in Production and Novelty in Plot Leaves the Ordinary "Program Feature" without an Excuse for Existence

READY IN A FEW DAYS

Kathleen Kirkham Rodolfo di Valentina Vera Sisson

Produced Under the Personal Supervision of JOE MAXWELL

GENERAL FILM COMPANY, Distributor
The Most Significant Christmas Film Ever Made!

FOR IMMEDIATE FREE DISTRIBUTION

American Red Cross

Presents

"THE GREATEST GIFT"

A One-Reel Motion Picture of Supreme Artistic Merit. It Breathes the Sympathetic Spirit of the Holiday Season and Impresses Graphically the Ideals of the Red Cross.

Produced by Courtesy of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation

Positive Prints
The Spoor-Thompson Laboratories

Distributed by Courtesy of General Film Company

Introducing Agnes Tait, Model for A. E. Foringer's famous poster "The Greatest Mother in the World."

Apply at any General Film Company exchange

This space contributed to American Red Cross "Christmas Roll Call" Dec. 16-23 by Moving Picture World
Fox exhibitors have a material advantage over their competitors
—they are sure of uniformly good pictures
—they are saved the embarrassment of apologizing for production shortcomings.

Fox pictures are made to a standard; then tested to see if they fit. Nothing is left to chance.
It is the Fox Idea that yesterday's experience should be made the basis of better pictures today —that it is cheaper to stand the loss of discarding productions than to market them at the cost of good-will.
This is the policy that has made VICTORY PICTURES and EXCEL PICTURES the sensation of the 1918 season.
Every production offered in either of these two series has been a little better than its predecessor, and every one that will be offered hereafter will be better than any that have gone before.
You may have thought, when you saw the first VICTORY PICTURE: "Oh, well, Fox has to make the first ones right." And you may have argued with yourself that quality of this sort could not long be maintained.

But now you know better—VICTORY PICTURES are the talk of the trade—the biggest series of profit-winners, without exception, that ever have been offered

VICTORY PICTURES
Tom Mix in FAME AND FORTUNE
Gladys Brockwell in THE STRANGE WOMAN
George Walsh in I'LL SAY SO
Tom Mix in TREAT 'EM ROUGH
Gladys Brockwell in THE CALL OF THE SOUL
George Walsh in LUCK AND PLUCK
Tom Mix in THE COMING OF THE LAW

They owe their success to the Fox Idea —to the Idea that it is story, plus direction, plus star that makes a picture, and that a standard of excellence, once attained, merely represents wasted effort unless it is maintained.

GLADYS BROCKWELL, TOM MIX and GEORGE WALSH in smashing, up-to-the-second dramas, sumptuously staged, masterfully directed and packed with action, punch and popular appeal —that's the story of VICTORY PICTURES.
And you'll find a similar appeal—similar quality—in EXCEL PICTURES.
No series of productions ever has attained the volume of bookings in a year that have been scored up for EXCEL PICTURES in the three months they have been on the market.

VIRGINIA PEARSON, PEGGY HYLAND and JANE and KATHERINE LEE have established new records for drawing power, and now these recognized and favorite stars have added to their ranks MADELAINE TRAVE-ERSE the young woman whose marvelous character interpretation in "The Callauch Case" brought her into national prominence almost overnight.

VICTORY and EXCEL PICTURES are the biggest "buy" in the market today.

Your Patrons Want to See Every One of These Pictures! Book Them Now!

FOX FILM CORPORATION
MOST PEOPLE KNOW WHAT THEY WANT—GIVE IT TO THEM

Fox Films
STANDARD PICTURES
The Best That Brains and Money Can Make

Under this slogan William Fox has built up a brand of pictures that has been shown to more people and has brought more money to exhibitors than any other brand in the world. Standard Pictures, featuring Theda Bara, Evelyn Nesbit and William Farnum and including powerful all-star productions, have succeeded because they have worth. They are built upon the very best stories available in this country and abroad.

They are built by directors who stand in the forefront of their profession—such men as J. Gordon Edwards, R. A. Walsh, Frank Lloyd, Richard Stanton and Kenean Buel.

They are built at an enormous expenditure for casts and settings.

They are interesting, impressive, dramatic, artistic.

Being built on honor, Standard Pictures have the confidence of the public. They typify the Fox Idea.

Book them, advertise them, stage them effectively, and then stop worrying about your box office and cash drawer.

The Right Picture at the Right Time, and Assistance to Put it Over—That's the Fox Idea.

FOX FILM CORPORATION
Fox Films

Always Just a Leap Ahead!

Up to the minute—and beyond! And always out first with Big, Timely Pictures that record and make history. That's William Fox. That's part of the Fox Idea. That's why progressive exhibitors—the live ones who want great feature dramas hot from the griddle of world events—are booking these smashing full-house attractions.

When are the patrons of your theatre going to see these pictures? If you don't yet know, get busy today with a Fox Exchange.

EVERY MOTHER'S SON
Written and staged by R. A. Walsh

The picture of Reconstruction! It plunges boldly into the future and explores the new world that will rise from the War. The greatest mother drama ever filmed—Inspiring patriotic scenes that show the final downfall of the Hun—The Peace Conference at Versailles—Heroic deeds, romance and the fervor of youth—Filled to the gunwales with box-office values.

WHY I WOULD NOT MARRY
Staged by Richard Stanton

The most powerful morality play of the decade—A picture that will set society by the ears and strip from marriage the hypocritical shams that now wreck countless lives. The woman in this story lived. She learned the world and its ways—and men. Here is a revelation that goes straight home to every man and woman in America. Sure to be a popular sensation and a money-making clean-up for the live exhibitor.

THE PRUSSIAN CUR
Written and staged by R. A. Walsh

Why did the Kaiser fall?. What was the sinister system with which he long braved the world and made his power so hated and feared? Capt. Horst von der Goltz, for ten years a secret agent of Emperor Wilhelm II, exposes in this astounding drama the whole dastardly German plot to throttle mankind. Show your patrons this great spectacle—watch 'em raise the roof!

THE LAND OF THE FREE
Staged by Richard Stanton

The life story of General Pershing brilliantly picturized. What attraction could possibly draw bigger crowds at this time than the intimate record of the career of America's greatest military hero? This absorbing drama follows him from the little Missouri village where he was born right up to the Hun lines—and then right through them into Germany! This great national photoplay will be everlasting in interest.

QUEEN OF THE SEA
With Annette Kellerman

The world's most shapely woman and hundreds of ravishing nymphs in a sub-sea phantasy that eclipses even "A Daughter of the Gods." A vivid story, a stupendous spectacle, and marvelous scene of surpassing beauty.

Booked Exclusively On An Individual Basis
FAN FAN

A tale of old Japan—thousands of persons, lavishly costumed, in thrilling scenes of Oriental splendor—gay revels, swift action, glorious romance—all the color and charm of the East blended with a beautiful story that fills the heart with the spirit of Christmas—clean, wholesome, joyous—a happy picture for a happy time.

ALI BABA AND THE FORTY THIEVES

The greatest story of the wonderful Arabian Nights translated to the screen with all its entrancing beauty—the magnificence of ancient Persia impressively presented—the famous slave market of Teheran—gorgeous palaces, rich bazars, quaint caravans—robber chieftains in strange rite and stirring deeds—harem, dancing girls and rippling comedy—a picture to please the holiday crowds and pull the profits.

OTHER BIG HOLIDAY ATTRACTIONS:

JACK AND THE BEANSTALK
ALADDIN AND THE WONDERFUL LAMP
THE BABES IN THE WOODS
TREASURE ISLAND
AMERICAN HUSBANDS
WE SHOULD WORRY
TWO LITTLE IMPS
TROUBLEMAKERS
DOING THEIR BIT

Be Your Own Santa Claus! Book Them Now!
TO CONTENTS

Advertising Curntiment Criticised ............ 1192
Advertising for Exhibitors ............... 1207
Advertising Aids for Busy Managers .... 1252
Alaska Towns. Big Films in ............... 1183
Among the Independent Producers ....... 1241
Attractions at New York Theatres ......... 1194
Author Must Reserve Cinema Rights ....... 1183

"Beyond the Law" (Southern) ............... 1245
Brunet Declares Situation Favorable ....... 1184
"Buchanan's Wife" (Fox) ................. 1246
Burlington Film Pull of Thrills ............. 1201

Chaplin Entertains English Bishop ......... 1220
Chicago News Letter ....................... 1199
"Common Cause, The" (Blackton) ........... 1249
Crisis Is Now Past Says Al Lichtman ....... 1194
Critical Reviews and Comments ............. 1245

"Danger—Go Slow" (Universal) ............. 1249
"Dawn of Understanding, The" (Vitagraph) . 1247
Exhibitors Lose C. O. D. Privilege ......... 1198

Facts and Comments ....................... 1200
Film to Be Accepted as Baggage .......... 1192
Films, Will Renovate Blk .................. 1239
Fishback Making Comedy ................... 1184
"Fuss and Feathers" (Paramount) ......... 1247

"Girl of My Dreams, The" (Exhibitors' Mutual) ............................................ 1248
"Grand Opera" (Paramount) .................. 1249
Goldfish and Rotkapel Go On Tour ......... 1197
Goldwyn to Distribute Ford Weekly ......... 1187
"Greatest Gift, The" (General Film) ....... 1248

"Hell Cat's, The," Average ................ 1184
"Hitting the High Spots" (Metro) ......... 1249

INDEX TO CONTENTS AND ADVERTISERS

CARRIERS & CARBON ACCESSORIES.
Nationale Carbon Co .......................... 1265
Speer Carbon Co ............................... 1361

ELECTRICAL & MACH. EQUIPMENT.
Amusement Supply Co ......................... 1290
Herter Electric Co ............................. 1257
Porter, B. F. .................................. 1257
Reeves Mfg. Co ................................. 1263
Tryphoon Fan Co ............................... 1263
Universal Motor Co ........................... 1253

MFNS. OF INDUSTRIAL FILMS.
Dubin M. P. Co ............................... 1201
Empire City Film Lab ........................ 1205
Erbograph Co ................................. 1265
Evans Film Mfg. Co ........................... 1265
Rothacker Film Mfg. Co ...................... 1254

MFNS. OF MOVING PICTURES.
American Red Cross .......................... 1177
Brentwood Film Corp ......................... 1155
Burlington Travel Pictures ................... 1154
Crest Pictures Corp ........................... 1170
Estuary Film Mfg. Co ........................ 1139

MISCELLANEOUS
Anticipation Slides ........................... 1201
Automatic T. S. & C. R. Co ................. 1245

OEM: OF THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

The Advertisers Who Use the Columns of The Moving Picture World Represent the "Class" of the Industry

We Exercise a Strict Supervision Over the Business Announcements Which We Print
This Protects the Prospective Purchaser It Also Adds Force to Our Advertisers' Messages

TO ADVERTISERS

Bioscope, The .................................. 1256
Cine Mundial .................................. 1257
Cinema, The .................................. 1256
Eastman Kodak Co ............................ 1323
Eiffel Tower, L. .................................. 1261
Harris Corp. .................................. 1261
Lincoln Corp. .................................. 1256
M. P. C. ......................................... 1256
National Ticket Co ............................ 1256
Robinson, T. L. & Co .......................... 1255
Walsh, A. P. .................................. 1255

MOVING PICTURE CAMERAS.
Bass Camera Co. ............................... 1257
Burke & James, Inc. .......................... 1257

PROJECTOR MACHINE MFNS.
Nichols Power Co ............................. 1257
Prather & Bailey, Inc .......................... 1257

PROJECTOR SCREEN MFNS.
Gold Screen Co. ............................... 1257
Minata Cine Screen Co. ...................... 1257
GEORGE KING, of London, England, in an interview with a representative of the World, recently gave some interesting information on the subject of motion picture exhibition in London and the provinces. He pointed out some difference in the system of exhibiting and distributing films as compared with the practices here at home without expressing any individual opinions on the merits of either plan.

Mr. King is in America in the interest of Oswald Stoll, the English amusement provider, who has large music hall interests as well as more recent undertakings in the moving picture field. Mr. King is general manager of Mr. Stoll’s film holdings, of which Jeffrey Bernard is managing director, with Mr. Stoll president. Headquarters of the Stoll screen interests are at 155 Oxford street, London, in the heart of the West End theatrical district and handy to the center of film distribution for London and the Provinces.

“Mr. Stoll’s largest moving picture theatre,” said Mr. King, “is the Strand, Rivoli and Rialto.

The Strand is one of the largest and most popular of any of the theatres in London, and has a capacity of about 2,000 people. It is a beautiful theatre, with the latest in technical equipment. The Rivoli and Rialto are also large and beautiful cinemas in the West End, four of them comparing in importance with your Strand, Rivoli and Rialto.

Sunday Shows Are Restricted.

“They are Marble Arch Pavilion, seating about 1,000; the New Gallery (800), West End Cinema (800) and Super Cinema (1,100), all within a relatively small radius of territory. The shows are continuous afternoons and evenings, with the exception of Sunday. On that day our picture theatres are allowed to open at 6 p.m. and run continuously until 10 p.m. In that time we try to run through two full shows. Charity gets a large proportion of the Sunday receipts, and our employees must be paid extra—in addition to a full day off for all of them with pay, once a week. These Sunday shows are allowed in the greater part of London—but there are some of the counties within the London district that prohibit Sunday entertainments. Asked about some of the details of showmanship Mr. King said that the full-week runs are being discouraged in all English cinemas. The tendency is to change the shows twice a week. There is no such thing as pre-releasing, as practised here in America,” said Mr. King. “The protection given to theatres is concerned solely in the territory where a picture is shown. There is a time protection, generally limited to three days, and never more than a week, on second runs only. Our protection system applies to territory—only one exhibitor in any given district is allowed to show films on first run. But there is no pre-releasing or holding a film back or shoving its release date forward under any circumstances. The release date is the same all over Lon-
Industries Board Lifts Restrictions on Machines

THE conservation division of the War Industries Board has rescinded the conservation schedule that had been in force in the picture machine manufacturer and manufacturers are advised that they need no longer abide by the restrictions contained in the schedule.

This information was received by W. C. Smith, general manager of the Nicholas Power Company and chairman of the executive committee of the motion picture machine manufacturers of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry.

The War Industries Board, however, believes that as a result of its inquiries substantial savings of labor, material, equipment and capital have been effected as a result of the schedule and expressed the hope that the industry of its own accord will find it possible to continue to observe those provisions of the schedule which eliminate needless waste and can be carried out without real hardship.

A Word to Our Readers

BEGINNING with this issue of the Moving Picture World and thereafter the day of going to press will be Thursday of each week instead of Tuesday. This will delay the delivery of your copy by two days this week, but it will reach you at regular intervals in the future.

Advertising forms will close on Wednesday and all copy intended for current publication should be in our hands on Wednesday of each week to insure insertion.

Virginia Pearson Forms an Independent Company

THE latest star to form a film company of her own is Virginia Pearson, known to photo play audiences as a star feature for the Fox Film Corporation. The title of the new concern is Virginia Pearson Photoplays, Inc. Louis Meyer of the Theatre Magazine is president; Sheldon Lewis, well known for his portrayal of villains in a number of old films and the husband of Miss Pearson, is treasurer, while John O'Brien is vice president, director general and supervisor of productions. Paul Meyer is secretary and business manager, while Charles G. Husted is special representative and studio manager, and M. Fleishman director of publicity.

Miss Pearson's contract with the Fox Film Corporation will not expire until January 16. In the meantime a number of scenarios based on her are being considered and everything is being prepared so that actual production may begin early in the new year. In the meantime, which Mrs. Pearson has to his credit a large number of feature productions for prominent stars, he announces that it is the intention of the company to produce only big special features in which Miss Pearson will be starred.

Mr. Lewis in addition to his work in the cast will also head the studio, which is being built for Miss Pearson by Mr. O'Brien in the productions, while arrangements are being made by Mr. Meyer to have the stories of the pictures supplied from various sources. The office of the company is at 6 East Thirty-ninth street, New York.

Brunet Declares Situation Favorable for Production

THE reconstruction period upon which we are now entering opens up a greater, larger field than the world has known for the past 10 years, says General Manager Brunet of Pathé. During that period the industry has made great strides. While few people expected hostilities to cease in the last year, many of the big producers and distributors have had their plans for the coming year to take up their new work upon the cessation of hostilities, and the task before them will not find them unprepared.

While there is still the prospect to bear the burden of taxation already imposed upon it, and which is reputed to have driven out of business many producers and all of the smaller exhibitors, it will now know where it stands and can make its plans accordingly; it will no longer have to work under the uncertainty of the last year, and what additional burden will be placed upon it. Altogether I look upon the situation as most favorable.

Fishback Making Comedies for Lehrman Sunshines

RED FISHBACK, who has been responsible for many successful comedies during the past ten years, is now a member of the staff of directors producing Sunshine Comedies under the general supervision of Henry Lehrman. Fishback's early experience was with Thomas Ince. That was at the time when the Broncho brand of pictures were at the height of their popularity, and Mr. Fishback's experience attracted much attention through the "Shorty Hamilton" series, which proved to be among the most successful money getters of the then famous brand.

Later he joined the Mack Sennett forces and played opposite Charlie Chaplin. It was during this period that Fishback was with Sennett that Henry Lehrman became interested in his work. He studied Fishback's handling of various situations and found that this style of comedy would make a member of his staff of directors at the Sunshine Studios. Mr. Fishback's first Sunshine comedy "Her First Knight" was completed but a short time ago.

Herbert Lubin Under Knife

Herbert Lubin, one of the moving spirits of the Lubin Production, will undergo a serious operation during the coming week at Dr. Stern's Sanitarium, 363 West avenue, New York. Dr. Stern told Mr. Lubin that he had to have the operation. It has been found necessary to again have recourse to the surgeon's knife.
BIG FILMS IN SMALL ALASKA TOWNS

That’s What the World’s Seattle Man Found on Trip to Southeastern Port of Territory—Exodus to Shipyards and Enlistments Deplete Population of Country Districts

By S. J. Anderson

added about fifty more seats to its for-er 280, and has changed the name to the Liberty. Mr. Barbour made a trip to Seattle and bought the equipment, Power’s 6B machines, a Minerva gold fibre screen, etc. He also lined up the best service he could get. Mr. Kubley, who operated the Dream for five years,
will open a new house.

As the Dream this was the pioneer showhouse of Ketchican, and Mr. Kub-ley was the first theatre manager in Alaska to sign a contract for Paramount pictures. That was in October, 1915. When Mr. Barbour took over the house in September, Artcraft-Paramount, Goldwyn, a few state rights pictures and an occasional special Metro or Triangle furnished the programs.
Mr. Kubley is retaining his regular Artcraft-Paramount and Goldwyn service for his new house.

The Grand uses the regular service of Fox, World, Pathe and Vitagraph.
This house seats 225 and is on the main town, less than a block from the Dream.

Difficulties of the Exhibitors.

According to Mr. Kubley, who by right of long experience speaks with authority, the exhibitors of this part of the territory have two great difficulties to contend with, both due to ignorance of conditions in Southeastern Alaska by the film distributing companies and their employees. The first is the trouble in persuading branch managers or their superiors that it is better to book the film direct from Seattle to the exhibitor.
A great many of the films shown in this district are handled through the Alaska Film Exchange in Juneau, and they are generally relayed from one house to another, with the result that they are usually delayed in reaching Ketchican and other points south of Juneau, and other evils of the relay system, such as lost paper, misplaced slides, etc., are constantly encountered.

Ketchican, exhibit in feel that since they are on the direct route from Seattle to Juneau, and are only forty-eight hours from the former port, from which to vessels arrive two or three times a week, they are entitled to direct service from all the exchanges in Seattle. This has not proved impracticable, because Paramount has been doing it ever since their office was opened in Seattle three years ago, and Goldwyn has been doing it since the opening of their office. The result has been perfect service to the exhibitor and promptly returned films and advertising to the exchange. Mr.
Kubley and other exhibitors of this vicinity hold that Paramount’s three years’ record of perfection on bookings, publicity and advertising can be repeated by other regular exchanges and state rights men.

The other difficulty imposed on the exhibitors of the territory by the ignorance of the film companies is the high rating of the motion picture houses by film executives here in New York, “to whom Alaska is the faraway land of gold mines, where every man goes seeking amusement at night with his pockets bulging with gold dust.” This description by the exhibitors of the attidude taken by the film executives toward Alaska may be overdrawn, but their patronage has been more than clear that they are not aware that out of the two or three or four thousand inhabitants of Alaska’s leading towns the exhibitor can only count a little over half that many for his regular patronage. This is because many men who have their homes in town spend the fishing season on the water or at the canneries, while others sometimes go out for the winters.

Injustice of overrating applies to the other towns of Southeastern Alaska, as well as to Ketchican.

Ketchican Has Two Theatres.

Ketchican, the first port of call in the territory, has suffered the least from winter conditions of any of the Southeast-er Alaska towns. The increased importance of the fishing industry, causing several new canneries to be built in the immediate vicinity of Ketchican, has made the town a bustling place in summer, and the people are showing little inclination to leave it this winter. When The Moving Picture World correspondent visited Ketchican there were two theatres, the Dream, operated by L. H.
Kubley, and the Grand, operated by A.
D. Hoorse, because, in the last few weeks, however, the Dream has been taken over by Jack Barbour, who has remodeled it both inside and outside, has Entrance to Dream Theatre, Ketchican, Alaska.

Wrangell Has One Theatre.

Wrangell, which is the next port of call after Ketchikan, is one of the most interesting towns in Alaska to the tourist, because of its ancient totem poles and other relics of Indian village and Government fortress days, but it is credited with a population of only 800.

Sam Cunningham.

and one good motion picture show is all that it can support. The Rex Theatre, of Wrangell, presents pictures that are consistently better than are seen in most theatres with three or four times as many people to draw on, however; and its manager, Sam Cunningham, is recognized as a "regular" business man by his own fellow townsmen and by the exchange men in Seattle. The theatre occupies the lower floor of the Red Men's Hall, a high class frame building on the main street of the town. The lodge rooms are upstairs. The theatre seats 240. It is open only four nights a week in summer, but after the fishing season, when the people return to town, shows are given every night except Tuesday. Artercraft-Paramount, Mutual, Triangle and Pathe pictures are shown. The admission price is 30 cents for adults and 15 cents for children. The films are obtained from the Alaska Film Exchange at Juneau. Music is furnished here, as in most Alaska theatres, by a small orchestra.

The Coliseum a Beautiful Place.

Juneau, capital of the territory, has had its population reduced during the last two years from 8,000 to about 4,000, and the number of its motion picture theatres has been accordingly reduced from four to two. The two that remain are the Coliseum and the Palace. W. D. Gross, who operates the Coliseum, is also manager of the Alaska Film Exchange. Through this he distributes Artercraft-Paramount, Mutual, Triangle and Metro films to Southeastern and Southwestern Alaska, as well as to some of the interior towns.

The interior of the Coliseum is hand-some, its walls being tastefully decorated, its aisles covered with heavy green carpets and its entrance and stage arches draped with green velvet. Its entrance on the main street leads through a long aisle-like foyer to the main foyer from which an incline rises to the balcony, at the front of which are well arranged loges furnished with easy chairs. The seating throughout this theatre is especially comfortable, because of the distance between the chairs. There are 800 seats. A big pipe organ furnishes the music for the pictures. The stage is made big enough and is fully equipped so that the house can be used for legitimate dramas. Mr. Gross lives with his family in well-appointed rooms above the theatre. He has a scale of three admission prices to the theatre, 30 cents for adults, 15 cents for children from 12 to 15 years of age, and 10 cents for those below that age. The logos are 40 cents.

The Palace Theatre has a capacity of 650, about a third of these being on the balcony, which is well planned for seeing the pictures to good advantage. The operating room off the balcony is large and well equipped, two Simplex machines being used. Fox, Vitagraph, World and Pathe service are used. An orchestra of four furnishes the music. The Palace is managed by John Spickett, an old time Alaskan, who understand the wants of the people better than they do themselves.

Business Poor in Skagway.

The last stop made by the big steamers plying the regular Southeastern Alaska route is Skagway, the entrance to the gold fields of the Yukon. This town sprang up like a mushroom in the gold rush days of '98 and '99, and it suffered more than any other town of this part of the territory by the drawing out of men from the gold mines when war called them to the battlefields of France and to the shipyards of the Pacific Coast. Over 6,000 persons have left the immediate vicinity within the last year. In the town of Skagway itself there are not more than 500 remaining, and general business conditions are consequently so poor that the place can hardly support even the Popular Picture Palace with its small capacity of 150. George Mow, the manager, however, is showing himself a good business man keeping the place going four nights a week. He uses the Alaska Film Exchange service and declares slapstick comedy to be the favorite of the greater number of his patrons. Mr. Mow is 78 years old, but does not look over 60 and is as keen in a business way as a man many years his junior, and he is fond of motion pictures. He came to Alaska 20 years ago as a prospector and holds various mining claims, as well as owning and managing a tailor's shop.

Would Welcome Picture Shows.

From this it may be seen that the towns of Southeastern Alaska are well served with motion picture shows ac-
GOLDWYN TO DISTRIBUTE FORD WEEKLY

Beginning January 12 Will Control Releasing Arrangements for the Entire Country

EFFECTIVE January 12 and weekly thereafter, Goldwyn Distributing Corporation will release and exclusively control the distribution of the Ford Educational Weekly in the United States. This move is brought about under a contract signed in Detroit, by executives of Goldwyn and Fitpatrick & McElroy, of Chicago, sole representatives of the Ford Company's motion picture laboratories, after a conference with Harry Ford's representative, Amrose Beardsley Jewett.

For four years the Detroit manufacturer has nursed and developed a motion picture weekly. The preparation of this subject involves an annual cost said to be well in excess of $600,000, and has made it necessary for its owner to equip at his Detroit plant, large motion picture laboratories.

The humanness and range of Mr. Ford's mental interests is indicated in some measure by his screen weekly and by the topics it depicts. It is both current and permanent in its appeal. It is a scenic, a travelogue, a historical record, a portrayer of industry in many of its phases, a stimulator of patriotism and efficient citizenship.

In the last two years the distribution of the Ford Educational Weekly has been in the hands of independent picture exchanges, where it was booked weekly in 5,000 theatres. The assumption of its distribution by Goldwyn is expected at once to give this unusual weekly booking in more than 5,000 theatres each week with the ultimate aim of acquiring 7,000.

"Nothing that has come to my attention in motion pictures in years has possessed such possibilities for distribution as the Ford Educational Weekly," said Samuel Goldfish, president of Goldwyn, in making announcement of his company's plans for a sustained campaign for this new unit in the Goldwyn distributing activities. "Where many of us in the industry are devoting ourselves exclusively to dramatic productions, Mr. Ford has realized the necessity of a great screen educator. He has placed his tremendous resources behind his screen weekly with no thought of profit, but because he felt that this weekly would do something big and significant for the American public—and do it continuously.

"The power of the Ford Educational Weekly and the range of its interest is indicated by its popularity at its frequent showings in the New York Rialto, Strand and Rivoli theatres and in the equivalent theatres of first rank in the largest cities of the country. This weekly is available at a minimum of cost to exhibitors everywhere, and we shall maintain its absolute independence of all other productions, either produced or marketed by Goldwyn. It is immediately accessible to churches, lodges, farmers' organizations and granges. I am informed from Detroit that one of the Ford Educational Weekly's big forthcoming plans is to cover the vital and dramatic reconstruction work of the European nations with a thoroughness for which the editors of the weekly are noted."

All prints of the previous issues of the Ford Educational Weekly will be withdrawn from circulation under previous distributing arrangements and Goldwyn will have the sole and exclusive field during the new year.

Prints of the first weekly issues will be in all Goldwyn offices in America by the middle of December, together with the necessary lithographs and exploitation matter. A special exploitation department of the Goldwyn organization will arrange for the simultaneous syndication of the text story of each weekly in important chains of daily and weekly newspapers in every section of the country.

At a conference in Detroit, Gabriel L. Hess, general counsel, and F. B. Warren, vice president of Goldwyn, arranged to link the distribution of the Ford Educational Weekly with 10,900 Ford sales agencies in America.

Betzwood Wants Westerns.

 Writers for the screen frequently have cause for complaint against the slow process of getting decision on their stories from scenario editors. An exception is noted in the deal by which the Betzwood Film Company acquired the rights to William Patterson White's "High Pockets."

"High Pockets" was the featured novel in a recent issue of "Adventure." Within twenty-four hours from the time the issue appeared on the newsstands of Philadelphia, the screen rights of the story had been bought and paid for. Incidentally, the picture has already been completed and will be released following "Oh, Johnny," the first of the Benison series to be released through Goldwyn.

Norman Jeffieries, who transacted the purchase of "High Pockets" for the Betzwood Film Company, has been commissioned to negotiate immediately for several other stories suitable for Louis B. Mannson. Original or published stories with Western, Canadian or Alaskan locale are required at once. There is also instant demand for a feature story for Katherine McDonald.

Quick action is promised on stories of the designated type if submitted to Norman Jeffieries, Real Estate Trust Building, Philadelphia.

Myron Selznick to Produce.

Myron Selznick, son of Louis J. Selznick, announces he is about to venture into the producing field. He says he will start with two stars and a competent support to put into effect the ideas he has acquired in different departments of the industry.

Peggy Hyland in "Caught in the Act."  Evelyn Nesbit in "I Want to Forget."  Scenes and Stars of Two Fox Productions.
PLAYER WINS FIRST ROUND IN FOX SUIT
Jewel Carmen Gets Injunction Pendente Lite in Action Brought to Restrain Film Producer

As an argument bristling with charges and countercharges enlivened the presentation of an application for a preliminary injunction by Jewel Carmen to restrain the Fox Film Corporation and the William Fox Vaudeville Company from circulating statements in the motion picture industry to the effect that the Fox companies have exclusive rights to the services of the youthful cinema star or otherwise interfering with her efforts to earn a livelihood in her profession.

Rogers & Rogers, counsel for the Fox companies, submitted affidavits describing the plaintiff as a "contract jumper" and suggesting that it was time "recollective stars" were taught a lesson. Counsel charged that Miss Carmen owes her success in the motion picture industry to the Fox companies, which employed her at a salary of $100 weekly when she was only earning $50 per week, and expended large sums of money in developing her talents.

Then when the plaintiff achieved stardom, largely through the efforts of the Fox companies, counsel contended, the defendant entered into a contract with the Frank A. Keeney Pictures Corporation at a more remunerative salary, although her contract with the Fox companies had not expired.

Nathan Burkam, counsel for Miss Carmen, asserted that the Fox companies had threatened to have his client blacklisted unless she carried out the terms of her contract with those companies, although, he contended, that contract is not binding for the reason that Miss Carmen was a minor when she entered into contractual relations with the Fox companies.

Miss Carmen alleged in an affidavit filed in support of the motion that the Fox companies had entered into an agreement with the Keeney company agreeing to indemnify the latter against damages in consideration of the Keeney company refusing to employ her under the terms of her contract with that company.

"If the defendants believe themselves to have been the victims of a contract jumper they had and have their remedy," declared Judge Knox. "It lies, however, in the courts and not in harassing the plaintiff by threatening suits which are not brought nor by indemnification agreements, nor even by the teaching of lessons to recollectant stars.

"It is unnecessary to indulge in a discussion of the relative merits of the parties upon this application," continued Judge Knox. "It suffices to say that the complainant has, prima facie, established her infancy at the time the Fox contracts were made. These contracts, as I read the affidavit, were delivered in New York, so far as the defendants are concerned, and the law of the State of New York as to infancy will govern. The plaintiff has with no reason repudiated them and the fact that the defendants spent considerable money in developing the talents of the plaintiff becomes incidental and is not a reason for denying injunctive relief.

"An injunction pendente lite will be issued upon the filing of a bond in the sum of $1,000," concluded Judge Knox.

Paramounts and Artcrafts to Entertain Peace Party

Shortly following the announcement of the personnel of President Wilson's party of delegates to attend the Peace Conference in France, it was learned that the group will be entertained on board ship with motion pictures in which the most popular stars of the screen appear.

The Famous Players-Lasky Corporation received a wire from Washington November 28 to supply the motion picture entertainment, and arranged a list of fifteen subjects presenting its most prominent stars.

At the Famous Players-Lasky headquarters Walter E. Greene, managing director in charge of distribution, said:

"We naturally feel honored in being called upon to furnish the motion picture entertainment for President Wil-son's party of delegates to the Peace Conference. We have selected with utmost care pictures which were immediately prepared for shipment."

Allen Moves Over to Cleveland

J. W. Allen, special representative of the Famous Players-Lasky Distribution Department, has left the Cincinnati exchange of that company, where he had taken charge since last July, and is now making his headquarters at the Cleveland office with Detroit as the next stop.

Mr. Allen, in his tour of Famous Players-Lasky exchanges, is giving every attention to developing and enhancing the service to exhibitors. Mr. Allen appointed G. G. Rich, for several years with the Famous Players-Lasky exchanges at Pittsburgh and Cleveland, as manager. C. C. Wallace, formerly a representative of the company in Indiana, was made assistant manager.

E. M. Porter Studying Conditions

E. M. Porter, general manager of the Simplex Company, is now on a two weeks’ trip throughout the country in the interests of the Precision Machine Company, 317 East Thirty-fourth street. The journey has been made necessary by the changed industrial and economic conditions facing the country as the result of the advent of the return of general business to a pre-war basis.

He expects to obtain valuable data which will enable him upon his return to New York City to complete extensive sales plans, long under consideration, which have been held in abeyance by the unusual business conditions of the last few months.
LOS ANGELES THEATRES OPEN AT LAST

After Seven Weeks' Darkness, December 2 Marks Revival of Theatregoing, with Good Business—Other California Towns Still Under Ban, but Most Sections Are Released

(Special Telegram to Moving Picture World.)

Los Angeles, Calif, December 3. — The influenza ban was lifted by the Los Angeles Health Board on December 2. Theatres opened after a darkness of seven weeks, the longest closed period suffered by any city of this size in the United States and Canada, but houses are doing good business. Exhibitors look for a big increase in the next few days. Santa Barbara, Riverside, Pomona and several nearby towns are still under ban.

GIEBLER.

The above dispatch from Los Angeles reports are rapidly getting into their thousands. There seems to be no definite time set for the removal of restrictions in other cities in Southern California. As the other sections the influenza is threatening to stage a "come back," but theatres are open and running unrestricted in by far the greater part of the United States and Canada. From a glance at our reports from scattered districts we find these "high spots."

San Francisco has permitted theatre-goers to discard the gauze masks that were for a time necessary to admission. Several Indiana cities have again been closed, because of a recent flareup of the plague. In some parts of Ohio a return of the epidemic is threatened and theatres are closed.

Kansas City is recovering so slowly from the influence of the disease that the authorities may again put a ban upon theatres giving performances. In Terre Haute, Ind., fourteen managers took matters into their own hands and the protracted shut-down, opened without authority, were arrested and will be tried for their offenses by a jury of their peers.

Our information from various towns and centers of population will be disclosed in the following reports:

San Francisco Rescinds Gauze Mask Measure

The theatres of San Francisco, which were recently reopened, following a closed period of four weeks, are rapidly getting into their former stride, and business is expected to be normal again within a very short time. During the first week following the reopening, business was below expectations, but this is attributed to the fact that the wearing of gauze masks on the part of the public was still insisted upon, as well as to the fact that heavy rains fell during this period. The influenza has been completely wiped out here, and the use of masks as a protective measure has been done away with.

While theatre owners suffered heavy losses as a result of the epidemic, the opinion is expressed that these would have been much heavier had their places of business not been closed. Rentals have formed the chief source of loss, but in some instances property owners have shared the burden with tenants. Theatre men generally believe that the masking ordinance has also proved its worth and has been a factor in bringing the epidemic to a speedy close with a minimum loss of life and permitting houses to reopen at an earlier date than would otherwise have been possible. In fact it is believed that the Pacific Coast cities which enforced the gauze mask rule have speedily recovered from the scourge, while those which did not were still in the throes of the disease and theatres are still closed. Local health authorities declare that the epidemic is definitely stamped out and that it will not return. The ban was brought here from the Southern part of the State, where it is still rampant.

Interior Conditions Still Bad.

Theatres in the interior districts have not such restrictions would be almost certain to come back and the opening of theatres has been postponed indefinitely. In some places they have been opened only to be closed again within a few days.

It was announced in San Francisco that about 40 per cent. of the movie picture houses in the territory served by San Francisco film exchanges are in operation, and it is believed that the city and the city officials being held responsible for the failure to curb the epidemic.

Indiana Towns Close Again

Upper Influenza Recurrence

The influenza epidemic has staged a "comeback" in Indianapolis and other Hoosier cities and, as a result, the state board of health has ordered the old closing ban back into effect in a number of localities. Indianapolis, however, has been fortunate enough to date to escape the closing order, but influenza masks have been ordered worn in all theatres, stores and other public places.

The board of health at first considered replacing the ban, which was in effect for about four weeks, but it was decided to await developments that might disabuse business concerns and other business owners who experienced that the ban was in effect before. The board decided, however, to only close the schools at the present time.

In brief, Mayor Morgan, secretary of the Indianapolis board of health, said he had been promised the hearty co-operation of the motion picture exhibitors and theatre owners as well as the managers of the downtown stores enforcing the order. The exhibitors and theatre men have been ordered to refuse admission to the theatres to all persons not wearing masks. All clerks and other employees of the stores are required to wear the masks when on duty.

Theatre Attendance Lessened.

The fear of contracting the disease, which has attended the epidemic, naturally has caused many more "stay-at-homes" than usual, and, as a result, the motion picture shows have not been overcrowded. The exhibitors, however, are not complaining, as they would rather have business a little less than normal than no business at all.

It was said at the office of the state board of health that no general statewide closing order will be issued as long as the epidemic is more general, although the ban has been re-established in a number of localities.

At Terre Haute, a quarantine of all motion picture houses and theatres has been enforced in stead of resumption of the closing order, as a result of a conference of representative business men and members of the Terre Haute board of health which was held last week.

Shannan Katzenbach, proprietor of the American Theatre, who represented the exhibitors at the meeting, was called upon for his opinion of the matter, and he told those attending the conference that so far as he could see the closing ban had not helped matters much.

"Our theatres are cleaner and more sanitary than one-half the homes in Terre Haute," he said, "but we have never kidded on anything that we thought would be for the benefit of the city and its people. All of the time the theatres were closed the stores were open and crowds were permitted to congregate elsewhere. I believe the thing to do is to impose a quarantine and thus keep the affected ones away from public gatherings and out of crowds. Better results will be obtained that way."

Some of the cities which are again subject to the closing ban are Columbus, Greensburg, Sullivan, Laporte, Gary, Vincennes, Bicknell, and a few others.

Influenza Ban Is Lifted in the Canadian West

The Canadian West began to see the light of day, if not as the lifting of the epidemic ban was concerned about November 20. The theatres of Calgary were permitted to reopen on that date, but on condition that all patrons wear masks while in the show houses. Six of the local theatres promptly reopened. With many theatres expected to reopen on Saturday, November 23, but the local authorities did not remove the embargo until the following Thursday, November 28, almost seven weeks after the ban expired. With this announcement was made that the city of Winnipeg would grant a rebate of a portion of municipal license fees to the theatres who had borne the loss which exhibitors had sustained.

The ban on Saskatoon theatres was lifted on November 20 and those houses were opened to business.

The theatre at Victoria, B. C., also resumed operations at the same time.

The two cities in North Central Missouri and Arkansas were also granted the privilege of reopening along about the same time, but many cities and towns remained closed.

Kershaw Makes a Protest.

After the Winnipeg theatres had been closed more than a month, President R. Kershaw of the Manitoba Exhibitors' Association made a protest to the Winnipeg authorities regarding a continuance of the ban. He protested against the attitude of the city in not closing other places, such as stores and restaurants, and complained that some lawlessness had developed because the people had no place to go. He declared, however, that local exhibitors were looking after the health of the city. They wanted common sense methods and justice. He used the argument that only healthy people should be going to the places.

The sick ones would be at home and in bed.

President Kershaw also made the interesting statement that the reason why so many automobiles were being stolen during the period of the ban was that the young fellows had nothing better to occupy their time. With the theatres open, the attention of the young men and others would be detracted from temptation.

Arrest Terre Haute Managers for Violating Closing Order

MANAGERS of fourteen theatres—practically all of them motion picture houses—at Terre Haute, Ind., were arrested by the police there on Thanksgiving Day. The theatres had been closed in violation of the order issued Wednesday by the city board of health because of the prevalence of influenza. With the number, after being released on bond, again attempted to go on with their shows, and as a result were rearrested. Bond was denied them for several hours, but was finally accepted by the sheriff.

The ones arrested a second time are Albert Breunlinger, of the New Liberty Theatre; Peter Peters, of the Fountain; William Keating, of the Orpheum; Sam Dreyfus, of the Princess; Ben Van Borsum, of the Crescent and the Savoy; and Walter Nisbet, of the Orpheum.

Those who abandoned the idea of reopening their places after being arrested are: Albert Breunlinger, of the Majestic; Roy Stewart, of the Rex; Claude Richie, of the Crescent; Charles Boland, of the Lyceum; Thomas Barh, of the Broadway; Albert Katzenbach, of the American; Edward Galligan, of the Grand, and Elias B. Sheets, of the Lofts.

All Refused to Plead Guilty.

When they appeared in court Friday, November 28, all refused to enter pleas of guilty on the ground that the ruling of the health board was in valid. The defendants all asked that the evidence be heard by a jury and the case settled in court.

The date for the trial has not been decided on.

Following the second arrests every theatre in the city became dark and in cases where tickets had been purchased for performances the money was refunded. This is a sort of a "skip-stop" affair, ordered into effect again from 6 o'clock Friday night until Monday morning. It is understood that the police intend to arrest any exhibitor or manager who attempt to violate the order.

Soon after the closing order was issued theatres closed. The owners of the theatres, their attorneys, Mayor Hunter, and several business men of the city met with the board of health advisory board to try to find the reason for the closing of the theatres and stores and not the churches and schools.

Protests were heard and many discussions held and following the meeting the theatre men all voted to stay open as usual.

John Hickey, attorney representing the theatre and moving picture interests, told those who attended the conference that the whole ruling was based purely on a Wednesday morning the theatres were open. With the theatres operating, the attention of the young men and others would be detracted from temptation.

Theatre Lifted in Spokane.

After being closed for six weeks, due to the influenza quarantine orders of the city and state health department, Spokane picture theatres and vaudeville and music houses opened their doors November 20, the ban having been lifted at midnight November 19.

Probably one of the most widely advertised shows the first day was "Crashing Through to Berlin," shown at the Majestic, Spokane, by J. W. Al-lender. This show, in an automobile, had large colored sheets and advertising mounted on frames covering the car and a band inside. This patrolled the Spokane streets all day.

Reports from the managers are that the houses are not crowded, even though the places were closed so long, however, they are not complaining and said they are glad to be open again.

Nearly All Towns in Southeast Open.

With the exception of a few small towns in central Arkansas all theatres in that state had been opened. Following the influenza epidemic, business is reported by Dallas film men to be better than in many months.

In Augusta, Ga., a series of breaks in the influenza caused the quarantines to be again placed on theatres at Russellville and Corning.

Theatres for sale; theatres for rent and theatres wanted by managers are listed very frequently in The World's Classified Advertising Department.

Kansas City May See Influenza Ban Restored

KANSAS CITY territory is not yet out from under the cloud of influenza. Kansas City and a majority of the towns in Kansas and Missouri have kept their bans for several weeks; and for a week there have been no restrictions of any kind on public gatherings. A dozen towns in each state have managed to maintain reservations for more than six weeks. But the worst feature of the present situation is that restrictions may again be imposed in towns that have not previously been believing that the epidemic had been conquered. It is reported that in both North Central Missouri and central Kansas the disease is showing itself in worse shape than during October. Even in Kansas City there is an undercurrent of rumor that the ban may be restored.

The report from the territory, as well as from Kansas City, is that business has not yet, in two weeks, reached normal volume since the lifting of the ban.

Running at a Loss.

Some of the larger theatres, with considerable overcrowding, are running practically at a loss, and all the smaller ones are trying to rebuild patronage from the ground up. They are punctiliously observing sanitary regulations, including having the houses clean, and stand ready to follow all orders as to intoxication, or holding down the number of patrons at any performance.

The exhibitors are much wiser now than while the restrictions were on. In many small communities, the exhibitors are now among the leaders of the towns in observing the restrictions on picture shows; and they are in a better position to represent their views on the subject of regulations. It is said that in a few places moving picture houses were the last to be relieved of restrictions, and that the personal relations of officials with exhibitors—and the ideas of the officials as to public effect of some drastic action on somebody—have had much to do with the course of events. Diplomacy is now the order of the day. That care is being exercised that the best possible relations shall be attained and maintained, between representatives of the industry and municipal officers.

Fresh Outburst in Louisville.

The influenza epidemic in Louisville has been giving some trouble during the past few days, there having been a fresh outburst, but as a whole the situation is well in hand, and no effort has been made at replacing the ban. Owensboro and Paducah are again running.

Pineville lifted the ban on picture shows November 23, after it had been in force for a month and a half. B. W. Norment, of the Louisville City Health Office, stated that he didn't think conditions would again become serious.

At Highland Park, a suburb of Louisville, it was found necessary to replace regulations to prevent a general increase in the influenza. To this end the Highland Park Theatre is again closed. Jim Dawson recently took over the active management of this house, which is controlled by the Swift Amusement Company.

Ban Lifted in Halifax.

The ban has been lifted in Halifax, N. S., and the theatres are now running at normal times. At first they were only allowed to have two shows, one in the afternoon and one at night, but now the pictures are allowed to be seen in their entirety.

St. John's Operas Close.

The St. John, N. B., theatres are in full swing again, though, as fresh cases of the influenza are breaking out, the crowds of picture lovers have not come up to the usual numbers. People are still a little timid about going into large gatherings, and it will be some time before the attendance is normal.

Bay City, Ont.

The revival of the influenza epidemic after it was thought to be safely stamped out caused the health authorities of Alliance, O., to keep the lid down on theatres and other places where people might gather for nearly two weeks longer than in other parts of Ohio, and theatres were not permitted to open until November 23. Elsewhere, as a rule, they were reopened on November 11 or 12.

Ontario Managers to Fight Proposed New Ticket Tax

The legislation committee of the city of Toronto carried out its threatened promise to impose a special tax on admission tickets. The members also came to a decision to make a substantial raise in the fee for municipal theatre licenses while it was also decided to tax bill boards on a space basis.

Despite a vigorous protest on the part of representatives of the Motion Picture Protective Association, the committee decided to carry out its plans, which had been suggested by Finance Commissioner Bradshaw because the city is said to be sadly in need of money. The matter will now probably go to the City Council immediately while the proposed tickets will be placed in the legislative council for ratification by the province. The exhibitors will have at least one more chance to defeat the measure which is to become law unless the provincial legislature, and it is believed the Ontario Government will frown on the proposal to impose a tax on admission tickets, as the move almost duplicates the assessment on tickets now required by the province as a war revenue producer. It is also urged that if Toronto succeeds in its purpose of duplicating the ticket tax, many other centres in the province will follow suit.

Makes One Concession.

Only one concession was made by the legislation committee which decided not to place a one cent tax on all tickets up to 15 cents, but the schedule of taxes suggested by Commissioner Bradshaw is a popular one. The adopted proposed scale is as follows: A two-cent tax on tickets over 15 cents and up to 50 cents; a ten-cent tax on tickets valued at $1; over $1 a tax of 25 cents will be imposed.

The committee also decided to increase the fee from $500 a year to $1000. There will also be a tax of $15 on billboards for the first thousand square feet and $5 for each additional thousand feet.

A general meeting of the Exhibitors' Association of Ontario was called for Tuesday, December 3, in the club rooms at 143 Yonge street, when the proposed tax was taken up. There were over 150 exhibitors present to fight the imposition. The association boasts of a Toronto membership comprising 93 per cent. of the local exhibitors and is in a strong position to wage a war on the civic administrators. Announcement is also made that the association has passed a special tax fee for new members, in addition to regular dues, and a last call has been sounded for delinquents.

CRISIS IS NOW PAST, SAYS AL LICHTMAN

Famous Players-Lasky Corporation Sums Up the Situation in Middle West as It Saw It in Trip

That the motion picture industry has gone through its greatest crisis in its history and that recovery is confirmed by Al Lichtman, general manager of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation in charge of distribution, this is the verdict of the visit made by Mr. Lichtman, which ended Sunday, after the company tour of some five weeks' duration including visits to Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City.

Mr. Lichtman, after nine days in confinement from influenza at Kansas City, returned to New York, where he has been recuperating, the next day last week.

"After personally seeing just how the motion picture industry at large went through the period of national depression which it has been operating under, and being connected with the business," said Mr. Lichtman, "in every district I visited there were signs of recovery for an average of three weeks. While gloom is evident everywhere and everyone seemed to be suffering, either personally or in a business way from the epidemic, exhibitors and exchange managers are not sitting down to bemoan their fate."

"Quite the contrary. Everyone was active, planning for better days to come. And taking the dark days in good part and determination to make up as soon as the business was resumed."

At exchanges I did not find employers of various types able to say that恐惧 long they would hold their jobs. They were making good use of this lull, cleaning house, checking up details of their organization, preparing for the rush of business that was bound to come.

While here and there I found a calamity bowler, the general feeling was one of optimism. It was, for the distribution department of the Famous Players-Lasky throughout the country, the lull, although it has cost us a great deal, will in the end result in direct benefit to the exhibitor. Although we were not booking pictures to the exhibitors to the advantage, we were able to get the undivided attention of all executives and employees on matters of importance in a manner impossible under conditions of business activity. New ideas have been created and new systems installed, all of which point to greater service the year to come.

"Among the stars who will appear in December Paramount and Artcraft releases are Douglas Fairbanks, William S. Hart, W. L. Tracy, John Barrymore, Victor McLaglen, Walter Huston, Louis Calhern, Dietrich, Isadora Duncan, Dorothy Gish and Bryant Washburn. Producers who contribute to this month's offerings are D. W. Griffith, Thomas H. Ince, Cecil B. DeMille, John England, Alfred Santell, producing the most noted artists in the field of the industry. Besides this there is the big Paramount-Artcraft Special, "Sporting Life," produced by Maurice Tourneur."

David Davidson Killed in Action.

The day that the people of the United States were having their premature peace celebration—Thursday, November 7—a gold star took its place in the Vitagraph company flag, for on that day David Davidson, formerly an artist in the advertising and publicity department, fell in action in France.

It was one of war's first. The young Vitagrapher, who was one of the first National Army men to reach France, should have died even if the armistice that halted hostilities was being arranged. News of his death was conveyed to his family telegram from the War Department.

Davidson was twenty-six years old, a graduate of the Cooper Union Art School, and had been a commercial artist. He had enrolled in the army by his own free will and gone into his country's service. He had been in the Vitagraph art department for more than a year.

Mr. Davidson, who is survived by his father and two brothers, is, so far as known, the only Vitagrapher who was killed in action.

Metro Players Go West.

Margaret McDade, who plays Nurse Cavell in "The Great Victory," Wilson Wilson, of the "Kaiser," and the young Alphonse Hohenzollern, will go to California soon, where she will appear in a number of Metro and Screen Classics, Inc., productions, E. J. Connolly, also in the cast of this subject in the role of the old Atsian, Paul Le Brett, is another who will go. Lilie Leslie, who plays the Katherine Keeler part in "The Man Who Stayed at Home," will appear in the firm's productions staged on the West Coast, and another member of the same company, Julia Calhoun.

Five other studio employees going to the coast are George McGuire, Dudley Blanchard, Mildred Anderson, Mary Doolan, and Mike Joyce.

Two Goldwyns on Broadway.

Goldwyn had the unusual distinction last week of having two productions shown simultaneously for pre-release first run on Broadway, at the Alhambra and the Rialto.

Rex Beach's newest story, featuring Frank McIntyre, "Too Fat to Fight," had its first presentation at the Rialto, and Madge Kennedy's "A Perfect Lady" was the week's bill at the Strand.
Senate Committee Restores

1918 Impost on Admissions

THE offices of the members of the Senate finance committee have been flooded more or less with protests again the proposed impost of the House Ways and Means Committee to double existing motion picture theatre taxes. The theatre men point out that insasmuch as the war has terminated and costs are being made all along the line in the pending revenue bill, the theatre taxes should have consideration. They have declared that if the bill had been passed in its original form a large proportion of the theatres would have been driven out of business.

Apparently the finance committee has seen the justice of the contention of the motion picture men with respect to the admission taxes, and so at the meeting of the committee November 27, it was decided to cut in half the admission taxes proposed by the House and leave them as they now exist: 7 1/2 per cent on each 10 cents or fraction thereof.

Briefs have been presented to the committee outlining the effect of the ten-cent and five-cent tax as levied in the committee. It is pointed out that if the companies have to absorb this tax they cannot hope to remain in business, they say, and taxes taken on the combined rentals. Some of the companies recommend doubling the existing footage taxes of one-fourth of a cent per foot of raw stock and one half cent a foot on negatives. This would give the desired results, they contend, but calling attention to the fact that the existing taxes have been passed on to the exhibitor by the addition of a charge of 15 cents a reel a day, they surmise that the direct tax of 30 cents a reel a day be levied by the Government upon the exhibitors.

The Senate finance committee is cutting down the total of the revenue measure in accordance with recommendations of the Treasury Department. It is easing up the special taxes, such as levies on motion pictures, commodities, and in line with this the admission tax cut comes. Every effort is being made, it is understood, to bring along such taxes and levies that will benefit the industry, Congress being informed of what happened to it during the recent influenza epidemic. It would be a bad time now to cripple the motion picture theatres.

Naugle, Vitagraph's Chief, Succumbs to Influenza

HARRY D. NAUGLE, western division manager of the Vitagraph Motion Picture Organization, died a victim of influenza at Omaha, Neb., on Saturday, November 23. He was ill only three days. He was twenty-nine years old. He had been in business with the motion picture business for a long time. Born in Arizona, Mr. Naugle was taken to Los Angeles as a child. After leaving school he took a position in a Los Angeles bank. He studied law and was admitted to the bar, but before entering upon practice the lure of the motion picture business was too much for him.

Prior to his association with Vitagraph, Mr. Naugle had been with the General Film Company, had acted as manager and sales manager, and also had operated in the state rights field. He started with Vitagraph as a salesman in the San Francisco office in April, 1913, and on May 10 of the same year was appointed manager of the Los Angeles branch. He held this post until September 25, 1916, when he was selected for the position of coast division manager, and when the company put into effect its divisional plan, dividing the country in two. Mr. Naugle was placed in charge of the western territory, and he held that post until his death. His territory comprised the area west of the Mississippi, from Canada to the Mexican border.

At the time of his death, Mr. Naugle had stopped off in Omaha en route to a meeting of Vitagraph sales chiefs in St. Louis. He died on the train, came to life and put up a fight, patients and three days later he passed away.

His mother was en route to his bedside when he died, and she took his body back to the west, where it was buried on Friday, November 29. Besides his mother, Mr. Naugle is survived by his father and sister.

Says Capital's Operators Are Inadequately Examined

IN his annual report for the fiscal year 1918-19, Mr. Naugle again complains of the manner in which operators in the District of Columbia are licensed. "The present method of operation practically decrees that any motion picture machines is extremely unsatisfactory and should be discontinued," he tells the District commission-er. An attempt is being made to effect such a change as he feels would be "satisfactory and should be discontinued," he tells the District commission-er. An attempt is being made to effect such a change as he feels would be satisfactory and should be discontinued.

During the period covered by this report there were remarkably few acci-
AUTHOR MUST RESERVE CINEMA RIGHTS

Otherwise, Declares Judge Mayer in Manners-Morosco Suit, They Go with Contract for Play

A illuminating decision interpreting the rights of producers and playwrights in their contractual relations has just been rendered by Judge Julius M. Mayer, of the United States District Court, which holds, in effect, that unless a playwright specifically reserves the motion picture rights the producer of the play is entitled to the cinema rights, at least in the duration of the contract.

This decision was handed down in an action brought by J. Hartley Manners, author of "Peg o' My Heart," against Oliver Morosco, who produced the play on the stage, which involved the actual limitation or period during which the producer was entitled to present the play on the stage as well as the moving picture rights to the production.

"When the first contract was executed, motion pictures, as the parties agree and as the testimony shows, were well known," declared Judge Mayer, "and not controverted in this case that a motion picture of 'Peg o' My Heart' would seriously damage, from a financial standpoint, the production of the spoken play. It is difficult to suppose that Morosco, as a producing manager, would risk the money necessary to produce the play at least seventy-five times each year for several years and leave the motion picture rights outstanding in Manners. In such a situation Manners might, at any time, for some reason satisfactory to himself, sell the motion picture rights and destroy the financial value of the spoken play.

"It might very well have happened that the play, instead of turning out a great success, might have had a run of short duration with consequent lean royalties," continued Judge Mayer. "Yet the production might have been salable for motion pictures at a price in excess of any royalties which failure as a spoken play would indicate. If such an interpretation were placed upon the contracts, Judge Mayer declared, the playwright would have an unfair advantage over the producer, who, having lost money in attempting to "put across" an unsuccessful production, would be deprived of the chance of recovering his losses from the moving picture rights.

In the absence of a specific reservation in such contracts clearly providing that a playwright reserves the motion picture rights, Judge Mayer concluded, the producer controls the cinema rights for the duration of such contracts.

Judge Mayer dismissed the suit in which Manners sought to enjoin Morosco from producing the play on the stage on the theory that he held the right to revoke what he termed a license permitting the producer to produce the play for a limited period and to restrain the producer from exercising control over the motion picture rights.

Says Exhibitors Criticised

CURTAILMENT OF ADVERTISING

SPEAKING before the Associated Exhibitors, Ernest A. Huber, managing editor and treasurer of The Pictureplay News, Rochester, N. Y., told of the methods and purposes of advertising and made the frank statement that the film industry leads all the rest of the world in effective advertising today. He told how the various film companies历年 employed advertising had a great extent relied upon advertising and publicity to make a market for their goods. Mr. Huber could not understand why the film industry had shut down on advertising during the epidemic.

Mr. Huber has just returned from a tour of many cities, where he has been studying advertising problems, giving particular attention to the needs of theatres. In every city he made a point to talk with as many prominent managers as possible. He studied the secretary of a company which controls a string of moving pictures houses had told him that during the closed period it was the first time he ever had the opportunity to study the trade papers literally from cover to cover. Great was his disappointment to find that when he had time to consider any suggestions or ideas that the pages might offer, to find practically all producers had either entirely suspended or curtailed their advertising.

The theatre manager said that he had spent a considerable portion of the closed period scrutinizing the film publications for information that would be of benefit to him in arranging the future policy of his house. He said that he studied many of the advertisements of films in the back numbers and only regrated that the chances of condensing the display matter during the time that the busy theatre men had loads of time to weigh the possibilities.

In the opinion of many theatre managers, according to Mr. Huber, the film producers made a "bonehead" play in cutting down their usual advertising space, even while they had suspended releasing of films. Mr. Huber said he was convinced more than ever that trade paper advertising was the best in the world for such such an industry, but that his experience had taught him that it must be consistent, even in the face of seeming difficulties.

Thieves Waylay Albert Brandt

Albert Brandt, employed in the Industrial Department of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, is laid up with severe injuries received at the hands of his black jack robbers. He was attacked November 28 at 120th street and Lenox avenue, New York. Mr. Brandt was accosted by three men about sundown. He attempted to resist them, but was quickly overpowered. The assailants struck him over the head with blackjacks, knocking him unconscious, and robbed him of a diamond cluster pin.

Polo Takes Away Loving Cup

Eddie Polo, star of Universal serial pictures, the latest of which is "The Lure of the Circus," left New York's Sunday night bound for Toronto, with a huge loving cup tucked into his trunk. The treasure, which is a silver thing with engraving of fine sentiments on its burnished side, represents the best wishes of the New York exhibitors to the departing visitor.

Polo's stay in Toronto, which was expected to be for about a wee', is likely to be in the nature of a Christmas purchasing campaign. The star, whose professional and real life character is that of a Hercules, has the biggest job of his career in that direction. He is just now a Santa Claus for the movie queens on the coast.
GOLDFISH AND ROTHAPFEL GO ON TOUR

To Make Trip to Coast and Look Things Over, While the Exhibitor Seeks Recuperation

I n order to make a thorough survey of conditions in the motion picture industry throughout America, Samuel Goldfish, president of Goldwyn, left New York December 3 on a trip to the new Goldwyn studios in Los Angeles, which will take him all the way through all the principal cities of the United States. With him went S. L. Rothapfel, managing director of New York’s Rialto and Rivoli theatres.

The chief purpose of Mr. Goldfish’s tour is to consult with the most successful exhibitors and other leading business men in the big centres. It is his object through these visits to keep in touch with the trend of public thought and taste and to get opinions and suggestions that he can make use of in the production of Goldwyn pictures.

Mr. Goldfish and Mr. Rothapfel will be guests of honor at the first banquet held at Cleveland on Wednesday, at the hotel of the Cleveland Motion Picture Exposition. The surprise of this occasion, the way, was the presence of Will Rogers, who recently made his debut in Rex Beach’s “Laughing Bill Hyde.”

“My trip is primarily an educational journey,” said Mr. Goldfish before he left. “I mean educational for me. I am going to admire and see, but above all to listen and learn. You know it is rather a misfortune that a producer has for business reasons to spend so much of his time in New York. We do not produce our pictures for New York, but for America—for the entire world, in fact. It is, therefore, essential that a producer has the closest personal contact with the exhibitors.

“We are entering upon a new phase of the cinema industry, now that the war is ended with a conclusive victory and the disastrous epidemic is over. It is obvious to anybody with half an eye that there never was such an overwhelming demand for good, popular amusements as we shall see and have to satisfy in the period that has just begun. This is the time when it becomes imperative to a producer that he has just that personal contact with the exhibitors in person—as many of them as he can meet and from as many sections of the country.

“I shall also spend four or five weeks in the new Goldwyn studios at Culver City, Calif., supervising the production of our new pictures before I return East. As you know, I have always been more interested in production than any other phase of the work. Success begins or ends with production. Of course I do not mean distribution, but Goldwyn has a splendid business organization and now that it has got into its stride I can leave the home office with an untroubled mind.”

On his way east in late January Mr.

Goldfish will visit other sections of the country to meet exhibitors and look over the Goldwyn exchanges.

Jewel Taking on Old Employes.

H. M. Berman, sales manager of Jewel Productions, who returned a few days ago from an extended trip over the country, reports that Jewel exchange staffs are being greatly expanded to take care of men who are returning from the war service. He added further the general statement that business has developed greatly since the first influenza epidemic and the signing of the armistice.

Mr. Berman traveled over the greater part of the northwest, touching the south as far as Oklahoma City.

Among the exchangers whose names are well known in the trade and who have returned to their posts from the war are Carley Calvert, of the Omaha exchange, and Milton Feld, of Kansas City.

December Attractions

at New York Theatres

STRAND.—Madge Kennedy in a screen version of the Channelling Pollock and Rennold Wolf stage play, “A Perfect Lady,” was the feature at the Strand Theatre the week of December 1. The star appears as Lucille Le Jambon, a chorus girl, who quits the troupe at a small town and ends by marrying a local millionaire. The film is a remake of the 1916 comedy “Independent B’Gosh,” “The Riviera of Le Man,” the Allied War Review and the Strand Topical Review were also on the program. The soloists were Margaret Weaver and Ralph Erolle.

RIVOLI.—“Under Four Flags,” the last official picture of Dumas’ early chapters of the world war, opened a return engagement at the Rivoli. Week before last the picture was produced at both the Rivoi and the Paramount, which Goldwyn produced in Madrid.

KANSAS CONVENTION PLANS DISCUSSED.

Plans are again being discussed for the meeting of the Kansas Exhibitors’ Convention. The convention, scheduled for Harrison soon, last month, was held off temporarily because of the influenza epidemic. Most of the towns are now released from the restrictions. The necessity for this convention seems even more important since the experiences of the past few weeks; and when the convention is held doubtless will have a record attendance.

PoPPO Exploiting Octagon Films.

Harry H. Poppe has been appointed director of advertising and publicity for Octagon Films, Inc. He succeeds John W. Grey, who will hereafter devote all his time to scenario writing. Poppe has had wide experience in advertising and publicity capacities with both motion picture and theatrical companies. His last connection was with the Yorke-Metro Company, which produced features starring the late Harold Lockwood.

First Rest in Twelve Years.

W. Smith, manager of the Western studio of the Vitagraph Company, took advantage of the enforced closing of the studio to enjoy the first vacation he has had in twelve years. And he is one of the hardest workers at the Los Angeles plant, and when he ordered to “close shop” for two weeks he hit the trail for one of the ranches in the foothills of the Sierra Nevada mountains.

Greg Enters Writing Field.

John W. Grey has forsaken the advertising field and will hereafter devote all his time to writing. He has formed an affiliation with Arthur B. Reeve, the well known novelist, and the two, as collaborators, will write serials for production by important manufacturers. Contracts for the disposition of much of their early material already have been signed.

The World’s Classified Advertising section is a service for the free communication between the man who would sell and the man who wants to buy. Moving picture accessories are quickly disposed of, theatre matériel, and the like, are weekly supplied through this excellent medium.
INSTALLS $7000 VENTILATING SYSTEM

New Lighting Scheme and Art Objects Also Are Placed in Grauman Theatre During Shutdown

URING the enforced closing of all the theatres of Los Angeles while the influenza epidemic held sway, nearly all the air conditioning and ventilating systems of moving picture houses put in the time cleaning and fumigating and otherwise making their houses safe and sanitary by instructing ventilating systems and other conveniences for the safeguarding of the health of their patrons. At the Grauman a $7,000 ventilating system has been installed, besides a new lighting system. A number of handsome oil paintings and other objects of art adorn staircases and rest rooms.

Talley's Broadway has undergone such a process of cleaning, renovating and fumigating that a germ of any kind would last about as long as a hail on a hot griddle in any picture house that has been cut back and beautified with artistic decorations; new seats have been added, and the lobby has been entirely repainted and redecorated. Fresh draperies have been hung in Quinn's Rialto wherever draperies are required in high-class theatres; a ventilating system guaranteed to furnish so much fresh mountain air every so many seconds has been installed, and a large symphony orchestra has been engaged to furnish the music for opera attractions.

Both the Auditorium and the Broadway, owned by W. H. Clune, have been made more healthful and more attractive during the shutdowns. The Auditorium was given a complete coat of paint inside, and the stage redecorated. The Broadway's interior decorations have been made a pretty and pleasing combination of pink and white.

The cinema has a new drop curtain, and underwent the regulation renovating process. The Alhambra has been redecorated, with a rich cream color the predominating note, while the Symphony shines in pure white.

These are the theatres in the downtown section of Los Angeles, but all theatres in the residence districts underwent the same rigorous process of renovating and refurbishing.

Fairbanks Will Go to France.

Douglas Fairbanks will make one more picture in Los Angeles, then will pack his kit and sail for the south of France, where he will film exteriors for perhaps three productions that will not be war subjects, nor treat of war conditions, but will be typical Fairbanks' stories with European atmosphere. The plans of the Fairbanks organization are to take over the Plant company, and to be gone about three months. Already the force that is to accompany Doug is learning the French and Italian languages under the direction of a teacher of foreign languages who visits the studio regularly.

Universal Opened on November 18.

The big Universal plant at Universal City opened for work on November 18, after a four weeks' layoff on account of the influenza epidemic. Within a week after the reopening it was planned to have twenty-five companies at work, including the L-KO comedy companies, the western and serial companies, and the blues. The scenario department is busy furnishing scripts to the directors of the various companies now at work.

New Fox Exchange Manager.

Paul C. Mooney, film manager from Cleveland, has arrived in Los Angeles with his family to take up his duties as Pacific Coast supervisor of all the Fox exchanges. C. M. Walsh is manager of the Los Angeles branch.

Fans Demand to See Paris Gowns.

When it was announced recently that Julian Eltinge would wear only masculine attire in his forthcoming picture, "The Fascinating Widower," it was the cue for protests to begin to arrive from feminine fans. In every mail came urgent and impassioned pleadings to Eltinge to give the public just one more view of his newest Paris creations; and June Mathis got hold of the story so that Eltinge would have logical excuses and reasons for wearing women's clothes in a number of scenes in his picture.

Anna Nilsson will play opposite the star, and production is scheduled to begin in the near future at the Brunton plant. Plans for the Eltinge vaudeville tour were completed here last week by wire, and call for the opening of the all-star company on the 23d of December at the Mason Opera House.

Meeting Broken Up by Officers.

A meeting held by the Theatre Owners Association at Quinn's Rialto on November 19 was broken up by the police because of a misunderstanding as to the number of persons allowed to attend. Frank MacDonald, president of the association, secured permission from the Board of Health to hold the meeting, and about fifty members of the organization attended. Discussions were being carried on as to whether it was worth while to open the theatres and admit only persons wearing "flu" masks or wait until the ban was lifted entirely by the Board of Health, when the police descended upon the assembly and dispersed the members in short order.

Pneumonia Takes Comedian.

Wayland Trask, comedian of the Mack Sennett studios, died of pneumonia at his home in Los Angeles, on November 18. Trask had been the featured player in many a comedy during his screen career, his size and weight of 285 pounds making him a splendid foil for smaller comedians in Sennett comedies. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Jane L. Trask, and two sisters, Mrs. Allan Leonard and Miss Dorothy Trask.

Selig Plant Reopens.

The Selig studio, near Lincoln Park in Los Angeles, has been reopened for the production of pictures. Oscar Apfel, who arrived from Chicago a short time ago, has been engaged by William Selig to film "Ravished Armenia," and it is being bid that their adventures films companies are being formed to work in forthcoming Selig productions, and that before the first of the year as many as a dozen different publishing companies may be at work at the great plant. Mr. Selig himself is expected on the West Coast soon, when the plans of the organization will be announced.

Bakersfield Theatre Man Dies.

Charles Grogg, owner of four theatres in Bakersfield, Cal., died on November 19, after a few days' illness, and following closely on the heels of his brother, Cornelius Grogg. Charles Grogg is survived by a wife and two-year-old son. Mrs. Grogg will continue to carry on the business of the Grogg Theatrical Enterprises.

Operation on Nose.

Madame Yorska, French tragedienne, has sacrificed two sections of her nose upon the altar of cinema art. Madame's nose, which was formerly of the oriental type, and her perfumery, Miss Sarah Bernhardt's story, "The Infernal Snare." But the next story that was selected for the star by her director, Gordon Matese, demanded that the heroine have a Grecian nose. Mme. Yorska, who had always secretly thought that there was room for improvement on her nose, went to a doctor and had part of it trimmed off.

"It was a painful operation," said Madame, "but I have a perfect nose now, and I am very happy over it."

Universitites Gone East.

Two of the brightest of the Big U stars and their directors departed for New York last week. Dorothy Phillips and her director, Allan Holubar, who have recently completed "Victory," and wished to be present at its premiere in Manhattan, left early in the week. Later, Mae Murray and Robert Leonard, who have finished a series of four pictures for Universal, took the train for the East.

M. P. Specialists.

Gilbert P. Hamilton, former film director, and George P. Kern, who opened offices in Hollywood, and, calling themselves motion picture specialists, are A bag containing three pairs of shoes belonging to Edna Purviance was stolen from her automobile one day last week. Miss Purviance has a nightgown, an ivory mirror and comb, cold cream and face powders.

William Parker, scenarist, has been ill but to date it has not been pronounced "flu.

Eva Tanguay, who flew from San Francisco to Los Angeles to avoid the wearing of a flu mask, has nevertheless succumbed to a mild attack of Flu.

Al Parker,嫖妓 of his mother to come from the east to make her home with him in Hollywood.

Waldemar Young, staff author at Universal, paused a busy vacation. He prepared scenarios for three productions, then found time to go hunting and fishing.

Florence Oerbe, well-known film character actress, has just received word that her son, Jack Oerbe, with the American forces in France, is dead.

Mabel Normand arrived last week to begin work in "Silk" Hopkins for Goldwyn. Sets for the production were being erected at the studio the day Miss Normand arrived.

Aurora Mardiganian, the Armenian girl who will play an important part in "Flavished Armenia," has had a severe attack of Flu.

Helen Keller made an airplane flight one day last week for a special scene in her new picture. Miss Keller said she felt as if she were leaving her mortal self behind her and was rising into eternity.

Clara B. Bronson, who arrived in Los Angeles just a few days ago, is already at work on her first picture to be made in the United States.

Colonel Mary Pickford, who could not accept the invitation by cable to go to France to join her regiment in their peace celebration, sent a cable and a check for $1,000, to make up for her absence in the jollification.

When Peggy Hyland arrived in Los Angeles she wanted to go to a good hotel. She wanted a bungalow and wanted it right away.

Another fort and her mother will take a house in Hollywood for the time she will work at the Los Weber studio on First National's "Wings." Clara Kimball Young, who has just finished the filming of "Cheating Cheaters" under the direction of Allan Dwan, will spend a few weeks in New York—President Frock's—before she begins on her next picture.

According to a wire just received at Brunate, Primo Carnera, on his way west to begin a new series of features for Pathé distribution, has been engaged as leading woman for Charles Ray in his new play.

Jack Kerrigan and Monroe Sallubury and other members of the cast of "The Birth of Bullets," which was scheduled for the second picture of the series, has been set back, and the first release will be following "The Birth of Bullets," which tells the story of how, after seemingly insurmountable difficulties, the production is finally put in the hands of the directors with the consent of the leading stars. Each picture will be complete and ready for release before it is completed, and the whole plan of organization will be presented and some definite action taken. The legislature meets right after January 1, and already there is a bill of some antagonistic bills coming up.

"When Your Soldiers Hit" set for January 17. "When Your Soldiers Hit," the first of the U. S. A. Series of two-reelers announced by the Division of Films, Committee on Public Information, will be released December 23. "The Birth of Bullets," which was scheduled for the second picture of the series, has been set back, and the first release will be following "The Birth of Bullets," which tells the story of how, after seemingly insurmountable difficulties, the production is finally put in the hands of the directors with the consent of the leading stars. Each picture will be complete and ready for release before it is completed, and the whole plan of organization will be presented and some definite action taken. The legislature meets right after January 1, and already there is a bill of some antagonistic bills coming up.
RUBBERNECKING IN FILMLAND

NOTICE is hereby served that no more publicity will be given to the Spanish influenza in this department, and apologies are offered for the unintentional touting the malady has received at our hands.

As an epidemic, the "flu" is a proper subject for comment, but we never thought it was as big a publicity hoodwink as some actors that might be named, or that while we were kidding it along and poking fun at it that we were causing the darn thing to stick around by making it believe its act was good.

We now hold, along with Adam Hull Shirk, Harry Garson, Fatty Arbuckle, H. H. Van Loan, Harry Northrup and others that if everybody would stop talking about the "flu," pretty soon we would have no "flu," and that being the case we are going to do all we can to help kill it off by swatting it with what Irvin Cobb calls the "thunders of silence."

We want to remark in passing, however, that as a collector of publicity, the "flu" is not to be sneezed at.

This week witnessed the grand opening of the Rainy Season. The word "rain" is used for the benefit of Eastern readers. Precipitation occurs quite frequently and quite copiously in Los Angeles during certain periods of the year, but it never rains—at least, so far as the local press is concerned. We take our rains very seriously from a journalistic standpoint, and during the first few weeks of the moist season, nothing escapes us.

Enough precipitation to damp a postage stamp sufficiently to enable it to adhere to a letter without the assistance of a little spit is duly recorded and chronicled.

Clouds Precipitate All Over Everything.

A downpour of this character gets a display head on the front page. A tenth of an inch is worth a two-column spread with sub-heads and everything, and anything like a sizable shower is called a storm and extras are imminent.

At any rate, on Tuesday, a number of somber-hued and beetle-browed clouds held a mass meeting up on top of Lookout Mountain and then came on down town and precipitated all over everywhere.

This caused various adjustments in the movie colony. Companies ready to go out on location did not go. Chester Conklin took an hour off and a lead pencil stub and figured the probable profit the rain would bring to his bean ranch. Herbert Heyes bought a new umbrella. Albert Shelby LeVino phoned his wife to look up his seed catalogues against his return from the studio that night.

Wilfred Lucas had distinct symptoms of lumbago. Charley, the elephant, out at Universal City, got a bath. Bud Duncan's corns registered, still being on the job. Charlie Murray arranged to get milk from a dairy situated in the dry belt, and D. W. Griffith said, " Somebody light up the gas heaters."

Slickers and gum shoes went up 25 per cent, in price.

The rain made it a good week for rubbernecking. Everybody was at home. At the Sunset plant I found Allan Dwan, armed with a bran' new megaphone, making some of the final scenes for "Cheating Cheaters," with his all-star cast.

Directing Veterans Not So Easy.

"Must be nice and easy to direct a bunch of veterans," I remarked to Allan, whereat a sad look came over his countenance.

"It might be easier," he said, "if there were more censors to each scene. There is a point in every scene immediately in front of the camera that draws the star like a magnet. With only one star, things go nice and smooth, but with six or eight, there is more or less confusion and jostling."

Dwan made a scenes with Clara Kimball Young, Jack Holt and Nicholas Dunaway and Edwin Stevens, and as I did not see any of the camera monopoly he alluded to, I am inclined to think he was kidding.

I climbed to the upper decks of the William S. Hart studios, invaded the star's dressing room, and found "Bill" killing time between scenes of "Careless Carmody," the drama now on the fire at the Hart plant, by breaking in a young and skittish typewriter.

Melody of Hart Typewriter Perfect.

Mr. Hart handles a typewriter with the same ease that he does a gun or a pony. His method, while characterized with considerable absence of technique, is at once free, firm and filled with sang froid. His style might be considered faulty by a recent graduate of a business college. He is inclined to linger on the base somewhat—his tempo gets mixed with his motif at times, and his solo movements might be speeded up to advantage, but the melody is perfect.

There is a rhythm to his work reminiscent of Verdi's "Bella Figlia Dell' Amore. It would make a bear of a one-step.

Mr. Hart uses the Hunt and Peck One Finger system affected by many great writers, and my own favorite method, and considering the fact that he never took a lesson in his life and plays entirely by ear his execution is marvelous.

It was easy to see that the machine had a hard mouth, but it's a cinch that "Bill" will have it well gaited, gentle as a dog, and so that a woman can ride it with limber bit and without spurs in a very short time.

News came from downstairs that visitors had arrived at the studio, and while Bill changed his costume I went down and found Seena Owen, who plays the girl in "Careless Carmody," and little Buster Irving entertaining R. L. "Snowy" Baker, the noted Australian athletic impresario, and George Smith, who is with the David Belasco, William A. Brady, Alex Pantages and Orpheum Circuit of the Antipodes.

When Hart came down he and "Snowy" Baker, who is an old friend of his, got to swapping stories. Bill told of his life with the Indians, and of the free days of the wild and woolly west, and Baker came back with tales of the Australian bush.

"Snowy" promised to send Bill some souvenirs—a kangaroo or two, and a boomerang or so, and then Bill presented "Snowy" with his original sheriff shirt, a shirt that has been in more pictures than any shirt in the movies.

Rubbernecker Chokes on Hart Shirt.

I thought the occasion called for a few appropriate words, and was going to volunteer to say them, make a sort of presentation speech with a few side remarks on shirts in general and wind up with a very funny shirt tale that I like to tell, but it was all so pathetic.

Good old Bill parting with his sheriff shirt—friendship is a great thing—a shirt that witnessed his success, a shirt that had supported the golden head of many a heroine while she was being saved from the scowling heavy—I got all choked up and couldn't say a word.

Feeling the need of merriment I left there and went out to the Chaplin plant.

"Is Charlie working?" I inquired of Alfred Reeves.

"Come with me," said Al, and I followed him out on the lot to where the inimitable Charles was delpng out a new comedy. It was good stuff—Chaplin is just as funny making a comedy as he is in the finished film, but because there are many copy-cats in filmland—stuff that may not be spoken of here.

The Bridegroom and the Grindstone.

clinked up quite a bit, and then—Charlie mounted to the chauffeur's seat of a grindstone, threw her in high, opened the muller and was off—and sadness settled her somber shadow on my brow again.

To any man who has worn the galling

There was Charlie, freshly wedded, fooling with a grindstone, the symbol of marital chains, all unconscious of what the future has in store for all married men!

Wringing the hand of Edward W. Blyth, who caught the last of the tears from my eyes and stumbled away to the Pacific Electric street car and was so overcome that I almost lacked strength to give the director's assistant due attention to the fact that he had given me too much change for the four-bit piece I tendered him in payment of my fare.

St. John Exchange Tax

Probably Will Be Lowered

A RECENT event of interest in St. John was the coming to that city of L. Ernest Ouimet, general manager of the Specialty Film Import, of Toronto. Mr. Ouimet represented the Motion Picture Board of Trade, and came to the city to clear up the case of the film exchanges in St. John and their reasons for feeling that they must locate elsewhere. A conference was held with Mayor Reeves and Mayor Hayes on Tuesday, November 12, and then Mr. Ouimet, with some of those interested, appeared before the mayor and commissioners on Wednesday, November 20.

Mr. Ouimet gave facts and figures as to the taxes levied on film exchanges in other towns. In St. John taxes were higher than in Vancouver, Calgary, Winnipeg, Toronto and Montreal even without the proposed tax on one half of the gross income. The exchange in the city had paid four years ago $67. This year it was asked to pay $440. In Calgary an exchange paid $17.46, while in St. John, N. B., it was taxed up to $460.

Maritime Exchanges Losing Money.

It was pointed out that in the larger cities the opportunities for selling film were so much greater and that every exchange is at present operating at a loss in the Maritime Provinces. It was natural therefore that the exchange managers should seek to cut expenses and to locate where they could get some measure of tax exemption.

It is claimed, Mr. Ouimet said, that $100,000 is paid out in St. John, which included the censors' salaries, rents, and all the expenses of running an office.

The taxes were gone over in detail, naming first the Dominion tax, next the import tax of $30 a reel, then the provincial tax which must be paid for each province, then the censor tax also in each province for each reel of film, then the personal tax, as well as this new one, which was to be on one-half the gross proceeds.

Exchanges May Stay.

The poor exhibitor had to pay a Dominion war tax of fifteen cents a reel a day, admission tax for each province, license tax, seat tax, as well as personal, and property taxes. In all it made the separate taxes (if a man happened to be an exhibitor as well as an exchange man) amount up to seventeen different kinds.

Mr. Ouimet made a most favorable impression on the Council, and it is proposed that the subject be brought up so that it may be much fairer. While Mr. Ouimet had to report to the Motion Picture Board of Trade at Toronto, he intimated that it seemed probable the exchanges would stay in St. John.

Another argument shows that the express companies would have to withdraw one man at least, as it requires the services of one man to load the several big bags. The loss to the town of the personnel of the exchanges was described, and the importance of encouraging rather than discouraging film exchanges to help the town materialize and build it up with the city dwell upon. The fact that adding the expense of express charges to the already high cost of tickets keeps the exchanges in the city, and the probability the raising of admission prices, thus cutting off from the poor man his favorite form of amusement, was another good argument cited.

Exhibitors Lose Privilege of C. O. D. Film Shipments

FILM producers and exchanges throughout the country will be gratified to learn that the Postmaster-Generals' power to refuse to accept collect-on-delivery shipments of motion picture films from exhibitors and addressed to film manufacturers, distributors, or exchanges.

That this order has been issued as a direct result of the abuses which have been practiced by exhibitors in sending film back to exchanges with large-sized charges attached is evidenced by the fact that the order provides that motion picture films, shipped C. O. D. and addressed to exchanges, may still be accepted from producers, distributors or exchanges. Films being shipped by exhibitors, however, will be accepted only as insured mail or, if sealed, as first-class registered material.

Exchanges for a long time have been endeavoring to secure some such action from the express companies in an attempt to combat the practice of some exhibitors in returning films with charges attached for various reasons. It is declared that if an exhibitor feels that a certain tax is too much for him as great a profit as it should, he sends it back to the exchange with a charge sufficient to make up the difference. Or, if a film is not in the condition, he may make a claim for damages—but makes sure of collecting it by sending the film back C. O. D. in advance of his letter. Or, again, if he desires to collect a deposit he may have with an exchange—back goes the last film, collect, for the amount.

Distributors declare that if the express companies, also under the control of the Government, will follow the example of the Post Office Department, this restriction will be the privilege of C. O. D. shipments, they will be able to put a stop to this practice, which is not only expensive, but frequently very inconvenient, and which is held by the transporting agency until all charges are paid.

It is possible that the exhibitors will put up a kick, charging discrimination, but, undoubtedly, had they not so abused the privilege as to make it seem advisable to the Department to take it away, the order would not have been issued.

The man you are working for may not appreciate you that. Try World Classified advertisement. You may "hook up" with just the man you would like to have for your boss.
Chicago News Letter
by Jas. S. McQuade

"SMILE FILM" ON THE WAY TO FRANCE

Chicago Boys Over There Will See Face to Face Relatives and Sweethearts and View Home Scenes

THE Chicago "Smile Film," referred to in my letter of October 26, will be well on its way to France by the time this article is read. Ever since October 12 this production has been underway—the first of its kind ever filmed, and, therefore, one of the most unique. Its making demonstrates in a most convincing manner the remarkable serviceability, as well as the potency, of the moving picture as a form of human expression. What word of mouth or pen or printing press could carry the joy or the delightful realism which these pictures will bring to the Illinois soldier boys in France! And around Christ- mas and New Year's time what other medium could so effectively annihilate for the time the loneliness of our boys and the distance that separates them from the home circle and their loved ones?

The Chicago Herald-Examiner fathered the plan, and, in conjunction with Watson R. Rothacker, has completed it in a broad and worthy manner. The scope of the plan broadened as the work proceeded, until the finished product reached a length of 3,883 feet, every foot of which will be considered indispensable by the boys over there.

At first it was the intention to confine the pictures to the showing of the relatives and sweethearts of the boys of the "Dandy First" and the "Old Second" of Illinois, now respectively the 131st and the 132d Infantry. In its completed form the "Smile Film" devotes about 3,000 feet each to these subjects, while the two sections of the 149th Field Artillery are given nearly the same length. The Black Hawk division, comprised of Northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin boys, is honored with nearly five reels, and the relatives and sweethearts of the Marines and of the Illinois colored troops are each given a section close on 2,000 feet.

Will Include Chicago Views.

To convince the Chicago boys that they are really at home while viewing the pictures, favorite views of the city and its environs have been given—such as dancing bears in Lincoln Park and other familiar scenes; two full reels of home scenes full of surprises; a glimpse of the widening of the Lake Shore Drive from Randolph street to Chicago avenue, and stirring views of the Victory celebration on November II, especially one showing what Chicagoans declared to be the busiest corner in the whole world (State and Madison) on that day of days for the inhabitants of the Lake City.

The pictures allotted each unit are headed by a picture of Governor Lowden, who greets the boys at the opening of the film, while further on Judge Landis appears and tells the soldiers to give the Germans "both barrels." Director Rex Weber, under the title, "And when you come home, boys, this is what we do in the old town," has given a humorous scene which shows the turning of Chicago upside down. By a contrivance of his own, Mr. Weber turned the camera over during the taking of the scene, while the camera man continued to turn the crank.

Charles S. Hart, director of the moving picture division of the Bureau of Public Information, who left for France a fortnight ago, will receive the "Smile Film" when it arrives, and will see to it that it is distributed to the various military units by special messenger wherever they may be stationed.

The Y. M. C. A. operators, one of whom is responsible for the design and screening of the pictures in the Red Triangle hats on Christmas Eve, and will continue daily until New Year's day is over.

Wounded Soldiers to See Films.

Arrangements have been made also for the showing of the "Smile Film" to wounded soldiers whose relatives and sweethearts appear in the pictures, as they will be shown at convalescent camps. There will be a special showing to that section of "boys" on furlough in Paris or elsewhere who belong to the Illinois units shall see the "Smile Film."

Units encamped beyond the Rhine will not be overlooked, while those who may be stationed in Metz, Strassburg, Coblenz and Cologne will also be partners in the pleasure brought by the "Smile Film." Base hospitals in Paris, where the miscellaneous and train units are stationed, will also be remembered. It is expected the Black Hawk division will be in France till after the holidays, so that they will not be disappointed as a unit in seeing their section.

President Rothacker, of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company, tells me that Director Rex Weber and his assistants are thoroughly exhausted by the incessant work on the "Smile Film." Base hospitals in Paris, where the miscellaneous and train units are stationed, will also be remembered. It is expected the Black Hawk division will be in France till after the holidays, so that they will not be disappointed as a unit in seeing their section. President Rothacker, of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company, tells me that Director Rex Weber and his assistants are thoroughly exhausted by the incessant work on the "Smile Film." Base hospitals in Paris, where the miscellaneous and train units are stationed, will also be remembered. It is expected the Black Hawk division will be in France till after the holidays, so that they will not be disappointed as a unit in seeing their section. President Rothacker, of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company, tells me that Director Rex Weber and his assistants are thoroughly exhausted by the incessant work on the "Smile Film." Base hospitals in Paris, where the miscellaneous and train units are stationed, will also be remembered. time to be paid at the rate of time and a half. The present demurrage is for $1.25 an hour and double time on Sundays.

It is believed that a compromise will be made on these terms and that a strike will be averted. That would be the cheapest and the most sensible way to settle the question.

Miss Melcher Is Organist

at Furniss’ Rex Theatre

MISS KATHERINE C. MELCHER, one of the most talented woman organists in the city, who has made a specialty of playing organ accompaniment to the presentation of moving pictures for several years, left for Duluth Wednesday, November 27, to take the position of organist at the Rex Theatre, the principal house on the circuit owned by Thomas Furniss.

Miss Melcher has also been conductor of orchestras for dramatic and vaudeville attractions and has always been in great demand in musical circles. She studied the organ and piano under Harrison Wild and other widely known masters of these instruments.

Miss Melcher is well known in North Shore society in Chicago, and is a prominent clubwoman. For two years she held office in the Catholic Woman’s Club of Rogers Park and in the Society of Saint Rose, besides being an active member of eight other clubs.

In the fall season last year, when the Chicago Grand Opera Company’s orchestra played the accompaniment to a number of feature moving pictures at the Auditorium, Miss Melcher was honored by being selected to play the great organ in that building, and acquitted herself admirably.

Miss Melcher is a prominent member of the Chicago Federation of Musicians and rendered fine service to Chicago Local, M. P. E. L. of A., about a year ago, by compiling a complete list of non-taxable music for exhibitors generally. This list appeared in the Moving Picture World at the time, in several issues, and proved invaluable to exhibitors throughout this country and Canada.

The Chicago office of this publication wishes Miss Melcher great success in Duluth, and the writer, personally, congratulates Tom Furniss heartily on his happy find.

The Randolph Will Open Xmas Day.

Jones, Linic’ & Schaefer will open a new theatre, the Randolph, on Christmas day. Announcement of the building of this house appeared in these columns several months ago. It is situated on Randolph street, a few doors west from State street, on one of the busiest thoroughfares in the city. The capacity is not yet exactly known, but it will be anywhere from 900 to 1,100 seats.

Louis J. Jones, at one time manager of the Studebaker Theatre, has been appointed manager of the Randolph and the assistant manager will be Walter H. Moore, who has held a similar position with the Orpheum Theatre, on State street, for several years.

Universal Items of Interest.

S. J. Goldman, sales manager of Jewel Productions in Chicago, when seen last week, stated that Mildred Harris’ latest picture, “Borrowed Clothes,” is going over big in Chicago territory. “Women are all exceedingly anxious to see her work on the screen since she has become Mrs. Chaplin,” said Mr. Goldman.

Harry M. Burman, general sales manager of Jewel Productions, stopped over in the city, Monday, November 25, on his way to New York from middle western territory in which he has spent about three weeks calling on Universal exchange men. He reported that business was picking up, but that much of the territory was still under quarantine.

“Lafayette, We Come!” at Ziegfeld.

“Lafayette, We Come!” had a week’s showing at the Ziegfeld Theatre, ending Friday evening, November 29. The management of the Ziegfeld reports a large attendance for the entire period and that great enthusiasm prevailed. This feature is the first release of the Affiliated Distributors’ Corporation, which recently acquired control of the Mutual Film Corporation, the new organization being known as the Exhibitors’ Mutual Distributing Company.

American Film Company’s News.

R. R. Nehls, general manager of the American Film Company, Inc., returned last week from a trip to New York, where he remained five days. While in the metropolis Mr. Nehls was engaged in arranging a big export deal for his company. The proposition is already well under way, and he expects to complete it in the near future. He reports that the foreign trade is getting brisker.

Samuel S. Hutchinson, president of the company, left for the Santa Barbara studios Thursday, November 28, where he will remain for about three weeks, looking after the reopening of the studios after the fixed closed period.

H. E. Belford, formerly chief assistant to Joseph Hopp, has succeeded him as American’s representative in Chicago territory, with headquarters in Pathe’s Chicago office. Mr. Belford has been for a long time connected with the film business as an expert salesman in Chicago territory.

Bonneville New Publicity Director.

T. D. Bonneville, who, since its inauguration, has been the principal traveling publicity and business representative of the Division of Films, Committee on Public Information, has been appointed director of publicity and advertising of the division, succeeding W. J. Melhmis.

W. D. Coxey, who has been in charge of the press bureau, has resigned to become advance business manager for Harry Lauder.

Tucker to Make Mayflowers.

George Loane Tucker has signed a contract with the Mayflower Photoplay Corporation to produce a series of subjects for his Tucker series for Los Angeles this week with John W. McKay, business manager for Mayflower, and will start at once on his first production.
BURLINGTON FILM FULL OF THRILLS
Sherry's "Scrambles in the Alps" a Most Remarkable Example of Daring Mountain Climbing

WHAT is undoubtedly a most thrilling example of mountain climbing will be found in one of the latest of the Sherry-Burlington releases, "Scrambles in the High Alps," exhibited at the Strand Theatre, New York City, during the week of November 24.

The picture, which is also a sample of excellent photography, opens with a view of giant precipices, followed by a close-up of a group of the famous Zermatt guides, men who daily risk their lives among the crags and glaciers of the Alps. On the way from Zermatt, the great Alpine center, we come to the "wall of rendezvous," where the guides wait for belated tourists, and where we pause a moment to watch a party pass on and upward to the ice fields beyond. In the distance we catch a glimpse of screen a realism from the realms of eternal snow. With the exception of "The Devil on the Blumisalp," which was one of France's "Scrambles" first releases through the William L. Sherry Service, we have seen no picture of this character which can approach "Scrambles in the High Alps" in adventurous color.

M. I. M.

Winnipeg Men Denounce Proposed Building By-Law

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made at Winnipeg, Manitoba, that the much-discussed by-law which would require local exchanges to remove to one story fireproof structures, will probably not go to the City Council until after the new year—after the municipal elections. It is also declared that there may be some modification of the clause which will compel the exchanges to accommodate themselves in one story buildings. Other clauses of the by-law will remain with the City Council for a vote. It is also intimated that another clause providing for a municipal fee from exchanges will be added.

The Winnipeg exchanges are already paying a Provincial license fee of $200 a year as well as a fee of $2 a reel for the censoring of pictures. The exchanges also pay a business tax to the city as well as duty and war tax on imported films. Winnipeg theatres pay an annual license fee to the city of from $200 to $500, and the exhibitors also pay a fee of 20 cents a seat a year to the Province of Manitoba. In addition to all this, the theatre patrons pay the amusement war tax on all admissions.

On November 23, the Winnipeg exchange in the city, and the managers were preparing to move from Winnipeg to the city, if the film exchange by-law is passed by the city council in any form. Modifications promised did not interest them, they would not be doing business in Winnipeg if any of the proposed clauses were passed.

The famous by-law was copied from legislation which compelled the attention of Chicago film men some time ago. Winnipeg exchange managers declared they wanted the city to leave present regulations alone because they were capable enough to guard against any possible fires in exchanges. No fires had yet occurred in any exchanges in the city, and the managers would be "fools" not to take all necessary precautions.

Red Cross Films Make Vaudeville Hit

The weekly American Red Cross war work films began appearing generally as a regular part of the United Booking Offices program on November 24 at the principal vaudeville houses all over the country. Wherever the films were shown, reports indicate that they were received with enthusiasm, and their debut is regarded a notable success. Every General Film Company exchange was kept busy providing prints for the dates which opened the series of bookings.

In New York the Red Cross films as program subjects made their principal first appearance at the Palace theatre, which is correctly known as the parent home of all vaudeville. Here the picture chosen was "Rebuilding Broken Lives," an absorbing visualization of the manner in which soldiers minus an arm or leg are fitted to pursue the arts of peace. Latest industry reveals bands of clever mechanical contrivances and through instruction in various trades.

Picture Salesmen Say the Theatres Are Prosperous

REPORTS arriving at the home office from salesmen of World Pictures, referring to gross conditions throughout the country, establish the fact that motion picture theatres are enjoying a prosperity that tops any like period of the past three years. One salesman added a poetical touch to his statement when he said: "They are coming back to the picture shows like a huge army, finding resistance gone, sweeps all before it."

Another salesman says: "The only picture chosen was "Rebuilding Broken Lives," a monthly period of the past three years. One salesman added a poetical touch to his statement when he said: "They are coming back to the picture shows like a huge army, finding resistance gone, sweeps all before it."

Denver says: American stories with American locale, sprinkled with laughs. St. Louis wants no American made war dramas that existed only in the minds of the scenario writer. Neither does it want underworld stuff.

Chicago expresses a preference for brave stuff with plenty of youth and the romance that goes with it.

New Orleans wants excitement that does not strain the imagination in order to create the semblance of truth. And so on. On one point they are unanimous. They do not want the swashbuckling pictures disguised in modern clothes. Moving picture patrons want the photoplays that have an element of common sense shown in the selection of the subject matter and a rational development that is boring the exhibitor.

And so on. On one point they are unanimous. They do not want the swashbuckling pictures disguised in modern clothes. Moving picture patrons want the photoplays that have an element of common sense shown in the selection of the subject matter and a rational development that is boring the exhibitor.

Lift Censorship on Export Films.

On and after December 9 there will be no further censorship of motion picture films intended for exportation from the United States. An announcement of this effect followed a conference in Washington in the office of Dr. L. S. Rowe, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. This conference was participated by members of the Customs Division of the Treasury, representatives of the War Trade Board and of the Committee on Public Information.

No Extension for Pathe Serial.

"The Lightning Raider," Pearl White's next Pathe serial, will probably be extended beyond its original length of fifteen episodes, says Vice-President Paul Brunet, of Pathe.

Peggy Hyland in California.

Peggy Hyland, the William Fox star, arrived at Los Angeles on November 14. This is Miss Hyland's first trip to the Coast. Her director, Harry Millarde, arrived from the East a week ahead of Miss Hyland.
In discussing the proposed amalgamation of the National Exhibitors’ League with the N. A. M. P. I. we called attention last week to the lack of organization among exhibitors and mentioned in a very general way the reasons for that lack. While those reasons are the probable immediate causes of the unorganized state of the exhibition business there is an underlying cause more potent than those mentioned, namely, antagonism to producers. In the beginning the avowed purpose of the Motion Picture Exhibitors’ League was to oppose ‘the manufacturer: to prevent him charging higher rentals and from doing a lot of things that cost money to the exhibitor. This spirit exists in a measure today and has made possible the promotion of several schemes promoted with the purpose of punishing the manufacturer, but which turned out to be in the interest of the promoter’s private pocket and were really schemes to exploit the exhibitor. Consequently, between the handicap of a wrong purpose and exploiting leaders the individual exhibitor has acquired a dislike for any kind of organization plan that may be offered.

What the exhibitor would like to know before he approves the plan to affiliate with the N. A. M. P. I. is whether or not his interests will be protected by that organization by reason of his being a member of it. In other words, does his membership automatically insure him of uniformly fair treatment by the members of the other branches of the organization, or must he continue to look out for himself as he has always been compelled to do. While the manufacturing and distributing branches of the organization will deny that the exhibitor has been unfairly treated there are exhibitors who believe that they have just cause for complaint and will want ample assurances along those lines before their support can be obtained. It is a reasonable demand and should be freely and freely accorded. By doing so the manufacturers and distributors will escape a repetition of such opposition as greeted their proposition to charge 15 cents a reel to cover the film tax.

Another matter is the question of financial control. Circumstances are known to the exhibitors that will cause them to think a lot before they agree to contribute to the financial support of the N. A. M. P. I. Our personal knowledge of matters, regarding which we cannot speak here, brings us to the conclusion that there must be a radical change in the conduct of the affairs of the N. A. M. P. I. in any event. Proper authority is not exercised over the management of the organization. It is clear that something radical will have to take place in its management if it is to be placed upon a sound basis or if it is ever to become really useful to the trade. We do not condemn it utterly because we believe that is the best trade organization we have yet had and that it can be made all that it should be. But there are some changes that are imperative, either in its rules or its conduct under them.

Because the N. A. M. P. I. can give the exhibitors of the country the sort of a central organization they ought to have we hope that the plan will be given a trial. It will cost something to put such a central bureau into proper operation, but the service it will give to the trade if properly directed will more than repay us for the effort and the expenditure. Competent direction, though, must be guaranteed or it would be better not to begin.

Announcement has been made that William A. Brady and Arthur Friend will again go to Washington to importune the congressional committees on the film tax question. We recall that they went once before after which one member of the committee who heard them said: “The film men do not know what they want.” We hope that Mr. Brady and Mr. Friend will get together and agree on one story to tell the senators or the representatives, whichever they happen to talk to, so that it will be fully understood that the motion picture branch of the amusement enterprises of this country are now paying about double their proper share of the war tax. Make them understand that the film tax as now levied, or the rental tax that is proposed, is not fair and should be dropped from the schedules. Make it strong!
OUR GENERAL FLATNESS
By Louis Reeves Harrison.

No fevered encomiums can be lavished upon screen products of the year. Many of them are very safe, some of them pleasant stuff in a way, mildly pleasant, like blue milk, and still others perfectly sane—we are not so crazy as we look, but the majority of releases are made according to pattern. The alleged violent adventure, the risk that gives no thrill because the rescue is all too obvious, all very quieting to the nerves, no doubt, and to be recommended to those who live in fear of straining their brains, as there is nowhere to be found much of a demand upon ordinary intelligence.

The European war had been going on several years before it dawned upon some enterprising producers that the kaiser was not enjoying well-established popularity in this country, but they summoned enough spirit to say some bitter things about him toward the end.

It takes such a long time to become sensible! Millions of Americans have gone to the war. Millions more have been training for military service. Their mothers and sisters and wives number more millions.

Big plays of the future will appeal to these millions. Millions upon millions of intelligent and true-hearted Americans are deeply interested in events of these four years. Outside of stories of adventure and romance in war regions, now rich with drama, there are to be considered the tremendous changes made in our ways of living, in our new ideas of national service, of the injustice done many of us during these years, hundreds of big and vital themes for drama, because they strike home to the heart of us and to our pocket-books as well.

The screen must keep up with the times. We have had a plague of ancient fiction. No amount of Worcestershire sauce can make it taste like the genuine screen story, but we have had to swallow it or stay away from the moving picture show, so we gulp it down, and smile like Charlie Chaplin does in the trenches, when trying to look as though he enjoyed himself.

Somewhere in the studio is a library of novels. The producer looks over their gilded title with innocent pride. He thinks they’re Ibsens, Molieres, Rostands and Maeterlincks.

By the time any one of these works of fiction is completely denatured by some hack for the screen it might just as well have been sewn in a sack and dropped into that River of Oblivion where budding screen genius is usually strangled. To put it on exhibition, dragging through “continuity” with leaden feet, too palpably padded with unimportant movement, wigged with artificiality, false-hipped with directorial interpolation, it becomes as pitiful as a Hun suspect trying to sing “The Star Spangled Banner.”

The stage has been hampered by prejudice and predisposition. The screen might well replace these with cold common sense.

A brick house may be beautiful, useful, a work of art, yet the materials from which it is constructed are not suited to building a battleship.

The stage play, written to be interpreted through utterance, requires creative genius linked to technical skill of treatment and intelligent interpretation on the part of speaking actors.

The screen play, written to be interpreted through psychology, requires creative genius linked to technical skill of treatment for a totally different interpretation. Where it is not intended for that kind of interpretation from the outset there is usually a flat result, about as entertaining as a dentist, about as stimulating as a headache “next day.”

A plague on this stale-beer stuff—we’re just born again.

These last four years have turned the world upside down.

Let us have done with what incoherent and uninforming, theatrically prejudiced or fictionally preposterous, sickled o’er with the pale cast of some other art, in which it was none too good. Let us move along in American style, with ingenuity, with originality, with sound judgment, with subtle humor, with pictures of manhood such as marched away to France, types of true American womanhood, either that or lie down and quit, too flat for an upright art.

PERMANENT HEALTH RULES
By Robert C. McElravv.

MOVING PICTURE theatres, as well as other places of amusement and instruction where crowds assemble, might do well to profit by the now waning epidemic by establishing certain permanent rules regarding the public health. It has no doubt been observed by those who have continued to patronize theatres during the epidemic that coughing and sneezing are not at all necessary where severe restrictions have been imposed. Whether the threat of being ejected from the place has had a deterrent effect, or whether the patron’s mere consideration for others has caused him to refrain, there has been a wonderful abatement of this unpleasant habit. It has been possible to sit through entire performances without hearing a pronounced sneeze.

Coughing and sneezing are of course unavoidable where the patron is the actual victim of a hard cold, but in such a case he is no doubt better off home in bed, epidemic or no epidemic. Even in ordinary times it rather disturbs one’s hard won democracy to have some wheezing individual sprinkling the back of his neck every few moments with a sneeze. To sit through a performance under such circumstances is at any time a painful thing, as well as a source of real danger, as the best medical authorities agree. Those afflicted with colds should at all times be required to use handkerchiefs for the protection of others, and where the coughing is violent, should be perfectly willing to leave the theatre.

There are always people who are timid about going into crowds for the very reason that they are exposed to perils of this sort. Their comfort should at all times be considered, rather than that of the afflicted person. The latter, if he is not asked to leave the theatre, should at least be obliged to get “under cover” and be as discreet as possible in his coughing.

The great epidemic is now passing, but it will not quickly be forgotten. And there is of course the danger of its return at some future time, perhaps next spring. That at any rate has been the experience in other afflicted countries. For this reason we believe the proprietor of a moving picture house will have every excuse for keeping close watch upon the health of his patrons at all times in the future. Just how rigid his regulations may be made is something he must determine for himself, but we think he will make a general gain in the confidence of his clientele if he announces careful supervision of some sort in future.

The general question of conduct of theatres, aside from matters of health, is of course always a delicate one, but it is important from every point of view, and there are many things that the manager can regulate without difficulty. Noisy ushers come easily under his control, and there are many houses where the ushers talk loudly and run up and down the aisles in a distracting manner. This is particularly noticeable in certain legitimate theatres, where the whole first part of a performance is frequently lost to those sitting in the rear seats. Much of the noise may be obviated by having soundless carpets. But as for the usher who talks glibly with patrons, or enters into a loud controversy over the location of seats, that is something else and should not be allowed to happen so frequently.

"THE HELL CAT'S" AVERAGE

By Edward Weitzel

To be explicit about the matter, only one man ever called Panchita O'Brien a "hell cat," and he did it in a fit of savage rage, because she refused to hide her contempt for him and fought with all her strength when he made a captive of her and killed her father. Panchita is as fine a specimen of womanhood as ever grew up on a Wyoming ranch. When she takes the law into her own hands and escapes further indignities by burying a dagger in the heart of Jim Dyke her act more than justifies itself. And every one will applaud Jack Webb for telling her that her suffering has only added to her claim on his love and devotion. In other words, Panchita O'Brien is a thoroughbred, and her story will interest every man and woman who admires courage and deep affection and all that is best in woman.

This very important point being established, it is in order to check up the other merit marks in the Goldwyn production, "The Hell Cat," and discover how near it comes to that elusive one-hundred-per cent. average. A review of the picture printed in last week's MOVING PICTURE WORLD stated that the plot "departs but little from a familiar and well-tested trail." Further on the article held that, "No Goldwyn production has ever been more completely satisfying."

But one means could have reconciled the two statements—craftsmanship.

Taking the story for consideration, it is quickly made clear that its material has been forced to yield every ounce of its dramatic value without once lowering the tone of its artistic standard, which is a veritable transcript of life. The main motive is primitive passion, and a story of crime and animal instinct is told on the screen lucidly and without compromise, but the artistic restraint which marks the true craftsman is never absent.

Willard Mack has employed the art of the dramatist in putting together the situations of Geraldine Farrar's latest starring vehicle, and the steady pull of its action is never broken by the introduction of unnecessary incident of any description. The closing scenes, which compose the wronged girl's vengeance, are remarkable for their brevity as well as for their power. The effectiveness of their restraint could not be increased. The character drawing is equally well done. Jim Dyke, Jack Webb, Panchita's father and Wan-e-mee are real flesh and blood beings, as created by the author and acted by the members of the cast.

Reginald Barker and his share of the work contribute largely to the merit marks of the production. With the temptation of countless long shots in a sweep of country that abounds in views of great beauty, the director subordinated everything to the human interest of the story and kept the way clear for its constant advance. This scenic background of the picture, when exteriors are used, is a delight, but from the moment Jim Dyke rides over to the O'Brien ranch and meets Panchita the fate of the girl becomes the absorbing feature of "The Hell Cat." Director Barker evidently recognized that nothing else mattered so far as the spectator was concerned. All the help that skilled attention to detail could give was bestowed on the picture, and no legitimate opportunity to add a touch of romance was neglected; but before everything else the director realized it was his duty to create drama.

Here, then, we have "The Hell Cat's" average and the reason for the picture's entertaining qualities: a one-hundred per cent. production of a familiar story whose drama possibilities will never grow old. There have been loftier themes, but none with greater vitality. And none has been told on the screen with a better understanding of its demands.

To Continue War Review

While the Material Lasts

A conference held in the office of Marcus A. Beean, acting director of the Division of Films, Committee on Public Information, between the various interests concerned in the production and distribution of the Official War Review, it was definitely decided that the Review would be continued as long as the pictorial news coming from Europe made it possible to keep up the present high standard of the weekly issues. Among those present at the conference were representatives of the Division of Films, Pathe and the Bureau of Official British Films in the United States.

Captain G. McLeod Baynes, in charge of the distribution of British films in the United States, announced that he had just received a cable appraising him that the surrender of the German fleet to Admiral Beatty had been successfully filmed, and that thousands of feet of this historic scene would be available for the Official War Review. Captain Baynes also stated that a great deal of other interesting material was now available, and that the British contribution to the War Review would continue to be of a most interesting character.

Mr. Beean stated that Director Hart, who has gone to Europe, would arrange for comprehensive pictures of the peace conference, and that the interesting period between the granting of the armistice and the signing of actual peace would be fully covered.

In the view of those competent to speak, it will be many months before the historic happenings in Europe cease to have a pictorial interest for patrons of motion picture houses.

War Risk Rate Reduced.

Of interest to exporters of motion picture films is the announcement just made by the Secretary of the Treasury of the reduction in the Government war risk rate to England, France and certain of the Mediterranean ports to one-eighth of 1 cent. This is the rate now charged by the British Bureau of War Risk Insurance for this same voyage.

An announcement from the Secretary of the Treasury states that this reduction has been brought about by the fact that the terms of the armistice, as far as the naval situation is concerned, have been complied with and practically the only risk now covered by war policies is that of mines. Prior to the signing of the armistice, the transatlantic rate was 2 per cent.
An Opportunity for Successful Work by Schools and Colleges of the Country

AFTER the war became an almost universal slogan among school authorities when the question of a more extensive use of the moving pictures in schools was urged. By the use of this expression these authorities admitted, to proper occasion and circumstances under which they saw coming the opportunity for a definite form of development in the schools for moving pictures as well. The war is now over, all difficulties brought in by the numerous war-time restrictions are being rapidly removed, consequently within a period of time shorter than many anticipate, there will fall upon the country privileges and opportunities for such great educational advancement that it will not only be criminal to neglect them, but it will be a crime against the rising generation of scholars and students if a state of unpreparedness exists.

Lessons from the Past

Present-day advantages always cause a comparison with the past, coupled with many expressions as to "What might have been." The educational war pictures of today, abounding with historical importance, have the occasion for many yearnings that the moving pictures might have existed in the days of the Civil War and the immortal Lincoln; what an education! What an inspiration! What history! With this feeling there was written upon the pages of this paper some eight years ago a similar reflection, with the prediction that, in the event of another war, the moving picture would become the greatest factor, for record, for history, for education. All this has been most surprisingly surpassed, the unexpected war came in a hundredfold greater power; the moving picture was called upon in a hundredfold greater measure, and proved to a limitless good under every possible, yet previously unconceived, occasion.

To enumerate the achievements of the moving picture would be a tremendous undertaking; it is satisfactory to know, however, that its accomplishments are legion, and universally known, also that now its possibilities are as great as in the future.

The Future

it is now everywhere conceded that the moving picture is the greatest aid to education the world has yet received; it must now be conceded also that it possesses a bottled-up store of needed information that has ever been conceived possible; the disemination of this valuable knowledge is now demanded by the advanced needs of a waiting world of schools; the only question now is: "Shall it be given them?"

To this those authorities everywhere who have under their control the management of educational institutions must make answer. The Government of the United States has already made answer in the abundant preparations secured under a duly authorized brand, and the Government pictures are prepared with the very purpose for which educational cinematography forecast. This answer will already be found in the very latest picture released under Government authority entitled "Under Four Flags." A review of this picture cannot be given here; it is already to be widely known to all those reasonably expected to be acquainted with educational propaganda. Following such a picture as "America's Answer," a school that lacks an authorized brand, and the American boy or girl deprived of its teaching is robbed of that education which the laws of every state demand in their behalf. By the admission of all educators, the "after the war" time having arrived, they are now ready to join the long line of advocates of "missions" and already to be widely known to all those reasonably expected to be acquainted with educational propaganda. Follow such a picture as "America's Answer," a school that lacks an authorized brand, and the American boy or girl deprived of its teaching is robbed of that education which the laws of every state demand in their behalf. By the admission of all educators, the "after the war" time having arrived, they are now ready to join the long line of advocates of "missions" and already to be widely known to all those reasonably expected to be acquainted with educational propaganda.

A Message for the Producer

The Motion Picture Section of the Department of Labor has requested us to hand to the producers of motion pictures, through our columns, a message which we believe is but an echo of the sincere spirit of Americanism which is and has been paramount among motion picture producers during the trying period through which the nation has been called upon to pass. The following is the message:

The motion picture undoubtedly short ended the war by at least two months. This is the opinion of officers in the Army who are in a position to know. The motion picture, can do more to stabilize labor and bring about normal conditions than any other agency. An injudicious use of motion pictures, on the other hand, can do our country incalculable harm.

Constructive education will do infinitely more good than destrucive propaganda. To portray the villain of a photoplay as a member of the I. W. W. or the Bolshevik vikil is positively harmful; while, portraying the hero as a strong, virile American, a believer in our institutions and ideals, will do much good.

Motion picture producers and scenario writers will undoubtedly be using labor themes in their productions for some time to come. The Motion Picture Section of the Department of Labor is anxious and willing to advise any members of the industry who, being American citizens, are unwilling to produce anything for the screen that violates the policies of the Government as represented by the Department of Labor. This Department is both appreciative of what you have done during the war and conscious of what you are willing to do that all may enjoy the fruits of victory.

We do not want to exercise any censorship over the screen at this time; we do not think it necessary. We do want to help you to help your Government.

"Finger of Justice" Runs in South.

The necessity for control of film censorship under one head has never had a better emphasized illustration than in the case of the Paul Smith anti-vice and anti-crime campaign. Under "Finger of Justice," the production, which was prohibited by the New York Commissioner of Licenses is to be distributed throughout Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, and Florida by the First National Exhibitors' Circuit of Virginia by contract with the Paul Smith Pictures Company. Negotiations have been consummated through the local Film Corporation, acting as agent for the producers. Contrary to the action of the New York Commissioner the picture has been passed by the Board of Censors in the city of Chicago, and also in the state of Ohio. And it may be remembered that during July last, both Washington, D.C., and Seattle, Wash., set their seal of approval on it.

The production is being exploited as a road attraction and is reported to have opened and played to capacity houses at the Bluebird Theatre in Richmond, Va.

Social and Industrial Subjects.

The 144th issue of the Paramount-Bray Pictorial contains two subjects of special interest besides a Wallace Carlson animated cartoon entitled Goodrich Dirt in "When Wishes Come True." The serious subjects cover the "Industries of the West Indies" and "The Second Line of Defense," showing what the Young Women's Christian Association is doing at the camps and in the cities for the welfare of the boys in service.

"The Industries of the West Indies," which is one of a series of pictures dealing with the Virgin Islands, our newest possessions, covers the Bay Rum industry, which is the principal industry of these islands.

Magazine's Next Issue.

The 96th issue of the Universal Screen Magazine presents as its most interesting subject "The Doctoring Duds Hospital," which shows one of the repair shops for the motion picture business. The one photographed in the picture is at Camp Meade. The picture shows how the impaired coats and trousers and even hats are doctored up so as to look almost like new by expert workmen. Another scene of the magazine shows Madame Schwann Heinike singing at a war benefit. The last subject presents a series of colored pictures (not well colored, by the way) of various kinds of birds, including pea howl and parrots.

"Scenes in Dutch Malaysia."

In this number of the Post-Pathe series the Island of Java comes in for attention. The principal city of the island, Batavia, has been covered by the camera, showing the streets filled with the various kinds of people that populate it. One of the most interesting scenes in the picture is the manufacture of brick by hand, and the preparations for construction work carried on by women. This is the most interesting thus far of this series from an informational standpoint.

"The Island of Sumatra."

One of the most interesting of this very instructive series of travel pictures. This is devoted to scenes from Sumatra, an island on the Malay archipelago, whose chief city is a Dutch settlement of 60,000, known as Palemburg. The town is built like Venice, and has streets of water. It boasts of a floating hat store and other businesses conducted on rafts. Lace-making and various pursuits of the natives are shown.

"Official War Review No. 23."

The opening scenes in this number are picturesque in the extreme and have great historical significance. One of them shows the British soldiers entering Jerusalem. Other scenes show a gunboat in action on the Tigris River, and the manner in which camels have been impressed into war service. The Italian front comes in for further interesting delineation, and there are also views of ruined cities left in the wake of the fleeing Hun. An inspiring sight is that of Pershing’s men crossing the St. Mihiel salient.

"A Wee Bit Odd" (Educational-Bruce).

A recent number of the latest Robert Bruce series contains two short chapters, each of which presents a subject not new, but as he, himself, puts it, “a wee bit odd.” The first brings us, with the placid waters of Snake River, South-ern Idaho, to the brink of a precipice 800 feet in width and 200 feet in depth, at the very edge of which it is converted into one of the most beautiful waterfalls of the world, veiling successfully with the great Niagara, Yosemite or Shoshone. It is needless to add that these falls have been beautifully photographed, none of their beauties have been lost sight of, and even the mists have been given a page to themselves.

The second chapter reveals a large ranch in Southern Oregon on which “Golden Sand” has been discovered, where making its owner just $8,000 richer each succeeding month. From the prosaic form usually assumed by the act of hydrauliclicking gravel, it has been converted by the camera into “a thing of beauty.” Bruce has thrown over its otherwise commonplace features the veil of artistic conception, and has given us a picture that rivals in true artistry one of his recent industrial subjects, “Tales of the Tall Timbers.” This is a short bit, but as far as it goes it is decidedly unusual.

SHORT ITEMS OF INTEREST.

The 75th issue of the Screen Telegram includes among items of current interest a brief illustration of the binder twin industry, showing a plant of cacti from the fibre of which the twine is made. Some snaps in a binder twine factory show the fibre on its way to be turned into rope or twine.

A number of seven and eight minute subject pictures, including “Columbia,” “The Battle Cry of Freedom,” and “The Star Spangled Banner” have been made by the Ganthem Films, Inc., 110 West 40th Street, New York City. The stars rights of these short lengths are being sold by Robert Priest, Film Market, Inc., Times Building, New York City.

The H. R. Durant Film Service, Room 812, Times Building, New York City, have for the past two or three years been making a specialty of select programs for schools and churches. They are at the present time supplying some of the best private schools of the East as well as high schools and public schools with programs for week-end “interment” and other purposes. H. R. Durant is assisted in his work by G. F. O’Connor.

Sherry Finds New Faces at Many Old Theatres

WILLIAM L. SHERRY, president of the William L. Sherry Service, returned to New York this week after a flying trip to several of the larger eastern cities. The direct object of Mr. Sherry’s trip was to get some first hand information on conditions in the outlying territories. That there have been sweeping changes brought about by the epidemic there can be no doubt, and rather than trust to miscellaneous and unconfirmed reports, Mr. Sherry felt that the situation warranted a special trip.

“My trip was a touch-and-go affair,” said Mr. Sherry. “By that I mean that I did not linger long in any one city, but while I was there I got all the information that was to be had and I did not leave town until I had it. My trip took me to Philadelphia, Boston, Albany, Syracuse, Buffalo, Cleveland, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh. "By far the greatest number of changes I found were changes of ownership and management. Most of the theatres are still in existence and opening rapidly, but there are many strange faces at the fronts of old familiar houses. Many of the old faces are gone forever and I number many sincerely mourned friends among them. My trip, for one thing, convinced me that our mailing list will have to be extensively revised before it can be considered accurate. Any theatre management that survived the epidemic intact can consider itself a pretty substantial institution. "On the whole, I came home well satisfied with the outlook. The sledding will be hard for a few week’s to come, but after that I can see the brightest year that motion pictures have ever had.”

Frank Lloyd in California.

Frank Lloyd, director for William Farm- rum pictures, arrived in Los Angeles on November 21 after a stay of two months in New York. Accompanying him were the members of his directorial staff, including Scott Dunlap, the assistant di- rector; Marc Robbins, scenario writer; Billy Foster, cameraman, and William Shepherd, technical director.

Constance Talmadge in “A Lady’s Name” (Select).
Advertising for Exhibitors
Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

Comparatively few managers of houses in towns shut down on account of the influenza kept their advertisements running. Perhaps it was a natural move, but it is by no means certain. At any rate, the managers of certain brands of tobacco now supply their entire product to the Government, but they keep right on advertising that fact. Hundreds of manufacturers of other products keep on advertising, if only to explain why they cannot supply the needs of their former patrons. Almost without exception the theatres stopped advertising largely because they thought they had nothing to advertise. They could not announce that the films they were showing were the best and most entertaining manner. This is what the picture theatre is for, and when the managers present their bills attractively and make a feature of that fact rather than that they have this or that feature for a night or two, then and not until then, will people follow the theatre rather than the stars. Much of the way of missionary work could have been done during the epidemic. Little or nothing was done. The film theatre had no film, there was nothing to say. Some few houses devoted space to advertising the board of health suggestions. That helped a little, but a better plan would have been to have run a series of advertisements; somewhat along these lines:

The epidemic of influenza still continues, and it will be some time yet before the Big One again welcome its patrons. But we have been thinking of our loyal friends every minute of the time. The enforced closing has permitted us to thoroughly clean the house. No grip germs can find a lurking place in our theatre. When the doors are open yes, and the interior more attractive than ever, and as sanitary as paint, soap and water and disinfectant can make it. More than that, the bills will be better than ever, for good films have been piling up. Watch for the opening announcement. It will surprise and please you.

Working along these lines will bring results and people will remember long after the scare has been forgotten.

Steve and the Opposition.
We've shown a lot of Steve Farrar's advertising, and it may have seemed odd that he was so high in some towns as Harrisburg, Ill., but the answer is that Steve has opposition, and the opposition is good too. Steve would take in a big space anyhow, because he knows it is good for business, but he has to take big space when the other man also knows how to write advertising. It might be interesting to compare Steve's work with the opposition. The first display shows three twelves against Steve's three tens for his Orpheum. Steve uses a small cut against a big one, but that gives him a larger title and lets him play up his stars to greater advantage. He gets more talk, and he shows his goods in better fashion though we think he would do well to name his comedies. As a rule there is some appeal in a comedy title that will help the bare announcement. In the same way it would pay him to mention the new high spots in the war review. Telling just what will be seen gives emphasis to the fact that this is the 'real' war review. In the next example Steve takes three sixes and the other house three nines. Here the large cut works to better effect than the auto picture in the first example, but we think a smaller cut would have per-

And is striking enough to warrant a double line. The third display gives four sevens against two eight and a half. Here the Grand gets the best of it and Steve gets the small end of the display. We think we would have staggered the

A Double Display in Which Light Rule Work Does Not Fight the Heavy Cut.
Here's our idea of advertising a war weekly. It is from The Movie Fan, the house organ of the Majestic, Grand Junction, Colorado. Of course Mr. Decker has a whole newspaper in which to give his display, and does not have to worry about the cost of space, but we think that even Advertising the Weekly.

Here's our idea of advertising a war weekly. It is from The Movie Fan, the house organ of the Majestic, Grand Junction, Colorado. Of course Mr. Decker has a whole newspaper in which to give his display, and does not have to worry about the cost of space, but we think that even where space rate must be paid. It will be possible to play up the Official War Review. There is no feature in five reels or more that can equal in timely interest these actual pictures from the front. Just because new weeklies have always been regarded as a filler to bring a program up to the necessary length is no reason why they should still be so regarded. Play up the live, vital features of the review and let your drama feature take a back seat for one night. See what happens. You will never change if you write the proper sort of advertisement.

A Front Page Display for a War Film, Taken from a House Organ.

Tarzan and the Hun.

S. Harret McCormick has done some excellent work for "The Romance of Tarzan." He took five fifteen for an advance, the cut showing a jungle scene with one of the "society" pictures for contrast, the two being connected by the silhouette. Having an exceptionally long story to tell, Mr. McCormick starts in with 24 point and works through eighteen and ten point lines to an eight. A portion of the space is used to announce a new conductor for the orchestra. A second Tarzan advertisement is five fulls. Here the same suggestion of jungle and palace is carried out in the sketch, but there is rather less descriptive matter, for this is for the opening, and the groundwork has been laid. The selling is done at the start, and after that it is necessary only to sustain the interest. Here the punch is set in four lines of 24 point. The "Hun Within" opening advertisement takes four fulls, the sketch being shared with the Lassiania picture. This same cut is intertrimmed down to get ten and a half inches. Apparently this use was planned when the original drawing was made.

A Five Fifteens for "The Romance of Tarzan," Which Admirably Suggests the Dual Setting of This Story.

A Four Ten and a Halfs Made from the Larger Cut Shown Above.

The background is the map of the United States, but this does not show as plainly as it might. Mr. McCormick is strong for the second use of cuts, and knows what can be done through cutting down. For that matter even the mat stuff supplied by the variety bureau will often work out well if a little care is used in planning.

Universal Stuff.

Hal Hodes has been emulating our own Walthill and has rambled lately. From Chicago he sent in a page from the Herald-Examiner for "Crashing Through to Berlin." The display was gotten up by the paper's staff. Many, if not all the talk. This is what sold the film to the public, and it is written to sell. The second Vaude is the Sunday directory from a St. Louis paper, in which Mrs. Cornelius, of the Royal, "hogs" the space for her showing of "Her Body in Bond." The entire space is about 18 inches deep.

A Six Eighteens Used by the Motion Picture Theatres of St. Louis. Note How a Single Reverse Cut Dominates the Page.

A Page Space from a Chicago Paper for a Universal Feature.

large western papers, are ready to help advertisers prepare or to prepare for them the larger displays. This one is nicely laid, but the feature is the bank of selling

Two shutdown advertisements from Ezra Rhodes, of South Bend, Ind.

This is our idea of sound, intelligent work. It is from Ezra Rhodes, of South Bend, Ind. Some years ago Mr. Rhodes used to be one of the most valued contributors to this department, but lately we have not heard from him. That he is still at it these samples prove. And he has two houses now. When the influenza shut down his houses, he did not cut down his space. He went right along taking two sixes for each house, one in South
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

December 14, 1918

Bend and the other in Elkhart, and he did not waste his space. Just as before, he advertised to create a demand for pictures. One half of the space was given to large advertisements, and the other half to small.

He kept the desire for pictures. He sharpened the appeal by telling them what they were going to get presently, and he kept this public on edge. This is precisely what we should have done in the case, and Mr. Rhodes is the only man who did it, so far as we know. The Chicago houses kept on with their space in certain papers, but they did not do individual advertising to preserve their desire for ammunition. It's fine work. And we hope that Mr. Rhodes will keep on coming in now that he has found his way.

Profitable Profanity.

L. W. Barclay sends in the advertising he did for "To Hell with the Kaiser" at the Parkview, Johnstown, Pa. He used practically the press work supplied by Metro, but made changes to suit his clientele. The first example shows a three newly remodeled Nemo. Mr. Barclay writes that and all the others in the company were too busy getting the house open on time to give all he wanted to the advertising, but he took three fulls type to make a noise with. He figured that the line up would bring Bolo Pasha would catch even those who did not recall the Cailoux case, and he used it in all his displays, on the front of the building and on slides. The smaller spaces are four twelves and four tens. The smaller is rather bold in appearance, but it was used merely to back up the more talkative display's earlier used. Some of the matinees are off their feet, which gives the production a poor appearance, but the size of these pages on which these spaces appear.

A Four Twelves and a Four Tens Companion to the Above Display.

Christmas for the Kiddies.

Don’t forget to provide a special morning show for the poor children on Christmas day. Just now your house open in a small town. In a suburban or neighborhood house work with the churches or schoolteachers, but plan in some way to make Christmas merry for the children who cannot afford even the small cost of a matinee ticket. You have to sweep out the house before the regular matinees, but it is a small price to pay—just the joy you will bring into shadowed lives.

How About Door Knobs?

What has become of the door knob idea? This is the time of year when the door knob works best. The only door knobs we have seen for a long time were used in the latest Liberty Bonds. And recently the idea was adopted by Goldwyn and offered as something new. They’re useful. Use them.

Watch Everything.

One three dollar a week usher can do your house more harm than half page advertisements can offset. Watch your ushers, too.

Picture Theatre

Advertising

By EYES WINTHROP SARGENT

Conductor of Advertising for Exhibitors in the Moving Picture World

A TEXT BOOK AND A HANDBOOK, a compendium and a guide. It tells all about advertising—about type and type-setting, printing and paper, how to run a house program, how to get your house into your newspaper, advertisements, how to write form letters, posters or throw-aways, how to make your house an advertisement, how to get matinee houses, or any single show, how to hold weather and rainy days. All practical because it is tried. It will help you. By mail, postpaid, $2.00. Order from nearest office.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

516 Fifth Ave, New York

Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill.

Wright & Callender Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

A Four Sevens with a Coupon for Children’s Matinée.

night shows, when the prices were fifteen and twenty cents. Mr. Barclay, for once, had the cuts he needed for the Metro exchange came through with several in addition to the three shown, and he smashed the house record with a four-day run. The same company operates the

A Three Fulls and Two Smaller Spaces for an opening in Johnstown, Pa.

for a chat about the house, and writes that later he will take the Nemo up in greater detail in a series of educational advertisements. The house has been enlarged to seat 1,400. Item one: opening announcement was three fourteen, with three thirteen for the next program. The centre display is unusually good as a patriotic propaganda picture. A four sevens was used for another display which covers the announcement of a social matinee for children, when they were admitted for five cents and the tax in order to leave more room for the adults at the

A Six Fulls in Which Type Is Made to Replace a Lack of Cuts.

The actual printing face of these letters is 3/8 inches high. Ruff could not stills from the Fox exchange, in spite of the appeals he made, not alone this but other Fox releases, and had to turn to The Projection Department
Conducted by F. H. Richardson

Manufacturers' Notice.

T IS an established rule of this department that no goods will be re-dorsed or recommended editorially unless the excellence of such goods has been demonstrated to its editor.

Important Notice.

Owing to the mass of matter awaiting publication, it is impossible to reply through the department in less than two weeks to requests. In all such requests, those sending four cents, stamps (less than actual cost), will receive carbon copy of the department reply, by mail, without delay. Special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in the department are impossible.

Both the first and second sets of questions are now ready and printed in neat bulletin form, the second half being seventy-six in number. Either bulletin may be had by remitting 25 cents, money or stamps, to the editor, or both for 40 cents. No change can be made in stamps.

Suggestions Wanted to Abate a Nuisance.

From (deleted by request) in the state of (deleted by request) comes the following:

Have been subscribers to the World for several years and not having called on you before, I now take the liberty of submitting the following, asking relief from a source of trouble which is a nuisance. This is a railroad town and we are obliged to call train men out of the theatre.

We have been given to understand that it is necessary to make a special slide for each person to be called and very often we are forced to break into the show to call. Since a train man is wanted for this reason, I want the question asked, and that is all there is to it. Could you advise us as to some system which will eliminate the slide call? Some sort of signal which will be easily and quickly changed and read from every part of the house.

An electric sign of some sort is our idea. Any information you can give about this would be most appreciated and will be appreciated by both the writer (house manager) and the theatre.

Comment.

Comments about the situation theatre is in is coming from our own members in various parts of the union. We realize that anything we may do to help solve his own difficulties will help the train men as well.
We are hearing from our readers. One of the tasks of the trainman's existence that he absolutely cannot get anywhere else is too monotonous to the "callers" and yet one in case he is needed. And the caller must be able to got his man without much delay or with, any at all. The train man must "sound the bell" and put the train man in the situation and not wait. An electric sign would be extremely expensive and, I believe, not practical, if by electric sign you mean one which will spell out the letters of the name in lighted bulbs. It could be done, but...

There are, however, a number of entirely practical plans for displaying names on a board, all of which could be used throughout the year.

The most practical and economical of these is a sign which could be used throughout the year and which would not register accurately on low. Have several projects for a sign for a tube screen. Picture is 15 feet, 4 inches. Was using the old haphazard maybe-is-and - make it not less system until he new chart came out in our department about a year and a half ago, whereupon I got busy and say, boy, I thought some one had been monkeying with my rectifiers. Rich, old man, you sure pulled something that time. Why, man, I had to cut down my juice so I wouldn't burn the place up. Took a year to get it straight.
My wage is $18 per for three shows a day, the three shows making a total of 18 rolls. For all over 18 rolls I get 25 cents per reel extra. When we have seven or eight hall programs I get quite a bit overtime. Since Mr. Bartieson's son has gone to war I take care of the outside advertising which adds another few bills to my weekly stipend, so that the total is $100 to $108 per month for a small, small city.
By the way, I have a "Richardson rewinder." Takes 11 minutes to rewind 1,000 feet of film.
Took rewinder which came with Simplex down to the foundry and had two duplicate parts cast. Only to start which goes under the bench is lacking. Had shafts made, got me an old sewing machine with a board on it.
Makes an ideal rewinding table. Next secured a 1,000 r. p. m.
motor, which is belted to my rew-ing machine drive (treadle) wheel, attached to which is small grooved drawing machine wheel. From this I belt to another large grooved wheel on rewinder. This larger wheel makes 40 turns per minute. Believe me it surely do's do the business. Projection room is 14 by 9 feet, with 7-foot, 6-inch ceiling. Have photo I've been intending to send. Too small, yes, but impossible to send. Would send photo of room and rewinder later.

Your rewinder spells common sense. The damage done by careless handling and crooked reels is enormous. Amounts to hundreds of thousands of dollars per year.
And it is all utterly useless and senseless. Glad you have "seen the light" on that proposition. Your wage is good for a small city. I called it. As some men are getting in some quite large places, but that is qualified by the fact that some quite large places have some men who are not worth half what they are getting. Catch them bothering to build a rewinder to eliminate film damage.
Not on your tippytoe! "T hell with that kind of funny business" is the way they say it. Remember, thousands of hours of work into the films that are not being fired, that ends the matter so far as they are concerned.

Have seen the photos, but try and get that of the rewinder close up, so we can see just how it is made.

Devry Projector and Other Things.
J. Franklin Schach, Army Y. M. C. A., writing from Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., says:

Would call attention of projection department readers to recommend-tions of Bernard M. Baruch, Chairman of the Board of War Industries, to projectors, manufacturers, as set forth in Official U. S. Senate Hearings—published in this department.—Ed.) Would also like to get comment on some other things that have used the DeVry portable projector. Will you kindly advise as to the dimensions of the a. c. and d. c. arcs, in watts per c. a., as follows: 50 volt, 40 amper, 60 cycle arc, so volt, 40 ampere rectified a. c. or pulsating d. c. arc.

The recommendations set forth in official statements of the War Industries Board have already been published in this department. Space is too limited to quote them fully. I must have noticed, at least two such overseas projectionists have recently referred favorably to half-chopped wire leads and imperfect war work, particularly where 'shoves' are to be given in several rooms, as of a hospital, daily, or picture thrown on a ceiling so that soldiers may see them while flat on their backs in bed. The DeVry is a very practical machine, within its limitations. It is not intended for the are work or for the projection of anything but a single twelve-foot picture. It cannot give good results on anything larger than an 8- by 10-inch projection. It is a very fine little dark room, and to get really good results on a ten-foot a semi-reflective screen must be used (according to the manufacturer). It is the d. c. arc which is 50 volt and the a. c. arc is less than 40. Taking a normal 40 ampere a. c., 60 cycle arc, the material, current through an economizer, and a 50 volt, 30 ampere d. c. arc, taking current through a less than 40 cycle arc. A teacher, the item of money in current consumption would probably be $0.005 (Professor of Electricity) largely on the side of the a. c., but the economy as it affects the man in charge of the machine, may be considered, as: Have we under consideration a mere machine operator, or a man in charge of the machine who is a business man, and is able to make the most of the power he is using? With poor conditions, you are doing a business by not using an efficient carbon setting, and the man is in charge that would be an 'operator'; you are doing a business by not using expensive carbon setting, and the man that would do the work is in charge of the business. With those things O. K., but with wrong distance from condenser to lamp, and from lamp to plane of aperture, with wrong distance of revolving shutter, from aperture, hence inability to reduce its cutting power, projecting in two different dimensions, and, possibly, in addition to all that, wrong condenser combination, he may be able to make an economical percentage of his power.

You will therefore see how impossible it is to get in our department a plain answer, without full knowledge of the electrical and optical lining up of each individual machine. I hold the opinion of something many believe it to be. Most anything will place some sort of result on the screen. If you ask for a good screen, but get a really good screen result, but to project twice the necessary electrical power in each case, and to cut the cost of the screen on the part of the man in charge. I can give three different men your three propositions, and have them have and find, as a result, an approximately equal result on the screen. Your propositions all hang on the degree of accurate knowledge the man who is to handle the current has on the electrical handling of the projection arc and on the optics of the projection machine.

Canada and the Disabled.

This department is in receipt of the following interesting communication from W. W. Oswald, of the Board of Motion Picture Control, Ottawa, Canada, which also acts as examining board for projectionists. In reading this, bear in mind that we are fortunate in that W. W. Oswald is a modest man. In addressing his letter he looks like an ex-Hughes editor.

"Dear Friend Richardson: It is a little more than eighteen months since you visited our city, reviewing our drooping spirits with your wonderful pictures. The high voltage results of which I had so much to thank for in your visit. I am glad to say, are today in evidence in almost every projection room in Canada. If we have other projectionists, such as yourself, I am sure there are many more of the projectionists who have benefited by your visit.

"I note, October 5 issue of the "World," that you, as a nation, are beginning to experience the wonders of projection.

Our own country has been confronted with that problem for nearly four years, and throughout the Vocational Training Department of the Board (Union), Re-establishment Division, co-ordination with projectionists, of the various colleges of the country, is accomplishing wonders in the training of those who desire to take the place of projectionists in an ever-increasing demand for projectionists. Among others, we have had a large number of returned men are enrolled, among whom are five or six forming a group of their own bidding, and who are, with one equal number waiting to take up the trade. Our own country, some time since, has been working in the basic principles of electricity, mechanics and optics in the lecture rooms, as well as practical working in the machine shops and electrical laboratories of the University, supplemented by work in printing projection, and work under capable projectionists. This course is so planned by the professors in conjunction with the projectionists, that the men, all of whom are willing and anxious to develop in their new profession, will be real projectionists. The local union has taken charge of their training in practical projection work, not only the men doing their very best by the students, who spend from four to six hours in projection rooms with them. It is the idea of the professor in charge that the students will become good all around men, and will enter the local union on a basis which will allow them to carry out their obbligation as professional men. The men of the local are standing behind the students, and are pushing them with a conviction that the time is necessary to secure a first-class license in this province. We expect to receive the first license from one of a veteran before long. Here's to his success!

"Speaking of projection, we had a visit from one of your pictures, Mr. Dickinson, formerly with L. T. Gardner, of Detroit, now projection expert for the Pennie Electric Company. He advised us he had been hearing of the improved projection due to our examination, also that you had advised him to look up "Electricity in Projection," and see the cause thereof for himself. He was so impressed at the examination room just as an applicant had left, that he believes that he was somewhat taken back with electricity, and the paraphernalia.

He expressed himself as greatly pleased.

"Discouraging examinations, I am on my own ground, and since your letter in speech to the Projectionists' Union, I have been doing a lot of looking after the man of another standard. I have had high grade theatres, high grade projectionists, high grade projection rooms, high grade projection equipment. Still, we have not the high value of everything that happens with a colloquial phrase, up against it, and much to do. Do you think another could, by mutual agreement with our parties concerned, be a standard established for Class A or Class C. A Class A projectionist, whereby the men of the class A examination, and the examination required by firststandard union council can be entitled to work anywhere in the United States, and have no re-examination being required should he go from province to province, another? I am not asking this question because we have a Class A grade examination in Ontario. There, we have not, and that in order to turn out standard men, quite a number of examinations were held. Our own country has been confronted with that problem for nearly four years, and throughout the Vocational Training Department of the Board of Union, Re-establishment Division, co-ordination with projectionists, of the various colleges of the country, is accomplishing wonders in the training of those who desire to take the place of projectionists in an ever-increasing demand for projectionists. Among others, we have had a large number of returned men are enrolled, among whom are five or six forming a group of their own bidding, and who are, with one equal number waiting to take up the trade. Our own country, some time since, has been working in the basic principles of electricity, mechanics and optics in the lecture rooms, as well as practical working in the machine shops and electrical laboratories of the University, supplemented by work in printing projection, and work under capable projectionists. This course is so planned by the professors in conjunction with the projectionists, that the men, all of whom are willing and anxious to develop in their new profession, will be real projectionists. The local union has taken charge of their training in practical projection work, not only the men doing their very best by the students, who spend from four to six hours in projection rooms with them. It is the idea of the professor in charge that the students will become good all around men, and will enter the local union on a basis which will allow them to carry out their obbligation as professional men. The men of the local are standing behind the students, and are pushing them with a conviction that the time is necessary to secure a first-class license in this province. We expect to receive the first license from one of a veteran before long. Here's to his success!

"I was much pleased to see one of our British Columbia Board of Trade department columns recently with a well written and thoughtful letter. It does one good to see men trying to get ahead in their profession; also it makes one think that perhaps, even after being called all kinds of names for offering an examination which made the old-timers sit up and gasp, that it was really worth while. As for the Canadian Censor, I have culled my opinion on the subject of the standard for projectionists; also would like to hear the opinion of a man with a similar interest. I hope I have not overtaxed your time and patience with this letter.

E. L. Assistant Censor and Inspector."

No, neighbor Oswald, neither time nor patience could you or any of the "worth while" ones. It comes from a man who not only backs up theory with actual practice, but works closely together with his colleagues of the British Columbia Board, has blamed the path which others have taken, and soon or later must travel. I repeat, so far as I know, that the Vancouver exhibition of last fall was far and most rigid in its requirements of knowledge on part of applicants for license of any kind I know of. New York City and Boston are very poor seconds. I cannot spare space to comment on... of gasoline into bearings to clean them out. Second, a block of steel, 3½ inches long by 3½-inch square, with a deep hole one-half inch in diameter in one end and a slot, beveled at its ends, in the other. This really takes some doing and replacing pins in intermittent sprockets or other shafts; prevents springing them. Third, a steel rod 7 inches long by three-sixteenth inch in diameter, knurled to afford grip, and split for ½ inch at each end. There is a remarkable tempering effect by squeezing the ends together and thrusting them into the slot of a small screw it is held in. But, however, some 70 feet, ½-inch objective. Condensers set apart as per instructions. We have a smaller one to show up at center of screen and wider at sides. Raising or lowering lamp raises and lowers ghost. We close closer. When center is off screen, closer it is, the larger the ghost. We are unable to get the ghost out by any adjustment of condensers, lamp or lamp house.

Your ghost is most likely a photograph of your arc. That you have it in focus at film plain is proven by the fact that when you move lamp house ahead ghost becomes round—you get into the center of ghost and out of the beam. In my opinion your trouble lies in spacing of condensers, which will be set with one-sixteenth inch of each other, plus possibly a too-short distance from condenser to lamp. I think your trouble is that you really ought to have for 60 amperes a c. According to the new charts, soon to be published, the correct is two 6-inch plano convex condenser lenses, set with their apexes not to exceed one-sixteenth inch apart, and it should be a trifle more than 18½ inches from center of condenser combination to film. If you use meniscus bi-convex, then you want one 6½ and one 8½ inches, with a trifle more than 21 inches from center of condenser to film. If this does not clean up on 60 am-peres. It won't be correct for any other amperage, except that a reasonable variation either way won't seriously affect results, say from 57 to 63. I am of the opinion, and have heard the contrary, that your lamp has not quite enough angle, or that your upper carbon has not quite enough advantage. Your words your upper carbon crater is not facing the lens, and so forth. Please advise as to results. If you have room, your lamp house far enough back, then it is up to you to supply you with longer rods. Distance from condenser to film is important.

Quite Ghostly.

J. B. Jenkins, U. S. Navy, writing from Cambridge, Mass., says:

"Will you be good enough to give me your opinion as to what is wrong. Following are data. Projector—Boston Type 11-30. Wire use 60 amperes; current, a. c., through Bell and Howell inductor-compensator. Lamp—400, 500, 600 watt, 350, 450, 550 ampere, 100 ampere, 2000 ampere, 60 ampere. Condensers, clean and tight. ½-inch carbons. Don't think trouble is in lamp or lamp house, as there have been no connection between condensers to film is 17 inches. With lamp house closer we get a little closer to center when off screen, closer it is, the larger the ghost. We are unable to get the ghost out by any adjustment of condensers, lamp or lamp house."

Your ghost is most likely a photograph of your arc. That you have it in focus at film plain is proven by the fact that when you move lamp house ahead ghost becomes round—you get into the center of ghost and out of the beam. In my opinion your trouble lies in spacing of condensers, which will be set with one-sixteenth inch of each other, plus possibly a too-short distance from condenser to lamp. I think your trouble is that you really ought to have for 60 amperes a c. According to the new charts, soon to be published, the correct is two 6-inch plano convex condenser lenses, set with their apexes not to exceed one-sixteenth inch apart, and it should be a trifle more than 18½ inches from center of condenser combination to film. If you use meniscus bi-convex, then you want one 6½ and one 8½ inches, with a trifle more than 21 inches from center of condenser to film. If this does not clean up on 60 am-peres. It won't be correct for any other amperage, except that a reasonable variation either way won't seriously affect results, say from 57 to 63. I am of the opinion, and have heard the contrary, that your lamp has not quite enough angle, or that your upper carbon has not quite enough advantage. Your words your upper carbon crater is not facing the lens, and so forth. Please advise as to results. If you have room, your lamp house far enough back, then it is up to you to supply you with longer rods. Distance from condenser to film is important.

Extremely Punk.

Recently the editor was summoned to a theater in Chicago which the manager and was engaged, in a professional capacity, to examine into the projection trouble. A found circle of light on the front wall of auditorium, same surrounding picture completely. The circle did not show in fadeout, or when dark title was in, which proved it to be in the lens itself. In the lens a part. Found black coating of barrel which had not undergone its repainting. Projectionists Topping did so many sad jobs that it was also advised other changes in the theatre, and both Topping and the manager were as satisfied as a patient and up. Electrode alterations could work such (their own words) wonderful improvement. The theatre is on Atlantic avenue, about 100.

Analysis of Gasoline Engine

The Lucus Products Company, Chicago, has forwarded sample of its "Lucus Four" for projectionists, consisting of the following elements: 1. Motor, 2. Fuel system, 3. Ignition system, 4. Carrying case. First, a well-made, all-metal carriage, calibrated all over. It has a force pump, designed to force oil or grease into the intermittent oil well or force a powerful, small steam

Rear Projection

The Aetna Explosives Company asks information about the practicability of projection from the rear, through transparent screen. Rear projection through a properly made transparent screen is, from many points of view, ideal, provided the distance from the screen to projection, or the picture small enough that a projection lens of less than 4, or as an outside limit, 3 ½ inches E. F. will not be required. With conditions requiring a lens of shorter F. P. than that I would not advise the attempt.
Close Attention to Small Details
Makes for Stronger Picture Presentation

LOOKING backward over the road traveled by the art of picture playing, we are surprised many times by the seeming indifference to detail which prevailed in the earlier days. We can hardly understand in our present enlightenment why we so foolishly fitted the scenic roles for Cairo and its Egyptian splendor. It seems impossible that we used "Hearts and Flowers" for every grievous movement in flesh and blood, yet such was the case. Agitation of mind, matter or morals invariably called forth Agitato No. I from the top shelf of the library; speed of any kind was portrayed by the use of a hurry. We don't deny it, for only by our mistakes can we learn.

The rapid advancement in the profession of fitting the features has made careful discrimination an important factor in the portrayal of picture emotions. The general trend of photoplay plots are only held back scenes when the musical setting may be closer knit together after the details have been considered.

Points arise regarding atmosphere, variety, temp, and color that call for argument and accurate decision. No longer do we hear from the lips of good fiddlers the "our audience." "Does it fit the scene in every particular?" That is the paramount question. If it does, the audience will be" in every direction. As long as the world lasts, dancing will play its part in the entertainment of the populace. The graceful undulations of the body to a rhythmic melody satisfies the fastidious fancies of eye and ear, if both be synchronously performed. Many dancing scenes occur in pictures and as there are diverse forms of the terpsichorean art, the music for the accompaniment must be carefully chosen. Should the dance be a Grecian classic, Apache music would never convey the proper rhythm — yet it has been attempted, either through ignorance or negligence — and vice versa, an Apache dance would be incongruous with any other music than that written for it. Spanish dances must have habanera style and a waltz will not fit a scene when people are fox-trotting. These may seem "mere details," but it is the attention to "mere details" that makes for proper presentation.

In the fitting of scenes depicting grief, "the old order changed." There are degrees of sorrow, ranging from the sad to the melancholy, and the musical accompaniment must be proportionate to the anguish of a mother bereft of her only son. It seems hardly necessary to caution musical directors against the use of Godard's "Adagio Pathetique" to fit the former, but it has been done. In analyzing the situation, the only reason seems to have been the fondness of the musician for the piece and the fact that it seemed suitable for grief. Had he used it for the other instance, there might have been less censure, but still it would fail short of the mark of precise picture fitting. It is much too serious for the cheerful and not "wailing" enough for the mother.

An arranger must be able to visualize himself in the emotion of sorrow to the degree depicted in the scene. When he feels as the actor feels, he will know the music that describes his sensation. Human nature is largely the same in the case of the arranger. It is by no means splitting hairs that he gives forth will naturally be accepted by his auditors in the same spirit and to the same degree. This holds true not only in the emotion of sorrow, but in all primary emotions.

Atmospheric pictures call for much discrimination in their music selection. The color, the mood, the music that has been used for scenes or actions occurring in Japan. No longer is this permissible for the patrons know the difference. Many compositions written by those who have never studied the Chinese music, are used to convey atmosphere. If possible, it is wise to abstain from using anything that is not authentic or correct in its melody and harmonization.

Original music as a large class might be used in adapting situations found in New Hebrides, but, if care for detail be observed, search should be made for something less Eastern and more western. It is by no means splitting hairs to say that East Indian and American Indian music is entirely different in form and rhythm, yet it is difficult to scientifically explain these differences. Nevertheless, if one is our guide and to scenes in Bombay with "From an Indian Lodge" may MacDonald result in a confusion of ideas in the minds of "paid admissions."

Surface fitting is no longer tolerated by the educated picture fans, and the musicians must take more pains, give greater thought, and scrutinize more closely than ever before. Given a scene to which the music must first determine its relation to those foregone. He must decide what dominant emotion prevails and fix the degree of that emotion by mental concentration and visualization. The atmosphere of "location" must be maintained at all times, lest through poor perspicacity he carry his people with him of a scene and land them somewhere in Russia, among the Bolsheviki.

Pictures can no longer be fitted in a "general way" with good results, and the musical director who takes his work seriously readily understands the significance of close attention to detail.

Rialto Sets New Musical Standard.

We all have wished for riches; the reasons for our longing being manifold. We have wished for wealth to protect them from work, while others see all around them opportunities to lighten the load of their fellowmen. Our personal and particular reason for desiring money at this moment — and for the time being — is prompted by truly altruistic motives. We would like to invite and bring every exhibitor in America and his musical director to see and hear the Rialto performance of this week.

There is not a weak spot in the entire bill and the musical presentation is superb. The "Schottische Hungarian Rhapsody" by Liszt furnishes a wonderful overture. Conducted by Hugo Riesenfeld with the famous Bela Nyary playing the piano, no better rendition has ever been offered to the music-loving public. The Rialto Symphony Orchestra is always at its best in works which call forth nuances of peculiar timbre.

Gladys Rice, soprano, sang in costume "Till I Wake," one of the well-known Indian Love Lyrics by Amy Woodford-Findlen. It was pleasing. The orchestra was not restrained enough in volume and frequently overshadowed the singer.

Two important words in the musical lexicon of picture playing signify the function of the accompaniment used for the pictorial-Sound. Anybody, Mr. Rothapfel does not believe in playing the entire review by means of marches, and his staff of arrangers have given us many many and well-known songs, the significance of which is strong. He used "Billy Magee, McGaw," "The Soldier's Farewell," "The Stein Song," "Landscape," "The Singing" by Elgar. Thus variety of color is maintained with additional piquancy.

Mr. Riesenfeld came back to conduct the "Credo" from "Otello" sung by Vincente Ballester. We know the aria well and have frequently heard it sung by eminent baritones under the baton of famous maestros, but never have we heard a rendition which excelled that offered at the Rialto. Mr. Ballester has a good voice, splendid appearance and knows what he is singing about. Not only that, but his portrayal of the part was conveyed unmistakably to his auditors. Mr. Riesenfeld was at home in the score and seemed to take keen enjoyment from his meritorious work.

The feature as usual received a carefully thought-out setting and the synchrony was perfect. From week to week, the theatres presided over by Mr. Rothapfel provide a standard form of entertainment unsurpassed anywhere in the country, and every producer, exchange manager, exhibitor and musical director should make it a point to visit these "temples of the motion picture."
CUE SHEETS FOR CURRENT FILMS

“King of Diamonds, The.”
Released by Vitagraph—Five Reels.
Prepared by S. M. Berg.

THEME—Adagietto...Moderate...Berge
1. AT SCREENING...THEME
1 min.
2. T. PRETTY, YES I SUPPOSE...The Dawn of Love...Bendix
2 min. 2 Allegretto Moderato.
3. D. WHEN TRAGEDY MARKS TIME...Valise Moderne...Rosen
1 min. 13 sec. 2 Allegretto Lento.
4. T. IT’S A NASTY CUT, OLD...Dialogue...Meyer-Heimnd
2 min. 15 sec. 2 Andante con Moto.
5. T. THE END OF AN EVENING...THEME
2 min. 30 sec.
6. T. FETTERED...May Dreams...Borch
2 min. 30 sec. 2 Moderato.
7. D. WHEN DOCTOR EXAMINES...GLI-VER
1 min. 15 sec.
8. D. WHEN DOCTOR EXAMINES...Dramatic Tension No. 36,
1 min. 45 sec. 2 Andante
9. T. THE KING DIAMOND CLAIMS...Babbillage...Castillo
1 min. 15 sec. Allegretto Moderato.
10. T. I’VE BEEN TRICKED...Tragic Theme...Vely
2 min. 30 sec.
11. T. SO UNDER THE NAME OF KING-THEME
2 min. 15 sec.
12. T. SO PASS FIVE YEARS INTO...Andante Doloroso No. 51,
2 min. 15 sec. 2 Borch
13. T. WIDCH STORIES OF HIS VAST...Capricious Annette...Borch
3 min. 45 sec. 2 Moderato.
14. T. THE MEETING...Dramatic Tension...Levy
1 min. 15 sec.
15. T. IT’S NOTHING, I FEEL...Divine Valse...Rosset
3 min. 30 sec. 2 Moderato.
16. T. THE DAY OF REBUTION...Dramatic Andante No. 24,
3 min. 2 Borch
17. T. KING DIAMOND CLAIMS...THEME
1 min.
18. T. I MAY BE ABLE TO AID YOU...Au Matin...Gottard
2 min. 15 sec.
19. T. 920...Dainty Doffelkis...Miles
2 min. 15 sec. 2 Moderato.
20. T. I’M SORRY THE DOCTOR IS...Andante Pathetique No. 23,
2 min. 30 sec. 2 Borch
21. T. WHEN KATE TURNS OUT LIGHT...Gruense Mystioso No. 31,
2 min. 2 Borch
22. T. MRS. TARRIANO IS DOCTOR...Dramatic Tension No. 61,
1 min. 15 sec. 2 Borch
23. T. JEWEL, I LOVE YOU...THEME
2 min. 45 sec.
24. T. DR. TARRIANO, MR. BENNETT...Dramatic Finale No. 63,Smith
1 min.
25. CHARACTER...Dramatic.
ATMOSHERE...American, African Society.
MECHANICAL EFFECTS...Phone bell, glass crash, water
SPECIAL EFFECTS...Auto, shot.
DIRECT CUES...None.
REMARKS...Particularly note effects as suggested.

“Love Swindle, The.”
Released by Universal—Five Reels.
Prepared by J. C. Bradford.

THEME—If You Look in Her Eyes...Moderate...Hirsch
1. AT SCREENING...Dance of the Debuitantes...
2 min. 45 sec. Allegretto.
2. T. WALTZ TROTWELL...Sounds from England...Langey
2 min. 2 Moderate.
3. T. NIGHT BELL...Mock Morris...Grainger
2 min. 15 sec. 2 Allegro.
4. D. DIANA SPEES MEN...Tempest...Lake
1 min. 45 sec. Allegro.
5. T. RICHARD WEBSTER...Purissine No. 1...Langey
2 min. 30 sec. Allegro.
6. D. DIANA BENDS OVER RICHARD-THEME
1 min. 45 sec.
7. D. SUNRISE OVER THE HILLS...Valse Fantastique...Evile
2 min. 45 sec. Allegro.
8. T. SILENCE...N’Everything...Jolson
1 min. 30 sec. 2 Moderate.
9. THE CITY CLUB...When You Come Back...Prey
1 min. 15 sec. Allegro.
10. T. DEMONSTRATION...Balladine...Gillett
1 min. 45 sec. Allegro.
11. T. WHERE THERE’S A WILL...THEME
2 min. 30 sec.
12. T. A NEW ARRIVAL...Canzonetta...Herbert
1 min. 45 sec.
13. T. I HAVE A PRIVATE...Gondolier...Moszkowsky
1 min. 15 sec. Allegretto.

CUE SHEETS FOR CURRENT FILMS

December 14, 1918

14. T. PLAYING BOTH ENDS...Intemeto...Azrasky
2 min. Allegro.
15. D. HURRYING IN CAR...Purissine No. 11...Kleefert
1 min. 45 sec. Vivo.
16. D. RICHARD AND DIANA ON SOFA...THEME
2 min.
17. T. FOLLOW THAT CAR...It’s a Pippin...Notman
2 min. 15 sec. Moderato.
18. T. SAY, WHAT’S THAT GUY?...Agitate No. 6...Kleefert
1 min. 30 sec. 2 Allegro.
19. D. DIANA AND OLD VIOLINIST...Serenade...Moszkowsky
1 min. 15 sec. Allegretto Moderato.
20. T. SENSIATIONAL NEWS...Pasegled...Delbou
1 min. 45 sec. Allegro.
21. D. POLICE STATION...Whispering Willows...Herbert
2 min. 30 sec. Allegretto.
22. T. MR. AND MRS. R. WEBSTER...THEME
2 min. 30 sec.
23. T. DIANA ENTERS HOUSE...Tarantella...Bohm
3 min. Allegro.
24. T. YOU DAMN BURGLAR...Hurry No. 1...Langey
1 min. 15 sec. Allegro.
25. T. THEN I AM NOT ARRESTED...THEME
1 min. 45 sec.
CHARACTER...Dramatic.
ATMOSHERE...Neutral.

“Mating, The.”
Released by Vitagraph—Five Reels.
Prepared by S. M. Berg.

THEME—Kathleen...Valise Lento...Berge
1. AT SCREENING...THEME
2 min. 45 sec.
2. T. DICK IVE'S, AUTHOR...Mimi...Leigh
2 min. 30 sec. Allegro Moderato.
3. T. THE NEW ARRIVAL...Young April...Cobb
2 min. 45 sec. Moderato.
4. D. WHEN DICK OPENS SHUTTERS...Jasmine...Kretschmer
3 min.
5. T. SAY, M—MISTER MAN, I...THEME
3 min. 15 sec.
6. T. COME OUT, GOLDARN YE...Iris...Reynard
2 min. 45 sec. Moderato Grazioso.
7. PLEASE DON’T BE MAD, I...THEME
3 min. 45 sec. Allegro Moderato.
8. T. I HOPE YOU WIN IT...A Southern Reverie...Bendix
2 min. 45 sec.
9. T. WITH NOTHING IN THE HOUSE...The Yankee Girl...Teobol
2 min. 45 sec. Allegro Caprice.
10. T. AFTER DINNER...The Witching Hour...Herrick
3 min. 30 sec. Doloroso.
11. T. MR. FANE, SURELY YOU'RE...Aramansbury...Gilder
2 min. Allegro Moderato.
12. T. IN THE MIDDLE OF THE NIGHT...Mystioso Dramatic No. 61,
5 min. 1 Borch
13. T. AND WHEN MORNING COMES...Andante Dramatic No. 62,
3 min. 45 sec. 2 Borch
14. T. IT IS NATURAL THAT IN HER...THEME
1 min. 15 sec.
15. D. WHEN BOONE RECEIVES...Antarita...Mildeburgh
4 min. Internazzione Andante.
16. D. WHEN NANCY GOES SHOPPING...Finch...Finch
3 min. 30 sec. Allegro Moderato.
17. T. HE’S A BIG ROBBER...Dramatic Tension No. 9,
1 min. 45 sec. Allegro.
18. D. WHEN BILLY CALLS US...CONSTABLE...Vivo Finale...
3 min. 45 sec. Borge
19. T. THE HEARING...Love’s Return...Eills
3 min. 15 sec. 2 Sheerwood.
20. T. SO ANOTHER DAY FINDS DICK...Fleur de Lis...Dillea
2 min. 2 Moderato.
21. D. WHEN BOAT ENTERS WATER...Agitato No. 48...Shepherd
2 min. 15 sec.
22. T. HURRY THE DOCTOR...Hurry No. 33...Minot
1 min. 15 sec.
23. D. WHEN DICK IS PICKED UP...Andante Doloroso...Burch
1 min. 15 sec.
24. T. WHERE IS HE, WHERE IS SHE...Dramatic Tension No. 64...Borch
2 min. 30 sec.
25. T. AND SO THE LITTLE GIRL...THEME
1 min.
26. T. OF COURSE IT WAS DOWN...Farries’ Greeting...Red
2 min. 2 Moderato con Moto.
27. T. NANCY I KNOW YOU DID IT...THEME
2 min.
CHARACTER...Comedy.
ATMOSHERE...Southern.
MECHANICAL EFFECTS...Boister Crowing, sneeze, train, water, horses’ hoofs.
SPECIAL EFFECTS...None.
DIRECT CUES...None.
REMARKS...Give special attention to mechanical effects.
Rock Me to Sleep" Womanly in Tone.

"Backward, turn backward, O, Time, you old thief!
Make me a child again;
Just for to-night!"

There comes a time in the life of each individual when cares and responsibilities assume such gigantic proportions that the weight of them is greater than the strength of the spirit. Then we long to shift the burden of life elsewhere, and try to avoid the pain of the echoes of the above verse.

It chances that but a few of our characteristically American songs have been written by women. "Rock Me to Sleep" has been referred to again and again as deserving of the term "womanine" in its sentiment, and it chanced to be a woman who was responsible for the words of the "Nightingale."

Elizabeth Allen, who long wrote under the nom de plume of Florence Percy, was born in Strong, Maine, in 1833. In early womanhood, she married Paul Allen, a sculptor, but he died within a year of their wedding. Later, she became the wife of E. M. Allen, of New York, for several years she made her home in Portland, Maine.

While traveling in Italy, she wrote a little poem entitled "Rock Me to Sleep. This she sent to the Philadelphia Satur-day Review, which published it, and became immensely popular. Indeed, it appealed so strongly to the public that, within a few years, it was being numbered among persons of both sexes, so closely identified themselves with the poem that they succeeded in identifying even themselves, seemingly, that they had written the song. Some drew so intimate a parallel between the womanly in the situation that had given rise to the inspiration.

Rudyard Kipling, of Boston, who published it to an air composed by Ernest LeSueur, acknowledged that he had never heard the song before, but was naturally much pleased with the financial success of the little poem, and had the audacity to send a message to Mrs. Allen offering to pay her five dollars a piece for as many songs as she should write for them; providing, of course, that the said songs should prove as popular as the one already in their possession. So great was the vogue of the "Nightingale," that the time that it was translated into practically all the modern languages of the world, and was never considered her best work.

As might be supposed, just at the time, the absurd offer did not appeal very strongly to Mrs. Allen. She would not permit one the privilege of insisting upon adequate return for service given, and, having been most kindly treated, she found herself a homeless widow with two children to support. She recalled the offer of the publishers, and the paltry five dollars were magnified into a very desirable sum of money. She accordingly sent to the Russian Company a little song. It was promptly returned with the curt information that they had made no provision for the performance of the song, and had not the funds to do it at all. Mrs. Allen, in her answer, made mention of the song that had caused the Russian Company to refuse her offer.

The poem, during the height of its popularity, was set to music by over thirty different composers. But Mrs. Allen always strongly opposed the practice of any which was the one sung in the camps and popular everywhere.

The song, which we are best acquainted at the present time is by J. Max Mueller. He came to the United States in 1814 as a lad of ten years old in the Civil War enlisted and served bravely through several battles in the Army of the Potomac. He has since sung a large number of pieces of music while in the field of action, and so closely identified Red Peter with his own spirit of patriotism and progress that the fact of his foreign birth has been practically forgotten.

When one has read the life of Mrs. Allen at the time when her little poem was having such a vogue, with such a flow of care and sorrow and no monetary appreciation for her literary efforts—when a small and well-deserved return from heriet work was such an unquestionable right—it was small wonder that her thoughts drifted back to her young days. And then the burden of life became practically immaterial, and she should long for the irresponsible joys of childhood, and she wrote:

"I have grown weary of dust and decay; Weary of the way. Weary of sorrow for reaps. Rock me to sleep, mother! Rock me to sleep!"

Grand Opera Music at the Rivoli.

Lovers of grand opera music constituted the greater part of the audience at the Metropolitan during the week beginning November 24. The feature was "My Cousin," Enrico Caruso's first screen production. Several other features that Caruso were would contain many grand opera numbers, and, in this respect, the audience was taken care of.

The overture was "Fantasie," from I. Pagliacci, conducted by Erno Rápe. We have heard much more familiar an orchestra is with a selection the more careless is its rendition. And the reason for this is that the orchestra merely labored hard enough, but his efforts were in vain. The orchestra simply would not seem to sense the measures.

Miss Annie Rosner sang the "Bird Song," from I. Pagliacci, excellently, and the sheet music suggests it was artistically rendered by Vincente Ballester. Both singers were dressed in costume, and the picture was contributed to the atmosphere desired. The artists received an ovation, and could have responded to the demands, for the more had the roles of the Rivoli permitted.

The musical setting for the Animated Pictorial was excellent and as inspiring as usual.

For the feature a number of Italian Folk Songs, Nevin's "A Day in Venice" and a number of large operatic, and many popular songs were used to fit the scenes. In this picture, Mr. Caruso is shown several times singing in a chord, and the orchestra followed him in perfect synchrony, and the effect was so realistic that we had to draw upon our imagination to believe the line notes of this splendid tenor float from the screen to us in the audience. But there were a number of times when it was fortunate for the orchestra that Mr. Caruso could not become animated with their music, for it is a story that do not do violence to someone for the careless manner in which some of the big numbers were played.

As a breathing spell between the feature and the comedy the orchestra played Lancer's "Selection of Italian Folk Songs." These characteristic songs were superbly rendered, but they lost much of their intrinsic value, as a number of them had been previously played on the program.

The comedy, "Whose Little Wife Are You," was adapted from the plays of the day, while the organ solo, always good, closed the bill.

Comparisons are odious, and it is beyond comprehension how an orchestra and an orchestra with one at the Metropolitan. That is one danger in playing opera in the music of the orchestra. For some reason the Rivoli orchestra did not have the same effect of the bill on the night we saw it. We shall maintain until the last that it is a mistake to try to turn and to glower at any one in the audience even if some old lady does get a bit garulous and unfortunately try to outdo the music. Of course, such a situation is trying on the nerves of the long-suffering music critic. But of course, it can be depended upon to quell the disturbance.

Music at Regent Theatre in Toronto.

As soon as we arrived in Toronto, our enthusiastic tone toward the natural inclinations impelled us to note the latest in picture presentation. Being told that the latest in music for pictures, we paid it a visit, and were delightedly surprised at the program.

The overture rendered by a twenty-two-piece orchestra consisted of selections from the Highborne, and was conducted by Mr. J. John Arthur, it was brilliantly executed. The orchestra played together with force, and the arrangement proved specially strong both in technique and quality.

Following the overture, "Huglies of Red Gap." This picture deals in dignified compositions of music while the music fitted the scenes admirably. There was a background of atmosphere or syncopation, and the light interlude, waltzes and two-steps seemed appropriate.

Frank Blessinger, a tenor of pure lyric quality, sang some popular songs with much gusto. His choice of such songs as "Smiles" seemed to lower the dignity of the Highbrowed music of the earlier portion of the program, and we question its wisdom if provided as a regular diet. The singers had a tendency toward the platitude, because of the response to encores. In the best theatres no encores are permitted, as it threatens the whole performance. There is no house into a concert hall. Soloists are for the purpose of resting the eye and draining off the atmosphere. If encores are necessary, therefore, their songs should be short and suggestive of the entre or apogee of the feature.

The pictorial review was well fitted by the orchestra, while the Oriental scenes occurred, and the music was well adapted. For almost a week the orchestra had played in location, and the music and its arrangement had a great deal of atmosphere and were ever ready for the harmony of the day.

John Arthur, the genial musical director, has had full charge of the music for the Regent. Since its opening over two years ago, and has built for himself and his orchestra a reputation that is enviable. It firmly believes in the great songs, and future playing and the responsibility involved therein.

"My Cousin" playing is only in its early infancy," he said, "and we may look forward to some wonderful strides in raising the level of the music. We hope some come when music scores will accompany every picture and unimportant flashes will be struck by the magnetic power of the close co-operation between picture directors and musical arrangers. Three languages are already spoken by the music, and a smooth performance becomes almost impossible.

Director Arthur will try to get together a Picture Playing Club in Toronto to keep pace with Cleveland and Toledo. Every city needs a fraternal association of this kind for mutual encouragement and protection, and, as usual, Toronto is close to the head of the procession.

W. H. Elliott, the managing director of the Rivoli, told us that the best evidence of silence during the screening of pictures, and exhort his audience by it. "I have known," he said, "to consider the pleasure of their neighbor and refrain from speaking the title of the picture at all. The length of time has had the Regent tastefully decorated, and every comfort is provided for the patrons. Director Arthur will try to get together a Picture Playing Club in Toronto to keep pace with Cleveland and Toledo. Every city needs a fraternal association of this kind for mutual encouragement and protection, and, as usual, Toronto is close to the head of the procession.

Mendoza Conductor Master at the Rivoli.

J. A. F. de Mendoza, the brilliant violinist who occupied the chair of second conductor master of the Rialto Orchestra during the last season, was once again at the Rivoli as first conductor master, taking the place made vacant by the resignation of Mr. Paul. He is known to many friends at the Rialto, and has proven worthy of the promotion accorded him.
WE FURNISH
Musical Service
High-Grade Printing
Legible Copying
Fine Autographing
Musical Scores
Pasted and Printed
MUSICAL NUMBERS ARRANGED
for Band or Orchestra
CALL, WRITE OR PHONE
CHARLES GREINERT
306 West 48th Street  New York

EXHIBITORS
If you want a real picture organist or pianist, write us. Endorsed by biggest exhibitors East and West.
PROFESSIONAL SCHOOL
of PICTURE PLAYING
Strand Theatre  Los Angeles

AMERICAN
Fotoplayer
(Trade Mark Registered)
The Musical Marvel  Write for Catalogue
AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO.
62 West 46th Street  New York City

SEND IN YOUR SUBSCRIPTION NOW FOR
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD
presenting
MUSIC FOR THE PICTURES
A Real Music Service to the Leader
CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO.
516 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK

Announcement
of the Music Service Exchange
507 Fifth Avenue, New York

ITS POLICY
We do not and will not publish any music nor ally ourselves with any publisher. Service is our middle name and we serve to please.

ITS PURPOSE
We will select or buy music of all kinds from any publisher for the benefit of musicians who cannot come to New York or for those who through lack of time cannot write for small orders to many and various firms. For this service we charge no fee.

ITS OPERATION
Send us your order for music with a deposit cheque, showing good faith, and we will procure your music from the various publishing houses, ship it as one consignment on the same date of receipt of the order, charging you the usual retail price less your deposit.

ITS MEANING TO YOU
Quick action, accuracy in filling your order, a retail store at your door, a saving of carfares and postage and a service that you have long needed.

EXHIBITORS—
Avail yourself of this opportunity to build up a musical library for your theatre.

LEADERS—
Send in your lists of music wanted. If suggested in any cue-sheet, indicate the name and the number and we will do the rest.

THANK YOU!

The Great War Song
The Battle Hymn of Democracy
The Song of Human Freedom Triumphant
Band, 25c; six for $1.00
ARMAGEDDON, Ltd.
141 BROADWAY  NEW YORK

The WORLD'S STANDARD THEATRE ORGANS
J.P. SEEBOURG PIANO CO. - REPUBLIC BLDG. CHICAGO

December 14, 1918  THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD  1217
Q. Will you please inform a picture "fan" through your columns if "Dawn," by Vannah, is a song or an instrumental composition? A magazine in our city used it as a theme in the show- ing of "The Doll's House," starring Elise Ferguson, and it made it a most effective musical atmosphere. Although I am not acquainted with moving picture business in any way, I have always been taken an interest in them, especially the musical elements. I am inclined to the Moving Picture World, and heartily endorse the plan of making the musical departments of moving pictures. It is my opinion that the moving picture has fostered a love for good music in the people of America more than any other industry has done before. In the leading theatre of our city we have a "Pictoplayer." To my mind this is the best organ for a small town theatre, as a small orchestra is worse than none at all. The attendance at this theatre is always capacity. A. Your letter gave us much pleasure. We are always glad to hear from music lovers whether connected with the music industry or not. And, of course, it encourages us to have the musical department of the Moving Picture World. We are extremely anxious to have this department mainly musical. We are very happy when we hear that it is serving the ends for which it was created. The moving picture, so far as its musical department is concerned, is a piano solo called a "song without words," and can be obtained from the publishers, W. M. Thompson & Co., Philadelphia, Pa. It is the property of the Music Service Exchange, 507 Fifth avenue.

Q. Can you tell me anything about an offer being made by a New York publication for a national hymn? A. During the World War, the New York American offers five thousand dollars in prizes for a new national song. We would suggest that you write them for details.

Q. I plead guilty to musical snobbery in that I have always regarded picture music as a prostitution of art. My views have changed, and I am anxious to learn how to fit pictures. Where can I procure a course? A. At present there is no authentic text book on the subject, but we believe that one has already been written and soon will be published. We shall keep your name and address before us and send you a notice immediately upon publication.

Q. I find great difficulty in obtaining the music suggested in cue sheets for the reason no publishers are mentioned. Why could not this defect be remedied? A. It is hardly possible to give the names of music publishers in the cue sheets, but by writing The Music Service Exchange, 507 Fifth Ave., New York, or Belwin, Inc., Columbia Theatre Building, New York, New York, you need will be furnished. Just mention the name of the piece and its composer. They will do the rest for you.

Song Creates Sensation at Navy Yard.

One of the songs that just fits in with the spirit of the time is "You Can't Beat Us, If You Take Ten Million More." The song is that of a song by McKinley Driscoll and Ernest R. Ball and is published by M. Witmark & Sons. This is the same song that once of the speakers, asked for a copy of the words after it had been sung, and made it the subject of a speech in the Pennsylvania legislature. Mr. or four admirals, who were on the platform, were so carried away with the song that they all joined in lustily when the chorus was sung.

The Cello An Exponent of the Voice. A musical instrument, the cello, is constructed practically from the same model as the violin, but with certain alterations. For instance, in relation to the pitch, it is smaller than the violin. Otherwise the cello would have a tremendous tone, and be so large that it would be impracticable. It has a low and varied register, and these characteristics make it invaluable as a medium for expressing the intensities of the human voice. In its lower register it has the richness and volume of a basso profundo, and its highest register is capable of expressing the tones of the lyric soprano. These remarkable qualities make the instrument invaluable to the composers.

Wagner, Verdi, and a host of other composers, appreciated the almost human qualities and possibilities of the cello, and their operas have many solo parts for this instrument. They realized that no other musical medium was capable of expressing the emotions of romance and grandeur.

It is difficult to imagine what symphonies and chamber music would become without the elements of drama and pathos conveyed by this splendid instrument. When composers who do not play the cello or do not have a proper understanding of the instrument write exercises for it, it often happens that the cello is placed in an improper light. For, while it is capable of much technical exhibitions, composers are inclined to forget the fact that it has many dissimilar voice qualities, and that it has the ability to treat in register, which is the factor that best characterizes its tonal effect, as in each register the strength of the vibrations is different. In this way, especially in concertos, some of the slow movements, this does not hold good, because the tones are carried above practice and the music becomes invalid. It is easy to comprehend that it is in the sustained melody that the cello is especially at home.

The cellist literature embraces many concertos written by such great musicians as Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Mendelssohn, Rubinstein, Dvorak, to name but a few. The composers and musicians are all noted and require no comment.

F. Popper and Servais are two men who have such an intimate understanding of the cello that even their compositions are complicated from a technical standpoint the individuality of the instrument is distinct, and this is not permitted to deteriorate. If all cellists would appreciate the fact that the cello is a large and powerful instrument and play upon it singable music practically without exception, they would create greater popular interest, and increase the wealth of delightful musical entertainment.

There is no question of the great office of the cello in the orchestra, but in a church service, with the organ, it is a worthy substitute for the human voice; also, it is a solo instrument of beauty and power, and its possibilities in this field are practically limitless.

The "Musician" Changes Publishers. The "Musician," published by Oliver Ditson Company, of Boston, Mass., since 1891, has been sold to the Henderson Publishing Company, Inc., of New York, with the January issue, will be published at 2725 Grand Central Terminal, New York. Its editor-in-chief will be Mr. Vivian Burnett, who will be assisted by William J. Balsell, associate editor. These gentlemen intend to make Musician a magazine for the promotion of efficient musical instruction, being particularly for those requiring co-operation in teaching the student.

Index to Cue Sheets, December 14, 1918

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Picture</th>
<th>Producer</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>King of Diamonds</td>
<td>Vitagraph</td>
<td>1216</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lost Swindle</td>
<td>The</td>
<td>2725</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Matinee, The</td>
<td>Vitagraph</td>
<td>1214</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Quicksands</td>
<td>Paramount</td>
<td>1216</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sex War, The</td>
<td>World</td>
<td>1216</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Secret Strings</td>
<td>Metro</td>
<td>1216</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
William Seabury Talks of Clearing House Prospects

WILLIAM M. SEABURY, who organized the Film Clearing House and who recently became identified with the Independent Sales Corporation as its vice president, when asked his views of existing conditions in the industry said:

"In my judgment the most important thing that has happened in the film world in some years is the recent announcement that the Film Clearing House is open for business. The establishment of the Clearing House is the first important step toward the reconstruction of the industry which must inevitably take place. It is the first step toward economy in distribution. It is a means of vital importance to the industry, by which it can discharge its increasing obligations and burdens and live.

"Without it some are confronted with the painful alternatives of going out of business because they cannot pay their present charges; or of going out of business because they cannot survive if they do not pay them. So that on the present basis these unfortunate expire in either event, whether they pay or do not pay.

Involves Only Physical Handling.

"While I was trying to establish the Clearing House all sorts of doubts were expressed as to its practicability. Some feared one competitor would be favored over another if several competitors distributed through the same medium—forgetting apparently that the work of distribution involves only the physical handling of film and does not involve the sale of competing product.

"If the physical service rendered is not efficient it can be terminated, but there are no competitive features involved in the Clearing House plan of operation.

"There is no more reason why one producer should refuse to distribute through the Clearing House because its competitor distributes his product through it than there is sense or reason in one merchant refusing to use a certain express company or railroad because one of his competitors uses the same means of transportation."

What One Player Does in a Few Short Years

T would be difficult to find, in looking over the list of motion picture stars, one that has had a more busy career than Carlyle Blackwell of World Pictures, who plays "Love in a Hurry," with Evelyn Greeley.

In the years that he appeared on the screen he has played in 170 pictures. In these there were 6,481 scenes in which he was pictured. He had to portray in these 32 dual roles. Two thousand seven hundred and twenty days were spent in the studio and 852 on outside locations. Mr. Blackwell spent on his wardrobe to properly dress the parts in these productions $18,700. There were 2,040 costume changes. The time he spent in the studio was 24 hours. The number of "stills" for which he had to pose totals 5,060. The amount of money which he has spent for photographs given to "fans" runs up to $2,775.38.

The number of actors associated with Mr. Blackwell in the making of these pictures is 15,950. He has had 47 directors and has been associated with fourteen picture companies. Of his leading women, twelve have become stars. Twenty-six different cameramen were employed in making his pictures. Slightly in excess of 6,800,000 feet of negative film were used. The footage of positive prints reaches the enormous sum of 25,508,379 feet. The number of days his pictures have been shown has been estimated to reach 606,900, or 1,662 days and 9 months. Allowing a conservative average of 400 persons a day who see each of Mr. Blackwell's prints during the life of each picture, we have the enormous total of 2,276,000 people who have seen his pictures. This too is limiting his audiences to America and does not take into consideration the extensive foreign distribution of his pictures. The amount of money paid in the shape of admissions in this country alone at the average price of seven cents to see Blackwell totals the almost unbelievable sum of $16,993.20.

The exhibitors paid the producers for the privilege of showing Blackwell pictures $3,855.200.

The lithographers furnished for these pictures 359 different kinds of one sheets, 326 kinds of three sheets and 270 kinds of six sheets. The manufacturer's cost of Mr. Blackwell's pictures has been $1,190,537. The number of scenario writers who furnished scripts were 142.

Will Renovate Big Films for Small Town Showmen

THE Famous Players-Lasky Corporation has completed a new system of repair and renovation of films which it is expected will take care of the problem particularly of the small town exhibitor. For some months a plan, which was conceived by Charles C. Burr, an assistant, and is now in operation whereby exhibitors in the smallest towns receive prints in first class condition. The direct supervision of the new system will fall to Mr. Burr, with Hector Streychkans in charge of the technical workings of the plan.

In connection with this new work, Mr. Burr said: "Better service to the exhibitor in small as well as large communities is the constant objective of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. Our new system of repair and renovation of film is unlike anything heretofore attempted in the motion picture industry.

"Since the beginning of the business, the small town exhibitor has been handicapped with films that were in poor condition. His patrons in many instances were of high class suburban sections and discriminating in the selection of their entertainment. Our national advertising campaign has reached every city and hamlet. The wise exhibitor knows he must adopt a policy of 'the public be pleased' all the time and yet, because Paramount and Artcraft pictures were in such great demand comparatively, heretofore when the prints worked down to towns of 3,000 population we were at a disadvantage because the revenue to be obtained would not pay the cost of a new print. With the new system in operation, including various mechanical innovations, we can repair and renovate, replacing parts, reissuing as it were, a print as good as new.

"A film that has never been seen is always 'new,' just as the book that has never been read. Hence the large percentage of the motion picture public in a small town should comprise the exhibitor's list of patrons provided an entertainment of suitable quality can be offered.

"Our new plan of renovating and repairing film is one of large proportions and involves plants two of which are already working in New York City, with extensive organizations. However, the return will more than warrant the trouble and expense, for small town exhibitors will now be able to tackle their prospects with an immediate asset which they never before could use in their advertising. Such a thing as a poor print, when our system is in full swing, will be unknown as far as Paramount and Artcraft pictures are concerned."

December 14, 1918
CHAPLIN ENTERTAINS ENGLISH BISHOP

Churchman Outlines His Views on Pictures for the Young and Advocates Morning Performances

THERE motion picture exhibitor occupies a position in his community precisely as a teacher of the local board of education and the teachers in the public schools, in the estimation of the Bishop of Birmingham, who visited Charlie Chaplin recently and expressed his opinions and views while noting the comedian's work on his third First National Exhibitors' Circuit release.

The Bishop of Birmingham has been sent to America by the British Government to study, among other things, the motion picture industry here, particularly the producing branch, and analyze, what the American manufacturers are doing for the attainment of better pictures for the future. He also will make an exhaustive investigation of available facts on the effects of motion pictures in the formation of character in children.

It was this latter subject which holds the greatest personal interest for the Bishop, and on which he expressed himself at length. As a representative of the British Government, whose report upon his return to England will be the chief factor in determining the activities of a number of the largest of the British film producers, whose views and opinions possess an unusual value and interest for the American exhibitors and producers.

No Penalty Provided for Offenders.

If exhibitors permit their screens to be sullied by showing deep sex pictures, questionable melodramas and suggestive productions, which have no claim to existence and patronage excepting their appeal to the morbid and degenerate minds of the comparative few in the total number of patrons of motion picture theatres, they are, in the estimation of the Bishop, committing a crime against the next generation, which will result in extreme harm to the children. He contends that there is no excuse for risque productions because the people who will patronize them are just as much prospective patrons for the decent and clean in motion pictures as they are for the other type of screen material, and that because of this the exhibitor sacrifices no profits, which otherwise would be lost to him by refusing to show any subjects but those which contain no situations or scenes that could arouse questionable speculation in the minds of children.

He concludes that there is a great distinction between a story in printed form and a story in motion pictures. An author, writing a story, will use phrases written in French, or resort to long, difficult words in describing a risqué situation, whereas, in motion pictures the situations of that character can be studied with alternatives and retain their meaning.

Bishop Spends Day with Chaplin.

The Bishop spent a day as the guest of Charlie Chaplin, and was an interested spectator of several scenes in the comedy on which he is working. He also considered the great possibilities existent in his estimation, for the use of motion pictures as the world's chief medium of education not only for children but for adults. In this connection he pointed out what he believes to be an opportunity for creating a so-called by-product, which exhibitors can use to a profit in cash and good-will. This is the arranging of special morning or matinee performances or programs made up of educational subjects being studied in the schools, or by the various local clubs.

The solicitor leaves no forwarding address with the hotel clerk when he leaves town. Exhibitors generally should be careful in signing contracts with unknown persons. In this instance the exhibitor himself sustains no direct financial loss, but he is made the instrument whereby his patrons are swindled, and it will not help his house any.

Jack Pickford Signs Up

With the First National

THERE First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Inc., has signed a contract with Jack Pickford to distribute three of his productions on which he will make an independent star and producer at the head of his own company. Announcement of the contract was made last week. Jack Pickford and his mother, Mrs. Charlotte Pickford, have left for Los Angeles, where they will join Mary Pickford, who, at the head of her own company, has already begun work on "Daddy Long Legs," her first production to be distributed by First National under the terms of the contract recently executed with that company. The juvenile star will begin work immediately on his first release.

According to the statement by First National Exhibitors' Circuit, the same general terms which are a part of its contract with Mary Pickford, governing the distributing arrangements, are the chief features of its contract with her brother.

He will have no time limit in which to produce his first picture. He will be solely responsible for its quality, and its popularity through quality product will be his own responsibility.

It is understood that the story for his first release will give him a role which splendidly suits him. "Jack Pickford has elected to adopt his sister's plan of personal responsibility for individual product," said an exhibitor-director of First National. "He is a fourth generation actor allied with an independent, open booking system. Exhibitors who book his productions through First National exchanges will not be asked to rent any other releases."

TO MAKE FILM RECORD OF RED MAN.

Albert E. Smith, president of the Vitaphone Company, will begin recording by motion picture the dances, games, sports, and all things possible to a complete pictorial history of the American Indian early next spring. The films will first be published as a super-feature. They will be sold exclusively by the use of students, in some building to be determined. Weather conditions will not be the only cause for the wait until spring. Mr. Smith believes it that time to include in his records the pictures of most of the Indians who volunteered for service and took part in the war. Accuracy with predominance in the picturization and the spectacular, while not neglected, will be sacrificed for historical values.

Ed Sedgewick Receives a Commission.

Ed Sedgewick, who appears in two Fox pictures, "The Land of the Free" and "Why I Would Not Marry," has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the First Field Artillery.
Dresses Lobby to Represent a Trench

Entrance to Old Mill Theatre, Dallas, Transformed into a Dug-Out for Presentation of "Shoulder Arms"

By Phil Fox, Times-Herald, Dallas, Texas.

DALLAS people who attended the Old Mill Theatre during the last week in November to see Charlie Chaplin in "Shoulder Arms," entered a replica of an American trench system on the western front and stepped into the entrance of a dug-out before they were shown to their seats by ushers in trim military khaki.

Manager Herschel Stuart transformed the front of his theatre into a representation of trench walls with a sandbag parapet. The dug-outs, which took the place of theatre doors, were labeled after the names of hotels and home scenes with quaint army humor. With the exception that there were no "cooties" or trench rats the display was most realistic. All house records were broken for a week's run.

Sunset Company Enlarging Its Quarters.

San Antonio, with its ideal climate and its picturesque surroundings of old Spanish missions and quaint countryside, is fast becoming a motion picture center of nationwide importance.

Out at Harlandale, a San Antonio suburb, the Sunset Corporation is rapidly enlarging its quarters. A new laboratory, a fireproof concrete building, has recently been added to the studio block, and further additions are promised, as the company is turning out big productions under Director Frank Powell.

The Sunset Corporation has its eyes on the foreign trade, which will put American pictures in great demand in Mexico and South America, now that the war has ceased. Conditions in Mexico are settling back rapidly and with the stabilizing of the national currency on a gold basis there is rapidly beginning to pick up.

San Antonio is the logical point for a motion picture production center to cater to the great demand which will soon come from the Mexican Republic, a few miles south, and officials of the big company were not slow to realize it. Films particularly adaptable to Latin American ideas are being turned out with subtitles in Spanish. Jane Miller and House Peters are to star in some most unusual Sunset features. The Perfida featuring these two stars as timed in San Antonio has proved a distinct success.

McTeyer, General's District Manager, Dead.

Manager Jimmy Kelly, of General, and his entire staff, as well as other folks along Dallas film row, were saddened by word of the death of District Manager T. F. McTeyer, of General, on November 19. Manager Kelly received a wire from Mr. McTeyer written a few hours before his death saying that he was recovering and that he would visit Dallas soon.

H. D. Norville Dead in Omaha.

H. D. Norville, western division manager for Vitagraph, who died at Omaha recently, had many friends along Dallas film row who mourn his loss. News of his death was received by J. R. Dugger, Dallas Vitagraph manager, and a close personal friend of Mr. Norville.

M. L. Levine Visits Dallas.

M. L. Levine, of Corsica, owner of the Ideal and Majestic theatres there, showed up on Dallas film row late in November, much to the astonishment of his friends, who had heard that he had died of Spanish influenza. Mr. Levine was on the point of death owing to a serious attack of the disease, but through his splendid constitution he rallied and recovered.

Larger Quarters for Pathé Exchange.

Manager Hill, of the Pathé Dallas branch, is having a busy time moving into his new quarters in the former Dallas Company Building, on Commerce street. His firm has taken the entire three-story structure, completely remodeling it. Mahogany and plate glass fixtures are being installed, making the exchange a model one for the Southwest.

How the Lobby of the Old Mill Theatre, Dallas, Texas, Was Decorated for Chaplin's "Shoulder Arms."
SAN FRANCISCO THEATRES RAISE PRICES
Due to Steadily Advancing Cost of Operation—Most Increases in Round Figures, Obviating Penny Change

By T. A. Church, 1507 North Street, Berkeley, Cal.

With the reopening of San Francisco theatres almost all of the large downtown houses have advanced their prices to meet in part the steady increase in operating costs. Several theatre managers have estimated that costs outside of house rentals have increased more than fifty per cent, during the past year and a half, but most of these have been charging former prices, with only the war tax added. The new rates in most houses are now in round figures, doing away with the annoyance of penny change. At the California minimum prices for the balcony are 11 cents for matinees and 17 cents for evening performances, these being the only prices requiring the use of pennies. Many theatres have enlarged their orchestras and added special attractions in connection with the new rate schedule.

Film Clearing House to Open Soon.

D. J. Chatkin, representing the Film Clearing House, Inc., arrived in San Francisco recently to open offices in the old George Kleine quarters, at 153 Golden Gate avenue, and after visiting other Pacific Coast points on a similar mission will return to make his headquarters in this city. He has appointed Hugh Rennie manager of the West Coast and Los Angeles branch will be placed in charge of H. J. Roberts, who conferred with Mr. Chatkin during his stay in this city. Mr. Chatkin will go to Seattle shortly to get that branch in running order and will then return to take charge of the San Francisco headquarters.

Pathe Office a Busy Place.

The quarters of the Pathe Exchange, Inc., in the Easton Building, always noted for business activities, have taken on additional life of late now that the American Film Manufacturing Company and the Hodgkinson Service have opened offices there. Ralph O. Proctor, the new district manager, paid this exchange an initial visit recently and complimented Manager E. O. Child highly on the efficiency of this branch. Mr. Proctor was formerly district manager for Pathe in the Central West, and is greatly pleased with the change to the Pacific Coast. He will establish his headquarters either in this city or in Los Angeles.

General Manager Goes to Los Angeles.

Harry Schmidt, for the past two years manager of the Pathe exchange office of the General Film Company in this field now has been succeeded by Meyer J. Cohen, former manager of the George Kleine System. He has already departed for the southern city and will take charge of that office before the general opening of the theatres in the southern part of the state.

Mr. Schmidt, while a young man, has been identified with the film exchange business in this city for many years. For the past eight years he has been with the concern with which he is still connected, having gradually worked his way through all of the departments to the position of vice-president of the company, and has been succeeded here by Meyer J. Cohen, former manager of the George Kleine System. He has already departed for the southern city and will take charge of that office before the general opening of the theatres in the southern part of the state.

Manager. Before the advent of the General Film Company in this field he was connected for two years with the Noveltiy Exchange, which this concern succeeded.

In leaving San Francisco he carried with him the good will of both exhibitors and film exchange men. The office staff of the General remembered him with a handsome brief case, while the film exchange managers of the city surprised him with a splendid gift as a token of the esteem in which he has always been held.

Managers and Salesmen in Pathe's San Francisco Office.

December 14, 1918

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

NEw De Luxe THEAtrE DETROIT oPens

Adam Period of Architecture Used—Seats Rise in Auditorium Style—Managed by A. J. Moeller

By Jacob Smith, 117 Free Press Building, Detroit, Mich.

THE New De Luxe Theatre, Kercheval and Park View avenues, Detroit, was opened last week under the management of A. J. Moeller. The premier attraction was a Select picture, “Mrs. Ledingwell Meets Mr. Siefert,” which starred both Paramount. Artcraft and Select productions, first-run in the territory.

The De Luxe is a $250,000 theatre in which 1,000 seats are on the main floor. A brief description of the theatre follows: The vestibule is roomy, terra cotta, Lobby and foyer conform to the general plan, carrying out the decorative lines of the entire design in ornamental plaster and marble. All floors are of silent, non-slipping tile. The auditorium is of hippodrome design, the tiers of seats sloping in one unbroken sweep, from first row to last, each seat affording an unobstructed view of the stage. The seats are reached both from the mezzanine and from the ground floor level by passage-ways through the main lobby. The seating capacity is 1,000, made possible by the construction of the auditorium. The seats are carried out to conform. The Adam period of architecture is peculiarly adapted to this purpose. The construction is fireproof, with steel frame and reinforced concrete floors and roof. The exterior is faced with cream terra cotta and brick, trimmed in terra cotta in recessed panels of sufficient color to bring into prominence the finely worked detail. Mahogany in doors and box office, marble trimmed, add to the rich appearance. The marquee projects well over the sidewalk, covering the fire entrance, and is ornamented with concealed lights recessed in glass panels.

The night illumination is made especially attractive by the use of concealed lights in the marquee flooding the building with light. The marquee is pleasing to the eyes and yet displays prominent-ly the beauty of design. Ample space for posters and advertising is left by stationary frames of mahogany set in flush panels. Ornate plaster decorations and harmonious, well placed balustrades in the beautiful stage setting, are embodied in the general plan. The De Luxe is equipped with the latest and stately at: that she is no longer handicapped with a time limit for release; that in casting her productions it is not necessary on account of existing long term work or pay contracts to use players totally untrained to parts assigned them; that the cost of her productions is not limited to a fixed amount.

Several exhibitors with whom I have talked readily admit that they can well afford to pay at least three times as much for Pickford. They not only point out the extra cost of attracting the stars referred to in the last column, but they estimate that the older film artists have been too long under the influence of the older star for that publicity. 'It must be to the advantage of the exhibitor to pay three times as much for Pickford as Mr. Siefert, because he can carry her in a larger theatre, in a theatre in a larger city.'
RECORD BUSINESS IN SEATTLE HOUSES
Theatres in Downtown Section Playing to Capacity

Influenza Depression Felt in Small Towns

The downtown motion picture theatres of Seattle have been playing to record business all week. Sunday afforded the first opportunity to get seats immediately on arrival at any of the larger theatres. At most of the houses long lines cut out along the sidewalks. The crowds were particularly persistent at the Liberty, where Charlie Chaplin is appearing in "Shoulder Arms," had just opened.

The depression caused by the Spanish influenza is being followed by astonishing effects in the small towns through the state. The cautiousness of the people after an grabbed bite, while those not aware of the limited population from which the small town exhibitor draws. Another difficulty, which several of the towns in the northwestern part of the state are attempting to confront, is the changing minds of the health authorities. In several instances they have been allowed to open, but the disease has again been admitted, and the epidemic began to spread in Snohomish County. After the opening of their own theatres a week later the disease has been steadily gaining ground, and it is possible that they may have to close, after being open for a time. In the meantime, people are giving the theatres a wide berth as a general rule. They are writing only about thirty per cent. of the towns in Washington.

Robber Caught by Cashier.

What would have looked like a regular farce-comedy robbery had there been any other one to witness it except the deadly-inearnest participants took place in front of the Mission Theatre recently. A respectable looking man walked up to the box office as if he were going to buy a ticket; but, instead of handing money to the cashier, he dived at the pile of silver on her counter, and grabbed a flat full in each hand. Instead of freeing the caustic caulkers hands and jerked them up against the glass opening, which cut them and made him scream. At the same time the doorman saw the struggling, and, walking calmly up to the would-be robber, poked his flat in his face.

"Don't move or I'll shoot."

The man stood perfectly still, and the doorman leaned, while a cashier called the police. The would-be robber pleaded guilty, saying that he was broke and needed the money. He got 130 days in jail.

Operators Get Increase.

It has just come out in film circles that the day before the opening of the theatre last week the operators union struck for $1 an hour above the depression rate. They would not go to work unless granted the increase for their six-hour day, so the threatened walkout was called a meeting and agreed to give it to them.

Fear Samuelson Is Lost.

It is feared that Louis Samuelson, well known Army and Navy canteen operator, was one of those lost on the Steamer Dunlap, which was blown up in the Southern Pacific, with the loss of 100 lives. The explosion with gasoline and dynamite, and during a thunder storm was struck by lightening. In the meantime the body of Mr. Samuelson was picked up by a tramp in San Francisco. Realizing the danger the crew immediately took to their boats, but the explosion occurred before they had got very far away. Mr. Samuelson had been a booker for Pathe first in the Minneapolis office, then in Portland, then in Seattle. He shipped on the Humara in the engineer's department. No word has been received from Mr. Samuelson's wife, who is now in Portland, or by the Seattle Pathe office.

Column Installs Big Warlitizer Organ.

The Greater Theatres Company held the grand opening of the new $30,000 Hope-Jones Warlitizer Unit Orchestra recently, with George A. Malotte at the keyboard. A noon concert was given by Oliver G. Wallace, the Seattle favorite. Mr. E. V. Basom made the Warlitizer at the Liberty Theatre famous. The installation of the new Warlitizer at the A. D. Bradys, was not mean the dismissal of the splendid thirty-piece symphony orchestra. The orchestra continues under the direction of Marius Brambilla.

Bosam Doing Big Advertising.

C. V. Basom, who has just opened the new Theatre, has taken up the running of motion picture theatres as a hobby. He opened the Theatre in Everett some time ago, and with the lifting of the influenza ban in Seattle he opened the Rosehill Theatre in Botell, a suburb of Seattle. The new house is equipped with the finest in projection apparatus and is well furnished with opera chairs.

Mr. Shaw, who operated the Liberty Theatre in Whitefish, Mont., died last week of influenza. Mrs. E. M. Shaw will continue the show.

Philadelphia Trade Letter

To Give Jobs Back to Boys in Service.

A LL of the boys who have been in the service of Uncle Sam will find their way back to their old positions at the close of the year with the exception of those who have been discharged. The A. F. of L. has taken a hand in the matter with the operators in the Philadelphia district, and they have recently confirmed by Frank W. Pulitzer, managing director of the above corporations. Mr. Hussler, formerly manager of the Princess Theatre, in France recently and sent Mr. Peru to a most interesting letter in which he related the experience which he had in the trenches. Arrangements have already been completed for the presentation of "Under the Jolly Jig," by the Steamer Dunlap, during the week of December 16.

Announced Supervisor of Projection in France

"Billic" Mck, who is a popular member of the French Army, who has been in the capacity of manager at the Broadway Theatre, Fifty-second and Greenway avenue, received an appointment from the Community Motion Picture Corporation as supervisor of projection in France, where he will be stationed. For house "Billie" was given a rousing send-off by his friends in "Philly" when he left for New York, where he will make further arrangements for his voyage to France.

Pete Marks Promoted.

Pete Marks has been promoted to the management of the Liberty. Herbert Effinger, the general manager of the company. Pete was formerly operator of the Liberty, and on account of showing exceptional ability he was placed in his new position, which will afford him an excellent opportunity to develop his showmanship along another line.

Nixon Announces His Theatre Chain.

An announcement has been made that the Fifty-second Street Theatres located at Fifty-second and Sansom streets, has recently been taken over by Fred G. Nixon, who is also operating the Mead, Belmont, Nixon and many other theatres in this city.

Philadelphia Brevities.

Chief Yeoman William Bethel, formerly booker of the Metro Film Exchange, paid a visit to Bob Lynch, the manager, recently, and inquired how he was doing. Mr. Lynch is back in his old place in the near future.

The one-story brick movie picture theatre at 362 N. Ninth Street, was conveyed recently by C. F. Long to J. F. Brown, Jr., for a nominal sum. The property is located on a lot having a frontage of 60 feet by an irregular depth.

Rochester News Letter

By L. B. Skeffington, 61 Main St., East

Employees in Service to Get Old Jobs Back.

The eastern Kodak Company has announced that all of its employees now in service will be returned to their old jobs when they are discharged and arrive home. Where it is impossible to give a man the same job he formerly held he will be provided with one just as good. The company has considered men in the service as still being in its employ and merely away on a temporary leave of absence. For this reason the company has considered men in the service as still being in the company and the next to the subject or next of kin of the men or who ever they designated to receive them.

Wolf Back on the Job Again.

A. N. Wolf, manager of the Colonial Theatre and president of the Rochester Exhibitors' League, is back on the job after a leave of absence due to the influenza.

Ban on Outdoor Lighting Removed.

The removal of the ban on outdoor lighting is much appreciated by local theatre managers, who for long have carried of the continual darkness which enshrouded their street fronts and buried the lobbies in gloom. The glow of the street lights has been blazed out and the box office is now open for business. The public are welcome to the box office at the theatre, and many, of larger size, shows that it really has a real white light. The Main street theatres contribute considerably to the blaze of light.

Regent Installing Big Organ.

Manager L. G. Brady, of the Regent Theatre, has announced that plans are in progress of installing the big new organ is progressing satisfactorily and he expects to have the organ in place by New Year's day. The Regent will continue its large orchestra. Paramount and Arcterna pictures are featured at the Regent, frequently showing there before release in the big cities.
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

YAMADA AND KAITA OPEN THE ATLAS
Builds Picture House in Seattle's Japanese Business Section—Music Furnished by a Fotoplayer

By S. J. Anderson, 807 Leary Building, Seattle, Wash.

THE finest motion picture theatre in the lower downtown section of Seattle was opened on November 12, the day of the lifting of the influenza ban in the city. The new house, the Atlas, situated at 412 Maynard avenue, was built, owned and operated by Messrs. Yamada and Kaita, the former having been an exhibitor of Seattle for the last fifteen years, having owned and operated the Electric and later the Bison, in the same vicinity. The Atlas is built of brick, with a stucco finish on the front. There is a handsome marquee with a big electric sign over it.

A particular feature of the seating arrangement of this house is that there is no balcony, in spite of the fact that the theatre has 500 seats. The auditorium is wide for one of its capacity, though not too wide, the side seats furnishing a perfect view of the picture. The walls of the auditorium are simply but effectively decorated.

Projection Room Large.

The projection room is large and well ventilated, with all wiring concealed. The machines used are Powers 6S. The screen is a Minua gold fibre. Music is furnished by two skillful musicians of the city, Artcract-Parameter, Select, Fox. Vitaphone apparatus has been contracted for. Admission prices of 15 cents and 10 cents are charged. There are no localities.

In establishing the policy of their house the managers are taking into consideration not only the large transient patronage which other theatres in this vicinity rely on, but the family trade from the rooming houses and hotels in the immediate neighborhood and the near-by Japanese residence district. With this in view they have made the rule that no smoking will be permitted in the house. In all other theatres below Yealer Way smoking is permitted.

Many Floral Pieces Received.

The Atlas opened with Theda Bara in "Cléopâtre." The opening was made an event in the vicinity, which is the main Japanese business section, and the managers received a large number of handsome floral pieces expressing the good wishes of their various business friends. There were flowers from the H. A. Johnson Company, which sold them the equipment for the Atlas; from the North American Times, the Japanese newspaper and the Times; from the Oriental American Bank; from the Japanese Commercial Bank; from the manager of the Alc, Pacific Hotel; from the owner of the ground on which the theatre is built, and many others.

Brentlinger's Employees Honor Him.

A. F. Brentlinger, general manager of the new Liberty Theatre, at Terre Haute, Ind., was the recipient of a number of beautiful presents last week from employees of his theatres as an expression of their appreciation of his generosity in paying them during the four weeks the theatres were closed as a result of the influenza. The employees of the Liberty presented him with a handsome burnished gold combination fountain pen and pencil with his name engraved on them. The employees of his theatre at Fort Wayne gave a banquet in his honor and presented him with an indirect lighting bronze table lamp. Employees of the theatre at Richmond gave him a beautiful engraved card case.

Attractive Lithos for Carlton Dramas.

Columns are now being issued for Carlton's "Air," featuring Lieu- tenant Bert Hall, the American ace, and Edith Day. The designs by Ass Cassidy are the composite results of a recent contest in which fifty members of the American Society of Illustrators at 215 West Fifty-seventh street competed. When Mr. Carlson announced the contest to the society a notice was sent to each and every member, and more than 300 sketches were submitted. From these the judges selected those most suitable for this thrilling picture, and Mr. Cassidy has made composite drawings.

Eugene Zukor Stationed at Curtis Bay.

Eugene Zukor, son of Adolph Zukor, president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, is now stationed at Curtis Bay, Md., at one of the principal shell-loading plants as a navy expert. Zukor is a chief petty officer connected with the Bureau of High Explosives in Washington, under Commander W. W. Bradley, and has made enviable progress in that department. He was recently made a director of the Famous Players, succeeding James Reck, of Pittsburgh.
HARDEN RESIGNS FROM THE EQUITABLE
Management of Kansas City Distributing Corporation Assumed by W. M. Bell—Policy of Company Unchanged

The Kansas City News Service, 115 Railway Exchange, Kansas City, Mo.

W. M. Bell, vice-president, announced that the management of the Kansas City Distributing Corporation, the吃到 of which he is in the capacity of the president, has appointed Mr. Bell vice-president. This is the first resignation of the company's management, since the organization of the Corporation.

Mr. Bell has been a director of the company for the past five years, and has been active in the management of the company during this time. He has been a member of the executive committee of the company for the past three years, and has been a member of the board of directors for the past two years.

It is understood that Mr. Bell will continue to act as the general manager of the company, and that the duties of the president will be taken over by Mr. Bell.

The change in management is expected to have a beneficial effect on the company's operations, and is expected to result in the company's continued growth and success.

---

Eddie Polo to Visit Kansas City

Eddie Polo, the Universal serial star, will be in Kansas City territory this week and will spend three days here, with perhaps a day or so at St. Joseph. Exhibitors are looking forward to the appearance of the star, and personal appearances of the star are expected to add to the popularity of the serial and increase sales of the picture where his productions may be seen.

---

Fred Savage Back on Job Again

Fred Savage, proprietor of the Deluxe Theatre, has returned to work after being ill for several weeks, is reported much improved. He is again at his post of business and appears to be in good health. He is looking forward to getting back to work quickly. A. C. Shannon is handling the lobby and sales department in the organization now, and Mr. Savage has taken up his position as manager, as manager of the American, into the Pateh quarters.

Lappe Representing Select

H. T. Lappe of the Lappe-Tighe Amusement Company, of Kansas City, is now acting as city representative for Select Pictures Corporation. Mr. Lappe has been active for a number of years as an exhibitor, and has operated the Palace, the Tenth Street, the Wills, and the Will's Wood theatres all as picture houses. The firm performs a distinct service to the motion picture industry by being in the enterprise in connection with the management of the theatres.

Finishing Improvements in Spindel Theatre

The Apoll Theatre will within a few days receive the last touches of improvements amounting to about $10,000. The last work will be the installation of the new roars. The addition of the new roars will be a considerable addition to the equipment of the theatre. The addition of new roars and other improvements will make the theatre one of the best equipped in the city.

Green Buys Two Theatres

A. C. Green, the manager of the New York Theatre at Concordia, Kan., has bought the Brown-Grand and the Princess theatres. The Brown-Grand is equipped with moving picture and for occasional speaking stage productions that can be secured for the town. The Princess runs every day as a moving picture establishment.

---

Cleveland News Letter

Dec. 14, 1913

by M. A. Maloney

VICTORY SINGING at First-Run Houses

VICTORY SINGING has been introduced in two first-run Cleveland theatres, and it is likely to continue for a long time.

At the Ambler, the management suggests using the singing, which has been a favorite with a vocal specialist and high-priced man, who has been putting on patriotic singing pages on the program. From 2,500 to 4,000 people took part in the singing in the past, and naturally there was a signal for a big turnout. The Ambler puts it on every week-day evening, Smyth singing the chorus, the words then being flashed upon the screen and the audience joining in. It makes a big hit. The program of songs is changed twice a week, and it is a mixture of patriotic and comic songs.

Accordingly, a song called "Santry's "You can put on his stunt, and he also made a big hit. Santry also changes his programs weekly. He is not likely to remain a part of this theatre's program for months.

Manager for Oliver Motion Picture Supply

Frank L. Smith, formerly with the Mutual Film Corporation, Cincinnati, has been engaged by E. O. Oliver to manage the motion picture supply company.

Mr. Smith has been engaged by E. O. Oliver to manage the motion picture supply company. Mr. Smith is a well known man in the motion picture business and is expected to do a first-class job.

He has been engaged by E. O. Oliver to manage the motion picture supply company. Mr. Smith is a well known man in the motion picture business and is expected to do a first-class job.

---

Hite to Open Cleveland Branch

H. T. Hite, of the C. H. Hite At to Open Cleveland Branch, November 23, and announced that his company would establish a Cleveland branch office. Hite said that they were releasing a new picture, "Hearts of America," and that Mr. Hite had signed up with the Ohio Motion Pictures, including the Harold Lucknow Mutual pictures.
BUSINESS NORMAL IN NORTHWEST AGAIN

Capacity Houses Reported as Influenza Aftermath—"Shoulder Arms" Smashes Records at Minneapolis Strand

By William E. Mullican, Minneapolis Journal, Minneapolis, Minn.

The moving picture industry in the Northwest is now back on its old basis, many exhibitors reporting a rush of business as an aftermath of the influenza epidemic.

In Minneapolis, "Shoulder Arms," Charlie Chaplin's latest production, was the big topic on all tongues. The picture began a week's run at the New Strand Theatre Saturday. November 18, the day before the influenza ban being lifted. He had been familiarizing himself with the Liberty for several days previous to taking charge, and succeeds Sam W. B. Cohn, who resigned while the quarantine was on to enter the military service.

Mr. Houck has been in the picture business for the last five years, most of the time with the exchanges, and covered this territory quite regularly for the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. He has visited many of the moving picture studios in Los Angeles and vicinity in connection with his exchange work, and has a wide acquaintance among the stars, directors and producers. Mr. Houck is a cousin of Eugene O'Brien, one of the popular screenmen. He was formerly a member of the Baker Stock Company, of Portland, had dramatic experience in New York, and was married several months ago to Miss Lila Barbour, of Spokane, a well known vocalist here, who has appeared on the Pantages Circuit and who sang at the opening of the Liberty, February 25, 1912.

Armistice Signing Leaves Cohn Without Position.

Three months ago Sam W. B. Cohn, then manager of the Liberty Theatre, applied for entrance to the officers' training corps, passed his physical examination, received a number from Camp Pike, Ark., at once, resigned as manager of the Liberty, arrived at Camp Pike, November 15. Discharged just one week after the day he left Spokane.

In a telegram to Mrs. Cohn he said that he was sent out of his military training was a four-mile hike and the filling of a cist with straw preparatory to a three months' course of training. He started for home at once, and was expected here November 21, but in the meantime J. William Houck had been engaged as manager of the theatre. Mr. Cohn's plans are not known, but he has had wide experience in theatrical ventures as manager, also a wide newspaper experience and had an offer from a film concern just before leaving for Camp Pike.
DUCHESS - DESMARTEAU SUIT DECIDED

Amusement Company Gets Judgment to Recover Rent of Family Theatre, Montreal—Court Also Quashes Lease

By W. M. Gladish, 33 Wineva Avenue, Toronto, Ontario

The prolonged fight between the Amusement Company on the one side and Edmond Desmarais and others on the other for possession of the Princess Theatre began in 1912, reached a decisive stage in the Superior Court at Montreal on November 1, when Justice Tellier rendered a judgment maintaining the company's action to recover $4,858.33 as rent for the theatre from September 1, 1912. It was held by Desmarais was quashed, the Amusement Company was upheld in its seizure of the theatre and Desmarais and his business associates were ordered to vacate the premises within forty-eight hours.

The defendants also entered a counter-claim for $37,500, but Justice Tellier held that the cross-claim was proved only to the extent of $877, and judgment was also given against them in a suit brought by the Amusement Company, leaving the sum of $4,081.33 due to the company.

The theatre was originally rented to the Mark-Brock Enterprises, Ltd., for a period of ten years, commencing September 1, 1912, for an annual rental of $15,000. Subsequently, Desmarais succeeded to the rights under the agreement by reason of a receiver appointed for the original tenants and obtained a judgment in the Superior Court which annulled the agreement.

Desmarais entered suit to revoke the decision, and he carried his claim from court to court until the decision, as described was secured in the Superior Court. It is stated that Desmarais has paid no rent since April 10 last, and the amount of the judgment was for the rent for the period.

The counterclaim made by Desmarais for $37,500 was for alleged loss of profits during the time that he was unable to use the theatre from August, 1917, on account of the alleged interference of the plaintiff company. Desmarais presented his books in court as proof of this loss, but, according to the decision of Justice Tellier, these were found to be incomplete and defective. The witness, Scott, an expert, declared that he could not make judgment of them.

Montreal Sees "Where Are My Children?

"Where Are My Children?", a feature that had been under the censorship ban in Quebec for several days, was finally allowed to be a sensational drawing card when it was released at the Holman Theatre for a week’s run, starting Sunday, November 24. Although the feature was shown eight times each day, there was never always a crowd in line in front of the house. Manager Harry Pomeroy did some rather good newspaper advertising for the racket. Profit for all performances were 15 cents and 25 cents. No children under sixteen years of age were admitted.

Pictures Advertising Canada Shown

Because of the meeting place of the Montreal Board of Trade, was converted into a moving picture theatre on Friday, November 22, for the presentation of an address on "Canadian Trade and Industry After the War," by Watson Griffith, chief of the branch of the Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa. The use of moving pictures in this connection was the first step on the part of the Dominion Government to advertise the home market and international relations of the country.

Regent Theatre Being Renovated

The Regent Theatre, Calgary, Alberta, was not "refurbished" for the general reopening of Calgary theatres on Wednesday, November 26, because of the extensive alterations in hand. The new structural features include a brand new balcony to accommodate 350 persons, several additional ventilators in the roof, a new gold fibre screen and latest design for a shadow box.

Another Calgary theatre also apparently expected to do exceptional business after the influenza epidemic because extensive alterations were also made in the Bijou Theatre, which was reopened, however, when the ban was lifted on November 20. This house had also been provided with a new heating and ventilating system.

"Commanders" Services of Abbie Wright.

The services of Abbie Wright, manager of the Princess Theatre, Quebec, were "commandered" by the Canadian Department of Naval Service in November for the purpose of assisting in securing supplies of steel from leading steel corporations of the United States so that various Canadian shipyards may finish up a number of vessels quickly. Mr. Wright expects to be away from Montreal for four or five weeks, and during his absence the affairs of the theatre will be handled by the treasurer, Mr. Lapierre.

Arranged "Ad" on Chaplin's Latest.

The management of the Loew Theatre in Hamilton, Ont., put over some rather clever advertising for the presentation of Chaplin's "Shoulder Arms" during the week of November 25. One unique advertisement consisted of a single line right across the top of the back page of The Hamilton Herald as follows: "Charlie Chaplin in 'Shoulder Arms' at Loew's next week." It is seldom that a newspaper can be used in this manner for advertising purposes when the size of the advertisement is quite small. Later in the week, the Hamilton newspaper carried "news items" to the effect that Chaplin had fallen 1,000 feet from an aeroplane at Beamsville aviation camp, which is situated close to Hamilton. Upon reading the item it was found pictures of Chaplin were supposed to have fallen from the pocket of an aviator as he was making a parachute jump.

Allen Theatre "a Healthy Spot.

J. F. Price, the new manager of the Allen Theatre, Calgary, Alberta, came out with an attractive advertisement in Calgary newspaper during the "dark days" in that city for the purpose of announcing that the Allen would be reopened as soon as possible and also to educate the people that the theatre would be a healthy spot for them when they could attend once more. The advertisement was written in a personal strain, the "copy" consisting of a salutation to the local medical health officer, Dr. Mahood.

"We're all ready, Doc!" the advertisement started, following which Dr. Mahood and his hardworking colleagues say the word, the doors of the Allen will be opened wide, just as a matter of fact, and there will be a big double attraction, etc.

At this point reference was made to the promised bill, which included Dorothy Dalton in "Green Eyes" and "Fatty" Arbuckle in "The Cook."

Announcement was also made that the theatre had been changed somewhat during the lay-off. The stage had been lowered and the position of the screen had been changed.

The advertisement concluded with the following: 'There were no 'no' bugs in the Allen when it closed—Dr. Mahood said so—and there is none now.

"You are hungry for shows—we are just hungry to see you."

Under the name of the theatre appears the slogan, "The Healthiest Theatre in Town."

Ontario Picture Director Dead.

The death occurred on November 21 at Toronto, Ont., of Sidney C. Johnston, director of the Moving Picture Bureau of the Ontario Government for the past two years. While in charge of this bureau, which is a part of the Provincial Treasurer's department, he had superintended the taking of pictures for agricultural and colonization purposes and had also taken views of the natural resources of Ontario.

The deceased, who was twenty-eight years of age, was born near Toronto. He was a graduate of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph and was formerly a vegetable specialist in the Department of Agriculture. He leaves a widow and one child. The cause of his death was not announced. He passed away in the Wellesley Hospital, Toronto.

Banquet for Ferdinand Turner

Ferdinand Turner, the first manager of Loew's Theatre, Hamilton, Ontario, was tendered a banquet by the employees of the theatre on the stage of the house, immediately before his departure for New York on November 23 to assume the supervision of several theatres on the Loew circuit. Mr. Turner was presented with a handsomely lithographed book, a gold pen knife and a cigarette case, the presentations being made by Miss Edith Wyler, Mr. Turner's secretary. A pocket-book was presented to Mrs. Turner. R. F. Northey, of Atlanta, Ga., the incoming manager of the press, along with Mrs. Northey, both of whom made short speeches also.
Film Facts of Fictious Value

STARTING January 1, 1916, the following changes, ordered by the Board of Picture Dictators, will become effective. Seven years and six months in the hence they will become operative. Thereafter knowledge immediately Exhibitors will return films to exchanges promptly on time and in better condition than required now.

Exchanges will ship, ten days ahead of exhibition date, all the aids and advertising supplies they promise on the contract.

Film titles will be displayed in twelve languages, that all in the audience may read them aloud in their native tongue.

Statement will be issued by film magnets in effect that THE industry is old enough to ride the asphalt astride a "kiddie car.

Tight copies will be supplied with non-duplicated publicity that will aid and abet the exhibition of moving and picture photograms.

Producers of picture-plays, beside putting up the producers, will have something to say as to what their directors will produce and film.

The National Council of Engineers will meet in executive session to decide as between the use of the term "Operator" or "Projectionist." Publicists will sign their names to correspondence with a rubber stamp to let people know they have come to a state of perpetual occupation.

Attendants in film exchanges will shout and that the exhibitors who call in person for their shows to let them know how unnecessary they are to THE industry.

Showing for "stickers" on the trade-press assembled in projection rooms will start on time and the picture announced will usually begin promptly.

P. S.—We should like to come up from where we will be in a couple of hundred years and read "statements of policy" that magnates are then running in the tradepapers.

Information, Please!

"What's playing," said the Man-in-a-Hurry to the girl in the box-office.

"Who's the reason or the Kaiser? The Fall of the Hohenzollerns." "I haven't finished celebrating, either," said the customer as he grabbed his change.

"Man in the Opera Listed by United—

Tradepaper Headline

Name, please?

A Dun Role Wasted.

Mr. Walthill (Neb.).

Esteemed Sir:

Overheard from the Rivoli last week:

"Caruso has a cinch just playing himself—but that guy that plays his cousin is some actor."—T. B.

Harry Reichenbach has returned from the war, somewhere in France, and he is financially backed the forthcoming Universal production, "Keep the Home Fires Burning."

Giebler Rubbernecks a Lion

Using Reporter's Note Book

THE seeker after news, both live and wild, walked into the Sunshine comedy lot in Hollywood, Cal., where Henry Lehrman was making Fox-Lehrman two-reel laugh-bringers. He spent two hours visiting the ducks, the chickens, the trained flies, the musical skunks, the acting crabs, and the other insects and animals used in the Fox-Lehrman comedies. Tired out, he walked into one of the offices and was greeted by a lion. He had closed the door behind him and was therefore in no position to retreat.

Giebler smiled. He doesn't know why he smiled. Yet he doesn't believe it was from any feeling of joy. He sat on the arm of a chair and, being well bred, he continually faced the lion. He took out his note book. The lion put his two paws on the vacant arm of the chair.

"What do you think of these comedies, Mr. Lion?" began the interview.

"Bar-r-roo-pah!" roared the shaggy one. "They give me a pain. They got under my epidermis. I don't see where the fun comes in. Why, when I'm on you couldn't make one of those comedians or directors laugh all day."

"One day I was doing some fine stuff, running around wild like, knocking over boxes, jumping over the cameras. And what do you think happened? The director and the camera man ran away. I suppose Lehrman called them."

"That made me sore. And when I stopped acting, the whole gang began to sneak back onto the set. If I had had a camera, believe me, I could have taken some fine comedy stuff of their return."

"I'm getting tired of sitting on a box roaring. I want to do action stuff. I want to hit it up with the comedian. Why should that fellow hog it all. He takes a pretty girl and hugs her. When I go near the girls they jab a foot at me."

"And that colored fellow. Why, he's no actor. He gets scared of me and shows it on the screen, and in that way gets by. Paid for looking naturally scared. I'm going to bite that fellow some day just to prove to him that lions are as bad as he thinks they are."

"You know I'm not complaining, but I think I ought to be starred. Let them turn me loose. I'll give 'em comedy—yes, and some tragedy too."—D. A. Morrissey.
Rambles Round Filmtown

This Is Good for Programs
House Oranges—and Everything

The Oath

Through the courtesy of The Hardware Age, we reproduce from its columns this stirring poem by a grandson of the author of "O, Tannenbaum:"
It appeared originally in that magazine
under date of August 8:

I will not drink from a German cup,
Or eat from a German plate.
I will not drink man
All foul with German hate.

I'll use no drug with a German name,
That's grown on German land.
I'll eat no food and drink no beer
If made by a German hand.

I will not use a German tool,
Razor, or knife, or saw.
I will not trade with a German shop
That lives by the German law.

I will not sail on a German ship,
Where German songs are sung.
I will not breathe where God's clean air
Is soiled by a German tongue.

I'll not forget those awful deeds,
To girls and little boys.
No more thin Christmas trees
Those blood-stained German toys.

I will not take a German's word,
He'll break it if he can.
There is no German heart,
Or faith in a German man.

This is my oath, when war is done,
I'll swear to keep it true.
And since I know you feel the same,
I'll pass it on, bit by bit.

—Kenneth Graham Duffield.

Good News for Druggists

ETTY BLYTHE entertained her press agent at the Vitagraph studios recently when, after the spillings of said publicist, she was at a loss for something to fan the flame of his think tank.

Finally she discovered a bottle of cologne and offered the poor pen-pusher what she called a "Blythcock.

The P. A. dashed it off with apparent relish and ever since has been haunting bars along Broadway trying to get a duplicate.

— W. S. —

General Pershing Speaks Picture Based On His Life—Tradebreak.

We should be glad to give all the space
"Black Jack" needs to print his critical review.

— W. S. —

Why the Bolshevik? (General Film.)

From a letter just in from the Coast bearing the signature of H. (J. Van Loan) we glean the following figures:
From Joseph Schenck for "New Moon" for November release.
Astra Serial, for Pathe release, sold as a $5,000-word serial to Motion Picture Magazine.

For Douglas Fairbanks story entitled
"It Could Be Done." Figures deleted.

Last year vs. this year—$12,000 on brain work for twelve months.

Lost month made or took in on brain work,
"I am taking the screen seriously," says
Van.

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD
December 14, 1918

Reckless Terry Starts a Panic.

LIEUTENANT BILLIE (W. S. Moss) has been a check for six bits to a local newspaper for the purpose of recalling the "manifesto pacifist (after the war this"

This accounts for the line (that had formed at the right), including Helen Pollock, Mary Alden, John-Brenon, Allison Smith, Helen Rockwell and other ladies of the craft; with the head of the line at the testing of the brushes' window—and considerable crowding from the rear ranks.

Basing our belief on what we read, rather than on what we hear, Pete Schmid is the master vienticolet among all the
A. M. P. A.

If you don't get what we mean—

Now You Know the Essentials

Arthur E. MacHugh, who presides for B. S. Moss, has made it all clear. "Both Tims," he remarks, "is said to possess all the necessary attributes for a successful screen star—looks, grows wossy, whizz and chic and all.

— W. S. —

Localising Mr. Greene.

"Walter E. Greene, general manager in Chicago for distribution,"—Sunday Telegraph.

— W. S. —

For Husband's Quality (Universal).

"The Married Virgin" (General Film).

"The Better Half" (Select).

Producer Contends Dramas and Pictures of World Conflict Are Essential 'Lost
We Forget,' is a true paper headline after Arthur James' own heart.

Stealing Mary's Other Stuff.

Mary Miles Minter sent President Wilson a letter via Longhead P-1 airplane.

Douglas Fairbanks sent Secretary Tumulty a letter via Longhead P-1 airplane.

Now, children, let's print the answers you received!

— W. S. —

Goldfish Thinks Peace Godsend to Film Industry.—Trade Jemen News.

But not to the several anti-Hun productions that have their last opportunities for exploitation during the last off.

Book to Fairbanks. Picture

"The woman stared, unawinking, at the body which lay so still—'It is my husband!' she said in a dry voice.

This happened on July 1, 1919.

— Chico

Willard D. Coxey leaves Division of films publicity to become the "story man" for Harry Lader's forthcoming tour.

An American officer instructing a class of recruits in the use of the gas mask said:

"Remember that when the alarm for gas sounds, there are the likes of your soldiers in your squad. The quick and the Dead!"— LCIF.

Cautions That Carry a Kick.

"Come On In," (P-P-L).

THI Industries' Epic.

Once in a While Hide's Funny.

For instance. Under the venerable caption "Answer to the Call," theEvening World lately carried this one:

Smith—There is no age limit on vaudeville.

Colbrand—Yes, she is the original Lillian Russell.

— W. S. —

"What can we do for you?" plaisants a friendly enemy.

"What can you do from under?
What can we do for you?"

THE RAMBLER.
Arthur James Talks Salesmanship

Metro Publicity Man Takes Ground That Proper Press Work Is Chief Selling Agent for Film

By Epes W. Sargent

Arthur James, director of publicity for Metro Pictures Corporation, takes the ground that the publicity director is the chief salesman for the products of his company. Generally the press department and the sales force are more or less at odds, but there is much in what he has to offer.

"In the film business," he began, "the conditions are peculiar. You must not only sell film to the exhibitor, but you must sell it for him. If you would continue the volume of your sales and I believe that publicity work, properly done, is the chief selling agent in any film campaign that is on a permanent basis.

"We do not, however, go to the public directly, through the medium of national advertising. I do not believe that the results gained by this method bring the fullest returns to the exhibitor. I do not believe, for that matter that it is possible successfully to advertise a brand of film, and for very simple reasons. If you advertise a brand of sugar or a certain make of automobile direct to the general public, you have just one sort of sugar or one certain type of automobile to sell to the dealer through reaching the public. One container of sugar is precisely like the sugar in all the similar containers. One automobile is a duplicate of all other cars of the same sort.

"It is different with film. You are not selling one film, but a brand of film. You cannot be specific. You might persuade a man that Metro makes the best films and he may seek a Metro subject at his local house and the particular subject he sees may not appeal to him, personally. It may be an excellent film, one winning the praise of the public generally. It may be the only film of the output that will not appeal to this particular man, but if he does not like that particular film—and a boorish usher, or a patron who reads the titles aloud may be the real cause of his dislike—he does not like the brand.

"That same man might be attracted by Metro pictures he sees upon the screen and form in his own mind the opinion that Metro pictures are worth while seeing. But he is not then judging Metro pictures, as such, but the ability of the theatre to entertain him.

"This is one angle of the situation. Another difficulty is the inability of the advertiser to offer more than a broad general appeal. I cannot, for example, take space in the national weeklies to advertise Nazimov in 'Eye for Eye' this week and expect the man who has the subject thirty days from now to appreciate my efforts. I am virtually advertising that the exhibitor is out of date, in the estimation of his patrons. They say to themselves that it is an old place, and a poor show.

"I think I can do the most good by using the money and effort I might give to national advertising directly to the exhibitor and better and more effective. We aim to help the exhibitor sell Metro releases. We use every effort along these lines, knowing that the film which brings money into the box office is going to be a better selling force for future films than page spaces of glittering generalities in widely read publications. I feel that I am more of a help to my own employers and more for the exhibitor—yes, and I'll add for the patron—if I help the exhibitor to make money with the story he has at the moment.

"To this end we work, not alone to develop the most effective advertisements and posters, but to induce the exhibitor to make the fullest use of the material at his command. We try to help him with making ready to help. We end only with the run of the film in that house.

"We do not spend hundreds of dollars on elaborate plan books, dressed out with colored covers, embossing and gilt. The plan sheet is a four-page broadside 16 by 22 inches. Take this one for Nazimova, for instance. The front page, you will notice, carries a type advertisement for the play. Ostensibly this is an advertisement to the manager, but as a matter of fact is can be used as the strip for a lobby frame, giving the star and title in 3½-inch lettering. However, we do not expect this to be used since it backs on a full page of press work.

"We start off with a full suggestion for the advertising points. An exhibitor who reads this has the foundation on which he can build his own advertising if he so desires. We follow with the bill matter, cast and full synopsis. These synopses are shorter than the play because we found that the original form was too long for average use. There are, in addition, five general press stories, an opening story, including a brief synopsis, a criticism which is a criticism and not merely puffery which even a self-respecting country editor would not print; ten teasers, eighteen catch-phrases, a program mention and a brief and a longer letter for those who like mail campaigns.

"But, mind you, this is all newspaper stuff. We know that the stuff can be printed because it is so generally used. We might use ten times as many superlatives, and if the stuff did get in it would be all right, but we aim to turn out press material that is more along the lines of what most editors will use. The press sheet goes to hundreds of dramatic and motion picture editors. The stories either have a news or a personality value. They are not glowing puffs for Metro and its stars. It is written for the manager to hand to his newspaper. It might please the stars more to play them up more strongly. It might be supposed to make more of a hit with the man higher up if it told him the great Metro was, but we work along the lines that if we help the manager to sell the play to his public, the public will come to know Metro without this publicity having worked out that way. There is not a line printed that cannot be run by the city as well as the country newspaper.

One-Sheets That Sell.

"The Nazimova paper is a little more ample than the average, since this is a special, but it differs from the rest only in that there is a greater choice of subjects. We offer a twenty-four sheet, two sixes, three threes and three onesheets. The twenty-four sheet is a portrait poster, with a striking picture of the star. The rest are all scene posts, and they are not merely poses. They are dramatic. They tell something of the story.

"The only exception to this rule is in the case of such pictures as 'Wilson or the Kaiser' in which the subject lends itself better to cartoon treatment. The same is true of the print itself, something translatable from the 'clinch' style of pose, even if these do work up nicely in the three-and-five frame and communicate the dramatic moments of the play.

"And we do not merely get out the paper. We persuade the managers to use it, not because we want to sell the paper, but because we want to sell the films to them. But you must know if we sell one subject to his public we can sell others to him. It has been something of a trial-and-error proposition to us. We sold 75,000 one sheets of one subject alone and had to run off an addition of 1,500,000 with this subject. We were talking to Hell with the Kaiser,' showing a bravura American flast landing on the point of the Kaiser's sword. It caught the public mood at the moment that it aided materially in selling the picture to the public and its wide use brought in the additional business.

"That is one of the points we urge. Picture producers want their films just as the circus and the stage offerings. We have passed the day when a single hired three-sheet was good enough in a conscientious advertising. That may help with the regular patrons, but the use of paper in localities where the competition and the rival theatres sells more seats than managers realize even now. Pictorial paper can be used in any city, any theatre, and it can be widely spread at a cost small when compared with the returns.

"The managers will allow you six to eight cuts in one and two column widths suitable for newspaper work. These are big enough and not too large for picture cuts.

"We also offer different designs in newspaper advertisements. Here we do not use the same illustrations or designs in line and mass. We find that advertisements print better if there is no half tone to clog up, and the design are such that the masses will not mud. The cheapest paper will take good impressions, and we get some pretty poor stock to be worked on in these days of paper famine. The cuts have all the suggestion of half tone, but they look better, and this, I believe, in a way, a properly printed cut will suggest a poorly produced play in spite of the absurdity of supporting the graphics work with any connection with the production efforts of a large company. The mental suggestion is there, the cost does not exist, we exert ourselves to produce cuts that are bound to come up well even in the hands of inexpert printers. It is a small detail, but it is all a part of the selling campaign.

"Now we offer the usual assortment of lobby displays, heralds and slides, but we believe that newspaper and pictorial advertising are the backbone of the theatre's selling system.

"And we don't stop with getting the advertising ready for distribution. Metro controls its exchanges and each exchange automatically receives its share of all accessories including the display advertise material to the theatres. Exchange managers are made to appreciate the fact that when the exchange plan is turned in providing cuts to exhibitors, there is none the less a return from helping the managers to put the right material to end in so well taken care of by the exchange that there is little need for a salaried man in the exchange. Each exchange renders this service as a part of its rental service. But if any request does come for anything additional material that is shipped out at once, if the house is nearby, or a wire is sent to the exchange if they can reach the manager immediately. The exchange is a matter of when the film is rented and without waiting for a special complaint.

Universal in the Market for Big Plays and Stories

T he Universal has issued an announce- ment that it is in the market for big plays, old, modern dramatic spoken stage, or big novels or stories, old or new. The material is sought for adaptation in the form of film produc tions by this company.

In furtherance of the search a special request has been issued to the heads of all press departments personally to scour their memories and procure for Universal film subjects in past or current literature.

"The greater and more famous the story the better," Universal adds. "In every case, the better we will like it. Price will not be an obstacle. We are ready to pay a fair price for material that meets our requirements."

It is stated that the Universal has added to its sales department several big pictures whose names are from the store of literary treasure. The name of the screen will not be changed and all adaptations will be employed as the principal asset of the film in each case.

The film industry has reached the stage now where its most responsible leaders are educated to the full value of the story as the chief ingredient of a production's success," said Mr. Laemmle. "Everyone is agreed that the public demands rich romance, strong story, and something new for its screen diversion. The Universal, therefore, is desirous that our subject be definite, consistent way. We intend to review the whole market of classic literature and modern journalism. The stories will be tested and approved as gems. Then we intend to make pictures faithfully and vibrantly based on these stories."

It is understood forthcoming produc tions will be released through Jewel Prod uctions, a name under which cases as Special Attractions. Jewel already has prepared plans to govern the advertising and distrib ution of the subjects.

Meantime, at Universcity, five dramatic companies and the Lyons-Moran companies report that they have resumed work.

Priscilla Dean, whose recent picture, "The Wildcat of Paris," is set for early release, was the first to begin under Tod Browning's new play, the temporary title of which will be announced later. The scenario was written by Harvey Gates from an original story by Evelyn Campbell. The musical score will be by Paul Powell as director in "The Wild Girl." The scenario was written by Waldemar Young, from an original story by Frances Nimmo Greene.

Mary MacLaren is about to begin under the direction of Mr. Who's Who's. This is a photoplay constructed by Miss Park from Eleanor Chipp's original story.

Lee Shumway's production starring vehicle will be "Pirate Gold." The story was written by Herbert Hall Ways and was scheduled for Mr. W. P. Kukor as director. Mr. Young prepared the story for the last-named production, also, from the original story of "Cherries Are Ripe," a French farce by Maximillian Foster and Paul West. This is to be used to make a musical film of the Roberts.

"You've Got It" is the comedy in which Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran have returned to work. Mildred Moore has the leading female role.

Elaborate preparations are being made at Universal City for the filming of a new production called "The Hopeless" starring the broadway heroine, Douglas Grant's novel, "The Fifth Ace," was purchased by the Universal-Goldwyn-Metro management for a serial presentation on the screen by Hope Loring. The project, which is being worked on in Hollywood, is planned around the plays "The Lure of the Circus," has been selected to handle the megaphone. Pat Lanning, who will be chief director, is the report of Blind dramatic stars recently, will have the masculine lead. Others in the cast include Alfred Allen, Tom Ling ham, Andrew Waldrum and Leon Kent.

Mildred Harris Close-Up

M akes A Hit in Animated

F rom Minneapolis comes this report of a stunt by which an exhibitor was enabled to present a picture or Mildred Harris (Mrs. Charlie Chaplin) without booking any such subject. Manager Brantham, of the Strand Theatre, was the author of the device. Jewel now is applying it broadcast.

The jewel exchange manager in Minneapolis clipped out a small close-up of Mrs. Harris for the poster and put in the caption, "Close-Up in a Good Time," and inserted it in the current Animated Weekly. Mr. Brantham found that this got the attention of the large black type in his quarter-page advertisement, proclaiming that Mrs. Charlie Chaplin has been added to our Clayton schedule. He is a big feature picture from another company. This was the chief attraction, but the notice was predominantly displayed as the title of the feature, and tremendous interest was added to the advertisement.

So successful was the expedient that the Jewel exchange immediately obtained other close-up stripings of the players, and arranged to provide them for all the exhibitors who desired them in that territory. Ideas traveled to other exchanges, and bids fair to become adopted throughout the country for the same effect. The stunt happened just now to have an immediate booking of a Mildred Harris picture.

Will Release Outdoor Pictures

F ollowing short-reel subjects to be released by the Exhibitors' Mutual Distribution Corporation, name the reorganized Mutual Film Corporation will hereafter be known, include the picture "Bad Men and Good Scenery," which has been planned and prepared for release at the same time as "Bad Men and Good Scenery," the second in the series, is released November 14, the third is "The Man with the Hole," the next in the series. The latter picture was noted in the annals of the bad men of the West, who made it their rendezvous and in the annals of the bad men of the West, who made it their rendezvous and rendezvous. The next film, "Peaks, Peaks and Pines," released December 1, are scenes in the vicinity of Mount Rainier, Washington, jealously called Mount Tacoma by the inhabitants of Tacoma.
Red Cross Scores Beat With Paris Victory Film

HOW efficient and important a film organization exists in the American Red Cross Bureau of Pictures is demonstrated by another news beat it has scored in securing and distributing the first news reel of the big victory celebration in Paris. So timely and exclusive was this film that it was taken by all the Keith Theatres in New York as an added special or their Thanksgiving Day programs, where it made a sensation before the big holiday audiences. On the same day dozens of prints of the Paris Victory Celebration were rushed to all parts of the country to be distributed as an American Red Cross appeal through the General Film Company exchanges.

The undeveloped negative of the Paris Victory Celebration was delivered at the New York office of the American Red Cross Bureau of Pictures near midnight, Tuesday, November 26. By 2 o’clock the next morning the negative had been projected in a form and identity form, and prints had been kettched out for it. By noon of the 27th the picture had been seen by John J. Murdock, special of the United Booking Offices and had been adopted as a special Thanksgiving Day release in all the New York Keith vaudeville houses. Not less than sixty prints of the picture had been started to General Film exchanges all over the United States by Thursday. The cameramen and agents of the Red Cross abroad are being kept in constant touch with all war area events and their work is beginning to make itself felt in the way of fine material coming back to this country.

Events from the London Victory celebration are also incorporated in the Paris film, but the scenes from the French capital predominate.

“The Girl of My Dreams” To Be Issued December 15

USUAL, significance is attached to the announcement that the Billie Rhodes De Luxe feature, “The Girl of My Dreams,” will be released on December 15 by the Affiliated Distributors’ Corporation through the Exhibitors’ Mutual Distributing Corporation.

A long-term contract was signed a few days ago between the Robertson-Cole Company, the Exhibitors’ Mutual Distributing Corporation and the Affiliated Distributors’ Corporation, by which Robertson-Cole will furnish all pictures for the Exhibitors’ Mutual exchanges. The first dramatic production to be distributed as a result of the aforementioned transaction will be “The Girl of My Dreams.”

Not only is the Billie Rhodes picture the inaugural dramatic release of the new arrangement, but added interest is given through the fact that the photoplay marks the first appearance of Miss Rhodes as a feature star. The picture scored a success at a pre-view showing by T. L. Tally in Los Angeles a few weeks ago.

The Billie Rhodes pictures are being made by the National Film Corporation of America, the releasing firm for two months in the theatre world being under the control of the Robertson-Cole Company. Miss Rhodes has attained stardom after a career of nearly five years in one and two-reel subjects. Most of her success has been scored in the field of comedy, her charm, beauty and skill as a comedienne standing out.

“The Racing Strain” Looks Big

“Another ‘Polly of the Circus’! That was the designation of a New York exhibitor following a private screening of Mae Marsh’s Goldwyn picture, “The Racing Strain.” And Goldwyn is in the belief that those who liked Margaret Mayo’s “classic of the big tops” will find the new Goldwyn Mae Marsh production no less appealing and entertaining.

“The Racing Strain,” a romance of Kentucky and Saratoga, was written expressly to suit the peculiar talents of the star by Tex Charwate. A horse race exceeding in picturesqueness and realistic detail a contest in “Polly of the Circus,” is one of the glowing features in “The Racing Strain.” The event was staged at Saratoga.

Maxwell Produces “The Married Virgin.”

Joe Maxwell, known in theatrical circles as a prolific and successful author of vaudeville sketches, has turned photoplay producer and is launching his first picture under the brand of Maxwell Productions. He has elaborately staged a story by Hayden Talbot, which may be described as a social thriller, and which contains a unique domestic plot. The title, “The Married Virgin,” applies to a complication which by an odd twist develops a happy ending for the drama. Mr. Maxwell made the picture in Los Angeles and believes he has a fine production. The principal characters are taken by Kathleen Kirkham, Vera Sisson, Rodolph Di Valentina, Edward Jobson and others.

“The Married Virgin,” in seven reels, will be released through General Film Company.

Blackton Film Goes to First National.

Speculation as to the exploitation of J. Stuart Blackton’s “Safe for Democracy” is set at rest by Commodore Blackton’s announcement that he has entered into an agreement with the First National Exhibitors’ Circuit, Inc., whereby that organization will distribute the production. While no date has been set for the First National’s release of “Safe for Democracy,” the negative has been turned over, and it is understood prints will be made up immediately and present this timely production throughout the country as soon as possible.

Semon Working on Thrilling Comedy.

Larry Semon, Vitagraph’s comedy star, has started work on a new two-reel Bi-V special comedy written by himself, which he says will introduce to picture play audiences more thrills and story plot than has ever been attempted in screen farce comedy. The working title of the subject is “Traps and Tangles.”
World Pictures Plans to Issue Special Releases

The coming year will mark a big impetus to World Pictures activity. Plans under way will put this company in a foremost position among producing and distributing companies. Besides the regular program releases there will be from time to time a special release that will be all the more "special" implies. So seldom has the World announced a special release that exhibitors are quick to appreciate the value of such a release as a box office magnet.

"America's Answer," which the World is distributing for the Division of Films, attained success as a moneymaker for managers of moving picture theatres, and was given to the exhibitors at a rental price that left a wide margin of benefit. This was followed by the success, "Under Four Flags," and has created a most friendly feeling toward the World Corporation.

McClellan Pictures, after a careful consideration of the claims of the different distributing companies, settled upon World Pictures as the best to handle "What Shall We Do With Him?" This picture is not a war photoplay, nor does it deal with war conditions. Still further, it was not the outgrowth of hate or prejudice. Neither will it depend for its popularity on arousing patriotic fervor. It makes its appeal on shaping public thought to the burning question of the hour—what should be done to the arch-criminal of the ages who must appear before the bar of justice created by public opinion and then and there answer for the rule he has wrought.

"What Shall We Do With Him?" offers no advice or suggestion as to what form of treatment shall be accorded the man who plunged the world in war in what threatened for four years to be anarchy of the worst possible kind. It is in five reels and has been directed with a cast adequate to the greatness of the subject.

The picture will be released as a special on a date to be announced within a few days.

Interest in Robertson-Cole Deal.

A topic of conversation in motion pictures circles during the past week has been the arrangement between the Robertson-Cole Company, the Exhibitors' Mutual Distributing Corporation and the Affiliated Distributors' Corporation, by which Robertson-Cole furnish all pictures for the Exhibitors' Mutual twenty-nine exchanges in the United States and Canada.

The Robertson-Cole Company stands in the position of banker or agent for a number of producers. The arrangement means that the pictures handled by Robertson-Cole, having passed through a business system covering every detail, will go to the Exhibitors' Mutual exchanges fully approved productions.

Stars releasing through Robertson-Cole will make no more than eight productions a year. This means that exhibitors will get the full value of these stars, that there will be no mad rush to provide vehicles, no frenzied pace of hurried filmmaking.

Doris Kenyon's Company Leave for North Carolina

Doris Kenyon and a company of twenty-five players have left for Hendersonville, N. C., where the exteriors of "Twilight" will be made. The picture will be directed by J. Searle Dawley, with Ned Van Buren as chief cameraman and Thomas A. Persons, studio manager for De Luxe Pictures, Inc., in general charge of the production under Theodore C. Dietrich, president of the company.

Frank Mills, who did such splendid work as leading man in Miss Kenyon's last picture, "Wild Honey," which is now ready for release, will again be Miss Kenyon's leading man in "Twilight." Other principals in the cast will include Harry Lee, George A. Lessey, William Hartman, Sally Crute and Edith Warren. The picture will remain in North Carolina about two weeks, after which the interiors will be made at the Biograph studio.

Director Dawley, Mr. Persons and Joseph I. Clement, technical director, preceded the company by two days and made arrangements for the construction of a complete studio and complete lumber mill at Hickory Nut Gap. The lumber camp and sawmill, together with a score of oak trees and several hundred native North Carolina mountaineers, will be used.

The story of "Twilight" was written by Vinnie E. Roo and published in the October issue of Metropolitan. The screen adaptation was made by Louis Joseph Vance.

"Too Fat to Fight" a Hit with Y. M. C. A. Officials

REX BEACH'S drama of human emotions, "Too Fat to Fight," has been officially indorsed and given the highest possible recommendation by the Young Men's Christian Association. A committee of Y. M. C. A. officials attended a private showing of the picture and placed the organization's approval on this new and virile Rex Beach story, which depicts the wonderful work of the Y. M. C. A., the Salvation Army in the interests of humanity.

Following the projection of the picture officials and spectators were unanimous in their approval and recommendation of "Too Fat to Fight." The official "Verdict was expressed by Chairman William Sloane, who addressed the Y. M. C. A. at the Rex Beach. The tribute paid by the Y. M. C. A. insures the unparalleled success of this new Goldwyn release.

"I consider 'Too Fat to Fight' one of the most remarkable pictures I have ever seen," said Mr. Sloane. "It holds the interest from start to finish and cannot help impress every person who will see it."

Mr. Crowell, publicity director of the National Council, gave the following verdict: "'Too Fat to Fight' is undoubtedly the best picture depicting the work of the Y. M. C. A. It is first-class in every respect. The presentation of the story should insure its complete success everywhere.'

The wealth of comedy which abounds throughout the six reels drew enthusiastic applause from the audience. The dramatic episodes also were warmly received.

The Y. M. C. A. board not only indorsed and praised the picture from a technical angle, but, in addition, the strength of the story and the rapidity of the action of the play were subjects for commendation.

Show Submarines in Metro Film.

Some thrilling submarine scenes are shown in "The Man Who Stayed at Home," a Screen Classics, Inc., picture version of the successful drama of the same name. Both interior and exterior views of a submarine are photographed in connection with the action. Depth bombs have their part to play in the story, and following the explosion the tell-tale traces of oil and water are seen on the surface of the water.

In the making of these scenes, Director Herbert Blache sustained a painful injury to his hand. He was holding the "depth bomb" when a scene from the section of the scene to the players preparatory to releasing the explosive. Fortunately the bomb was one manufactured primarily for picture purposes, as the Government would not permit the use of a real depth-dealing depth bomb in production, and it had been filled with a powder that was comparatively harmless.

Chicago Showing for Perret Film.

"Lafayette, We Come," the big victory song produed and released through the Exhibitors-Mutual Distributing Corporation, was shown at the de luxe presentation at the General Pershing at the tomb of Lafayette. The production was made under the direction of Lenore Pelton, actress, directed by E. R. Lincol and Dolores Cassinelli.

Stanton to Direct Farnum.

Richard Stanton has been selected by William Fox to direct William Farnum in his next production. Mr. Stanton directed "The Spy," "Rough and Ready," "The Land of the Free" and "Why I Would Not Marry."
Johnson Cannibal Film Makes Hit in Toronto

MARTIN JOHNSON'S "Cannibals of the South Seas" had its Canadian premiere at Massey Hall, Toronto, November 22, scored a sensation.

The hall, which seats 2,950, was jammed for the opening of the thrilling adventure series produced by the Robertson-Code Company, which has the world rights, was a success in every way.

The pictures were presented in practically the same manner that they were offered in the ballroom of the Hotel Astor in New York, with the symphony orchestra in charge of George W. Beynon handling the score.

The Toronto premiere brought out some unusual features of the "Cannibals of the South Seas.". The audience went wild at the appearance of a British liner made over into a warship, the masthead of a native boat in the lonely South Seas, and, when Mr. Johnson and his wife are taken prisoners by cannibals, only to be released after a hairbreadth escape at the timely appearance of a British warship, the whole auditorium shook with cheers and cries. The demonstration was remarkable in every way.

The picture was shown all the week.

Betzwood Completes Four Bennison Films.

The four hundred acre plant of the Betzwood Film Company on the Schuylkill, a few miles above Norristown, Pa., has been converted into a section of the wildest and woolliest of western localities.

These productions, by Betzwood Film Company, are distributed through Goldwyn, Philadelphia, is to have the distinction of the first Bennison release, and is to have its advance presentation at the Victoria in the week of December 22.

French Marine Seen in "Eye for Eye."

The occupation of a North African port by French marines, who proceeded to quell the hostile Arabians, is depicted in "Eye for Eye," the seven-act production starring Mme. Mathieou as the heroine, and is to be shown at the Garson-Neilan Theatre, Los Angeles, an eight-act production, directed by Mathieu, is to be presented.

"Eye for Eye" is a splendid picturization of the three-act drama, "L'Occident," by the Belgian dramatist, Henry Kisteche, who has added two additional scenes of-hand-to-hand encounters with the Arabs as they had been appearing before the camera all their lives. Director Albert Capellani insisted that it was a natural result of the excellence of this navy training.

These scenes add to the beauty and value of the entire production.

"Eye for Eye" will be shown across the country in December.

Fox Makes Directing Changes.

Several changes have been announced by William Fox in the assignments of his directors who are still in the East.

Richard Dix, who directed William Par-num in his next De Luxe production, which will be filmed in the East.

Charlotte Benet, who directed Evelyn Nesbit in her next picture.

At present Miss Nesbit is being directed by Renee Dreyfus.

Edmund Lawrence, who has been ill, but is now fully recovered, will direct Virginia Pearson.

Scene from "The Squaw Man" (Artcraft).

Los Angeles Opening for Garson-Neilan Pictures

AT LAST the Garson-Neilan production, "The Unpardonable Sin," in which Blanche Sweet is the star, will be shown to the public for the first time.

It has been known for some time that Mr. Garson's representatives in the East have been quietly looking around for a first-class theatre in New York to house this picture, as it was the original intention to give it a Broadway run previous to its being released elsewhere.

In the meantime the Clune interest, nosing another big feature that would possibly duplicate the successful runs of some of those that their big theatre has housed in the past, made overtures to Mr. Garson, which finally decided him to launch the picture in Los Angeles.

The engagement, which is a significant one, not only for the fact that it is said to be about the best effort of Marshall Neilan, also serves to bring back to the screen Blanche Sweet, after a year and a half's absence.

"The Unpardonable Sin" has been nearly three months in the making, and while no scenes have been released, at one time it looked as though production would be held up on account of the epidemic that prevailed in violent form in Los Angeles.

By hard work and the utilizing of many underground channels, Mr. Garson got the necessary permits from the authorities to take the big scenes, so in the midst of police, physicians, gassers and automo-tives they were taken.

Much interest is attached to "The Unpardonable Sin," from the fact that there was quite a controversy over the book between the publishers and the New York Library, it first being rumored that the story was too strong or too anti-German.

Anyway the controversy became of enough importance for the New York Times to come out in a strong editorial supporting the book.

The story originally ran as a serial in a magazine, and to the astonishment of the editors of the publication it almost completely sold off the newstands on the days of its appearance. Later, the story was published in book form.

The picture is also to be syndicated among the most important daily newspapers.

The picture is eight reels in length and contains many stirring scenes and situations. Immediately after the launching of the picture in Los Angeles, Mr. Garson will come East to arrange for a Broadway run.

Night Court Scenes in Wehlen Picture.

A graphic scene in a night court is one of the interesting incidents in "Sylvia, in a Spree," the Metro screen romance to be released soon, with Emmy Wehlen as the star. Not only does Sylvia appear in the night court, but she has to ride there in a patrol wagon. This adventure is the outcome of the determination of a girl who has been closely sheltered to see a little "real life" before she settles down into humdrum domesticity. With the reluctant aid of her fiance, Sylvia has an evening in Bohemia—but she does not like it a bit. To make matters worse, the place is raided, and "the just and the unjust" are dragged away together to court. The judge is an old friend of the family. Fortunately, he is gifted with a sense of humor, and gives the adventurous youngster a good scare before he sends her home to her mother.

The romance was scenarioed by June Mathis from the original story by E. Forer and directed by Harry L. Franklin. W. I. Percival, Peggy Parri, Eugene Acker, Isab-

A.L. O'Madigan and Frank Currier are included in Miss Wehlen's supporting cast.

Mudge Kennedy Is Seen as Dancer.

In Mudge Kennedy's recent Goldwyn successes the star proved her ability as a dancer, swimmer and all-around athlete. Stage dancing is shown to be one of her accomplishments in "A Perfect Lady," from Rose Stahl's stage play by Channing Pollock and Renndolf Wolf. Here she has the role of Lucille Le Jambon, featured performer of the Merry Models Burles-

The comedienne demonstrates in several scenes that there is much of the art tophichorean with which she is familiar.

The star is first seen in a solo dance, and the applause that followed from the 400 extras, engaged as an audience, was genuine. Though her dancing in no way borders on the vulgar, the morals committee of Bycavore orders the constable to remove the star for the proceedings. The audience eager to see more of the star's exhibition, files out dejectedly.
Doris Kenyon Comes Out for Wholesome Productions

Doris Kenyon is one of the screen actresses who have no desire to shine in vampire parts. In "Wild Honey," which was released December 9, she is obliged to portray a concert hall girl who was the vampire of her day, but the paralitical portion of the portrayal is not long, Miss Kenyon except as an it may be of benefit in truly reflecting the sinfulness of such a life.

"I am for clean pictures, all the time," said Miss Kenyon recently at the De Luxe studios in Mt. Vernon, where her pictures are made. "I am for beautiful stories to put on the screen. Therefore why defile such a perfect medium as the motion picture with unclean or unwholesome material? Fortunately, I happen to be one of the limited number of actresses who have a deciding voice in the selection of their stories, and I intend always to pick out the good from the bad. Never will I play a vampire for the mere joy of 'vamping'."

"It is true that in 'Wild Honey' I play the part of a wreathe dance ball coquette, but behind it all there is a noble purpose. With all its roughness and wild action, it is a sweet story, written by a most charming woman, Vinzie E. Roa, and it appeared not long ago in a woman's magazine. My real reason for deciding to play 'Wild Honey' was, of course, because of the opportunity it gave me to read and shoot and do other stunts. You see, I am fearfully fond of athletics and outdoor sports. In pictures, sports are not needed, except as a chance to be athletic, so every once in a while I find that I simply must do a western as a relief from the inanity of society plays. "After getting into the part of 'Wild Honey,' I began to take an interest in the character of a concert hall charmer. I was brought face to face with the real wretchedness of the life of such a woman. No part is ever to be played solely by every actress, I suppose. But when I play them to bring out all the good I can, and never never, I never have a part on that I think that 'Wild Honey' at last not seen the light of life and so freely felt herself to be led back to 'vamping' through becoming the wife of a decent, upright man."

Scene from "The Prodigal Wife" (Screencraft).

In "Lady's Name" Constance Talmadge Plays Writer

Constance Talmadge's next Select picture will be "A Lady's Name." This is taken from the stage play of the same name by Cyril Harcourt, that accomplished weaver of light comedy situations who has given the public "A Pair of Silk Stockings," another stage play in which Constance starred in the screen version. "A Pair of Petticoats," "A Place in the Sun," and many others.

In "A Lady's Name" Miss Talmadge will play a young and fascinating woman novelist who is looking for a future color. She isn't the short-haired, bespectacled type of writer, but a buoyant, whimsical young woman whose search for literary material leads her to advertise for a husband. The young woman played by Constance is Mabel Vere.

Applicants come thick and fast, and, according to reports, the comedy angle develops at a rapid rate, but at last one of the suitors is accepted for further examination. Finally, after she has gleaned all of the information necessary for her book, she discovers that she is not in love with the supposed candidate for her hand and the man who has been her fiancé ungraciously withdraws.

Miss Talmadge is directed by Walter Edward Ford, who has done such successful work in several of her recent pictures, is her leading man. The scenario was written by Julia Crawford Ivers.

Getting Real Chinese Atmosphere

William Duncan and members of his company, including Edith Johnson and Joe Ryan, have recently been "on location" in San Francisco's Chinatown, making scenes for the next Vitagraph serial, "The Man of Might." As is usual, Duncan insisted on having the real thing in his picture. Up to date he has used Mexicans, Yagul Indians, Japanese, Chinese, and a few other types in his serial.

"Just Rambling Along"

Stan Laurel, the English comedian, who was signed for a series of one-reel stories by the Rolin Company during his recent vacation, has, in "Just Rambling Along," probably the best of the lot, it is said. With a proper appreciation he has characterized it as "Hoover hilarity," which, though it has to do with food, is nevertheless entirely unstinted. Pathé releases this comedy the week of December 8.

Post Travel Shows Odd Spot

That "Celebes, Malay Archipelago," is one of the odd spots in the world, so far as the people and the customs go, is entertainingly shown in No. 22 of the Post Travel Series, released the week of December 8 by Pathé. Macassar, on the southern coast, is one of the greatest ports, and has a population of 27,000, all of whom, with the exception of 5,000 Chinese and society players, is seen. It resembles the Japanese in face and figure, but who are much less polite and agreeable.

Scenes from "The Man Who Stayed at Home" (Metro).
The Moving Picture World

December 14, 1918

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

1237

“The Racing Strain” Has Strong Support for Star

MAE MARSH is accorded strong support in her newest Goldwyn picture, “The Racing Strain,” by Tex Charwat. For her leading man Miss Marsh has Clarence Oliver, whose work opposite Madge Kennedy in her patriotic Goldwyn picture, “The Service Star,” brought him marked praise. Oliver also gave a note-worthy performance in the successful Rex Beach production, “Laughing Bill Hyde.” Before his advent in pictures Oliver was a favorite on the musical comedy and vaudeville stage.

Prominent on the stage and screen, but new to Goldwyn pictures, is Clifford Bruce, who plays the part of the heavy. On the speaking stage Bruce was widely known as leading man with Charles Frohman’s all-star company. He entered the cinema field four years ago and was successful from the start.

W. T. Cameron, singer and actor of “Floradora” fame, who more than a decade ago was a featured player in many successful musical comedies and light operas, is seen in the role of Colonel Cameron, a Kentucky horseman. Since his entry on the screen three years ago Cameron has been seen to good advantage in important parts.

Another of highest dramatic order is intrusted to Edwin Sturgis, who has been in several Goldwyn productions. Sturgis, who appears in the comedy role of Detective Chase with Tom Moore in “Just for Tonight,” Tammany Young, who showed his stuff in Blinky in “The Service Star,” starring Madge Kennedy, completes the cast of “The Racing Strain.” Since his last Goldwyn appearance Young gave a striking performance in an important role in “Hit the Trail Today.” Previous to his advent on the screen Young was a popular vaudeville favorite.

Roy Stewart Rides for Triangle.

A picture that is said to feature the expert horsemanship of Triangle’s favorite Western star is “The Silent Rider.” Roy Stewart is the starred player, and the picture is scheduled for release on the program of December 8. The story, described as a vigorous narrative of the great ranch dealing with range riders, rustlers and round-ups, was written with scenario by C. M. Clarke. Ethel Plummer is again the leading woman after her recent appearance in several William Desmond productions. Cliff Smith directed, with Steve Rounds at the camera. L. S. McKee and Leo Willis are members of the supporting cast.

Scene from “The Silent Rider” (Triangle).

“High Pockets” Will Be Second Bennison Picture

WHN Louis Bennison makes his debut in a foightnight in the lively dramatic romance, “Oh, Johnny!” he can, as a new star, afford to be very thankful that his way has fallen among producers like the Betzwood Film Company, a Philadelphia organization comprising Senator Clarence Wolf, Ira M. Lowry and their associates.

Before the public has seen the first Bennison star series release, before the public has seen his screen personality, the Betzwood Company, with a huge faith in his coming success, has completed four Louis Bennison productions.

Mr. Bennison has enjoyed a most unusual and spontaneous success in the theatre, and through the medium of a single play, “Johnny, Get Your Gun,” focused the attention of amusement lovers. Those who have seen his screen productions can foretell his popularity with the American public.

“Following ‘Oh, Johnny!’ his first production, which is the work of Wilson Bayley, directed by Ira M. Lowry, will come ‘High Pockets,’ from a featured novel by William Patterson White in a recent number of ‘Adventure.’ Screen rights to this fast-moving story of love and luck were purchased within twenty-four hours of the time copies of the magazine made their appearance on the news stands of Philadelphia.

Bennison will have for his leading woman in “High Pockets” Katherine MacDonald, celebrated for her work opposite William S. Hart in “Shark Monroe” and “Riddle Gawne.” Those who have seen this second Bennison production declare that the combination of star and leading woman promises much.

The third Bennison picture is “Sandy Burke of the U-Bar-U,” a romance of the Western plains, in which Bennison is given an opportunity to display his skill as rider and roper, and which affords full scope for his breezy and unusual personality.

Dwyer Brothers Report Sales.

The Dwyer Brothers Co., 26 West Nighton street, Columbus, with a branch office at 631 Walnut street, Cincinnati, reports several Simplex sales recently made in Ohio and Kentucky. Among the important ones are: George Bleich’s Empress Theatre, Owensboro, Ky.; Ada Meade Theatre, Lexington, Ky.; White Eagle Theatre, Toledo; Princess Theatre, Roseville, Ohio; Photoplay Theatre, Columbus, and Edmon’s Theatre, Mason, Ohio.
Problem of Kaiser Aroused Interest in Metro Features

CURIOUSITY in regard to the disposition to be made of Wilhelm Hohen- solmn, former Kaiser of Germany, has served to arouse new interest in "To Hell with the Kaiser," the seven-act patriotic Screen Classics, Inc., feature. This picture is one instance of a production in which the interest is cumulative, and this has been due partly to the fact that this picture did not merely chronicle past events, but foreshadowed coming ones as well. The query is becoming insistently in motion picture circles. "Who is the screen classicist," Buren asks, "and how is he choosing his pictures?" The picture is in receipt of hundreds of letters from exhibitors who wish to play it again or use it for special presentations.

This prophetic quality is seen not only in "To Hell with the Kaiser," but also in the forthcoming Screen Classics, Inc., super-feature, "The Great Victory, Wilson or the Kaiser? The Fall of the Hohen-solmn." Events forecasted in this production had been acted before the camera by the Screen Classics, Inc., players, written by Maxwell Karger and directed by Charles Miller before they actually had historic being. Moreover, some of the events forecasted have not happened yet. But they exist at this moment on the film in the safe, which is now the Screen Classics, Inc., celluloid is kept.

"To Hell with the Kaiser" is as timely now as when it was presented several months ago, because it has anticipated history. That anticipation was built on a logical interpolation, in the telling of an incident of the most exceptional and novel companies on record for the presentation of her forthcoming serial picture, "The Heart of Wetona." The screen version of "The Heart of Wetona," which was a famous Idaho belasco stage success of two seasons ago, was written by Mary Murillo, while the direction was in the capable hands of Charles Miller.

"The Heart of Wetona" cast includes one genuine Indian princess and three full-blooded Indians, Wolf, Bird, and Black Lizard; the latter, until a few years ago, one of the most ferocious reservation Indians. The princess is Uwane Yea.

The cast also includes Fred Huntley, Patricia Dene, Bessie Edler and a score of gorgeously dressed Indians and squaws.

Pathé to Push "The Lightning Raider." In an effort to make its forthcoming Pearl White serial, "The Lightning Raider," as most successful in its long list of serial releases, Pathé Exchange, Inc., announces part on December 28 an extensive national advertising campaign. The first advertisement will precede the release by the first episode, about a week. Pathé executives hope by this campaign to increase the enormous army of serial fans throughout the country.

In addition to this campaign the new Pearl White serial will be backed by a whirlwind advertising campaign.

Lee Children Start Picture. The Lee children, Jane and Katherine, who are on the West Coast for the first time, are under the direction of Arvid Gillstrom. This newest Lee vehicle, entitled "Smiles," is from a story by Arvid, the casting of the Lee children is Ethel Fleming, Val Paul, Carmen Philips, Charles Arling and Katherine Griffth.

Kenyon Company Spends Thanksgiving in South

DORIS KENYON and her company spent Thanksgiving Day in the heart of the Carolinas, where the exteriors of "Twilight" are being made. J. Searle Dawley, the director, declares, "With Mabel K. Davis, Thomas A. Persson, studio manager, who is also with the party, provided a most bountiful repast, which was served at Esmeralda Inn, twenty-five miles from Asheville, N. C., where the company is stopping.

In pleasant weather, some wonderful exteriors are being made. Mr. Dawley is most enthusiastic over the cast, and recently C. Deitrich, president of De Luxe Pictures, Inc., declares that Mr. Dawley is making the best pictures in which Miss Kenyon has ever appeared.

The company expects to remain in North Carolina about two weeks more. In the party are Doris Kenyon and her mother. Mrs. James H. Kenyon; J. Searle Dawley and Mrs. Dawley; Theodore C. Deitrich and Mrs. Deitrich; Thomas A. Persson and Mr. Persson; Carl Davis, Mabel K. Davis, Sally Crute, Edith Warnir, Miss Davis, Nod Van Buren, Hugh Rice, George Lessey, William Anderson and Joseph Clement, technical director.

Edythe Chapman in Lytell Support. Edythe Chapman has a role of genuine interest and importance in Bert Lytell's Metro photodrama, "Faith," is now in production at the American stage. Miss Chapman has been seen in a number of Metro features, notably in "First Blood," "The Lay of Dreams," both starring Viola Dana. She has that rare combination, understatement and ability in handling it. She excels in sympathetic treatment, but it is a sympathy that does not become overbearing to her co-partner.

Miss Chapman has appeared in leading parts with many of the larger producing companies, and has also headed her own stock company. Among her greatest successes have been "Lady Windermere's Fan," "Divorcees" and "Diplomacy." She has also appeared in the leading feminine Shakespearean and other classical parts. Previous to her dramatic experience she studied voice culture, and suited herself with operatic roles.

To Burlesque "Flu" Epidemic. Mildred Moore has been engaged as the new leading woman of Lyons-Moran comedies, and has also headed her own stock company. Among her greatest successes have been "Lady Windermere's Fan," "Divorcees" and "Diplomacy." She has also appeared in the leading feminine Shakespearean and other classical parts. Previous to her dramatic experience she studied voice culture, and suited herself with operatic roles.

McCUTCHEON Story for Alice Brady. While Alice Brady's Select picture, "Her Great Chance," is being shown in first-run houses, announced is the Select's sequel that her next attraction will be "In the Hollow of Her Hand," a story by George Barning McCutcheon.

Charles Maigne wrote the scenario and also directed, thus making the second picture for Alice Brady for which he has written the scenario and directed. The picture is neither comedy nor melodrama, but is an accurate portrayal of the times. In the hands of Mr. Maigne it is probably one of the most real and sincere of the epidemic pictures that have been made.
Four Big Selects for Release in December

Of the most alluring arrays of box-office attractions ever assembled by select for one month’s output is the group offered for the month of December. The stars, the subjects, and the order in which they will be distributed are: Constance Talmadge, in “A Lady’s Name,” in which she is presented by Lewis J. Selznick; Mitchell Lewis, select’s newest star, in “Code of the Yukon”; Norma Talmadge, in “The Heart of Wetonas,” and Alice Brady in “The Shadow of Her Hand.”

Constance Talmadge’s picture is a screen version of the famous stage success of the same name by Cyril Harcourt. The scenario is by Julia Crawford Ivers, and the direction is by Walter Edwards.

Mitchell Lewis’ vehicle is a story of the Northwestern Orient, which has been written by Anthony Paul Kelly. The scenario and direction of “Code of the Yukon” are by Bert Leavitt. For this picture Mr. Lewis is seen as a French-Canadian. There is a fight, a plunge through darkness, and — in this spectacular battle is Tom Santschi.

In her latest select picture, Norma Talmadge is a sly-eyed Indian maid. The “Heart of Wetonas” is no less appealing than David Belasco’s famous stage success of the same name. The story is sung in the play by George Scarborough. Mary Murillo wrote the scenario, and it was directed by Richard Philcox.

Last in Select’s December attractions is Alice Brady, whose forthcoming picture is from a story by George Barr McCutcheon. It has to do with a woman trying to protect the woman who killed her husband, and Alice Brady is the one who is held in the hollow of the other woman’s hand. Charles Maigne wrote the scenario and directed the production.

Priscilla Dean’s Bluebird Praise

Glowing words from the West Coast reference to Priscilla Dean’s latest Bluebird, which is temporarily entitled “Bluebird—Safe Cracker.” This subject will be released in February. Meanwhile the young star has reached New York through the channel of a big film, entitled “She Married a Husband,” which is looked upon as a subject that will keep exhibitors busy. Miss Dean in her next picture is cast as an underworld crook. In the supporting company two interesting names appear. Another newcomer is Spottiswoode Aiken.

Wellington Player is Miss Dean’s leading man. This will be his first appearance in support of the Bluebird star.

Miss Dean’s picture, “She Married a Husband,” is set for release December 16, Previous December 30, but has been transferred to take the place of “The Cabaret Girl.”

Paramount Releases Five Comedies for December

With the war over, the amusement-seeking public is more desirous of having a hearty laugh than before, and the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation has prepared to give exhibitors the opportunity of supplying this demand. The Paramount comedies which have just been listed for release are said to present one of the most notable schedules yet offered. There will be three Paramount-Mack Sennett comedies and two Paramount-James Montgomery Flagg subjects for December.

The first comedy is “Her First Mistake,” from the Mack Sennett studios, and which will be released December 1. The picture is said to be a decided novelty, and an unusually humorous story makes this one of the finest laughmakers yet released by this producer.

On December 8 there will be released a Paramount-Flagg comedy, entitled “Independence, B’Gosh.” The story deals with the woes of the Whiffies, a country couple who inherit a fortune of $85,000,000. Olin Howland and Florence Dixon are starred.

“Hide and Seek, Detectives,” is another Paramount-Mack Sennett comedy for December, to be released on the 15th. As the title implies, there is much of the Sherlock Holmes traveasty in this two-reeler, with Ben Turpin and Charles Lynn playing the title characters and Marie Prevost in another important part.

James Montgomery Flagg himself plays the star part in his comedy to be released December 22, and named “Perfectly Flendid Flanigan” or “The Hart of the Dreadful West.” Supporting him in the cast are Olin Howland, Ruby DeLormer and Sally Long. Mr. Flagg is a great admirer of William S. Hart, the Arcteraf star, and his new comedy is a travesty written around the Hart type of pictures. The resemblance of Mr. Flagg is this film to “Big Bill” is said to be remarkable.

The final comedy release of the month will be “The Village Chestnut,” another Paramount-Mack Sennett offering and, although there is nothing laughable ever available, it is promised that this picture, now in the making, will more than rank favorably with the quality of the others on December’s schedule.

Earle Williams in Secret Service Play.

In “The Man Who Wouldn’t Tell,” the Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature, scheduled for release the week of December 9, Vitagraph presents Earle Williams in the second of his eight star series releases under the new rotary Star Series releasing plan and booking policy. He has the role of a British secret service man in this country at the entrance of the United States in the World War and on a mission that makes impossible any explanation to the girl he loves of the apparent inaction which makes him appear a slacker.

The play is written by Bess Meredith, and is described as swift of action and war, and as a mystery film, the plot centering about the activities of two Germans, posing as pre-Americans, and who finally are unmasked. Mr. Williams is finely suited to this forceful role and is supported by Grace Darmond, Charles Spear and Edward Cecil. The picture was filmed on the Pacific Coast under direction of James Young.

Ray Putting on Baseball Picture.

Charles Ray, the Thomas H. Ince star, is at work at the Ince studios in Hollywood under the direction of Jerome Storm on a baseball picture for Paramount, which is as yet unnamed. This will be welcome to exhibitors and the picture and baseball fans throughout the country who re- call how Ray jumped into popularity in the early Triangle days with his delineation of the college baseball hero in “The Flim Flam Man.”

Ray is an enthusiast on the great American game, besides being a pretty good pitcher himself, so he is right in his element in the new picture. There are a lot of professional ball players among the cast and extras, and the games were played at Washington Park, Los Angeles. Jane Novak is leading woman.
Special Company Presents
"The Turn of the Road"

SINCE no two persons can, in the nature of things, form identical conceptions of the same story, the ideal condition would seem to be that in which the author of a really strong story should also direct its picturization. As director, this author-director should have high casting ability, thorough directing experience, and not be bound by too many restrictions on the part of the producing company.

This is the condition obtaining in the film of "The Turn of the Road" which was written, cast and directed by King W. Vidor for the Brenwood Film Corporation and is expected to be ready for release shortly.

"This picture demanded the extreme of realism and naturalness in its treatment," says S. P. Trodd, publicity director, "for it deals with the life of today as it is known and lived by the average American. Its humor, pathos, suspense and climax are drawn from everyday life. Overaction or overcharacterization would ruin it. It called for the utmost, naturalness in the portrayal of every main part. And this has been provided through an exceptionally well fitting and happy cast. It would be hard indeed to find better suited people than Helen Jerome Eddy for the part of a serious, self-sacrificing and unselfish daughter; Pauline Curley for that of her sister of high, though not too high, ideals; and Winter Hall for that of their dignified clergyman father. Mr. Vidor in his turn has put these characters and their lives so naturally into the story that the characters turn naturally out of the screen into the minds of the people who could play their parts without the least touch of make-up."

Losanco Super-Plays Begins Work in California

A PRODUCING company known as Losanco Super-Plays, Inc., has been organized in Los Angeles for the purpose of producing picture plays based upon the policy that "The Story's the Thing." J. W. Early, one of the pioneer producers in the industry, is the director general of the new organization, and its policies have been largely dictated by the fruits of his experience.

The Losanco Super-Plays, Inc., plans to partly supply the insistent public demand for better and better pictures by featuring all members of its casts instead of the star alone, by selecting its stories with the greatest care, and insisting that they carry a message and be free from disagreeable "suggestions"; by casting in each part actors and actresses of proved ability who are naturally the exact type for the part, by sparing neither time nor expense to make each production superior, and by working in close touch with the associated exhibitors to keep in touch with the public's wishes.

Production has already been started upon a satirical two-reel comedy, and the Losanco banner will include the products of two five-reel dramatic companies, two two-reel comedy companies, and one one-reel comedy company.

H. M. Gillum is business manager of the new firm. Everett C. Maxwell, short-story writer and photo-dramatist, heads the scenario department. Carl Stearns Clancy is writing the continuity for the first "super-drama." Clyde McCoy will direct under Mr. Early's supervision. Earl McFarley will produce a series of one-reel comedies. Robert Phelan is head cameraman. Theodore Kleine is technical director and Clarence W. Fry the location man.

Lillian Hackett, of New York, will have the leading role in the first five-reeler, Miss Crete Carton, formerly with the Rolin Studio, will be the headliner in the two-reelers, and Miss Glory Raves, a clever ingenue actress, who came to this country after playing Wendy in Peter Pan for two seasons in London, will be the most important member of the one-reel comedy company.

The general offices of Losanco Super-Plays, Inc., are at 901-6 Citizens' National Bank Building, Los Angeles. Plans for a new studio are being drawn up. The company is temporarily operating under its first corporate name—The Pekin Feature Film Company.

Will Help Finance Producers.

While the operations of the Independent Sales Corporation are definitely limited to the maintaining of a large force of film salesmen throughout the country for the sole purpose of booking pictures, and it will not be concerned in the producing of pictures or in the physical distribution of productions, it recently became known that an important part of its functions is the financing of producers in so far as a cash advance on finished negatives is concerned, and also the financing of prints and advertising.

This places the Independent Sales Corporation in a position where it can close with producers, or groups of producers, immediately to take full charge of the advertising and marketing of their pictures, while at the same time sharing with them the burden of the cost of production. The physical distribution of the pictures, which is a thing apart from the activities of the company, is taken care of by a special arrangement between this company and the Film Clearing House, which specializes in that branch of the exchange business.

First Walthall Release Is Set for December 22

HENRY B. WALTHALL will be the Christmas star of the new Exhibitors' Mutual releases. By the terms of the contract between the Robertson-Cole Company, Mutual Distributing Corporation and the Affiliated Distributors' Corporation all pictures of the Robertson-Cole Mutual exchanges in the United States and Canada are being supplied by Robertson-Cole. Mr. Walthall's first release program will be on December 22, when his first vehicle, "And a Still Small Voice," will appear.

Mr. Walthall is at work at the National Film Corporation of America studios on the East Coast in "Lives for Sale," described as an original powerful story. His next production will be a play founded on Huddie Wood's "The Long Lane's Turning." It will be produced as a super-feature.

"And a Still Small Voice" is described as a photodrama of unusual novelty and strength, with Mr. Walthall at his very best.

Government Aircraft in Carlson Film.

In "A Romance of the Air" several different types of valuable aircraft are used, and in order to get the right type of machinery, obtained by Carl E. Carlson from both the Committee on Public Information and the Army and Navy Aircraft Board in Washington to use the Government machines and the Government flying field at Thanh, N. Y.
Among Independent Producers

Conducted by C. S. SEWELL

Notable Cast Selected

FOR the initial Ralphe Ince Film Attraction now being produced for S-L Pictures, by Emnett S. Sawyer and Herbert Lubin announce an all-star cast has been engaged. The feminine contingent will be recruited from the stage and screen respectively; namely, Grace Darling and Clara Jelley.

Miss Darling is known to motion picture audiences by reason of her appearance in feature of Diana S. and also for the reception of unique publicity through the medium of a chain of daily newspapers, while Clara Joel, who also enact an important role in this production, has starred in the dramatic successes, "Commanding Captain" and "Wish Me Good-Bye, Pleasure," and is said to have turned down many previous offers from producers to appear in motive pictures. Among the male members of the cast who will appear in support of the star, E. K. Lincoln, is W. B. Mack, who has appeared with such celebrities as Wilton Luckaye, John Drew and Julia Marlowe in stage productions. Another well known stage player is Irving Brooks, who has appeared with Madame Modjeska, William Faversham and others, and has also appeared in screen productions, including the recent Blackton feature. Another prominent player is John F. Wade, who has been fitted with the role of "C. M. D."

In addition to the foregoing the cast includes Leo Delaney, the favorite of early Vitagraph days, who has since been seen in a number of features, and is known to nearly every patron of motion pictures; and Corredor Dunion, a returned war hero, author of "A Yankee in the Trenches," who is also an excellent actor.

Actual Scene of Exploits Used in Dalton Production

EMMET DALTON, general manager of the Southern Feature Film Corporation, announces that the initial production in this company, "Beyond the Law," is now ready for disposition to state rights and foreign buyers.

Regarding the reception accorded this picture at its premiere at Wurlitzer Hall on November 25, where the audience was composed of state rights and other members of the motion picture industry, and the subsequent glowing terms: "After it had been shown a number of the audience told me I had a production which was destined to create a furor in the industry. Of course, my picture will not create a furor, but it will serve the day as a hit to satisfy his patrons and his box office. That is the conclusion of the test of a picture, and I am certain that 'Beyond the Law' can stand that test."

S. Jay Kaufman

Mr. Kaufman, for Initial S-L Picture

The original story was enacted in real life. My brothers and myself lived the life of the picture seven years ago."

At Wurlitzer Hall, "Beyond the Law" was shown to the accompaniment of appropriate music, and many favorable comments were made on the effective Western atmosphere of the production.

The cast, headed by Emnett Dalton, includes Bobby Connelly, Ida Pardee, William Dunn and others.

S. Jay Kaufman

Jay KAUFMAN, known as a severe critic of motion pictures, has himself at last written a picture. It is called "Wanted for Murder," and has just been completed by Harry Rapf. Mr. Kaufman is the author of several one-act plays, and conducts the "Round the Town" column in the New York Evening World.

Mr. Kaufman made the following statement:

"I am not opposed to moving pictures. I have never been. As to the picture, 'Wanted for Murder,' which I wrote, it is in the nature of a coincidence that the picture was written about five months ago, and now our title seems to be on the lips of everyone.

"It is the idea that the Kaiser is responsible for millions of murders. I wrote the story because I thought it was good propaganda, and in addition it told some other things in which the public would be interested.

"This quality of simplicity convinces me that greater subjects can be filmed because the greater the subject, the simpler the story. 'Wanted for Murder' is a timely story, but the other things I want to do are rather more unconventional and startling."
"Wanted for Murder" Rich with Exploitation Ideas

Harry Rapp, who is producing the feature, "Wanted for Murder," starring Elaine Hammerstein, calls attention to the many opportunities afforded exhibitors for exploitation possibilities in connection with this feature. The title lends itself to advertising stunt, while the theme will be a live one after peace talk subsides, as several of the Allies are reported as taking steps to extradite William Hohenzollern and try him for the murder of helpless women and children.

In addition, five hundred soldiers assisted the well known vaudeville artists Irene Franklin and Burt Green, in some of the scenes showing how the boys are entertained on the other side, and the names of these boys can be secured for local exploitation. The Y. M. C. A. has offered an opportunity for the principals to develop an acquaintance which is followed by romance and adventure, and the Salvation Army lassies come in for their bit of fame, while the Motor Corps of America is shown searching for the sick and wounded.

For thrills there is the bombarding of Berlin with peace propaganda by American aviators followed by the rise of Bolshevism and disorder in Germany. It is also announced that many new units are in preparation for the Broadway showing of this picture, and they will be furnished to exhibitors.

Serial Starring Maciste Filmed Under Difficulties

Harry Raver, who is in charge of the distribution of the twenty-four reel serial, "The Liberator," starring Maciste, the giant of "Cabiria" and the hero of "The Warrior," furnishes some interesting side-lights on the actual production of this picture.

It was begun in August, 1917, but was not completed until September, 1918. Due to the difficulties experienced in keeping the cast intact because of the military demands affecting the male members who were in the Italian Army, work on the production was abandoned no less than four times, and it was only through the influence of Gabriele D'Annunzio that periodic leaves of absence were obtained.

Many of the male artists may be observed wearing the army identification tags. Instead, the director, who also staged "Cabiria," was injured in action twice, and directed a portion of "The Liberator" while seated in a wheelchair. Miss Manzini, who portrays Donna Violante, lost both her father and brother just after the picture went into production. "Bianca" of the story lost her husband in battle, and the child around whom the action develops is her own.

All of the principals of this picture were also members of the "Cabiria" cast.

Grace Darling to Support Lincoln in S-L Pictures

One of the best known personal names of the motion picture screen has been engaged for a leading role of the first Ralph Ince film attraction in the person of Grace Darling. Miss Darling has been chosen by Arthur H. Sawyer and Herbert Hiatt, producers of the S-L production made by E. K. Lincoln, who will be seen in the stellar role of the S-L production now in the running at the Y. M. C. A. Temple in New York. Her appealing blond beauty, together with marked ability in the matter of ingenue and leading parts requiring intelligence and brilliancy of execution, influenced the organizers of the new company in making their choice.

Grace Darling possesses youth in abundant form, and has been acclaimed on various occasions as one of the leading beauties of the silent drama. Her career in the movies, with its consequent rise to world-wide fame, has been meteoric in the rapidity of its flight.

Upon her was bestowed the biggest campaign of publicity ever devised by the most powerful chain of daily newspapers in the United States when Miss Darling made a continental trip from New York to California, taking this omnibus journey with an inspection of that wonderful fest of engineering, the Panama Canal. As the leading lady of the first S-L production was photographed more actual times than any individual in the world. Stops were made in every important city, the leading officials visited and celebration held in honor of Miss Darling's arrival. An ovation was accorded her at every station, and she met innumerable celebrities of every station in life. Bearing letters from Governor Whitman and the late Mayor Mitchell, Miss Darling was received by Mayor Rudolph, of San Francisco, to whom she presented the transcontinental messages. Following her return to New York, the much-photographed young lady appeared in several successful productions, thereby more firmly establishing her country-wide popularity.

She bears the unique distinction of being the only individual in the world to protect her features by patent. Because of various attempts to imitate her likeness in the movies by the use of make up, Miss Darling made application to the Patent Office to have her features duly registered. A replica of her face, done by a well known sculptor, was placed on file at Washington.

In appearing as one of the leading supports to E. K. Lincoln in the victorious Ralph Ince film attraction, Miss Darling has a role especially suited to her beauty and ability.

A Notice of Importance Concerning the Independent Distribution of Productions

The Arrow Film Corporation are specialists in the Independent motion picture field, operating to serve your wants on production of all lengths, including serials.

We have completed our enlarged plans for the year 1919 for the State Right distribution of motion picture productions, and are in a position to furnish you with confidential information regarding any productions or angles of the Independent picture business.

There will appear in this space weekly for the last twelve months, announcements of interest to the Independent market.

The record of transactions closed through this office during the year as recorded in the various issues of the trade publications exceeds that of the combined results of other like organizations. Your doing business with us will prove to you why this is so.

Why not affiliate with a concern conducting its business along strict commercial lines?

Let us open up a correspondence.

What are your needs?

Are you receiving the class of productions desired?

Are your purchasing arrangements satisfactory to you?

Let us put you on our mailing list for

THE ARROW BULLETIN, A LIVE STATE RIGHT JOURNAL

Our Efficiency Means Your Success

ARROW FILM CORPORATION
W. E. Shallenberger, President
TINE BUILDING, N. Y.
State Rights Sales Reported This Week

HILLER & WILK announce the sale of "The Four Year War" to the Warner Brothers Theatres. The two-day巡演 will be held in all four states. The film has been well received in its road dates.

Pioneer to State Right

NATHAN HIRSH, president of the Pioneer Film Corporation, has announced the sale of "The Siren" to states in the independent market. The film has been well received in its road dates.

Moore Uses Gerard Picture for Second Run at Strand

FOR what is said to be the first time in its history, Tom Moore's Strand Theatre, Washington, D.C., a first-run theatre, has played a second run on a production after it had been the featured attraction several weeks before at a competing theatre.

The production was "My Forty Years in Germany," a First National attraction. It was booked at the Strand for a week's run beginning on Sunday, November 18. The first run was at the Poli Theatre, the local Shubert house, where it played for a week at advanced prices to excellent business.

In speaking of the engagement, Mr. Moore said:

"The most interesting part of the peculiar situation involving 'My Forty Years in Germany' is that when it was shown at Poli's Theatre the public generally was at a tension. There were few individuals who did not have a relative or intimate friend in the service. The result was that they were keyed up every moment, because the picture visualized the events directly responsible for the part their relatives or friends were playing in the war. We played the production at the Strand after the war had ended. Then the people were relaxed. This danger for their relatives or friends was passed. They were composed, and, with minds freed from strain and anxiety, they sat back and enjoyed this pictorial presentation of the facts leading up to our declaration of war against Germany with all of the interest that existed before peace was declared, but without the mental strain."

"This production is big enough as an attraction to stand a repeat booking or a second-run showing with all of the prestige that usually goes to a first-run engagement."

The quickest route to a market for used films is via The World's Classified Advertising. A trial will prove this assertion.

Scene from "A Romance of the Air" (Carlton).
breakdowns. Most of these men suffer from heart and nerve trouble, and generally come back after being treated. In France we had about 5,000 men in training constantly, and in the schools there are about 1,000 machines. The daily breakage is about 25 machines. The life of a machine in a school is rarely more than thirty hours in the air. In France our output was about seventy machines per day—consumption about forty-five. There are no special physical requirements in France. The only examinations are of the eyes and heart. We had men fifty-two years old who made good flyers.

Gersten Secures "Woman" for Northern New Jersey

NORTHERN New Jersey rights for the Maurice Tourneur production, "Woman," have just been sold to Frank Gersten, 130 West 46th street, New York City, who is well known as a distributor for unusual features in Northern New Jersey.

Hillier & Wilk, who are offering this production on state rights basis, announce that strong interest has been manifested in "Woman" at the New York Rivoll Theatre, when it was pronounced by critics to be an unusual and remarkably produced feature.

With the announcement of the open market plan for "Woman," and letters telegrammed from exhibitors and exchange men in all sections of the country, production has been provided and sale of a number of other territories will be published within a few days.

Maurice Tourneur Productions commissioned Burton Rice, the well known artist, to design the lithographs for "Woman," and the Rice posters are said to be strikingly beautiful. "Woman" admits of unusual billboard and poster display, and Mr. Rice has taken full advantage of his opportunities.

Stoermer Offers "The Tidal Wave."

All speculations are wasted energy, according to William Stoermer, producer, author of "The Honor System," and now author, producer and purveyor of "The Tidal Wave," which he is preparing to circulate immediately. There are certain angles of mob psychology that may be predetermined accurately, according to the Stoermer manual of film tactics. In his preparations for "The Tidal Wave" the producer goes back to July, 1917, almost a year and a half ago. At that time, the owner of "The Tidal Wave" decided that he would have in negative form on the shelves ready to be finally cut and subtitled a picture big in drama and timely in subject. Just suited to what popular desire should approximately be when the war was over and peace declared.

"The Tidal Wave" is not a war play. "The Tidal Wave" is not in the limitations of definitions a romance. Another fact for record is that "The Tidal Wave" is not a suspense detective story. But, The Tidal Wave, a story of spies and agents and atmospheres of all three of those kind of dramas," said Mr. Stoermer. "I am testing my judgment to parallel public inclination at an hour commonly supposed to be the most difficult to gauge by film makers and exhibitors, and, for that matter, authors. And, I do not think that I am going to be mistaken in believing more than a year in advance that I could call the turn on public desire in film plays after peace had been finally tagged to the great red bowl that has convulsed the world for the past four years. In The Tidal Wave' I think I have the kind of play that nineteenth of playwrights want at this time."

"Sins of the Children" Now Ready.

"The Sins of the Children," recently made, but held up through the influenza ban, was released on December 1 by Harry Rapf. This picture is founded on one of Cosmo Hamilton's widely read novels. It is claimed to be a tremendous box office attraction, as it portrays human emotions in detail the same vein that the Cosmo Hamilton books are so well known for. The cast includes such stars as Misses, Stuart Holmes and Mahlon Hamilton. The settings and productions are of high standard.

Perret Completes "Stars of Glory."

Leonce Perret's victory film, "Stars of Glory," is now ready. Mr. Perret announces that work on this production was started in 1917, a year before the official appointment of General Foch as Marshal in charge of the Allied armies, and now, with Allied armies again on the right of the armistice, the production is complete.

Mr. Perret further announces that out of gratitude to General Pershing for having brought victory and peace to France, he has decided to dedicate this picture, which he considers his masterpiece, to him, and has cabled him requesting permission to do so.

Dispose of seats, films, lights or equipment that you don't want; buy such accessories as you need, through The World's Classified Advertising section—one of the most effective places known to the moving picture industry.

The Moving Picture World

December 14, 1918

Edith Day
Featured with Lieutenant Bert Hall in "A Romance of the Air."

Big Battery of Cameras for Ralph Ince Feature

In accordance with their policy of loaning to the inaugural Ralph Ince Film Attractions every possible aid to insure perfection of the mechanical and technical detail, Mr. Louis Ince, and Herbert Lubin have secured the field of cinematographers and picked William Black and Cornes Fishback to photograph the various scenes. Both of these men are experts. William Black has been responsible for several recent Metro features, while Fishback has turned the crank for a large number of the leading companies. Both have introduced novelties and innovations in the matters of side lighting, stereoscopic effects, and impressionistic night scenes, and surprises are said to be in store for those who witness the Ince production on the screen.

Capable assistants have been provided in the persons of Charles Nelson and Hugo Sussman, who will have charge of a battery of motion picture and still cameras, ten in all. This multiplicity of photographic discipline has been provided in order to secure scenes from every possible angle. The work of the photographic division will be under the direct charge of William Cohill, working under the supervision of Ralph Ince. Mr. Cohill is thoroughly familiar with this branch of the business due to several years' experience in the leading studios of the West Coast and in New York.

All cameras, both still and motion, have been provided with the most modern appliances in order to permit of the greatest latitude in securing original effects.

This is an example of the careful attention the sponsors of Ralph Ince Film Attractions are giving to every detail of the first production presenting E. K. Lincoln in order that it may meet the expectations of the leading exhibitors of the United States.

Lieutenant Bert Hall Speaks of Aviation

Lieutenant Bert Hall, the American Ace, who has taken part in over one hundred aerial battles, and who is featured in Carl E. Carlton's production, "A Romance of the Air," says the average life of an aviator is about twenty years. "However," adds Hall, "this does not mean they all die. Some are prisoners, some wounded and many are physically Scene from "Beyond the Law" (Southern Feature Film Corporation).

Critical Reviews and Comments
Concerning Current Productions

"THE SILENT RIDER"
Five-Real Triangle-Kaybee Presents Roy Stewart in Fine Western Subject.
Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

In this five-real subject, "The Silent Rider," written by C. M. Clark and directed by Cliff Smith, Triangle-Kaybee has turned out a Western number of great merit. It represents a high point of development for this type of offering, in scenic investiture, in appropriate plot and character, and in its magnificent and sweeping photographic effects. The action is leisurely at the beginning, but comes up gradually to a gripping climax.

Roy Stewart, who can fill the role of the hero, Bob Gideon, once more proves himself a performer to be reckoned with in the delineation of Western character parts. He is not the typical "bad man" or half-bandit portrayed by William S. Hart and other capable players. He is rather the antithesis of this type—the jovial, good-natured cowboy of Western fiction, always ready for a "fight or a fiddle" and also to fall speedily in love with the heroine of the story. There is perhaps no one in the films who visualizes this class of hero more effectively than Mr. Stewart.

The setting for this particular tale is an actual place, a picturesque little settle in the heart of a rolling mountain country, which lends itself admirably to the historical and picturesque Western story. The hero arrives in search of a job at a time when two of the ranch employees have been killed by cattle rustlers. The plot concerns his work of locating and rounding up the rustlers, who are represented by the foreman of the ranch and his followers. In this manner the story is divided in a way that is both interesting and dramatic, giving the story an up-to-the-minute appeal.

The excellent photography was the work of Steve Rouds.

"BEYOND THE LAW"
Southern Feature Film Corporation Presents Emmett Dalton in Own Life Story.
Reviewed by Margaret J. MacDonald.

Just as the youth of a few years ago revered the stories of the Wild West, as told by William F. Cody and others, a new generation is discovering the realism to-day and greeting the thrilling story of the Daltons, Kansas outlaws of the latter days of the nineteenth century, as presented in six reels by the Southern Feature Film Corporation, Emmett Dalton, which is the story of the last two but one of whom are killed off in their final foolish attempt to get even with their persecutors, is featured in the story.

The production is not one which we will criticize as a bit of dramatic fiction, nor did we find it lacking the highest standards of artistic picture craft. On the contrary, we view each scene of the pictured narrative with the same eager anticipation of coming events as the small boy feels for his story-book heroes. And at the same time there are no glaring mis-calculations evident in the making of the picture, and in the picturization of the serial of his life as written by himself for the Wide World Magazine. The author moves easily and without any evidence of effort on his part to drive home facts which stand for themselves in the dramatic situations which naturally evolve from the chain of thrilling events subscribed.

The story opens with the appointment to the office of United States deputy marshal of Frank Dalton, who later loses his life in the rounding up of lawbreakers. At their brother’s death Bob and Grat Dalton are appointed deputies, and their younger brother, Emmett, anxious to be in the same line of work, follows in their wake whenever he can.

Discovering that the United States marshal under whom they were working was appropriating fees intended for the deputies they resigned their offices and started off for New Mexico along with a couple of pals. Here the men separated, Bob and a couple of the others striking off farther west. The act which brings them from outlaws occurred in one of the gambling dens of the west where Bob, discovering himself being fleeced by a crooked game in the roulette wheel, takes all the gamblers’ money at a revolver’s point and departs with his companions.

Discovering that Emmett is in Coffeyville, Kansas, California is attributed to the Daltons, who are at the time hundreds of miles away, and gonded by the injustice of wrong accusation they decide to live up to their reputation. The robbery of an express train carrying a shipment of gold marks the gang’s first robbing, and in no time the police are on the track of Bob’s sweetheart is killed. Becoming hardened he plots with his companions the robbery by daylight of two banks in Coffeyville, Kan., at the same time. Here three minutes required for the time clock on one of the safes to strike brings the Government officers at their heels and all are killed but Emmett, who is sentenced to prison for a long term. A pardon granted him for good conduct leads to his release, and the following shows the adventures of the Daltons, with their plans and machinations. The story is well photographed and directed.

"THE TESTING OF MILDRED VANE"
Metro Features May Allison in Five-Real Subject of Unusual Story Interest.
Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

Complete novelty of plot is a thing so rarely encountered that it brings an added interest to "The Testing of Mildred Vane." it cannot be given credit for being entirely original. It is a good deal of this desirable commodity and at least turns up a story of remarkable quality. Here is a love story, with the added element of a scintillating villainy that has been shown on the screen for some time in the machinations of Dr. Hernandez, and we have seldom seen a persecuted heroine placed in a more awkward predicament than is Mildred Vane.

Mildred is the daughter of Matthew Vane, or at least she is presumed to be when her father, Dr. Hernandez, a Spanish physician, once loved the girl’s mother, and is determined to have revenge upon both father and daughter because of his old disappointment in love. He persuades Matthew Vane, through some old letters, that his daughter was once married to him and that Mildred is not in fact his daughter. The father, shocked and with his reason almost gone, leaves Mildred in the care of the doctor while he goes on a trip. While he is away the doctor discharges the family servants, makes a practical prisoner of the girl and finally tries to wed her to an unwelcome suitor. But the girl’s lover, a young professor of Greek, comes to the rescue and finally brings out the truth.

This makes a compact and enjoyable feature and has few shortcomings of any sort. The cast includes May Allison, George Field, Niguel De Brullier, Darrell Foss and Fred Goodwin.

"INFATUATION"
Six-Real Pathé Special Feature Presents Gaby Deslys in French Adaptation.
Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

This is a good deal of pictorial charm that is six-reel production, made by the Eclipse Film Company, and released by Pathé. It is adapted from a story by Max von Sydow and its scenes are laid in Paris. The story itself is one of general appeal and contains many picturesque incidents in both the opening and closing reels.

Gaby Deslys, the widely advertised French dancer, is cast in the role of Flora...
Nyx, a girl of the streets, who becomes a great actress as the story proceeds. Her brilliant career is cut short by the excitement in European court circles, suffers no diminution under the searching lens of the public. Nyx is a devastatingly beautiful woman, but though in no way notable. The story, however, is one of the sentimental, heart-touching sort, and the film from which the story was carried and she stars in his productions, Harry Miller plays the "other man," a wealthy young gentleman who tries to win back the girl away from her husband. Mrs. Maxadax also has an important part as Le Baron, the money lender and villain of the piece.

The production as a whole may be recommended for its general entertainment values and brilliant pictorial effects. Louis Mercurante.

"BUCHANAN'S WIFE"
Virginia Pearson
Star of Fox Film in Which MacDermott Is Surprisingly Artistic.
Reviewed by Walter K. Hill.

The presentation of "Buchanan's Wife" proves that a good story may be screened by a few players and turned to some advantage. A film of such calibre as one of the cast is as clever as Marc MacDermott. The title role is played by Virginia Pearson, a favorite with many of the audience, but the greatest interest and importance is attached to the role of Buchanan, played with his customary skill by Mervyn MacDermott. Victor Sutherland, Ned Finley and a woman who is unmentioned in the cast constitute the other major characters, and on the whole this gives "Buchanan's Wife" an effective presentation.

The woman in the case married the wrong man. When her husband discovers this fact he causes the man whom his wife really loves to be invited to the Buchanan home, and there, before their dinner guest, Buchanan insuits his wife by accusing her of infidelity. A terrible error, but one that eventually leads to Buchanan's in his library, easing his conscience by copious libations from his bottle of "Kansas," a burglary, enter, and is again cowering before the muzzle of Buchanan's gun.

Then a strange complex idea enters his head, an idea that he calls "Kansas" a thousand dollars if he may disappear with the tramp and share the life of a mendicant. Buchanan's wife goes to Europe after setting every agency at work to discover her husband. In this task Harry Faring, the man she loves, gives his aid. Finally Mrs. Buchanan is called back from Europe to identify a corpse that is supposed to be the remains of her husband. This identification she gives and soon thereafter becomes Mrs. Faring. Buchanan is proved to be an easy mark and no one is going to believe anything like it ever happened. Taken at its face value, the story holds a quaint and clean of fact, and there is just enough of the spirit of romance in the air to satisfy the taste when once satisfied to settle back in his seat and see how the author has managed the spectacular. You will discover that careful direction, a capable cast and the humorous acting of the author's and his assistants will make the picture a success, and supply him with many hearty laughs.

There is an exciting role for Miss Pearson and she plays it well.

"TWO-GUN BETTY"
Bessie Barrsrole in Well-Made Comedy
Produced by Robert Brunton Distributed by W. W. Hodkinson.
Reviewed by Edward Weltsel.

IT ISN'T so much what you do, it's the way you do it, is exemplified in "Two-Gun Betty," a five-part picture written and directed by Howard Hickman and presented by Robert Brunton, with Bessie Barrs as its lively and attractive heroine. Betty is a small girl and no one is going to believe anything like it ever happened. Taken at its face value, the story holds a quaint and clean of fact, and there is just enough of the spirit of romance in the air to satisfy the taste when once satisfied to settle back in his seat and see how the author has managed the spectacular. You will discover that careful direction, a capable cast and the humorous acting of the author's and his assistants will make the picture a success, and supply him with many hearty laughs.

The drama where Bessie Barrsrole hotfoots it around and around a barnyard at the end of a rope which is attached to the neck of a large horse. It is a real comic an' powerful amusing, as the gifted young men who write the western story subtitles might say. Bessie is also as cute and cunning a cowboy as ever was. She can make up her mind to try out any word that will roll off her tongue. The why and wherefore of Betty Craig, in the person of Mrs. Harris, and her right to wearing sheepskin bloomers is set forth in this wise: Betty has a plum of a job in the west. boys' camp. She buys a complete cowboy outfit, and the party starts for Jack Kennedy's place. All are made welcome in the rancher's home, Betty's masquerade. She is finally persuaded by Jack to stay at the ranch as its mistress.

"LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE"
Pioneer Presents Six-Reel Selling
Production of Riley's Great Child Poem.
Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

I would be hard to think of a stronger subject of juvenile appeal than the important and well-loved character of Little Orphan Annie," by James Whitcomb Riley, but it startled even a case-hardened critic to see how well this film has been made into a moving picture. It is all there, the delicitaste, the smiles and tears, and all the romantic dreams, childhood, Annie, her sorrows. Even the good old "Riley" has been included. He heads off the film, reciting a few lines of the poem, and is then pictured surrounded by a group of children. A wild night at a previously staged bar-room free-for-all, and a real adventure with cattle thieves winds up Betty's masquerade. She is finally persuaded by Jack to stay at the ranch as its mistress.

"HYDE & SEEK DETECTIVES"
A Paramount-Mack Sennett Farce.
Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison.

I T IS not to be expected that the in-defective, fun-making ability of the writer-director will be in evidence, even if compelled to rely on other conditions for his rough and tumble style of production. Turpin and Lyman have the title role in...

"TOO FAT TO FIGHT"
Goldwyn Releases a Bright and Humanizing Comedy of War Service by Rex

Reviewed by Louisa Reeves Harrison.

LIKE other Rex Beach productions, "Too Fat to Fight," is admirably marked by a significance from its interpreter, the leads by Frank McIntyre and Florence Dixon being particularly in this respect; the subject matter is vital and the material finely constructed, but audience interest is somewhat stimulated by the big and most effective subtitles ever shown on the screen, and by a tender and pleasant treatment of the characterizations involved in the production. The latter is felt deeply at intervals. The soul of the story is untouched. It is a kind of American, without theatricalism, affecting to those hearts are really and wholly "human."
The story contrasts our first easy-going indifference to world events with the surprising and sudden step that suddenly grew in our hearts, even in cold hearts and base ones, under the inspiring influence of noble spirit and situations. That step was to get into the fight and could not do so, who was even rejected by the "I" on account of being too fat, found a pull to enter war service. That he displayed heroism is not astonishing, but the story does not furnish him with an advantageous opportunity to show it—a weakness which makes the ending rather commonplace—but interest in its career is of minor importance where there is an evident intention by show the big and most effective subtitles ever shown on the screen, and by a tender and pleasant treatment of the characterizations involved in the production. The latter is felt deeply at intervals. The soul of the story is untouched. It is a kind of American, without theatricalism, affecting to those hearts are really and wholly "human."
The story contrasts our first easy-going indifference to world events with the surprising and sudden step that suddenly grew in our hearts, even in cold hearts and base ones, under the inspiring influence of noble spirit and situations. That step was to get into the fight and could not do so, who was even rejected by the "I" on account of being too fat, found a pull to enter war service. That he displayed heroism is not astonishing, but the story does not furnish him with an advantageous opportunity to show it—a weakness which makes the ending rather commonplace—but interest in its career is of minor importance where there is an evident intention by show the big and most effective subtitles ever shown on the screen, and by a tender and pleasant treatment of the characterizations involved in the production. The latter is felt deeply at intervals. The soul of the story is untouched. It is a kind of American, without theatricalism, affecting to those hearts are really and wholly "human."

"FUSS AND FEATHERS"
Ends Bennett in Thomas H. Ince Supervised Paramount Picture of His Own Creation

Reviewed by Edward Wetzal.

YOUTHFUL charm and the change from life in a humble shack to the Fuss and Feathers type of existence are conditions that always attract the public. The girliness of End Bennett and his experience in the same Paramount production, "Fuss and Feathers," give the picture a firm hold on the absorption of the spirited players in the front row. Written by Julian Josephson and directed by Fred Niblo, under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince, is a part of the comedy-drama variety that is intended only to entertain. Much of its material is taken from the stage, which helped it out by sound judgment. The acting of the star and her support is also a genuine credit to the good "Fuss and Feathers." William Will the pleasure and find the fortunes of Susie Baldwin uncommonly engaging.

When Peter Baldwin strikes it rich, after prospecting for gold all his life, he cooks up the old shack and Susie and her starts for San Francisco. The man who takes his "end" off his hands for two hundred thousand dollars is Martin Ledyard, a wealthy mining inventor, who is having to coddle his mother and be told by the elder Ledyard to go out and earn his own bread, in a mercy-receiving the situation, but doesn't make good. A large roll of bills, given to him secretly by his mother, sets him off on another turn at any living.

and her father are partners. By their arrangement, the master-mind of the comedies of fancy manners as soon as she realizes the limited supply of the article provided by the presence of the crooks. Pete resents the master crook's treatment of him and throws him and his brother into the possession of the crook. He, Stanton, the crook, rolls and plays young Ledyard and leaves him on the road. He is rescued by Susie and taken to her home. Pete hires the boy as Susie's etiquette teacher after he recovers, and the story is nothing short of heart-warming, the parentsLedyards object to Susie, but change their minds when they learn she saved them. When a chance by Stanton to rob the Baldwin house, led by steady humanism, is supported by Douglas MacLean as Robert, John P. Lockney as Pete Baldwin, French Charles as Martin Ledyard, Cyril Nash as Jack Ledyard, and Robert McKim as J. Wells Stanton.

"A PAIR OF RAINBOWS"
Two Comedies Produced by the United States Motion Picture Corporation

Reviewed by Edward Wetzal.

THE titles of two Rainbow comedies just released by the United States Motion Picture Corporation are "The Christmas Judge" and "Nearly a Slacker." Slippet Vera and Eddie Louudon are the leading players and talk of the second reel in length were directed by Joseph Richmond. The stories are straight comedy stories, but their entertaining qualities, while not at all remarkable, will appeal to the not over-critical public. Some "Judge" relates to the private trials of a young chap who has managed to win the affection of a young lady when elected or appointed a judge and who uses his position to make his future mother-in-law's life a torment. The old gentleman has refused to let his daughter marry the man of her choice. Father-in-law assembles the company with a bunch of chorus girls. The judge finds it out and has brought it into the court. The former the prisoner is ready to say "Heaven bless you, my children." "Nearly a Slacker" concerns a young chap who is kept under his mother-in-law's thumb until he joins the army. The end of the film works a welcome change in his domestic arrangements, both his wife and her mother being eager to wait on him. The entire cast of both pictures apply themselves earnestly to their tasks. General Film Company distributed the subject.

"WIVES AND OTHER WIVES"
Five-Reel American-Pathe Subject Presents Fairly Strong Family Comedy

Reviewed by Robert C. McEvary.

T HIS five-reel offering, "Wives and Other Wives," begins with the matrimonial affairs of Gemma and Robin Thomas, a real pair of newlyweds who reside in an apartment house. The wife and husband get in a battle of the letters and the young husband leaves in high dudgeon. Later Mr. Craig, and many other characters, marry to the Chamberlin apartments by mistake, and Mrs. Chamberlin, thinking him a burglar, shoots him at close quarters to his great unhurt. His wife, however, searches for him and finds him in the Chamberlin rooms. The opening situations are attractively

"THE ZERO HOUR"
Five-Reel World Picture Features June Elvidge in Entertaining Story

Reviewed by Robert C. McEvary.

This five-reel world picture, "The Zero Hour," written and directed by Travers Vale, tells a bright, entertaining story. It deals with faithful and devoted wife playing the part of an over-curious attorney interested in bringing the young man into the matter but, in the end, the young man fulfills his promise of a future. There is never a moment when the two sisters become confused in the mind of the observer, and this aids immensely in the plot interest.

The villain of the story is Enna Brand, well presented by Armand Kallos. Brand is an out-and-out fake clairvoyant, and he induces the father of the two girls to appear as a seance as the deceased husband of Mrs. Taunton, mother of the hero, Breckinridge. In reality, the hero's mother, who she thinks is the spirit of his mother is so great that Mrs. Taunton dies at the scene, leaving the old man to the care of the fake clairvoyant. He afterward falls in love with Fanny Craig, who becomes his secretary after he is cured of his belief in the spirit of his father and mother. He then is on the spiritualistic practices.

Frank Mayo is cast in the role of the hero. Others appearing are Henry Windick, Grace Henderson, Clio Ayers, Nora Cecil, Dorothy Walters and Reginald Carrington.

"THE DAWN OF UNDERSTANDING"
Bessie Love Scores in Vitagraph Production of "Dawn of Understanding"

Reviewed by Edward Wetzal.

THERE are a number of original twists to the Bret Harte story, "The Dawn of Understanding," produced by the Vitagraph company, with Bessie Love as a forlorn little heroine who creates happiness for others and for herself in spite of the trouble that falls on her. Particularly the production is a good one, and this tale of the West in '49 will prove refreshing to the young American picture patron.

Bret Harte's ability to reproduce life in the Wild West in the days when the prairie-schooners were headed for Calfor- nia, guarantees the spectator correctly drawn details. The story is written by David Smith, the director of the picture, who has handled the scenes with considerable skill, and the cast does its work
"REBUILDING BROKEN LIVES"
America's Red Cross War Film
Illustrates A Marvelous Achievement
Reviewed by Edward Weitsel.

ONE-REEL picture, entitled "Rebuilding Broken Lives," and showing how the Red Cross is helping to bring about the canning of the problems of childhood, has been completed by the American Red Cross. The script and direction are by Madeleine K. Griffin, and is being distributed by the General Film Company. It illustrates the methods used by the Red Cross in fighting war and its aftermath. Last week the episode was shown at the Palace Theatre, where it was received with gratitude and wonderfully instructive, it was among the most entertaining features of the program.

Everyone is familiar with the determination in all possible cases, the maimed soldiers of France and her Allies with artificial arms and legs of so efficient a pattern that the brave men need not be dependent on the charity of their governments, but could earn their own living. "Rebuilding Broken Lives" is a fitting title for the work the organization is accomplishing. To see men with both arms cut off at the shoulder doing various kinds of farm work or engaged in some mechanical pursuit, and able to work as skilled and capable as any of their fellow citizens, is no more than can be expected. And consequently, Jim should be exonerated and Ira is convicted of the crime. He is about to be lynched when Sue's testimony saves him. Sue goes back home and is promised his wife. Jack Gilbert, Frank Glenond and George A. Williams lead the support.

"A PERFECT LADY"
Goldwyn Picture Starring Madeleine Kennedy An Amazing Story of a Burlesque Queen.
Reviewed by Edward Weitsel.

NOTHER union of the church and the stage takes place in "The Golden Perfect Lady," adapted from a stage play by Channing Pollock and Rennold Wolf, that is being presented by the Australian Churchill-Badger, which has not done any new surprises for the moving picture fans, but it is capital. The cast is under the direction of Churchill-Badger, who has introduced considerable extra comedy business. The authors of the play have aimed at putting on the screen the old ladies' war in a small town narrow-mindedness.

This is a bit of a girl-queen of such excellent habits that she has every right to call herself a perfect lady. Left stranded in the town of Syacoma, Lucille LeJambon, whose real name is Lucy Higgins, opens an ice cream parlor and dance hall combined. Where she teaches the young people the latest dances until a church committee headed by Deacon John Griswold, the minister, makes inquiries and denounces Lucille and all her works. The Rev. David Grayling, pastor of the church, makes inquiries and is satisfied that her character is all any prospective lover could ask. But at the end of the show is a lesbo performance and Lucille leaps on the dance hall so that she might earn the money to educate her sister. The minister, therefore, refuses to back up his church members, and they are terribly shocked whenever he is discovered making love to the girl.

Her sister, Claire, arrives on the scene with more trouble for the denunciator. His son, Bob, is engaged to Claire. The elder Griswold storms and races, and casts aside the boy, but in the last terms when Lucille obtains a film showing the old fraud on a gay lark with Claire, the minister finds it in his possession and he is discovered making love to a wealthy old goat who turns out to be her grandfather.

Her sister, Claire, arrives on the scene with more trouble for the denunciator. His son, Bob, is engaged to Claire. The elder Griswold storms and races, and casts aside the boy, but in the last terms when Lucille obtains a film showing the old fraud on a gay lark with Claire, the minister finds it in his possession and he is discovered making love to a wealthy old goat who turns out to be her grandfather.

"THE GIRL OF MY DREAMS"
Billie Rhodes Shines As Star of Mountain Story Released by Exhibitors' Mutual.
Reviewed by C. S. Sewell.

FOR its initial release on the program of the Exhibitor's Mutual Distributing Corporation, the Robertson-Cole Company presents "The Girl of My Dreams." This is also the initial starring appearance of Billie Rhodes in a feature, although she has been widely known for her work in short comedies. It is an entertaining production, founded on a short story by Mabel O'Shea. It is a pretty little story of a mountain girl raised by adopted parents, her father having been killed by a runaway horse. The story opens with a young man, a victim of an automobile accident, and seeks to comfort him. Later he visits him and in his delirium he calls for her. After recovering, he finally locates the girl, finds her by a wealthy old man who turns out to be her grandfather.

Her sister, Claire, arrives on the scene with more trouble for the denunciator. His son, Bob, is engaged to Claire. The elder Griswold storms and races, and casts aside the boy, but in the last terms when Lucille obtains a film showing the old fraud on a gay lark with Claire, the minister finds it in his possession and he is discovered making love to a wealthy old goat who turns out to be her grandfather.

"Sorba Victorioso."
Though less inspiring and more conventional, this one-reel subject is a revelation of what is being done in the way of war work in America. But it is far more than that in its suggestion of Government parenthood, and it has the character of the greatest matter of which mankind are endowed. It is delightfully, both as to actors and setting, a picture that is at once human and diversified. It is a background of magnificent chapels and ancient convents, in addition to scenes of war, and it tells its story well. And the scenes of happiness, not those which are backgrounds of magnificent chapels and ancient convents, in addition to scenes of war, and it tells its story well. And the scenes of happiness, not those which the heart, but they are neverthe- less impressive. Perhaps the only one which gives a glimpse the enormous number of little ones brought back to normal health and happiness through the imaginative work done by the American Red Cross workers. These are pictures which we are likely to value more, if only we consider the work of Art Director Martin Donner as well up to standard.

"THREE RED CROSS PICTURES"
They Are Interesting, Patriotic and Highly Recommended.
Edited by Lewis Reeves Harrison.

THIS one-reel subject is a revelation of what is being done in the way of war work in America. But it is far more than that in its suggestion of Government parenthood, and it has the character of the greatest matter of which mankind are endowed. It is delightfully, both as to actors and setting, a picture that is at once human and diversified. It is a background of magnificent chapels and ancient convents, in addition to scenes of war, and it tells its story well. And the scenes of happiness, not those which the heart, but they are neverthe- less impressive. Perhaps the only one which gives a glimpse the enormous number of little ones brought back to normal health and happiness through the imaginative work done by the American Red Cross workers. These are pictures which we are likely to value more, if only we consider the work of Art Director Martin Donner as well up to standard.

"The Greatest Gift"
This is a three-reel subject contributed to the Red Cross War Bureau by the American Export Film Company. It is a figurative treatment of the Good Samaritan idea in a series of episodes beginning with the story of a little girl living in a small town.

The facts concerning the gift's parentage have been already revealed to the audience.

"The Moving Picture World" December 14, 1918
Belgian Village," "Christmas in the Trenches" and "Christmas in the Base Hospital," an ambitious attempt to enforce the neutrality of Belgium in the Great War commis- sion. The allegory is remarkable chivalry for the pains taken to set forth these moralities and to unite them in what is little less than an illustrated sermon, but it is lacking in the attacking of anything resembling a spark of interest, least convincing where it is most theatrical. The purpose, how- ever, in its minimum effectivenessتقيدthere are touches of warmth in the purely human picture of Christmas in the Tene- chores, there is no resisting him. Philip Van Lons and Joris. Marcel give the stamp of authenticity of plot and theme to the remain- sides of the triangle.

Herbert Lawtin, painted as Orrin Palmer, Sylvia Bretherton as Alfred Huntley, Gordon as Edward Wadsworth maintain their places piquently at the head of the cast. Charles and Virginia Blackton are interest- ing as little refugees, and Louis Dean is sufficiently ambitious to be one of the worst type of German general.

The characters in the prologue and epilogue are Shannon, Irene Castle, Violet Heming, Julian Marlow and Marjorie Rambeau. It is hardly necessary to point out that the opening and closing incidents of the story could not have been accomplished without the measure of these distinguished players' well tried art.

"DOUG-TIME—GO SLOW!"

Mae Murray has never done any- thing better or more interesting in her work to date, and her new five-reel Universal production on this subject, "Danger—Go Slow!" Her creation of the character of Muggsy is a most pleasing bit of work. Muggsy seldom has a girl in boys' clothes carried off the deception so well. Later, when the plain girl is discovered, the interest is well sustained, though the plot developments are of an improbable sort. However, the combination of humor and pathos and some excellent character work, and should be very popular. The opening scenes depict a raid of the police on a gang of New York crooks, of whom Muggsy was a member. Known as "Jimmy-the-Eel," are members. Jimmy is captured, but Muggsy escapes, and rides in a box car to the village of Cottonville. Here she falls in with typical village life, and in due time meets the mother of Jimmy, who keeps a light burning every night for her wandering boy. There is a genuine heart interest in this portion of the picture, for Jimmy is a very humorous character, and at times border- on burlesque. Muggsy's blackmailing of the, delinquent is very complicatedly staged, and the manner in which she buncos Bud, the village Adonis, is very droll, though the whole picture is more or less structural, but put over by excellent acting.

Robert Leonard wrote and produced the story, assisted by Mae Murray. Others in the cast are Jack Mulhall, Joseph Girard and Lon Chaney.

"SET FREE"

Edith Roberts Featured in Five-Reel Blue- bird Offering of Delicate Comedy Type. Reviewed by J. Stuart Blackton's War Drama Has Many Entertaining Qualities. Reviewed by Edward Wetzell.

FASHIONED after the J. Hartley Mann- ers and Ian Hay Belth stage play, "Getting Together," J. Stuart Black- ton's new production, "The Common Cause," brings to the screen a picture in which the thrills are often expertly devised and the laughter is genuine. It is filled with many entertaining qualities, abundant vitality being one of its prominent merits. The story is a useful one, the acting is good, and the serious motives are offset by a number of comic scenes that will be favorites for many of the members of the audience. To-morrow, next year or ten years from now the humor of this picture will be enjoyed, and the observers will still be fresh and appetizing. The mass of moving picture patrons who go to the theatre to be entertained and amused have a treat in store.

After opening with the most impressive portrayal of French soldiers in the Battle of Verdun, the picture shows the significance and its artistic excellence—ever given a war drama, "The Common Cause" gets down to brass tacks, as the saying has it, and scorns no means, however lowly, to build up its dramatic situations and add to its always honest if obvious merit.

At times some of the business smacks of the stone melodrama of the old popular priced theatre, and a more direct method of arriving at the results of the scenes would tighten up the suspense. There is an evident de- termination, however, with the production of the French picture to employ every means in its power to insure correct atmosphere and presentation and adequate realism of the story. The scenes of soldiers in battle are simulated with convincing realism, and the reproduction of comparative normal life in a French village before and after an attack is equally well done.

The hand of the experienced dramatist is shown in the directness of the story and in the view of life in the making of its comic relief. Orrin Palmer and his wife have drifted apart before the picture begins, a common theme with the Frenchmen, and the friction with Edward Wadsworth. This episode is only slightly developed, but both husband and wife have genuine love for the one remaining. Mrs. Palmer is among the first to offer her services, and her husband and her French friend have the sensation of the war. Mrs. Palmer is among the first to offer her services, and her husband and her French friend have the sensation of the war. Mrs. Palmer is among the first to offer her services, and her husband and her French friend have the sensation of the war. Mrs. Palmer is among the first to offer her services, and her husband and her French friend have the sensation of the war. Mrs. Palmer is among the first to offer her services, and her husband and her French friend have the sensation of the war.

Edith Roberts plays with animation the principal role in this five-reel Bluebird subject entitled "Set Free." She has the role of a girl named Roma, who conceives the idea that she has gypsy blood in her veins, and sets out upon the road to take her chances with life.

The conception as a whole is one of the most interesting subjects, but it cannot be called a big story in any sense of the word, as there are few plot points of interest in it. The picture carries the interest along from scene to scene in a pleasant sort of way. The characters in the cases of the heroine's travel through Poland, are too incredible in spots to carry the illusion of reality, though it serves to amuse the eye.

The story opens on some pleasing home scenes, with Roma and her aunt living in an aristocratic old house. The girl is just at the age when romance begins to enter the picture, but time hangs heavily on her hands. Her aunt, desiring to have her see the world, and inclined to be too careful with the money of which it seems to abound, her aunt and she finally settle that Roma, who is the granddaughter of a gypsy named Gypsy Nan, a badly wanted thief. A Mrs. Goodwin, who is a widow, and a Miss Muggsy, who is a gangster, are finally awakened similar feelings in themselves. The organization of a gypsy band and bank robbery bring the story to a close.

Harry Hilliard plays the role of the lover, and others in the cast are Hazel Goodwin, Molly McConnel and Blanche Gray. The scenario was written by Roxy Taylor, and Tod Browning directed.

"GOOD-BYE, BILL!"

IT is a strife difficult to classify "Good-Bye, Bill!" This story deals with the love life of a woman who is predestined to marry in the end, and the picture has a number of scenes that would seem to indicate romance and love. But the picture is much more serious. Its humor is often of the Keystone Comedy variety, and Anita Loos has turned out a picture that will be an unwelcome guest now being entertained by Hol- land. Both in subject-matter and titles she has employed her keen wit to show the hollowness and sham of the German court. There are many laughs in the picture, but all the serious effort has not been handled in all seriousness. The burlesque has William Hohenzollern, before he stabbed his toe and fell off his horse, as its principal character, and it may be said of Bill that he dominates the picture. With Murray, Talmer, Loos and Ernest Truex are overshadowed by him.

The ordinary standards of measurement cannot be applied to this picture. Its humor is often of the Keystone Comedy variety, and Anita Loos has turned out a picture that will be an unwelcome guest now being entertained by Hol- land. Both in subject-matter and titles she has employed her keen wit to show the hollowness and sham of the German court. There are many laughs in the picture, but all the serious effort has not been handled in all seriousness. The burlesque has William Hohenzollern, before he stabbed his toe and fell off his horse, as its principal character, and it may be said of Bill that he dominates the picture. With Murray, Talmer, Loos and Ernest Truex are overshadowed by him.
selected, and the picture has the benefit of excellent direction. When the story runs into Mexico, where an American capital has a make-or-break investment in an oil concession, stirring action keeps the spectator tensely interested. Here excellent "tapes" predominate, and the illus-

"THE MAN WHO WOULDN'T TELL" Earle Williams and Grace Darmond in Vitagraph Romance of Love and War.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE CHASE from the world conflict occurs in Germany. Though the picture is a five-reel Vitagraph picture directed by James Young, and featuring Earle Williams and Grace Darmond in the roles of the hero and heroine, no grounds for the statement that the story is Bess Meredith. Her hero is Hawtree Burke, a young Englishman. Burke, a week-end nurse in Berlin and looks upon Burke as a slacker. In reality the Englishman is on secret service for the Government, and Burke, Dudley, is under his command. They are engaged in watching a German spy named Eric Merton, who is paying them the same compliment.

Burke, Dudley, while obeying Burke's instructions, become involved in the murder of Joseph Fuhrman, a shipping agent who was secretly working against the Allies. The boy is arrested and put on trial, and Burke dare not testify in his defense that Dudley will dis-

Buchanan's WIFE (Fox)—Virginia Pearson is the star, and Marc McDermott as the prime mover in an unfolding drama of tension. The picture will leave in this attraction a play that will suit a vast majority of "fans" and serve to show the value of a series of handsomely produced performances in the nature of domesticated animals.

HYDE & SEEK, DETECTIVES (Paramount-Sennett).—A farcical presentation of a situation in the roles of detectives, very swift in action, but lacking in true humorous situations. Plenty of laugh and tumble action and some laughs.

PUSS AND FEATHERS (Paramount-Weedou.—Edith Bennett is the star of this five-reel-odd drama, directed by Fred Niblo. It tells the story of the heroine's sudden rise from poverty to riches, and is on a level with the other best released this season. It is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

INDEPENDENT, POOHSH (Paramount-Weedou.—This is the latest of the two-reel comedy starring Olin Howland and Florence Dixon. Its humor is continuous and full-flavored, and it is excellently played. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

Frohman Amusement Corporation.

FROHMAN'S A DATE (Majestic).—Here is a perfectly equipped picture, with a cast which includes leading names familiar to screen fans who have admired them in many films.

Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

MY COUSIN (Paramount.—Enrico Caruso is shown in dual roles, one a great opera singer, the other a poor extra. He is played by both parts with masterly skill. In the matter of characterization alone, this release will hold intelligent audiences, and the view given by the great artist of his own nature is fascinating enough to carry the release to high popularity. Reviewed in last week's issue.

WHOSE LITTLE WIFE ARE YOU (Paramount-Mack Sennett).—A farce on familiar lines. The picture is filled with performances of domesticated animals.

THE CARRIAGE (Fox.—There is more of emotion in this than in air-planes, the two manage to get back to the circus. Live action is still the pacemaker in films and the best effort of the week is "The CARRIAGE," with Caro-llowing as effective as ever.

W. W. Hodkinson Corporation.

TWO-GUN BETTY (Brunot).—Written and directed by William S. Brunn, and starring Bessie Barricase, this five-reel picture is good romance and better fun. It is given a longer review on another page of this issue.

Metro Pictures Corporation.

THE TESTING OF MILDRED VANE (Metro).—A strong five-reel subject, based on the story of the same title by Charles T. Dazey, and directed by Wil- fred Lucas. The cast includes May Allis-

THOUSAND AN HOUR (Metro).—This interesting five-reel story serves to introduce Hume Hamilton to the film world. There is plenty of humor and the action moves hand at a rapid pace, but there is very little suspense. It is a very clever picture and the subject of Chester's stories and has been well di-

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

WIVES AND OTHER WIVES (American-Pathe).—A five-reel farce-comedy, written by Sidney Fox and directed by Lloyd Ingraham, with Mary Miler Minter in the leading role. This subject is at-

INFATUATION (Reline-Pathe).—A six-

THE NARROW PATH (Astra-Pathe).—A five-reel dramatic narrative, adapted by Ouida Berge and Jack Cunningham from a novel by William T. Seward. Seward heads a well-balanced cast. The number has a strong sex interest, but is entirely acceptable and much stronger in develop-Brute force who lives to try her mother's soul and to finally cause the death of its father at the hands of a vengeful wife. This is the kind of film that we have been expecting for a long time, with names familiar to screen fans who have admired them in many films.

Educational Films Corporation.

A WEE BIT ODD (Educational Films Corporation).—A Robert C. Bruce scenic study of High Life and the criminal, and of the interesting part played by living creatures in odd phases of existence.

General Film Company.

REBUILDING BROKEN LIVES (Red Cross Film).—Red Cross series, showing the work of supplying crippled soldiers with re-

Argosy Film Company.

ARGOSY'S A DATE (Argosy).—Grace Cunard is starred in a drama of force and action, presenting a problem resulting from the war. There is a child born of Goldwyn Pictures Corporation.

THE HELD CAT (Goldwyn).—Geraldine Farrar acts a new type of western heroine in this Goldwyn romantic picture. It was written by Willard Mack and has been artistically produced under the direction of Reginald Barker.
ment than the average offering. Reviewed at length in last week's issue.

THE CELESTIAL MESSENGER (Patho).—A fine six-reel weekly product, with "Hands Up!" Some interesting developments occur in this number. Prince Pampas returns, and the Inca are about to wed him to Echo, against her will, when a bolt from heaven sets fire to the temple and the Inca is saved. This has contained many picturesque and imaginative situations. Its principal weakness being an insufficient cast. A commendable effort at the expense of credibility; nevertheless, it has retained a strong grip on the public.

THE PRECIPICE OF DEATH (Patho).—Episode No. 9 of "The Wolves of Kultur." Zarembe meets a well-deserved fate in a somehow strange situation. The director has contrived the way in which Alice turns tables on him in the struggle on the cliff and sends him over the edge. These episodes then arise for herself and the others at Water Edge, where the torpedo has been taken. The trip made by Tom on top of the auto is an interesting one.

OFFICIAL WAR REVIEW, NO. 23 (Patho).—One of the most interesting and instructive of this class, and dealing with army life on the various fronts. This shows well in the scenes as an expedition leaves Jerusalem, a gunboat in action on the Tigris, and gives a picture of General Allenby in action at Jericho. The scenes between the various army types and with Pershing's men are also included.

JUST RAMBLING ALONG (Rolin-Pathe).—An exceptionally good travel picture, with Stanley Laurel as the hero. He appears as a young man at a summer beach resort, meets a pretty girl and eats a meal at a cafeteria without paying for it. This contains considerable amusement and humor. A real film to be remembered.

HOT ROPE (Post-Pathe).—An exceptionally good travel picture of the town of Palenburg, a Dutch colony on the island of Java, where 60,000 inhabitants is known as the Venice of its locality, as the houses rest on piles and the streets are of water. The number is wonderfully picturesque throughout.

Pioneer Film Corporation.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNE (Pioneer-Selig).—A splendid six-reel production, illustrating the poem of James Whitcomb Riley, with which Colleen Moore appears as Orphan Anne and visualizes the part perfectly. This subject is one that will have tremendous appeal for women and children, and is exceptionally well made. Reviewed at length elsewhere.

Select Pictures Corporation.

THE ONE WOMAN (Select).—Story by Thomas Dixon and Harry Chandler, this five-part picture is finely acted and produced, and will prove interesting to many moving picture patrons. It is intended as a companion serial to "Damon and Pythias." Colleen Moore, Clara Williams, Herschel Mayall, Adda Gleason and Thurston Hall are in this number. The plot is one of the best that has appeared in, and with the last installments have been particularly good.

Southern Film Corporation.

BEYOND THE LAW (Southern Feature Film Corporation).—A five-reel western, with "The Dallons of Kansas," who were driven to outlawry by the persecutions of grafting, thieving, and stealing. A interesting appears elsewhere in this issue.

Triangle Film Corporation.

THE FLIGHT RIDER (Triangle-Kaye).—A splendid five-reel western subject, written by C. M. Clark, and directed by Cliff Smith and Roy Stewart is case as the cowboy hero, and Ethel Fleming as the heroine. The subject concerns the round-up of a band of cattle rustlers on a big ranch and is full of picturesque color and incident. Reviewed at length else where.

United States Motion Picture Corporation.

SOME JUDGE AND NEARLY A SLACK-ER (U. S. Motion Picture Corporation).—Three-reel comedies of the Rainbow brand, this pictures are fairly amusing and have nothing at all new. They are reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

Universal Film Company.

ANIMATED WEEKLY, NO. 51 (Universal).—Nov. 20.—How Washington, D. C., was guarded from the air leads this weekly. There are several General Events, scenes from London, New York, and various other places dealing with the great air war. Cartoon by Hy Mayer closes the reel.

CURRENT EVENTS, NO. 81 (Universal).—Nov. 20.—Scenes from our flying navy lead this number. The arrival of French soldiers in America, surrender of the powerful German fleet, how Brazil learned plans, and other lettrages are included. A Thanksgiving cartoon by Wil- lie Hopkins closes the number.

THE BRASS BULLET, NO. 19 (Universal).—This final episode brings the story to a close. It is assumed they are all suspicion of the murder by Mrs. Strange, after the death of her son, the oilman. Through the efforts of Rosalind are were, and Spring-Gilbert and his gang are brought to justice. This serial has grown in strength since the early episodes, and the last installments have been particularly good.

The LURE OF THE CIRCUS (Universal).—Episode No. 2 of "The Lure of the Circus." The story of the kid who interned following the burning of the oil well. "Dynamite" Dan confesses—"That Nan's fights single-handed with the members of Har- den's gang. Scenes from the late brought out that Harden had a daughter, Alice, for whom Nan is hunting. The serial gets the investigation, but bids fair to have plenty of exciting action.

World Pictures Corporation.

THE MAN OF BRONZE (World Picture).—Five-reel subject of written serial story, with the redoubtable Eddie Polo in the lead, assisted by Molly Malone, Noble Johnson, Charles Hill Mailes, and others. In this number the pretty girl heroine runs away from a girls' seminary to attempt to help save the town. The burning of an oil well makes a dramatic closing feature. A feature of the serial which makes it particularly good.

At DESPERATE ODDS (Universal).—Episode No. 2 of "The Lure of the Circus." The story of the kid who interned following the burning of the oil well. "Dynamite" Dan confesses—"That Nan's fights single-handed with the members of Har- den's gang. Scenes from the late brought out that Harden had a daughter, Alice, for whom Nan is hunting. The serial gets the investigation, but bids fair to have plenty of exciting action.

Swab Issues Monthly Messenger.

The latest issue of the Monthly Messenger, issued by Lewis M. Swab, Philadelphia, who is the exclusive distributor for the Simplex products in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, is a particularly attractive number. One full page is devoted to a prospectus of Mr. Swab's new organization, which he hopes to establish in a short time in the Central Association. After the readers of his house organ are told that they have been invited to inspect the object of the association are set forth.

Following a partial list of the principal number in the Swab Government vessels, army posts, Federal depart- ments, training camps, hospitals and industrial organizations.

Universal Buys West Story.

What is believed to have been one of the last stories written by Paul West, famous autho and playwright, worked before he was found dead, apparently from suicide, in Paris, has been purchased by a valuable weekly addition to the exhibitor's program because it will give every soldier an opportunity to see the "job was done" without going into a detailed explanation: and, how the $400,000 worth of material to speak, mentally, morally and physically.
“THE ROAD THROUGH THE DARK”
Clara Kimball Young and Her Own Company Present a Screen Adaptation of the Brilliant Story by Maud Radford Warren.

Cast:
Gabrielle Jardeee
Clara Kimball Young
His Highness, Duke Karl
Jack Holt
John Morgan
Henry Woodward
Marie-Louise
Eleanor Fair
Georges
Bobby Connolly
Antoine Jardeee
John Stepping
Louise Jardeee
Lillian Leighton
Private Schultz
Elmo Lincoln
Pater Alphonse
Med. M. Kimball
Aunt Julie
Eugenie Besserer

Directed by Edmund Mortimer.

The Story: Gabrielle Jardeee, daughter of a conservative Parisian family, is in love with an American, John Morgan, who her parents disapprove of. She is sent away from Paris to a small village, where her aunt lives with her sister and brother. The war comes and the Germans enter the town. She becomes the mistress of a German Commandant. By means of a coded card John each week writes her the French Government with valuable information. In Berlin, she kills Karl and makes a great escape to Paris, where she meets John, who offers her the love she thought she had lost.

Fathers of the Nation Young as Gabrielle Jardeee and Henry Woodward as John Morgan.

Advertising Angles: Advertise Miss Young, especially through the medium of photographs and pictorial paper. Tell that it is the story of a French girl who becomes the mistress of a German prince in order that she might save her village and obtain information for France. Play up the situation of a girl who uses the cipher arranged by her sweetheart to tell of her degradation.

Advertising Aids: Two one-sheets, two three-sheets, one six-sheet, one 24-sheet. Window cards, 1x21. Heralds. Lobby display photographs, 8x10, 11x14, 22x28. Slides. Cuts, two one-column, two two-column, one three-column, one one-half-column cut of star and one one-column and one two-column cuts of star. Released by Select in November.

“WHY I WOULD NOT MARRY”
William Fox Presents a Startling Theme in a Spectacular Fashion with a Carefully Chosen Cast.

Cast:
Not stated.

Directed by Richard Stanton.

The Story: A lawyer, a banker, a physician and an impecunious youth each seek the hand of the heroine in marriage. She is forced to choose—her father—the richest of the quartet. She slightly favors all four. But a crystal globe is given her to look into the future. In the globe she perceives what the fates have in store for each marriage. The lawyer would cast her off for an adventuress. The banker's financial sins find him out. The physician neglects her for his studies and the impecunious youth would sacrifice her to his employer to advance his fortunes. She rejects them all and seeks engagement in business, but here fresh troubles arise and once more the Swami presents the crystal globe and shows her the path to true happiness.

Program and Advertising Phrases: Four Times Had She Been Deceived by Men The Pressed Updying Love for Her. Every Woman's Story of Marriage Will Like to Know How to Choose a Husband. Four Kinds of Husbands Reflected in Mysterious Crystal Ball. The Art of Crystal Gazing Reduced to Science in Photoplay. Powerful Discussion of Marriage Problems in Stirring Photoplay.

Advertising Angles: This is the sort of story to be circumscribed if you would gain reward. You must spend money in its exploitation, but if you do this you should pack the house. Even in a small town hold it for two days, and your second day should be the better of the two. The press book gives plenty of suggestions. By all means have a crystal globe for the lobby. If you cannot obtain a fairly large crystal invert a small fish globe. If you can rig it so that the stills appear below on the lobby floor of the stand so much the better. Use plenty of paper and augment this with at least two throwaways two days apart.

Advertising Aids: One, three and six-sheets, two styles of each. Lobby display photographs, 8x10, 11x14 and 22x28. Announcement slide. Cuts, mats and press sheets (cuts are made on special order at rate of 20 cents each per cut, mats and press sheets are mailed gratis). Released November 24.

“DEUCE DUNCAN”
Triangle Presents William Desmond in the Story of a Thorough-Going Scamp Who Deserved the East Side Met.

Cast:
Deuce Duncan
William Desmond
Ann Tyson
Lulu Maxim
John
Ed Brady
Pedro Estaban
George Field
Sheriff
William Ellington
Jardee
Joe Singleton

The Story: Ann Tyson leaves her cabin with her brother, John, who has escaped from prison after serving fifteen years of his term. He steals Deuce Duncan's horse, and they seek a new town, and Ann goes to work as a housemaid in "Hell's Half Acre." There Deuce finds her and saves her from insult. He is influential in saving John from the consequences of a crime committed by the gang with which he has allied himself, but he shows his gratitude by telling John that he is her brother, but a former prison companion and that he will help her free her brother only at the sacrifice of her happiness and the boy.

Feature William Desmond as Deuce Duncan. servicing cast as Ann Tyson.

“I WANT TO FORGET”

Cast:
Varda Deering
Evelyn Nesbit
The Chauffeur's Little Son
Russell Thaw
Luit
John Long
Henry Clive
August Von Grossman
Alphonse Ether Helgar
William R. Dunn
Cordeilla Deering
Jane Jennings

Directed by James Kirkwood.

The Story: Varda Deering is a butterfly living only for the joy a life of gaiety can bring her. Then she meets John Long, and a sense of higher aims as awakened within her. The outbreak of the war takes Long to Mexico on a diplomatic mission. When her former lover Varda in the arms of August Von Grossman. Not knowing that she, too, has enlisted in the service of her country, Varda has to return to her old frivalities. But Varda has been playing for high stakes, her honor against Von Grossman's...
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

December 14, 1918

"THE HELL" Path Presents the Distinctive Player, Frank Keenan, in a Screen Version of One of the Most Famous Plays of the Opening Stage.

Cast:

Mathias — Frank Keenan
Annette — Lois Wilson
Lengarlaw — Catherine
Ida Lewis
The Jew — Bert Law
Nikolas — Christian
Gari — Carl Stockdale

Directed by Ernest C. Warde.

The Story: Mathias, the old sleeping-keeper of an Alsatian hamlet, murders a wealthy Jew who comes to spend the night at his inn, robs him of his jewels, and then destroys his body. The murderer is never discovered, but the season passes into local history as "The Polish Jew's winter." Mathias prosperes, and in after years his daughter becomes engaged to the captain of the gendarmerie. Mathias prepares her dowry, and the sight of the gold brings again to his tortured conscience the ever-present sound of the sleigh bells which heralded his ill-fated guest's approach. In his troubled sleep he dreams that he hears the murdered man reproach him and that the powerful will of a hypnotized spirit is whispering in his ear. In an ecstasy of fear he expires, as if stricken by the guilt of his wife and daughter, the victim of Heaven's vengeance.

Feature Frank Keenan as Mathias.

Advertising Angles: Appeal to Mr. Keenan's large following and make your patrons realize that this is an offering out of the ordinary. It was a part of Sir Henry Irving's permanent repertoire, and has been played by every tragic actor of note in the last generation. Make a special hit in the literary societies and the English literature class in High School, offering to set aside a choice section of the story for your students to read. Use a sledge of bells worked by motor or boy-power for your lobby.

Advertises:

- One poster, two sheets, six-sheet, one 24-sheet
- Lobby displays 11x14, both in sepia and black and white, also 22x28. Slide campaign book. Cuts. Released November 17.

THE "ONE WOMAN" Select: Pictures Presents a Sensational Play by the Great Henry Dixson, Author of "The Birth of a Nation." Cast:

Rev. Frank Gordon — Lawson Butt
Blanche — Margaret O'Shea
Mark Overman — Herschel Mayall
Ruth Gordon — Adda Gleeson
Governor Morehouse — Charles Hall

Directed by Reginald Barker.

THE STORY: Frank Gordon, a brilliant young clergyman, forsakes his wife and home to follow a career of socialism. When love is expelled from his church, Gordon enlists the services of Kate Ransom, and later divorces his own wife in order to gain Kate's sympathy and love. He finds a new home and family among another man. Heartbroken, and with all of his ideals smashed, Gordon kills the jealousy-possessed minister of a common-law wife. When he is convicted and sentenced to prison for life, his former wife begs his release and takes him back.

Feature Lawson Butt as Rev. Frank Gordon, Sally O'Shea as Kate Ransom, and Adda Gleeson as Ruth Gordon.

Advertising Angles: Make due use of the facts that this is the second by the author of "The Birth of a Nation," but lay heavier stress on this story for its own appeal. Take up the free offers and see if you can get all you can out of this. Work on the socialistic angle, get up with the world-wide spread of the story, and ask if this is where it will lead us, start well in advance and see if you can not work up a controversy in the local paper. It should only be necessary to put a story like this before the public. Even in small towns you will find those who will reply.

Advertises: Two one-sheets, two three-sheets, one six-sheet, one 24-sheet Window cards, 11x21. Herald. Lobby display, 12x18, 12x24, 2x2, 2x4, 2x8, 8x10. Slides. Cuts, two one-column, two two-column, one three-column, one one-half column, three one-column and one two-column cuts of star.

Released in November.

"FUSC AND FEATHERS" Thomas Dixon Presents His New Australian Star, Enid Bennett, in the Story of a Rough Diamond and Her Search for Polish.

Susie Baldwin — Enid Bennett
Riley Ledyard — Charles MacLean
Pete Baldwin — John P. Lockney
Martin Ledyard — Charles French
Sybil — Evelyn Nesbit
J. Wells Stanton — Robert McKim

Directed by Fred Niblo.

THE STORY: Pete Baldwin, an unscrupulous prospector, strikes it rich and takes his daughter, Susie, to San Francisco to arrange the sale of his mine. They are entertained by Ledyard, a mining broker, but his honest qualities and consciences are lacking in training angles Susie. She takes her father away and engages an unscrupulous man to marry him. When it is revealed that he is replaced by a young man whom they do not know to be the son of the Ledyards, but he is recognized by friends, and his frantic mother comes to "save" him and remains a captive to the new charm of the one roguish.

Feature Enid Bennett as Susie Baldwin and Douglas MacLean as Robert Ledyard.

Advertising Angles: Play up Miss Bennett and draw attention to her growing popularity upon the high point of the story. For a teaser ask "Have you the sleds?" and "What are the plans for the sleigh ride?" and "How is our sweetheart?" Enid Bennett had." You can make that your chief angle and collect on it.

HITTING THE TRAIL

World Pictures Presents Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greetley in a Story of a King and the Mums Who Took the Straight Path.

Cast:

Kid Kelly .......... Carlyle Blackwell
Flo Haines ........ Evelyn Greetley
Joe Carrill ......... Joseph Smiley
Rev. Thos. Roberts  Geo. MacQuarrie
Mamie .................. Mabel Bunn
Annie ................. Mariel Ostech
Tony ................... Walter Green
Goldie ............... William Houston

Directed by Dell Henderson.

The Story: The Kid is an East Side gangster, but he is man enough to go to jail. Jerry will lead him to his woman who is known to his friends as Claire Dawson, and determines to win her. He has a dashingly personality, and wins Claire's attention, but he thinks she wants to marry money, and plans to steal a million dollars by substituting kgs of sand for the real by selling it from outside his store. Then he wins Claire, but, finding that she is marrying for love, he lets himself be imprisoned on the river, where he cached it. Then detectives work upon Claire to demand money, believing that Jerry will return to his cache. He does, but with results far different from those anticipated by the detectives. Feature Harry Morey as Jerry Rufus and Betty Blythe as Flo Haines.

Program and Advertising Phrases:

Vitagraph's Blue Ribbon Series Presents Its Newest Feature:

CAPRICE

Paramount Presents a Reissue of One of Mary Pickford's Greatest Successes.

Cast:

Mercy Baxter .......... Mary Pickford
Jack Henderson ............ Owen Moore
Mr. Henderson .......... James Gordon

Story: Jack Henderson, a hunting trip, meets Mary Caprice, a little mountain girl, Mercy Baxter. He marries her, in spite of parental protest, and takes her to the city. He is placed at the mercy of maniacs, dressmakers and all of Mary's aids to fashion, but her gaucheries cause much embarrassment, and finally Mercy writes her father to come and take her home. But home is where the heart is and love for Jack is still strong. She persuades her father to send her to a boarding school where, eventually, she works for her education and her own husband falls in love with her. Never realized before that it is her husband until she reveals herself to him in her backwoods garb once more.

Feature Mary Pickford as Mercy Baxter and Owen Moore as Jack Henderson.

Program and Advertising Phrases: Revival of the Stirring Comedy-Drama That Brought Fame to Minnie Modem-Fiske (Now Mrs. Fiske). Mary Pickford's Reissue of One of Her Early Successes.

How a Little Girl of the Mountains Was Transformed into a Queen.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Moore (Mary Pickford) in a Revived Screen Success. Paramount Studio.

Screen Line for Green Is "Caprice." Now Revived, with Mary Pickford Starring.

Advertising Aides: Offer this as a reissue and make it plain that it is such. Tell that it is one of the best of the early Pickfords and well worthy of comparison with later issues.

INFLATION

Pathe Presents the International Star, Gaby Deslys, in a Striking Story by Marcel L'Herbier.

Cast:

Flora Nys .......... Gaby Deslys
Paul Bernard ..... M. Signoret
Gregoireton .......... Harry Pilcer
Le Baron ................. M. Moreau

Director .......... Marcel L'Herbier

The Story: Flora Nys is a little Parisienne, a maker of artificial flowers in her tiny rented garret, but, as the rent is coming due, and, realizing for his overdue rent, suggests that she can make money more easily in other ways. She resents the suggestion. She

OTHERS

ADVERTISING "PHOTOPLAYLET"

Films That Flash Your Advertising Story on the Screen Automatically, and Fix the Facts About Your Products Unforgettably in the Minds of the Public.

The most powerful form of advertising. No expensive ad is too corny for this, no picture too shabby too attract attention. It is the ideal method of advertising and marketing goods and ideas. No other method of advertising can appeal to so many people in such a short time.

HOARDOED ASSETS

Vitagraph Presents Harry Morey in the Picturesque Role of a River Pirate Who is Amazed to Find That He Did Not Steal a Million Dollars.

Cast:

Jerry Rufus .......... Harry Morey
Claire Dawson .......... Betty Blythe
John Barr .......... George Majerion
Detective Ryan .......... Robert Gaillard
Patsy .......... Jean Paige

The Story: Jerry Rufus is a pirate river, but a cat can look at a king, and he looks at a woman who is known to his friends as Claire Dawson, and determines to win her. He has a dashingly personality, and wins Claire's attention, but he thinks she wants to marry money, and plans to steal a million dollars by substituting kgs of sand for the real by selling it from outside his store. Then he wins Claire, but, finding that she is marrying for love, he lets himself be imprisoned on the river, where he cached it. Then detectives work upon Claire to demand money, believing that Jerry will return to his cache. He does, but with results far different from those anticipated by the detectives. Feature Harry Morey as Jerry Rufus and Betty Blythe as Flo Haines.

Program and Advertising Phrases:

Vitagraph's Blue Ribbon Series Presents Its Newest Feature:

Released December 23.

THE AUTOMATIC TICKET SELLING AND CASH REGISTER CO.

Manufacturers of Automatic Ticket Machines and all kinds of Theatre Tickets

1735 BROADWAY, NEW YORK CITY

December 14, 1918
comes to the attention of Paul Barnard, a famous actor, who yearly gives a Christmas party to the poor children of his district, which Flora attends. He marries her and makes her a star, but she becomes infatuated with a man-about-town, Lt. Karen, who has never forgiven her for slighting his proposals, induces her to leave town on the night of an important performance, representing that her lover is fatally ill. Paul suffers a collapse, and Flora, rejected by the man she loves, creeps into his bed. His memory is gone, but is brought back when he discovers her as she was that Christmas day, last year.

Feature: Gaby Deslys as Flora Nys and M. Signoret as Paul Barnard.

Program and Advertising Phrases: The Original and Only Gaby Deslys Becomes Star of Vital and Vivid Photodrama.

Romance of Modern Paris Centering in the Music Halls.

Great French Cinema Masterpiece Featuring Famous Gaby Deslys.

Well Help You Pronounce Her Name—Gabby Del-lec. That's It.

Gaby Deslys, Leader of Parisian The-sations of the Fashion, Newest Screen Star.

Advertising Angles: The star should be known to your patrons through the exploitation she received while a vaudeville star in America, before her love for the film business took hold.
THE ZERO HOUR

World Pictures Presents June Elvidge in a Gripping Expose of the Methods of Spiritistic Conmen Written by the Late Paul West.

Cast:
Fanny Craig .......................... June Elvidge
Evelyn Craig .......................... Evelyn Craig
Mickey Warwick .......................... Henry Warbrick
Esau Brand ........................... Armand Kalisz
Bruce Taunton ........................... Frank Mayo
Grace Henderson ..................... Grace Henderson
Hilda ................................. Glio Ayers
Mrs. Winslow ........................... Nora Cecil
The Doctor ............................. Dr. Frank Waltz
Paul Warren ........................... Reginald Carrington

Directed by Travers Vale.

The Story: Fanny and Evelyn Craig are twin sisters. They are kept in ignorance of the fact that their stepfather is a fake medium until they return from boarding school, where he is no longer able to keep them. They are reunited with zestful Parrish's schemes, but Fanny despises them and obtains a position with a law firm. One of the plans in the firm is conducting a crusade against fake mediums, whose trickery has killed her mother, and Fanny is temporarily involved. He is saved by Evelyn, but by a strange trick of fate she finds happiness and who brings happiness to the man to whom Evelyn was engaged.

Feature: June Elvidge in the dual roles of Fanny and Evelyn Craig and Henry Warbrick as Mickey Parrish.

Program and Advertising Phrases: If You Saw a Beautiful Ghost Would You Be Interested in Fanny Craig in Love With Her June Elvidge Star in the Longest and Most Successful Dual Role on Record, July 16. The Ghostly Star of Gripping Mystery Play of Happy Ending. How True Love Bridge the Gap Between the Living and the Dead. The Most Striking, Unusual and Interesting Drama of the Season. Advertising Angles: Aside from the star, work on the expose angle. Tell in black type that this story shows how changes of work upsets the creators. Make positive sensational statements along the lines of the story, and make as much noise over it as possible in all newspapers. Can use freely. You can circulate this picture without a come-back. Make some use of the J. West. It will be called that he was gassed at the front and committed suicide while temporarily insane from the effects of gas.
Program and Advertising Phrases: Love Blossoms Where Jealousy Had Tried to Find Disparity. Peggy Hyland Star of Bewitching Comedy Drama Spiced with Romance. With William and Weathered Confused to Bring True Love’s Together. Society Girl Mistaken for Seamstress Dies of a Pneumonia Illness. This Girl Jilts a Snob to Marry a Real, Live American. Advertising Angle: Play on Miss Hyland’s personality and give the breezy points in this comedy. There are innumerable points. Select those you think will most appeal to your clientele, then hammer hard on them. Use individual style as the basis for window cards hand-lettered with the same points.

Advertising Aids: One, three, and two-sheet advertising, size 8x10, 11x14, 22x28, stills and gelatins, 1-column, 2-columns, 3-columns, cut, type advertisement. Novelties. Music cues. Released December 15.

"THE MARRIED VIRGIN" General Film Presents Vera Sisson in a Sensational Story of a Loveless Marriage and an Experiment that Failed. Cast: Mary McMillan, Vera Sisson, Douglas McKee, Frank Newton. biçim, Ward Johnson, Mrs. Spencer-McMillan, Kathleen Kirkham, Anne Mullin. Lillian Leighton, Roberta, Elsie Franklinc, Rodolfo di Valentina The Story: Mary McMillan, the daughter of a rich contractor, marries Douglas McKee, a rising young lawyer. Her stepmother has an affair with a young adventurer, but they agree to elope whenever they can obtain the funds. The Count seeks to blackmail the contractor, but the scheme fails and he then forces the daughter to marry him, planning to elope with her stepmother on the proceeds of the legal element; the jealous woman, fearful that he will not keep his promise, seeks to disfigure him with acid. In the struggle in the automobile, the car is dashed over the cliff and she is killed. The Count elapses, but McKee finds a legal avenue of escape for the girl he loves, through the application of a long-forgotten law. Feature Vera Sisson as Mary McMillan and Frank Newton as Douglas McKee.

Program and Advertising Phrases: Man and Wife Affable in Public Live at Home as Perfect Strangers. Old English Law Cited as Pivotal Point in Photoplotype. They Were Married to Strangers: at Home. Two Sided to Married Life Reflected in Strangely Interesting Play. Screen’s Latest Note: Discloses Odd Features of English Law. Advertising Angles: Make what interest you can with the situations presented, using chiefly that of the woman who plans to elope when her adventurer-lover can raise the funds. Also use the marriage of the daughter. Advertising Aids: One-one sheet, three-three sheets, one sheet, 11x14 print for lobby display. Cuts, mats, herald, press sheets.

Help and Situations Wanted are an important part of the service accomplished through The World’s Classified Advertising Department. Many profitable transactions have resulted through this means of communication.

GREAT BRITAIN

Brillisher, about to return to England, has formed a sales and display agency in Great Britain.

Address S. E. L. Moving Picture World,
516 Fifth Ave., New York City

ST. JOHN, N. B.—St. John Amusement Corporation, Ltd., has been incorporated with $150,000 capital, and plans to take over Imperial Theatre. H. V. Belyea is interested.

FAR ROCKAWAY, N. Y.—Plot of ground on north side Rockaway Beach Boulevard, facing Grand Avenue, has been purchased by Minerva Theatre Company as site for theatre.

JAMAICA, L. I., N. Y.—George L. Jenks, Western Office, Co., has plans by De Rose & Pereira, 119 West Forty-fifth street, New York, for alterations to moving picture theatre to cost $1,500.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Toby’s Bow Company, manager of Wintergarden Theatre, has been incorporated with $10,000 capital, and M. Croswaith, 45 John street, is interested.

DANVILLE, VA.—Virginia & Carolina Amusement Corporation has been incorporated with $50,000 capital for purpose of engaging in general theatrical business, open and operate moving picture theatres, operate agencies, and manufacture moving picture films.

SASKATOON, CANADA.—Major J. Graham, of Regina, has purchased Strand Theatre from F. L. Sommerfeld. Harry Mee will be manager.

JACKSVILLE, FLA.—New Casino Theatre will open soon.

ATTICA, IND.—Messner Theatre will be remodelled; Leslie Holland is manager.

HAMMOND, IND.—Orpheum Theatre will open soon.

BURLINGTON, Ia.—Robert Trax plans to remodel his moving picture theatre in near future.

DETROIT, MICH.—E. D. Jackson Company, 1922 Ford Building, has contract to build an addition to Frontenac Theatre, 52 by 60 feet, for John O’Dell, 114 Lauren avenue, to cost $50,000.

NORTHFIELD, MINN.—Grand Theatre will reopen at an early date.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—Seltzer Brothers, 323 Market street, Philadelphia, have plans by Hoffman Company, 1429 South Penn square, Philadelphia, for alterations and an addition to Globe Theatre.

FAIRVIEW, N. J.—Erection of moving picture theatre and apartment building, 25 by 100 feet, by Vincenzo Pompolino, Cliffside, N. J., to cost $11,000, has been postponed to now.

PATERSON, N. J.—New Jersey Realty Company has plans by H. B. Crosby, First National Bank Building, for remodelling the house; Charles Latine, 126 West Forty-sixth street, New York.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Fort Washington Circle Realty Holding Company plans to erect theatre, with seating capacity for 2,500 persons.

CINCINNATI, O.—J. H. Clair Glaessner, 1715 Waite building, is preparing plans for a two-story theatre and store building, 50 by 150 by 196 feet, to cost $260,000.

PORTSMOUTH, O.—William Spitzer and Frank Eakins have purchased Temple Theatre on Eleventh street from J. F. Potter.

EAST PITTSBURGH, PA.—Malinoff Brothers have plans by Harry S. Blair, Vandergrift Building; to remodel front of moving picture theatre.

EMPORIA, VA.—Emporia Amusement Corporation has been incorporated with $50,000 capital by Rosa L. Fryer and Winfield A. Wilson, both of Washington, D. C.

List of Current Film Release Dates

General Film Company, Inc.

BROADWAY STAR FEATURE.
Tobin's Palm (O. Henry Story—Two Parts—Comedy).
The Tenth Man (The Broken O (Wolfville Tale—Two Parts—Drama).
The Rose of Wolfville (Wolfville Tale—Two Parts—Drama).
A Ramble in Aphasia (O. Henry Story—Two Parts—Drama).

FOFT PIT THEATRE CO.
The Italian Battlefield (Eight Parts—Patriotic).

ESSANAY COMEDIES.
Sankeville's New Sheriff (One Part).
Sopha's Birthday Party (One Part).

RAINBOW COMEDIES.
Nearly a Stacker.
My Lady's Slipper.
Some Judge.
How She Hated Men.
The Camouflaged Baby.
The Pipe of Peace.
Hooverizing.

OAKDALE PRODUCTIONS.
The Midnight Burglar (Five Parts—Drama).
Wanted, a Grand Prize (Five Parts—Drama).
Little Miss Grown-Up (Five Parts—Drama).

SCRANTON FILM COMPANY.
(Featuring Charlie Fangs.)
Pareen Papp (One Reel—Comedy).
Fang's Pets and Fortune (One Reel—Comedy).

OFFICIAL WAR PICTURES.
(Committee on Public Information.)
Our Bridge (One Reel—Drama).

AMERICAN RED CROSS.
The Historic Fourth of July in Paris (One Part—Patriotic).
Soothing the Heart of Italy (One Part—Patriotic).
Of No Use to Germany (One Part—Patriotic).
First Aid on the Plane (One Part—Patriotic).
Rebuilding Broken Lives (One Part—Patriotic).
The Killings of No Man's Land (One Part—Patriotic).
Victorious Serbit (One Part—Patriotic).
The Healing Hand of Sichy (One Part—Patriotic).

COMPOSITOPHILM.
I Believe (Six Reels—Drama).

AMERICAN FEATURE FILM CORP.
Exacts of Love (Six Parts—Drama).

MAXIMUM PRODUCTIONS.
The Married Virgin (Six Parts—Drama).

RANCHO SERIES.
(All Two-part Dramas)
In the Shadow of the Rockies.
Where the Bus Sets Red.

Mutual Film Corp.

STRAND.
Oct. 1—Keep Smiling (Ellen Field—Comedy—40-CST-1).
Oct. 8—The Girl in the Box (Ellen Field)—41-CST-1.
Oct. 29—Arc Brunettes False (Ellen Field)—40-CST-1.
Nov. 17—The Tale of a Hat (Ellen Field)—30-CST-1.
Nov. 21—Just Home Made (Ellen Field)—33-CST-1.

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION.
Sept. 29—Tess of Edna Goodrich—Five Parts—Drama.
Nov. 17—The Dark Devil (Gail Kane—Five Parts—Drama)—2-SP-H-15.

MUTUAL.
Nov. 6—Screen Telegram (Topical)—71-T-1.
Nov. 18—Screen Telegram (Topical)—71-T-1.
Nov. 26—Screen Telegraph (Topical)—71-T-1.

A. D. C. SPECIAL.
Nov. 17—The Heart of Lincoln—Six Parts—Drama—Affiliated—1-SP-L-6.

OUTING-CHESTER PICTURES.
Oct. 6—An Opposing Shore (Topical).
Outdoor-Roathamer Pictures.
Nov. 21—Blackfoot and Pit Head—16-G-R-1.
Nov. 21—Bad Men and Good Scenery—17-G-R-1.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF NOV. 17.
The Bells (Frank Keenan—Five Parts—Drama).
Waves of Kultur (Episode No. 6—"Tales of the Vikings"—Two Parts—Drama—A Tar).
Par Flung Battle Line No. 12—"British Fly on the Ships"—One Reel—Drama).
Hands Up (Episode No. 14—"The Oracle's Decree"—Two Parts—Drama—Astra).
Official War Review No. 22 (Topical—"The Under the Masters—Leadership of Marshal Poch"—Topical—Drama).
Post Travel Series No. 19—"Caribbean Lapped in the Shingles"—Five Reels—Drama—Astra.
Nothing But Trouble (Rolin—Comedy—Harold Lloyd).
Hearst-Pathre News No. 94 (Topical).
Hearst-Pathre News No. 95 (Topical).

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF NOV. 24.
Waves of Kultur (Episode No. 7—"The Leap of the Leaping Dolphins"—Two Parts—Drama—Astra).
An Enemy of Soap (Toto—Rolin Comedy).
Hands Up (Episode No. 20—"Sunstruck")—Five Reels—Topical—Drama—Astra.
Official War Review No. 22 (Topical).
Hearst-Pathre News No. 98 (Topical).
Hearst-Pathre News No. 97 (Topical).

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF DEC. 1.
Infatuation (Gaby Deslys and Harry Placer—Drama).
Five Reels—Special Feature—Drama/Madly c the Bedfellows (Marguerite Osborne—Five Reels—Drama).
Wolves of Kultur (Episode No. 8—"In the Hands of the Hun"—Two Parts—Drama—Drama).
Official War Review No. 23.
Post Travel Series No. 21—"Java"—Five Reels—Drama—Astra.
Hearst-Pathre News No. 98 (Topical).
Hearst-Pathre News No. 97 (Topical).

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF DEC. 8.
Waves of Kultur (Episode No. 9—"The Precipice of Death"—Two Parts—Drama—Astra).
Just Rambling Along (Stan Laurel—Comedy—Rolin—Drama).
Post Travel Series No. 22—"Cetebra")—Five Reels—Drama—Astra.
Hearst-Pathre News No. 100 (Topical).
Hearst-Pathre News No. 101 (Topical).

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF DEC. 15.
The Narrow Path (Pannie Ward—Five Parts—Special Feature—Drama).
Wolves of Kultur (Episode No. 10—"When Women Wars"—Two Parts—Drama—Westm.)
Official War Review No. 23 (Topical).
Take a Chance (Rolin—Comedy—Harold Lloyd).
Post Travel Series No. 25—"Borzoo.
Hearst-Pathre News No. 102 (Topical).
Hearst-Pathre News No. 101 (Topical).
Liberty's Triumph (War Special).
Winning the War (No. 2—"Feeding Our Fighters"—Topical—Drama).

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF DEC. 22.
Fortunes of Corinne (Gloria Joy—Two Reel Special—Drama).
Waves of Kultur (Episode No. 11—"Betwixt Heaven and Earth"—Two Parts—Drama—Astra).
Official War Review No. 26 (Topical).
Post Travel Series No. 24—"Singapore.
Check Your Haggis (Rolin—Comedy—Toto).
Hearst-Pathre News No. 104 (Topical).
Hearst-Pathre News No. 105 (Topical).

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF DEC. 29.
Dolly's Vacation (Baby Marie Osborne—Five Parts—Drama).
Waves of Kultur (Episode No. 12—"The Tower of Tears"—Two Parts—Drama—Westm.)
Post Travel Series No. 25.
Official War Review No. 31 (Topical).
She Loves Me Not (Rolin—Comedy—Harold Lloyd).
Pathre News No. 2 (Topical).
Pathre News No. 3 (Topical).

AMERICAN PRODUCTIONS RELEASED BY PATHE.
The Eyes of Julia Deep (Mary Miles Minter).
Money Isn't Everything (Marguerite Fisher).
Hobbs in a Hurry (William Russell).
Rosemary Clements the Heights (Mary Miles Minter).
The Mantle of Charity (Marguerite Fisher).
All the World to Nothing (William Russell).
Wives and Other Women (Mary Miles Minter).
Fair Enough (Marguerite Fisher).
When a Man Rides Alone (William Russell).

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD
December 14, 1918

BIGH TIMELY PICTURES.
Nov. 24—Why I Would Not Marry.
Dec. 8—Every Mother's Son.

FOX STANDARD PICTURES.
Nov. 17—The Woman Who Gave (Evelyn Nesbit).
Dec. 1—I'm the Devil (Theda Bara).
Dec. 1—I Want to Forget (Evelyn Nesbit).
Jan. 12—I'm the Siren's Son (Theda Bara).
Dec. 29—I Know (William Farnum).
Jan. 26—Woman! Woman! (Evelyn Nesbit).
Feb. 9—I'm the Man Hunter (William Farnum).
Feb. 25—I'll Find You (William Farnum).

EXCEL PICTURES.
Nov. 17—Tell It to the Marines (Jane and Katherine Lee).
Dec. 1—Buchanan's Wife (Virginia Pearson).
Dec. 15—Caught in the Act (Peggy Hyland).
Dec. 23—I, the Danger Zone (Dudless Traverse).
Jan. 12—Smiles (Jane and Katherine Lee).
Jan. 26—the Girl Who Has No Regards (Peggy Hyland).

VICTORY PICTURES.
Nov. 24—Paine and Fortune (Tom Mix).
Dec. 8—The Strange Woman (Gladdys Brock).
Dec. 22—I'll Say So (George Walsh).
Dec. 22—I'm a Fireman (Tom Mix).
Jan. 19—Shadows of Her Past (Gladdys Brock).
Feb. 2—Look and Laugh (George Walsh).
Feb. 16—The Coming of the Law (Tom Mix).

FOX-LEHMAN SUNSHINE COMEDIES.
Nov. 17—Mongrels.
Dec. 1—The Fatal Marriage.
Dec. 29—I'm the Son of a Hun.

MUTT & JEFF ANIMATED CARTOONS.
Nov. 17—The Dough Boy.
Nov. 24—Around the World in Nine Minutes.
Jan. 1—Pot Luck in the Army.
Dec. 8—The New Champion.
Dec. 15—Hitting the High Spots.

FOX EXTRAVAGANZAS.
Nov. 17—Pan Pals.
Nov. 24—All Babs and the Forty Thieves.

THE GREAT NINE.
Dec. 20—Fighting Blood (William Farnum).
Jan. 12—The Regina.
Jan. 15—The Broken Law (William Farnum).
Jan. 25—Under Two Flags (Theda Bara).
Feb. 1—Chivalry (Dr. Rameau).
Feb. 1—The Third Railway (Valeska Suratt).
Feb. 16—The Making of Paris (Theda Bara).
Feb. 21—Hoodman Blind (William Farnum).

PRODUCTIONS EXTRAORDINARY.
Cleopatra (Theda Bara).
Les Miserables (William Farnum).
A Daughter of the Gods (Annette Kellerman).
HELP WANTED.

THEATRES WANTED.

WANTED—Every theatre, especially those in large cities. Will photograph any picture on a trial basis.

Remittances must accompany all orders for classified advertisements as follows: One dollar per insertion for copy containing twenty words or less. Five cents per word for copy containing over twenty words. Each word to be counted including names and addresses.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS—The Publishers expect that all statements made in every advertisement will bear the strictest investigation.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

EXPERIENCED ORGANIST at liberty for immediate engagement. First-class musician. Familiar with piano player and recitalist. Splendid library of best music available for the work. Pipe organ and good salary essential. South preferred, but will go anywhere. Organist, Box 472, Hagerstown, Maryland.

MANAGER motion picture theatre wishes connection. Ten years of active, energetic and executive experience, thoroughly familiar with the fine points adequate to best financial results. Will consider circuit or independent theatre. Ready to go anywhere. Licensed operator. Active, c/o M. P. World, N. Y. City.

OPERATOR at liberty. Ten years' experience; also most efficient at booking, advertising and all details of theatre management. Combination, c/o M. P. World, N. Y. City.

MANAGER—OPERATOR six years' experience in motion pictures. Has good position now, but wants to locate in the South or Southwest. Can furnish the best of references Address Geo. A. Knowles, Lyric Theatre, Kalamazoo, Mich.

EXPERT FEATURE CAMERAMAN with $2,000 BELL & HOWELL CAMERA and all desirable attachments, is now at liberty to receive offer for 1919. Previous photopey cinematographer for Chaplin, Francis X. Bushman, Henry Walthall, Bryant Washburn, Beverly Bayne, etc., 10 years of large producing company as feature cameraman, expert on trick and dissolve work, photographed over 200 productions aggregating over 800 reels. Address Jay Ayre, c/o Moving Picture World, 64 W. Randolph St., Chicago, Ill.

CAMERAMAN desires position. Expert photographer with Pathé camera; 10 years' experience in studio, educational and industrial work; will go anywhere. A. R. Martin, 145 W. 84th St., New York City.

MANAGER—Highly efficient for high class photo play house. Seeks immediate connection with reputable concerns. Address with all branches of business. Best of credentials; Address Efficient Manager, c/o M. P. World, N. Y. City.

MANAGER AT LIBERTY—Fourteen years' experience picture or vaudeville theatre; will put your theatre on paying basis; sober, reliable, go anywhere. Address Expert, c/o M. P. World, N. Y. City.

HELP WANTED.

WANTED—Leader for larger theatre, preferably a large city.

MANAGER—Two motion picture houses, one in a city of 12,000, the other in a town of 2,000. Will sell or rent. Complete.

Ready to go anywhere.

TO OWNERS OF MOVING PICTURE THEATRES, OR ANY OTHER THEATRES, DEAR SIR:—I have been in the stage business for 20 years and have been active in the making of films for the past six years. For the past two years I have been manager of a large motion picture theatre, and at present am managing another. As I have in mind a change of business, I am very much interested in buying a small theatre, or in renting one, and would like to find someone who is interested in selling his theatre. I can assure you that I will make a good owner. If you are interested send your address and a description of your theatre to me. I will show you every respect.

S. W. BUNN, Manager.

SPECIAL FEATURE CAMERAMAN, 10 years' experience, at liberty; will go anywhere; he can get any job in the business unless he is a failure. Address J. H. Underwood, 43 West 28th St., N. Y. City.

CAMERAMAN, ETC., WANTED.

WANTED—Bell and Howell and other good make motion picture camera with tripod and carrying case; must be in good condition and cheap for both. Address Baker, 25 Elizabeth St., Detroit, Mich.

WE WISH TO BUY for cash high grade motion picture cameras, such as Bell and Howell, Pathé, Debrée, etc. Motion Picture Apparatus Co., Inc., 110 West 52d St., N. Y. City. Phone Farragut 4779.

CAMERAS, ETC., FOR SALE.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—Four Sibbett orchestrations, two each style "T" and "V," at bargain prices. Instruments are in first-class condition, used only few months at camp theatres three hours daily. Address Lookout Amusement Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

SENSATIONAL MONEY SAVING bargains is the title of the latest photographic book just off the press; a 32-page catalog filed from cover to cover with wonderful offers in every standard make of tested and guaranteed motion picture apparatus, cameras, lenses, Kodaks, etc. It's the biggest little thing in the current photographic field. Worth its weight in gold to you, and in fact no cameraman in the country can afford to be without a copy. Send for it today; yours for the asking. David Stern Company; in business since 1885; 1067 Madison St., Chicago, U. S. A.

PHOTOGRAPHIC EQUIPMENT.

FOR SALE.

A GULF CAMERAMAN—Wants to buy a Bell and Howell camera at a lower price than advertised by the manufacturers. Address Me at the Gulf World, Galveston, Texas.

EQUIPMENT FOR SALE.

800 UPHOLSTERED OAK CHAIRS, first class shape, 500 steel frame veneer; good as new at slaughter prices, one floor and spot-light. J. P. Redington, Scranton, Pa.

FOR SALE—150 opera chairs, ashesots booth, power transformer, screen, all new; used a few times. Address J. J. B. S tailor, 1914 No. 8 St., large; big bargain. W. F. Reif, Homestead, Pa.

FOR SALE—A $3,500 Wurlitzer organ, style "V," complete. Offer to buy and will pay in cash, in the market to sell $2,000 or act on once. Write Paul Steiger, 461 Spring St., West Hoboken, N. J. Phone Union 1160

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—Four Sibbett orchestrations, two each style "T" and "V," at bargain prices. Instruments are in first-class condition, used only few months at camp theatres three hours daily. Address Lookout Amusement Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HIGHEST PRICE paid for old film in reels, rolls or cuttings. Let me know what you have. J. J. Norton, Room 69, 116 Broad St., New York, N. Y. Phone S075 Bowling Green.

BOUND VOLUMES OF THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

You Need Them in Your Business!

Each issue of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD presents the fruit of studied effort on the part of experts to provide just what the average reader of trade publications in the moving picture field can use to best advantage in his business.

Since this is true, the bound volumes of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD, each comprising the complete issues printed during a period of three months, take immediate standing as

The Reliable Reference Book of the Trade

NOW READY—VOL. 37.—JULY TO SEPTEMBER, 1918

The Record of Moving Picture History in the Making

INVEST $45.00

and have at your hand for ready reference every issue of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD which has been printed since 1912. These issues are in bound volume form, and are invaluable to the wide-awake moving picture man.

CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 516 Fifth Ave., New York City

In answering advertisements please mention The Moving Picture World.
List of Current Film Release Dates

Metro Pictures Corporation.

SCREEN CLASSICS, INC., SPECIALS. Blue Jeans (Viola Dans—Seven Parts—Drama—Roller). To Hell With the Kaiser (Laurence Grant and Olive Teller—Five Parts—Drama). Pals First (Harold Lockwood—Six Parts—Dr.). Wilson or the Hooligans (The Fall of the Hoehentollerns).

NAZIMOVA PRODUCTIONS. Revelation (Seven Parts—Drama). Toys of Fate (Seven Parts—Drama). Eye for Eye (Seven Parts—Drama).

Triangle Film Corporation.

Dates and Titles of Triangle Reissue Subject to Change Without Notice.

KEYSTONE COMEDY REISSUES. Sept. 15—Patty and Broadway Stars (Roosco Arbach and Mary Hagen—Five Parts—Drama). Sept. 22—Submarine Pirate (Sid Chaplin).

Greater Vitagraph Inc.

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

ANIMATED WEEKLY.

CENTURY COMEDY.

Oct. 9—Umbrella Ladies (Alice Howell—Two Parts—Drama). Dec. 18—The Cabbage Queen (Alice Howell—Two Parts—Drama).

L-KO.

NESTOR.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL ATTRACTION.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

Universal Current Events.

STAR COMEDIES.

WESTERN AND RAILROAD DRAMAS.

MASTER COMEDY.

PORTER EQUIPS THEATRE FOR GRIFFITH'S

SUPREME TRIUMPH "HEARTS OF THE WORLD." Installs Two UP to The Minute Type S SIMPLEX PROJECTORS with Robin TIME and SPEED INDICATORS in the 44th St. Theatre, New York. The Marvelous PROJECTION of this greatest picture of modern times is synchronized accurately to the fraction of a second with the beautiful music and effects.

B. F. PORTER, 729 7TH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY, 11TH FLOOR

La Cinematografia Italiana ed Estera
Offical Organ of the Italian Cinematoographe Union
PUBLISHED ON THE 15TH AND 30TH OF EACH MONTH
Foreign Subscription: 20 francs per annum
Editorial and Business Offices: Via Cumiana, 31, Turin, Italy

Screencraft
BY LOUIS REEVES HARRISON
An invaluable help to the writer who is making a serious effort to evolve stories for screen production.
Of great interest too to the individual who is watching the development of "the silent drama."
$2.00 PER COPY, POSTPAID
Published and for Sale by
MOVING PICTURE WORLD
516 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY

A Dependable Mailing List Service
Saves you from 30% to 50% in postage, etc. Reaches all or selected list of theatres in any territory. Includes name of exhibitor as well as the theatre in address. A list of publicity mediums desiring motion picture news. Unaffiliated exchanges looking for features. Supply houses that are properly characterized as such. Producers with address of studios, laboratories and offices. Information in advance of theatres being or to be built.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY
50 Fifth Avenue, New York
Phone—Chelsea 3227
Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

In Answering Advertisements, Please Mention the MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

The Essential Requirements FOR Improved Projection ARE SPEER CARBONS
Speer Alterno Combinations for A. C. Work
AND
Speer Hold-Ark Combinations for D. C. Work
Produce Incomparable Results
Write today for descriptive folders.
Read the unbiased opinions of operators.
Place an order now with your Supply House.
"The Carbons with a Guarantee"
MANUFACTURED BY
SPEER CARBON COMPANY
ST. MARYS, PA.

Educate Your Audience to Help Fight Censorship

Introducing a bill providing for the Censorship of Moving Pictures is a favorite indoor pastime in legislative halls throughout the country. Eternal vigilance is the price of the Exhibitor's mere safety if not his success.

Presented in the proper manner, the Censorship of Moving Pictures is just as obnoxious to the Exhibitor's audiences as it is to the Exhibitor. And public opinion aroused in behalf of moving pictures and against their unfair and discriminatory control is the surest weapon to defeat Censorship.

The Management of this Theatre desires the co-operation of its patrons in providing good clean entertainment.

We want no "legalized" censorship of moving pictures.

We have prepared a series of nine different stereopticon slides which crystallize the argument against Censorship; one of the slides is shown herewith.

These slides shown repeatedly in any theatre cannot fail to influence public opinion in that locality against Censorship. They will line up the general public on the side of the Exhibitor.

You Ought to Be Showing Them Now! Legislatures Everywhere Are Convening

Set of Nine Slides, carefully packed, will be sent postpaid on receipt of $1.00.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
516 Fifth Avenue, New York City
List of Current Film Release Dates

Goldwyn Distributing Corp.

STAR SERIES PRODUCTIONS.
Sept. 30—Laughing Bill Hyde (Rex Beach)—Five Parts—Drama.
Oct. 7—Hidden Pines (Mabel Normand)—Five Parts—Drama.
Nov. 17—Thirty a Year (Tom Moore)—Five Parts—Comedy-Drama.
Nov. 24—A Perfect Thirty-Six (Mabel Normand)—Five Parts—Comedy-Circus.
Dec. 1—The Hell Cat (Gertrude Farrar)—Six Parts—Drama.
Dec. 8—A Perfect Lady (Madge Kennedy)—Five Parts—Comedy—Drama.
Dec. 15—Too Fat to Fight (Rex Beach Story)—Six Parts—Drama.

GOLDwyn SPECIALS.
The Manx Man (Seven Parts—Drama).
For the Freedom of the World (Seven Parts—Drama).
Heart of the Sunset (Rex Beach Story—Seven Parts—Drama).
For the Freedom of the East (Betwood—Seven Parts—Drama).

CAPITOL COMEDIES.
Sept. 22—Bill's Sweetie (Two Parts).
Oct. 19—Katie O'Keefe (Two Parts).
Nov. 17—Pink Palamas.
Dec. 1—Proposing Bill.
Dec. 15—The Jellyfish.
Dec. 29—Poor Immortal.
Jan. 15—You Know What I Mean.

Paramount Pictures Corp.

PARAMOUNT-BENNENT COMEDIES.
Oct. 6—Beware of Boers.
Nov. 17—Whose Little Wife Are You?
Nov. 24—Her First Mistake.

PARAMOUNT-ARBUCKLE COMEDIES.
Sept. 15—The Cook.
Nov. 24—The Sheriff.

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASBY CORP.
Paramount Features.
Oct. 13—When Do We Eat? (Emil Bennett)—Five Parts—Comedy—Drama.
Oct. 13—Such a Little Pirate (Lida Lee)—Five Parts—Drama.
Nov. 17—The Male-Behave Wife (Billie Burke).
Nov. 17—The Gypsy Trail (Bret Washburn).
Nov. 24—Women's Weapons (Ethel Clayton).
Nov. 24—A Daughter of the Old South (Pauline Frederick).
Nov. 24—Maryday Smiles (Vivian Martin).
Nov. 24—Puss and Feathers (Emil Bennett).

Artcraft Pictures.
Sept. 29—Joanna Enlists (Mary Pickford)—Five Parts—Drama.
Nov. 17—My Cousin (Enrico Caruso).
Nov. 24—Under the Greenwood Trees (Elsie Ferguson).

PARAMOUNT-ARTCHAFT SPECIAL.
Nov. 24—Sporting Life (Maurice Tourneur Production).

PARAMOUNT-FLAG COMEDIES.
Oct. 13—Tell That to the Marines.

SUCCESS SERIES (HEISSERS).
Oct. 6—Man from Mexico (John Barrymore)—Five Parts—Drama.
Oct. 13—Seventeen (Jack Pickford—Five Parts—Drama).
Nov. 17—Stone (Vida Moore).
Nov. 24—The Chest (Fannie Ward and Sessee Haykawa).
Nov. 24—Caprice (Mary Pickford).

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES.
Nov. 17—Fiji Does Its Bit.

Nov. 24—Fire Walkers of Begua.
Dec. 1—The Belgian Sisters of Lazen.

PARAMOUNT-BRAY PICTOGRAPH.
Nov. 10—A Modern Miracle Worker; Our New Possessions; How Movies Move,
Nov. 17—Tortola, the Fisherman's Paradise; A Machine That Thinks; An Oriental Wrestling Match; Cartoons, "The Greased Pole.
Dec. 1—Indoor; Outdoor; New Possessions; The Second Line of Defense; Cartoons; "A Swiss Dirt. When Wishes Come True."

World Pictures Corp.

Nov. 11—America's Answer.
Nov. 17—Just Sylvia (Barbara Castleton and Johnny Hines).
Nov. 25—The Great (Montague Love).
Dec. 2—Hitting the Trail (Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greely—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 9—The Man of Bronze (Lewis Stone—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 16—The Zero Hour (June Elvidge—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 23—The Love Nest (Mabel Evans—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 30—the Sea Wait (Louise Huff—Five Parts—Drama).
Jan. 6—What Love Has Forgiven (Barbara Castleton—Five Parts—Drama).
Jan. 6—Under Four Flags.
Jan. 15—the Allies (Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Greely—Five Parts—Drama).
Jan. 20—The Sphinx (June Elvidge—Five Parts—Drama).
Jan. 27—Mandarin's Gold (Kitty Gordon—Five Parts—Drama).

WORLD COMEDY RELEASES.
0, Susie Behave (Ray Tichner).

AJFFILIIATED DISTRIBUTORS CORP.
1000 Broadway.
Lafayette. We Come! Pershing, '17—(Perret Productions).

BLUEBIRD.
Oct. 7—The Lure of Luxury (Ruth Clifford)—Five Parts—Drama.
Together (Violet blades—Five Parts—Drama).
Nov. 23—Hug the Mighty (Morris Salisbury—Five Parts—Drama).
Nov. 30—All Right (Carmel Myers—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 2—Tongues of Flame (Marie Walcamp—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 9—Set Free (Edith Roberts—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 16—The Cabaret Girl (Five Parts—Drama).

CHRISTIC FILM COMPANY.
Oct. 7—Why You Don't Love!
Oct. 14—Three Hours Late.
Oct. 21—Way Husbands Flirt.
Oct. 28—Two's Company.
Nov. 15—Way Husbands Flirt.
Nov. 22—Two's Company.
Dec. 3—All Mixed Up.
Dec. 9—Johannie, Go Get 'Em.
Dec. 17—Peggy Mixes It.

EDUCATIONAL FILMS CORPORATION.
Aug. 26—A Mexican Venus (Wright).
Sept. 2—Cigars for Kings and Millionaires.

FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS' CIRCLE.
Pershing's Crusaders.
A Dog's Life (Charlie Chaplin).
Shoulder Arms (Charlie Chaplin).
Ambassador Gerard's "My Poor Years in Germany."

Tarzan of the Apes (Elmo Lincoln and End Markey).
Tempered Steel (Madame Petrouva).
Italy's Flaming Front—Official Italian War Pictures.
Nov. 25—The Panther Woman (Olga Petrowa—Five Parts).

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CO.
Times Building, N. Y.

FORD EDUCATIONAL WEEKLY.
Nationally Distributed by the Grover Distributing Corporation, 31 East 42nd Street, New York City.
No. 118—The Milky Way.
No. 120—The Red Cross Cares for the Wounded.
No. 121—On Foot with our Army and Navy.

HARRY GARSON.
Aeolian Building, New York.
The Hush Hour (Dorothy Dwan).
The Unpardonable Sin (Blanche Sweet).

W. W. HODKINSON CORP. (Revised Through Pathe)
Sept. 30—Heart of Rachel (Bessie Barriscale—Five Parts—Drama.
Oct. 7—Whatever the Call (Linda King—Five Parts—Drama—Plaza).
Nov. 23—Three X Gordon (J. Warren Kerrigan—Five Parts—Drama—Hampton.
Dec. 2—Godess of Lost Lake (Louise Glaum—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 16—Two Gun Betty (Bessie Barriscale—Five Parts—Comedy).
Dec. 23—The Challenge Accepted (Zena Keefe—Five Parts—Drama—Arden).
Jan. 6—The Dance of J. (J. W. Kerrigan—Five Parts—Drama—Hampt).

HOPP HADLEY.
130 West 46th Street, New York.

JEWEL PRODUCTIONS, INC.
The Goerz of Berlin (Century Production—Two Parts).
The Sleuth of the Ludstina (One reel Pat Picture by Wissor Glay)—60140.
For Husband Only (Six Parts—Plaza)—60289.
Crashing Through Berlin (Seven Parts—Patrician—Topical)—60316.
Nov. 1—The Yellow Dog (Six Parts—Drama).
Nov. 18—Borrowed Clothes (Six Parts—Drama—Mildred Harris).

ROBERTSON-COLE, INC.
1000 Broadway, New York.
Among the Champs—Around South Pacific (Educational—Martin Johnson Film Co., Inc.)
Once to Every Man.

LEONARD PERRET PRODUCTIONS.
1402 Broadway, New York.
Stars of Glory.

GEORGE KLEINE.
Raito De Luxe Productions.
Conquered Hearts (Drama).

Edison.
The Unbeliever (Samuel Marl).
Emsney.
Young America (Seven Parts).
Triple Trouble (Charlie Chaplin Picture).

PSYCHO-ANALYTIC RESEARCH ASSOCIATION.
1510 South 22d Street, Lincoln, Neb.
What Does a Woman Need Most (Six Parts).

SELECT PICTURES.
Sept.—The Burglar's Proof (Colin Davies—Five Parts—Drama).
Sept.—The Better Half (Alice Brady—Five Parts—Drama).
Sept.—The Forbidden City (Norma Talmadge—Five Parts—Drama).
Oct.—The One Woman (Select Special).
Nov.—Mrs. Ledwidge's Boots (Constance Talm).
Nov.—Her Great Chance (Alice Brady).
Nov.—The Road Through the Dark (Clara Kimball Young).
Nov.—The Cavil Case (Special).
Nov.—The Midnight Patrol (Special).

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD
December 14, 1918
From Canton, Illinois, to Canton, China, movie fans are looking at pictures made on

EASTMAN FILM

The demand for the clearest pictures possible is world wide.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY, ROCHESTER, N.Y.

Perfect developing and printing demands long experience and modern facilities. We have both.
We have met every exacting demand; have in fact more than pleased the most critical.
We can satisfy you, too.

EVANS FILM MFG. CO., 416-24 West 216th St., New York City

Larger returns for an equal amount of work to the men who know. Each weekly issue of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD contains more up-to-date information than you can get from all other sources. Subscribe now if not already on our mailing list. You will get your paper hours earlier than from the newsstand and it costs $4.80 less.

KNOWLEDGE BRINGS SUCCESS

Messrs. Exhibitor, Exchangeman, Operator, and Film Men Everywhere:—The moving picture business is one of the youngest but one of the leading industries of the world to-day. We may well be proud to be connected with it. Are you keeping up? Do you know all about it? It will yield larger returns for an equal amount of work to the men who know. Each weekly issue of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD contains more up-to-date information than you can get from all other sources. Subscribe now if not already on our mailing list. You will get your paper hours earlier than from the newsstand and it costs $4.80 less.
List of Current Film Release Dates

WILLIAM L. SHERRY SERVICE, 729 Seventh Avenue, N. Y. C. Marriages (Catherine Calvert—Kenny Production). Frontier Days on the Bismarck (Burlington—Travel). Unknown Switzerland (Burlington—Travel). The Quiet Halt (Burlington—Travel). Allied War Heroes Arrive in Switzerland (Burlington—Travel).

State Right Releases

ADVANCED MOTION PICTURE CORP. 1463 Broadway, New York City. The Eleventh Commandment (Drama).

COSMOPHOTO FILM COMPANY, INC. 220 West 42d Street, New York City. I Believe.

PHYSICAL CULTURE PHOTO PLAYS, INC. 113 West 40th Street, New York. Zougar (Drama). PIEDMONT PICTURES CORPORATION. 729 Seventh Avenue, N. Y. C. His Daughter Pays. PIONEER FILM CORP. 130 West 46th St., New York City. The Silent Man (Selig Production). Waves of Men.

FELIX F. FEIST. 150 West 46th Street, N. Y. C. Stolen Orders (Eight Reels—Drama).

PLUNKETT & CARROLL. 220 West 42d Street, New York City. The Woman the Germans Shot.

PRODUCERS' DISTRIBUTING CORP. 150 West 46th Street, New York City. Her Mistake (Evelyn Nesbit).

SCHOMER PHOTO-PLAY PRODUCING CO. 1440 Broadway, New York City. Ruling Passion.
COMERCIAL LABORATORY WORK
In all its branches, receives INDIVIDUAL attention. Has the QUALITY and PUNCH which SELL prints.

RELEASE WORK
Specially equipped for QUANTITY production. Uniform SUPERIOR QUALITY such as only EXPERTS with scientific supervision can produce.

SPECIALTIES
If you have work requiring EXPERT SCIENTIFIC knowledge, we are BEST qualified to do it.

Empire City Film Lab., Inc.
345 West 40th St., New York City
Bryant 5437

Split Steam Heating Unit
FOR SALE
American Ideal Steam Boiler, completely equipped, and including American Sirocco Distributing Fan with Vento Radiators and Register Faces. Only in service one winter. Capacity, 8,000 cubic feet of air per minute, also 1,000 square feet of direct radiation, complete with valves and piping. Detailed plans will be furnished to make the system fit any particular theatre.

We are in a position to furnish complete Ventilating and Heating Systems and Direct Current Generating Units. Inquiries solicited.

REEVES MACHINERY COMPANY
17 East Rich Street
COLUMBUS, OHIO

WHITE A.C. SPECIAL
MOTION PICTURE CARBONS
Standard for Alternating Current Projection

A product that is considered standard by the experts in any industry must meet the requirements of the service for which it is intended. White A. C. Special carbons were designed to fill the need of an efficient light source for alternating current projection. They have been tested by the experts in the motion picture industry who are satisfied that they fill the bill in every particular.

White A. C. Special Carbons are standard. They give a pure, white light of high intensity, noiseless and flickerless operation, and a rugged light source not affected by any slight changes in voltage. Simply insert a trim of White A. C. Specials. No other change of equipment necessary.

FOR DIRECT CURRENT PROJECTION
The Columbia-Silvertip combination gives a strong, penetrating light and absolutely steady screen illumination.

Write today for our circulars.

NATIONAL CARBON COMPANY, Inc., Cleveland, Ohio

Moving Picture Machine Patents My Specialty
PATENTS
WILLIAM N. MOORE
PATENT ATTORNEY
LOAN AND TRUST BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D. C.

The first important step is to learn whether you can obtain a patent. Please send sketch of your invention with $5.00 and I will examine the patent records and inform you whether you are entitled to a patent, the cost and manner of procedure.

Personal Attention Established 25 Years

MINUSA
Gold Fibre Screens

IMPROVE your projection
INCREASE your patronage
INFLATE your receipts
INDOURED by all Leading Exhibitors
INFORMATION and Samples upon request

DEALERS EVERYWHERE

MINUSA CINE SCREEN CO.
Bonnard & Morgan  St. Louis, Mo.
A word anent the Third Anniversary Edition of

CINE-MUNDIAL

It Comes Next Issue
Under Date of January, 1919

It will be a special number in every sense of the word.

special reviews
special articles special data
special observations by our own staff correspondents throughout Latin-America special tips to buyers special hints and helps to exhibitors special opportunities for American exporters special — no; only our regular advertising rates but special, yes very special reasons for our regular advertisers doubling their usual number of pages.

and similarly special reasons for new advertisers jumping in at once.

Send that advertisement NOW!

Reserve space immediately

It Goes to Press at Noon
Saturday
DEC. 14

CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY
516 Fifth Ave., New York
Phone Murray Hill 1610-11-12-13
Isn’t this a fair comparison?

To the man who doesn’t know, one automobile looks much like another; and when he sees two cars of the same general style he’s likely to put them in the same class as to quality.

But when he becomes acquainted with automobiles he stops judging by general appearance, and goes deeper. In fact, he learns that often the cheaper car is built more for looks, at the expense of quality in vital parts.

In this respect it is fair to compare Projectors with automobiles and to point out how unwise it is to say “Oh, a Projector is a Projector; they’re all about alike.”

Nothing of the kind. They must of necessity resemble each other in general appearance, the same as automobiles; but in the VITAL PARTS, that’s where the big difference lies.

It is the quality of these vital parts that determines the performance of any Machine, and not the finish. A die-cast gear is a soft-metal gear no matter how heavily you nickelplate it; and a cut cast-iron or steel gear with a decent machine finish will outlast a number of them.

That’s the kind of stuff the Simplex is made of; and that’s why its projection is not only perfect when the Machine is new, but PERMANENTLY so.

The screen doesn’t show how the Projector LOOKS, but how it is BUILT
Projectionist Ray says

"The finest fixings, the best orchestra and the most lavish decorations will never make a theatre "go," unless there is included the proper kind of projection.

"Years of experience enable me to speak with certainty when I say that POWER'S PROJECTS PERFECTLY—and beyond perfection you can't go.

"I'm a repeater when I say POWER'S stands the test of Time, but you've got to show me a test that equals it.

"POWER'S CAMERAGRAPH has come through on this supreme test which has won for it the confidence of both trade and public throughout the world.

"Why, do you suppose, such houses as Loew's Brooklyn Metropolitan and Washington Palace (two of the finest in America) use POWER'S? Why?

"IT PUTS THE PICTURE ON THE SCREEN"

Copyright, 1918
Nicholas Power Company
Incorporated

Nicholas Power Company
Incorporated
Pioneers of Projection
90 Gold Street, New York, N.Y.
TAKE NOTE

that thus far this season, for eleven consecutive Star Series productions,

Goldwyn Pictures

have again scored definite, assured successes with the exhibitors of America, with the public that makes the amusement business possible and with the critics who interpret public opinion. Remember: we said in advance:

'This is a Goldwyn Year!'
ALBERT E. SMITH
presents

GLADYS
LESLIE in

"THE BELOVED IMPOSTOR"

SECOND RELEASE OF THE
GLADYS LESLIE STAR SERIES

Written by Mrs. Elizabeth J. Mariani

A LOVABLE mite of a teasing, heart-grabbing debutante is the role of Gladys Leslie in this tender comedy drama.

Betty made a wager that she could win Dick Mentor—a woman-hater—his hate springing from the heart-ache that another woman had caused him in the past that he was trying to forget.

And to batter her way into a heart armored against the wiles of women—how to do it! Betty knew. She assumed the part of a twelve-year-old child, and Dick turned to her as the first feminine influence that he had allowed to enter his life since the great event that had embittered him.

But Betty's plan worked too well; for when she had won his love as a child, she knew that she had lost her own woman's heart to him. It is the way in which she works herself out of this serio-comic situation that makes this unusual role the best in which this widely popular star has ever appeared.

GLADYS LESLIE STAR SERIES SCHEDULE
(Current Releases)
"The Mating"
"The Beloved Impostor"

to be followed by seven additional features on these dates:

January 27, 1919    June 2, 1919
March 3, 1919     July 14, 1919
April 21, 1919   August 18, 1919
September 15, 1919

VITAGRAPH

ALBERT E· SMITH, President
To The Men Who Sign The Checks For Motion Picture Producing Companies

Owing to the new and patented method of developing motion picture positive used by the Spoor-Thompson Laboratories, we can and will print and develop your Positive Film at a lower rate per foot than you can obtain anywhere.

Furthermore there will be no extra charges of any kind. And the quality is the supreme effort of the art.

Write or call upon our sales manager, Mr. Charles F. Stark, for details.

Spoor-Thompson Laboratories
1333 Argyle Street Chicago
Sales Office and Service Bureau, 110 W. Fortieth Street
New York City  Telephone Bryant 1490
Is there anything you need to know about this picture except that Cecil B. De Mille has produced this modern version of Edwin Milton Royle's popular play?

That's all anybody needs to know to realize what a great box office attraction this production is going to be.
What's All America Awaiting?

WHEN the happy millions had finished celebrating Victory, what next did they want? It's what you are eager for—you, your wife and everybody else in your town.

You're all anxious for just one thing: to hear the story of how our boys did it—the real story, full of fire and color, from the lips of one of the fellows from your own town. Right? You bet!

Well, here it is. The story of Victory, the reason why, brought before your very eyes. It's as intimate a tale as though told by your brother—all the interesting touches. That's why it's the big production of the year—the picture all America wants to see.

D.W.GRIFFITH

Presents

"The Greatest Thing in Life"

An ARTCRAFT Picture

Personally Directed by D. W. Griffith  Story by Capt. Victor Marier  Photographed by G. W. Bitzer

The Griffith Players

Are as distinctive in their acting as the Griffith Productions are distinctive in motion pictures.

Miss Lillian Gish portrays the modern French girl who is a figure of such commanding interest to the women, and men, of America. "Lillian Gish has gone to such heights of expression that she has pulled up her ladder after her." — Beulah Brown Fletcher, St. Louis Republic.

"The acting of Lillian Gish exceeds anything I have ever seen on stage or screen." — Ona Moody Lawrence, Chicago Post.

"Miss Gish plays fine and subtle harmonies upon the heart strings of all who watch her." — Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"Robert Harron does the most wonderful work ever seen." — Kitty Kelly, Chicago Examiner.

"Robert Harron exhibits marvellous talent." — Tamar Lane, Boston Record.

"Robert Harron's work is a revelation." — Philadelphia Ledger.

"Robert Harron, the greatest of all screen actors." — Monroe Lathrop, Los Angeles Express.

Miss Gish and Mr. Harron are supported by a cast which meets the high standard set for the Griffith Players.
DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS
in “Arizona”
An ARTCRAFT Picture

Adapted from Augustus Thomas's Play "Arizona"
Produced by Douglas Fairbanks Picture Corporation

MADE TO ORDER FOR FAIRBANKS

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS aboard a broncho dashes up to the ranch house and yells to a bunch of cow punchers, "Come on quick, we're going to fight."

"Fight who?"

'Who, hell! What difference does it make? Come on!"

And away they go—a thunder of hoofs and a dust cloud, Douglas Fairbanks and his very own army.

That's a scene from "Arizona," a scene typical of this great stage success now produced in the big out-doors where the story belongs.

As a play it was a box office winner. As a moving picture, with Douglas Fairbanks as "Lieut. Denton"—say what a business you'll do!
Mr. and Mrs. SIDNEY DREW

THE appeal of the Paramount-Drew Comedies is limited to the following classes of patrons of moving picture theatres:

1—Youngsters.
2—Men—married, happy and unhappy.
3—Women—married, happy and unhappy.
4—Men, unmarried, who wish they weren’t unmarried.
5—Men, unmarried, who are glad of it.
6—Women, unmarried, who wish they weren’t.

Figure it out for yourself. The only class left, the only persons who won’t laugh at the Paramount-Drew Comedies are Women, unmarried, who don’t want to be married!

Any of ‘em in your town? No? Then there’s a 100 per cent appeal for you in Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew.
Adolph Zukor presents

Elsie Ferguson

in

"Under The Greenwood Tree"

An ARTCRAFT Picture

By H. V. Esmond. Scenario by Adrian Gil-Spear. Directed by Emile Chautard.

When Elsie Ferguson Seeks Adventure—

WHAT is more exciting than beauty in search of a life of thrills in the rough, tough world of a band of thieves?

Nothing much, especially when the beauty finds more thrills than she expected and the ruffians have to be given a first class trouncing by the hero in order to save the beauty's life.
Jesse L. Lasky presents
Cecil B. De Mille’s
Production

"The Squaw Man"

An ARTCRAFT Picture
By EDWIN MILTON ROYLE

You Believe in Names

So do your patrons. The name of your theatre is a guarantee of quality—if you try conscientiously to give them the best.

The name of Cecil B. De Mille means a production of distinctive merit.

Edwin Milton Royle’s “The Squaw Man” is a play the name of which is internationally famous.

And the cast! Look at these names:

Elliott Dexter
Ann Little Katherine MacDonald
Theodore Roberts
Edwin Stevens

Jack Holt
Thurston Hall
Tully Marshall
Herbert Standing
From Cecil B. De Mille down, a list of guarantors of exceptional entertainment as dependable as the list of directors of the National City Bank.
DECEMBER 24th is the day...mark it on your memo pad...write it on your cuff...and REMEMBER THAT DATE. That's the date that marks the advent of the mightiest combination of animated news reels the industry has ever seen, viz., THE HEARST NEWS (being the former Hearst animated photographic section of the Hearst-Pathe News)—THE MUTUAL SCREEN TELEGRAM and THE UNIVERSAL CURRENT EVENTS.

These will be released each week (three a week) all three produced by the INTERNATIONAL FILM SERVICE (Inc.).

Thus each week Exhibitors can advertise these three as Attractions extraordinary, insuring America's millions with ALL the world's big news events in animated pictures, presented in a brand new and unusually fascinating manner, with EXTRA big added attractions each week as described on the next page.
The History of Animated News Reels

CONTRACT NOW!
That means TODAY—NOW—if you wish to hold the whip hand over any and all competition in the animated news reel line.

Wire your nearest Universal Exchange, thru which these animated news reels will be distributed all over the country and secure your 3-A-WEEK sure-fire winners, greater than anything heretofore attempted.

Waste no time—let nothing delay you—beat your competitor to it by wiring today. Then, backed by the mighty advertising and publicity forces of the entire list of Hearst newspapers throughout the country—plus the power of the Hearst magazines and trained force of animated news reel photographers covering every part of the world, you'll have nothing to do but ANNOUNCE that your theatre has THE BIG 3. Contracts are now being signed between Exhibitors and Universal Exchanges everywhere. Get action if you appreciate what “EXCLUSIVE” means with the BIG 3.

In addition to the former big box office features of the former photographic section of the Hearst-Pathe News—the Universal Current Events and the Mutual Screen Telegram, you will have regularly animated cartoons from the pens of such world renowned Artists as Winsor McCay—Hal Coffman—Hy Mayer—T. A. Dorgan (Tad)—Harry Murphy—Powers and the great Opper.

In these animated cartoons that will prove genuine house packers, you'll get the famous Shenanigan Kids—Happy Hooligan—Silk Hat Harry and others.

REMEMBER—a unique and entirely original newspaper advertising campaign, backed by huge publicity, will back THE BIG 3 all over the country. Thus you will have not only the mightiest combination of news reel forces with everything that's new in news pictures of the world, but an advertising campaign that will send thousands to theatres who never went there before. There's a golden stream of new dollars headed for those Exhibitors who CONTRACT NOW.
Goldwyn to Distribute the Ford Educational Weekly

THE FORD MOTOR COMPANY, the greatest manufacturing enterprise in America, has for four years placed its tremendous resources behind the creation of a great educational film weekly.

At this moment from 3,000 to 4,000 theatres are presenting this unique and powerful screen achievement to their audiences, and have been doing so since its inauguration.

It is Henry Ford's intention to have this costly and popular weekly given the greatest volume of distribution ever attained by any feature in the motion picture industry.

In keeping with his demand that a great and stable Educational be available for the entire American public and at a minimum of cost to the exhibitors who will present it; with the intention of having such a weekly publicly exhibited in from 5,000 to 7,000 theatres each week.

Henry Ford and His Representatives have chosen GOLDWYN as the exclusive distributors of The FORD EDUCATIONAL WEEKLY

A Single Reel Weekly  52 Issues a Year

Goldwyn invites the exhibitors of the nation to write, wire or visit its branch offices to make immediate arrangements for the booking of this approved and established feature and announces herewith the first five issues to be released under the Goldwyn imprint:

Jan. 12: "What Uncle Sam Will Do For 2 Cents."
Jan. 26: "Hang It All!" The story of wall paper.
Feb. 2: "Carrying Old Glory to the Seven Seas." The story of the Hog Island shipyards.
Feb. 9: Canada's "Mountain of Tears," Mt. Edith Cavell.

GOLDWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDFIELD  President

16 East 42nd Street  New York City
A Great Imagination Has Built the Ford Educational Weekly

There is not in the entire industry a feature filled with such humanness, of such great range and scope as the Ford Educational Weekly.

It is both current and permanent in its appeal. It is a scenic, a travelogue, a historical record, a portrayer of industry in many of its fascinating phases; a stimulator of patriotism and good citizenship.

In Detroit Mr. Ford has equipped a plant and laboratory that take rank with the best plants in the industry. His Educational Weekly always has the distinction of beautiful production.

The men who produce the Ford Educational Weekly have entree to plants and institutions that are still barred to the inquisitive lens of other cameras. Their power lies in the tremendous power and resources of the man whose far-reaching dreams are translated into action.

Samuel Goldfish, president of Goldwyn, in announcing the distribution under the Goldwyn imprint of this splendid product, correctly says that "Henry Ford has created the Ford Educational Weekly with no thought of profit, but because he feels that through this weekly will be conveyed a message of inspiration to the American public."

The conditions under which the Ford Educational Weekly is to be placed in increasing thousands of motion picture theatres are vitally interesting to exhibitors. The cost is to be so remarkably low that no exhibitor can afford to keep it off his screen.

Advance prints of the first five releases now announced will be in all Goldwyn offices by December 15. Every Goldwyn manager and salesman and 10,500 Ford Motor Company sales agencies in the United States in a few days will be ready to sign contracts or forward applications for service to the Goldwyn Home Office.

Read the news announcements in the motion picture trade papers.
The Entire Nation Stands Ready To Boost This Story

Try to estimate the huge number of men and women in your city or town who during the war did relief work with the seven great organizations — Y.M.C.A., the Jewish Welfare Board, the National Catholic War Council, the Salvation Army, the War Camp Community Service, the American Library Association and the Y.W.C.A.

Millions of Americans are ready to support and help you exploit the greatest comedy-drama production of the year.

REX BEACH'S
Drama of Human Emotions
Too Fat To Fight with Frank McIntyre
Directed by Hobart Henley
Produced under the direction of GOLDWYN

Here are the whole-hearted, approving reviews of this production's pre-release at the Rialto, Theatre, New York:

N. Y. TELEGRAPH: "Too Fat To Fight" is a big, human drama of comedy and pathos filled with those fine "touches" that always gain popularity for the picture containing them.

N. Y. GLOBE: There are fat men and fat men, but Frank McIntyre is in a class by himself. "Too Fat To Fight" is a lovable, human story that big audiences are applauding.

N. Y. MAIL: "Too Fat To Fight" is a picture of which its author, star and director can well be proud. We predict for it great national popularity.

N. Y. POST: A most amusing and enjoyable comedy drama is Rex Beach's "Too Fat To Fight" at the Rialto. Mr. Beach was lucky in getting Frank McIntyre for the role.

N. Y. SUN: A powerful Beach scenario, a story of laughter and tears, a most appealing star all make "Too Fat To Fight" a pronounced success.

N. Y. TELEGRAM: All those who enjoy hearty laughter will both laugh and thrill when they see "Too Fat To Fight." It contains also just enough tears to make it intensely human.
Another Madge Kennedy Success
The Most Favorable Notices She Ever Received Are On "A PERFECT LADY"

EXHIBITORS accept and believe a unanimous verdict on the success of a star and production. They know that it is not the function or intention of the critics to be over-enthusiastic or over-friendly.

It is therefore Goldwyn's pleasure to stand aside while those who have seen MADGE KENNEDY in "A PERFECT LADY" by Channing Pollock and Rennold Wolf definitely pronounce this production to be her most successful Goldwyn Picture.

"A PERFECT LADY" is a big stage hit by two nationally-known authors, with a universally loved star of constantly increasing popularity and appeal and directed with great skill by Clarence G. Badger.

Not forgetting the nation-wide acclaim that has greeted each new picture of this favorite star, Goldwyn is proud of the spontaneous approval shown in the following reviews:

NEW YORK AMERICAN: An unusually strong and laughable dramatic comedy with even bigger appeal than the original play.

JOURNAL OF COMMERCE: "A Perfect Lady" is a particularly successful Goldwyn Picture."

NEW YORK POST: "In a Perfect Lady" Madge Kennedy is an even better comedienne than ever before...Delightful...Bright.

NEW YORK HERALD: Madge Kennedy has played many screen roles delightfully, but she has never before had a finer success than in "A Perfect Lady."

NEW YORK WORLD: "A Perfect Lady," was a stage hit and now Goldwyn has turned it into a truly enjoyable picture.

N. Y. TELEGRAPH: It would be hard to picturize a stage play more successfully than "A Perfect Lady" has been by Goldwyn....... One has to be glowingly enthusiastic in writing about Madge Kennedy."

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION
SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President 16 East 42nd Street
EDGAR SELWYN, Vice President New York City
What A Wonderful World This Is.

"SMILING BILL" PARSONS is one of the proofs of it. Less than a year ago undreamed of as a motion picture star—today one of the popular heroes on the screens of the universe.

Welcomed daily and nightly in 2,900 theatres of our own United States; enjoying a large measure of confidence and liking because of his wholesomeness and good nature.

Playing from Hempstead Heath to Peckham Rye in London, booked in the principal cinema houses of the United Kingdom, he holds the favor of our British blood-cousins.

Applauded by the French and bringing good cheer to the thousands of Americans on leave or furlough in Paris.

In Italy, in Argentina, in Scandinavia, in nearby Canada and far off Australia and New Zealand populations like and unlike our own have expressed their united approvals of

"SMILING BILL" PARSONS

in CAPITOL COMEDIES

26 a Year Every Second Monday

Good nature, likability, cleanliness and popularity—he has all of these reasons for success. He has become a success by popular decision. Truly, this is also an appreciative as well as a wonderful world.

You are missing one of the screen's best elements of attraction in your theatre if you are not playing Capitol Comedies.

GOLDFWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDWYN President

16 East 42nd Street New York City
Six Louis Bennison Pictures, Starring A New Favorite

EVERY exhibitor in the business knows how few new personalities are instantly welcomed by patrons of the screen.

But once in a while there comes along a new star who makes himself; who doesn’t have to fight for recognition and acceptance; who draws patronage right from the jump. Such a star is found in

Betzwod Film Company’s Presentation of

LOUIS BENNISON

in Oh, Johnny!

By Wilson Bayley

When you and your audiences see Louis Bennison on the screen you will say: “Now I understand what personality is. This boy has it.”

“Oh, Johnny!” will duplicate on the screen the success Bennison scored in his great stage hit, “Johnny Get Your Gun.”

There are six Louis Bennison Star Series productions offered under a single contract and distributed exclusively by Goldwyn. Four of these fine productions are completed. “Oh, Johnny!” is available for immediate release everywhere after December 22.

GOLDWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

SAMUEL GOLDWYN President

16 East 42nd Street New York City
HE'S IN AGAIN

Bulls Eye Film Corp.
729 Seventh Avenue, New York City

Billy West
The Funniest Man on Earth
MITCHELL LEWIS
in the first of his Select Star Series

"CODE OF THE YUKON"

from the story by Anthony Paul Kelly
Scenario and Direction by Bertram Bracken

The Girl who won the love of Jean
NOW PACKING THE

BROADWAY
WANTED FOR MURDER

RUSH!!
BOOK THIS BIG HARRY RAPF
SENSATION
—NOW—

BOOKINGS PLACED BY
INDEPENDENT SALES CORPORATION

Exchanges in BROADWAY THEATRE
MURDER

TRY KAISER AS PIRATE, PLAN OF ALLIES

WANTED FOR MURDERS
WM. HOHENZOLLERN
ONE TIME GERMAN KAISER
French British

HOLLAND EXPECTED TO GIVE UP HOHENZOLLERN

President Wilson Said to Have Made Suggestions in Method of Procedure in Getting the ex-Kaiser to Trial—Dutch Cut Off Exports to Germany.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—A demand for the surrender of William Hohenzollern will be submitted to the Netherlands government in the name of all the allied cabinets, according to the Express. The views of France and Italy have been fully communicated to the British government, and President Wilson has also made suggestions relative to procedure in the case.

DISTRIBUTED THROUGH
FILM CLEARING HOUSE, INC.
Every Territory
JULIUS STEGER

PRESENTS

THE SURE-FIRE BOX OFFICE WINNER OF THE YEAR

EVELYN NESBIT and her son
RUSSELL THAW
in
HER MISTAKE

First of the Series of Twelve Big Special Productions at the Fixed Rental Prices of $10 — $20 — $30

PER DAY

READY FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

BOOKINGS NOW BEING PLACED BY
INDEPENDENT SALES CORPORATION
REPRESENTATIVES IN EVERY TERRITORY
J. STUART BLACKTON
PRESENTS

THE STUPENDOUS UP-TO-THE-MINUTE SPECTACULAR DRAMA

"LIFE'S GREATEST PROBLEM"

Featuring MITCHELL LEWIS

As presented with tremendous success at the Rivoli Theatre under the title

"SAFE FOR DEMOCRACY"

Second of the Big Extra Attractions at the Fixed Rental Prices of $10 — $20 — $30

PER DAY

READY FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

DISTRIBUTED THROUGH
FILM CLEARING HOUSE, Inc.
EXCHANGES IN EVERY TERRITORY
WHO SAID:—"NO MORE WAR PICTURES!"

We would like to meet the American who, when he sees flashing in letters of fire

THE BATTLE OF CHATEAU THIERRY

in front of the leading picture theatres of the country, will not rush in to witness the armies of America and the Allies putting the final touch to PRUSSIANISM.

Five thrilling reels compiled from ABSOLUTELY OFFICIAL and AUTHENTIC films secured by the official photographers of the French Army.

For further information communicate with

E. RATISBONNE
Delegate of the Cinematographic Division of the French Army

729 7th Ave. Bryant 1571

New York City
As the curtain rings down on the last act of History's Greatest Drama an audience of a hundred million in mighty acclaim greets the victorious principal players —

“STARS of GLORY”

featuring

Dolores Cassinelli and
E.K. Lincoln

Produced by Leonce Perret

PERRET PRODUCTIONS
220 WEST 42nd STREET NEW YORK
WORLD PICTURES present JUNE ELVIDGE in
"The Zero Hour"
with FRANK MAYO

"Plot novel. Holds the attention. Bright, entertaining story."
—MOTION PICTURE WORLD.

"This production will go down as a fitting memorial to the noted author, Paul West."
—EXHIBITORS' HERALD AND MOTOGRAPHY.

"Plot filled with situations."—MOTION PICTURE NEWS.
An announcement of the greatest importance to every exhibitor —

PEARL WHITE

surpassed by no one as an attraction, the premier serial star of the world, is presented in an entirely new role in her newest and greatest serial

THE LIGHTNING-RAIDER

Produced by Astra
Directed by Geo. B. Seitz.
Written by Bertram Millhauser and Geo. B. Seitz.
Released Jan. 5th

PATHE DISTRIBUTORS
You know what to expect in a

PEARL WHITE

serial – action, thrills, story, acting and feature production of the highest type. You will find them all in

THE

LIGHTNING RAIDER

Produced by Astra
Directed by Geo. B. Seitz
Written by Bertram Millhauser and Geo. B. Seitz
Released Jan. 5th

PATHÉ DISTRIBUTORS
Some of the most marvelous and thrilling scenes ever taken by a motion picture camera are in number 24.

OFFICIAL WAR REVIEW

You see a spectacular and terrible attack by Italian flame throwers; an actual charge by infantry through a terrific storm of shell fire; German shells striking a Red Cross hospital, and other wonderful scenes.

Exhibitors are assured that not only is there an ample supply of material being received, but that the quality of the subjects is unparalleled.

Official war pictures of the French, American, British and Italian Governments.

Presented by
COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC INFORMATION
George Creel, Chairman
DIVISION OF FILMS
Chat S. Hart, Director

Distributed by
PATHE
Much in Little
One reel every other week.
PATHÉ REVIEW
a film magazine

The one requirement asked for each subject that goes into this fascinating film is, "is it interesting?" Each number will be made up of Scientific, Educational, Scenic, Humorous, or Sport subjects, not one of which will be dry, or so lengthy as to be uninteresting.

The first number will be released on January 19th. Its contents are typical of succeeding issues. They look attractive, they are attractive!

Analysis of Baseball (wonderful slow motion photography)
How Music Affects Animals (Ditmars Film)
Picturesque Brittany (Pathécolor)
Butterflies and Bees (Pathécolor)

Here is truly a release which gets away from the objections which so often attach to the words "educational" or "scenic." It is a film for the whole family, suitable for every theatre and with a most dependable quality. Take a look at the first issue at your nearest Pathé Exchange!
American Film Co. Inc.

Presents:

MARY MILES MINTER
in "Wives and Other Wives"
An American "Flying A" Picture

By STEPHEN FOX  Directed by LLOYD INGRAHAM

The first of a new era in Minter pictures—presenting this dainty star in a role other than that of an ingenue. Capacity business will doubtless result at every theatre showing this "different" offering.

Other Minter Subjects Now Showing:
"The Eyes of Julia Deep"
"Rosemary Climbs the Heights"

Produced by AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, Inc.
SAMUEL S. HUTCHINSON, Pres.

Distributed by PATHÉ
THEY ARE COMING BACK FROM BATTLEFIELD AND CAMP

MILLIONS of young American soldiers, trained to the minute—those splendid armies whose skill and valor shattered Germany's dream of World Domination—they represent the triumph of our modern military system and our national efficiency.

"MADE IN AMERICA" in a series of eight epoch-making episodes presents with wonderful realism an authoritative story in pictures, of the Selective Draft, the training of the American soldier here and in France, and the making of America's Victorious Armies.

Upon the background of this great panorama replete with scenes of deepest interest to every patriotic American, a story has been drawn which will appeal strongly to the hearts of the American people. It is a story of devotion to country, mother's love and sacrifice, regeneration and the valor of the American soldier on the battlefields of France.

Exhibition: "MADE IN AMERICA" is sure to be a strong and continuous attraction. Everyone who sees it will "carry on" and follow through the experiences of the typical young Americans to the grand finale—PEACE WITH VICTORY.

One Reel Released Each Week

Produced by Mr. Ashley Miller

Published and Distributed by the W. W. Hodkinson
Thru Pathé Exchange, Inc.
The Challenge Accepted

An unusually dramatic and absorbing story of a woman's part in the testing of a Man

A Big Special Attraction to be released December 29th by W.W. Hodkinson Corporation through Pathé Exchange, Inc.
“CROWN JEWELS” TAKEN TO AMERICA

Valuable Gems of Royalty Removed to the U. S. by Triangle Players.

Yes: it's all over, the armistice was signed. But the attempts of the Crowned Heads of Europe to protect their wealth, furnish a theme for an unusual crook play, timely in its appeal.

—CLAIRE ANDERSON—

sparks as the featured player in "Crown Jewels". With excellent photography, settings, a brilliant supporting cast and suspense sustaining situations, you are guaranteed a Triangle Play that will increase your profits and please your patrons. Strike while the iron is hot—show this picture now. Released by the

Triangle Distributing Corporation
1457 Broadway
New York
FOR STATE RIGHTS

TOM MIX
MASTER OF THE PLAINS

IN A
Series of Sixteen Two-Reel Western Comedy-Drama
Re-issues Made and Copyrighted by WM. N. SELIG

EXHIBITORS
From Every Part of the Country are Inquiring About These Pictures

TERRITORY IS SELLING FAST
STATE RIGHTS BUYERS SHOULD GET BUSY

Here's a Good Thing—A Real Money-Maker

First Release:
“Twisted Trails,” January 1st and then One Every Week

Communicate with

EXCLUSIVE FEATURES, INC.
126 WEST 46TH STREET
Phone Bryant 6436 NEW YORK, N. Y.
The Film of

Get it

M. M. Rubens, owner of 5 theatres in Joliet, says:

"The Kaiser's Finish" holds record of all our houses for the day. Audience well pleased.

See it at these Exchange

New York and Northern New Jersey—Emanee Film Co., Inc., 145 West 45th St., New York City.
Michigan—Standard Film Service Co., Film Exchange Bldg., Detroit, Mich.
Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska—A. H. Blank Enterprises, Rialto Theatre, Omaha, Neb.
Southern California and Arizona—T. L. Tally, 833 South Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal.
Illinois—Central Film Co., 318 South State St., Chicago, Ill.

Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia—Qualit Film Co., 414 Ferry St., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas—Metro Film Corp.
Chicago, Ill.

Supreme Film Co.

Kentucky and Tennessee—Big Feature Rights Corp.
Rex Theatre, Louisville, Ky.

Sol Lesser grabbed it!

"THE KAISER'S FINISH"
Capacity Crowds at Palace

Des Moines.

Er’s Finish played to enormous capacity business. Palace, Moines. Playing to more money than the Beast of Berlin, standing the crowds up a block long. Picture completely filled every one. It is without a doubt the biggest success in moving picture business and so timely that any exhibitor could break records with it even in the face of Flu epidemic.

C. E. HOLAH, General Mgr., A. H. Blank Enterprise.

You will book it

Lieber Co., 24 West Washington St.,

Chicago, Ind.

Pitts, Missouri and Southern New Jersey—

Feature Film Exchange, 1339 Vine St.,

Phoenix, Pa.

Delaware and District of Columbia—

B. Lust, Washington, D. C.

Pitts, Pa.

Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Wisconsin—

First National Exchanges, Minneapolis and Milwaukee, Wis.

Northern California, Nevada and Hawaii—All Star

Feature Dist., 101 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco, Calif.

New Orleans, New England and Denver Territory—

Apply to A. Warner, 220 West 42nd St., New York City.

Foreign Rights controlled by Hiller & Wilk, Longacre Bldg., New York City.

Don’t monkey with Dead Ones

Breaking Records In the Face of the Epidemic
A New Idea

The man who doesn't think of the future usually lives to regret the past.

Live-wire exhibitors always are thinking very much about the future.

And they're thinking more seriously than ever about it right now, while the nations of the world are trying to decide whether they should put on their business coats or stick to shirt sleeves and preparedness.

That's why so many exhibitors are interested in the Fox Idea.

The Fox Idea takes the future into consideration.

The Fox Idea is a merchandizing idea. It is based on the sound business principle that a good product is an asset even before it is sold.

The Fox Idea is that if an exhibitor's "Fox Days" are successful days, there will be more of them— that the public will ascertain these days and remember them— and that public, exhibitor and producer alike will benefit.

The Fox Idea is business principle applied to motion pictures.

It is the principle of SERVICE.

BOOK THEM NOW!

THE PRUSSIAN CUR
THE LAND OF THE FREE QUEEN OF THE SEA EVERY MOTHER'S SON

FOX FILM CORPORATION
Fox Films

The Fox Idea

—the giving of the full measure of VALUE
—UNIFORM VALUE
—and keeping a safe distance ahead of the times.

On these pages is listed the proof. Here are productions that have made millions of dollars for the exhibitors of the United States —productions that fill any measure of value
—productions that are in advance of events and which, as in transforming WHY AMERICA WILL WIN into THE LAND OF THE FREE, are kept ahead.

You never are asked to fulfill an engagement with Methuselah when you contract for Fox pictures.

The Fox Idea—Fox service—Fox enterprise—are your protection.

If YOU are thinking of YOUR future, you are looking out for the present —building for tomorrow.

And the only pictures in the world that will give you the sort of uniform, dependable service you require are Fox pictures.

Start right today! Book them now!

BOOK THEM NOW!

FOX

FILM CORPORATION
World's Record—"UNDER FOUR FLAGS"

For one solid week ending November 23, the two foremost motion picture houses in the world—the Rivoli and Rialto, in New York, played to the biggest audience in their history—packed to the doors every performance.

MR. S. L. ROTHAPFEL says:

"Even with these two great houses it proved impossible to accommodate the crowds and now—after our colossal record of attendance, I have contracted for this great film for another solid week, at the Rivoli," beginning December 1st."

These great pictures can never be taken again, for they are the last great battles of the last great war—close up living records of the stirring scenes that really happened—thrills in the air—in the sea battling the submarines—in the front line trenches.

"Under Four Flags" is the actual, authentic official United States Government War film made at the front.

Will be released in 5 REELS Every foot an attendance magnet

See press sheet for New York Newspaper comments

You simply cannot afford not to show this picture.

Get your order in immediately.

Distributed through WORLD FILM CORPORATION Branches
She dominated hundreds of comedies with her dainty beauty. She is even more attractive as a full-fledged star in "The Girl of My Dreams".

Released by
EXHIBITORS MUTUAL DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION
MAURICE TOURNEUR PRODUCTIONS
Announce the Sale of WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA
AND WEST VIRGINIA
TO First National Exhibitors' Exchange
Pittsburgh, Pa.
FOR
THE FILM WORLD'S MOST UNUSUAL PICTURE
"WOMAN"
Directed by MAURICE TOURNEUR
Negotiations now pending for all territories

For information regarding distribution, apply to
MAURICE TOURNEUR PRODUCTIONS
SELLING AGENTS, HILLER & WILK, INC.
LONGACRE BLDG., 42ND & BROADWAY, NEW YORK CITY
To Those Who Criticise “First National’s” So-called Extravagance

“Virtuous Wives” is finished. We saw the completed production last night. It is a picture that will justify our preference for better pictures at higher prices more eloquently than any words of ours.

It is more than a month since we saw the first print. It was a good picture then. But it required additional cutting, titles had to be altered, some retakes made—in a word, it had to be given the finish that marks the difference between a special and a program release.

All this takes time—the time of high salaried men—and costs money. But when “Virtuous Wives” goes to trial on the screens, with the public sitting in judgment—we have no fear of the verdict. We know that satisfaction to the public means profit to our own theatres and those of our customers.

Some exhibitors who have already contracted for it and perhaps felt that the price was too high, are going to admit that such productions are worth all they cost them—and more.

There is one angle to the matter which many exhibitors overlook; that is, that where they individually spend a few extra dollars for a real quality production, the producer must spend thousands. He takes the chance, not they. If such productions as “Virtuous Wives” fail to justify the money spent on them, it means bankruptcy to their producers. But here again “First National” is safeguarded. Our exhibitor Board of Directors, who contract for its attractions, have built their fortunes and the prestige of their theatres by experience and judgment. Their knowledge of trade conditions and composite judgment preclude the probability of unprofitable deals with stars and producers. We believe that our live and let live policy has at last won the confidence of the leading stars and responsible producers. We hope to merit their confidence.

Our hats off to Mr. Louis B. Mayer, successful exhibitor, successful exchange man, successful producer of “Virtuous Wives,” which we trust will prove one of the big successes of the year and a vindication of our theories and policies.

And last, but not least—our congratulations to Anita Stewart. We count her sweet personality one of our great assets.

FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS’ CIRCUIT, INC.

December 29th
“Virtuous Wives” Release Date
FRANCIS FORD'S
Newest and Greatest Serial:
"THE SILENT MYSTERY"

The Biggest State Rights Offering on the Market Today

Wise State Rights buyers know the value of a FRANCIS FORD SERIAL.

At the time this advertisement was prepared negotiations were under way for several blocks of territory.

We advise you to get your application in NOW if you want a share in the juiciest State Rights PIE that's been cut for a long, long time.

Our First Announcements Closed the Following Territory:

Greater New York, Merit Film Corp., 126 W. 46th St., New York.
Northern New Jersey,
Southern New Jersey, Exhibitors' Distributing Corp., 221 Yonge St., Toronto, Canada.
Western Canada, Exhibitors' Distributing Corp., Eastern Canada, 221 Yonge St., Toronto, Canada.
Maryland, Delaware, Super-Film Attractions, Inc., 1209 E St., N. W., Washington, D. C.
District of Columbia, Virginis, Wisconisn, North Carolina, Western Pennsylvania, Penn Film Service, West Virginia, Matthew Teplitz, Pres.,
Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, First National Exhibitors Circuit, Florida, Louisiana, Atlanta, Ga.
Tennessee, South Carolina, R. Dean Craver,
North Carolina, Charlotte, N. C.
Northern Illinois, Bee-Hive Exchange, R. C. Cropper, Pres., Indiana, Chicago, Ill.
Wisconsin,

All communications answered in the order of their receipt. Write, wire, phone or call—

LOUIS BURSTON, Pres.

Silent Mystery Corporation

HILLER & WILK, Selling Agents

912 LONGACRE BUILDING 42d AND BROADWAY, NEW YORK TIMELY ONE-REEL SPECIAL

Driven From The Seas
German Fleet Surrenders Without Honor

ATTRACTION ONE-SHEET POSTER

Exhibitors can book this timely one-reel money-making special from the following states-right exchanges:

Savini Films, Inc.
ATLANTA, Ga.

Eltabran Film Co.
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

Celebrated Players Film Corp'n
CHICAGO, ILL.

Metropolitan Co.
DETROIT, Mich.

W. B. Towne Photoplay Co.
ST. LOUIS and KANSAS CITY, Mo.

Doll-Van Film Corp'n
INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

Associated Theaters, Inc.
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

First Nat'l Ex. Exchange
PITTSBURGH, PA.

Pearce Films
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Northwestern Consolidated Film Co.
SEATTLE, WASH.

All Star Feature Distributors, Inc.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Electric Theater Supply Co., Inc.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Regal Films, Ltd.
TORONTO, CANADA

First National Exhibitors' Circuit
DENVER, COLO.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH

Super-Films Attractions, Inc.
WASHINGTON, D. C.

and

M. H. HOFFMAN
729 Seventh Ave., New York City

On November 21, 1918 ("DER TAG"). the German High Seas Fleet fulfilled the terms of the Armistice by an inglorious surrender to THE ALLIED NAVIES THESE SCENES WERE PHOTOGRAPHED ON THE SPOT
FRANK A. KEENEY
Presents
CATHERINE CALVERT
in
"MARRIAGE"
A Scintillating Social Satire
by
E. Lloyd Sheldon
Also in
"A ROMANCE OF THE UNDERWORLD"
The Great Drama of Life
By Paul Armstrong
and
"OUT OF THE WEST"
E. Lloyd Sheldon's Famous Love Story

THEODORE DIETRICH
presents
DORIS KENYON
in
"WILD HONEY"
A Drama of the Golden West
and
"The Inn of the Blue Moon"
by
LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE
also in a dramatization of Mary Roberts Rinehart's famous story
"The Street of Seven Stars"

New York, New Jersey, and Western Connecticut Booked Direct Through the
All Other Territory Booked Through the General Film Co.
Centrally Located Laboratory

FOR SALE

Equipped to do work at minimum cost.
Owners retiring from business.
Address, Laboratory-W, care M. P. World, New York City.
The Advertisers Who Use the Columns of The Moving Picture World Represent the "Class" of the Industry

We Exercise a Strict Supervision Over the Business Announcements Which We Print

This Protects the Prospective Purchaser It Also Adds Force to Our Advertisers' Messages
If there ever was a chance that the National Association of Exhibitors and the Motion Picture Industry would unite in one organization that chance went a glimmering when the meeting of the latter organization called for 11 o'clock on Tuesday, December 10, failed for want of a quorum necessary to transact business.

Ordinarily, when quorums fail to appear, meetings are put off to a more favorable date, but there was a suspicion in this case that the failure on the part of the exhibitors to produce a sufficient number of its members to transact the business in hand was premeditated by certain branches of the organization, and that failure was immediately construed by the representatives of the exhibitors to mean that the unrepresented branches were antagonistic to the proposition and took that method of declaring their opposition to the more open method of appearing and stating their attitude on the floor of the meeting.

Exhibitors Announce Withdrawal.
The result was that the representatives of the exhibitors declared it was their intention to withdraw forthwith and discontinue any participation in the affairs of the N. A. M. P. I. and hereafter to devote their time and their energy toward building up a real exhibitors' organization. Official action will be taken along those lines as rapidly as the machinery of the exhibitors' organization can be put in motion.

No particular surprise was occasioned by the announcement to that effect when made by President Schaefer of the Exhibitors' Association, since it was pretty generally understood that the exhibitors throughout the country did not look with favor upon the plan for various reasons.

There was some attention given to a statement which President Brady read into the record before he declared the meeting dismissed, in which he said he would call a meeting of the board of directors of the N. A. M. P. I. and tender his resignation to take effect at the earliest possible moment. However, this may be an amendment.

Roll Call Develops No Quorum.
The meeting, what there was of it, was called to order about 11:20 o'clock by President Brady, who asked that the roll of members be called. This developed the fact that only the exhibitors and the General Branch (Branch 5), had a quorum present. The producers and the exhibitors' branches were represented by but one member, Mr. Gradwell, of World Pictures. Whereupon Mr. Brady declared that there was no quorum and that the objects for which the meeting was called could not be discussed.

Schaefer Serves Notice.

P. D. Schaefer, president of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America, thereupon said: "There has been ample notice given of the holding of this meeting, so that there is no excuse for those who were not attended. I wish to serve notice now that I shall call a meeting of the directors of the Exhibitors' Association immediately and recommend that the organization withdraw from all further negotiations with the N. A. M. P. I."

This was immediately followed by a statement by President Brady, who said: "I have been president of this organization for the past two and a half years, giving my time and my own money for my travel expenses connected to remain in office for another year or during the crisis occasioned by the war, when my friends at the Boston meeting urged me to stay on, and I now wish to say that I shall call a meeting of the directors of the N. A. M. P. I. and present my resignation to them as president, to take effect at the earliest possible moment. The meeting is adjourned."

Mr. Brady picked up his hat and quickly disappeared without further comment. Those remaining gathered into little groups and discussed the sudden events of the day.

Black Considers Action Affront.

Alfred Black, a member of the board of directors of the exhibitors' organization, said that he considered the absence of the producers and distributors as a direct affront to the exhibitors and that he was willing to go on record as believing that the producers were afraid that the proposed plan would have resulted in a strong exhibitors' organization and, consequently, had abstained themselves from the meeting.

Mr. Gradwell of World Pictures said freely although he was opposed to the plan and would have voted against it if the opportunity had offered for the reason that he believed too much power would have been given to the exhibitors. As to the reason for the absence of the other producers he declared that he had no knowledge of what had happened.

Mr. Schaefer said he was going to Washington that afternoon, but that he would get in communication with the members of his board of directors at once and advise them of what had happened as well as to the course he thought best to pursue.

"What we propose to do now," he said, "is to get busy and form a real exhibitors' organization. I am going to Washington today to see if we cannot get the him tax taken off and possibly get a reduction in the tax on admissions. We have tried to get the producers to co-operate with us on this matter, but we do not seem to be able to get co-operation from them."

Horstmann and Hespe Agree. Ernest Horstmann, of Boston, and Dr. Charles Hespe, of Jersey City, both representatives of the exhibitors' association, agreed that the action proposed by President Schaefer was the only proper way to deal with the situation and that they were now satisfied that the producers did not want them in the organization. Mr. Horstmann expressed the belief that the proceeding, once it was proved, that exhibitors and producers could not be amalgamated.

Pat Powers of the Universal dropped in, at the meeting had adjourned and shed his broad Tipperary smile over the assemblage. "I always get in after the explosion occurs," he remarked as he assimilated an earful of information and looked over the place where the explosion occurred.

Jules Brulatour of the Eastman Company was also a late arrival. He brought his benignant smile with him and wanted to know what it was all about.

After that the assembled members gradually slipped away to engage in their usual vocations.

President Schaefer Makes Statement. Prior to leaving for Washington Thursday night, December 12, where, with Alfred Black he had an engagement to discuss tax matters with Chairman Kitchin of the Ways and Means Committee, President Schaefer issued a statement covering the situation as it appeared to him after the fiasco of the N. A. M. P. I. meeting on Tuesday. Mr. Schaefer recites the facts as stated in the Moving Picture World's story of (Continued on page 1318).
SENATE COMMITTEE AMENDS TAX BILL
Seating and Admission Imposts Remain Unchanged, but Levy on Rentals Is Cut in Half

A

T last the Senate Finance Committee has reported the new revenue bill which will, when it becomes law, take the place of the measure in form and substance, hereinafter framed by the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives, and a provision is made to provide a revenue of $8,000,000,000, but owing to the cessation of war and the stoppage of large expenditures for munitions and other purposes of war, it was calculated that $6,000,000,000 would be sufficient for the needs of the Government and the schedules were accordingly reduced by the Senate Finance Committee.

Though not as great as was proposed by the Ways and Means Committee the schedules as revised by the Senate committee afford little comfort to the motion picture interests. The excising tax will remain the same. The admission tax has not been changed from that of last year, but the levy on the gross rentals of motion pictures this tax has been reduced to 3 per cent. This is to take the place of all rentals, paid at the time of admission, and positive prints as in effect in 1918.

As reported the bill affecting motion picture readings reads as follows:

TITLE VIII. — TAX ON ADMISSIONS AND DUES

Sec. 500. (a) That from and after — there shall be levied, collected, and paid to the United States, on each admission to the theatre, opera, or other place of amusement, any one person, whether the same be paid by the holder or for the use of such box or seat in such opera house or place of amusement, an excise tax of 10 cents in excess of the amount of the tax laid upon the admissions therefrom, on each admission to a theatre, opera, or other place of amusement, such tax shall be paid by the person paying for such admission.

(b) No tax shall be levied under this title in respect to any admissions at which the price of admission is such that the amount paid for such admission is to be 20 per cent of the amount paid for refreshments, or more, and such admission is to be paid by the person paying for such refreshments;

(c) The term "admission" as used in this title includes admission paid for by reservation or otherwise, and other similar accommodations and the charges made therefor.

(d) The price at which the tax is to be paid by the person paying for admission at which an admission ticket or card is sold shall be conspicuously and intelligibly printed, stamped, or written on the face or back thereof, together with the price at which such admission is to be paid, or at the ticket office of the theatre, opera, or other place of amusement, or before such person sells an admission ticket or card on which the name of the vendor and the price is not so printed, stamped, or written thereon.

(e) The term "admission" as used in this title shall be deemed to include, in lieu of the amount of such tax imposed, a tax of $100.

(5) Proprietors of theaters, museums, and concert halls, where a charge for admission is made, shall, and if the charge is not more than two hundred and fifty, shall pay $50; having a seating capacity exceeding two hundred and fifty, and not exceeding five hundred, shall pay $100; having a seating capacity exceeding five hundred, shall pay $150; having a seating capacity exceeding one thousand, shall pay $200. Every edifice used for the purpose of dramatic or operatic or other representations, or for the exhibition of motion pictures of $50 or over, and the name of the owner or lessee of such edifice, and the date, time, and place of such exhibition, and the amount of such tax paid for the exhibition, shall be written, stamped, or otherwise placed on the ticket, or such admission paid for by reservation or otherwise, and other similar accommodations and the charges made therefor.

Sec. 501. If any person manufactures, produces or imports any article enumerated in section 9 of 500, or leases a license for export any positive motion picture film containing a picture ready for projection, and, whether through any agreement, arrangement, or understanding, or otherwise, sells, leases or licenses such article at less than the amount paid for the manufacture, and shall be collected thereon, either in the manner provided in section 905, or in such manner as the Secretary of the Treasury may by regulation prescribe, and shall be returned and paid, in the manner provided in section 905, or by the person selling such film.

(5) In the case of persons having the permission of any one person to sell, lend, or give to any one person, or any place of amusement or a lease of any such place, to the use of such box or seat in such opera house or place of amusement, the tax imposed by paragraph (1), a tax equivalent to 10 per cent of the amount paid for admission in excess of the regular and ordinary admission prices of admission in excess of the regular and ordinary admission prices of admission, shall be paid by the person paying for such admission, and such admission shall be returned and paid, in the manner provided in section 905, or by the person selling such admission.

N. A. M. P. I. and Exhibitors Split

(Continued from Page 1317)

the Tuesday meeting regarding the determination of the exhibitors to withdraw from negotiations with the N. A. M. P. I. and the resignation of Mr. Brady as president. The new president, Mr. Long, who will not permit the adding of the whole of the tax imposed by such contract then the license or license shall, in lieu of the lessee or licensor, pay no such tax as is not so permitted to be added to the lease or license upon which the lease or license was to be executed. The new president, Mr. Long, who will not permit the adding of the whole of the tax imposed by such contract then the license or license shall, in lieu of the lessee or licensor, pay no such tax as is not so permitted to be added to the lease or license upon which the lease or license was to be executed.

"From the foregoing it seemed to be conclusive to all the exhibitors present that the manufacturers and distributors would continue to admit the present chaotic conditions as a basis for an end to the movement that would organize the exhibitors branch of the industry by a proper method and that manufacturers and distributors evidently fear that the exhibitors branch might not act fairly when so organized and might fail to exert the power that they would possess for the benefit of the entire industry.

"Certainly the admission of this weakness on the part of the manufacturers and distributors is not necessary for the exhibitors of the United States to perfect an organization independent of all the other works in the industry, in order to protect and encourage their business in every way possible.

"The By-Laws Committee of the Amalgamated League will be asked to frame the new by-laws for the new Exhibitors League upon such a basis that it should be evidenced to exhibitors that the exhibitor and picture theatre owner in the United States that it is imperative for the future success of his own business to become identified with this movement.

"We should control our own destinies and not be controlled. The result of these recent events must finally bring the realization to the exhibitors.

I appeal to every exhibitor and theatre owner in the United States to join this new exhibitor movement—a movement that will make the exhibitors one of the most powerful organizations in the United States with equal power to be so."
GOLDFISH PREDICTS NEW SCREENERA

In Sensational Talk to Minneapolis Exhibitors
Goldwyn Chief Denounces Trade Evils and Deplores Financial Conditions, but Says Change Is in Sight

By William E. Mulligan

M O V I N G pictures, as much as anything else, won the war, and the next President of the United States will be elected or defeated on the screen, according to Mr. Goldfish, a New Yorker, who addressed a gathering of moving picture men of the Northwest at the Radisson Hotel in Minneapolis Saturday night.

Mr. Goldfish made some of the most startling and gripping exposures of the inner workings of the moving picture industry and its achievements ever heard in this territory. He predicted many changes and a great revival.

"The pictures won the war as much as any other thing outside of the actual fighting," he said. "This may sound like an extraordinary claim or boast, but I know that it's true. I've heard Mr. Baker say it; I've heard President Wilson say so."

Morale Fortified Through Screen.

"There was a time when the French nation was bleeding to death. They kept telling the people that the American army was coming. They couldn't believe it; they had to be shown something besides newspaper reports. We sent the pictures showing that America was doing her bit, by raising its armies, that it was building great facts, that it was making actual preparations on an enormous scale for war. And let me tell you that when the pictures came the entire morale of the nation was raised. The pictures saved the day. The screen also kept up the morale of the American soldiers. This was demonstrated by the fact that as soon as a man came out of the trenches, even before he had his bath, he was taken to a hut, where pictures that bolstered up his spirit were shown."

Mr. Goldfish told of film propaganda which is now being carried on in Mexico and Siberia. There are now 159 camera men and 1,000 operators following the American and Allied armies in Siberia, showing what America is doing to offset German propaganda," he said.

Screen a Power in Next Election.

"The producer doesn't know his strength," he added, "and likewise the exhibitor doesn't know his strength. But they are fast realizing their power, and I make the prediction that the next President of the United States will be elected or defeated on the screen."

But with only 60 per cent. of the theaters of the country now operating, the most critical situation in the history of the moving picture industry is faced, according to Mr. Goldfish.

The influenza epidemic, lack of cooperation by the smaller distributors and the employment of "petty larceny tactics" by certain interests and individuals were blamed for the crisis by Mr. Goldfish. He predicted a change in the situation and a glowing future for the moving picture, which, he said, was destined to become one of the greatest American institutions from an educational, political and recreational standpoint, ranking with high class drama, art and literature.

More than sixty moving picture theater proprietors of Minneapolis, St. Paul, Minnesota and surrounding towns were present at the gathering. The addresses followed a dinner given by John Hicks, manager of the Minneapolis Goldwyn exchange, in honor of Mr. Goldfish, who is president of the Goldwyn corporation, and S. L. Rothapfel, managing director of the Rialto and Rivoli theaters of New York City, former manager of the Minneapolis Lyric. I. H. Ruben, of Ruben and Finkelstein, owners of a chain of theaters in downtown Minneapolis and St. Paul, was the toastmaster.

The uplifting of the screen was the keynote of all addresses. When this accomplished, Mr. Goldfish said, the screen will enter a new era.

"The moving picture is coming into its own," he said. "The melodrama and claptrap picture is dead. The great spectacle is dying. The unclear picture is no longer popular. What the people want is a clean-cut story, and we must give it to them."

CROOKS HAVE GOT TO GET OUT.

"But in the meantime the moving picture industry is confronted with a serious financial crisis. Though it sounds unbelievable, I want to say to you that in this industry, which is rated as the fourth largest in the United States, there isn't a producer in the United States today who is paying a dividend. And the banks will not loan them money. This condition is largely our own fault, because of lack of cooperation with the exhibitors in the practice of our stupendous methods by certain distributors and exhibitors, who have tried to dominate the movie market. Some exchange men have failed to do what they can cure this ill. All the fly-by-night exchange crooks have got to get out, and the same is true of the exhibitor who resorts to unethical methods."

"What do you do with a dog? Eat dog. From now on we are going to build and reorganize. The day of domination is over."

"GET OUT OF RUT," SAYS ROTHAPFEL.

Mr. Rothapfel urged exhibitors to "get out of their rut" by using psychology in showing the right kind of pictures. "Don't depend on Marie, 'Dough' or Charlie, nor the speakeasy."

"The public doesn't know what it wants. First, the public doesn't know what it wants. Second, you don't know what the public wants."

In introducing Mr. Goldfish as the principal speaker, Mr. Rothapfel said: "Your sober citizens have a feeling that producers and big distributors are out with a club to take advantage of them at every opportunity. But after talking with them, they have been entirely dispelled, and I know that I am working in the interest of the moving picture industry as a whole."

Goldfish Would Talk Over Troubles.

"I want you to know that I have no horns on me," said Mr. Goldfish. "I didn't take this trip to sell any pictures or to be your barker. I came on this trip to meet the exhibitor, to tell him of the situation facing the producer, to talk over our troubles in common, and to do whatever I can to uplift and better the screen."

"I wanted to meet the 'poor down trodden evils' that I had heard so much about, the poor exhibitors. And I have met those poor devils all over the country. Some of them I found had 'only' a string of ten or fifteen theatres; and I didn't think they needed a very great deal of sympathy, but they were not all fixed that way. The exhibitor has been perfectly justified in getting pictures just as cheap as he can, but attempts at dominating the market by unfair methods of competition are having a most evil effect. We, as producers, you as exhibitors, are facing a crisis at the present time. You must rise to the situation and try to cure it."

Speaking of the importance of the relationship between the producer and the exhibitor, Mr. Goldfish said: "You need the producer as much as he needs you. It's a fifty-fifty proposition. We must work for stronger co-operation and encourage competition to insure progress for the moving picture industry."

Exhibitors Not Always Militant.

Mr. Goldfish declared that the producers had made many sacrifices to the end that they might improve the screen, but maintained that the exhibitors had not been far-sighted and for the most part had done little to improve the situation. "Many companies have been idle when their interests were threatened," he said. "They have not attempted to see what they could do to keep the theatre business during the influenza epidemic but seemed perfectly content to allow department stores and other large enterprises to operate without protest when their own means of livelihood was temporarily cut off."

"Have exhibitors put up their prices?" he asked. "Have they done anything to keep the moving picture business in the right kind of picture?" Some have, but the majority have not. Cooperation, organization, competition and foresight are the needs of the day.

The popular demand for pictures, as seen from the point of view of the producer, Mr. Goldfish said:

Can Make a Picture with Four Players.

"The day of the spectacle has gone. The people don't want the spectacle; they want the story. And you can make a successful picture of the right kind of story with the right kind of story as the background. Gentlemen, do you realize that we are today inducing every famous author to write the screenplay, the story section, or the background story from authors in many cases without the slightest intention of producing them. We are paying men $1,500, $2,500 and more for stories, and are then putting these stories on the shelf. Why are we doing this, you ask? We are doing this to encourage the authors, to keep them from dropping out of the game, and to insure the best possible productions for the screen.

The longer it runs at theatres was pointed out by the speaker.
"If producers have to hurry through with their productions just to accommodate a once-a-year run dried up, pictures are bound to suffer," he said. "We want more time to perfect our work. We would rather charge you $75 to show a picture for two days than $50 for one day."

Too Much Apple Pie Will Nauseate.
Mr. Goldfish cautioned the exhibitors against killing their theatres by continually running the same old stars. He cited the case of a New York theatre which was ruined because it wouldn't give its audiences an opportunity to see new personalities. "People will get disgusted if they see the same old bunk every week," he said. "You can't live forever on what your making on these tall trees, and if you don't kill them, Chaplin and Pickford if you run them too often. I don't care how much you like apple pie; if you keep eating it long enough it's going to be sick. The same is true of the screen.

"If we in the producing end did the same as you are doing we would have been out of theatre years ago. The industry has got to do new things, and the producer has realized that fact. He is giving you and the public a new pernormality and thought. Meet him half way; give the honest producer a chance.
He is trying to better the game. Do your part and encourage competition.

No Room for a Kaiser.
"The day of the town where an exbhibitor controls practically all the theatres, which net him above expenses about $10,000 a week. This poor exhibitor admitted to me that he had taken advantage of his power. He said: 'It's a biased market and I'm going to take advantage of it. You can't blame me.'

This is an intolerable situation and there must be a change.

"Many exchanges are robbing the exhibitors, too. A manager offers you a picture for $50 and goes across the street and offers it for $500. But you cure these evils, and I know that you will. All the fly-by-night exchange crooks have got to get out. The same is true with the unscrupulous and domiminating exhibitor who tries to manipulate the market. There is a cure for all these evils. Let's get together. We want to help you. Help us.

"I want to assure you on behalf of every producer that's on the level, and those are the only kind who are going to remain in business, that we want to work with you. I'll give you my word and I don't mean to make a fool of this year, the next or the next after that because I have all the money I need—that I'll go on and fight for the democracy and uplift of the screen as long as I have breath in my body. So help me
God, I'm telling you the truth.

"I don't say I'm the savior of the moving picture industry, but I've done a lot to keep up competition and help it generally."

Farrar Brought New Clientele.
Speaking of some of the productions of Goldwyn, Mr. Goldfish said: "Mr.
Farrar didn't make $10,000 on Geraldine Farrar in 'Carmen.' But what did it do for the exhibitor? It brought in a new clientele. I saw such men as Astor and Colonel House attend a showing of 'Carmen' in New York. Do you think the old-line screen player would have brought in such men? No. The screen is not going to be improved or bettered in any way by salacious pictures or pictures of the old clap-trap variety. We want clean pictures and they are going to bring us the bread and butter."

Mr. Goldfish said that Goldwyn produced no war pictures because he felt that he would have been "building on sand." "You've got to build on a peace time, bread and butter basis," he said.
"The future of the moving picture is the same as the drama. Remember the old fashioned melodrama you used to see?
Well, you don't see it anymore. And now the blood and thunder dramas of the screen are gone. Moving pictures will not succeed in the future as they may have done these years ago, and now it's getting down to a survival of the fittest."

Stars Getting Swelled Heads.
Mr. Ruben, in his address, said: "I am sure that all of you who have heard Mr.
Goldfish talk will feel the same as I do that he is absolutely on the level. We will have to dispel the feeling that has existed for a long time that we are being tnod on by all the producers. I am sure we can overcome this a little of this petty larceny that has been going on for a long time. We must give serious thought to the future of the picture business. Some picture stars are getting the swelled head, because they have been making too much money. They have quit their old organizations and the result is that we are going to be compelled to pay three or four times as much as we have in the past. We've got to encourage the legitimate organizations. This situation is serious and we must give it a lot of study. How is it possible?

Were created the demand for the pictures which won them success. We are the ones who can answer the question.

"Let's be fair with them, and while it we're doing something for ourselves. I don't want you to think that Mr. Finkenstein or myself have been actuated by any selfish motives. Although we own a number of theatres in Minneapolis and St. Paul, we have not been trying to take advantage of our fellow exhibitors or anyone else. I am merely saying this because I am trying to convince Mr.
Goldfish that conditions he found in some cities where the moving picture game is dominated and controlled by one interest do not exist here.

Chamberlain Traces Progress.
The progress of the film industry during the past few years was traced by Dan Chamberlain, exhibitor of Fargo, Mankato and Faribault, in an interesting address.

"Time was," he said, "when people were ashamed to admit they had been to the moving pictures. Now our best society is finding the screen one of its chief forms of entertainment. The movies are an interesting topic in all homes. The industry is steadily improving and has a great future."

Other speakers were Joe Friedman of the Friedman Film Corporation, George Fynn of the Minneapolis Daily News, and Dan C. Pettjohn, representative of Mutual and the corresponding of the World. Following the meeting Mr.
Goldfish and Mr. Rothapfel left Minneapolis for Seattle.
COLISEUM AT SAN FRANCISCO OPENS

Newest Picture House Is a Magnificent Structure—Cost Is Over Quarter Million—Samuel H. Levin, the Owner, Gives Opening Day’s Receipts to Red Cross

WITH the dedication of the Coliseum Theatre, Clement Street and Ninth Avenue, San Francisco, on the evening of November 22, another magnificent residential district moving picture palace was added to the alreadv abundant list of fine the-eries for which the Bay City is noted. It is one of the few theatres erected during warr time, and the opening was auspiciously timed, following the cessation of hostilities by less than two weeks.

Samuel H. Levin, owner and director of the Coliseum, made a generous contribution to the Red Cross by giving the entire gross receipts of the opening night to the San Francisco chapter. The opening was marked by the same “outburst” of the Park-Presidio Improvement Association, the Clement Street Merchants’ Association, the Point Lobos Improvement Club and the United Women’s Picture Industries of Northern California. John A. Britton, chairman of the local chapter of the American Red Cross, was eloquent in his praise of Manager Levin’s generosity, and wished him a full measure of success in the name of this organization. Supervisor Emmett Hayden represented the city, in the absence of Mayor James Rolph Jr., while Major Meyer J. Cohen spoke for the film industry in his usual happy vein.

Section Reserved for Film Men.

Narly every film man in the city was present as a guest of Mr. Levin, a special section having been reserved for members of the United Motion Picture Industries of Northern California. In order to make the house a hundred percent benefit for the Red Cross, Mr. Levin personally purchased this block of seats and presented them to his guests. The floral offerings of the various film exchanges and others connected with the business were notable, attesting to the esteem with which this exhibitor is held.

The Coliseum Theatre is a magnificent structure of concrete construction, occupying a prominent corner in the heart of the high class residential district between Presidio and Golden Gate Park. The location is unique in that this house is farther removed from the main business street than any other theatre which approaches it in size or appointments. The theatre is well named and its being featured as a “Downtown Theatre Uptown,” its size, appointments and screen offerings placing it in a class with the very finest houses.

Cost More Than Quarter Million.

Erected at a cost of more than a quarter of a million dollars, it represents the crowning achievement in the career of Samuel H. Levin as a director of moving picture houses in this city. “I have sought to embody in my new house,” he said, “every detail demanded by the public, with some ideas of my own that will prove to be a surprise to many. During the past fifteen years I have had charge of many local amusement enterprises, but could not find a landlord who would erect the palatial kind of a building which I wanted to house my latest venture, so I built it myself. I have purchased outright the land upon which the Coliseum is built, and have personally financed the deal in every detail. This investment is unique, since the entire transaction represents the work and faith of a single man.”

The main facade of the Coliseum Theatre is severely simple in design, rather tending to emphasize the broad expanse of marquise and the width of the entrance than to direct attention to detail. The interior is suggestive of the same simple refinement, with the exception of the delicately traced design of the organ loft and the ornamentation of the proscenium arch. A heavy plush curtain covers the screen from view when the stage is utilized for musical acts, which is a feature of every bill. The stage is given a dignified touch by a baby grand piano left in view at all times at one end.

Seating Capacity 2,200.

The seating capacity of the house is 2,200, the balcony caring for about 700. About two hundred can be accommodated in the loges and half as many in the boxes. Much of the luxury which typifies the Coliseum Theatre is centered on the mezzanine floor, where a lounge and reception room extends the entire width of the building. Here are to be found comfortable divans, chairs and cozy seats, all heavily upholstered, with women’s dressing and retiring rooms, free telephone booths, a miniature conservatory with a playing fountain, and a section for smoking. The balcony and log sections are reached from here by a short incline.

Modern to the last detail, this theatre is equipped with elaborate heating, ventilating and vacuum cleaning systems. The projection booth is located at the rear of the balcony and includes in its equipment two late model Simplex machines. On the ground floor is a parking station for baby carriages, with a nurse in attendance to care for youngsters.

Special attention is being paid to music on the program of the Coliseum. In addition to a large orchestra a Robert Morton organ has been installed by the American Photo Player Company, and this instrument, presided over by Louis Diamond, is coming in for much praise. Manager Levin has access to the best musical acts that come over the Ackerman & Harris Circuit, one of which graces every bill at this house, as an added attraction.

Scale of Admission Prices.

Paramount and Art Talk pictures are being featured, and O. Henry stories and Christie comedies have also been booked. Four changes a week are to be made and prices are 10 cents for adults at matinees and 5 cents for children. Evening prices are 15 cents and 10 cents, with boxes 25 cents and loges 20 cents at all times. The hours for performances are 1:30 to 5 for matinees and 6:30 to 11 for evening shows, with continuous performances on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays from 1 o’clock to 11.

Oak in soft French gray is used throughout the house, and all aisles,
TO PRODUCE FEATURES WITHOUT STARS
This Policy Announced by New Plimpton-Fischer Photoplays, Inc., Working on Initial Feature

Of the newest companies to enter the motion picture field is Plimpton-Fischer Photoplays, Inc., which will produce special feature productions. Work is well under way on the initial offering at the Plimpton-Epic Pictures studio at Sherwood Park, Yonkers, N. Y. William J. Reid is president of the company; Horace G. Plimpton, vice-president and general manager; John S. White, treasurer; Frank W. Kane, secretary, and David G. Fischer, director general. The directors of the organization consist of the officers, together with Rollin T. Lincoln, Donald M. Hill and James H. Kendall.

All of these are successful businessmen either in the motion picture field or in commercial lines. President Reid is New England division sales manager for Van Camp Products Company, a writer of note and a firm believer in the development of the motion picture along artistic lines. General Manager Plimpton was for seven years in full charge of production at the Edison studios, and two years ago organized Plimpton Epic Pictures and equipped the studio at Sherwood Park, which has since been used for propaganda and industrial work. Mr. White, the treasurer, is New England manager of the Morse Chain Company. Secretary Kane is State forest for Massachusetts; Donald M. Hill, who also is counsel for the company, is a member of the law firm of Blodgett Jones, Burnham and Bingham, of Boston.

Rollin T. Jones has for several years been connected with the Boston bond brokers, Clements, Parker & Co., while James G. Kendall owns and operates a large farm at Holden, Mass. Director General Fischer is an author and director, having dramatized for the stage "Lavender and Old Lace," "The Purchase Price" and other plays. He was for one year a star and director for Essanay, and with the American Film Company for four years in the same capacity, then director general for Premier for one year and for American Commercial two years, and for two years director and author for the United Play Company.

The scenario for the initial production was written by Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson in collaboration with Mr. Fischer, under whose personal direction the production will be made. It is announced that there will be no star in the Plimpton-Fischer, pictures, which will rely upon the theme and excellence of production for their appeal.

The title of the first production has not yet been made public. The cast has been selected and includes Vincent Coleman, Dixie Lee, Ashton Newton, Frances NeMoyer, Virginia Thorne, Harold Salt, Frank Readick and Charles Martin. The camera work will be under the direction of Stanley G. Mason, who started with the Biograph Company under William Bitzer, chief cameraman for D. W. Griffith.

Walter Irwin Resigns from Vitagraph Company

A meeting of the board of directors of the Vitagraph-Lubin-Selig-Essanay, Inc., held Monday, December 9, Walter W. Irwin, general manager and treasurer of the Vitagraph distributing organization, tendered his resignation which was accepted to take effect January 1, 1919. It is stated that differences of opinion on matters of business policy was the cause of Mr. Irwin's resignation.

Mr. Irwin was appointed to the position he now resigns in April, 1913. Previous to that he had no experience in the motion picture business. He says that he will retain his stock interests in the organization, but that he may start a company of his own after he has taken a real vacation.
HOW "HENRY" KEEPS HER SMILING

By Edward Weitzel

Having Contracted for a Full Season of Stage Work, He Most Obligingly Signs Up with Paramount for a Round Dozen of Drew Screen Comedies to Be Produced En Route

E VER heard of the positive person who set himself up as an art critic and discovered it was possible to make an embarrassing mistake? The awakening came to him while he stood frowning at a landscape in a public picture gallery. Turning to the man next to him the critical gentleman demanded in a tone of cruel and unflagging dignity:

"Who ever saw a sunset like that?"

"I have," was the quiet reply.

"Where?" incredulously.

"In Venice—when I painted the picture four years ago."

Next way of stopping all argument, wasn't it? Well something very like that occurred when Mr. Sidney Drew told Mrs. Sidney Drew that he didn't believe any man ever acted in the way Henry of the Ancient and Honorable Order of Marrying Married Men was supposed to conduct himself in a movie that hit the bull's eye of popular approval. The conversation took place brightly, early one morning a month before the creator of Henry had his eyes open. Sitting up in bed he addressed his wife thus:

"You dear! I've been thinking all night about the pieces of new business you put in for Henry at the rehearsal yesterday, and I'm afraid they won't go."

The director of the Drew comedies sat up in bed also and looked across at the gentleman whose chief business in life is "Keep Her Smiling";

"Won't get? Why not?" she asked.

"Because, no man ever did such things."

"Yes, they have, dear! I've seen our father more than once do everything about the house I've given you to do in the picture."

Right here is the secret of the unique success made by the Drew comedies. They are amusing slices of life; skillfully transplanted bits of human experience that awaken kindly laughter and pleasant memories. Their characters are the sort of folk you are glad to know—to have as neighbors, if you live in a place where people own their homes and take their supplies from the grocery boy at the kitchen door in place of having things sent up on the dumb waiter.

A Good Day's Work.

It was 5 o'clock in the afternoon when the interviewer rang the bell of the Drew apartment on Park avenue and was told that the master and mistress were expected every minute. At five-fifteen they arrived. After spending the better part of the day at the studio, hard at work on a picture with the promising title of "Harold, the Last of the Sners," they had hurried home for dinner, and by seven-thirty must be in the Majestic Theatre, Brooklyn, making up for their parts in "Keep Her Smiling." A short session and a quick getaway seemed about the order of things for the waiting interviewer. Nothing like that happened. Mr. Drew came into the room with the air of being anything but pressed for time. A moment later Mrs. Drew followed, and almost her first words were

"I'm sorry we were late, but sit down and we'll have a nice long chat." There was not the slightest indication of weariness in her voice and once the object of the meeting was under discussion she displayed the deepest interest and an unflagging animation. A long rehearsal, an interview and an evening performance may be said to constitute a good day's work. When this was suggested it brought forth a deprecatory shake of the head from Sidney Drew and the information:

That isn't a day's work for Mrs. Drew. After we get home tonight she'll put in an hour or so reading scenarios and discussing the one we're doing now. Every odd moment we have we talk over and turn inside out the plot and the business of one or more of the pictures we're going to produce.

"Aren't you afraid you'll be held up as a terrible example of a slave-driving husband?"

Again Sidney Drew shook his head deprecatingly, gave his wife one of those never-to-be equaled Henry glances of admiration and pretended to whisper behind his hand:

"This is not for publication, but I just have to let her work as hard as she wants to; "It's the only way I can keep her smiling."

"Attention! Scenario Writers!"

"Playing a theatrical season on the road and producing moving pictures en route is an invention of your own, I understand, Mrs. Drew?"

The lady in the corner of the sofa showed that her stock of smiles was not running low:

"Yes; the idea was mine, but we've divided the management of the two branches of business: I work for Mr. Drew at the theatre, as it were, and he works for me at the studio. We are to make twelve Paramount-Drew Comedies a year, all two-reels in length."

"How many are finished?"

"Three. The first to be released will be 'Romance and Ring.' Then come 'Once a Mason' and 'The Amateur Liar.' "You have selected the dozen scenarios?"

"No, indeed! Please say so in your interview. We shall be glad to read every scenario that may be sent in. We want real stories about amusing people, and prefer to have more characters and more complications than in our one-reelers."

"You made fifty-two of them a year, didn't you?"

"Yes. And we never could have succeeded so well without our friends. They didn't always know it, but they helped us get many a story right. Down at our summer home at Sea Gate we'd sit around the dinner table and Mr. Drew or I would start a discussion over a situation in a scenario and get everyone's opinion as to whether or not a man would do as the author suggested. This would give us a line on how the situation might strike the public and perhaps show us how to improve matters."

"Speaking of the house at Sea Gate, hasn't it been used for interiors in your pictures?"

"More than once. We are great believers in having the sets absolutely correct and our kitchen has been the scene of several movie squalls."

"That is why you and Mrs. Drew al-

The Inventors of a Distinct Type of Screen Comedy—Wholesome, Domestic.
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

December 21, 1918

ways looked as if you truly belonged there.
“Why not?” asked Mr. Drew. “It should be easy for a man and his wife to make themselves at home in their own pictures.”
“You’ll find it difficult to secure such interiors on the road.”
“We’re going to try for them, at any rate.”

Here is the foundation of the Drew method of screen production: Consistent and constant endeavor. The amount of work necessary to complete one of their pictures demands every moment of time that can possibly be utilized. Asked to relate some amusing mistake incident to the filming of the comedies, Mrs. Drew said seriously:
“Nothing that happens when we’re working on a picture is ever funny to us.”

Texas Managers’ Association to Hold Meeting in January

MUCH interest is being evidenced in the meeting of the Texas Amusement Managers’ Association, which is scheduled to meet in Dallas early in January. Secretary Lew Remy says that he expects all attendance records to be broken owing to the importance of some of the subjects which are coming up for discussion. The meeting was to be held early in November, but was postponed on account of the influenza situation.

Perhaps the principal subject which will be discussed by the motion picture men will be the proposed Texas fire prevention law which will be submitted to the next legislature. Many exhibitors, especially those living in the smaller towns of the State, believe the measure is drafted too stringent.

The law as proposed gives the state fire marshal or his deputies power to order the power and lights cut off in any theatre without notice, and should fire prevention conditions be deemed not up to standard. He is to be the sole judge in the matter. There are also other sections of the bill which will be discussed in an effort to secure equitable legislation.

Lehrman Engages Jack Blystone.

Jack Blystone, who for a number of years has been associated with L-KO comedies, has resigned his position as general supervisor of productions to become a member of Henry Lehrman’s staff of directors at the Sunshine Comedies studios.

About five years ago Mr. Blystone left Universal, where he had been directing, to go with Mr. Lehrman, who was then at the head of the L-KO organization. During the remainder of the time that Mr. Lehrman was with L-KO Mr. Blystone continued to direct under his supervision, and when Mr. Lehrman sold his interests to start the Sunshine Comedies organization, Mr. Blystone was made general supervisor of production at the L-KO studios.

The Kargers Move to Coast.

Maxwell Karger, director general of Metro Pictures Corporation, who arrived in Los Angeles on the eve of Thanksgiving, has sold a home on West Sunset near Sunset Boulevard. The Metro director general was accompanied from New York to the west coast by Mrs. Karger and their two babies.

Frank T. Montgomery Dead

A MEAGRE report comes to the Moving Picture World by way of Dallas to the effect that Frank T. Montgomery, a pioneer in motion picture exhibition, died in Dallas last week. Mr. Montgomery was one of the earliest exhibitors in Fort Worth, Texas, in 1905, when he opened the Edison theatre. Succeeding in this venture he sold at a considerable profit a few years later and went to Memphis, Tenn., where he scored another hit as a picture theatre manager.

Picture theatres were modest affairs in those days, but Montgomery’s Majestic was a revelation, and he coined money by reason of his advanced methods, subsequently owning three houses in that city. Late in 1910 or during the first of 1911 Montgomery sold his Memphis houses and opened a fine theatre in Jacksonville, Fla. Here he organized a large company and opened theatres in several Southern cities and one in Dayton, Ohio. While some of these houses were remarkably successful and placed Mr. Montgomery among the leading picture theatre managers of the country, the ventures of his company was a whole proved disastrous in the end and he was a heavy loser.

Since that time Mr. Montgomery has been connected with various picture interests and is reported to have had charge of the amusement concessions at one of the Army Cantonnents. No further particulars regarding his demise have been received.

Quimby Off for Old Point.

Fred C. Quimby, general sales manager for Pathé, has closed his office and started on a fortnight’s vacation at Old Point Comfort. Mr. Quimby has been working hard for a long time on the details of the launching of the Pearl White Serial, “The Lightning Raider.”

Rosenbaum Goes to Los Angeles.

Ed. Rosenbaum, Jr., who has been on the staff of the exhibitors’ service bureau of the Fox Film Corporation for several months, has been transferred to the studios at Hollywood, leaving for the West last week.

 Clair Beranger to Free Lance.

Clara Beranger, until recently a member of the World Film Corporation’s scenario staff, has entered the free lance field and hereafter will devote her time to the preparation of original stories and continuities. Miss Beranger’s experience as a writer of motion picture pictures dates back eight years, at which time she contributed a one reel story each week to the old Edison company, then one of the leading companies in the production of pictures.

Miss Beranger began in the free lance field, having followed this method of marketing her product after her Edison affiliations. Vitagraph, Famous Players and other companies have produced her scripts. Previous to her connection with World Film she was a member of the Fox scenario department, while recently she prepared a number of Baby Marie Osborne-Pathe pictures, including “Milday of the Beanslake,” “Dolly Does Her Bit” and “The Voice of Destiny.”

Pegler to Publicize Sherry Service.

Arthur James Pegler, who for the last two years has handled newspaper magazine publicity for Mutual Film Corporation, has resigned to assume charge of publicity for the Sherry Service. Mr. Pegler is well known in newspaper circles and is a contributor to the magazine as well as author of several plays.

Perkins a Visitor in New York.

George F. Perkis, general manager of the Perkins Electric Company, 497 Phillips Square, Montreal, was a visitor here recently. The company is the exclusive distributor for the Simplex projector throughout the Dominion of Canada and maintains branches in Toronto, Winnipeg and St. John.
SHEEHAN TO MAKE TRIP TO EUROPE
Prior to Starting on General Manager Will Inspection Tour Fox Visit Home Exchanges

Preliminary to a trip to Europe, Winfield R. Sheehan, general manager of the Fox Film Corporation, is now on a tour of all the William Fox exchange offices, likely to arise during the Fox West Coast studios in Los Angeles. Mr. Sheehan, who will be absent from the home office a month, will make a thorough inspection and study of conditions in each of the branch offices, with a view to inaugurating changes in sales and service methods to meet the new conditions likely to arise during the reconstruction period following the war.

On his return from this tour Mr. Sheehan expects to start immediately for Europe. He will spend considerable time in Italy, France, Spain and Great Britain, as the rapid growth of the Fox corporation's business in these countries necessitates a close inspection of the branches offices on the Continent—France, Spain and Italy.

Mr. Sheehan recently appointed Field Carmichael, manager of the William Fox branch in Detroit, as foreign representative of the Fox corporation, and Mr. Carmichael now is abroad arranging for the expansion of the Fox distribution facilities on the Continent. Mr. Sheehan will supervise and direct this work, leaving the physical quarters of the offices in the hands of various European capitals. An entire building in Paris will be leased, it is understood, as the home of the Fox films in France, Spain and Italy.

Up to this time the Fox business in France, Spain and Italy has been conducted through offices in various cities, but it has become evident as time went on that these facilities were inadequate to care for the rapidly growing volume of business. Besides Paris, Mr. Sheehan has just named directors of branches in London, Madrid, Rome, Venice, Naples and other cities.

He has worked out definite, detailed plans for the extension of Fox facilities in each of these cities and these plans call for the inauguration of the same system and methods as he organized for his company in this country with success.

The present extended trip is the first that Mr. Sheehan has made away from the home office is more than a year. Aside from solving the perplexing questions of film production and distribution which were an indirect development of war conditions, Mr. Sheehan also has placed a large part of his attention on the assistance which the films have given directly to the Government. The production of propaganda pictures, the devising of meetings of co-operation with Uncle Sam in dissemination of American documents in foreign lands, and the working out of means by which the motion picture theatres of America could take part in the big war relief campaigns, have all come before Mr. Sheehan. In handling these projects he applies the same precision and organizing faculty which have brought him success as general manager.

One of the big problems which Mr. Sheehan handled just before departing on his trip was that of arranging for the re-employment of former Fox employees who left the organization to enter the war service. More than 400 men will find their old jobs waiting for them when they are mustered out of service.

Mr. Sheehan has active supervision of the establishment of Fox branch offices in Australia, South Africa and elsewhere throughout the world. He has recently been occupied with the extension of Fox business in Japan and China, carrying on a supervision by cable that has attained remarkable results despite enormous difficulties of distance and local conditions.

The foreign growth of Fox films has developed problems which required a close study of conditions in various countries. This growth has involved the employment of persons familiar with the tongues and the customs of countries to which the films were consigned. These experts translate the films' titles and reedit them when necessary to suit the views and manner of the countries concerned.

How long Mr. Sheehan will be gone on his trip to Europe is not known. During his absence Herman Robbins, his assistant, is acting general manager.

Gompers to Show on Screen Labor's Great Achievements

Frederick L. Collins, president of McClure Productions, Inc., who has a contract with the McCullum company to appear personally in a motion picture based on his life, says that Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has signed a contract with the McCullum company to appear personally in a motion picture based on his life and on the loyalty and helpfulness of American labor to the cause of democracy through the great war world.

Now that Bolshevism has entrenched itself in Russia, secured a foothold in the Central Empire, and is threatening to engulf other countries of Europe, the loyalty of Samuel Gompers and his associates in the American Federation of Labor stands out in splendid contrast to those who would disorganize the industries of our country through their wild ideas. Even before America entered the war, Mr. Gompers took a firm stand against the spread of German and pacifist propaganda through the ranks of the workingmen, and from the time war was declared he and his companions toiled unceasingly to send our army and its vast supplies to the battlefield. It is this 100 per cent. Americanism on the part of labor that will form the theme of the film, production in which Mr. Gompers will appear.

Mr. Gompers' rise from humble birth to his leadership in American labor circles offers splendid opportunities for making a film that will grip the hearts of the people, and now that labor is prepared to play its part in the work of reconstruction as it has played in the world war the timeliness and constructive nature of this picture is evident. Mr. Gompers' association with the leading characters of present-day history insures that the picture will have a marked historic value in addition to its entertainment features.

Material for the scenario of the Gompers picture is now being gathered by the editorial staff of McClure Productions, Inc.

Films Division Issues

Leaflet on Its Pictures

The Division of Films of the Committee on Public Information is distributing to exhibitors a leaflet announcing the U. S. A. Series, a collection of series of two reels, each dealing with some vital war activity, illustrating the methods and the successful results attained. The first of the series will be released this week as a new release following every two weeks.

The pictures in the order of their release are as follows: "If Your Soldier's Hit," "Wings of Victory," "Making a Nation Fit," "The Birth of Bullets," and "The Storm of Steel."

Another portion of the leaflet is devoted to the success story of the picture "Under Four Flags," calling attention to the unusual record of the picture in being re-booked in the Rivoli Theatre and giving excerpts from the reviews of the New York papers.

The leaflet is intended to call attention to all present activities of the Division of Films, and contains the Official War Review and "America's Answer," the second official United States War Picture which has met with remarkable success as a box-office attraction throughout the country.

Mayer Proposes Trade Shows.

Arrangements have been completed by Louis B. Mayer to hold a series of trade shows in behalf of the first Anita Stewart picture, "Virtuous Wives," in various cities of this country and Canada. Mr. Mayer plans to send out four delegations properly equipped to tell the exhibitor how to handle the picture to the best advantage. These crews of sales representatives are to have a complete list of advertising prepared for this picture, including newspaper material and posters.

New York Exhibitors Dine.

The New York exhibitors held their annual holiday dinner last Thursday at the Sixty-sixth street and Broadway, on Wednesday evening, December 11. One hundred and twenty-five persons participated in the "eats" and enjoyed the entertainment provided for the occasion.
WILL MAKE PHOTO DRAMAS IN BOMBAY

Suchet Singh Will Take Back to India Full Studio Equipment and American Expert Aids

URING the past two months a tall, dark-complexioned young man with snapping black eyes and a keen appetite for information regarding motion pictures has been calling upon picture men in every branch of the trade. He was deeply interested in the processes of making pictures and showed an unusual interest in the mechanics of the business; wanted to know what were the best devices and why; what were the best pictures and why and how; he also wanted all the best literature on the subject of making pictures. Then, after studying the subject to his own satisfaction, he began spending money for the best equipment money could buy and gave directions for its shipment to Bombay, India.

Suchet Singh is the young man's name and his purpose is revealed in his statement that he represents the Oriental Film Manufacturing Company of Bombay, India, which will commence operations as soon as the equipment of what will be a modern motion picture studio reaches Bombay and can be installed. Two American experts will accompany Mr. Singh on his return to supervise the installation and to assist in its operation.

This, Mr. Singh assures us, is the first effort to make pictures in India, and he is sanguine of success. "The only American pictures that have vogue in India," he explained, "are those which do not require much thought on the part of the audience. Your serials are popular, but American social drama is not understood. Our people have had little opportunity to become educated; very few of them can read. Pictures, though, are the nearest to a universal language with us, and we are keen for those pictures which reveal progress and customs. Our people are also interested in your Western pictures because of the scenes and the riding and fighting thrills; all of these things they seem to understand.

"It will be our purpose to depict native drama, and we have a wealth of material. Our history abounds in the beginnings of Christianity and is rich in tradition and story—almost inexhaustible. There is also great diversity of people and language in our own country. Eighty-four dialects are spoken in India and the customs of the people are almost as varied. This condition will afford a wide scope for our work, so that we have great hope for success."

Suchet Singh, be it known, is a graduate of New York University, having spent six years in New York while taking the course in that institution.

Christie Comedies Remain with Independent Exchanges

While in New York during the past week, Charles Christie, business manager of the Christie Film Company, squelched the rumors that have been afloat to the effect that their comedies would be handled through one of the program organizations, and stated that they would continue, as heretofore, to be handled through independent exchanges.

Mr. Christie also announced that early in the new year the Christie organization will start presenting one-two-reel comedies a month in addition to the one-reelers it is now making. "Our investigation as well as reports from exchanges handling our films," says Mr. Christie, "convinces us that there is a demand for high-class two-reel comedies, made along the same lines as our one-reel offerings. Also, in a number of instances in the past, we have found that one reel did not offer us sufficient footage to handle some of the subjects in the manner in which we would like, and do justice to them."

"Under the new plan, it will be our endeavor to produce in two reels comedy subjects which are really of five-reel caliber. We are in touch with a number of the leading comedy authors in this country, who know the style pictures we want, that is, polite comedy subjects, and are confident that we will secure the best material the market affords."

Mr. Christie expressed himself as greatly pleased with the manner in which the Christie comedies have been handled by the independent exchanges that have specialized on them and given them the same kind of individual handling as is usually accorded to features. Mr. Christie, known to New York for about two weeks and then left for the Pacific coast intending to visit Pittsburgh, Atlanta and Kansas City on the way.

While the subjects or casts for the two-reel comedies have not been announced, Mr. Christie expects they will include Bobby Vernon and Harry Ham, who anticipate being released from Government service at an early date. In a number of instances special comedy stars will be engaged for one or more productions, where it is felt the subjects are particularly suited to them.

December 8 Attractions at New York Theatres

RALTO—Enid Bennett and Douglas MacLean in "Fuss and Feathers," a Paramount-Ince production the week of December 8. The story tells of a miner's daughter who is showered with sudden riches. "Peaks, Parks and Pines" was the scenic. The Animated Magazine and a Sunshine comedy called "The Fatal Marriage" were also shown. The Rialto male quartet and Alice Henderson were on the bill.

RIVOLI—Elise Ferguson, supported by Eugene O'Brien, in "Under the Greenwood Tree," was the star of the Rivoli entertainment. The picture was made from a successful stage play, Van Scy's scenic, "Clouds That Smile," Allied War Review, and a Mutt and Jeff cartoon, "Hitting the High Spots," completed the screen program. Emanuel List and Madeleine D'Espinoy were the soloists.

STRAND—"Too Many Millions," a Porter Emerson Brown story, with Wallace Reid as the hero, was the principal screen feature at the Strand. The picture was taken from the novel, "Somebody and Somebody." "Back to Nature," a comedy, a scenic study and Bobby Bumps in "Before and After" were also shown. The Lady Harp quartet was the special musical feature.

FIFTH AVENUE—First half, Mary Boland in "The Prodigal Wife," Latter half, "The One Woman."

BROADWAY.—"Wanted for Murder."

Do you want to change your position? Seek new employment through The World's Classified advertising.
WIND STORM DAMAGES COAST STUDIOS

Heaviest Blow in Thirty-seven Years Causes a Property Loss of $25,000 and a Few Minor Delays

The hardest wind storm Los Angeles has experienced in thirty-seven years blew in on Sunday, November 24. Practically every studio in the city suffered some damage in the matter of glass roofs being shattered, sets being blown away, and other calamities. Most of the film plants had the debris cleared up in time to begin work by Monday afternoon, however.

At the Vitagraph studio in Hollywood, the galvanized iron roof of the property room and shop, a building 44 by 150 feet, was blown away along with many stage sets on the lot. A large canvas tent being used for sets was blown down, the falling poles and torn canvas damaging and breaking a lot of circus property inside the tent. A force of carpenters was hastily got together to prop up other buildings that were threatened by the daimon wind, and to rebuild the struck sets. Damage was about $3,000.

The Lasky plant was damaged to the extent of $8,000, when the storm blew away the greatest part of the glass stage roof and demolished five elaborate sets on the lot.

The Christie plant, nearby, lost about $1,000 worth of sets that had just been erected for the current comedy. With an extra force of workmen the sets were restored and set up and the players were at work by noon the following day.

The Griffith studio lost its glass roof and several sets, besides other damages to the lot that approximated $25,000. An old barn on a hillside overlooking Edendale, owned by the Mack Sennett Company, was destroyed. This set included a water tank, a church, a saloon, and several other structures. Sets in the studio lot on Alessandro street, for the use of the Sennett players and the Fatty Arbuckle company, were razed and smashed. It will take several thousand dollars to rebuild these sets.

The Hart, Metro, Fox, Weber and Goldwyn plants all suffered minor damages that did not delay production. The Ince sets were all taken down at the first sign of the storm, and Universal lost only a few canvas tops. The Chaplin plant escaped with one set damaged.

The total loss to the west coast studios will be around $35,000.

Film Star in Accident

Edna Purviance going down a steep incline in her car on one of the down town streets, was struck by a street car which was coming down the hill another direction. The street car crashed into the automobile, causing it to spin around and dash against a telephone post, breaking the post and crushing the front of the automobile. With the exception of a slight shaking up, Miss Purviance suffered no injury.

Name of Eltinge Legalized

Julian Eltinge, whose real name is William Julian Dalton, has filed a petition in the Los Angeles courts to have the name Julian Dalton Eltinge legalized for his use in the future, as it is the name under which he has made his stage and screen debuts. Until which his property has been recorded. Mr. Eltinge has taken this step because of possible complications that may arise in time to come.

Health Department Produces Film

The activities of the Health Department of the city of Los Angeles have been used as the basis for an educational subject showing the work done by the department in its tuberculosis clinics, and in other lines. Arthur Messier, member of the board and writer as well, has written a story around the theme, with the regulation hero, heroine, villain and everything; and several producers have come forward with the loan of their studios for the filming of the production.

D. W. Griffith loaned the use of his studio and sets, while Thomas H. Ince furnished the $5,000 generator to make scenes at the clinics. Universal gave lights to be used in dairy scenes.

The title of the picture will be "Not According to Precepts," and the players, including C. Edward Hatton and Grace A.adden, who played the leading roles in their own production, the picture will be shown at the Liberty Fair, then at various theatres in Los Angeles and surrounding towns.

Both From Same Town.

When Fred Niblo took the Enid Bennett company of the Ince studios, to the Arizona desert for exterior scenes, he met a Dr. Zarro, a man from his old home town in the desert, who had known Niblo's family for years and who had kept track of the young actor's career and achievements after his entering a stage career. Niblo and the doctor reminisced about the folks back home for an entire evening in the heart of the desert.

Contract for Eight B. B. Features

An announcement has been made by General Manager J. L. Frothingham, of the Bessie Barriscale Features, that Miss Barriscale will no longer release through the Hodkinson Company, but that she has formed the American pictorial Corporation of New York, in the future. Eight features starring Miss Barriscale have been contracted for by the Robertson-Cole concern, the first of these pictures, "All of a Sudden Norma," to be released in December. The second B. B. production, tentatively entitled "The Photographer's Fate," is now in course of production at the Brunton studio under the direction of Howard Hickman.

Katterjohn Plans Big Production.

Monte M. Katterjohn, who has just recently entered the ranks of film producers, is planning to film, as his first offering, a story that he considers his masterpiece. The story deals with a body of pioneer American adventures and struggles provided some of the most dramatic episodes in American history, but which have never before appeared as the basis of a film drama. Mr. Katterjohn had intended this story for an eight or nine-reel production, but his present plan is to confine the action into not more than seven reels.

Karger Arrives.

Maxwell Karger, director-general of the Metro Corporation, arrived in Los Angeles the day of Thanksgiving in company with Mrs. Karger and their two children, and were met at the station by a delegation from Metro's West Coast studio, and escorted them to the Hollywood Hotel.

Projection Booth on Main Floor.

One of the things that Manager Miller of the new California Theatre decided upon when planning his house was that the projection booth should be upon the main floor. His observation in the past has convinced him that in most of the big photoplay houses where pictures are thrown from the second or third balcony, it has resulted in presenting distorted and out-of-focus appearances of the players on the screen, and to avoid this fault in the California he has had the projection booth built on a level with the screen. Every modern idea has been incorporated in the equipment of the projection booth of the new theatre, and several of the most approved models of projection machines are now being installed.

Notes of Local Theatres.

When Sid Grauman heard that the theatre might be re-opened, he-was the managers insist on their patrons wearing flu masks he immediately got busy and rounded up several thousands of the masks from the various downtown drug stores. The next day the Health Board decided that the theater should remain closed until such time as it would be deemed safe for the people to attend the shows unmasked. Now Sid is wondering what he will do with all his masks.

J. A. Quinn, proprietor of the Rialto, is planning to make an extended trip throughout the East in a few weeks.

Jan Philipeh Schinhan, a Bohemian artist of the pipe organ, has been en-
THE Zollo Community String Quartet, composed of internationally famous artists, took part in a scene recently staged for the Helen Keller production being filmed at Brunton. Miss Keller, who can neither see nor hear, responds to the vibration of music in a wonderful manner.

The L-Ko Comedy Company is now featur-ging a Chinese comedian named Chai Hong, who is being directed by Ferris Harmison.

Mary H. O'Connor, scenario and film editor of the Lasky Company, is suffering from influenza at her home in Hollywood.

George Melford, who has been working at the Eastern studios of the Famous Players-Lasky Company, has returned to Hollywood.

Florence Oberle, who heard last week that her son, Jack, had been killed in battle in France, became prostrated at the news, and had to be taken to a sanatorium for treatment and rest.

Edward Sloman has taken the Margarita Fisher Company out on the Mojave Desert to film scenes.

Marjorie Daw, who was well on the way to recovery from her recent spell of "flu," has suffered a relapse, with additional complications in the form of jaundice. J. Frank Glendon, playing opposite Bessie Love in a Vitagraph picture, is just now recovering his voice after his strenuous vocal work during the Fourth Liberty Loan drive.

Henry B. Walthall and bride, Mary-Catherine Dana, motored from Scottsdale, Ariz., to Los Angeles last week, and will begin work at the National studios immediately on a new production. Miss Charleton will play the leading feminine role in support of her husband.

Catherine Calvert has arrived on the West Coast to play a star part in a coming Paramount production.

Mary Pickford has given orders to Santa Clara. She has bought 590 cigars and 200 cigarettes, and 2,000 cigars to her regiment, the 143d Field Artillery of California, now stationed at Barstow.

Carmen Phillips is playing the part of Mme. Yelba, an opera singer, in support of Jane and Katherine Lee in a new comedy-drama called "Smiles."

Darrell Foss has been dismissed from the army, and is back in the Hollywood film colony.

A little daughter made her appearance at the home of P. O. Sistrum, manager at Universal City, last week.

Tarkington Baker, manager of publicity for Universal in New York, has returned East, after having been in conference for several days with Ham Beall at Universal City. Mr. Beall will immediately put in operation a new plan for handling the publicity at Universal City.

Forrest Stanley, formerly seen in Moroseco photoplays, has returned to Los Angeles to resume film work after more than two years of regular stage playing.

Dustin Farnum, who has lost two motor-boat races to Frank Garbutt around Catalina Island, is supervising the building of a new boat, which he will name "Over the Top II," and in which he will try his luck again.

Wallace Reid has gone to San Francisco to assist the official committee of that city in a War Savings Stamp drive.

Ruth Roland, who has just signed a contract to appear in another Pathé serial, is visiting in San Francisco before starting work in the new production.

Bill Russell dropped into the city on his way from Yosemite, where he spent his month's vacation during the shut-down. Bill said he was ready to resume camera activities at any time.

Jack Pickford arrived in Los Angeles from the East on the same day last week that Viola Dana, Harry Beaumont and James Kirkwood landed in town.

Helen Keller, Sightless,
Laughs at "Shoulder Arms"

MISS HELEN KELLER, known throughout the world for her wonderful accomplishments despite her handicap, either to hear or see, recently "viewed" Charlie Chaplin's second First National comedy, "Shoulder Arms" as the guest of the comedian at his Los Angeles studio.

Miss Keller and Mrs. Anne Sullivan Macy, her constant companion and who has long served as the eyes through which Miss Keller sees the world, were Chaplin's guests at dinner. Afterward the party went to the studio theatre and "Shoulder Arms" was screened. Mrs. Macy, with her fingers on the palm of the blind girl's hand, telegraphed the scene to her. Onlookers declare that she led the laughter as the absurd situations developed, and that she did not miss one of the subtle bits of comedy.

Ohio Exhibitors Fighting to Legalize Sunday Shows

THE exhibitors of Ohio are conducting a campaign to amend the laws of the State of Ohio so as to legalize the showing of motion pictures on Sunday. The existing laws make it a fine and imprisonment for any one who shows pictures on Sunday. There are about one hundred theatres that are closed on Sunday and new ones are being added to the list daily.

An organization called the Ohio State Screen League has been formed as a result of a great many meetings of the exhibitors. This organization is cooperating with the National Association of Motion Picture Industry and is putting forth real efforts to safeguard the exhibitors' interests.

Hat-Wearing Females Annoy Helpless Ottawa Managers

THE theatres of Ottawa, Ontario, are still bothered by two relics of the past, namely, the enormous hat and the woman who refuses to remove her hat while seeing a show. The two are found in local houses, although special effort has been made by managers to correct the annoying habits. Slides on which appear requests for women to remove their hats, are shown with frequent regularity. Poor man's applause—but woman still persists. It is a fact that nine out of every ten Ottawa woman wear their hats in the theatres. Can you beat that for a modern, civilized city of 108,000?

When the theatres are opened for the day, the first patrons invariably make a rush for the aisle seats and stick to them, regardless of the number of times that ushers place people in the inside seats of a row.

Hunting Comes to New York

Gardner Hunting, assistant to Supervising Director Frank E. Woods, in the Hollywood studio, and an efficient and talented scenarist, has left for New York, having been appointed the scenario editor of the Famous Players-Lasky studio in New York City. His work will largely be what it has been in the west. He will edit and supervise the continuities for photoplays, looking over the final work on the titling and cutting of productions.

Mr. Hunting's work will in no manner affect the administration of the Famous Players-Lasky main office scenario department, which continues under the charge of Robert A. MacAlaney.

Poland Writing for American

Joseph Franklin Poland, New York fiction writer, has recently joined the scenario staff of the American Film Company, at Santa Barbara, California. Mr. Poland will write for Mary Miles Minter and Margarita Fisher. The story of "Impossible Susan," a feature starring Miss Fisher, was from his pen. The story of a Minter vehicle, not as yet released, likewise was written by him.

A "Moving" Picture Indeed—Helen Keller "Sees" "Shoulder Arms."
THE week that has just slipped by has shattered another delusion about western Filmland. The belief that the festive hurricane never visits our shores has been laid to rest by the same sepulchre where sleeps the grand idea that 95 per cent of California's hours are filled with sunshine; that you could stop anywhere along a rural highway and gather a bountiful of oranges without getting your shoe full of buckshot; and that the steam radiators in apartment houses are intended for something other than ornamental purposes.

Last Sunday a hurricane, alongside of which, according to Captain Leslie T. Peacocke, who was born there, the Big Wind in Ireland was but a gentle breeze, visited our fair city. A tornado that tore down trellisries, played hob with pergolas, uprooted acacias, poppies, lemon, magnolia, orange, olive, rubber, camphor, oleander, palm and pepper trees, ripped the roof from the prop room at Vitagraph, demolished a big set on Mack Sennett's foothill, damaged Fatty Arbuckle's scene dock, eloped with one of Dave Griffith's roofs, set the Lasky people back eight thousand dollars for broken glass, and deposed a tall and stately smokestack from its proud position on the brow of the apartment house wherein resides he who writes these memoirs.

Otherwise, it has been a pretty big week, punctuated with many important arrivals from the East. Those of us who, since the theaters have closed down have been forced to go down and watch the train come in for amusement, have been richly repaid.

New York Accommodation Busy.

Every time the New York-Los Angeles accommodation pulled in at the depot, either an actor, an actress, or a director got off. Mr. Alexandria, our hotel keeper, says he will have to put on an extra hack to haul the people to his hotel if the rush keeps up the way it has started.

Among the new arrivals were noted Albert Capellani, Jack Pickford, Viola Dana, Maxwell Karger, Peggy Hyland, Oscar Apfel, Forrest Stanley, and Henry.

Los Angeles Correspondent
Personally Conducts Our Readers Through the West Coast Studios

By Giebler

B. Walthall and his new bride, née Mary Charleson, went over to Vitagraph just after the storm and saw the damage done by the wind. There was the prop room with its dome gone, and its secrets open to the curious gaze of any one who cared to rent an airplane and fly over the place, and a street set that had been erected with great cunning and no telling how many feet of lumber leveled to the ground by the gale.

There is something fine and admirable in a movie street. I always get great pleasure in looking at one, but a movie street groveling in the gravel of the desert hillside, prone upon its stomach, is a sad sight. In the language of a well known press agent in his more careless moments, "I like to have wept" over its fallen estate.

An Accordion's Sweet Music.

There was not much doing at Vitagraph, everybody, except Bessie Love, being out on location. I watched Dave Smith direct Bessie, Charles Wheelock, Frank Glendon, Karl Herlinger and Otto Lederer in a scene from "The Enchanted Barn," where Bessie dives under a piano and comes up on the other side just in time to fall into the hands of a couple of villains, while listening to Pau Rosnes make sweet music on an accordion.

After making arrangements to return and see Bill Duncan do some of his breakneck stuff and watch Antonio Morena and other Vitagraphers act, I started back to Hollywood, from which destination, however, I was deflected by a battle.

I love battles, especially movie battles. The sight of the brave director-general, armed with a megaphone, ordering the troops to mortal combat; the sounds of strife; the foe advancing and receiving it in the neck, arouses and fires my war-like soul. The acrid smell of the smoke pots is sweet incense to my martial nose.

I love to hear the crackle of the machine guns popping like popcorn; the foe falling in rows like ripe beans before the reaper—it would sound better to say ripe corn, but they don't raise much of anything but beans out here, and I am very strong for local color—I can see a whole regiment go down before the terrain and lay sprawling around on the barricage with the utmost equanimity, because I know that the entire company will shortly rise, brush the dust of battle from its pants, proceed to the studio, and draw down good iron men for its day's work.

Gets Lost in the Scenery.

As I was proceeding along a pleasant road bordered on one side by a grove of the stately eucalyptus and on the other by variegated California scenery, I was arrested by sounds of a booming nature that indicated a movie battle proceeding somewhere in the immediate vicinity.

Plunging into the depths of the forest with the utmost bravery and utter disregard of danger, I immediately got lost, and after wandering around for an interminable time I emerged just in time to see the last fallen foe arise, and Elmer Clifton, who had been putting on war stuff for a Dorothy Gish play, with his cameraman and other assistants, fading into the distance.

After this I had a real mystifying adventure.

Charles A. Taylor, who is also known as the master of melodrama, opened up the Norbig studios in Glendale a short time ago and started making a big feature with a star that is totally unknown to the film world. Various stories of her wit, beauty, grace and ability to do anything in the world with horses began to circulate in the colony, but none knew her name.

Society reporters from the local press interviewed her, but always in the presence of Mr. Melodrama Taylor, and no one learned anything.
The company went down to the beach and made some location stuff, and the mysterious star drove a chariot with four horses in a manner that would have done Ben Hur ashamed of himself and the plot thickened.

"Star" Avoids the Spotlight.

They can't pull any mystery stuff on me," said Sally. "I've got a detective badge, and so far as there is being a girl in the movies who will not tell her name, bunk, bosh, and likewise stuff that goes with it.

I went down to the studio; I saw the mysterious star, and talked to her, and I asked her name in a polite manner, and she said she could not tell. I talked to her father and mother, for in addition to being a mystery, she is at the same time one of the most chap- eroned stars in the movies.

Neither Pa nor Ma would tell any names. Talking to Taylor was useless. He is somewhat hard of hearing and carries a little telephone exchange like a suitcase around with him. When you talk about the weather it works fine, but every time I tried to ask the star about the picture, I hit the busy signal, or the wires got crossed, or something got wrong with the exchange.

I walked around the studio and watched them make scenes for the picture. The story has a circus atmosphere. Frank Mayo is leading man, and little Ben Alexander is in the cast.

Finds a Star at Leisure Again.

They were making scenes of a side-show and all the freaks were there. Real ones, too. A snake-skin girl, who made a magnificent skeleton, a hula-hula maiden who is a real Polynesian, an oriental dancer and a Circassian beauty.

I found the star at leisure again.

"How," I asked, "am I going to tell people about your monasile smile and how clever you are riding horses and don't know your name? They won't know who I am talking about."

She shook her head.

"Suppose," I suggested, "that I write a story and tell people you are short and dumpy, that you look 37, and that you squint?"

"But," she said sweetly, "wouldn't make any difference as long as you didn't have my name. They wouldn't know whom you were talking about, would they?"

She had me there.

"Your southern accent tells me you are from the South," I said. "What state?"

"Listen," she began, and I believe she was really going to tell me, but Taylor adjusted his phone to his ear and prepared to listen.

That was as far as she got, but if anybody knows a good-looking girl from the South who can ride and drive horses and keep a secret, he might know who this mysterious star is—I don't!

Jane Lee Recovering from Operation.

Jane Lee, who with her sister Kath- erine is in Los Angeles making "Smiles," a William Fox Excel picture, has just recovered from an operation for abdominal appendix, which was under the doc- tor's care the photographing of "Smiles" was halted for a week. Work was re- sumed last week, when Jane, none the worse for her experience, returned to the Fox studio at Hollywood.

TALLY ADVOCATES RUNS OF FORTNIGHT

Los Angeles Exhibitor to Build House Designed to Make Possible Longer Stays of Big Subjects

T. TALLY, owner of the First "Cable" Mutoscope Circuit franchise for southern California and Arizona, is to build a theatre designed exclusively for long runs on super-pro- ductions, according to a recent announce- ment from Los Angeles.

His decision is based on his opinion that with the new era of specialization in production, exhibits will now be able to secure the much higher quality in releases. This he believes will be the foundation on which exhibitors can make their plans for increasing the length of their runs and reducing the frequency of their program changes.

Mr. Tally has been contemplating the erection of a theatre in Los Angeles, but his plans for its construction were delayed by war conditions and the consequent lack of materials. Now that the War Industries Board has removed the ban on the commercial use of structural materials it is expected he will go ahead with his intentions to give Los Angeles an entirely new type of motion picture theatre.

"Events of the last few months," de- clared Mr. Tally, "are conclusive proof that long runs of the "event" type, is his, and I believe the future for exhibitors. We know to a certainty now that indefinite engage- ments are a thing of the past, and that it is profitable to exhibitors and that it is throwing money away to give only two or three days or a week to productions that have the merit necessary to longer bookings.

Long Runs Require Special Atmosphere.

"The public does not get a chance to patronize a worth while film if it is shown for one or two days. Every thea- tre will receive a certain amount of nominal patronage each day. But not every prospective patron—not one-fifth of the prospective patrons—could or would patronize a theatre within one or two days. Therefore, we are being talked about. There are many reasons for this. Some people are kept at home by illness, others are out of town for a few days. Some of the attenders guests, others are too busy the first two or three days that a goods production is shown. And a fair great number, who are not regular fans, do not hear comments on an especially worth while release until several days after it has opened." To make long runs requires a cer- tain type of physical equipment in a theatre which, while not absolutely es- sential to the success of innumerable en- demic, is necessary to the atmos- phere and general effectiveness of the productions to make the investment profitable. Of course, almost any theatre with the standard equipment can serve as the background for runs of a week, or even longer. But where it is possible to build or alter the instances of theatres being built, I be- lieve it is a wise precaution for the ex- hibitor to consider carefully the advan- tages of various new equipment which will give him opportunities for settings, lighting effects, greater lati- tude in musical accompaniments, and which will also add to the atmosphere imparted by the super- produc- tions which the public will patronize, day after day, for runs ranging from two weeks to a month or longer.

Suit of Shuberts Over "Old Heidelberg" Fails.

THE value of the moving picture rights of the screen production of the novel "Old Heidelberg" by the Fine Arts Film Company was carried Dorothy Gish and Wallace Reid is not to be judicially determined after all, as the result of the dismissal of the suit filed against the Fine Arts Company and the Triangle Film Corporation by the Shub- bert Theatrical Company.

When the suit was filed in the United States District Court several years ago the Shubert Theatrical Company de-manded $25,000 damages, asserting that the removed the screen rights from the production were very valuable, but it is doubtful whether a court would place such a high valuation on the cinema rights as the suitor claimed. The fact that the English version of the German play has not been protected by copyright in this country and conse- quently the film copyrights were within their rights in presenting a screen ver- sion of the play.

The play was originally dramatized in Berlin under the style of "Alt Heidel- berg" from Wilhelm Meyer-Forster's novel "Karl Heinrich." Emanuel Leder- er secured the American rights to the play and contracted with the Shuberts to produce it in this country.

The Majestic Motion Picture Com- pany secured the rights from Max H. Sinding of New York, who translated the English under the non de plume of Max Chapelle. This translation of the novel was copyrighted in this country.

Pathe Review Pleases Exhibitors.

That the Pathe Review, the new film magazine of interesting topics to be re- leased by Pathe every other week com- mencing January 19, is going to be one of the most popular subjects ever is- sued by this firm, was evidenced last week when the first reel was shown to the trade on the roof of the New York Times Building.

The first release combines the famous Pathe color pictures with the highly amusing and exceedingly interesting slow motion process, and as an educa- tional feature it includes scenes re- vealing the effect of music on wild ani- mals.

"Pathe" slow motion process was util- ized in photographing a baseball game, and the flight of a baseball thrown by a speedy pitcher, followed by the high, solidified shouts of laughter. The slow motion process will be incorporated in the Pathe Re- view from week to week, the company states, for highly humorous bits in using this method of photography can be readily realized.
PRODUCT BELOW PAR, SAYS ROTHAPFEL

New York Manager Tells Chicagoans That Crisis of the Previous Year Has Not Yet Been Passed

S. A. MUEL GOLDFISH, president of Select Pictures Corporation, and S. L. Rothapfel, America’s foremost exhibitor, arrived in the city Thursday morning, December 5, on their trip from coast to coast, during which stop-overs will be made at Cleveland, Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

At a luncheon held in the first stop was made Wednesday, December 4, they addressed a large gathering of exhibitors at a luncheon previously arranged by Select’s local manager, in Chicago, Ike Van Ronkel, Chicago manager, arranged for a luncheon at the Hotel Blackstone, at 12:30 p.m., where picture 100 prominent exhibitors were present, in addition to members of the daily and trade press.

Nate Ascher, of the Ascher Brothers circuit, was up toighted, and after paying a tribute to Mr. Rothapfel he introduced him as the first speaker, “Roxie” responded in one of his characterizing addresses, during which he succeeded in enthusing his hearers by a bright forecast of the future of the moving picture.

Present Product Rated Below Par.

He pronounced the past year a most trying ordeal for the moving picture and the trade, saying that a great crisis had been encountered and that it has not yet overhauled the film product, which was present below par and that, in certain cases, big rental prices are being charged.

In discussing the fact that the safest plan tended more and more to the institutional value of the theater—in other words that the picture itself is not the only thing, but the most important unit among other most essential things. Among these other things are service to patrons, in the way of politeness, comfort, etc.; scenic accessories, light effects and, next in importance to the picture itself, the musical accompaniment. He held that strict attention to these is the steady increasing daily average of the receipts, in distinct contrast to the abrupt and irregular daily receipts which resulted when the picture only is depended upon.

The institutional value of each theater, he holds, cannot fail to exalt the business and bring greater dignity to the moving picture business.

All the enumerated adjuncts to the success of the moving picture can be brought to operation only by the practical application of psychology to moving picture entertainment. Mr. Rothapfel insists, and, in proof, he pointed to the history of his New York theatres, the Rialto and the Rivoli.

At this point he complimented Balaban & Katz, owners of the Riviera, in Chicago, on their successful management of that house, which is conducted similarly to the Rothapfel theatres.

Mr. Rothapfel holds that the musical score of a well conducted picture program should be as carefully and fully developed as any grand opera score, and he advised that one should never get one’s hands into a rut.

Keep Your Patrons on the Edge.

“Keep them always on the edge of the seat,” he cried, and he recommended the doing of things in a way different from that used by a competitor.

“The breaking of precedent—something different from what the other fellow does, is what counts in this business,” he emphasized.

He then exclaimed against the present custom of giving the name of the director, the art man, etc., on the film, in addition to the title. He believes in pictures wherein the motif, the story before the title appears, and that the names destroy the psychology effect still further and delay the spectators from “getting into the picture.”

During his remarks Mr. Rothapfel gave this advice to exhibitors: “Never cater to the public. They must look up to you as do the do to the singer and the speaker. You can’t beat the institutional value of the picture theatre.”

He held that the relations between the producers and exhibitors should be more cordial and that closer co-operation should exist; also that exhibitors should be more, if possible, for the rental of film.

Rothapfel Predicts Dollar Prices.

“The moving picture will become so big in the near future that we of this day fail to realize it,” he said at this point. “In less than a year I shall be getting one dollar for every seat on the lower floors of both my houses in New York.”

Joseph Hopp, president of Chicago Local, was next called upon. He praised the Goldwyn product and stated that not a single Goldwyn picture had yet been found unclean or unfair, even by the drastic Chicago censors.

Samuel Goldfish, Goldwyn’s president, was the next speaker and held his audience closely during an extended conversational address. This, at times, created bursts of merriment by the unconscious humor of the speaker, who was not at all conscious of showing up any of the producers’ chances, and cited in most humorous fashion a case which evoked great laughter. He charged that exhibitors do not co-operate with producers, as they fail to sustain them by the breaking of contracts with the product, which have been accepted by producers in entire good faith.

Such actions may lead to a revolution on the part of producers,” Mr. Goldfish asserted.

Producers Not Paying Dividends.

“When exhibitors meet in a body anywhere they usually get talking about prices—and lower prices,” he said. “Yet not one producer has paid a dividend for the last two and a half years. I have put over half a million dollars in pictures and our company has done its utmost to make the best pictures, but the exhibitors won’t let us.

They want a star. All the producers in America are not making as much as one star. And who has made the stars? Who made Douglas Fairbanks? Exhibitors and producers. They are killing 50 per cent. of the business. Producers must get the works of the best authors and must encourage them. Goldwyn holds receipts for many thousands of dollars paid for stories which are unused.

Producers Must Be Supported.

“Producers must have support and co-operation of exhibitors, and exhibitors must concede that producers must have their just share of profits.

The day of domination by the producers has gone by. If conditions continue as at present, the producers must quit. The producers have borrowed money for the last two years. Don’t ever expect exhibitors to get together to protect themselves.

“Courage on the part of exhibitors to raise the admission price just five cents would mean so much! If exhibitors would do this much for the business they would save the picture.

“Our branch managers fail to meet an exhibitor who is making a dollar! The exhibitor succeeds in convincing even our branch managers.”

In concluding Mr. Goldfish advocated the running of film subjects at least two days instead of one day, saying that it would greatly relieve the present conditions.

Chicago Censorship Board

Bans “Finger of Justice”

O WING to inclement weather the meeting of the Chicago Censorship Commission, held Friday, November 22, was sparsely attended, and Chairman Hurley ruled that those present should remove to the projection room of the Chicago censorship board, in the City Hall, and view “The Finger of Justice,” which had recently been given a “pink” permit by Second Deputy Frazier, head of the censorship board, who succeeded Major Funghouse.

This picture had been refused a permit.
in New York and the action of Second Deputy Commissioner Quigley in refusing a permit. After viewing the picture, the members of the Censorship Commission present, with the exception of Secretaries Quigley and Quigley, the granting of a permit, Mr. Quigley remaining neutral. John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, who was present in the auditorium, could see no reason for refusing a permit. Others present, among them Joseph Hopp, were of the same opinion.

Dr. Hill, who was present at the viewing of the film, then declared that he would take the matter under advisement and give his decision later that day. Saturday, November 23, he overruled the second deputy and refused a permit of any kind, thus canceling the "pink" permit already issued.

"The Finger of Justice" was filmed by the Rev. Paul Smith, an evangelist of San Francisco, whose crusade against vice in the segregated vice district of the Barbary Coast, in that city, led to its exposure in films. The picture is being released by the Arrow Film Company, of which W. E. Shallenberger is president.

At the meeting of the Chicago Censorship Commission, held Friday afternoon, November 29, Chairman Hurley recommended the adoption of a resolution to the effect that the new Chief of Police Grant and Secretary of Police, the present censor of moving pictures, should not grant any white permits to pictures which depict white slavery and prostitution, which are being reviewed by the commission respectively. The resolution was carried. About ten members of the commission were present on the occasion.

Chicago Exhibitors' League Discusses Vital Questions

The regular monthly meeting of the Chicago Exhibitors' League was held in Fraternity Hall, Friday noon, December 6, about sixty exhibitors being present. Joseph Hopp, president, occupied the chair and the following matters were discussed:

"Flu" epidemic; the proposed increase in the wages of operators; the censorship question; the music tax and the revised war revenue tax.

Dr. Hill, a member of the Chicago board of health, who has charge of all matters pertaining to the health ordinance, was present. He addressed the meeting on the health question during the return epidemic, and also referred to the six houses which were closed during the period. December 4. Among these houses were the Pine Grove, De Luxe, the Liberty, Oak and two smaller ones. They were closed as a result of the vigorous action of the police officers and managers, Dr. Hill said, because it was found by the board of health investigators that the ventilating plant in each case was not in operation during the time of showing pictures. The law distinctly calls for the perfect operation of the ventilating plant every hour during the time of the theatre, and every house will be closed where the law is not observed to the letter.

Dr. Hill was then asked by exhibitors to state the opinion of that street cars, crowded and jammed with people, and big department stores and their crowded basements are permitted to run. He replied that there was no ordinance which empowered the board of health officers to arrest the officials of a street rail car company or to stop the running of such cars; also that each of the department stores has an approved ventilating system, and yet the law has no provision for its operation.

The proposed increase in operators' wages was next considered, and it developed that in the fall of 1917 the operators' wages had increased thirty-five per cent, and that in May of this year, at 75 cents an hour for every day in the week, and that four years of that period have still to run.

Regarding the question of a committee to handle the enforcement of the law, a committee was named to represent the Chicago League at the meeting of the Chicago Censorship Commission on January 17, to present the report of the work of the commission is completed.

With regard to the revenue tax the members present favored the retention of the present admission tax and the 5 per cent. tax on film rentals (which producers and distributors pay) according to the newly proposed law.

Director Rex Weber Dies

A Victim of Pneumonia

EX WEBER, better known by his home name as Fred Weber, passed away Monday morning, December 9, in this city, another victim of pneumonia.

It was only in the last issue that he was prominently brought before our readers. Being mentioned as the director of the Herald-Examiner's "Smile Film," which he finished at the expense of his health, owing to the strenuous period of its making. It was really due to his untiring efforts and to exposure to severe weather during the making of the film that he suffered from a dread malady which removed him so suddenly from his friends.

Mr. Weber has been a motion picture director for seven years, being employed at various times by the Lubin and the Vitograph Company. He also directed various Red Cross films, and was consulted by the producers during the filming of "The Birth of a Race."

Mr. Weber was thirty years of age and was born in Covington, Ky. His family were well-to-do. He came to Chicago from the family home recently and was at his bedside when he died.

High Honor for Edgar Hopp

Edgar Hopp, son of Joseph Hopp, president of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of Chicago, who is at present in New York on a mission attached to the photographic division, Bureau of Navigation, U. S. N., recently received an overseas assignment to the escort ship for the George Washington, which is conveying President Wilson and other officials to Europe. Mr. Hopp, it is said, will take all official motion pictures of this trip under the direction of Lieut. Wells Hawks, officer in charge of the photographic division.

Mr. Hopp, Jr., is the chief official motion picture cameraman attached to the photographic division. The pictures made during the voyage will form the official record of the President's trip.

Showmen's League Holds Services

Memorial services in honor of deceased members of the Showmen's League of America were held in the clubrooms in the Crilly Building, Sunday, December 1, by a large number of the Chicago members of the organization.

Prominent among those who passed away, to whom touching references were made at the meeting, was the late president, John B. Warren; the first president, William F. Cody, and Warren A. Patrick, founder of the organization and first national secretary.

"The Birth of a Race" at Blackstone

Sunday evening, December 1, a much-heralded picture, "The Birth of a Race," was given its premiere at the Blackstone Theatre here--just about the same time as the presentation of pictures. In the first place, the location is out of the way, and in the second it never before had been used for picture entertainment.

I attended the opening and found the theatre filled, to a seat, downstairs, while the balcony and the gallery had a fair sprinkling of first nighters. Of course much of this was "paper," but the attendance has shown an improvement every night thus far since, and the management is fairly satisfied with the results--taking everything into consideration.

Blanche Sweet

Blows Into Town

BLANCHE SWEET, dapper as ever, blew into town December 6 on a business trip, and returns to the coast again this week to start work on her next big picture under the management of Harry Garson. Its name, "The Unpardonable Sin," Miss Sweet would not divulge--not even to her friends. She would give any inkling as to the nature of the subject--but when it came to "The Unpardonable Sin," which Miss Sweet is currently working on, her enthusiasm was boundless. Miss Sweet declared it to be the biggest picture of the year.

The player recounted her troubles of making "The Unpardonable Sin" during the "flu" epidemic. Marshall Neilan, the director, persevered, however, and the result has been beyond expectations.

The picture will be in nine reels instead of eight as previously announced. It goes into Clune's Auditorium, Los Angeles, for a run beginning New Year week, after which it will be given a Broadway showing. Mr. Garson is said to have refused one of the biggest cash offers made for any picture this year.

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

December 21, 1918

Blanche Sweet.
SCHENCK SHIFTS TO FIRST NATIONAL
Head of Norma Talmadge Productions Company Tells Why His Star’s Pictures Will Be Distributed Under Different Plan—Not Criticism, but Analysis, He Says

THE First National Exhibitors’ Circuit, Inc., has signed a two years’ contract for the distribution of productions starring Norma Talmadge. The contract becomes effective as soon as the four productions still to be made under the present agreement with Select Pictures Corporation have been completed and delivered.

“For the first time in my experience as a producer,” declares Joseph M. Schenck, who is the active head of the Norma Talmadge Productions Company, “I am able to understand how it is possible for a producer to make bigger and better pictures with an increase in values at the box-office compatible with the added quality in the picture. To me this contract with First National is the solution to an ambition I have cherished for more than a year. I have wanted to make bigger pictures. I have wanted to pay the price demanded for big stories. Of course, there has been nothing to stop me but the uncertainty of whether I would do any better than break even on the investment. This was the fault not of an individual or group of individuals but of a system.”

While the details of the contract are not made public, it is understood that First National will distribute a minimum of twelve Norma Talmadge productions during the two years the contract is in force, and that a total of twenty productions will be the maximum. By this system of keeping two directors constantly employed, Mr. Schenck plans to make at least six releases each year, allowing a minimum of six weeks’ actual studio working time for every production.

Transaction Involves Large Sum.

Although the amount that will be paid by First National for the negative rights to each picture together, in the aggregate, is not made public, it is understood that the sum involved is equivalent to the best that could have been agreed upon. According to the contract, all of the Norma Talmadge pictures will, as a consequence of the increased latitude given Mr. Schenck in production, take on a proportionate increase in box-office value, apart from the exhibitors’ advantage in booking them independently.

“Furthermore,” declared J. D. Williams, manager for First National, “the exhibitors will book the Talmadge pictures exactly as they are booking the Chaplin, Pickford and Stewart releases, independent of anything else. Mr. Schenck’s features will stand absolutely on their own merits.”

Sorenson summed up his opinion of the contract with First National by describing it as “the revolutionary change of method which gives me the open door to greater quality in productions starring Norma Talmadge and to a realization of a profit from the superior releases I will place at the disposal of exhibitors.

Believes “System” Cannot Endure.

“First let me make clear,” he requested, “that my comments are not in any sense a criticism of individuals or organizations, but an analysis of a system. For this system there can be no individual responsibility. It is universally employed by program distributors. That it cannot endure much longer is obvious to me. I have been producing pictures with Miss Talmadge as the star for more than two years. When I first took charge of her studio I received an offer of $750 a week for her services. Recently I was offered $7,500 a week by a program company. To have accepted it would have been fatal to her popularity. True, an income of $30,000 a month is better than a reasonable salary. The fact that I refused the offer was not due entirely to my belief that she is capable of earning more. It was also because I knew that to accept it would be to place her against a dead wall obstacle to progress, and would result in a decline in her popularity. Allowing six weeks to a production, her salary alone would burden each picture with approximately $60,000, because she would require ten days or two weeks of rest between pictures. Add to this about $40,000 for other expense, not including prints, advertising supplies and sales cost, and figure what it means to get back that sum.

“By having her productions distributed on the open market plan, whereby they are available to every exhibitor in the country, burden free, I receive a sum for each negative which is sufficient to give me ample latitude for obtaining the greatest possible quality, and which tells me in advance just how much I can afford to spend on production and still give me a profit. There is no guess-work. I know, under the contract with First National, just how far I can go. And when my negative is completed I do not need to wait a year, eighteen months or two years to get back my costs with a possible profit.

Sees Advantages in Ready Money.

“I receive my costs, plus a profit, when the picture is finished. The result is that I have the money immediately available to begin work on another picture.

“Some exhibitors who do not reason may say: ‘It’s a fine thing for Miss Talmadge. She can make cheap pictures and still be sure of a big profit. We won’t get her releases any cheaper if they are not up to a standard.’ But they should remember that a big profit on each of two pictures—which is the maximum that any producer could use to hoodwink a distributor—does not amount to one-tenth as much as a reasonable profit on twelve or fifteen productions. It would be too late to catch up with slow big winners at the box office. A producer releasing through First National exchanges has everything in the world to gain by giving his utmost for the attainment of super perfection and everything to lose by attempting to take any advantage of exhibitors in failing to give them value received.”

Thinking of installing a new projection machine? Be rid of the old one through The World’s Classified advertising.

Scenes from Rex Beach’s “Too Fat to Fight” (Goldwyn).
moving picture world

facts and comments

through lack of a quorum to do business the special meeting of the members of the national association of the motion picture industry called to consider the proposition which contemplated the consolidation of the n. a. m. p. i. and the motion picture exhibitors' league, that particular transaction was not consummated. it would not be correct to say that nothing was done. on the contrary a great deal was accomplished, because the truth was finally brought home to the representatives of the exhibitors' organization present that it would not be good policy to thus sink their identity, and the president of that organization, who was present, declared that he would recommend to his board of directors that all negotiations be terminated.

* * *

the moving picture world congratulates mr. schaefher upon his very wise determination. as we have pointed out repeatedly in these columns such a combination of interests as was proposed could never solve the problems which arise between the two branches of the motion picture trade. we were willing, nevertheless, that the plan should be given a trial, and as members of the n. a. m. p. i. would have voted in favor of it had the opportunity been given for no other reason than that its futility might have been conclusively proved. but the failure of two important branches of the industry to be present at the meeting was thus creating no atmosphere, and the action of president schaefer in declaring his purpose to withdraw from any further consideration of the question clears up the situation.

another event occurred at that meeting which is not quite so pleasant. this plan was strongly favored, if not conceived, by the president of the n. a. m. p. i., william a. brady. that it should fail by the coldness of the men with whom he was most closely associated must have been to him a matter of deepest chagrin. that he resented the failure of his friends to support him was shown by his statement, to the effect that it was his intention to resign his office and retire as quickly as possible. whatever may be mr. brady's failings one fact stands out in his favor: he is the first man to be chosen president of the n. a. m. p. i. who has been able to keep the organization together and interested in the trade's welfare enough to accomplish anything. it has been hinted that mr. brady has other reasons for resigning, and it would not be difficult to find them, but if he is to continue in the picture business he should be induced to withdraw his resignation should he eventually present it. true, the job is a thankless one and more, but the organization should be so established and financed that its executive might at least be reimbursed for its traveling expenses. there is a great and growing need for a trade organization in the motion picture industry, but it should be conducted on proper business lines. mr. brady knows the amusement business; he is a forceful man and has proved his value to the trade. under proper conditions he would be still more valuable and should be retained.

* * *

assuming that president schaefer will pursue the course he proposed, it will be up to the exhibitors of the country to support his efforts to establish a strong organization. we have named the reasons for such organization so many times that repetition now begins to sound like "parrot talk." there are so many things that exhibitors must and can do for themselves that it seems a crime when they do not get together and do them. problems that arise in a given state cannot be handled so well as by the exhibitors of that state. outside interference is more likely to be fatal than helpful to their cause. but nothing can be accomplished unless there is organization. so organization is the thing to be accomplished, and the time is now.

* * *

there seems to be a difference of opinion among our ministerial brothers of indianapolis on the subject of closing picture theatres in that town on sunday. when the ministerial delegation interviewed the mayor on the subject and presented a set of resolutions demanding the closing of theatres it developed that a considerable number of the delegation disapproved the tenor of the resolutions and suggested that it would be a good idea if the parishioners who were so anxious to close the picture shows would first pursue their parishioners to refrain from patronizing them. might be a good idea for preachers generally to take a vote of their congregations on the picture show.

entered at the general post office, new york city, as second class matter published weekly by the chalmers publishing company

$16 fifth avenue, at 43d street, new york city

(telephone, murray hill, 1610, 1611, 1612, 1613)

j. p. chalmers, sr............................president

j. f. chalmers..............................vice-president and general manager

e. j. chalmers..............................secretary and treasurer

james l. hoff..............................managing editor

a. macarthur, jr............................advertising manager the office of the company is the address of the officers.

chicago office—suite 917-919 schiller building, 64 west randolph st., chicago, ill. telephone, central 5099.

pacific coast office—609-611 wright and calender building, los angeles, cal. telephone, broadway 4660. g. p. harieman, business representative subscription rates.

united states, cuba, mexico, hawaii, porto rico and philippine islands $3.00 per year canada ........................................... 3.50 per year foreign countries (postpaid) .................. 4.00 per year changes of address should give both old and new addresses in full and be clearly written. two weeks' time should be allowed for change.

advertising rates.

classified advertising—one dollar for twenty words or less; over twenty words, five cents per word.

display advertising rates made known on application.

note—address all correspondence, remittances and subscriptions to moving picture world, 516 fifth avenue, at forty-third street, new york, and not to individuals.

cine-mundial, the monthly spanish edition of the moving picture world, is published at 516 fifth avenue by the chalmers publishing company. it reaches the south american and spanish-speaking market. yearly subscription $2. advertising rates on application.

saturday, december 21, 1918
NEW SPIRIT OF DRAMA
By Louis Reeves Harrison.

Now that the war has been won and our people are settling down once more to ordinary life," says Milton Hoffman of the Famous Players-Lasky Company, "their souls freed from the weight constantly present while vast armies were contending in Europe, when they can once more take up the threads of life that were temporarily dropped, they will wish not only to be entertained but made to think seriously."

Here, at last, is a studio manager who realizes that we CAN think.

We are the people—you and I help make up the public.

When all studio managers learn that we shall then have better plays.

The whole trend of modern art of the screen makes for a spirit of truth about the present, and it requires thought to formulate stories dealing with our sane readjustment to the new spirit of the times and our progressively enlarging freedom. The violent reaction that is just now going on against our long-suffered social injustice offers more intense and more important material for drama than the old-time stories of persecution in Siberia. Bolshevism furnishes more harrowing atrocities and more ideal villains than czarism ever knew, a far greater menace to world happiness.

A great gulf separates stories of four years ago and those of today.

Hatred, jealousy, cruelty and greed are still with us.

So are love, compassion, sacrifice and nobility of character.

These human expressions are the same, and drama must deal with what is human, but there is a great difference in what gives rise to passion and affection, as wide a difference as between modern weapons and those of ancient times.

Modern spirit is opposed to the morbid, to occult, the incredible.

We are sane enough to live while we live when we live.

When we live is far from being before the great war.

In dealing with that war there is much to be thought of.

As far as it is possible to do so with due regard for dramatic situations it furnishes in rich abundance those atrocities which are harrowing to wives and mothers of soldiers should be avoided, that is to say, the actual view of them. This need not deprive us of the almost limitless resource of love stories and those of romantic adventure, which returning soldiers will enjoy seeing quite as well as ourselves, nor of the character contrasts offered by contact of American youth with that of European countries, probably the most fascinating the screen will exhibit.

Incidentally, let us have done with the conventional Frenchman.

Let us eliminate "ze" for "the" in sub-titles.

Dialect on the screen is an offense to good taste.

Differences between ourselves and Europeans, interesting to millions of soldier boys and their wives, mothers, sweethearts and sisters, are not in language so much as in character, for conversation must be presented intelligibly except in farce. Those individual peculiarities must be studied thoughtfully to be effective, so Milton Hoffman is right—it will require brains to "challenge the audience to mental activity and bright reasoning."

During years of European travel I never saw such foreigners as are presented on the stage, the hackneyed theatrical conceptions of ignorance.

Let us keep along lines of truth on the screen.

Just so with our own social and political life.

Otherwise screen drama will lose its hold on popular favor.

Drama must stand for the reality of its time.

There is a tremendous field opening up at home that will give growth through woman's new footing in business and social affairs, in her superior physical development, on which that of the race depends, in her attempt to keep the pace in our general advancement. We are frauds and moral cowards still to depict her as the woman of yesterday—she is a new creature.

It is our place as men to bring her up to our ideals.

Let us also consign the strutting hero to farce.

Remember also that emotions are more thrilling than action.

Passion cannot be deep and vital unless it is shown.

Drama will be only for the unthinking unless there is thought back of it—it is the brains in a screen product which elevates it above the commonplace, the dull, the weak, the undesirable, the unenjoyable.

THE IMPORTANCE OF THEME
By Robert C. McElravy.

With the increasing skill of scenario writers and directors in constant evidence in the making of photoplays a new danger arises. Is the story to be told worth telling? Will the hand of the stylist and dilettante become visible on the screen in the same manner that it has been visible in the pages of American fiction for this long time? Is the screen to be inflected with a series of dainty and well made creations, which attract the eye but disappoint heart and mind?

While it is the inevitable tendency of any art to grow away from the people as it increases in outward deficiency, we do not think it will do so permanently with the moving picture. Stories with thin, unreal or artificial plots will not succeed upon the screen, because they will not draw and hold the people; they have not the qualities for stirring the soul that has made the screen successful.

It is well for any producer before he undertakes the production of a given story to consider carefully whether it contains something of vital interest for the public. Any plot that hangs together will not do, particularly for long feature subjects. Mere cleverness and prettiness are not enough to repay the patron for his trip to the moving picture theatre. He has been accustomed to getting more, and he expects to continue getting it.

Few of "Best Sellers" Have Screen Value.

Books and magazines go into the home; they may be picked up at idle moments, and if their stories are weak the reader will perhaps feel no great offense. He has only to quit reading and take up something else. Certain of the "best seller" novels of recent years have sold on their merits as stories, but many of them rode into popularity on a high wave of advertising. While many of these latter were seeming successes, their appeal was really very limited, and several publishers have confessed that the expense of floating a best seller was often greater than its earnings. Certainly there can be small gain to the screen in reproducing any except the best of this type of fiction.

Magazine stories are another type of fiction calling for close examination. "One swallow does not make a summer," and one short story does not make a magazine. The magazine costs the reader but a nominal fee and he can have it delivered at his door by the postman regularly. Its appeal is general, and if he finds but one strong story in the entire publication he will perhaps have no quarrel with it. The magazine gets its chief return in many instances from its advertisements, and if it loses one subscriber for any reason there is usually another ready to take his place. The theory has often been advanced in former years that the success of certain magazines, as advertising mediums, has been enhanced, rather than weakened, by running light, uncritical fiction.

The type of commercialism is on the other foot. Every feature production must sell itself by the sheer strength of its story interest! It has no advertising pages to help out on expenses. It does not go to the patron, but invites the patron to come to it. For these reasons the moving picture of the more serious type must be kept a strong and vital interpretation of real life, as it has been from the beginning. It must tackle problems of all sorts and stir the pulses of observers, or there is bound to be disappointment.

Authors who hope to place stories with the screen should take a long, second look at the requirements. The screen demands the stuff of real life for its features and the plot of the average magazine story has been in past years rather shy on this. When experienced critics sometimes report only four or five exceptional short stories in all of the magazines put together in a given month, it can be seen why discerning makers of moving pictures look twice before reproducing certain magazine fiction.

The plot of the average short story is not worth six reels, or even five, and many feature pictures have proved weak, not because they lacked good workmanship, but because the theme was not strong enough to start with. Many short stories have abundant plot for two or three reels, but not for longer subjects. Producers would undoubtedly get better results by giving such stories the footage they are worth than by stringing them out into attenuated feature productions.

Even a highly successful short story may represent a mere fragment of life, when reduced to action. It succeeds in its original form because the skilled hand of the writer who knows his business has made it acceptable. When the screen has developed a greater proficiency for expressing feeling and emotion without conspicuous action, it will be able to use such stories, but they will still be mere episodes and not worth more than one to three reels.

A gleam of hope is held out in the changing requirements of the magazines themselves, which are broadening and deepening as a result of the war. Douglas Z. Doty, one of the leading editors, writing in the Authors' League Bulletin for November, sounds a promising note when he says: "I believe that even in the cheapest of popular magazines the fiction-mechanic will have to give way to the writer with vision and ideals."

It may be that one result of the great conflict will be a general rejuvenation of the art of story telling, in which the author writes of life as he sees it, and the editor listens to the author. In such stories, under these new conditions, authors, magazines and the screen will find mutual profit.

OPPOSE COMPETITION OF GOVERNMENT

At Instance of National Association Committee
Atlantic City Congress Adopts Resolutions

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the board of directors of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry a delegation appointed by President W. A. Brady, consisting of Walter W. O'Brien, John C. Flinn, William C. Smith and Frederick H. Elliott, attended the War Emergency and Reconstruction Congress held under the auspices of the United States Chamber of Commerce at Atlantic City on December 5, 6 and 7. Classified as related group No. 37 the committee was organized with Mr. Irwin as chairman, Mr. Flinn as secretary and Mr. Smith as speaker, reporting through Major Group No. 10.

The Congress was attended by more than 5,000 delegates representing every industry in the United States and the sessions were addressed by many men of national renown.

As the contribution of the motion picture industry the delegation from the N. A. M. P. made a long and powerful plea dealing with the question of Government ownership as it affects the motion picture and the question of censorship.

Chances Government Is In Competition

Bearing on the first subject the resolutions recited the work done by the united motion picture interests in the aid of war work and noted that notwithstanding those activities, which were with discontinue its commercial competition with the motion picture industry, by the rental of film for profit, particularly as the industry has fully demonstrated its readiness, willingness and eagerness, without compensation, to distribute for the Government, much more effectively than the Government can do, any information which the Government desires, advisory and otherwise, and likewise for the reason that the distribution of such material by the Government can only be for the purpose of getting the largest use for the money spent, whereas people are better disposed to think upon the same subject at the same time, and the distribution of such information on a rental basis greatly restricts the extent to which such propaganda is conveyed." Records Opposition to Censorship

On the question of censorship, after reciting the various and well-known arguments against the official inquiry such as motion pictures have been subjected to in states where censorship is practiced, this resolution was offered: "That the doctrine of censorship is un-American, and is contrary and dangerous to the fundamental principles upon which our Government was founded, the conduct of our political institutions for the benefit of the people, and, therefore, should be stamped out wherever it makes its appearance, the full and complete responsibility for its acts under the police powers of each community.

These resolutions were submitted to Major Group No. 10 and, after due explanation, adopted.
Censorship Folly, Says Myra K. Miller, Would Awaken Public Responsibility

A request Myra Kingman Miller, president of the National Federation of College Women, has submitted this following article embodying her views on the question of film censorship, which public opinion has been divided; and as is usually the case with a topic of vital importance, the majority is divided between those who are for and those of narrow vision—between those who seek constructive methods and those who do not.

The motion picture is the greatest factor in the education of the masses today. It teaches further than printing—it is the universal language. The most ignorant and the man of education alike can read the story as presented in a motion picture.

Photoplay, an ethical magazine, in reference to the industry, has well expressed itself as the Fifth Estate. Painting was the fourth estate, and history shows us what a huge role it played in human life. How much greater is the living vital story screen presents to the public.

As with every new invention it was commercialized at once; and not always by individuals of the right motives, or any motives, except the grasping of silver, snare. So it has come to pass that many films of objectionable character have been made and distributed, which has aroused the just indignation of the right-minded people.

Man's instinctive resort in all public matters is to self-protection and his own advantage. The next resort was some sort of board who should decide what might be printed, and such—censor boards.

Any intelligent person knowing nothing of surgery would scorn the idea of prun- ing off each tiny end of the ramifications of a cancer with the mere of curing the ulcer. They would say immediately, "go to the root of the evil!" But, better still, if it had nothing to feed upon it would die.

And so censor boards here and there nip off an evil spot, thinking to cure the evil, but leaving the root behind.

There is but one sure remedy for the undesirable film, and that is lack of education. When the public becomes educated, it demands good pictures, and shows it by patronage, one may be sure that kind of thing will be eliminated and produced. The whole producing end of the industry is regulated by the box-office receipts in the local theatres, so it is the public that must be educated.

No clipping out of a few feet of film can make a decent film out of an undesirable one; the whole film is impreg- nated with the spirit of the story. But here lies one of the intelligent, he will then awake to their civic responsibility. It rests with the individual, he who has a civic consciousness, nor will he shirk his duty on a paid board of censors, which, in the majority of cases, evets into a purely political "job."

As illustration of the inefficiency of this method, the Better Film Committees of the Motion Picture Professionals Council of Women have had more complaints of undesirable films being shown in Pennsylvania than from any other state, and this state has the most strict state censorship extant.

Censorship boards have not solved the problem and it is but right to realize in the presence of the citizenship of each community to so raise the standard of their motion picture public's demand that no undesirable films can be profitably shown. This is the keynote to the situation.

We have no censorship board of printed material; no one for a moment would suggest that we forbid the Bible being read in our community because there are so many passages therein that are unfit for children to read, nor would we have a censor go through it and eliminate these passages. Yet, the great majority of people believe that the Bible is the greatest moral influence in the world today.

Parents do not forbid the reading of Shakespeare because they are ready for it. They study them from their own point of view, modern stories, until they are prepared to draw the right lessons from these great books. Just as these parents happily guard their children as to their reading, and yet they send them off to the "movie" houses, what are they going to see. Then the cry goes up, "something must be done, our children must not see these terrible things.

Whose fault is it? Certainly not the producer's, when he is encouraged by the censors, the exhibitors, who gives apparently what is wanted. Whose fault is it?

What is true of child life and the movies is true of adult life. People have been done, and persistently. This thing should be considered seriously. It is the great art. Every intelligent up-to-date magazine, whether current pictures, should take an ethical magazine, should know what he wants to see, and what he wants his children to see, and should see these, all of them, and only these—then and not till then will the motion picture fill its proper destiny in the upbuilding of the nation, and then will the folly of the censorship plan be apparent to all.

Microscopic Pictures May Aid Industrial Science

THE assertion was made recently in the New York Evening Sun that the application of motion picture photography to microscopic images opened for it a new field. This would be a new world for the Sun reporter that this field had been entered upon by the moving picture camera several years ago; that it has never been applied microscopically in a manner so significant of practical results as the instance to which the Sun points in its issue of November 29. The following quotation from the Scientific American:

By its application it may ultimately be possible to tell, for example, by the appearance of the surface under the microscope, whether a material is made up of 30 per cent. of its effective life, or 50 per cent. thereof. If the characteristics are sufficiently pronounced, which experience alone can tell, then it will be possible to polish a section of a cable in use and examine it with a microscope from time to time and thus determine whether that section at least is nearly ready to fail or whether it shows no indication of failure. These observations would be based on previous moving pictures of the same material. The keynotes of the idea is that failure takes place gradually, beginning the moment a piece of metal is first put into use and ending only when that piece gives way entirely.

The moving picture reproduction referred to was exhibited at a recent convention of testing engineers at Atlantic City.

Scotland in Wartime Shown in Newman Films

SOMETHING over a thousand feet of film giving a splendid idea of what has been happening in Scotland during the trying period of the late war has been brought here by E. M. Newman. These pictures, which will be exhisited at Carnegie Hall on December 15, accompanied by a travel talk by Mr. Newman, open in the streets of Edin-to the striking short government the number General favorite of attacking productions making in taining covered animated soillery.

This on the of the accomplished their from borough acquainted spectator exhibited 1338

From here the photographer takes the spectators to Glasgow, where he becomes acquainted first with the streets and their inhabitants. It is in this city that we first thoroughly awaken to the wonder of how many women have accomplished during the war. A munitions factory into which Mr. Newman was accompanied by a government of-

A more interesting still is an aero-plane manufactory in which aeroplanes are made entirely by women, even to the dynamos.

Among his collection Mr. Newman has also many scenes which serve to eulogize the women of England in the splendid way in which they have backed up the fighting forces of the Allies.

Belgian Pictures Score Success.

Some weeks ago we printed a review on “The Kingdom of Grief,” a ten-reel collection of pictures recording the history of Belgium from the year 1830 to the present day, and owned by the Paramount-Distributing Company. This company is represented in New York by M. L. Fulton, 59 West 44th street.

Strictly historical, authentic and enthralling, this picture is making a record for itself as a drawing card which might be envied by feature productions of dramatic class. A recent showing at the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences at least 2,400 persons viewed it, and a return date was immediately negotiated for, which took place on Friday evening, November 29. It has the advantage of showing both sides of the lines, containing, as it does, glimpses of the German lines, which were probed supposedly while alien cameramen were still able to snap stray shots of the German hordes.

Shrapnel in Barrage Fire.

The Paramount-Bray Pictograph 146 contains an illuminating illustration of the use of shrapnel in barrage fire. An animated drawing by F. Lyle Goldman of the Bray Studios serves to explain the different kinds of barrages. It shows how when the staff had a place, artiillery was massed and by preliminary practice the range of the area to be covered was first determined. If the at-tax was only for the purpose of obtaining prisoners or to occupy a short distance of enemy trenches, the barrage was laid down in three sides of a work so that the enemy was prevented from attacking either in front or on the flanks of the advancing troops. The shrapnel and low bursts of flame were rained down in continuous streams on these lines, making this area impassable. The “searching barrage” the “creeping barrage” and the “box barrage” have been carefully outlined and explained by the artist.

How Museum Groups Are Made.

A subject of unusual interest appearing in the 146th issue of the Paramount-Bray pictograph shows in detail how museum groups are made. The making of the frame over which fine wire is deftly placed to serve as a basis for the cast is first shown. This cast when finished is taken from the form in sections which have been provided for while the plaster is still soft, and is then put together and covered with glue for the reception of the skin of the animal. When furnished with glass eyes and various other touches of realism these mounts groups challenge detection from the real thing at a distance.

“Winning the War.”

A splendid descriptive number, picturing many phases of the gigantic task of feeding our men overseas. The loading of a great steamer in 49 hours with beef and provisions is a fine feature, showing the enthusiasm which launched thousands of men into their work in the great crisis. An army camp at mess time and scenes from the great Western farms are also included in this interesting number, which was made by the Committee on Public Information.

“Liberty’s Triumph.”

A one-reel subject demonstrating in effective fashion some of the wonders that have been accomplished by American in the war. Innumerable scenes have been collected, giving a cumulative view of our efforts since the con-ict began. This includes many stat-ics, but they are intensely interesting and illustrated in a striking manner.

“Official War Review No. 24.”

This issue contains one special feature which we believe has not been shown so fully before. That is the scenes depicting the manner of fighting the Indians. The great flame throwers are shown in full action, and an idea can be readily gathered of their terrible execution. Lloyd George, King George, and the Kaiser are dis-ties” organization, of which Miss Lau-re once was a featured and favored player.

When Rex Beach produced “The Auction Block” for Goldwyn release he chose for leading woman Ruby De Remer, a favorite of the “Follies,” then comparatively unknown in pictures. She registered a success as a screen acress and since has been seen in a dozen productions. The debut of Will Rogers, Ziegfeld’s famous cowboy monologist, was more recent.

Now Mr. Beach is further testing his ability to pick winners by engaging Miss Laurell, who never has been seen in motion pictures. In the “Follies” she was a favorite for several seasons. Her beauty and charm drew her to her role as a formidable figure.

Miss Laurell has left for the Goldwyn studios in Los Angeles. Rex Beach will shortly go to the coast to super-ise the production of “The Brand,” which also will enlist the services of Russell Simpson, well remembered for his powerful impersonation of the trader in “The Barrier.”

Fox Films for Peace Party.

While President Wilson’s party is on the ocean bound for the Peace Conference at Versailles it will be entertained by Fox films. Among the photoplays which will be shown on board the George Washington will be two Victory pictures—The Strange Woman,” feauring Gladys Brockwell, and “Fame and Fortune,” starring Tom Mix.

Major Campbell, of the historical division of the United States War College, erected a screen and projection booth in the main saloon of the ship, it having been proved repeatedly during the war that motion pictures are the best means for relieving tedium on shipboard. Major Campbell stated that the Fox corporation was the only company which gave its films without charge to the Presidential company.

Advertising for Exhibitors
Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

Fighting the Fire.

A. C. RALEIGH, of the American, Butte, Montana, writes that during the weekend he looked over the weekly advertising in the Montana papers to see what he could to abate the hysteria. He could not hold down dead lines notices, which sometimes came close to the hundred mark, for that was paid advertising, but as a good advertiser, he kicked at the scare head on the plague story. He got them to out the trimmings and stick to hard facts.

It was an excellent idea. The newspaper did not realize that it had a financial interest in the scare. The story seemed to have a news value if played up, and so it got the front page. Then Mr. Raleigh reminded them that the announcer the same As a matter of fact, the scare was worse than the disease. New York was not shut downs, largely because it seemed unwise to out the houses and permit the people to be herded like cattle in the transportation systems. The authorities had no special precautions other than the suggesting that the theatres open at eight. A quarter past and half past instructed, to head off the rush at the usual eight-fifteen period, and in the same way, the line of business, as earlier or later than usual in an effort
To distribute the load over a longer period.

This was about the only precaution taken,
and yet, in proportion to the population,
New York came off rather light in spite of the congestion on the streets. In the transit systems, and even in the homes.

And New York newspapers did not play up the plague as the papers did in other sections. The shutdown was continued beyond real necessity, because of hysteria with the newspapers. Next time, keep that in mind, and work on your local editors, not to the point of defeating safety, but to prevent hysterical action.

Steve Stunts.

Steve Farrar sends in a page from the local paper to explain his fondness for cross page spaces. He explains that when he takes a three column space, the Grand horns in on the rest of the top-of-page position, giving the same display to both.

A Pair of Three-Column Spaces in Which Rival Houses Share the Position.
In the example, the Grand takes eights where Steve takes sevens. But by taking a cross page space Steve forces the opposition house, below the top, and sometimes to the bottom of the page, as shown in this example, where Steve has SHOWS what you want to see in Photoplays." Try it out.

McCormick Introduces.

Even the large houses which might be supposed to run on their own reputation find it desirable now and then to introduce a new star. S. Barret McCormick, of the Circle, Indianapolis, recently played Elsie Ferguson for the first time on his bills, and he took as much pains with her as though she were an unknown factor. One pair are respectively three and four sevens. These are given the same general treatment, but in one a linear border is used, with a double rule for the other, and in the latter the cut has been cropped to make room for the text. In the left-hand display, which is the Saturday space, the portion of the text under the star in the lower left-hand corner is an introduction of the star which runs into an announcement of other players to be seen at the house through the season.

The same idea is carried out in two larger spaces, a three sixteens for the Saturday and a four fifteens for the opening day. Both are good examples of the McCormick style of plenty of type mater. Much of it is devoted to Miss Fer-

A Four Sevens and Three Sevens Laid Out Along the Same Lines. Note the "Introduction" in the lower Left-Hand Corner.

A Pair of Advertisements in Which, by Doubling Its Space, One House Forces the Other to the Bottom.

six sevens and the Grand three, he gets the preferred position. Steve thinks, from his experience, that it pays to take the extra space and get off by himself, but the space rate is low, and he stands a better chance of breaking even on his displays. But Steve gets nice results with a pair of three nines shown here, which appeared in different issues. The Vitagraph cut comes out unusually well.

A Three Sixteens for Advance and Four Fifteens for the Opening Day. The Introduction Is Also Used Here.
"I'm Not a Dead One Yet!"

Said Cleopatra

As she gazed out on the multitude of admirers seeking admission to her crowded throne room at the Piccadilly last night.

"If Only Marc Antony Could See Me Now!"

And those soulful eyes of Egypt's Queen—eyes that made...

An Odd Border Effect Simply Obtained.

To Be Effective the Space Taken Should Be Narrow and Long.

At a pinch you can stand caps, letters on their heads and get the squares, if you leave the I box alone. To be effective, the space must be narrow and rather long. Mr. Shannon took several inches—winding up with a small line cut. It would probably look even better with italic boldface. He ran the film for an entire week, and got away with it, which is pretty good after the first week. Perhaps, or rather good for Mr. Shannon's ability to hustle.

Utica Advertising.

C. H. Carroll, of the Park, Utica, comes in about once a year, apparently. The Park is a double feature house, and that gives more trouble than one running a single feature and fillers, but Mr. Carroll does well with what he can get. Though he should sit on the printer's chest and persuade him to set some of the lines in smaller sizes so that the heads of the letters will be more easily read. Take this three sevens, for example. Here is a proposal that the use of a light letter gives a fair display to the titles and stars. It is all a bit crowded, but these two features and the fillers have to be presented, but where three-quarters of an inch is used for a comedy, we think it is time to make a suggestion to the title of the play rather than to remark that it is "Full of fun and action." It would probably sell better. Come on, this with the left hand display in the second out. Here the use of a bold face does not give as good a result as with the light line used on the right. We think, too, that a better effect could be gained in all of these displays by using an upper and lower case instead of all capitals. The text is better written than displayed. There is some selling talk for the features, and with a better display this talk would get over more strongly. It is not a case of taking more space, but getting a better display in the space at command. Two eights is plenty in which to advertise a single bill, even with two features, but the print must be cut down to cooperate with the advertiser, and it is hard even to get printers these days, let alone getting good. It would be well, however, to try marking the lines to be set in upper and lower, and then insist that the instructions be carried out. Merely marking copy will not always bring the result these days.

Overloading.

The Thumb Tack is a little folder gotten out by the Los Angeles commercial artists. In a recent issue Frank F. Green contributes to Overloading, in the course of which this appears:

Many ads are actually camouflaged (no term expresses it more accurately) by overloading. Art requires a knowledge of how and what to eliminate—rather than what to increase. Art and the printer must learn to sell the story more quickly, more forcefully, and more convincingly. Everybody is turning to newspaper advertising. If space for an ad message of 60 words is purchased and filled with 100 or more words, it is reduced to a mere background against which the ads of more practical managers stand forth and draw.

That says a lot. It is just as important to know what to put in as to know what to keep out, but often what is kept out counts for more than what is put in.

A good Lobby Idea.

Here is an attractive easel from the California Celebrations, San Francisco. It is good from two angles. In the first place it matches the trim of the lobby and fits into the scheme of things that would be quite effective.

A two cent and two eights. Note how the use of heavier type in the shorter display obscures the title.
a lot that has been used down there when they said animals didn't have their gas masks on' every one's gone west. There aint much "flu" around any more anyhow. All y'gotta do is be careful 'bout gettin' in water over yer hed an' sneezin' in a feller's face when he's tellin' y'somethin'.

Nils Malmo, an operator of West Fort Lee, N. J., very kindly sends in another Swedish advertisement to match the Douglas Fairbanks Bennie Ziehm advertisement recently sent in. The likeness is just as striking and is along the same lines, tire week at the house. Of course it was backed by good advertising displays. The lobby was decorated by the Fulberton, who quit the business to go into the foreign trade. We bet he busses that game wide open on that account.

Persistence.

A. C. Raleigh, of the American, Butte, Mont. takes up a good angle when he writes that he's been on the persistence of suggestion. He says:

"I enclose a couple, of "last day" ads, being rather typical of my last day stuff. I find that they bring good results. As a rule, I try to use the same kind of sign, or at least as alike as the one used the day before, on the supposition that if people miss seeing it the first time they at least get mental impression, and on the next day—or maybe the third day, they really look at it and get your message over. It is something like havin' a "nail in your shoe"—you may not see it particularly when it first appears, but from subconscious "appeal" it will finally fix your mind fully on that one nail.

My fourth-day stuff, as per enclosed samples, however, I have been changin'—to "his empty" sign. More or less unexpectedly, and as I said, with good results.

The fourth day has been eliminated from the schedule by a return to three changes a week, for it has been found that three days in a row for the town, but the suggestion still holds good. The fourth-day change is a type talk. The people should have 4 1/2 inches set into a three sixes, which leaves getting the children in and holding their interest. Get after them. It all helps. And you can let the kids take home the program for next week, after telling them in a little speech you can all about the coming shows. This helps their elders and be your press agents. Use them.

Refereed to Daniel.

Steve Farrar, in one of his recent daily columns:

And when we say "It's a special," we speak Webster's language. Look up the word in Webster's New International Dictionary.

About half the people will, and the other half will be too lazy to do so, but will just as much impressed. It works either way. Try it some time.

Results Count.

Good advertising may not always be pretty at all, but it draws the people in. That is what counts.

Be Individual.

No two men advertise alike. If they did, there would be little pull in advertising. But the man who does the best work is usually he who makes the most radical departure from the average.

Be Descriptive.

Be distinctive, even in little things. All it costs is care. If you have bill boards, give them a frame that can be recognised. Strive to help them in red, yellow, or purple, green, or any vivid contrasting colors. They may not be able to read the paper as far as they can see the boards, but each time they see your color combination they will think of you. Work the color scheme into your house front. Make it as much a part of your trademark as the house design or your slogan. Just keeping yourself in mind will make business for you. Have a slogan, a design and house colors and you have three points of contact instead of one.

Tell Your People.

If you have a comedy with a title that sounds like a drama or a drama with a comedy title, be particularly careful to announce that it is a comedy, or the reverse. Don't let a patron come into your house expecting the one thing and give him something else.

Keep It Going.

Don't let your "Yellow Dog" club die out. Have four an' tell 'em how much better it is than ever in the next twelve months. Keep it going.

A NEW HELP FOR MANAGERS

Picture Theatre Advertising

By EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

Conductor of Advertising for Exhibitors in the Western States

A TEXT BOOK AND A HANDBOOK, a compendium and a guide. It tells all about advertising from ideas and type-setting, printing and paper, how to run a house program, how to frame your newspaper advertisements, how to get matinee advertising. A set of ready-made schemes for weather and rainy days. All practical house it has been found is right here to help you. By mail, postpaid, $2.50. Order from nearest office.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

515 Fifth Ave, New York

Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill.

Wright & Callender Building, Los Angeles, Cal.
IT IS an established rule of this department that manufacturers or other goods will be endorsed or recommended editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its ed-tor.

Important Notice.
Owing to the mass of matter awaiting publication, it is very possible to slip through the department in less than two to three weeks. In order to give prompt service, therefore, we reserve the right to charge for special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in the department, or delayed.

Both the first and second sets of questions are now ready and printed in a neat booklet form, the second half is seven-six in number. Either booklet may be had by remitting 25 cents, money or stamps, to the editor, or both for 40 cents. Cannot use Canadian stamps. Every live, progressive operator should get a copy of these questions. You may be prised at the number you cannot answer without a lot of study.

Cleveland, Ohio.

While in Cleveland, I took occasion to visit a few of the many theatres, photoplay palaces and dubs housed contained in the "Sixth City of the United States." Oh, yes. Cleveland, like New York, has all three classes. It has a few beautiful palaces of the silent drama, it has a very good theatre and some of which the least said perhaps the better.

The first gum-shoe expedition was aimed at
The Strand, at a time when Projection-ist Carl J. Schweikert was on duty. The speed of projection while not quite as accurate as was fairly correct. The light was brilliant and the screen apparently evenly illuminated, but Brother Schweikert was not only once, but three or four times careless in the handling of his light, so that bad discoloration occurred. The theatre itself was well lighted, except that the side-light shades would be very distinctly improved if their color were green, blue or old rose; also the picture would, in my judgment, gain in several respects if its width were to some extent reduced. The black border does not come out to meet the picture, as it should. The organ light was completely hidden on the audience by an arabesque shape, which is indeed excellent. The Strand is a charmingly decorated theatre, and, aside from the now-shilling nickel in-ticket thing, I got OK from the projection viewport. I am sorry to be obliged to critize Brother Schweikert's handling of the light, but Friend Schweikert, brother with other Cleveland projectionists is now receiving 75 cents, and will, after January 1, receive $1 a seat per hour. This is geting up into the "real money" class, and Cleveland projectionists have absolutely no right to give anything in the way of carelessness in return. Good pay calls for consistently high-class work, not in some, but in every respect and not something for all the time. Seventy-five cents and 90 cents per hour and discolorations of light on the screen most emphatically do NOT cult and startling the motor. As soon as the arc length is reduced, thus lowering the arc voltage, the plunger drops, breaking the motor circuit and stopping the motor. The regulation is not as close as that of some other controllers, but is nevertheless very good. I can see no reason why the action could not be refined to give practically perfect results.

In the evening a party of us went out to view the new Stork Theatre, over on the West Side at Eighty-fifth and Loraine.
H. Relf is manager of The Stork, and you may take it from me. Friend Relf has something to be proud of. The Stork is a beautiful house, seating 216 on every floor.
The walls are in imitation of gray cut stone.
The ceiling is lofty and on the side walls are fourteen art panels, seven on either side. Admissions are 11 and 17 cents. The projection room is one which could hardly be improved upon. As far as its construction be concerned, with the single exception that the observation ports are smaller than is practical, it is as good as it can be. I have always been unable to understand why, in an otherwise perfect room, you will so often find observation ports of too small dimensions. The room has a lofty ceiling, and measures 15 feet square—perhaps more. The equipment auditorium lighting, Power's 6-B and two Hallow 20 Century motor generators. The screen is a Garden-Beswick screen. The floor, gallery and decorations were designed by the architect and all are to his specifications.

The projection department is in charge of Mr. William Swanson, who has been in the business for over ten years. He is a very good man in every respect, with a thorough knowledge of the business.

The Globe, at Thirty-Ninth and Cottage Grove Avenue, Chicago, where you always get good or nothing, is another of the good theatres.

At the Cameraphone I dropped in, said
"hello, howdy do and good-bye" to John Shafranek, projectionist. An old-time friend and a good man is John, he has one great fault; viz: he changes jobs too often.
He has only been in the Cameraphone six years—or is it seven? Wanted to see Man-gus McGowan, also an old-time friend.
The editor ran the projectors in William Swanson's theatre, Thirty-Ninth street and Cottage Grove Avenue, Chicago, when he was manager of that house over ten to fifteen years ago. McGowan was, however, absent and not on the call, and we didn't connect.

At the Miles, the equipment auditorium lighting, picture size and screen setting were in evidence; also the picture light was brilliant and well handled and the screen was approximately correct, but the projection room is very, very bad, indeed. In the first place, it was not centered to a high gallery, with a projection angle of about 20 degrees. I would respectfully call the attention of the management to the fact that the Society of Motion Picture Engineers has condemned any projection angle greater than 12 degrees. By his projection room location he is stretching out the shadow forms of the artists who ap-ppear upon his screen, causing them to be taller than they really are, without any representative increase in breadth of parts of their anatomy at top of screen, but with full increase for such parts as may be at the bottom thereof. The practical effect is to cause artists to appear abnormally tall and thin when they come down stage.
Rather an outrageous thing to do to Mary
Pickford, or to any of the rest of us,
I am not thinking of. For the projection room is in charge at the time of my visit G. M. Canfield, a good man, by the way, is leaving Chicago to live in St. Louis. "We can't and won't stand this any longer," said. Here is what I found:

Consider it well. The room itself is, when size and importance of theatre is considered, approximately a large bath room and has been done, as regards the installation, without apparently the slightest regard of the convention of size and importance therein. For instance: a new switch box or was it a fuse box, has been installed in an angle of the wall just at the rear of

Projection Department

Conducted by F. H. RICHARDSON
one of the projectors. This could just as well, by a little addition of work, have been entirely out of the way, and at the same time just as accessible. Instead, it has been placed in an upper storey and is entirely out of the way, looking down. There is barely room for the projectionist to pass between the switch box and machine. Dotted lines show where switch box should be. The thing serves as a continuous fire insurance and venience for the men. It is utterly without legitimate excuse. But this is a mere bugbear. The real fact is, the large rheostats, delivering, so Projectionist Canfield said, close to 90 amperes D.C. from a 250 horsepower motor, there is a fan vent flue and an exhaust fan, but notwithstanding the smallness of the room, things are as tight as it is possible, at the top of the gallery, the very warmest part of the house, and those heat-producing rheostats, the exhaust cannot only be not running, but was, according to Canfield’s statement, entirely disconnected; also the vent flue damper was closed tight. Sampling the heat, I looked about at once for the vent flue, and said: “P00, you’re just roasting us that! You’re roast alive!” “Against orders,” said he. “W-what?” I rather stammered, in answer to the sudden realization issued this morning to keep the vent flue damper closed. Said too many conditions that there is a grave fault existing, for the observation ports are mere exaggerated knot-holes in the floor of the gallery square. When I arrived, and while I was present the room door, which opens directly into the auditorium, stood open. It had to be, for there was not one inch of room inside the room at all. With those rheostats inside, and vent flue closed, no man could stand in that room with the door closed for any length of time. “I’m quitting,” said Canfield. “I’ve had enough under impossible conditions.” And who can blame him?

But what is local union 160 doing that it cannot work in such highly dangerous conditions? What is going to happen if a fire occurs in that room? Will the audience be unprotected by impossible conditions? I am asking these question of Local 160 and of the management of the house. I am asking that the Cleveland authorities must be either dead or sleeping. If the Miles management of the Majestic has not misstated or exaggerated anything I will most cheerfully make every possible apology. However, I venture the assertion I can prove every statement, and prove it. It is most unpleasant to thus caustically criticise a theatre, but we owe a duty to the projectionist, to the public, to the motion picture industry and the earning theatre itself, and that duty compels the criticism.

Dinner and Lecture.

While in Cleveland I was informed that a portion of the projectionists of the city would entertain us to a dinner and a lecture. A dinner was arranged at the Olmstead Hotel at 11 p.m. Friday, November 22, at which I was present, to the bulk of the progressive element of the projectionists of the city, as well as Will C. Smith, general manager of Nichols Piano that damper cannot be responsible for starting a picture out of frame. Very crude, gentlemen, very crude. Due do the heating and lighting is in urgent need of attention. Both the bright side lights and clock are bad. But I might add that the 769th Shatterers of the Majestic, the auditorium lighting needs attention. The White Light is a pretty little house, showing a £5000-£50000, £50000 showing projection room is, I was told, very badly crowded, though that cannot be remedied. The projector room, the Majestic, the projection room is well located, but absurdly small—about seven feet wide by six feet. Its manager, Mr. Partello, agreed to be present at the meeting, later, but was not.

The Majestic is in Mansfield’s motion picture theatre de luxe, located at 111 North Main, a pleasantly produced, commodious house, seating 500, located on one floor. The Majestic auditorium lighting was designed by Mr. Partello, based upon, from the practical projection viewpoint. There is ample light to enable the audience to find seats, and the light is visible to the eye of the audience, nor is any light, except that at the organ, any point where the audience is. In the light is at the left of the screen and diagonal to it. Its subdued light is almost invisible to the audience. The majestic projection room is located on one floor.

Mansfield, Ohio.

Learning that we intended visiting Canfield, Ohio, Mr. Canfield, Ohio, wrote, asking if we would not extend the trip to include Mansfield, and added that it was upon our favorite subject. And so it came about that we chambered off the train in Mansfield, to see what was going on. Shelby, Ohio.

Mansfield is a charming little city of 30,000 folks. It boasts seven theatres, all of them of unusual times, but times are far from normal yet now, for on top of war worries came the “fire.” The local Union 160, in vain, scare, followed by what some think an utterlysenseless closing order, which darkened the heathen faces of the saloons, the saloons ran wide open, “playing” to crowded houses. Of course, it is quite a thing to have two theatres shut down than to crowd up against a bar where in course of an hour a dozen different men come into the bar with their wives, with only a perfunctory rasing of the same between drinks. Of course it is—NOT.

Most of Mansfield theatres are of the rapidly vanishing “storeroom” type, though there are notable exceptions and the storeroom theatres are, in many ways, a cheaper enterprise than of that type in their appointments. I visited the Grand, where Projectionist H. Botello and his assistants have recently re-sults an friend manager has any right to expect with six-year-old American Standard projectors. H. L. Straul is projectionist at the Park. Screen results good. For a storeroom theatre the Park projection room is very good; also its equipment is excellent. There is a steel clothes locker for the projectionist, a neat chest for his tools, a seat to rest on and neat as the proverbial new pin. The Royal started its picture out of frame; also the traffic can not be responsible for it. Two minutes, though I was later informed there was trouble with the motor generator, but it is, the traffic cannot be responsible for starting a picture out of frame. Very crude, gentlemen, very crude.

Shelby, Ohio.

The men of Shelby exacted a promise that we would stop off in their town on our way back to Cleveland. We are well repaid for that promise. We were entertained in a theatre which would do credit to a city many times the size of Shelby; also we did not need to suffer any of the jingle of the theatre.

Shelby has only 5,000 population, yet she has two motion picture theatres with a seating capacity each of 500, one of them. The Opera House auditorium is up one flight of stairs. It seats 565, is managed by Allister. Mr. Smith, of the Sutro projection room, said: “We have a fair projection room. Screen results good. The day I was there, were good. The screen sets at the right stage, the space from its edge to proscenium being filled with black wall of dead back. This ought to be relieved by rows of artistically arranged panels of black cloth, or some pots of bloom on either side, or something of that sort. As it now it the thing looks too raw and crude when the lights are on.
A new man has just assumed the office of projectionist. I would suggest that his very first job be to accumulate a good supply of graphite and proceed to dirty them on the projection equipment.

The other house, the Castamba, owned and managed with Castamba and Stambaugh, was erected at a cost of $35,000. It has a neat red tapestry brick front, the rest of the building being of cast and sheet metal. It is thoroughly fireproof; also it is as modern and pretty an auditorium as one will find in the state. The house seats 550 comfortably.

The projection room is readily accessible by means of an iron stairway and is reached by an iron platform and thoroughly fireproof. R. E. Horn is projectionist. Friend Horn is a student of his business. He has, as the kit of large knives, to use them. He has order from the Nicholas Power Company and has installed revolving shutters split at an angle. He has his revolving shutters at the plane of the aerial image of the revolving shutter, 18 inches from the aperture, and says the benefit derived by the change has far more than justified its cost. Friend Horn has promised me a complete description of the same, and hence I will not say more now. My compliments to the Castamba management for their good sense in acquiring courage to erect a theatre of that type in a town of 5,000, and I do hope that the Castamba will succeed.

Castor and Stambaugh have done their part in putting in the plant and securing the best projectionist available.

Peach of a Souvenir.

The Westinghouse Electric Corporation presented each member of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers attending the Cleveland meeting with a Westinghouse and Stambaugh's excellent souvenir in the form of a silver magazine lead pencil of high grade. There is no doubt that this will be a very useful and quickly valuable souvenir, as its model "W" on the end of the pencil, under which is, in microscopic letters, the words "Westinghouse Electric," is surely quite permissible when one considers the value of the article.

Next Meeting in Philadelphia.

Owing to abnormal right-after-the-war conditions there was no contest in evidence on the merits of any of the speakers of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers. Mr. Thomas C. Richardson, who has a great reputation in that city for open-handed hospitality, and that Lewis Schwab and the Philadelphia branch of the Society, would welcome us to the City of Brotherly Scraps with open arms.

The programme already promises to be one of the 'best ever held, and the last one was anything else under heaven than slack. The papers submitted at the Cleveland meeting will prove to be of inestimable benefit to the industry. The Society of Motion Picture Engineers has already, in its brief span of life, more than proven its right to a place in the sun.

All this is not to say, however, that the editor differs with C. Francis Jenkins in many things, and on many points, it must be freely conceded that the Society's emphasis on its own initiative, called the first meeting in New York City, and that itself hostile to the perfections of which he is the father and first President. I am not so sure that the Jenkins seems now to be on a firm footing. It can only be wrecked by the most gross mismanagement, and that will not be the case, I am sure, unless there is a real lack of usefulness before it. More power to it, and may it live to see those great names high alms its sponsors see in the future.

Cleaving Tension Springs.

John R. Lavenburg, Linneus, Mo., complains: "Have a great deal of trouble with a hard deposit gathering on my tension shoes. Scrape off with my knife every evening after work, but it gathers again quickly and seems to grow."

The deposit is a combination of emulsion, film cement (probably mostly the latter), and an emulsion very much like a solution of photographic films in such a small town and dirt. It not only will not remove the "jump," but causes serious injury to the filter itself. Never clean tension shoes with a knife, always brush the tension, the tool by so doing you are apt to roughen the polished surface of the shoe, and thus make the "jump." A silver coin is an excellent implement to use, but an old toothbrush handle, broken off near the bristles, with a cutting edge with a file is preferred by some. Apply a water to the deposit will soften it very quickly and facilitate its removal.

Think's It Foolish.

Herman Untermyer Von Schalk, Boston, Mass., arises to voice the following criticism: "I want to put in a word with regard to that proposition of the -projectionist. In my opinion it is a foolish and meaningless word; also it does not suggest the nature of the work. I am engaged in the business under the various titles of "projectionist," whereupon there was a lot of explaining to do. True, it is fine to have the words "projectionist," I don't believe Projectionist is the word. In my opinion the title Moving Picture Projector Machine is not only possibly the title Picture Projector, because they suggest the nature of the work. You seek to differentiate between "operator" and "projectionist." That don't go. In my opinion it is wrong. There is no question in my mind but that you men have always meant right; also may the good work of our department go on without such a thing as the title projector is a misfit and no good. I have talked to a great many managers and operators about this, and all have said something about the same thing. Your argument with regard to there being many different men engaged in the projectionist, that is not also true that the soldier projects bullets, the firemen project water, etc. Why, then, call it anything but a projectionist? (The point is that we don't. There would be just one profession, or trade carrying the title, whereas the projectionist is carrying the title operator.) I understand your intent in seeking to change the right, Brother Richardson, as you have almost always meant right; also may the good work of our department go on without such a thing. I think the title projector is always a misfit and no good."

I have talked to a great many managers and operators about this, and all have said something about the same thing. Your argument with regard to there being many different men engaged in the projectionist, that is not also true that the soldier projects bullets, the firemen project water, etc. Why, then, call it anything but a projectionist? (The point is that we don't. There would be just one profession, or trade carrying the title, whereas the projectionist is carrying the title operator.) I understand your intent in seeking to change the right, Brother Richardson, as you have almost always meant right; also may the good work of our department go on without such a thing. I think the title projector is always a misfit and no good."

Projection Experience

MOVIE CENTURY

HANDBOOK

For Managers and Operators

By P. H. RICHARDSON

The reorganized standard book on the work of projection. Complete descriptions and instructions on all feeding machines and projection equipment. This book is the result of many years' experience in which this carefully compiled book will not save its purchase price each month.

Buy It Today $1.00, postpaid

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

151 Fifth Avenue, New York City

Schlifer Building, Chicago, Ill.
Wright & Coleman Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.
To save time, order from nearest office.

Damaged Film and Reason Therefor.

J. B. T. Talcott, Pittsburg, Tenn., hands us samples of damaged film, with request for opinion as to reasons thereof.

The damage consists of what might be described as a fading of the image or photograph, with or without spots. G. S. Cohen, editor Universal Animated Weekly, Screen Magazine and Current Events, who says he can sometimes find a reason for the same, adds that he is always sensitive to having been intimately connected with their handling for many years. He tells us that the repairs are not exclusive: "Just looked over samples of film you asked me to report upon. I found that the oil, paint, or other coloring stuff had collected on one side and all over the film. Also that it was necessary to remove the oil or some other fluid, which has caused the emulsion to soften. I find that probably in polishing or revolving the film the roll was put on backward and has removed a portion of the emulsion."
Music for the Picture

Conducted by GEORGE W. BEYNON

The Musical Alliance Calls for Your Support and Earnest Co-operation

THE annual meeting of the Musical Alliance of the United States was held at its offices, 501 Fifth Avenue, New York, on Tuesday afternoon, November 19.

Before presenting the annual report, John C. Freund, the president, reminded the members that the Alliance was duly incorporated on October 29 of last year, under the laws of the State of New York, as a friendly organization—not for profit.

He recalled the events which led to the formation of the Alliance and showed that the idea of such an organization was the result of nearly half a century of experience in the musical world. It was more particularly the outcome of experiences that he had encountered in the last six years while traveling all over the country delivering addresses, calling attention to the progress the United States has made in musical knowledge and culture.

Some startling facts were brought to light in his masterly address. America spends for music in all its forms $600,000,000 per annum. Yet, in spite of this purchasing power, no central organization exists for musical people. American artists have always looked to Europe for their training and felt without the hallmark of Germany their voices could command no respect at home. Mr. Freund has taught that idea for many years, both in his lectures and through the Musical America, of which he is the editor. He has contended that there are good vocal instructors in the United States and no real necessity that has existed for foreign culture.

Thus, at no small personal expense, Mr. Freund launched the Musical Alliance, an organization for the betterment of musicians and musical conditions. It was founded to unite all interested in music and musical industries for certain specific aims.

Briefly, the Alliance demands full recognition of music and musicians as a vital factor in national, civic and home life. It desires that music be introduced into the public schools, with proper instruction. It demands that there be good vocal instructors in the United States and no real necessity that has existed for foreign culture.

Thus, at no small personal expense, Mr. Freund launched the Musical Alliance, an organization for the betterment of musicians and musical conditions. It was founded to unite all interested in music and musical industries for certain specific aims.

Through the activities of the Alliance, the press everywhere have given music more consideration than ever before.

The Alliance, furthermore, has been of considerable service to those engaged in getting up community choruses in various parts of the country. It has furnished plan and scope to those who are interested. Acknowledgment has been made for the great assistance which it has given to the section of the War Department engaged in providing singing leaders and music in the military camps.

The Musical Alliance has been instrumental in obtaining for the people of New York a large and appropriate series of parks and that which has been productive of good. Mayor Preston, of Baltimore, has appointed a director of municipal music, and that city of the south is rightfully proud of its musical prowess.

Another movement with which the Alliance has been identified and which is also gaining strength, is the recognition of talent, not because it is American, German, or French, or bears a foreign hallmark, but because of its merit. It likewise insists that in this country we shall have in our music what we put into our constitution, "that there shall be no prejudice on account of race, religion or previous condition of servitude."

The educational idea of the Alliance is not to develop the composer, but to create a condition of the public mind where people will be willing to accept a composer and not turn him down just because he happened to be called "American." The plea is not that anyone shall be recognized because he is American, but that he shall not be discriminated against for that reason.

Another plea is that music shall receive recognition in the national Government. Nothing can give the world outside a better and stronger idea that we are something besides dollar-grabbers, commercialists, interested in commerce and industry, than the fact that we do recognize the value of music, art and literature, and give the arts representation in the national Government.

Many things remain to be done and cooperation is solicited from all quarters more than ever before. The large number of picture players—48,000 musicians—must do their part in firmly establishing as a National institution, the Musical Alliance of the United States. Send in your name, accompanied by a crisp one dollar bill, to Milton Well, the secretary, and he will enroll you as a member. America is practically the only country of any importance in the world that has not its Minister of Fine Arts. How long are you going to allow this to continue?

Exhibitors Mutual Provide Music Score.

Robertson-Cole Company have the right idea regarding music for the pictures. For Martin Johnson's 'Cannibals of the South Seas' released by the Exhibitors' Mutual Distributing Corporation, they have provided a special score. These scores are available at all their exchanges and every exhibitor booking this wonderful film may rest assured that suitable musical atmosphere will surround the beautiful scenes of the islands of the Southern Pacific.

Martin Johnson personally supervised the setting, and from him were obtained many original melodies which had been composed for the trip during his sojourn among these strange people. These themes are properly orchestrated in an ultra modern manner befitting the characteristic atmosphere.

The dance of the married woman upon the island of Vao is seen true to life and the flute and sand block accompaniment is claimed to be most realistic.

Savage music alone will hold the atmosphere and little resort is made to Oriental numbers. No exhibitor can afford to be without this musical service.
“Branding Broadway.”

 Released by Artcraft—Five Reels, Prepared by George W. Beynon.

THEME
1. AT SCREENING—Unnecessary. 1 min. 30 sec. Winkler
2. T. MR. ROBERT SANDS—Stampede. 3 min. Allegro. Simmons
3. T. THE LAW AND ORDER LEAGUE—Crown Diamonds. 3 min. 30 sec. Aubert
4. T. SToppING FOR THE ONLY THING—Intermezzo. 1 min. 30 sec. Grandes
5. T. MR. LARRY HARRINGTON—Agitate. 1 min. 30 sec. Andino
6. T. I QUIT—Intermezzo. 1 min. Huerter
7. T. VEI, MUCH A STRANGER.—Hollaender. 1 min. 30 sec. Cohen
8. T. THE HOME OF LARRY.—In Springtime. 1 min. 30 sec. Moderate
9. T. HERE’S A NEW GUARDIAN. Scenes Bohemian. 1 min. Moderate.
10. T. THE GRIP OF CONVENTION—Castanetta. 1 min. 30 sec. Minot
11. D. CABARET—Sinbad. 1 min. 30 sec. Romberg
12. T. TWO HOURS—Romantique Overture. 1 min. 30 sec. Klier Bela
13. T. I'M HIS NURSE.—Madrice and Valse Lento. 1 min. 30 sec. Wagner
14. T. AT THE WHEAT CAKE.—The Spirit of Love. 3 min. Allegretto. Huerter
15. T. GOOD-NIGHT, MISS.—At Sunset. 1 min. Moderate. Brewer
17. T. THE OFFICIAL DEPARTURE No. ONE But You. 1 min. Moderate (from Sometime).
18. T. ACCORDING TO THE CODE.—Butterfly. 1 min. Moderate.
19. T. HERE IT IS AGAIN.—Mistress. 1 min. Minot
20. D. DETECTIVES LEAVE.—A Vineyard Idyll. 1 min. 30 sec. Didier
21. T. NEAR DAWN—Dramatic Tension. 1 min. 30 sec. Andino
22. T. I’VE GOT A FRIEND.—Clair de Lune. 1 min. Moderate.
23. T. TOMORROW YOU'LL BE.—Dramatic Andante. 1 min. 30 sec. Borch
24. D. MRS. LU ENTERS HER ROOM.—En Mer. 1 min. 30 sec. Holmes
25. T. OH THANK YOU.—Sparkleits. 1 min. Moderate.
26. T. BUT HE DID.—Gallop. 1 min. 30 sec. Minot
27. T. HERE ARE THE LETTERS.—Cavatina. 1 min. Moderate.
29. MECHANIcAL REMARKS—Strongly mark the contrast between East and West.

“Hell Cat, The.”

 Released by Goldwyn—Five Reels, Prepared by M. Winkler.

LOVE THEME—Bleeding Heart. 1 min. Allegro. Levy
HALL CAT THEME—Dramatic Redativa. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
1. AT SCREENING—Wild and Wooly. 1 min. Minot
2. T. PANCHITA OBIEN.—HELL CAT THEME. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
3. T. NAMED FAR AND WIDE.—La Paloma. 1 min. Yradel
4. T. DANIEL OBIEN RUNNING.—Continue to action. 1 min. 30 sec.
5. T. JACK WEBB, SHERIFF.—Birds and Butterflies. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
6. T. FOUR MORE DEAD SHEEP.—HELL CAT THEME. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
7. T. BIG JIM DYKE. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
8. T. DYKE THERE'S BEEN.—Agitate Apassionato. 1 min. 30 sec. Borch
9. T. JIM DYKE'S OUTFIT.—Indian Love Song. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
10. T. THE DRUNKEN FLAMING.—Continue ff. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
11. T. FORE SHORE RUNNING.—Appassionata No. 40. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
12. T. WHILE AT THE OBIEN.—Sinister Theme. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
13. T. YOU COWARDLY CURS.—Continue ff. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy

15. T. HELLO, PANCHITA!—HELL CAT THEME. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
16. T. LOVE AND DUTY.—Hurry. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
17. T. I'M LOOKING THROUGH.—Half Reel Hurry. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
18. T. DO YOU THINK I KNOW?—Continue pp. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
19. T. WHILE THE SHERIFF.—Half Reel Furioso. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
20. T. YOU'VE GONE TOO FAR.—Erie King. 1 min. 30 sec. Schubert
21. T. CLOSE-UP OF JIM.—Heart Wounds. 1 min. 30 sec. Gregor
22. T. AND THE RANCH HOUSE.—Continue ff. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
23. T. WHY THAT GIRL HERE.—Tragic Theme. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
24. T. YOU'RE A FOOL TO FIGHT.—HELL CAT THEME. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
25. T. PANCHITA IN CELLAR.—Dramatic Tension. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
26. T. PANCHITA GETTING OUT.—HELL CAT THEME. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
27. T. THE PRIMITIVE JEALOUSY.—Indian Mysterioso. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
28. T. "ABOUT TIME THAT DYKE". 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
29. T. A DAY.—Bustle of Spring. 1 min. 30 sec. Stedlah
30. T. SHEEP GIRL SHE SAY.—Continue pp. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
31. T. HE MURDERED MY FATHER.—LOVE THEME. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
32. T. CHARACTER.—Dramatic Atmosphere. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
33. MECHANIcAL EFFECTS.—Pastoral. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
34. SPECIAL EFFECTS.—Vocal Solo with Guitar. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy

“One Woman, The.”

 Released by Select—Five Reels, Prepared by M. Winkler.

THEME—Symphonette Suite (In four parts)
1. AT SCREENING. 1 min. 30 sec. Langsy
2. 1 min. 30 sec. Langsy
3. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
4. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
5. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
6. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
7. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
8. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
9. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
10. T. I AM WORRIED ABOUT.—Continue pp. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
11. T. THE CRISIS.—Dramatic Tension No. 67. 1 min. 30 sec. Shepherd
12. T. I TELL YOU ONCE FOR ALL.—Continue pp. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
13. T. THE GUNFIGHTER'S HOLY.—THEME. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
14. T. AFTER THE STORM.—Serenade. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
15. T. DO YOU THINK I THOUGHT?—Continue ff. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
16. T. THE POISONOUS DOCTRINES.—THEME. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
17. T. I HAVE LIVED FOR YOU.—Adagio Cantabile. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
18. T. THE CONSECRATION OF.—Heraldode. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
19. T. INSOMNIA.—THEME. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
20. T. ESTABLISHED IN KATE'S.—Continue pp. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
21. T. THE GOVERNOR CALLS.—Dramatic Fantasia. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
22. T. YOU MEAN TO APPLY.—THEME. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
23. T. WITH THE PASSAGE OF.—Continue to action. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
24. T. THESE RESOLUTIONS.—THEME. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy
25. T. THE BROTHERHOOD OF MEN.—Tragic Theme. 1 min. 30 sec. Levy

December 21, 1918

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD
Astor Showing and pre-release in Toronto proved value of this splendid score.

There is little Savage Music Available. The Musical Score from Martin Johnson's "Cannibals of the South Seas" contains the real music of the aborigine.

The music is perfectly synchronized, Eminently suitable. Practical for any combination Organ or Piano Solo. Easy to play.

Handsomely printed in book form of standard music size. Available at any of the 29 exchanges of the EXHIBITORS MUTUAL DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION in the United States and Canada at 50 cents per day.

For any further information address George W. Beynon 505 Fifth Avenue. New York City.
The War Is Over

We should now sing of our heroes, and we offer for your national the song that typifies the national feeling of triumph.

Our Rainbow Soldier Boys

Written For, and Dedicated To, the Rainbow Division Words and Music by

BETTY TILLOTSON

Read the words and rejoice with us in the wonderful sentiment that they express.

Your boy will be singing the song when he comes home; why not be prepared to join him in the chorus:

"We are all mighty glad to meet you,
Our Rainbow soldier boys,
We are so mighty glad to see you;
You fill our hearts with joy.
When we saw the train go,
We pinched ourselves to see it was true.
We're all mighty proud of you,
Our Rainbow soldier boys."

Buy it for 25 cents a copy from your Music Dealer or Astoria Publishing Company
505 Fifth Ave., New York

"Price of Victory" Poorly Presented.

Sunday, December 8, there was presented at the 44th Street Theatre by the Arrow Film Company a picture called "The Price of Victory," the same being a pictorial review of the prominent part played in the war by the Dutch of Indonesia.

The orchestra opened the performance by playing "God Save the King," "The Marsellaise" and "The Star Spangled Banner." After the chairman had extolled the virtues of Britain and her colonies, Captain Tupper, chief organizer of the Mercantile seaman's Union, of England, was introduced.

His address was eloquent and in fine taste. He appealed to America to back up the recent pledge of his union, viz.: That for seven years no German may be allowed to work on English vessels, no German cargo be handled by English seamen, and the flag of the Union receive no salute from the union. He produced indisputable evidence of the perfidy of the Germans, and convinced his audience that the step was justifiable from every standpoint.

Dr. Girdwood was then introduced as the Canadian who had photographed the film called "The Price of Victory." After a short explanatory speech of patriotic favor, the picture was screened.

There is no question regarding the merits of the feature. It has much educational value, and is intensely interesting. We wish we could praise the music in like manner; but, alas, for the efforts of amateurs! Remember that the picture deals with the East Indians, and although the location is in France, Orientalism predominates at all times.

while in this country. He has in his possession, however, a revision of his first piano concerto, which he obtained in Copenhagen through the courtesy of the Swedish Minister to the Empress, in the composition being one of his early works and not entirely satisfy him, so he is revising the orchestration and the present version is only a part. Only a week before the outbreak of the war, M. Rachmaninoff sent the final revised proofs of his "Symphony No. 2" to Leipzig, where practically all Russian music has always been printed, and he has never heard anything of its progress since. Now that peace has come, he hopes eventually to recover it.

He says: "Now Russia is free from the Germans, who were really the power behind the Bolsheviki, my poor country will soon come upon its feet, and none of us ever be sufficiently grateful to your nation and its magnificent President."

"Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep."

Whenever a bass singer wins enough applause to warrant an encore, and he re-appears—we find ourselves thinking, "Now he will sing it all in the Cradle of the Deep." We are seldom disappointed.

Mrs. Emma Hart Willard, the writer of the song, who was a native of En-land, being born in Berlin, Connecticut, in 1836. She was of seventeen children, but the five girls were the brain gymnastics and parents of superior mental positions. Remarkable from earliest girlhood, she became a woman and famous as an educator extended throughout the world.

Her talent as an author—and she had to credit many books on a diversity of subjects—was only an incidental sideline in her busy life. She was primarily identified with the educational women, and con secrated her life to the intellectual uplift of her sex with a singleness of purpose that precluded the possibility of any other interests.

Returning from a European trip which she made in 1830, she walked the deck of the boat one morning as the waves played on the sides of the vessel. Turning towards the Duke De Choiseul, who was one of her party, she dreamily said: "Rocked in the cradle of the deep, I lay me down in peace to sleep."

The words spoken so sentimentally appealed to him as being worthy of preservation. He, accordingly, urged Mrs. Willard to write a poem which she did. She sent it two lines she had just repeated, and promised more. She wrote them, and he would set them to music. She went into her own room, and in a few minutes had written the words of the song that has since been composed by a chorus and the "Cradle of the Deep" is in no sense an American song.

The words of this little poem have been so long associated with the name of Mrs. Willard that few of us have questioned the origin. But the National Dictionary of Autobiography gives credit to Thomas Noel, a poet, who was practically a contemporary of Mrs. Willard in 1799. This gentleman had to his credit several pastoral rhymes. If the Noel claim were admitted, the song "Cradle of the Deep" is in no sense an American song.

Sometime later, John Philip Knight, an Englishman by birth, wrote the music for the poem which we are familiar, and the little song was launched on its popular and perennial journey. The history of how the music spent several years in America, both as a teacher of music in New York and London, in the hands of the constructor in Mrs. Willard's Female Seminary in Troy, New York. Unfortunately, Mrs. Willard's tenure of office was disdained and hurriedly left the country, disgraced in the eyes of her former friends. However, the old woman have perpetrated their names with the masses not for what their lives signified, but for the flash and little ballad which meant but a trifle to either of them. Such is the potecy of song.

WE FURNISH
Musical Service
High-Grade Printing
Legible Copying
Fine Autographing

Musical Scores
Pasted and Printed

MUSICAL NUMBERS ARRANGED
for Band or Orchestra

CALL, WRITE OR PHONE

CHARLES GREINERT
306 West 48th Street  New York

FOR THREE OF THE FINEST CLASSICS

POSTPAID

BLEEDING HEARTS
A Beautifully Pathetic Tone Poem of Heart Interest
By SOL. P. LEVY
Engraved and Published in Concert Size

BIRDS and BUTTERFLIES
An Original Concert Composition of Novelty and Charm
That Suggests the Joy of a Cloudless Summer's Day
By PAUL VELY

HUNKATIN
The Only Characteristic Original and Amusing
Half Tone Intermezzo One-Step Ever Published
By SOL. P. LEVY

ALL THREE for Full Orchestra, $1.50.
ALL THREE for Piano Solo, 50c.

BELWIN
INC.
MUSIC PUBLISHERS AND DEALERS
701 SEVENTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY

---

Mam'selle Caprice  Leaders Write for These  Moonlight Shadows
Beautiful Intermezzo  Two delightful numbers by Maurice Baron.  Sensational Waltz
Special for one month 11 & Piano, 20c Each.

THE CHANNON MUSIC COMPANY  -  701 Seventh Ave., New York

---

SEND IN YOUR SUBSCRIPTION NOW
FOR
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD
presenting
MUSIC FOR THE PICTURES
A Real Music Service to the Leader

CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO.
516 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK

---

THE WORLD'S STANDARD THEATRE ORGANS

Unified Theatre Organs

SEEBURG Automatic Pipe Organs

J.P. SEEBURG PIANO CO. REPUBLIC BLDG. CHICAGO SOCIETY SENSATION A

Released by Universal—Five Reels.
Prepared by J. C. Bradford.

THEME—Smiles

1. AT SCREENING
2. BE NICE TO HER, JIM
3. CAPTAIN JENKS RETURNS
4. IN SAN DIEGO
5. CAPTAIN AND LAWYER
6. MRS. JONES AT GATE
7. AFTER WEEKS OF
8. RICHARD BRADLEY
9. CRAMPS
10. THAT WAS MRS. BRADLEY'S
11. CAPTAIN CLOSE UP
12. RICHARD AND SYDNEY
13. A PEREMPTORY DEMAND
14. TO HELP THE BOYS IN
15. AS THE MEETINGS
16. MOITH ON STEPS
17. THE END OF DREAMS

D. MEN LEAVE VAN DORN

THEME

1 min. 30 sec.
2 min.
9 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.

SOCIETY SENSATION A

Released by Universal—Five Reels.
Prepared by J. C. Bradford.

THEME—Smiles

1. AT SCREENING
2. BE NICE TO HER, JIM
3. CAPTAIN JENKS RETURNS
4. IN SAN DIEGO
5. CAPTAIN AND LAWYER
6. MRS. JONES AT GATE
7. AFTER WEEKS OF
8. RICHARD BRADLEY
9. CRAMPS
10. THAT WAS MRS. BRADLEY'S
11. CAPTAIN CLOSE UP
12. RICHARD AND SYDNEY
13. A PEREMPTORY DEMAND
14. TO HELP THE BOYS IN
15. AS THE MEETINGS
16. MOITH ON STEPS
17. THE END OF DREAMS

D. MEN LEAVE VAN DORN

THEME

1 min. 30 sec.
2 min.
9 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
2 min.
December 21, 1918

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

1351

"Under the Greenwood Tree."

Released by Artcraft—Five Reels.
Prepared by J. C. Bradford.

THEME—Under the Greenwood Tree.—Old English Ballad.—Arno

1. AT SCREENING.—THEME 45 sec.

2. T. MARY HAD ONE TRUE FRIEND.—Sleeping Rose.—Borch

3. THE OLD FAMILY LAWYER.—Intermezzo.—Huerter

4. T. AND TURN MY MERRY.—Carrousel Annette.—Borch 2 min. 30 sec.

5. THE ONLY MAN IN THE.—Continue pp.

6. T. THE CASTILLO.—Babillage

7. D. FREEZE EXISTED.—Gypsy Serenade.—Jercuits

8. B. IN A MIND.—Tempo de Valse.—Borch

9. T. MARY'S NEW PLAN.—Impish Elves—Borch

10. T. NEXT DAY MARY.—THEME

11. T. I NEED A STICKING.—Comedy Allegro—Berg

12. T. YOU SEE WHAT YOUR.—THEME

13. T. WHEN THE APACHES.—Tempo di Valse.—Lehar

15. T. CAN'T GET HER AND THE.—THEME

16. T. THERE IS ONE THING.—Babilage—Castillo

17. T. AND NOW I'VE MADE.—Sinister Theme—Vely

18. D. LORD FIGHTING THE APACHES.—Hurry No. 2.—Levy

19. T. WITH REVERED CALM.—Valse Moderato—Roosey

20. T. I AM THAT VERY POOR.—THEME 2 min.

21. T. THERE ARE WIVES AND.—Legend of a Rose.—Reynard

22. T. IN WAR-TIME.—First Move, Ballet Egyptian—Lutzius

23. T. AND THE MARKET.—Dramatic Tension No. 9—Berg

24. T. WITHIN THE HOUR.—The Wishing Hour.—Zameck

25. T. ANNE, OLD GIRL.—Dramatic Tension No. 9—Berg

26. T. THE RUIN OF HIS.—Yesterlove—Borch

27. T. IN A BEAVERSORE.—Second Move, Ballet Egyptian—Lutzius

28. T. HONESTLY, NICHOLAS WANTS.—Florindo—Burgess

29. T. SEES OURSEES ESMEE.—Impish Elves—Borch

30. T. ESME HISH TART.—Serenade—Rubenstein

31. T. WHEN NICHOLAS IS.—Dramatic Tension No. 44—Berg

32. T. A JUG OF WINE.—Reve d'Amour.—Zameck

33. T. WOULD ANNE WAKE.—Walls—Tschaikowsky

34. T. LEAVE THEM ALONE.—Tears—Zameck

"Wildcat of Paris, The."

Released by Universal.
Prepared by J. C. Bradford.

THEME—Pretty Edwina.—Tempo di Valse.—Lehar

1. AT SCREENING.—THEME 45 sec.

2. T. THE APACHES.—Tempo di Valse.—Borch

3. T. THE DOOR WAS LOCKED.—Hurry No. 26.—Minot

4. T. APACHEN DEN.—Minute 30 sec.

5. T. YOU LIED ABOUT ME.—Agitato No. 37—Andino

6. T. FALL CAME.—French Spirit.—Gauze

7. T. WITH THE GENDARMES.—Dramatico Agitato No. 43—Borch

8. T. COLETTE PICKS UP PICTURE.—Jean of Arc.—Wells

10. T. THE DOOR WAS LOCKED.—Hurry No. 26.—Minot

11. T. APACHEN DEN.—Minute 30 sec.

12. T. COLETTE AT DOOR.—Romance—Kargassoff

13. T. COLETTE PICKS UP THEME

14. T. SOLDIERS AT FIRESIDE.—Triste.—Tschaikowsky

15. T. THE GERMAN GENERAL.—Nobilizzazione—Wagner

16. T. GERMAIN OFFICER LEAVES.—Athalia—Mendelssohn

17. T. THE GERMAN OFFICER LEAVES.—Athalia—Mendelssohn

18. T. HER ANNIVERSARY.—Thoughts No. 33—Berg

19. T. NICHOLAS COMES HOME.—Forget-me-not—Macbeth

20. T. MISS CLAYTON RECOGNIZES.—Silence

21. T. I AM THAT VERY POOR.—THEME 2 min.

22. T. I'M THE GIRL.—My Door—Berg

23. T. THREE REYNARDS.—Ronsard—Berg

24. T. NICHOLAS COMES HOME.—Forget-me-not—Macbeth

25. T. I AM THAT VERY POOR.—THEME 2 min.

Index to Cue Sheets, December 21, 1918.

Picture

Producer

Price

Branding Broadway

Arcturus

$1,446

Holt Cast, The

Goldwyn

One Woman, The

Select

Set Free.

Universal

Too Many Millions

Paramount

Under the Greenwood Tree

Arcturus

Wildcat of Paris, The

Universal

Woman's Weapon, A

Paramount
"UNDER FOUR FLAGS" TELLS OF VICTORY
Government Film Goes to Exhibitors With Pictured Story of Yankee Share in Winning World War

Exhibitors may well take the remarkable record of "Under Four Flags" at the Rialto and Rivoli Theatres and the rebookings of the film at the latter theatre and at the Metropolitan Theatre, Washington, as a reliable indication of the true worth of a picture which New York reviewers termed the "most marvelous of films" and by far the best of the series released by the Government through the Division of Films.

The attraction of the film that seems to extend through the entire length of the several reels, is the intimate, close-up views of the battles and activities that led up to the close of the war, the public seeming to be particularly anxious to view the events of such momentous historical and patriotic interest. "Under Four Flags" is a remarkable production, without doubt the most marvelous motion picture of the war ever screened. It is a living, breathing story of the greatest event in the history of the world, the story of how democracy defeated autocracy; a story more skillfully constructed and logically developed than the most wonderful fictional drama ever conceived.

The picture is shown in a series of several episodes, showing first the conference at Versailles when General Foch was made commander-in-chief of the Allied armies. Then the Americans are shown in their first active participation in the battles that were to end the war. They are seen in action in Belleau Woods and in the famous battles of Chateau Thierry, and fighting in conjunction with the French in driving back the enemy. Another episode shows the army of General Haig on the English front, while others show the thrilling and daring fighting of the Italian forces on the Piave and in the region of Mount Grappa. At St. Mihiel the Americans are seen in the first engagement as a complete force under the command of American officers. The closing episode features the recovery by French and American soldiers of a little village in France long held by the Germans and General Pershing's arrival and review of the troops in celebration of the event.

Technically and pictorially, "Under Four Flags" is not surpassed by any other motion picture. The photography is remarkable. The scenes were taken by the United States Signal Corps and the Allied Army cameramen, to whom the world owes everlasting gratitude for their part in this wonderful pictorial history.

Scene from "Under Four Flags" (U. S. Official).

And so, while the tumult of war is over, the shouting has not died and it won't die as long as "Under Four Flags" is on the screen. If General Pershing and his men could hear the cheers that go up when audiences see them standing victorious on French soil, they would be almost afraid to come home to face the demonstration that is waiting for them.

Scene from "The Great Victory" (Screen Classics).

Kansas City to Launch New Organization Soon

AMUSEMENT interests of Kansas City will within a few days perfect the plan of co-operation and organization, and the new association, embracing the various branches, will be launched. It has been found that all phases can work well together, and that it is possible to frame an organization through which the mutual interests can be advanced, while the various branches maintain their own associations for the prosecution of their own special activities.

The Exhibitors' League of Kansas City held a meeting November 29, presided over by W. B. Tuteur, president, at which film men were present, to discuss the proposed new organization. Charles W. Harden, chairman of the committee that is preparing the plan of organization for the united amusement interests, and L. D. Balsly, one of the promoters of the movement, reported the tentative plans. They involve a comprehensive membership of exhibitors, exchange men, supply men, and speaking stage representatives, the aim being to get as large a membership of individuals as possible, from among all. Speakers at the meeting expressed their opinions that it would be necessary to maintain the exhibitors' league, and interest therein—just as the exchange men will probably continue their co-operation with each other, and perhaps even form an association to make such co-operation more effective.

Trade Views of "The Common Cause."

The splendid reception given to J. Stuart Blackton's patriotic production, "The Common Cause," at its initial presentation to exhibitors at the Rialto Theatre, New York, the first week of December, is being duplicated all over the country in the Vitagraph exchange cities. Private showings for groups of exhibitors have been in progress in all Vitagraph branches, and word comes that first run bookings are well under way.

The exhibitors' aids prepared to assist exhibitors in the proper exploitation of "The Common Cause" is now in the hands of all Vitagraph exchanges.
SOME STATES EXPERIENCE SETBACKS

New Influenza Outbreaks in Iowa, Michigan, and Ohio—Cincinnati Theatres Place Ban on Children—Other Sections Show Improvement

R ECURRENCE of the influenza epidemic in Des Moines, where patrons of theatres were allowed to occupy only alternate rows; in Cincinnati, where children are banned; and several other places in Ohio, which are again closed, together with about half of Michigan, which is now placed under quarantine, are the outstanding features of this week's advices from Moving Picture World correspondents.

Reports from California indicate that cities which followed San Francisco's lead and adopted the precaution of requiring theatre patrons to wear gauze masks, have procured thereby, while other cities are in many instances still closed.

Many localities of South Dakota have resiled from the gauze mask order, the Board of Health advises was found to be beneficial. Several cities in the heart of South Dakota are still in the grip of the epidemic.

New Cincinnati Outbreak Causes Ban on Children

A RETURN of the influenza epidemic, with an unusual proportion of closing orders, is occurring virtually all of Ohio, resulted recently in the moving picture theatres in several cities again being closed or at least restricted on children. The latter was the action taken in Cincinnati, where the board of health on December 2 issued orders forbidding children under 16 years to attend theatres of any sort or to ride on street cars. At the same time the schools were closed, indicating the opinion of the authorities that the fresh outbreak was principally among children.

It is estimated that over 5,000 Cincinnati school children have the influenza, and while the cases are mild the danger involved in continued spread of the disease is such as to make the authorities determined to stamp it out. The exhibitors are co-operating fully with the health authorities, in order to stop the epidemic, if possible, and thereby prevent further restrictions on theatregoing, as such have prevailed during October and up to November 11.

Exhibitors Pledge Co-operation

Following the announcement of new restrictions on children attending the theatres, John Weinig, attorney and proprietor of the Western Plaza Theatre, presented to the board of health an agreement from a number of the downtown theatres, including the Grand, the Lyric, the Olympic, Keith's, the Empress, the Fine Arts, the Bijou, a resolution in which the managers or proprietors of those houses expressed their full approval of the action and pledged their co-operation in enforcing the order prohibiting children from attending the theatres during the prevalence of the epidemic. The exhibitors on the order will, of course, hurt the revenues of the exhibitors considerably, as many children attend the theatres, especially in the suburbs, and there are numerous families where, if the children cannot go, the parents must also stay at home. It is considered much better, however, to get along with business thus restricted than if it is entirely shut down, and the exhibitors will accordingly do everything in their power to see that the orders of the health authorities are fully met.

San Francisco Opening Aided by Mask Ordinance

BUSINESS conditions in the San Francisco territory are steadily improving, but theatres are not reopening as rapidly as was expected. One opened on the same date as the San Francisco houses, only to be closed again when business was insufficient. In other towns the date of opening has been postponed from time to time, frequently at the last minute, causing much trouble to exhibitors and film exchanges. In the face of these set-backs the list of open theatres is steadily growing and now includes not less than 75 per cent. of the houses in Northern and Central California. In almost every instance the communities which followed the lead of San Francisco and made the use of gauze masks compulsory have routed the epidemic and business is going on as usual, while those that disdained to take precautions are still in a state of quarantine.

In the San Francisco Bay district business has shown a steady improvement since the day the theatres reopened, it is still below normal. Heavy rains have served to keep people at home and there is still a feeling of uneasiness in some quarters in regard to crowds. Those who are attending moving picture theatres are enjoying entertainment of an unusually high order, managers vying with each other to put on the finest shows. Special attention is being paid to music and many houses are making use of orchestras for the first time.

Many South Dakota Cities Now Free of Influenza Ban

W HILE residents of all cities and towns of South Dakota had special reasons for thanksgiving because of the ending of the war, some of the South Dakota communities had a double reason for rejoicing on Thanksgiving Day because of the raising of the ban placed on public gatherings, moving picture theatres and schools as a result of the influenza epidemic.

In Sioux Falls the ban was lifted and moving picture houses and other places were reopened after having been closed for a period of six weeks. The ban on city schools was not removed, however, until December 2.

Other South Dakota towns which have reopened with a rush of business are Madison, Montrose, Humboldt and Egan, all in Minner county. Moving picture men of the Sunshine State had greater cause for the belief that business was being restored as the ban has been lifted in practically all towns in Minnesota, North Dakota, Wisconsin and Iowa.

Alternate Rows Capacity for Des Moines Theatres

A SITUATION almost approaching epidemic proportions has resulted in Des Moines theatres permitting patrons to sit only in every other row. It was with considerable difficulty that the State is chosen by order of closing altogether. After a full the epidemic broke out badly in Des Moines and immediately the usual agitation of "close the theatres" was heard. The latter use of influenza masks as a compulsory measure was tried out, with poor results, as patrons either reaped the mask as a. joke or a joke. The measure fell through after one day's trial, and then the agitation for a closed town started. Special committees were appointed, protesting its closing by the respective parties interested and a merry battle followed.

Finally it was decided to permit the theatres to remain and took two attorneys half capacity, spreading the seating arrangement through alternate rows. This is working out fairly well and managers say it is far better than closing altogether. Programs have been considerably curtailed and less expensive features offered for the time being.

Remaining open is a good thing for the industry in general in Iowa, as indications pointed to the theatres again being closed throughout the State, following the lead of Des Moines, had such a condition prevailed here. The epidemic again is subsiding and the holiday will be lifted within ten days.

Half of Michigan Is Again Under Influenza Quarantine

It looks as if Michigan is in for "hard luck" for the remainder of the winter. Although the State ban on theatres and public gatherings was lifted November 5, right now nearly half of the State is chosen by order of local authorities and in some sections there is talk of a quarantine. On Dec. 4 the city of Saginaw was shut down, so that with Bay City it makes two Fire-lead ing towns in the State closed for moving pictures outside of Detroit and Grand Rapids, which are still open. Recommendations of all the co-operation and precautions given and promised by the local exhibitors, the health authorities closed up.

In Adrian, Elwyn M. Simons, of the Family Theatre, put up a stiff fight and has won. "At a hearing of all the doctors and the board of health, we asked for the lifting and took the town up there fully determined that if the health authorities shut up the theatres this time bargain basements, ten-cent stores and, in fact, a general closing of every thing would be avoided, otherwise it would get an injunction restraining them from closing us on discrimination grounds," writes Mr. Simons to the De- cember 1918 edition of the Moving Picture World. "The affair proved to be very spirited and while we put up some fight, we still lost. We found that one of the State statutes, according to our attorney, states that it is not within the health officers' power to close up business houses. Now the courts have ruled that a rigid quarantine, therefore we are open with their approval unless the death rate continues to grow, and if it does everything will be closed. "Business is very bad due to the fact that people are afraid to come out on account of all this agitation. If ever there was an urgent need of organization, the time is now at hand, when it should be brought about. This closing up habit is getting altogether too conspicuous and is proving dangerous to the motion picture industry. There is positive discrimination when they close theatres and let stores remain open."
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

December 21, 1918

Elden M. Simons, manager of Ex near Chicago, and dozens of smaller towns throughout Michigan are closed, Dr. Ohm, head of the State Board of Health, says: he looks for influenza trouble until spring.

Dismiss Case Against Terre Haute Exhibitors

The cases against the fifteen motion picture exhibitors and theatre men at Terre Haute, Ind., who were arrested Thanksgiving Day for failing to obey the board of health's closed theatres and dismiss dismissed dismiss dismissal order, was sustained by the court on the motion of William E. Horsley, prosecuting attorney.

The motion for dismissal was made after it was shown by attorneys for the men that the order upon which the arrests were made had not been regularly entered upon the records of the board, and that the evidence was not available as evidence. This view of the case was concurred in by Judge Paul R. Shafer, who ordered the cases dismissed and the defendants discharged.

The defendant in the case was Shan nont Katzenbach, proprietor of the American Theatre, who had been seized with a number of other licenses to be used as a test case for the entire number of exhibitors and theatre men arrested.

Immediately following the trial a new order was issued by the board of health, closing all theatres, places of amusement, all stores, except drug stores, and all buildings from 6 p.m. Saturday evening until the usual opening time Monday morning. All of the places stipulated in the order, with the exception of a few churches, complied with it.

Prominent physicians say they believe the peak of the epidemic in Terre Haute has been reached and that the disease now will rapidly decrease.

Kansas City Suffers

Second Grip Visitation

The expected return of the influ ence in Kansas City by new regulations and bans—but they affected only the schools in Kansas City. The large increase in cases caused special meetings of the Board of Health—but the effort was to control the reports of cases, to enforce quarantines on houses where the disease was found, to educate the public and to take care of the orphan self when it had influenza. The board of health took no action toward closing places of business, or restricting the number of patrons in any establish ment, or curtailing the hours of merchandising.

The school board, however, closed the schools on November 16th. While it was hoped that the schools might be reopened the Monday after Thanksgiving, the closing order remained in effect from the following week.

Some churches suspended services on Sunday, December 1, but as a rule church services, as well as other public gatherings, were held through the second and several epidemics.

The amusement interests of Kansas City were prepared to discuss with officials the matter of a ban, if the subject had been brought up. The special committee representing motion picture, speaking stage and other allied interests, had discovered, however, that any introduction of the suppression of the subject would be prejudicial, since there was no intention of imposing a ban. Because of the fact that the interests had got together, and were proceeding to make a legal appeal was no interference with the course that seemed best—the matter was left entirely in the hands of the commission, which it was prepared to call for help if any was needed.

Northwest Still Influenza Grip.

The confusion in the Northwest caused by some towns opening and then being forced to close again on account of a sudden increase in the epidemic which epidemic has not entirely disappeared. Walla Walla, Wash., was again closed after having been open for a little over a week. Several other smaller towns were also reclosed.

Pendleton, Ore., has not been opened at this writing.

The number of new cases has taken an increase in Seattle, but not on such a scale that a reclosing is considered imminent.

Indianapolis Lifts Gauze Mask Order.

The Indianapolis board of health has rescinded its order requiring the wearing of gauze masks in theatres and other public places and has announced that conditions in the influenza-pneumonia sitation are more favorable than they have been for some time. The wearing of the masks, the board members say, aided materially in reducing the number of cases.

Dayton Puts Ban on Children Again.

The health board of Dayton has again put a ban on children under seven attending the theatres and places of amusement. The order issued Monday, December 9th, went into effect at 6 p.m. that day. An order about three days previous was one forbade the sale of standing room in any of the theatres. The order states that the crowds may congregate in the lobbies, but not get inside the theatres or the theatre lower story. These measures were taken because of the recurrence of the influenza.

The suburban houses will again suffer, according to the public announcement made at a meeting of the Miami Valley Exhibitors’ League, which was called Monday by Al. Kinzeler, secretary. Some of the suburban managers stated it would be suicide to them should the children be eliminated.

Back to Medford of Rialto

Is Moran, Mustered Out

A.

J. MORAN, who, with H. L. Per- cy, runs the Rialto Theatre, at Medford, Ore., spent a few days recently looking over New York after having been mustered out of the army at Camp Lee, Virginia, where he was in charge of an officer's commission. Naturally, he included the office of the Moving Picture World in his calls and entertained us with some of his camp experiences. He had concluded that the army was not going to be in peace times, so he was going back to help run the Rialto in Medford.

The Rialto is a first-class theatre and is located in the southwestern corner of Oregon. The Rialto Theatre seats 700 persons and has an equipment that cost $14,000 including, a Style 40 Fotoplayer that cost $5,500, two Simplex projectors, a Hertner transverter, a four-lamp B. & L. dissolved, and a seat ing and equipment of Hayward Brothers Wakefield chairs that cost $4,85 each.

Speaking of the Rialto projecting room, Mr. Moran declared that it was as fine as anything in the East, and that it would make even Rich ardson sit up and take notice. It is 22 feet long by 16 feet deep, and has a ceiling that is 12 feet complete with every modern device and most approved method of wiring.

The Rialto works on the open booking plan with four changes a week, but sometimes runs good pictures three days.

The admission prices are 10, 20 and 30 cents for both matinee and evening performances. Special advertising of advertising is used extensively and business has always been uniformly good.

The Rialto has a five-month season and is located on the Missouri River.

THREE NEW RED CROSS PICTURES

The newest Red Cross films which are being released by the Bureau of Pictures of the American Red Cross include three subjects called “New Faces for Old,” “Homeward Bound” and “Russia, the World Problem.” These one-reelers will go through General Film Company exchanges as regular Red Cross program subjects.

“New Faces for Old” has already been reviewed and is considered the strongest subject among the three. The detail how soldiers in France, so badly disfigured that their own children do not know them, are transformed by the miracle of plastic surgery. The masks to look just like they did before they were mutilated.

The Russian film is full of live topical interest, and relates to the many little intimate touches of “mothering” given American doughboys who are just about to return home. The reel is full of frolic as well, since it shows how the soldiers amuse themselves.

Want a situation in the moving picture business? Try an announcement in The World’s Classified Advertising department. They work wonders.
BUSINESS HEALTHY AROUND NEWARK

Following Recovery from Epidemic, Jersey Houses Are Slowed Up by High Cost of Turkey, but Patrons Now Are Flowing In—Many Houses Lack Lobby Displays

By Sam Spedon

very often accounts for the absence or presence of an audience.

Mitchell Building Up Carlton.

At Market and Halsey streets we stopped in William Fox's Carlton Theatre, one of the oldest in Newark, situated in the heart of the leading thoroughfare. Under the management of William K. Mitchell, during his six weeks service here, the patronage has increased, although it has a steady going attendance of the old residents. Mr. Mitchell has designed and prepared a number of new settings for the stage, which will greatly enhance the attractiveness of this somewhat antiquated but popular showhouse. Mr. Mitchell, while one of the younger managers, is a man of progressive ideas, and we regret that these men with good ideas are not given the facilities to put them into practice—we mean the wherewithal to display them.

On Market street, just below the Carlton, we ventured into the Strand, where we made Charles Wurtz, charge. For the 5.30 closing performance there was not a poor attendance. The Strand is a 1,200-seat house and employs a good organist, who plays with creditable effect. Like the Carlton, it enjoys the full benefit of a location on the main thoroughfare.

Here's a Bouquet for the Newark.

J. B. McNally, who was formerly manager of Keeney's in Newark, is now in charge of the Newark Theatre, undoubtedly the finest motion picture theatre in that city. This not because it is the newest and most up-to-date, but because it displays a knowledge of presentation that challenges our admiration. It is equipped with all the latest paraphernalia, with settings that may be found anywhere in this country. We witnessed the evening performance and listened to his twenty-piece orchestra, and feel we are noting a just encomium of what we actually saw and heard.

A visit to the William Fox Terminal Theatre at 84 Park place to enjoy the afternoon performance afforded a pleasant two hours. Jules Gerstels has been in charge about two months, and notwithstanding a holiday week the house was packed.

The manager is gradually installing new settings and novelties that display his ideas of showmanship on one of the busiest thoroughfares of the city.

Bright Lights Aplenty in Paterson

Just to broaden our views, we went over to Paterson, where there is no lack of bright lights and real human comedy. We stepped on the white light trail of New York, but for all there is plenty of action and no scarcity of "movie fans. We were provided with a preview of the U. S. Theatre on Main street, near Market, where every one of the 1,600 seats were filled and patrons were still coming. Adam Adams, who is associated with his brother Peter, the proprietor, gave us a cordial reception and added a sidelight on his diversified patronage.

The Garden, 1,500, seats, is one of the Jacob Fabian houses, which are among the best in the country, members of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit. The Regent, of Paterson, is also one of the Fabian theatres. James J. Malone is the present manager and performs his duties with excellent judgment and showmanship. While we were talking to Mr. Malone, our friend, Charles L. Dooley, who is manager in chief of the Fabian houses, walked in upon us and we promised to give the Regent the onceover and see "My Cousin" before the week was out.

After paying our admission we stepped into the Lyric, seating about 500, on Main street, near Market, under the management of Max Gold, who extended to us the courtesy of the house, which is built on the lines of the old Nickelodeon. It was well filled and showed a miscellaneous program, catering more to the "drop-in" element, at an eleven-cent admission.

William Anderson, of the Grand, was out when we happened in. The Grand is very much of the same order as the Lyric—the same price of admission and the same character of pictures. The house was Regent Has 500 Surplus.

On Saturday evening we took in the Regent, 2,500 capacity. Charles L. Dooley, the manager, was on the job, and while he gave us every attention possible he had his hands full with his house and with about five hundred or more waiting in the lobby for the second performance. The Regent sets back from the street a sort of open way which runs into Main street. It is not a new house, but has been reconstructed with a balcony. There are no intermissions or intermissions to sit down in, and there is a clear view of the screen. While we were talking, Mr. Fabian came in. He is a keen observer, alive to the possibilities of the growth of Paterson. Mr. Dooley gave us to understand that Mr. Fabian has plans for the building of a bigger and more beautiful theatre on Market street.

In the Hill section we came across the Savoy, 101 Springfield avenue, under the management of Machat & Kelly. We were introduced to our old friend N. Machat in charge. He used to have a theatre at 106th street and Fifth avenue, New York. The Savoy seats 1,900, but on this occasion the house was packed. The manager is gradually installing new settings and novelties that display his ideas of showmanship on one of the busiest thoroughfares of the city.

Bright Lights Aplenty in Paterson

Just to broaden our views, we went over to Paterson, where there is no lack of bright lights and real human comedy. We stepped on the white light trail of New York, but for all there is plenty of action and no scarcity of "movie fans. We were provided with a preview of the U. S. Theatre on Main street, near Market, where every one of the 1,600 seats were filled and patrons were still coming. Adam Adams, who is associated with his

December 21, 1918
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD
1355
Protest against the use of long titles for feature productions is being carried on by members of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit franchise for the State of Michigan. In a recent letter to the New York office of the franchise, a member says:

"I wonder whether the trade journals have ever investigated the results to exhibitors of the long titles for productions? It is an evil which has contributed many difficulties to the ordinary troubles of the theatre operator.

"In many cases manufacturers put such long titles on their productions that it is almost impossible for the exhibitor to get any kind of a showing in their newspaper advertising without spreading copy over half the page at an enormous cost. Take such titles as 'The Woman the Germans Shot,' 'The Dawn of Understanding,' 'The Man Who Wouldn't Tell,' 'For the Freedom of the World,' 'Italy's Far Flung Battle Line,' 'Rosemary Climbs the Heights,' 'Why Would Not Marry,' or any one of a score of others that have been released recently, and analyze the exhibitor problems in advertising them.

"Long TitleRequires Extra Column.

"I know that a newspaper ad, like a trade journal ad, should have three predominating features. There should be a catch line, an illustration or an effect of some description that will attract the eye. Then the name of the production should be sufficiently large to stand out. Next comes the name of the theatre. In advertising a long title, the latter should be small compared to the narrow space or add possibly a column width to his usual space in order to distribute its parts properly.

"In lettering his banners or lobby cards he cannot give sufficient size and boldness to a long title to make it visible at a distance. It has to be lettered sm stresses that constitute drama will always be the ruling forces of the play-plot.
By Edward Itzel

Classifying Screen Fiction.

"You agree with me then, Mr. De Mille, that the screen drama is distinct from the picture novel, and that a definite classification of the former is imperative?"

"Absolutely. The wider range of the screen, its ability to bring the two extremes of intelligence and culture into the same picture theatre, will narrow this classification, as compared to the

The director of "The Whispering Chorus" expressed mild surprise, as he remarked.

"I cannot see how the gentleman arrives at that conclusion. The progress of the moving picture keeps making, year after year, the most hopeful sign for the future I know of. The development of the technic has been steady and rapid. To prove this to the members of our organization now in California is the first version of 'The Squaw Man' run off for their benefit, and followed it immediately by a showing of the new version. As an object lesson it was a great success. Every branch of production exhibited great artistic gain. The development of the plot, the work of the actors and the construction of the back-grounds all helped to give the picture a firm structure and a more pleasing design. As to the stories, we are scanning them more closely than they were before. We recognize that scenarios, like stage plays, must be written and then rewritten.

A scenario writer can turn out five, or even three, high water mark scripts a year, he will be doing all that should be required of him. My father took two years to write a play. This trip to New York with my brother and the author will adapt for the screen. I am naturally anxious to produce stories that do not follow along in the well worn channels. I am working on one at present, and I am trying to apply new methods of production that will enhance its artistic worth. Another object in coming to New York was to visit the theatres and see what the spoken drama is doing. It gives me a needed change and relaxation, and I find a comparison of the two arts instructive in both a positive and a negative sense.

"What are some of your impressions, Mr. De Mille?"

"I came across one in the New York daily press. Its lack of constructive criticism of the screen."

Bay State Exhibitors to Foregather.

The annual meeting and banquet of members of the New England branch of the Exhibitors' league will take place in Boston on the afternoon and evening of December 18. The annual meeting will start at 2 p.m. at the Hotel Lenox. The banquet will be at 6.30 p.m. at the same place.

The above plans have been made. It is the first big gathering of the New England exhibitors since the ending of the war. Many of the motion picture industry who have been in France and have been returned among the wounded will be special guests and may be called on. The well known producers will deliver important messages to the exhibitors relating to the future of the motion picture industry.
Rambles Round Filmtown
With WALTER K. HILL.

This Week's Idolator Directs the Attention of the Authorities to An Appalling Condition Existing
On the Well Known Fifth Avenue

THE war is over. You may not know this; but it is. And our brave Soldiers, Sailors and Marines are coming home at last from the conditions that could not obtain for a moment in President Wilson's Grand Army of the Republic. These young men will soon be parading up the Avenue of the Allies, walking up the Main Street of Fashion, parmutating along New York's Fifth Avenue.

"In the development of this noble move, however" (we quote from a professional reviewer who recently lamps "The Narrow Path")—clearly meaning the street that passes the Office of RAMBLER) "is developing this noble motive," says the critics, every
"black and vile human trait," such as breaking a mother's heart,
"bringing shame upon a brother," infidelity to a wife,
"treason, lie, deception, betrayal, low and unpleasant human characteristics unfold themselves before the human eye."

"As in a Fifth Avenue parade!"

Just see what our soldier boys are marching into!

We have looked at a lot of parades pasing under the office window, but up to yet all the things the reviewer says happen can't caught our eye.

Perhaps we had better look again; for, clearly, we have been overlooking a lot of "heart interest" in the windy bands, crashing drums, soldiers that always "swing past" in the daily newspaper reports; in the march for sound money, preparedness and lots of other parades.

Father (to worthless son).—"Go into the Navy or the Army!"

Mother (to ditto daughter).—"Go on into pictures or on the stage."

Which proves some folks have queer ideas of punishment.

W S S S

Peace Hath its Worries.

As a part of the War Reconstruction Work, the U. S. Labor Board must now find new jobs for the men who have been geting $50 for playing the Kaiser, Mr. Wilson and the Crown Prince in "Kill the Kaiser" pictures.

Chicot.

W S S S

"America's Answer" is a forthcoming
Inducement offered to patriots of Osgood, Ind., by Louis Damm, proprietor of The Damm Theatre and the Damm Bakery.

It's a Dammgood Osgood picture.

Look-a-Here, Friend Publicist!

We WHO fraternize in projection rooms to pass on to the printer more or less vital opinion on films call it "dope" that we ask fresh "kids" for or await patiently at the hands of mature publicists. It comes in many and various forms; sometimes, alas, not at all.

What remarks being introduction to this praise of Theodore C. Deitrich for the very near and effective "dope" he handed out at the showing of Doris Kenyon's "Wild Honey" the other day. It was all there," in concise form and all essentials of author, director, starring, cast and accompanying data—even to a well-composed synopsis that almost told the story the way it was seen accused.

Personally, we wish T. C. D. could spread himself around a bit.

For a Vegetarian Week.

Vegetarians, please note! Charlie Ray's newest Paramount vehicle is "String Beans"—Progress-Advance.

Edith Roberts in "Beanes."

"Apple Butter" (Selig).

"A Peach of a Pair" (Nestor).

Mary MacLaren in "Bread."

And by Saturday audiences will be shouting with

Endi Bennett, "When Do We Eat?"

Kind Words About a Woman.

Charming ingenious merry clever sparkling droll delicate glowing lovable popular dainty bright beautiful brilliant skilful trim nimble famous —Progress-Advance.

Minnows from the Goldfish Globe.

A movement is on foot to have four-minute speakers at all performances on Sunday hereafter. They get the audiences out faster.

One well-known exhibitor always explains the picture to the reviewers after they have seen it run off. You see, he knows the critics, and believes in taking no chances.

Cleveland, Ohio.

Why Good Newspaper Men Are So
Scarcely Around Newspaper Offices

The Union of Editors have long complained, and with right, that it is utterly impossible to keep a good man (a really good man) long on the job.
After ten or fifteen years they take a "run-out powder" and show up in the employ of some railroad president, film company or shining star as "personal publicist."
We picture elsewhere the reason.

The pay of a reporter, critic, reviewer, editor, copy reader, office boy and other essentials to going regularly to press is handed around once a week in little en-vvelopes; envelopes not half so large as the little sacks Congressmen use to send flower seed to their constituents who dwell in the tenement section of a great city.
Our photo-engraving shows the difference when pay-day comes to a "personal pub-icist!"

Beholdennie Zeidman, booster for Douglas Fairbanks.

Lamp "Scoops" Conlon, whose boss is Bill Two-Gun Hart.

Gaze upon Adam Hull Shirk, representing Jesse Lasky.

See Mark Larkyn, whose other Mark is Mary Pickford.

And Jesse Lasky's other man, Kenneth McGaffey; as we present them all in a row, they will be to the right, with their salary in bags so large, some of them can be shouldered but must be dragged.

P. S.—That Benny Zeidman's swag rests lightly on his foot need indicate nothing more than an utter absence of corns or need of the support of the Leaping One's Publicist.

P. F. S.—The other four space-stealers combined their strength in bolting Mary Pickford's cash onto the shoulder of her principal Mark.

FIVE KINGS OF SPACE STEALING WITH THEIR LOOT.

Bennie Zeidman, "Scoops" Conlon, Adam Hull Shirk, Mark Larkyn, Kenneth McGaffey.

Titles in Last Week's Reviews.

"The Girl of My Dreams."

"A Perfect Lady."

"Hitting the High Spots."

"Danger, Go Slow."

"Good-bye, Mill."

"The Man Who Wouldn't Tell."

We purposely omit mentioning Pete
Schmid this issue.

There's jealousy stirring.

"All Promenade to the Bar."

Betsy Blythe, Viva Vamp, enjoyed herselw when we last week. A cabaret scene was being filmed. They had a regular jazz band, and real drinks were served at the "prom" bar. After every hundred feet of film had been taken, an intermission was declared during which the company danced and then partook of refreshments. A good time was had by all; especially Miss Blythe, who loves to dance.
December 21, 1918

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

1359

LIFE IN THE INDUSTRY.

Our Tensely Engaging Serial.

By Joseph F. Lee.

THIS is the first episode. There will be many more, and the orders that come in from branch offices, salesmen, field managers and a few exhibitors, will keep us busy. Before we dash into the thing without further apology.

The scene is a room in a building in Ft. Worth. At 9 a.m. the janitor enters, tucks the desks and chairs, puts in the coal, and then goes out. At 9:30 the boy arrives. At 10:15 "the best little stenographer in the office" gets a call. The character in it is the sales manager's secretary on the job, proceeding to put matters in shape. The clock now strikes 11:15, and the promptness of the Big Mogul rushed in, all out of breath.

He pushed open the door of his office, giving an approving glance at the gold letters that adorned the glass-half, "Private Office of General Sales Manager O. Fuller Bull." Out in the sticks, however, the exchange manager, salesmen and exhibitors have other names for him. (Regard for our "entry" at the post office prevents our going into details of this matter of said names.)

Mr. Bull had enjoyed a very busy eveningning first half of the night before. He had seen "Hoboken, N. J.," using his business charms to persuade his client to purchase the foreign rights which he so valorously bestowed, superficially, "Skipped by the Light of the Moon." This morning he felt in good spiritual spirits, and when he got to the office he had told him at parting the evening before to have the contract ready by the 2 o'clock noon—just 50 minutes hence.

Rushing quickly to his job of drawing up the contract, he went to the aid of his secretary and "the best little stenographer you ever saw," the moment passed quickly. The form was written swiftly in silence, un-terribly broken by the tinkle of the telephone bell.

Now comes conversation:

"Mr. Bull!" came the voice in rising in-ferction over the wire.

He said Bull, as a child of suspicion, ran down his spine.

"I've changed my mind, Mr. Bull, about closing this deal. You remember that nice chap you introduced me to in the Astor lobby? That Mr. Silvergrabe."

"Yes," said Bull, "I remember. And he is not so many miles away from the telephone call from Mr. Bull."

"Well, after I left you last night, he was waiting for me at my hotel. He told me he had reserved for me the Cleanfilm Photoplay production, "Poor, But Pure," and has convinced me that it's a good money-maker than your strip of tape—and I've signed the contract with him. I am speaking to you now just now in his office, from where I am speaking to you."

"Thank you for the good time you showed me last night; I never looked at a better one," were the last words to reach O. Fuller Bull's ears. Bull bit viciously at the end of a fresh La Fumbee.

"Stung" was a word the secretary and the man a bit later. Mr. Bull had no time to work on the "Skipped by the Light of the Moon" contract for foreign parts without making an additional move.

(Next Episode—This Theatre—Watch for Date.)

We Welcome Threat or Promise.

Mr. A. G. Perrill, our press man; my- self and Mr. Gates, having read your column the same time past, precided the Dayton (Ohio) Theatre should have representation in it and either I or Mr. Gates will see to it that you get a weekly RAMBLE from us, even as from others.

Paul Gray, Assistant Manager.

Rambles Round Filmtown.

As to Bill Hunzoller, Film Star.

B Y newspaper cable we hear from the Lip of Maximillian Harden that that record, formerly achieved by Fabian Hunzoller, has been captured by the chief, Max, and the other Hunzemmata haven't knowledge of these pictures, or such words as these would not fall from the lips of the great publicist.

Smatter with you "foreign rights" sellers and buyers?

In Front of 729 Seventh.

The Curb.

The Junk Shop.

The Cheese Mart.

The Melting Pot.

The Knockers' Club.

The Soviet.

Why the Bolshevik?

News from the "Peace" Battle Front.

Delegates in attendance upon the special meeting of the N. A. M. P. I. suffered severely from shell shock. William A. Brady and Peter Schaeffer each exploded a bomb with considerably more damage than usually follows the fall of a dud.

Sex and problem plays seem to principally advocate "Freedom of the Squeeze."

They're Flying 'Em Higher in Hawaii.

We offer for pictorial consideration a portrait of Ben Grimm, who volunteered early in the game to serve Uncle Sam in the Moving Picture World staff on the lot. He went then to Rochester, and subsequently Cornell University Flying School, at Ithaca. Within a few months he was an aviator, map-maker, signal expert, electricity and everything. They then sent him to Hawaii, where he has since remained, flying, map-making and fighting the giant cockroach in a way how natural he looks in his flying outfit!

When a Filler Needs a Friend.

EvILYN GREELY has a brother who is serving with the color over the range. In a recent letter received from him she writes Miss Greely that his company was encircled near a military post, and the soldiers enlisted from the colored population of San Juan Hill and Lenox avenue, New York, in daylight, she adds.

While on guard duty, one of the colored fighters came along with a discharge of his gun, and being asked the reason for his general lack of interest in this world of war and the world beyond, he says: "Boys, don't ain't nuffin in dis war 'at looks good ter me. Dis is a black day in my life, for I lost my dog from home and I see infomed that my gal don took up wiv' a trombone player in a jazz band and home dog she is dead, and I jes' los' my month's pay check in a crap game. What's de use of livin'?

What Delights a Director.

Miss Joel is described as a striking beauty of the blonde, with captivatingly expressive eyes and piquant manner, possessing all the desired qualities which go to the making of a director and delight the heart of the director.

Exhibitor Comment—"Booked for a week but only ran it three days. Rotten. How can you be good on Broadway but everywhere is not Broadway." There's lots of country beyond the Hudson.

C. C. Barr and Fred Gage Marry.

There were two Hombres—Gage and Barr—who decided to learn how to purr; so a fireside they grabbed—and sweet kittens they nabbed—Now their purring creates quite a stir.

Stolen Thunder.

Punches in a Secret Serial.

Vine Street is the title of a Philadelphia paper that tells all the going on in Quaker City. It declares, in a recent issue, that a certain serial will show:

How to break loose from a poker session when you're ahead and must get back to the right game.

How to free yourself from a film salesman who tries to sell you when you're booked up for the next few months.

Maurice F. Barr, known to every exhibitor of Memphis and Pueblo; and to scores and scores of "everybody" in the film game, stops long enough "somewhere in Wisconsin" to send greetings to those of his friends who read RAMBLES. Mr. Barr is all the time thinking in home; of the home of Sanger, and of Shreveport—for, the war being over, he has nothing to do but think. He was fighting while it lasted.

s—s—s—

Quite All Embracing.

Notes a friend on the margin of a Rivoli program of even date. We find the explanation:

"Overture: Symphonic Poem, "Ideals."

"Ideals," composed in 1897, was first played in the Weimar Theater. It is founded on a poem by Schiller, quotations from which are printed in the score.

The last section is entitled "Ideals, Aspiration, Dilussion, Employment, Apothesis." The composer adds this note:

"The firm adhesion to and therewith the ceaseless co-operation of the artist is that one aim of the whole earth. It was in the sense that I took the liberty of supplementing Schiller's poem by adding a few lines to the melody that I found in the "first part." Quite all embracing? I'll say so!"

THE RAMBLER.
EMERGENCY FILM DEPOTS DESIGNATED

Seattle District Exhibitors Can Now Obtain Substitutes for Pictures Delayed in Transit

By S. J. Anderson, 90r; Leary Building, Seattle, Wash.

H. G. ROSEBAUM, president of the Northwest Film Board of Trade, with offices in Seattle, announces that the list of towns for the proposed stations for clearing films to prevent dark house in the territory has been completed and the films are already deposited. The list of towns follows: Aberdeen, Wash.; Baker, Ore.; Bellingham, Wash.; Billings, Mont.; Butte, Mont.; Centralia, Wash.; Cleveland, Mont.; Danville, Ill.; Des Moines, Iowa; Denver, Col.; Everett, Wash.; Great Falls, Mont.; Helena, Mont.; Idaho Falls, Idaho; Lewiston, Idaho; Lewistown, Mont.; Medford, Ore.; Miller City, Mont.; Yakima, Wash.; Pendleton, Ore.; Portland, Ore.; Spokane, Wash.; Tacoma, Wash.; Walla Walla, Wash.; Wenasco, Wash.; White Fish, Mont.; Missoula, Mont.; Marshallfield, Ore.; La Grande, Ore.

Rosebaum states that there is still some trouble with express deliveries, due partly to the carelessness of carriers and partly to the confusion existing in emergency film companies and offices. The hope is expressed that these emergency films will solve the problem of the exhibitors left without film by these delivery lapses.

Colonial Installs Big Wurlitzer Organ.

A new $20,000 Hope-Jones Wurlitzer Unit orchestra has been installed in John Danz' Colonial Theatre, and special attention has been called to it in all Colonial ads this week and on a card in front of the office.

The Wurlitzer unit orchestra that was in the Coliseum before the installation of the larger Hope-Jones Wurlitzer, announced in these columns last week, has been placed in the Mission Theatre, another of the Jensen & Vinkle houses in Seattle.

Pratt Stricken with Paralysis.

F. D. Pratt, advertising manager of the Colonial and the new Rialto theatres in Tacoma, was stricken with paralysis last week. He is improving, however, and it is thought that he will be able to resume his duties in a few weeks.

Rosenberg Back from Business Trip.

Mike Rosenberg, president of the De Luxe Feature Film Company, returned from a business trip to San Francisco this week, where he arranged for the purchase of "My Sister's Friend," starring Frank Mills and Victoria Cross. He also bought the Northwest rights to the "Spoolie Cragin," this being the third time that the De Luxe Company has bought this picture.

Mr. Rosenberg will start for New York next week to further investigate the market for big features.

Seattle Exchange Notes.

A. H. Exley, assistant manager of Select, has resigned to accept the management of the Seattle office of the Film Clearing House Association.

H. B. Dobbs, formerly manager of the Select office, is now salesman out of the Seattle Goldwyn office.

The Pathe offices are being rearranged to make room for the Hodkinson and American representatives, P. G. Lynch and B. W. Copeland, respectively.

E. Van Wee, engaged at South Bend, Ind., as soon as the weather becomes seasonable, if plans now under consideration are carried out.

Chicago interests have obtained a ninety-nine year lease on the property owned by the John C. H. Furniture Company and the Frank Teep Flight Building, which adjoins it, and it is reported that they intend to erect a new picture theatre with a seating capacity of 2,500 on the site. Construction work will start early in the spring, according to present plans, with a view of having the house completed by October 1.

The other theatre project under consideration is the erection by the management of the Auditorium Theatre of a 2,000-seat hippodrome to be patterned after the Riviera in Chicago, said to be one of the most beautiful motion picture theatres in this section of the country.

George Hopp, of Chicago, who drew the plans for the Riviera, has drawn the plans for the South Bend theatre. The Messrs. Balhan and Katz, owners and managers of the Central Park and Riviera theatres, are mentioned as being associated with the new hippodrome. George Hines, manager of the Auditorium Theatre, refused to confirm or deny the story regarding the Chicago partnership.

"We are going to fulfill our promise to our South Bend patrons and erect a 3,000-seat hippodrome that will be a credit not only to the management, but to South Bend as well. That is all that I can say at this time.

Film Entertainment for Prisoners.

Prisoners at the Indiana Reformatory, at Jeffersonville, Ind., have in prospect some good entertainment during the coming winter, as a result of plans just perfected by G. H. Shideler, superintendent of the institution. Mr. Shideler, who believes that every patient in the hospital should be entertained at night they will do better work and be more easily managed in the day, is going to fit up the first or second floor for the display of motion pictures. He expects to give the men a show about this time next month.

Ban on Children Hurts Exhibitors.

Motion picture exhibitors at Kokomo, Ind., missed some of their best "customers" during the period of the influenza epidemic recently as a result of the order of the city board of health, which prohibited the admission of children to the theatres. Just why the health board ordered children to be kept away from the shows when figures compiled by the state health authorities show that children are not nearly as susceptible to the disease as grown-ups, was something the exhibitors could not understand.

Paramount Theatre Engages "Flu" Chaser.

During the influenza epidemic at Rochester, Ind., the management of the Paramount Theatre there employed a Hospital citizen and attired him in the uniform of a policeman to do "flu" duty. In the lobby of the theatre, his duties were to see that no persons afflicted with colds got into the theatre.

Lanimation III With Influenza.

L. J. Lemontte, general manager of the Temple Theatre, at Mishawaka, has been confined to his home for the last two weeks as a result of the grippe. Physicians attending him say his condition is much improved.

BIG PICTURE HOUSES FOR SOUTH BEND

Indiana City to Get Two Large Theatres,
One Accommodating 2,500, the Other 3,000

Indiana Trade News Service, 69

Layman Avenue, Indianapolis, Ind.

TWO new motion picture theatres are to be erected at South Bend, Ind., as soon as the weather becomes seasonable, if plans now under consideration are carried out.

The city board of health has just passed an order prohibiting the admission of children to the theatres.

Procurement of this order was made by G. H. Shideler, superintendent of the institution. Mr. Shideler believes that every patient in the hospital should be entertained at night and that they will do better work and be more easily managed in the day.

He expects to give the men a show about this time next month.
Peace and nearly normal conditions are resulting in a return to normal conditions with the picture theatres of Louisville, most of the exhibitors of whom, in an interview with the Courier-Journal, say they are having better grades of feature productions, are being jammed almost every evening, and that the business during the past week has been as lively as it was during the vaudeville time.

In addition to the ordinary civilian business the city is drawing considerable business from the army, and the Cincinnati, Louisville, and Virginia theatres are doing a good business, according to Mr. Dool, manager of the Alamo Theatre.

The correspondent of the Moving Picture World who has watched the growth of the business in Louisville and other Kentucky towns for the past five years, says that the crowds are not lined up on the streets as was the case at the Alamo, which was showing "The Road Through the Dark." The reason for this is that the crowds were not lined up on the streets as was the case at the Alamo, which was showing "The Road Through the Dark."

Wayne to Manage the National Theatre

Robert Wayne, formerly associated with the old Moiffert Stock Company, of Louisville, and who in the past few years has been in charge of Keith houses in New York, Philadelphia, and other Eastern cities, arrived in the city last week to take over the active management of the National Theatre, of Louisville, a vaudeville and picture house operated by the Keith interests, which also have the Mary Anderson, Strand, and Talmadge theatres in the same city.

The Strand, a picture house, Mr. Wayne succeeds H. S. Carter, who went to the Mary Anderson, to succeed Carl Rettig, resigned.

Believe Fuel Can Be Had Without Trouble

Managers of out-of-town theatres who have been seriously troubled by the high price of coal and threatened shortage for a time, now believe that they will not only have no trouble in securing fuel, but that the market will go to pieces. The demand has been so dull during the past few weeks that price cutting is being done by jobbers, retailers as well as producers, in order to secure business to keep organizations together. Prices have been cut 15 to 20 cents a ton on most grades under the Government maximum prices, but promises to go much lower than this.

LOUISVILLE THEATRES ARE PROSPERING

Peace and Almost Normal Conditions Result in Capacity Business—Leading Houses Jammed Evenings

By Ohio Valley News Service, 1140 Stark's Building, Louisville, Ky.

Theatre business in Louisville is almost normal, according to the manager of the Alamo Theatre, Mr. Dool, who says that the crowds are not lined up on the streets as was the case at the Alamo, which was showing "The Road Through the Dark." The reason for this is that the crowds were not lined up on the streets as was the case at the Alamo, which was showing "The Road Through the Dark."

Wayne to Manage the National Theatre

Robert Wayne, formerly associated with the old Moiffert Stock Company, of Louisville, and who in the past few years has been in charge of Keith houses in New York, Philadelphia, and other Eastern cities, arrived in the city last week to take over the active management of the National Theatre, of Louisville, a vaudeville and picture house operated by the Keith interests, which also have the Mary Anderson, Strand, and Talmadge theatres in the same city.

The Strand, a picture house, Mr. Wayne succeeds H. S. Carter, who went to the Mary Anderson, to succeed Carl Rettig, resigned.

Believe Fuel Can Be Had Without Trouble

Managers of out-of-town theatres who have been seriously troubled by the high price of coal and threatened shortage for a time, now believe that they will not only have no trouble in securing fuel, but that the market will go to pieces. The demand has been so dull during the past few weeks that price cutting is being done by jobbers, retailers as well as producers, in order to secure business to keep organizations together. Prices have been cut 15 to 20 cents a ton on most grades under the Government maximum prices, but promises to go much lower than this.

Cincinnati News Letter

By Kenneth C. Crain, 307 First National Bank, Cincinnati, Ohio

Levine to Take Over Handicap

NATE LEVINE, manager of the Mutual Exchange, Cincinnati, enthusiastic as he is over the splendid galas of the past season under the Mutual name, and over the new releases featuring them, has been chasing the headline, the latest, Sickles is a detective, which, in some sections under his jurisdiction, has never for a moment died down, despite the Kentucky laws where Mutual releases are distributed from Cincinnati have never relaxed the original ban, and the head is true of west, and Columbus, and several other Ohio cities were compelled to take action against advertising. In addition to the ordi- nary civilian business the city is drawing considerable business from the army, and the Cincinnati, Louisville, and Virginia theatres are doing a good business, according to Mr. Dool, manager of the Alamo Theatre.

The correspondent of the Moving Picture World who has watched the growth of the business in Louisville and other Kentucky towns for the past five years, says that the crowds are not lined up on the streets as was the case at the Alamo, which was showing "The Road Through the Dark." The reason for this is that the crowds were not lined up on the streets as was the case at the Alamo, which was showing "The Road Through the Dark."
SCARCELY a week passes but that one or more prominent producers of motion pictures will open new branches of their companies, and in several instances arrangements for opening new studios have already been completed. It will soon be possible to make definite announcements. Most of the sites under consideration for these branches has been选定 in the Santa Clara Valley, where San Mateo and Burlingame, the most beautiful residence district in California, and the center of the cinematograph industry, have been selected.

Fred J. Balshofer, president of the Balshofer Feature Production Company, of Los Angeles, and H. E. Somborn, vice-president of this company, were here recently and announced their intention of moving their office to this city. In speaking of the reasons for the change, Mr. Somborn said: "We are keeping up with Los Angeles. Every available scene has been 'shot' so many times that the public knows them by heart. We can only get new types without number, and have access to the wonderful mountains and forests of Southern California, which is where the claim of this city as a highly desirable location for the production of moving pictures was first made. Many of these sites have been previously visited by producers of the country in the first vigorous campaign that has ever been launched to bring sites to San Francisco. Sol L. Lesser, president of the All-Star Feature Distributors, Inc., and one of the key men in the business, has also left the country, left a few days ago for New York with a definite proposition for the establishment of a studio here. He is, however, accompanied, with wealthy associates, to erect studios in various localities around the bay, which will subsequently be leased to the various companies desirous of making a change.

Tivoli Musical Director Makes Big Hit.

The Tivoli Theatre, recognized for many years as the center of musical life in this city, has been keeping up with the motion picture industry. A notable and recent effort along this line has created widespread interest. Mr. George B. Dunham, musical director of the Tivoli, has made a special study of the relation of music to moving pictures, and this is the result of his efforts. He has just returned from Paris, where he was a graduate of the Conservatoire of Paris, where he was awarded the gold medal and first prize, and for two years was conductor of the Astor Hotel orchestra, of New York. Upon coming to San Francisco he was made director of the St. Francis Hotel orchestra. He is now in charge of the Tivoli, and he will keep up with the industry in the manner of music that is being featured in all the publicity work.

Changes in Staff of Rialto Company.

Several changes have been made in the staff of the Rialto Theatre since the retirement of Louis J. Huric, and the re-opening of the house a few weeks ago. George M. Mann, who recently took over as manager of the Rialto Theatre Company, has been chosen president, and is now devoting his entire attention to the management of the house. George W. Rourk, formerly with the Stanley Theatres Company, Philadelphia, Pa., has succeeded J. W. Wells as manager of the Rialto, and is preparing to offer Rialto patrons something new in the way of entertainment. A miniature signal gun of twelve, and this will be featured weekly as Perry's Minstrel Maid. A change in the line of advertisement will be made each week to suggest a tour around the world. O. E. Lucas, for some time advertising manager of the company, has taken a job with A. Fulton Gallapuy. On the opening day of "Fame and Fortune," featuring Tom Mix, was announced for this coming Saturday, a production of the Radiant Films, largest in the history of the house. The Government war film, "Under Four Flags," has been booked for presentation at an early date.

New Manager for Fox.

Charles Muehlman, who formerly had charge of the Fox Film Corporation branch of the company, has been placed in charge of the local office of this concern, succeeding William J. Citar. Muehl- man is no stranger here, having been in charge of the Savoy Theatre for two seasons, and his many friends in the amusement business are glad to welcome him again. Shortly after his arrival here, Paul A. Maitland, new district manager, left for Los Angeles.

WANTS SAN ANTONIO TO BE STUDIO CENTER OF TEXAS CITY PIONS OUR Advantages of the Territory for Picture Making

By Phil Fox, Times-Herald, Dallas, Texas.

THE San Antonio Chamber of Commerce has started a campaign to make that city a motion picture production centre. William H. Parlong, secretary, in charge of this line of promotion work, has just returned from a trip to New York, where he had an interview with a musical director of a large motion picture corporations the advantages which San Antonio furnishes to the industry. He had no doubt that the light conditions in this territory afford a longer working day than is the case in either the California or the Texas regions. The tundra-like surroundings of San Antonio, with its old Spanish missions, were also points to which the interviewee said that some of the producing concerns were much interested.

The first concern to make pictures at San Antonio is the Jester Comedies Company. This company has leased the San Jose Hotel at Terrell Wells, just outside the city, and are setting down for six months' camera work during the winter. The Sunset Corporation and the Vitagraph have also been making pictures at San Antonio. The Sunset is enlarging their studios there.

Plans Films of Dallas for its Soldiers.

An elaborate series of motion pictures of Dallas, its magnificent buildings, beautiful parks, stately homes and broad avenues, has been put in hand by Ben E. Runyan, who is here from San Antonio, Cal. Mrs. Brennan plans to send the films to be seen before the United Dallas troops now in France.

Hayley Resigns from First National.

Douglas Hayley, Dallas manager of First National, has vacated his position and gone back to his first love, the public business. Hayley, for many years a newspaperman, received an offer from a local advertising company and accepted it. He left First National December 2.

Manager LeRoy Nickell, of Metro, becomes manager of First National. C. E. Buchanan, formerly booking clerk, will be booker for the Dallas office. Doak Roberts, formerly with the Select, who has been at Camp McArthur, Texas, will return to the management of the Theatre.

To Protest on Poor Wire Service.

Much complaint is being made by Dallas film exchange managers regarding the wire service they have been given by the local representatives. Plans are being made for a formal protest to Postmaster-General Bur- leson.

Not only are telegrams of importance to exhibitors delayed, but sometimes they do not arrive at all, causing business losses and closed theatres because of non-delivery of film.

Tel letz film companies in this territory say that they are handicapped owing to difficulty in securing delivery boys and shippers, because the city is either in the army or in war work.

The film exchanges still continue to complain about the express company service, which, they say, is slowly getting worse.

Show Have Proved Their Worth.

The presence of army camps in many of the larger towns of Texas has caused the motion picture theatres to keep open on Sundays during the long months or a year. Now that troops are to be demobilized and many camps abolished, it is likely that return will be made to the old blue laws.

Worth, a typical example, kept its theatre closed Sundays until the authorities at Camp Bowie urged their opening as affording helpful recreation to the 30,000 troops of the Thirty-sixth Division quartered there. The theatres were then permitted to open on Sunday, and even the daytime situation prevailed there, even though it was evident that they will continue to do so since the Sunday show has proved itself a force for good throughout the city. Dallas has, with the exception of a brief period four years ago, always had Sunday shows and consequently will not be affected.

Celebrates Fifth Anniversary.

The Washington Theatre celebrated its fifth anniversary on Thanksgiving Day, and W. D. Neville, owner, and Louis Bissinger, manager, received many congratulatory telegrams and letters. The Washington, which opened its doors on Thanksgiving Day, 1915, was the first elaborate and complete picture theatre to be opened in Dallas.

Liberty Theatre, Beaumont, Opens.

The new Liberty Theatre, Beaumont, Texas, was opened late in November by the Jefferson Amusement Company. A heavy downpour of rain did not dampen the enthusiasm of the initial audience which crowded the beautiful $50,000 structure, which seats 1,860 persons.

Airdrome Converted Into Closed Theatre.

The Airdrome Theatre, owned by Flippen & Co., at Ranger, Texas, has been closed as a movie theatre and will operate as an all-year-round movie picture house.

Texas Brevities.

The Princess Theatre, at Eastland, Texas, is being converted from a roofed-up single theatre to a complete picture house.

Texas Border.

A new theatre is being built near the border at Eagle Pass, Texas. Very few theatres are closed, however, through the Southwestern territory, and business is reported as being good.

Maritime News

By Alice Fairweather, Standard, St. John, New Brunswick.

It is a question as to whether the motion picture business in St. John has as yet regained its normal footing. The attendance at the theatres was formerly much larger than it is just after the opening of the houses, but some time ago, when they were formerly well filled, the patrons at the theatres, have not yet taken up the habit of attending these houses. St. John and Halifax are open, but throughout the province there are a few places where the ban still remains in force.

Ushers Presented to Governor General.

The Imperial Theatre was the scene of a brilliant gathering recently when an afternoon reception was held for the Duke of Devonshire in order that he might have an opportunity of addressing the representatives of Women's patriotic societies. Mayor Hayes presided, and the theatre was prettily decorated, the stage being hung with silks, fruits, and flowers, and the hall was filled with palms and flowers decorated. President of the societies sat in the left-hand box, and there was a large representation of the Movin’ Picture World was honored by being invited (with another woman journalist) in the person of Miss McCall of the Press. Volunteer aid workers sat in another box, and after they had been presented with a bouquet by some of the Young Women’s Patriotic Association went up, twelve of them, and those present were addressed by Miss McCall.

Exchange Managers’ Body to Meet.

A meeting of the Exchange Managers’ Association is to be held on Monday, which is the last day, but this meeting the exhibitors are also to be invited to be present to discuss matters of interest, and the question of prepayment, which is the most serious one at the moment.

NEWMAN BUILDING $500,000 THEATRE Major Features Will Distinguish the New House—Work Being Rushed for Early Spring Opening

By Kansas City News Service, 115 Railway Exchange, Kansas City, Mo.

Frank L. Newman, president of the Newman Theatre Company, owners of the Roy Oliver theatres, is pushing rapidly the construction of his third building under the Newman Theatre. This will occupy 200 feet frontage, 127 feet deep, on Main Street, between 7th and 8th streets, and the Newman Theatre will be a few doors from the Liberty.

This enterprise will have numerous features that will distinguish it among amusement projects. While strictly a moving picture theatre, it is being built somewhat after the plan of a speaking-stage structure. The building will be five heavy stories high, with the front floor and the second story, of the theatre, and here high-class stores will be opened. The building, with equipment, will represent an expenditure of about half a million dollars.

It is expected that the opening will occur early in spring. Work is being done on Sundays and holidays, and foundations have been laid at the site of the building. It is indicated that the Newman Theatre Company, with this new theatre and the new theatre, will have an investment in these buildings for $1,000,000.

The sign helps greatly to give the public a conception of the amount of money being used for its maintenance in the moving picture industry.

Exhibitors Receive Recognition.

Exhibitors in Kansas City are getting this tangible result from their undaunted fight against restrictions during the influenza ban: They are being recognized as a definite factor in civic life. A conference, or mass meeting of citizens for the purpose of deciding on a plan for a stock drive for the Kansas City soldiers who died in the war.

Several civic bodies were asked to send delegates to this meeting, and the Exhibitors’ League also was invited. W. B. Tutur, T. Evans, and H. L. Flynn were the representatives appointed to attend the meeting. They secured the co-operation of the city’s state senator, one of the leading attorneys of the city, to present their suggestions, and spent for the purpose of securing the services of Mr. Cooper took a prominent part in it.

In future consideration of the type of motion pictures released, the moving picture industry will have a part. This is particularly important since already the suggestion has been made that whatever memorial is decided upon, there should be some definite method of preserving historical records of Kansas City’s Boys’ part in the war—and moving pictures may provide one means of doing this.

H. B. Blank Opens Kansas City Branch.

L. D. Balsley has opened the A. H. Blank Enterprises, and has opened a separate branch of that organization in Kansas City, for some time to announce the prospect of interest of exhibitors, both because it indicates the growth of the A. H. Blank enterprises and it indicates the opening of a branch office, and because Mr. Balsley is so widely known and respected.

Mr. Balsley has been in many departments of the film business, therefore having the resources and experience he will be well for the new task. He organized the Atalissa Theatre Company at Springfield, Mo., and operated that theatre, after leaving the International Harvester Company, with whose advertising department he has been connected, is now an active member of A. D. Flintom’s organization in Kansas City, as advertising manager, and is also associated in advertising helps for exchange and exhibitor. He was also a former manager of the Kansas City Metro Exchange.

C. E. Holah, general manager of the A. H. Blank Enterprises, was in Kansas City November 30th. He was asked in the branch of which he will have full and complete control.

Elected President of Co-operative Club.

Seymour Rice, former actor, late theatre manager in Kansas City, now publisher of the theatre magazine, has been elected president of the Co-operative Club. Mr. Rice is—as might be guessed from his experience—and successful organization; and the honoring of him by the Cooperative Club is a source of gratification to the whole industry as well as to other phases of the amusement business. With the moving picture men co-operating in the activities of the club’s interests and an association formed, it is expected that this will work towards elevating the public conception of the dignity of the business.

Film Men in Commercial Clubs.

“The film industry, both exhibitors and exchange men, ought to take their proper places in the biggest local commercial organization.”

This statement by J. E. Storey, manager of the Pathé office at Kansas City, was indorsed by other film men at a recent meeting of the industry. The recent unfortunate happenings in connection with the influenza epidemic were blamed by Mr. Storey largely to the fact that film men had not been more active in the Chamber of Commerce.

“We should belong to the Chamber, take part in their meetings, know what is going on in the community, the benefit of our specialized information on the industry, and so really help the Chamber to work out its plan of solutions of problems in which our industry is involved.”

The same idea was mentioned by the other film men present. They also felt that the Chamber was not getting all it could from the industry.

Mr. Rice related facts as to the declaration of the ban on public gatherings, and other regulations of the epidemic, which the Chamber of Commerce claimed, in a special announcement to members, it had been responsible for. He had pointed out to officers of the Chamber that they had disregarded entirely the point of view of film men in such action—and the officers had come back with their suggestion that the film men ought to make themselves more active in the Chamber, so that more influence would be exerted on subjects affecting the moving picture industry.

It is impossible to perform a real service to the city and the Chamber, said Cliff C. Jones, vice-president of the Chamber and head of the advertising department of the organization—we want your cooperation—and you ought to demonstrate the true status and standing of your industry, which is fifth in the United States among all industries.

The small advertisement is not to be despised—especially when it is an announcement in The World’s Classified Advertising Department.

Musicians secure employment and managers are provided with competent orchestras or piano players through The World’s Classified Advertising Department.
THE reported good business at Dayton picture theatres is holding up in good shape and the Sunday openings, December 1, were the kind that speak for a continuance of prosperity. The Strand opened Sunday with "Spouting Life," the much heralded Tourneur made companion to "The Whip." Business at that house was very good for the day, although it did not reach the mark set by Chaplin's "Shouder Arms" the previous Sunday. "Theda Bara," in the "She Devil," opened at the Columbia for four days to packed houses. The Dayton Theatre (always packed) opened with this house's favorite star, Mabel Normand, in her latest, "A Perfect 36." The Government Official War picture, "Under Four Flags," opened at the Strand for four days Sunday, December 1. It is getting more than the usual amount of "free" publicity in the Dayton dailies.

Mecca, One of Dayton's West Side Houses.

A man who plays an important part in all phases of life in Dayton's "west side," where a good many foreigners (now true Americans) live, is Julius Leopold, manager and owner of the Mecca Theatre, and also lessor of the Midget Theatre, in the same section, about two blocks away. Considering the fact that his is a neighborhood house, Mr. Leopold has a very attractive theatre in the Mecca, of which one view is given on this page.

In spite of the fact that many of his patrons are so-called foreigners (although now patriotic Americans), Mr. Leopold states that more enthusiasm was shown during the run of "America's Answer" recently at the Mecca than is usually displayed. This film played for one week at the Memorial Hall, Dayton, first run. After this managing Director Mark Gates, of the Dayton Theatre here, played the film for four days to packed houses. This did not daunt Mr. Leopold, however, for he started with an engagement of "America's Answer" the day after the Dayton Theatre engagement, which is a big downtown house drawing from the whole city, with a seating capacity of 2,500.

The writer happened to be a visitor at the Mecca during a showing of this film, and say that the crowd was enthusiastic would be to put it mildly. They were cheering wildly at every scene and patriotism reigned supreme. The seating capacity of the Mecca is about 500, there being only one other suburban house in Dayton larger. Mr. Leopold states that business in line at the Mecca, also the Midget, which he controls, and that nothing more could be wished for. He is a member of the Miami Valley Exhibitors' League and can be seen as an interested party at all of that organization's meetings.

Thompson a Pioneer Picture Man.

One of the oldest exhibitors in Dayton is D. H. "Dad" Thompson, manager and owner of the Muse-Us Theatre. Mr. Thompson was among the pioneers in the picture game in Dayton, and the stories that he tells of the earlier efforts of Day- ton showmen are indeed interesting.

In addition to managing the Muse-Us Theatre "Dad" is president of the Miami Valley Exhibitors' League, with rooms in the Rauh Building, Dayton. Mr. Thompson paid a visit to the writer one day last week, and among other things stated that business at the Muse-Us was very good. He is an interested reader of the Moving Picture World.

Bert Flia in Still HI.

Bert Flia, of the Alhambra Theatre, Dayton, is still weak from his recent attack of neuralgia and as yet has not been able to get back to work. Mr. Flia spent a few minutes at his theatre Sunday, December 1, but the nervous strain proved too great and he was forced to return home.

Iowa News Letter

By J. L. Shipley, 615 Locust Street, Des Moines, Iowa.

Leases Princess Theatre, Fort Dodge.

H. L. Walker, who operates theatres in Airdron and other South Dakota points, has taken a lease on the Princess Theatre in Fort Dodge, and is running high class feature half the week and vaudeville the other half. The new policy, according to Mr. Walker, is working out splendidly, and seems to be what the people of Fort Dodge have been waiting for. Mr. Walker is personally looking after the house and the orchestra in attendance during the entire week. He is augmenting his musical arrangement on the big pictures.

Blank Ill with a Cold.

A. H. Blank has been confined to his home for several days with a severe cold and only got up to take arms in the influenza fight.

Lyric Theatre, Newton, Leased.

Has been taken and now is the Lyric Theatre, Newton, and are doing a big business with feature pictures. They are making a special effort to get foreign subjects at advanced admission. Pete Lemen, former proprietor of that house, and now operating the Belto in conjunction with A. A. Heki, has been appointed deputy sheriff, and Mr. Heki is personally managing the Belto.

Boyle Planning Large Theatre.

J. C. Boyle, proprietor of the Antics Hotel at Madison, Iowa, is going to build a new theatre of large seating capacity in that city, and now has plans drawn for an up-to-the-minute structure. Construction work will be started in the near future. Mr. Boyle has progressive ideas along the line of theatre management, and it is believed that the new house will be a real business in Fort Madison, which has been a one-man town for many years, and in need of some opposition to make conditions what they should be in an 8,000 town.

The new theatre will be ready for opening about the first of September.

J. H. Ross Is Very Ill.

C. J. Ross, formerly road man for Pathé, is seriously ill at Iowa City in a sanitarium, and grave doubts are entertained for his recovery. Mr. Ross has been subjected to tuberculous trouble. Ross has been in film work in Iowa for several years past.

Cleveland News Letter

By M. A. Malaney, 206 Sloan Building, Cleveland, O.

Argus Opens a Supply Department.

The Argus Enterprises, Sloan Building, Cleveland, has opened its supply department, in charge of Ray Smith, well known in this line. The supply department is located in the west portion of the Argus headquarters, which are on the second floor of the Sloan Building.

Gordon Square Theatre Changes Hands.

The Gordon Square Theatre, which is one of the largest on the west side of Cleveland, has passed into the hands of G. T. Sharp and J. Scoville, they having bought it from Hexter, Zoffier, Feller and associates.

The Gordon Square has never changed hands since it was built about eight years ago. It has run vaudeville in winter and pictures in summer with much success. Mr. Hexter and his partners also operate the Liberty Theatre, a vaudeville house on the east side, and the Reel and Corona theatres downtown.

Mr. Sharp is the owner of the Southern Theatre, a prosperous house on the west side, which is managed by himself and his wife, Mr. Scoville being his partner. Mr. Essick, operate the Sunbeam and Eszela theatres, two popular neighborhood houses for several years.

The plans of the new owners and managers call for the abandonment of vaudeville and a policy of pictures throughout the year. Many improvements and some decorating will be done.

Morris to Manage the Windsor.

"Bustlebush" Morris, for years road man for the Cleveland Paramount-Arctafe Exchange, has assumed the management of the Windsor Theatre here. He intends to make several improvements in the house and will book only the best attractions.
ELABORATE TABLEAU FOR OFFICIAL FILM

Original and Effective Spectacle Staged at the Circle, Indianapolis, for "Under Four Flags"

By Indiana Trade News Service, 69 Layman Avenue, Indianapolis, Ind.

WITh a gifted orchestral interpretation and an appropriate and elaborately colorful Pageant of the "Allies," giving it both voice and color, the official Government war picture of "Under Four Flags" was shown last week at the Circle Theatre in Indianapolis, with no doubt a bigger success than any other war picture yet seen in the Hoosier capital.

But there is no doubt that it was the managing director of the Circle, who was responsible for the presentation, Mr. Nipitello, the director of the Circle orchestra, that contributed largely to the picture's success. Mr. Nipitello has been a member of the Circle orchestra for a term of years, and after thoroughly re-modeling it will reopen it, playing varied attractions, including his famous "Live Band." Mr. Linton is one of the best known exhibitors in New York State and is gradually expanding his already success chain of show houses. He is president of the Central New York Exhibitors' League.

William Falt, Jr., Returns to Utica

Fate has returned William Falt, Jr., formerly manager of the Liberty Theatre at Utica, to this city, and he is now manager of the Elks Club here. Mr. Falt was recently manager of the Liberty Theatre at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, Ohio.

New Price Scale at the Orpheum

The New Orpheum Theatre, one of Utica's biggest neighborhood houses, has advanced its prices as follows: Matinee, everybody 10 cents; evenings, adults 15 cents, children 10 cents, the war tax being included in those prices. Mr. Parker, of the Orpheum, believes that this move has brought him a higher class of patronage and that it has added prestige to his house.

Park Shows Italian War Pictures

"Italy's Flaming Front" was recently shown at the Park Theatre, and in connection with it Capt. Taliano Treves, a captain in the Italian Merchant Marine during the fighting, told of his experiences to hundreds of the War Bond patrons.

First-Run Paramounts at the Avon

The Avon Theatre, Utica, has secured first-run on all of the Paramount and Artcraft pictures and is doing a big business about it in a three-quarter page advertisement.

Utica Globe Has Good Picture Section

John D. Davis, a well known newspaper man, is now the motion picture editor of the Utica Saturday Globe, a weekly newspaper, and he is putting out a real good page every week. The larger picture theatres carry an advertisement on the page every week, as it has a fine weekly circulation.

INTEREST IN EDUCATIONAL FILMS GROWS

Marked Evidence in Minneapolis That Pictures of an Instructive Nature Are Gaining in Popularity

By William Edward Mulligan, Minneapolis Journal, Minneapolis, Minn.

THE growth in the popularity of moving pictures of an educational, social, economic and patriotic value, as well as the growth in the number of children attending the pictures of that nature and is emphasized by renewed interest which attaches to certain exhibitions slated for December.

One of the events of the month will be the visit of Ralph D. Paine, author of "Our Fighting Fleet," who was with the Allied naval expeditions for a year. He will give an illustrated lecture in the Minneapolis auditorium December 7, for Monument Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Ed Morris and Ben Cook are the new proprietors of this theatre. Performances are in the evening only and the admission price is 5 cents for children and 11 cents for adults.

Fire Destroys Skinner Opera House

The old Skinner Opera House, at Little Falls, N. Y., was destroyed by fire yesterday, the only pictures, caught fire Monday, November 11, and at 3 a.m. on the day when the fire department reached the place, the roof and walls had come the fire bell rang and the fire department responded to an alarm in the building occupied by the theatre. The building was a complete wreck.

Linton Leases the City Theatre

W. H. Linton, proprietor of the Hippodrome theatres in Utica and Little Falls, and the Little Theatre, Herkimer, has leased the City Theatre, Little Falls, for a term of years, and after thoroughly re-modeling it will reopen it, playing varied attractions, including his famous "Live Band".
In Unsigned Advertisements Winnipeg Theatres Proclaim Lifting of Ban and Resumption of Business

By W. M. Gladish, 33 Vinewa Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

This makes an average daily attendance at the Regent for the week of slightly more than 7,000 persons. This means that the Regent was sold out capacity five times each day.

The English war picture, "The Better Ole," proved to be a surprisingly good drawing card at the Allen. Regular prices were charged, general admissions for evening performances being 25 cents and 35 cents.

Trade Showing of Pathe Serial in Ottawa.

There was a gathering of several hundred exhibitors, reviewers, newspapermen, fans and others at the Family Theatre, Ottawa, on Wednesday evening, November 27, for the presentation of the first three episodes of the Pathe serial, "Wolves of Kultur." The show was arranged by Charles Lalumiere, representing the Montreal headquarters of the Specialty Film Import, Ltd., Canadian Pathé distributors. It was the first local trade show in months. Lalumiere had no difficulty in placing the first run in Ottawa, Managing Bureau of the Francois Theatre getting the picture.

Majestic Holds a Midnight Show.

The Majestic Theatre, Winnipeg, Man., put over a good stunt when the ban was lifted last night, November 27. The management of the Majestic did not wait until the afternoon of the 28th to stage its first performance. With the doors of the theatre at one minute past midnight with a special show, the feature of which was "Flies of Youth," starring Ruth Clifford. The performance was described as "a treat for Winnipeg's starred photoplay fans." Although the idea of a midnight show was something entirely new for Winnipeg, the attendance was good and the theatre secured a wide amount of publicity.

Tax Receipts Distributed Among Hospitals.

The City Commissioner of Montreal received on November 23 the sum of $75,624.69 from the Quebec provincial government as a part of the allotment for the year from the provincial amusement tax. The city immediately distributed this money, pro rata, among a dozen different hospitals and homes in Montreal, the largest sum, $9,415, being awarded to the Montreal General Hospital.

Uses Timely Slogans in Theatre Ads.

Manager Sexton, of the Family Theatre, Kew Beach, Toronto, has adopted several time-honored phrases in his newspaper advertising. One slogan consists of an appeal to "Save coal and spend your evening at the Family Theatre." Another line is, "The Family Theatre is well heated and ventilated."
FILM SMILES SPEEDING "OVER THERE"

Maryland Soldiers in France Soon to Get 15,000 Feet of Pictures of Their Relatives and Friends

By J. M. Shellsman, 1902 Mt. Royal Terrace, Baltimore, Md.

The 15,000 feet of film taken and produced under the term "Flaming Front" and Chaplin's "Shoulder Arms," both First National. Photographs of friends and relatives of the boys, who have been in the war for a year and a half, will be sent out to France. The pictures are entitled "Miles of Smiles," and that is indeed what they are.

The men who undertook the work of getting the people together and producing "Flaming Front" and "Shoulder Arms," are, new, chief editor; E. A. Fitzpatrick, city editor, and John Shea, of the staff of the Evening Sun.

As soon as the pictures come back from the stage they brought heavy applause.

Among the film men who personally attended were Ed. Beatty, Harry Scott and Harnan Starr, of the Madison Film Exchange, and Harry Angell, of the World. There would have been a special trainload from Detroit if it had not been Thanksgiving day.

Beatty, who had arranged to have the films ready by January 1, Mr. McGee has no announcement to make as to future plans, although he says that he has had many of the boys arranged for such a trip.

Mr. McGee is one of the most widely traveled men in the industry, having been in the producing end. His success has been due to the fact that he makes each week one of individuality; he studies every picture from all angles to get the most out of them in the ways of special stunts, advertising and publicity.

New Exchange Ready.

W. A. Haynes has now started business at 303 Film Building, Detroit, as Michigan representative for the Film Clearing House and the International Film Sales Corporation. The first named concern does the physical distribution of any pictures for any producer or exchange. The latter concern will sell and distribute the $10, $20 and $30 picture for a producer of which is known as "Her Mistake," and which goes into the Colonial Theatre for a solid week. Mr. Haynes will shortly announce the first twelve pictures to be released.

Educational Pictures Going Strong.

Charles A. Dean, president of the Educational Distributing Corporation, visited Detroit again last week, and was amazed at the amount of business that was done. He says so many Educational subjects. "Exhibitors all over the country are realizing their pictures, they are not just pictures, but are subject pictures, and adding them to their program," he said. "In the smallest towns exhibitors are booking them. I have understood, Harry Abbott is the Detroit manager for Educations.

Fox Gets the Washington.

When W. R. Sheehan, general manager of the Theatres, of Detroit, November 30, he confirmed the rumor that William Fox had leased the Washing- ton Theatre, that possession at the expiration of John H. Kunsky's lease, which is September, 1919. The Fox is paying $45,000, in addition to the taxes, which will bring the grand total up to $52,000.
Producers’ and Distributors’ News

Fannie Ward Heads Pathé Program December 15

The Pathé program for the week beginning December 15 is headed by Fannie Ward in another of her extra selected star photoplays made from the play, "The Narrow Path," under the management of A. H. Woods, who is also the producer of the picture. It is said to be an exceptionally strong story of New York life. George Fitzmaurice directed the subject for Asta. The keynote is expressed in one of the subtitles: "God never planned a double standard—one for a man and another for a woman. And, yet, in the eyes of the world, a woman always must pay.

Harold Lloyd, with his able and active assistants, Bebe Daniels and Snub Pollard, appears in an unusual Rollin-made comedy, called "Take a Chance." The comedian was not slow to accept the invitation, and how he managed to escape broken bones in some of the stunts that he accomplishes is a mystery.

The entire history of war as it affected America up to the time of peace is told in a special one-reel patriotic feature, called "Liberty's Triumph." It has been aptly called "The Condensation of a Thousand Books.

The tenth episode of "Wolves of Kultur" is called "When a Woman Wars," and shows how a clever, wideawake and patriotic girl outwits the German only to face another peril. Leah Baird is given splendid support by Sheldon Lewis, Charles Hutchison and Edmund Daily.

Number 25 of the Official War Review shows some of the most vivid scenes of the conduct of the war that have yet been exhibited. The head-hunting Dyaks, the fierce savage men of Borneo, become closely familiar with the camera in Post Travel Series No. 25, and they make an entirely odd and interesting study. Those who have seen "The Wild Men of Borneo" of the circus will be surprised when they see what really super-freaks the real, "blood-drinking" originals are.

O'Brien in Salvation Army Story.

Preparatory to starting work on the Paramount-Arcaft special dealing with the work done by the Salvation Army in war and peace, Edward Jose, the director, has arrived on the coast from New York accompanied by Catherine Calvert, Ruby de Remer and Eugene O'Brien, who will appear in the leading roles of the unusually important production.

The scenario for the production was written by Charles Whittaker and Evangeline Booth, Commander of the Salvation Army, personally in a number of the scenes.

Lockwood's Death Brings Heavy Call for His Work

The question as to whether the death of a star would affect the popularity of his picture productions seems to have been settled for all time by the case of the late Harold Lockwood, the first player of prominence to die at the height of his career in many months.

Not only is the photoplay work of the young actor in greater demand than ever, but his admirers are flooding the offices of Metro with requests for the reissuing of Lockwood favorites. The greatest interest, however, lies in the seven-reel super-features Mr. Lockwood completed for Screen Classics, Inc., shortly before his death.

"Pals First," the first of these to be distributed by Metro, is enjoying unprecedented runs in the largest theatres. The story won admiration first as a book and then as a play, running for over a year to capacity business on Broadway. The picture was directed by Edwin Carewe.

E. M. Sanders, special representative of Screen Classics, who handled the record-breaking bookings, attributes the increased demand on the part of exhibitors and the public for Harold Lockwood productions not only to the popularity and ability of the star and the unusual quality of his productions, but to the fact that his death has aroused interest in his work.

"Mr. Lockwood's pictures," Mr. Sanders declares, "are the story of his vigorous career. Naturally his friends and others are interested and in turn the exhibitor is interested. "Pals First," already familiar as a delightful tale of mystery, charm and action, makes a superb and absorbing screen story. It represents the star at the zenith of his success. From the letters of exhibitors we have, his other pictures, which will be released soon, will be even more popular."

The first of these will probably be "The Great Romance." It is written around the timely subject of democracy. Mr. Lockwood's role is that of a young king who renounces his throne to institute a popular form of government in his native land. The love interest is between the heir to the throne and an American girl.

Good Cast for "A Lady's Name." Select has made public the personnel of Constance Talmadge's next Select picture, "A Lady's Name," in which she will be presented by Lewis J. Selznick. "A Lady's Name" will be remembered as the successful stage play by Cyril Harcourt, in which Marie Tempest was starred, and in which the author and Norma Trevor were featured players. This picture was announced last week, but it was impossible at that time to give the complete cast.

In "A Lady's Name," Constance Talmadge heads a company that is said to be superior in many ways to the original cast that presented this comedy on the stage. Harrison Ford is leading man.

There is an unusually large cast. Director Walter Edwards has included in it Emory Johnson, Vera Doria, James Farley, Fred Hunter, John Stepling, Truman Van Dyke, Lillian Leightoun, Emma Gerdes and Zaza Pitts.

Miss Mersereau is "The Nature Girl." Scenes on a tropical island near the equator, the filming of which cost Universal more than $5,000, are features of "The Nature Girl," the Bluebird picture which has just been released. Miss Mersereau, star of the production, is pictured in the bewitching role of a girl reared in scant clothing and mid scenes close to nature. J. A. C. Lund directed the film.
Pauline Frederick Working on First Goldwyn Subject

Pauline Frederick is rapidly progressing on her first Goldwyn picture, "The Strange Woman," under the direction of Hobart Henley. Not the least interesting feature for those who have watched Miss Frederick company at work is the close collaboration of Willard Mack. Nobody, of course, knows Miss Frederick's style better than Mr. Mack, and nobody could be better equipped to assist a director in getting the full impact out of her personality. Mr. Mack has assisted in the building of the scenario. Furthermore, he is one of the most important roles in the play.

The cast has been selected with the utmost care. It includes Ben Henley, Fred Lennox, Jere Austin and Tammany Young. Prominent on the distaff side is Florence Ashbrook. The play, of which the title and authorship are not yet disclosed, will be a distinct surprise. It is understood one of the best known attractions that the Broadway theatres had to offer this year.

"Little Women" Release Is Set for Jan. 15.

"Little Women," the William A. Brady production, based upon Louise M. Alcott's story of New England life, purchased from the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation immediately after its successful showing at the Strand Theatre, will be released by Paramount-Artcraft Special January 5.

Filled with humor, pathos and delicate sentiment, this delightful picture pictures the adventures of Meg, Jo, Beth and Amy, the famous Players-Lasky officials centered in the lives of every woman and girl, and every man and boy, for that matter, who have read the story. The story is set in the Pacific coast, New England days of the Civil War, and its numerous home touches release a romance and its gentle pathos are said to be as effective in the photoplay as they were in the pages of Miss Alcott's wonderful book.

Of the cast of fifty-five, the fact that the scenes in the photoplay were filmed in and about the home of Miss Alcott in Concord, Mass., which is in a perfect state of preservation. Assisting in the details of production was a nephew of these many valuable pointers to Harley Knox, the director. In the cast as the four little women are Tamora Murray, Julia Dale, Miss Hill and Florence Flinn. Henry Hull is Brook and Conrad Engel is Laurie. Kate Lester, Dorothy Lamp, George Kelson and Lynn Hammond are also in the cast.

Fox releases "The Strange Woman.

"The Strange Woman," the film version of the play by William J. Hurlbut, was released last week by William Fox, with Gladys Brockwell in the title role. An interesting point in connection with the release of "The Strange Woman" is that this picture was among those chosen to be shown to the presidential peace conference for consideration. The subject was directed by Edward J. LeSaint. The scenario was written by J. Grumbach.

In the cast supporting Miss Brockwell are Charles Clary, William Scott, Harry Depp, Ralph Lacey, Ada Beecher, Eunice Moore, Grace Wood, Margaret Cullington, Lucy Donahue, Mrs. Gül, Embry, Mrs. Cullington, and as leading man with among others, Ogle Nethersole, Elsie Ferguson, Mary Manning and Mrs. Patric Campbell. For five years Mr. Mills played in London with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, and as leading man with among others, Ogle Nethersole, Elsie Ferguson, Mary Manning and Mrs. Patric Campbell. For five years Mr. Mills played in London with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, and as leading man with among others, Ogle Nethersole, Elsie Ferguson, Mary Manning and Mrs. Patric Campbell. For five years Mr. Mills played in London with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, and as leading man with among others, Ogle Nethersole, Elsie Ferguson, Mary Manning and Mrs. Patric Campbell. For five years Mr. Mills played in London with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, and as leading man with among others, Ogle Nethersole, Elsie Ferguson, Mary Manning and Mrs. Patric Campbell. For five years Mr. Mills played in London with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, and as leading man with among others, Ogle Nethersole, Elsie Ferguson, Mary Manning and Mrs. Patric Campbell. For five years Mr. Mills played in London with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, and as leading man with among others, Ogle Nethersole, Elsie Ferguson, Mary Manning and Mrs. Patric Campbell. For five years Mr. Mills played in London with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, and as leading man with among others, Ogle Nethersole, Elsie Ferguson, Mary Manning and Mrs. Patric Campbell. For five years Mr. Mills played in London with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, and as leading man with among others, Ogle Nethersole, Elsie Ferguson, Mary Manning and Mrs. Patric Campbell. For five years Mr. Mills played in London with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, and as leading man with among others, Ogle Nethersole, Elsie Ferguson, Mary Manning and Mrs. Patric Campbell. For five years Mr. Mills played in London with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, and as leading man with among others, Ogle Nethersole, Elsie Ferguson, Mary Manning and Mrs. Patric Campbell. For five years Mr. Mills played in London with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, and as leading man with among others, Ogle Nethersole, Elsie Ferguson, Mary Manning and Mrs. Patric Campbell. For five years Mr. Mills played in London with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, and as leading man with among others, Ogle Nethersole, Elsie Ferguson, Mary Manning and Mrs. Patric Campbell. For five years Mr. Mills played in London with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, and as leading man with among others, Ogle Nethersole, Elsie Ferguson, Mary Manning and Mrs. Patric Campbell. For five years Mr. Mills played in London with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, and as leading man with among others, Ogle Nethersole, Elsie Ferguson, Mary Manning and Mrs. Patric Campbell. For five years Mr. Mills played in London with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, and as leading man with among others, Ogle Nethersole, Elsie Ferguson, Mary Manning and Mrs. Patric Campbell. For five years Mr. Mills played in London with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, and as leading man with among others, Ogle Nethersole, Elsie Ferguson, Mary Manning and Mrs. Patric Campbell. For five years Mr. Mills played in London with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, and as leading man with among others, Ogle Nethersole, Elsie Ferguson, Mary Manning and Mrs. Patric

Margaret Fisher Restows Medal.

A gold medal offered by Margaret Fisher, American Film Company star featuring in "Flying A" productions, to the first Rockwell Field aviator to bring down a German plane was won by Lieut. Frank Luke, of Phoenix, Ariz. Because of Lieutenant Luke's death shortly before the armistice was signed the medal will be given to his father.

According to a letter received from the commander of his squadron, Lieutenant Luke is officially credited with having crashed his first V-x plane on September 12, five days previous to that of another Rockwell Field aviator's first plane.

In her forthcoming vehicle, "Fair Enough," Miss Fisher is considered at her best. In addition to being a riot of laughs, it has a thrilling and dramatic story showing that when a girl wants her way she generally gets it. It is to be released by the American Film Company through Pathé exchanges.

World to Release "The Better 'Ole" as Special

"Wild Honey," Mr. Mills rejected three flattering offers to appear in Broadway productions.

Margaret Fisher Restows Medal.

A gold medal offered by Margaret Fisher, American Film Company star featuring in "Flying A" productions, to the first Rockwell Field aviator to bring down a German plane was won by Lieut. Frank Luke, of Phoenix, Ariz. Because of Lieutenant Luke's death shortly before the armistice was signed the medal will be given to his father.

According to a letter received from the commander of his squadron, Lieutenant Luke is officially credited with having crashed his first V-x plane on September 12, five days previous to that of another Rockwell Field aviator's first plane.

In her forthcoming vehicle, "Fair Enough," Miss Fisher is considered at her best. In addition to being a riot of laughs, it has a thrilling and dramatic story showing that when a girl wants her way she generally gets it. It is to be released by the American Film Company through Pathé exchanges.

Maggie Evans in "The Love Net" (World).

World to Release "The Better 'Ole" as Special

"Wild Honey," Mr. Mills rejected three flattering offers to appear in Broadway productions.

Margaret Fisher Restows Medal.

A gold medal offered by Margaret Fisher, American Film Company star featuring in "Flying A" productions, to the first Rockwell Field aviator to bring down a German plane was won by Lieut. Frank Luke, of Phoenix, Ariz. Because of Lieutenant Luke's death shortly before the armistice was signed the medal will be given to his father.

According to a letter received from the commander of his squadron, Lieutenant Luke is officially credited with having crashed his first V-x plane on September 12, five days previous to that of another Rockwell Field aviator's first plane.

In her forthcoming vehicle, "Fair Enough," Miss Fisher is considered at her best. In addition to being a riot of laughs, it has a thrilling and dramatic story showing that when a girl wants her way she generally gets it. It is to be released by the American Film Company through Pathé exchanges.

"Sunnsyde" Is Chaplin's Next.

"Sunnsyde" is the title given by Charlie Chaplin to his third, production for distribution through exchanges of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit. Beyond this, and the statement that the story is laid in a small country town, little is known of the nature of the forthcoming release. Several advance "stills" from the Chaplin studios taken with Chaplin entertaining various celebrities in the course of his work indicate that he will appear in it in his number twelve show, baggy trousers and derby, but evidently without his cane. This latter item of adornment does not appear in any of the scene stills.

Red Cross Boys Cameragraph.

A letter to the Nicholas Power Company from the Pacific Amusements Supply Company states that it recently sold a 6-A Cameragraph to the American Red Cross Bureau of Camp Service, Naval Training Station, San Diego, Cal. A letter from the Red Cross officers to the Pacific Amusements Company says they got a picture 20 by 24 on a 172-foot throw. As a matter of fact, Power's machines have projected up to 365 feet.
World Pictures Prepares for Days of Prosperity

WORLD PICTURES is having the most prosperous period of its existence at the present moment. Every branch exchange is going at full capacity due to the renewed interest in motion pictures as the relics of war conditions. The armistice has sent the public back to the theatres in such droves as the history of the industry has seldom seen.

Every head of industrial corporations scattered throughout the country is of the same opinion, that we will see no end of this long desired prosperity until wasted Europe is completely refurnished with both raw and manufactured American products. If the owners and managers of motion picture theatres expect to participate in this wonderful era of success it behooves them to make ready or get out of the business.

The World is reaching out with assurance that it is seizing the moment at its flood tide. In addition to its regular weekly release of dependable pictures in which Montauk Love, Louise Huff, Carlyle Blackburn, Evelyn Greeley, June Eldridge and Magde Evans are the stars, it has arranged for a number of specials, including "America's Answer," "Under Pour Flags" and an epoch-making picture of the moment entitled "What Shall We Do with Him."

Hollywood Escapes a Jinx.

When Director Edwin L. Hollywood completed the scenes taken at Camp Dix, the history does no for this part of Adirondack mountains. Zena Keefe is starring, he sighed in relief, for a jinx threatened the work to the end. The military scenes required but the work of a day and Thursday was planned. No sooner had they arrived than a heavy rain fell and continued all day. The next day the sun shone bright and everything promised well until the cameraman let the camera fall off a fifty-foot platform and crash through the roof of the Y. M. C. A. hut, smashing the camera beyond hope of use. But on the third day good fortune smiled upon them and every scene was taken at the company's lot in three days. The next evening at six o'clock the entire camp was quarantined because of the influenza epidemic!

"The Challenge Accepted" is a dramatic story of the selective service draft as it affected the natives of the Blue Ridge mountains. Miss Keefe is ideal in the leading role, which is backed by Chester Barnett, John Hopkins, Sidney D'Albrook, Warren Cook, Charles Eldridge, Russell Simpson and Donald Gordon Reid, formerly connected with the Films of the Committee on Public Information, is author of the story. The picture will be released on December 3 and distributed by the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation through Pathe Exchange, Inc.

"Branding Broadway" Is Ready.

"Branding Broadway" is the picturesque title of William S. Hart's new Artcraft picture, scheduled for release December 15. Hart made part of the film in the big city. And he has made a picture which, according to report, is one of the liveliest he has ever done. Not the least unusual feature is that while the New York scenes were actually made in New York, the West is the locale of the scenes which are supposed to be laid there, or in the Southwest, to be exact. So the Artcraft star traveled more than 6,000 miles in order to make the picture accurate in detail as to background. Furthermore, the spectacle of Bill Hart in the big city, putting his indelible brand on the historic street, is something in itself decidedly out of the ordinary for the Artcraft star.

C. Gardner Sullivan is author of the story and Mr. Hart did his own directing, assisted by Robert Broadwell.

Seena Owen is leading woman.

Lytell Author of Metro's
"Hitting the High Spots"

METRO's all star series release for the week of December 9 will be "Hitting the High Spots," starring Bert Lahr. He has made a picture which, as well as the star of the picture, which contains adventure, suspense, comedy and romance of a highly original order. The states and picturesque regions of Mexico are the backgrounds used for the scenes of this feature.

Lytell's role is that of a young live-wire American engineer, Bob Durland, who risks his life among Mexican insurgents to save the life of the father of the girl he wants to marry. It is an adventure story pure and simple. Opening in the states, it takes the spectacle to Mexico with the young engineer, who has determined to save soothing America and the wells from being confiscated by rebel Mexicans in a fierce and bloody revolution.

Eileen Percy, whose beauty and winning personality has endeared her to the moving picture public, has the role opposite Lytell. Among the other players are Winter Hall, Helen Dumar, Gordon Griffin, Fred Goodwins, Stanton Heck, Al Edmonson, William Eagle Eye, William Courtwright and Joanne Hume. In addition to these over a thousand Mexicans take part in the big scenes of the picture.

George D. Baker and Mr. Lytell adapted the story for the screen, and the direction was under Charles Swickard.

Bennison Trade Showings
Reported a Big Success

THE prediction that Louis Bennison will be a highly successful screen star and repeat his stage successes received verification this week when Goldwyn managers in every branch office of the company held exhibitor trade showings of the Johnny, the first Metro Goldwyn Film Company production in which Bennison is to greet the motion picture public.

Johnny," by the A. and J. Louis Bennison Star Series productions which are to be released through Goldwyn, and on which contract bookings are reported as being large. The first production will have its premiere throughout out America on December 22, and meanwhile it has been seen and applauded by representative theatre owners.

Already four Bennison productions have been completed, and three of them are titled and ready for distribution. The second Bennison release is to be "High Pockets," by William Patterson White, and directed by J. M. Lowry, director of the entire series. The third release will be "Sandy Burke of the U-Bar-U."

Virginia Lee is Mr. Bennison's leading woman in "Oh, Johnny!" In the supporting cast are Alphonse Ethier, John Daly Murphy, Edward Rosenberg, Anita Cortez and Frank Goldsmith.

Pauline Starke Plays Irish Lass.

Catherine Carr and Dr. Daniel Carson Goodwin, both of whom successful photoplays to their credit, were the joint authors of "Irish Eyes," The Triangle release for the week of December 15. Pauline Starke is the featured player, and she is said to portray as lovable a little Irish lass as ever graced the screen. She plays the role of Peggeen, a poor, neglected step-child of Irish fishing folks, who meets Mr. Arthur Ormsby, and is helped by him to escape from her brutal guardians.

Rae Godfrey, Eugene Burr and Joe King are well known Triangle players in the supporting cast of this picture. "Irish Eyes" was directed and William Dowlan, with Elgin Leslie at the camera.

New Flood Lighting Booklet.

X-Ray Flood Lighting is the name of a new booklet lately published by the National X-Ray Reflector Company. This booklet explains at some length the important part its equipment is playing in the winning of the war. Protection lighting as well as outdoor lighting for night work is being especially well cared for by the X-Ray projectors.

Several new silver mirrored reflectors for projectors and three new X-Ray projected lanterns were added to the bulletin. These additions make the X-Ray line of flood lighting units comprehensive.

Scenes from "The Lightning Raider" (Pathé).
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

December 21, 1918

Universal Starts Dec. 24
The Hearst Three-A-Week

This arrangement by which Universal extends its Hearst three-a-week news service will be in effect the week beginning December 22. Having acquired the exclusive and distributing rights of the Universal Current Events Bulletin and Morning Screen Telegram, the Hearst International News Service will in the future issue a Current News Bulletin on Thursday and Screen Telegram on Tuesday and Screen Telegram on Thursday. These will be released through Universal wire service upon arrival from the laboratories.

The best cameramen in the principal cities have been engaged as correspondents for these weeks and no effort or expense will be spared to make them worthy of the Hearst name.

December 24 will see the Hearst News No. 1 leave the laboratory and on December 26 the Screen Telegram will make its initial appearance at the Universal offices. These releases will be followed on December 29 by the Universal Current Events No. 83 and thereafter the three-a-week service will maintain regular schedule.

To give Pacific Coast exhibitors better service, Universal will have inserted in the Current Events and Hearst News weekly at Coast laboratories many local news stories via the Pacific Telegram in regular form. C. J. Hubbell has gone to California for the Hearst international assignment. The cameramen. The new arrangement provides exhibitors desiring local pictures with live local material, giving them this service at a regular schedule price.

Frank Bradshaw, Universal's Teleeditor will edit the Pacific Coast weekly.

W. W. Johnston, special Hearst representative, will now complete a tour of the leading cities advertising for newspaper cooperation on the news reels.

In the future, releases Universal will continue to issue its Screen Magazine, which is to be developed along newspaper feature lines.

Harry Morye Portrays a River Pirate.

"Boaried Assets," the Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature scheduled for release the first week of December, 22, is described as a typical Morye picture, full of life and action. The story is one of mystery that hangs on to the end. It is Morye's second star series release under Vitagraph's Vitawave policy. The star is said to have one of his most effective roles in some time, that of a river pirate who falls in love by love, and the development of the romance shows a number of beautiful river scenes, as well as a number of racy thrills, notably where he steals twenty kgs of gold coin and buries them on the river bed, and where he digs them up to aghast detectives and confounded by the girl for whom he had stolen.

Paul Scardon, who directs the Harry Morye features, has been most successful in getting the pirate atmosphere of the story. The locations chosen are wharves along the Hudson. The story is by Raymond S. Spears, and gives the hero role to a young and virile girl who places love above riches, but because she happens to be a show girl the man she loves and who loves her believes that with her it is money first. This role is taken by Betty Blytho, Mr. Morye's leading woman, and others in the supporting cast are George Majeroni, Robert Guillard and Jean Feare. The feature is produced at Vitagraph's Brooklyn studio.

Rainbow Comedies in Demand.

Since the general resumption of motion picture exhibition a strong revival of demand for the Rainbow Comedies from the United States Motion Picture Corporation has been noted by General Film Company. The idea involved in all these one-reel comedies is a fast, snappy plot without slapstick, with considerable emphasis upon story value. The principal players are Lilian Vera and Eddie Houdien. The current release is "The Pipe of Peace," in which a young husband, a bride, a diamond ring and a Swede servant girl figure as the factors.

"What Shall We Do with Him?"

The Chicago Herald-Examiner is at the present time running an extraordinarily popular contest on the question of what shall be done with the ex-Kaiser. Over 2,000 replies a day are being received in answer to the question, "What Shall We Do with Him?"

The tremendous success of the contest is a striking indication to exhibitors of what the public are operat- ing a similar contest in connection with their showings of the McClure-World special, "What Shall We Do with Him?" Exhibitors are manifesting an intense interest in this box office booster because they realize that it's timeliness, its tremendous entertainment value and its possibilities for a smashing publicity campaign offer them a big opportunity.

Getting Ready for "The Long Arm."

Pathé scenario experts are busy preparing the episodes of "The Long Arm," the serial in which Ruth Roland, who has just renewed her Pathé contract, will be starred. The particular puzzle just at present is the proper method to make up an actor so that his face will resemble that of a tiger to a certain degree, while still holding more or less of the human features. The story of "The Long Arm" concerns three adventurers who penetrate to the wilds of Sumatra and steal an image of a tiger from a cult of natives known as the Tiger Worshippers.

It is expected work will be started on the serial some time this month at the Asta studios at Glendale, Cal. The serial will be released immediately at the close of that of Pearl White, "The Lighthouse Murder," which will probably be early in May.

Bluebirds to Be Continued.

It is officially announced that there is no foundation for the rumor that Bluebird Productions have been discontinued. The company does not contemplate any revision of the present schedule at this time, and it has mentioned important Bluebird productions for some time to come. It is believed the appearance of one or two former Bluebird stars in current special attractions may have led to the mistaken belief that Bluebirds were being eliminated.

Moral in Walthall Picture
Based on Christian Science

In the first of the eight productions in which Mr. Walthall will be presented by the National Film Company of America, "And a Still Small Voice," a strong moral attaches itself to the picture that finds its base in Mary Baker Eddy's work "Science and Health," in which she says:

"A magistrate sometimes remits the penalty, but this may be no moral benefit to the criminal, and at best it only saves the criminal from one form of punishment. The moral law which has the right to acquit or condemn always demands restitution before mortals can go up higher. Broken law brings penalty in order to compel this progress.

The picture is not altogether a preachment of this science, but employs it to develop its tense situations and bring about a novel touch to the story. It adds an unusual interest to the picture, but is not brought out to any great degree so as to take away from the interest of the story itself.

A strong cast supports Mr. Walthall in this production which is headed by Fritz Brunett, whose work in pictures is well known.

Joseph Dowling in the part of Colonel Robert Singleton plays a character role that is a hard one for him, and George Fisher does some of his best work in the part of Richard Dunlap.

Universal will release the film on the first of January through the Exhibitors Mutual Distributing Company on December 29.

"Married Virgin" Title Puzzling.

Since the announcement of the Maxwell production release of "The Married Virgin," which will be all General Film Company exchanges in a few days, considerable curiosity has been shown in the General Film Company exchanges regarding the nature of the film, many rather wild guesses being made as to the nature of the plot.

"If the title arouses that much interest among exhibitors," said Joe Maxwell, the producer, "it ought to arouse the strongest possible sort of attention from the public.

It is stated that the story of "The Married Virgin," which is by Hayden Talbot, mingle's thrills with psychology in a strange domestic complication. How a rich man's skeleton in the closet steps out to open the door for a serial marathon to enter the household forms the hub of the plot.

Scene from "The Girl of My Dreams" (Exhibitors Mutual).
Mabel Normand in West Is Making New “Sis Hopkins”

NEVER before more completely in her element, Mabel Normand is throwning herself joyously into the task of making her first Goldwyn Picture in California. It is “Sis Hopkins,” famous for a generation past as Rose McVilly’s stage play. The screen version bids fair not only to duplicate the success of the spoken version, but to add greatly to the reputation of Mabel Normand as a unique comi-drama artist.

Frolicking under the sunlight of Southern California, with Clarence G. Badger as her director, Miss Normand finds herself in company with an uncommonly fine supporting cast, each member of which is giving the star whole-hearted sup-sport.

John Bowers is leading man, making his second appearance in Goldwyn Pictures and his first in California. Thomas Jefferson, Sam DeGrasse, Nicholas Copley and Eugenie Ford play the other principal roles, and all vie with Miss Normand in extracting every particle of comedy from the parts allotted to them.

Much of the action takes place in a field plentifully dotted with ripening pumpkins, and it is predicted Miss Normand will give an entirely new and different account of herself as a laughter provoker. In these episodes, as well as throughout the film, her costumes and make-up are expected to cause no end of amusement.

Barrmore Finishing Paramount Picture.

At the Fifty-sixth street studio of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation John Barrymore is nearing the finish of his Paramount picture, “Here Comes the Bride,” which John Stuart Robertson is directing. This is an adaptation of the play of the same title which was written by Max Marcin and Ray Atwell, and which was produced a year ago at the George M. Cohan theatre. Charles Whittaker, who has adapted several stage productions lately for Famous Players-Lasky, is responsible for the continuity.

Mr. Barrymore’s leading woman is Faire Binney. The supporting cast is Frank Lose, Frances Kaye, Alfred Hickman, William David and Leslie King.

Theda Bara Begins Play.

Having completed the four weeks’ vacation made necessary by the influenza shutown, Theda Bara, the William Fox star, has begun work on a super-production temporarily titled “The Scarlet Altar.” This is a product of the Fox studios under the direction of J. Gordon Edwards. The scenario is by Adrian Johnson from an original story by E. Lloyd Sheldon and J. Searle Dawley.

Lewis-Santschi Fight Is Big Factor in Select Film

IX “Code of the Yukon” (Select) there is a fight that will bring fight fans to their feet. Those who remember Mitchell Lewis in “The Barrier” will readily concede his ability to mix things up, while exhibitors whose memory takes them back to “The Spillers” know also that Tom Santschi is capable of exchanging a few wallopers himself. And in “Code of the Yukon” the director has brought these two together.

“Big Mitch” Lewis has a likeable role, that of a French-Canadian who seeks the quiet of the gold fields in order to gain sufficient money to hunt down the man who has ill-treated his sister. His simplicity and naturalness awaken a strong bond of sympathy and love in the breasts of the spectators.

The two comedians meet in a little log cabin at the edge of a clearing; Jean, in his simple backwoods garb and tasseled cap, and Santschi as Dan Cregan, in the immaculate dress of the typical gold field dance hall owner.

There is just one second of sparring. Jean strikes, and hits again and again before the startled Cregan finds the power at the terrible onslaught. The grasp and plunge about the small room. A moment later they are free, standing to toe. A heavy table crashes through the side of the cabin; the men are in the open air. They struggle to the edge of a deep embankment, and in a flash they are in a raging stream. They leap to their feet, and Jean downs his adversary.

The battle between these two big men is not the only outstanding feature of “Code of the Yukon.”

Select to Issue as Special Ince’s “The Midnight Patrol”

SELECT announces the acquisition of the Thomas H. Ince special production, “The Midnight Patrol.” The picture will be released as a special. It was made by Mr. Ince prior to the existing agreement, whereby his productions are exclusively released by another concern.

“The Midnight Patrol” is a swiftly moving melodrama featuring the work of that everyday American hero, the police detective. A cast of even excellence has been assembled for the feature, and includes Thurston Hall, Rosemary Theby, Marjorie Riely and William Musgrave. Miss Normand and Yamamatto, two Chinese actors of ability. The story for the picture was prepared by Julian Johnson and Julian Clift. Director Irvin W. Willet was in immediate charge of the production.

Much of the action takes place in and around San Francisco’s great Chinatown. The plotting and counter-plotting of a corrupt ring of thieves and politicians enlist as confederates unscrupulous Chinese of the Chinatown. This important episode pictures the disruption of a band of opium smugglers and the capture of the ringleaders in the illicit trade.

Select believes that in “The Midnight Patrol” it is offering to special patrons a picture which will be welcomed.

To Produce Feature with Seven Stars.

The most ambitious and pretentious production ever made by World Pictures will be “A Scrap of Paper,” which will inauguate the resumption of studio activity of this company. The cast embraces all famous players, both men and women, and includes Montagu Love, Carlyle Blackwell, June Elvidge, Evelyn GREELY, MADGE BROWN, ALICE MOORE, Gatton DeCourcey, Bob HANCOCK, and others. It will be directed by Dell Henderson. The scenario was written by Wallace Clark from an original story secured by the World Pictures’ scenario department from a famous French author.

This aggregation of talent has been arranged for this production because the World believes that the exceptional strength of the story told in “A Scrap of Paper” demands a wholly stellar presentation.

“Dolly’s Vacation” Story of Childhood.

Baby Marie Osborne, the Pathé Diando of New York, is perfectly framed in the five-reel program feature, “Dolly’s Vacation,” which will be released by Pathé on December 23. The story is by Mrs. George Griffin Lee, to whom the heart of childhood is an open book, and was directed by J. Gordon Edwards. In handling this sort of story has been commanded. His work in directing Baby Marie is skilful and pathetic.

In this production Baby Marie’s pranks, in which she is aided by the clever little “good man Friday,” will yield hearty laughter and continual smiles from her child admirers. The dramatic climax will hold the parents when they take the kiddies to see it.
Johnson Cannibal Pictures

THE Martin Johnson Cannibals of the South Seas pictures will be released in the United States and Canada by the Robertson-Cole Company through the Exhibitors Mutual Distributing Corporation. Much promotion work has been done by the Robertson-Cole Company to further public interests in this subject. The premier showing in Canada under its management brought crowded houses to Massey Hall, where it was offered for an entire week. The newspapers were lavish in their praise of the subject, and it was considered one of the most auspicious picture presentations of the season in that city.

In New York it was offered at the Rivoli Theatre by Samuel Rothafel. Mr. Johnson appeared in person in connection with the picture and told many interesting things about his trip as the film was presented. The New York papers devoted considerable space to the picture. Interest is being maintained by a broad line of advertising. A massive billboard has been erected on Broadway at Forty-seventh street, which graphically tells Broadway's millions the wonders of "Martin Johnson's Cannibals of the South Seas.

The recent showing at the Astor Hotel, which was put on in a very unusual manner, was attended by a great number of exhibitors who since have anxiously been awaiting the news of the releasing channel. At this showing Mr. Beynon conducted the orchestra. He is also responsible for the special orchestral score which is used in conjunction with this subject. In addition to this many things of a helpful nature have been prepared, which include lithographs in sizes from one-sheet to twenty-four sheets as well as slides, trailers and many unusual exhibitors aids.

This first installment of the Martin Johnson Cannibals of the South Seas will be released through the Exhibitors Mutual Distributing Corporation on December 15. The second installment, which also is ready, will be issued on February 15.

Capellani to Try Chinese Food.

Albert Capellani, the celebrated French director, who will direct Miss Nazimova in "The Red Lantern," her forthcoming production, following "Eye for Eye," has made arrangements to spend several days and nights in the Chinatown of Los Angeles studying the peculiarities and native customs of the Chinese at first hand. The Nazimova picture has a Chinese set-

Salisbury and Clifford

Again to Play Together

MONROE SALISBURY and Ruth Cliff-ford are to appear on the screen together again, according to word received from the Universal West Coast studio. Better still, they say to be directed by Rupert Julian. It was under the direction of Mr. Julian the Salisbury-Cliff-dort duo made some of the most successful
Bluebirds released last year, among them
"The Desire of the Moth," "The Savage, "Hands Down," and "Hungry Eyes," Among the six productions started at Universal City last week were "Pirate Gold" which features Mr. Salisbury, with Miss Clifford as his leading woman. The story develops a modern theme out of an ancient story of sea piracy.

Simultaneously with the starting of action on "Pirate Gold" Priscilla Dean began work on "The Gutter Rose," under the direction of Tod Browning. The initial scenes of "Cherries Are Ripe," featuring Edith Roberts, supported by Smiling Filly
Mason, were shot in the Jack Dillon lot, and Ida May Park began work on Mary MacLaren's next Universal Special Attraction entitled "Whose Widow?" a society play. drama, said to be especially suitable to Miss MacLaren's talents. Carmel Myers, directed by Paul Powell, has begun "The Wild Girl" and Marie Walcamp is acting out the second episode of her forthcoming serial release, "The Fifth Ace," written by Hope Loring and directed by J. P. Margowan.

In addition to working on these films
Lyons and Moran are working on comed-ies, Helen Gibson is half finished with a new two-reeler Western play and Harry Carey is putting the finishing touches on "The Outcast of Poker Flat," which has been adapted from several Bret Harte stories.

The film editing department is completing the preparation of "The Beautiful Mongrel," which features Carmel Myers;
"Destiny," featuring Dorothy Phillips, and a Carey picture entitled "Blinders of Vengeance."

"Primrose" is Now "Day Dreams."

Goldwyn announces a change in the title of Madge Kennedy's next production. Instead of "Primrose," the film is entitled for it by the author of the story, Cosmo
Hamilton, it will be called "Day Dreams.
It was written especially for the star.

Doris Kenyon, Edgar Jones and Howard Kyle

In a Scene from "Wild Honey," the Next Release of Miss Kenyon's Company (De Luxe Pictures, Inc).
Louise Glau to Make
Series of Productions

Louise Glau to Make Series of Productions

Louise Glau, long a star in her own right, has entered the ranks of the independent producers and has begun work on the first of a series of special features. Miss Glau's initial effort promises to establish a high standard. The author of her story is C. Gardner Sullivan, and the production is under the supervision of Allan Dwan. He has the assistance of Art Rosson. The collaboration of these film celebrities, combined with the technical environments which surround Miss Glau, indicate a notable production.

The Louise Glau Company, after negotiating with a number of the important California concerns, has leased space at the Thomas H. Ince studios at Culver City, just approaching completion. The cast with which Miss Glau has surrounded herself comprises Matt Moore, Edwin Stevens and Jane Novak.

Although modern throughout, the production is set in Oriental environment. The story itself, according to Mr. Sullivan, is one of the best dramatic film stories he has ever written, and his successes are many.

Henry Lehrman Expands his Producing Activities

Henry Lehrman, vice-president and general producer of Sunshine comedies, has just added a fourth company to his personnel at his studios in Hollywood to meet the increasing demand for Sunshine comedies. When, over a year ago, Henry Lehrman sold his producing interests to start making Sunshine comedies he was considered a foremost producer of comedies. The larger, more modern studios which he erected for his Sunshine comedies allowed him wide scope.

During the past year the demand for Sunshine comedies has been steadily increasing. In order to release one production every other week, three companies have been working unceasingly. Now Mr. Lehrman has decided to build still larger comedies. To allow time for their production he has added another company to his personnel, making four companies in place of three.

The four companies will work under the general supervision of Henry Lehrman, and the releasing arrangement will be the same as before, one production every two weeks, and they will be booked by the Fox exchanges to exhibitors whether they hold contracts for other Fox productions or not.

"Too Fat to Fight" Was Written Around McIntyre

Frank McIntyre has always been fat.

His fat, in fact, has been and is his fortune. By so means does this imply that he is not a player of attainments—and would be if he were as slim as a string bean.

His sense of humor comes from within. But his fat helps it.

Now, he is the featured player in Rex Beach's new play, "Too Fat to Fight," and for the first time in his career his fat is glorified. Litherto it has been only incidental. In "Dimple" Dalrymple it is the foundation of the photoplay.

Frank McIntyre has been a laughable feature of so many Broadway successes that neither he nor his admirers can remember them all. Rex Beach, whose possession of knowledge of plays and players is the envy of his friends, wrote "Too Fat to Fight" with McIntyre in mind, even though the rotund actor was bound by a contract which looked as if it would conflict with the hopeness and plans of the author and Goldwyn, the distributor.

Fortune favored, and the stage play in which the comedian appeared was not a popular success, in consequence of which he ampled into the Goldwyn Studio at the very time Rex Beach had planned. What he did in the production—and to it—really ought to be seen for full appreciation.

Get Scripts for New Vitagraph Serial

Antonio Moreno and Carol Hopkins, stars of Vitagraph's current serial, "The Iron Test," have received the scripts on their next fifteen-episode play, work on which will start at the Vitagraph studio in Hollywood in the near future. Albert C. Smith, president of the Vitagraph Company, and Cyrus Townsend Brady are the authors of the new serial, the title of which has not been announced.

She Rose—by Any Other Name

Ann May fell down a bank at Edgewood, N. J., while posing for a scene in a Frank Keeney photoplay, under Sid Oloc's direction. She suffered a slight concussion of her spine and had to go under Dr. Ursman's care, with her final scene in the picture still to be finished.

Miss May made a rapid recovery, but she was not too quick for the waiting director, who sent his assistant up to see her with an urgent request that she come to the Keeney studio and complete her work if her physical condition permitted. Miss May's aunt was so taken with the assistant's request that she forthwith relayed it to the physician.

To both of these lengthy communications the physician replied with characteristic brevity: "Replying to the two requests just to hand, I can do no better than to cite the patient's name in reply to the both of 'em."

Rosemary Thoby in Metro Support

Rosemary Thoby is again in a Metro cast. The sinuous Rosemary is in support of May Allison in "Peggy Does Her Darndest," just starting at Metro's west coast studios. Miss Thoby, who is dark, is a splendid foil to Miss Allison.

Miss Thoby's last Metro role was with Bert Lytell, when she played the female lead, Charity Garvice, in "Faith." With May Allison Miss Thoby's part is that of Eleanor Enaloe, snobbish elder sister of Peggy, the heroine.

Gloria Swanson Playing in Arclight

Cecil B. DeMille has reached the final stages of his Arclight picture, "Don't Change Your Husband." He is now using a trio of most elaborate sets. One represents a fanciful idea of the beauty of the world, another the riches of the world and the third the love of the world, all being visions conjured up in the mind of a young wife by a romantic description on the part of a willow loving. For one of the leading roles Mr. DeMille selected Gloria Swanson.

Head-Hunters Caught by the Camera

Borneo, one of the largest islands in the world, is the subject of the twenty-third of the Post Travel Series, released by Pathé December 15. This island is inhabited by the head-hunting Dyaks, a race of people who, the camera shows, are much larger in physique and approach nearer the savage than any of the other people of the Malay Archipelago. Interesting close-ups of the Dyaks, much of their home life, their forms of entertainment and art have been faithfully caught by the camera.

James Vincent producer of "The Spirit of Lafayette."
Nine Companies Working at William Fox Studios

No fewer than nine companies are now at work, in the East and on the Pacific Coast, making pictures for William Fox, whose companies have begun on productions this week.

At the Triangle studio in Yonkers, J. Gordon Edwards is starting a suppression temporarily titled “The Scarlet Affair.” The story was written by E. Lloyd Sheldon and J. Scard Dowdell and was shot by Adrian Johnson.

Richard Stanton began on the creation of a one-reel motion picture, temporarily titled “Lucky Charm” and starring William Parnam. The story was written by Robert H. Berson and the picture will have several jungle scenes.

George Walsh also started a picture under the direction of Edward Halper. The working title is “Jinx Jones” and the story and scenario were written by Raymond L. Schrock.

Another Fox company to start work is that headed by Virginia Pearson, under the direction of Edmund Lawrence. This Pictures is playing this week from a story called “He That Is Without Sin,” written by May Edwin in New York. Miss Pearson and Katherine Lee have resumed work on “Smiles,” under the direction of Arvid E. Gilstraw.

Another Fox star working in Hollywood is Peggy Hyland, who is in her second week. The picture is being made under the direction of Keenan Wuel.

Tom Mix is busy on a whirlwind Western under the direction of Edward LeSaint. Lynn F. Reynolds, who has directed Miss Mix in many “Horse Men of the West” productions, is directing Gladys Brockwell in a Victory Picture which is nearing completion at Hollywood. This picture is being made under the direction of Arvid E. Gilstraw.

Evelyn Nesbit, working at the Victor studio, is being made under the direction of Keenan Wuel.

Universal Photographs Fleet Surrender.

Universal has made good its statement that its weekly news films never sleep. While the German Imperial fleet recently surrendered to the Allies, Universal cameramen were on hand to photograph the agreement between the Teutons and the Allies. The next week Universal cameramen are on hand to photograph the surrender of the British fleet.

Universal has the largest fleet of ships in the world, and the company has been working on the production of a film showing the surrender of the British fleet.

Sullivan Cartoon in Demand

Reports from various Universal exchanges throughout the West and Central West indicate that Universal’s recent one-reel cartoon “The Best of Charlie” by Pat Sullivan, is in high demand by exhibitors.

Mr. Sullivan’s latest cartoon entitled “How Charlie Captured the Kaiser” has had wide distribution throughout the Central states and has been a big hit with the public. It has been printed in a large number of newspapers, and has been shown in many theaters. It has been shown in several of the larger cities, and has been a great success.

Robertson-Cole to Issue Complete Musical Scores

THE inauguration of complete musical scores with the company releases is an innovation in the field of motion pictures which will be rendered with their productions which are handled through the Exhibitors Mutual Distributing Corporation. This was announced with the release, “Martin Johnson’s Cananias of the South Seas,” which is issued on December 2.

George W. Beanyon, who has devoted many years to the preparation of musical scores, has been appointed director of the accompaniment, is the director of the musical department of the Robertson-Cole Company. He has had the largest selection of music in the world, and has been known for his musical ability in the preparation of music for motion pictures.

Another of the most noteworthy of the musical offerings at the premiere presentation of “Martin Johnson’s Cananias of the South Seas” by the press as well as by the crowded audiences which viewed this production both in New York City and Toronto, Canada.

The Billie Rhoda subject “The Girl of My Dreams,” will also be accompanied by a complete musical score arranged by Mr. Beanyon. Many of the numbers will be written for this subject.

In speaking of the musical problems of the orchestra leader Mr. Beanyon remarks, “Musicians of all countries have cases of having to furnish their own music and they cannot afford a great quantity of it for the price of the admission ticket. To properly a play a show, I find that seventy distinct selections must be used. If the selection changes every two or three hours the numbers are utilized in seven days,” it is estimated that the average leader unable to contain less than eight hundred selections. This causes constant repetition upon the rendition of the picture. In large cities only the music in the theaters carry orchestral, piano or organ accompaniment with the picture. It requires from two to four hours of musical director’s time to set a picture to music. While cut music is the way of some assistance they do not conclusively solve the problem as completely as orchestral scores.

“Silver King” is Shown

The work of assembling and titling the Paramount-Artcraft special production, “The Silver King,” in which William Fox has long been interested, has been completed and the finished picture was given its first showing a few days ago in the projection room of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation at 455 West Broadway.

In this screen version of the fine old melodrama by Henry Arthur Jones and Henry Herman, which was first produced in London in 1832, Mr. Faversham has the role made famous by Wilson Barrett in the original production, and later by Osmond Tearle in this country.

Show American Troops in Russia.

The first pictures to come out of Russia in two years since they were shown in the Official War News, No. 2, which will be released December 29. These are the most pronounced interest, as they show American troops marching through the streets of Russian towns, American machine gun corps in action, etc. This issue of the War News also contains many naval pictures, scenes of British, French and Italian troops. As very little has been revealed about the American military force in Russia, it is believed these pictures will receive much attention.

When you cleaned house during the “shut-down” did you decide to put in new seats? Dispose of the old ones through The World’s Classified advertising.

Winter Hall

As the clergyman torn from pulpit ambitions and loyalty to his faith, in “The Turn in the Road,” the new Brentwood feature, written and directed by King W. Vidor.

Virginia Pearson Begins Picture.

A magazine story written by May Edginson, that has been chosen as the next Fox excel picture for Virginia Pearson. The story is entitled “He That Is Without Sin,” and Miss Pearson has already begun work under Edmund Lawrence.

The beginning of the new Pearson play marks the return of Lawrence to the active list of Fox directors. Mr. Lawrence had directed Miss Pearson in several of her pictures, and now that he has passed the peak of his career, he has been able to devote his time to directing a drama of high ambition.

This picture is destined to be sensational in its theme through affections, and when it is published in one of the popular magazines creates something of a furor.

Metro West Coast Studios Active.

The Metro studios in Hollywood have emerged from an enforced idleness of six weeks. It is expected midwinter will see ten companies busy, with cameras clicking on two lots embracing four big stages. The following list gives the number of companies putting up the new studios. C. L. Butler, studio manager, and R. C. Godfrey, superintendent of construction, are assisting Treasurer Joseph W. Engle in the operation, point to pride in the fact that the two big open stages and the large enclosed stage have been completed in fourteen working days.

Louise Huff in Emerson-Louis Subject.

Although the complete cast for the John Emerson-Anita Loos Production, “When the Boys Come Home,” which is now in production at the Fifty-sixth street studio of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, has not been announced, it is stated that the leading roles in this Paramount-Artcraft special will be in the hands of Ernest Truex and Louise Huff. The return of Miss Huff to the ranks of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, temporary though her association will be, will please her admirers.

New Griffith Picture For Artcraft.

The fox trot was a little too strenuous for him in New York. Over there, where he made a man of himself, he killed a man with his bare hands, drowned him in a lice-ridden, water-logged trench. This study of human character and evolution, woven into a story, has been written in an original manner by D. W. Griffith’s photo play, “The Greatest Thing in Life.” It was released through the Mutual on December 8. The character Edward Livingston is portrayed by Robert Harron.

Robertson-Cole’s Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.
Among Independent Producers

Conducted by C. S. Sewell

Film Clearing House Gets Blackton Productions

ARRANGEMENTS have been consummated by which J. Stuart Blackton's "Littlest Greatest Problem," which is a production of a special nature, will be distributed as the second feature of the Ten-Twenty-Thirty series through the Film Clearing House.

The first offering of this series will be, as previously announced, a production by Julius Steger, starring Evelyn Nesbit. The delay in starting this series has been due to the prevalence of indifferent weather. However, it is announced that this picture will be released during the current month.

Immediate distribution has been arranged by taking advantage of the recent opening of the Film Clearing House exchange, which are equipped to handle the prints of all feature productions of groups of producers, as well as series of special productions, and it is announced that the Ten-Twenty-Thirty series will be booked separate and distinct from all other pictures using the Film Clearing House exchange. The third and fourth pictures will be taken care of by the Independent Sales Corporation.

In addition to "Life's Greatest Problem" another Blackton subject "The Littlest Scout," a five-reel feature starring little Charles Lewis, will also be handled by the Independent Sales Corporation through the Film Clearing House. Mr. Blackton has announced that the fact that he has placed the two productions mentioned in the manner described does not mean that he has foreseen any of his other affiliations in the industry, as the plan of the Film Clearing House is not to compete with the other distributors but to use it for one or more pictures without obligating himself to market all of his products in the same way.

"Life's Greatest Problem," which was originally titled "Safe for Democracy," recently was shown at a special performance at the Rivoli, and its basic idea deals with the labor problem and deals with things that people are talking and thinking about at the present time. The theme stresses the power of the new democracy, and the picture is said to have the endorsement of the Division of Films. There is an abundance of comedy supplied by two heroes playing the Saville Lewis and Gus Alexander. In addition the cast includes Eugene Strong, Aubrey O'Day, Robert Harron, Ruth Dwyer, and Helen Ferguson, John J. Goldsworth, John C. Wade and Sidney D'Aubrew.

Arrow to Release "Eugene" Comedies

Arrow Film Corporation has secured for exclusive distribution in the United States Motion Pictures Corporation, the new comedies produced by the United States Motion Pictures Corporation. Twenty-six weeks of this series will be the exclusive program, but have been withdrawn, while six of the comedies are new. The series have been retitled and re-edited, and the entire series are being offered state rights exchanges, to be released one a week commencing December 26.

These comedies, formerly known as Black Diamond Comedies, are described as refined slapstick comedy, and a large portion of each reel is devoted to trick photography. Arrow announces that rights to five sections of territory in the United States have already been disposed of.

Star of "S-I" Pictures a Well-Known Player

K. LINCOLN, at present starring in "S-I" Pictures, has for a number of years been known to motion picture patrons and has worked in such films as "The Man with the Two Heads," "The Drunkard," etc., and has never been accepted in motion pictures with such favor as he has received since appearing in "S-I" Pictures.

Mr. Lincoln was born in Pennsylvania, educated at the state university, and early decided to forsake commercial life for a dramatic career, and appeared in juvenile roles in a number of stage successes. Following a connection of several years with 'Vitagraph,' he appeared in special pictures for World Film Corporation with Barbara Stanwyck, and more recently has appeared in "The American Spirit," under William Christy Cabanne's direction; also with Onore Cassinelli in "Lafayette, We Come!" and "Stars of Glory" under Peacock Peter's direction. Following the completion of the last named picture, he decided to become a producer, and formed the newly organized "S-I" Pictures in association with William H. Sawyer and Herbert Lubin. He is the owner of the Lincoln studios in Greensboro, N. C., which is among the most equipped in the country, and in which a number of productions in which he has appeared have been produced. Mr. Lincoln, in addition to being the owner of a magnificent estate in the Berkshires, and an ardent devotee of hunting, sports, motor-boating and automobiling.

Author of "Orphan Annie" is Popular with Children

IN the six-reel production of the late James Whitcomb Riley's poem, "Little Orphant Annie," which is being state rights by the Independent Film Corporation, two favorite supporting players are also little Alexander, who has enacted important parts in a number of D. W. Griffith's pictures.

The New York Evening World recently stated that over one million children had contributed toward the building of a memorial to James Whitcomb Riley, which was unveiled at Greenfield, Mass., his birthplace, in an address by Lewis H. D. Pioneer, in this connection says: "The fact that over one million school children contributed toward the building of a memorial to the honor of their poet friend shows in what esteem he is held, and proves that a large number of people want to see the picture. "When the children love someone it is very difficult to persuade them to love him also. There are millions of patrons awaiting the showing of 'Little Orphant Annie,' and children in the country will be ready to advertise this picture by word of mouth for exhibitors—they will want to see it, and the patronage of the older folk will be forthcoming."

Mr. Hirsh further reports that great interest is being shown by exhibitors, who are inquiring as to when and how they can book the picture; letters are being received from all parts of the country, and he has never handled a feature which seems to have caught on so quickly.

The Pioneer is issuing an especially attractive line of paper for this production. In addition to posters there are press sheets on which are printed the illustrations, which are arranged on a series of sheets, and these big little features are to be never issued to motion picture audiences as well as a box-office asset. In the series of "Orphant Annie" the Pioneer is to be released by Exclusive Features on state rights basis, Tom Mix, a large number of inquiries have been received from exhibitors throughout the country, and where these big little features are to be booked, indicating the interest that has been shown in the series.

Tom Mix is one of the most popular of the Western type of actors, and his portrayal of the riders has been received with enthusiasm, especially among children. The film of "Orphant Annie" is a true to life realization of the hoosier poet's immortal poem, and the cast is carefully selected for types. Many of the scenes were filmed in the exact locations of the original story.

Several Sales Announced on the Tom Mix Reissue

SINCE the announcement recently made by Exclusive Features, Inc., that they would place on the market a series of sixteen special comedy-drama releases starring Tom Mix, a large number of inquiries have been received from exhibitors throughout the country, and where these big little features are to be booked, indicating the interest that has been shown in the series.

Tom Mix is one of the most popular of the Western type of actors, and his portrayal of the riders has been received with enthusiasm, especially among children. The film of "Orphant Annie" is a true to life realization of the hoosier poet's immortal poem, and the cast is carefully selected for types. Many of the scenes were filmed in the exact locations of the original story.
Special Releasing Plan for "Romance of the Air"

A UNIQUE releasing plan, which it is said, will be of great advertising value to exhibitors, has been devised by the Crestwood Corporation for the distribution of the aerial feature "A Romance of the Air," featuring Lieut. Bert Hall, the American Ace, and Edith Day, the prima donna of "Going Up." The releasing plan begins in the New England States, where Lieutenan Hall will make a personal appearance at the premiere of "Romance of the Air" in Boston on December 30, when this picture begins a four weeks engagement at the Tremont Temple Theatre. Each territory will then be released only after Bert Hall's personal appearance, that is to say, no territories will be either sold or leased until after a featured engagement of several weeks in one large exchange centre of each territory, during which Lieutenant Hall will appear personally at matinee and evening performances and give an informal talk on some of his experiences in the Foreign Legion and as an aviator in the original Lafayette Escadrille during his three years on three fronts.

Bert Hall is widely known throughout the country for the daring exploits which resulted in his receiving seven medals from French, English and Russian Governments. The unusual amount of publicity which will result from Lieutenant Hall's personal appearance at some of the most prominent houses should be of much value to exhibitors.

In addition to Hall's exploits in the air, which are widely known, his book "En L'Air," is now in its third edition. Furthermore, a large number of newspapers have syndicated the story in serial form. After the engagement of "A Romance of the Air" at the Tremont Temple Theatre for four weeks in Boston, this story of a romance of the clouds, founded on Lieutenant Hall's book, will probably be shown next for a run at one of the larger houses in Chicago.

The special features of this Crest production from a box-office angle are: Flints. It is an elaborate picture of aerial warfare produced with an American hero of the world war as its featured player, and the exception of Major Thaw, is said to be the only survivor of the Lafayette Escadrille; second, it has an appealing love story with unique background and original situations, and third, it has unusual advertising possibilities, especially when Lieut. Bert Hall appears in person at the feature presentations.

Special Advertising Aids for "The Panther Woman"

In accordance with the policy of the Petrova Picture Company to offer exhibitors distinctive advertising aid in connection with each production two excellent helps are being offered to exhibitors free of charge in connection with "The Panther Woman." They are a beautiful twenty-four sheet stand and a specially prepared electrical lobby display.

The poster is a magnificent stand done in black and white, and carrying a full length likeness of Madame Petrova as the central figure. It is said to be one of the most distinctive twenty-four sheet stands ever issued. The poster readily lends itself to utility, and, after being used for "The Panther Woman," can be displayed for other Petrova productions. The electrical lobby display is a specially constructed picture frame which changes to all colors of the rainbow, at the same time showing Madame Petrova in various poses.

In Union There Is Strength

Has it ever occurred to the Independent buyer that the spirit of co-operation that exists in commercial enterprises among the distributors of merchandise, is what has contributed to their success?

We aim through the medium of our office to bring Slate a bite buyers operating in various territories of business with us so that one will receive the benefit of the judgment and experience of this organization as well as of each other.

Why not take advantage of a thoroughly equipped and reputable sales organization in securing your productions and reliable information with respect to the Independent market generally?

We have put in actual operation, a system whereby you, the Independent buyer can be assured of a steady supply of features and other and two reel subjects for the next twelve months at a minimum of investment.

If your territory has not already been covered, we will be pleased to advise you the details as well as the complete list of attractions.

Our slogan and your slogan:

"A MINIMUM OF INVESTMENT WITH A MAXIMUM OF PROSPECT"

TO BE RELEASED SHORTLY

"The Demon Shadow," a re-edited ten episode serial of two reels each.

"Uneke Comedies," thirty-two single reel laugh-provoking, re-edited comedies, released one a week.

"Anna Little Westerns," twelve single reel subjects, released one a week.

"The Profeeter," a 1919 dramatic six reel attraction starring Alma Hanlon and Jack Sherrill.

There are others of equal merit but space forbids publication at one time.

"Our Efficiency Means Your Success"

ARROW FILM CORPORATION

W. E. SHALLENBERGER, President

TIMES BUILDING, NEW YORK
Hall Organization to Handle "Wanted for Murder"

IMMEDIATELY after the premiere of "Wanted for Murder" at the Broadway Theatre, New York, Sunday, December 2, and before consumers had had a few minutes by which this production will be judged by the Independent Sales Corporation through the newly established Film Clearing House.

Harry Rapf, producer of this feature, declared that New York opinion is of the utmost importance because the impression that appears to have been created to the effect that the production was delayed and not given to the public.

This is probably due to the fact that both Dr. Crane and S. J. Kaufman, who are responsible for the scenario, are members of the staff of the New York Globe. It is merely a unique coincidence that the director of the picture also being directed by Frank Crane. However, this Mr. Crane is an entirely different person, and is a prominent motion picture director who has a large number of feature productions to his credit.

Director Crane says being of the same name as the well known writer has brought about several amusing incidents. Recently, while some scenes of "Wanted for Murder" in a nearby town, an elderly woman laboring under the illusion that Mr. Crane was requesting her to autograph one of her books. He did so as follows: "To Mrs. H——, I autograph this book autograph, you will get as much amusement out of the book as I get by autographing it!"

A showing of this picture at the Broadway, Irene Franklin and Eurt Green attended, making a special trip from Philadelphia. A chorus of girls has been added to the stage and the scene which they used to entertain the boys in France.

Unique Exploitation Arranged for "Mickey"

One of the most unique stunts in connexion with the exploitation of a picture was the showing of "Mickey," the feature starring Mabel Normand, directed by W. H. Productions Company, on the Steamship George Washington, on which President Wilson sailed for France. The showing was arranged by Chief Radio Operator Rose and Kenneth MacLarney who charge the radio equipment on board ship. Photos and posters and even a twenty-four sheet were to be prepared for the separate sections of the ship. In addition two thousand copies of the song "Mickey" were supplied for distribution. Two graphophones with "Mickey" records were furnished by the Columbia Graphophone Company.

The campaign as organized, is similar to that used in connection with the exploitation to be handled in the large theatres of the country. The song is to be played, and chorus slides shown at each performance until the evening of the showing of "Mickey" and the orchestra will also play "Mickey.

An addition to the showing of "Mickey" on board the ship, it was arranged to distribute cards calling on the passengers requesting an expression of opinion and the W. H. Productions Company will be having a multi-index of the opinions of prominent men regarding this production.

Arrangements have also been made for Mabel Normand and Leonce Perret to intimate to foreign buyers in the various ports in which the George Washington will stop, stating "Mickey" is being handled in this country, according to American methods.

Reports are being received from a number of houses which have run this production. The manager of the Recent Theatre, N. J., three days, traveleed for six days and asked the manager of the Broadway for an opinion. The manager is of the opinion that this is a very good picture, and that "Mickey" is being handled in this country, according to American methods.

force will be under the supervision of Arthur H. Kewsey, one of the officials of the organization.

Rowland and Clark Secure "Woman" for Pennsylvania

Maurie Tourneau's newest production, "Woman," has been purchased for Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia by the First National Exhibitors' Exchange, of Pittsburgh, Pa., which operates the Rowland and Clark theatres' franchise in that section.

Many exhibitors in Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia have been requesting Maurie Tourneau open market offerings ever since they played his first production, "The Whip," which is said to have established a box office record, and they have been asking exchanges daily for "Woman." Many of the Pittsburh exchanges have been negotiating for this production, which has been secured by the Rowland and Clark office, and congratulations have been showered upon Manager Joseph Shirell.

The initial showing in Pittsburgh has not been definitely decided on, although practically all of the prominent theatres have asked for the privilege of showing "Woman" first in that territory. The advance publicity work will be started immediately, and indications are that the production will be presented with the same success and distinction that the L. W. Rothafel gave "Woman" when he played it at the Rivoli Theatre in New York.

With the announcement of the open market plan for "Woman" hundreds of letters have been coming in from exhibitors and exchange men in all sections of the country, and allotments are being made rapidly by Hiller and Wilk, the selling agents, who will announce the sale of a number of other territories within a few days.

Upton Boys Honor Dolores Cassinelli.

Quite a number of scenes of Leonce Perret's "Stars of Glory" were filmed on the neighborhood of Camp Upton, and Dolores Cassinelli, one of the featured players, Dolores Cassinelli, who before entering the motion picture field, was a singer on the concert stage, frequently visited the camp and helped to entertain the soldiers. As a recognition of their appreciation, the Third Battalion of the 1524 Depot Brigade of the U. S. Army, have forward to Miss Cassinelli a certificate appointing her an honorary first lieutenant of the battalion.

Chapman Is Art Director for First "S-L" Picture

Charles Chapman is the latest addition to the studio staff assembled for the first "S-L" production starring E. K. Lincoln. Mr. Chapman, who has been appointed art director, is said to be the dean of art directors in the motion picture field, having worked in that capacity with Vitagraph nine years ago. During his long appearance with that organization he was responsible for a great many of the massive sets and decorative work of the Vitagraph productions.

Mr. Chapman is a man of wide knowledge of technique, and during his connection with the Vitagraph organization was for some time associated with Ralph Ince, who is directing the initial "S-L." Mr. Ince has expressed himself as being particularly delighted with the acquisition of Mr. Chapman and plans to work out a number of unique and unusual effects in the matter of sets for the initial production.

In addition to Mr. Chapman and the other members of the staff already announced, the officials of "S-L" pictures have secured the following for service in the studio: Charles Levitch, assistant cameraman; Howard Dell, electrician; Joseph Prem, head carpenter, and E. Harris, painter. Bert Lobur has been appointed as studio manager, and the entire
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

December 21, 1918

Cleveland Likes "Wives of Men.

The Cleveland office of the Pioneer Film Corporation reports that they are doing big business on "Wives of Men," coming over very big with exhibitors, who are enthusiastic in their praise of this production, giving it the same high marks as the best vaudeville attractions of the season.

The first run on this feature was at Elyria, Ohio, and a second run at the Orpheum, both of which are said to be enjoying remarkable business, the outlook being that the record of the Orpheum will be broken.

Nathan Hirsh, president of Pioneer Film Corporation, says that similar reports are being received from all sections of the country, and that only a little territory still remains open on this production.

Arrow Reissues Serial Called "The Demon Shadow"

FOLLOWING the announcement made in Variety issue of December 16, that the Million Dollar Mystery series, "The Demon Shadow," would be reissued, Arrow Film Corporation advises that the new serial entitled, "The Demon Shadow," which is said to be the first serial ever reissued, will be "The Demon Shadow." This serial, originally issued in twenty episodes, has been cut down to ten, and has been revised and re-edited. Each episode is in two reels, and Margarette Snow, James Cruse and Mitchell Lewis are among the principal players.

Concerning this production, Dr. W. E. Shallenberger, of Arrow, says: "We have contracted with the Big Productions Film Corporation, the owners of the United States and Canadian rights, to distribute this serial on state rights basis. The chief of the original plot is retained, together with all of the original sensationalism, eliminating only incidents that today would not appear germane to the subject. Because of the faith of the producers in this reissued production, we are refusing to lease outright territorial franchises, but are distributing the serial on a percentage basis only.

"Reference will be prominently made to the fact that 'The Demon Shadow' is a reissue of the Million Dollar Mystery, but we are preparing advertising matter to accompany the production having the same calendar run as the new release. Out-of-town buyers who called at our office during the past week have not had a chance to see the film, and we have already closed for the following territories: Georgia, Florida, Alabama, and Tennessee to the Specialty Film Company, of Atlanta; Maryland, District of Columbia and Virginia to the Greater Film Corporation, of Baltimore; the New England states to the Federal Feature Film Company, of Boston; Greater New York and Northern New Jersey to L. E. Chadwick, of New York; Eastern Pennsylvania and Southern Jersey to the Quaker City Feature Film Co., Inc., of Philadelphia. The Demon Shadow" will be released one episode a week commencing December 29, and the advertising in trade magazines to run concurrently with the release.

Billy West Will Appear in Bull's Eye Comedies

THE Bull's Eye Film Company, a new producing company, with headquarters at 729 Seventh avenue, New York, announces that they will release a number of two-reel comedies which the popular comedian, Billy West, is now producing, and in which he will be the star. Miss Lillian Hansen and motion picture patrons for his work in comedies, his intense screen appearance and distinctive personality, the Bull's Eye Film Corporation has sponsored a series of Billy West comedies.

The Bull's Eye Company will release this series of new productions on state rights basis, and have already disposed of the New England rights to the R. D. Marson Attractions Company, of Boston.

State Right Sales Reported This Week

In another article in this issue, Arrow Film Corporation report the sale of considerable territory on "The Demon Shadow," a ten episode reissue of the "Twenty Million Dollar Mystery" serial.

W. H. Productions Company announce that rights to a series of twelve pictures, known as "The Kay Bee," have been sold to Southeastern Pictures Corporation, for North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, to Masterpiece Film Attractions for eastern Pennsylvania and South Carolina; to New York Film Exchange for Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia and Virginia; Standard Film Service for Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky, and to Boston Photoplay Company for the New England states.

Rights to Columbia brand Kay Bee western releases have been sold by W. H. Productions Company to a Portland, Oregon, Photoplay Company for New England states, to Southeastern Pictures Corporation, for North Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Tennessee, to Masterpiece Film Attractions for Eastern Pennsylvania and South Carolina, to Standard Film for Kentucky and Michigan and to Boston Photoplay Company for New England.

Franchise for Liberty Brand Keystone Comedies and for Eagle Brand Keystone Comedies have been sold by W. H. Productions Company to Pacific Northwest Film Service for Georgia, Alabama, Florida and Tennessee, to G. C. Wilson, Tyronne, Pa., for Maryland, Delaware, District of Columbia and Virginia, to Southeastern Features Corporation, for North and South Carolina; to Standard Film for Kentucky and Michigan and to Boston Photoplay Company for New England.

Dolores Cassinelli and E. K. Lincoln in Scene from "Stars of Glory" (Leonce Perret Productions).

Portrait of E. K. Lincoln Painted by Famous Artist

As an effort of the efforts of the executives of "S-L" pictures to have all advertising in connection with the productions of this organization high class and distinctive, Clarence Underwood, a prominent advertising man and an artist of international reputation, was engaged to paint a portrait of E. K. Lincoln, the star, a reproduction of which in colors appeared in the advertising section of our last issue.

It is planned by Messrs. Sawyer and Lubin to make further use of this painting when the first "S-L" production directed by Ralph Ince is presented to the public. Various ideas are now under consideration in order to determine the most effective way in which it can be employed as an effective aid for exhibitors in attracting the attention of patrons by using it in their jobbers and in other ways.

It is further announced that unusual beauty and impressiveness effects will be a distinctive feature of all of the exploitation matter employed in connection with the Ralph Ince attractions distributed by "S-L" Pictures.

Make Final Arrangements for "Stars of Glory"

ANNOUNCEMENT from the offices of the Perret Productions indicates that Leonce Perret, who has been at work for some months on "Stars of Glory," which features Dolores Cassinelli and E. K. Lincoln, has completed the production, and that arrangements for its premiere presentation are in progress. Adolph Ossas, who has been assigned to negotiate the release of the production, and who will handle the exploitation of the contemplated Broadway showing, has already contracted for a prominent electrical display on Broadway advertising the attraction.

Although there has been no announcement as to the nature of the story of the picture, the insertion of the subtitles, which is all that remains to complete the production, offers some inking as to the nature of the story. It has to do with a bathing beauty that has never appeared on the screen, and yet is by no means a war film in the strictest sense of the word. "The action is laid, and alternates, between France and America during the last stages of the war, and parallels the era of victory and peace and an adventure-romance of the sea.

That its subject is timely may be gleaned from one of the titles, "As the Curtain Rings Down on the Last Act of History's Greatest Drama," and the line of a Hundred Millions in Mightier Acclaim Greets the Victorious Heroes. "The Stars of Glory."" Definite announcement concerning the theatre in which the production will be presented on Broadway and the date of its premiere, and arrangements for the film will be made very shortly.
"TREAT 'EM ROUGH"
William Fox Presents Tom Mix in Ripping Five-Reel Drama of the Great West.

Reviewed by Robert C. McLarvey.

I N certain important respects this five-reel subject, "Treat 'Em Rough," sets a new high water mark for Western dramas. It is built from the ground up, as the saying goes, and contains much that will amuse and astonish observers. It conveys a sense of authority in every scene.

Tom Mix, whose previous good work in "Ace High," "The Founder," and other numbers has made him favorably known, has the leading role, that of a two-gun man named Ned Feely. He has a breezy way with "wimen and horses," and some of the stunts he accomplishes are somewhat disappointingly, for the instance he performs the extremely hazardous job of bulldogging a steer for the purpose of channeling entering draughts, incidentally saving his own life and that of the heroine. The stampeede and accompanying perils are brilliantly staged, and reflect great credit on all concerned.

In subtitles, of which there are many, play an important part in this frontier yarn. They are true to plot and characterization, and add the additional thrill of good humor. They read as though they might have been judiciously selected from the works of Charles Alda or Seltzer. If so, the practice should be followed more frequently, for these subtleties have that peculiar charm which makes them immeasurably superior to the bald statements which are not mere explication lines thrown in for the sake of continuity.

Ned Novak plays the part of the heroine in good style; Charles LeMayne makes an interesting villain; and Val Paul plays the part of the heroine's squire.

This successful subject, which is "big" and appealing in both comedy and pathos, in what may be called a grand scale, was adapted and directed by Lynn Reynolds, with photography by J. Dev. Jennings.

"THE KEY TO POWER"
Educational Production Veers from Graver Vein of First Intention to Entertaining Drama.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

I N MAKING the Educational Films Corporation of America's six-part feature production, "The Key to Power," their first, by the way, William Parke, director of the picture, was up against a peculiar situation, which he handled with skill. The production was intended primarily to tell the story of the great power of coal, and those who were looking forward to this particular angle of the picture, are going to be disappointed. The story on which it was based has veered from its original intent and entered the ordinary channel of entertaining drama. In so far, Clair Adams makes a pleasing heroine, with Hugh Thompson maintaining well a worthy support, among whom are some who molded themselves into tremendously interesting characters. G. J. Gilmore, Frazier Nunnan, Tom Burrough, Fred Radelife, George Paucenfort, Stephen Grettman, and the rest.

The story of the picture was written by Caroline Gentrav and E. Lloyd Sheldon, and many of its scenes were laid in the vicinity of the Allegheny coal mines, West Virginia. The plot of the story concerns a German conspiracy to cripple the coal output of the United States, and the dissension among the miners and by bribing the head of the railroad. The plot was responsibility to the coalliters coal, to withhold its cars. This situation itself, occurring during the period of the war, held a wealth of dramatic quality that required the romance which the authors of the story have worked into it only for the satisfaction of the more sentimental spectator.

This romance occurs between a Virginia girl and the son of the manager of the mines, a West Point graduate. The father of the young man, who has been injured by a railroad automobile accident, extracted from him a promise to give up his commission in the army and fight the big fight of the coal men. The interests of his country and its Allies. The girl, indifferent at his seeming neglect of duty, breaks quattlement with him, and not until the fight is won and her little brother the victim of an attempt to destroy the central power house is rescued by her lover, does she realize the worth of the man who had really gave up all that was dear to him to serve his country.

Our nearness to a situation which may in truth have existed, and the thrilling quality of the problem on which the production is based, should provide the picture with an excellent selling asset, apart from other commendable features which it contains.

"THE LIGHTNING RAIDER"
Pathé Ready with Another Pearl White Serial—And It's a Corker.

Reviewed by Walter K. Hill.

V ERY likely there will always be serials while screens last and "to-be-continued" holds suspense for the public in either pictured or printed stories. But sure it is, if Pearl White could play in more serials of as bright and interesting texture as "The Lightning Rider" there would be less objection to serial-picture serials in the minds of some theatre goers and in the disposition of certain persons. In the three episodes that were shown at the New York Roof recently, when exhibitors and newspaper personnel were invited, there is some of the best and most engaging entertainment the screen has ever offered.

Two excellent reasons led to this expression of opinion—Pearl White, for one, and the way Pearl White does things. Thus, too, the subject of this serial, seemingly disarranging a hairpin Pearl White does "stunts" that truly amaze, turns the corny treatment in a twinkle and flashes into a new situation like lightning. From "stunt" to "thrill" she passes like a squirrel in a hurry; there's no stopping her. She's as "sure-fire" as a Marine.

In doing wild and dashing deeds in "The Lightning Rider" the producers have cleared the track of all ridiculous subtleties. Kites carried off, masked moquins, haunted horror or terrifying tasks. Thrills comes seemingly unbidden; tramp-ten-away horses; breakaway furniture precipitates the dashing Pearl into perfectly natural dangers, and the eye keenly the mind tenously occupied in following along the Old West Miss White's travels across the screen.

She dodges into amusing disguises, swings into wild swirls as she scales the walls of a building or descends a waterspout into uncharted dangers. And when she is flashed in a "close-up," the spectator generalizes it worth of woman; magnetic, pretty, and for all the world as beguiling as the most raging beauty of fact or fiction.

Besides Pearl White, her "stunts," and the story there is a supporting company to carry it, the support being color and with skill. In Warner Oland there is an actor most insidious, insinuating and insinuatingly pleasant, Henry Ossel is the hero, and is athletic, good looking and agile as an aid in all of Miss White's adventures, encounters of the thrilling variety. The settings are what may be safely described as lavish. The trick-stuff works well and is skilfully integrated with the story. The subtitles are what frequently find difficulty in locating it.

Let not this much of praise of Pearl White and the "Lightning Rider" be assigned to overenthusiasm. Play the first episodes and patrons will (like children) want a certain switch over to "cry for it." It's a corker—and great is Pearl White.

"THE PRICE OF VICTORY"
Pictures of Recent War Show a Bit of England's Share in Victory.

Reviewed by Walter K. Hill.

A MONG the scurry deeds of the House of Hohenzollern was, it will be recalled, the order to incite mutiny in India, using the United States as the starting point of a far-reaching plot. All the Forty-fourth Street Theatre, Sunday evening, December 8, the screen bore witness of failure, to a certain very neat plot to rob England of the man-power of a great host of East Indians who particularities. Taken on the battlefield front, behind the lines and in actual combat.
bat, they represent, in many ways, one of the most successful combinations of pictures to the screen. Because of several stirring speeches made to mark the occasion, the picture was delayed until the last day and, although it is not quite satisfactory, it would have it been to the six reds run off without these "intervals."

The pictures were devoted to the East Indians and their strange situation, both inside and out of the battle. Perhaps the pictures might be reassembled into a faster and more "cohesive" presentation, and a series of pictures, dangers, stress of armies and the truth of actual battle, "The Price of Victory" would make a great entre of the story, insofar as exhibitors may be concerned, is still undecided, according to their own judgment. Re-released, or when this will be done, remains unannounced. When the time comes, the pictures, brave great danger to do so, as plainly shows in many incidents. The doctor is somewhat slow in the films Sunday night in an interesting if somewhat too loquacious manner.

"WILD HONEY"
Youthful and Pretty Doris Kenyon Star of Stirring Picture of Western Life.

HERE is good entertainment in "Wild Honey" for film devotees who like stirring action, youthful charm and a moral lesson tucked away in the story. The 5,675 feet of story and action passed remarkably quick before the eye in this picture, which, at times, are the other day. To the average person this fact would indicate interesting entertainment. To the critic, this opinion, "Wild Honey" provides.

Doris Kenyon, star of this structure, prepared by Louis Joseph Vance, from Vinie E. Roe's magazine story, looks too sweet and winsome, is living the life of the dance-hall belle she impersonates. But that may be the fault of our imagination or the story. It may be the shortcomings of other dance-hall queens we have seen "ruling the roost" in photodramas, or it may be our neglect that these girls are living in a world where no one is around to watch them. Miss Kenyon gets by, perhaps it was better to go a little into the story, synopsis-like.

A clergyman has asked an actress to become his wife. If a clergyman had popped this question to a milliner, a saleswoman, or a merry girl who sells candy we might not have had the picture. But, being an actress and a clergyman who uses such an invitation to share parish life with a rising young priest halted him with an off-hand opinion that marriage to her might be a handicap in his profession. Both having confidence in an older, and, presumably, more educated clergyman, the new girl writes to the counsel to tell him the story of "Wild Honey," while his life-mate sits near.

A "fighting parson" in a mining camp arouses the jealousy of the El Dorado dance-hall, because he continually pointed his exhortations at her. But Doris Kenyon, as "Wild Honey," among the camp-followers, but she had never favored any of them particularly. The "fighting parson" is pointed for the parson, but those humiliation as her strange way of showing affection.

The minister openly reciprocates Wild Honey's love, and after many tribulations, a strenuous series of events in the dance hall and elsewhere in the vicinity, Wild Honey makes a sudden change of heart, and the parson points for the parson, and he bears her away in his arms to a new life in the more quiet environs of New England.

A "CODE OF THE YUKON."
Selected Picture Presents Mitchell Lewis as Hero of Northwestern Romance.

Reviewed by Edward Wettel.

"Code of the Yukon," a Select picture fashioned from a story by Anthony H. Wilder, is given an opportunity to portray his favorite screen character, a primitive man of the north. The story is a bit of the life of the story has taken his measure cleverly, and Jean Dubois calls for the qualities that made "The Bar-Bear" so well liked in "The Harrier" and "The Bar-Beast." The simple nature, fearless honesty and kind heart of his other creations are found in his first starring venture, and his admirers will undoubtedly welcome his domination of the plot and follow the history of Jean with close interest.

"Code of the Yukon" is not the best effort of Anthony Paul Kelly. The story spreads itself over too much ground, and the collection of motives to explain and round out the entire structure is weakened. New characters come in to fill the close and occupy space that should have been given to the men and women already introduced. Another scene of action is in trying to utilize two personalities so nearly alike as Dan Cregan and Thomas E. Keating. The pictures might have kept them separated and remembered the exact connection each of them has with the story, a thing the screen author should study with care.

"Raging Boy" is best, the picture, and made the screen author look before, partly to blame for the loose jointed story. The general production, including the camera work, is excellent.

The main points of "Code of the Yukon" tell of Jean's hunt for the man who ruined his sister. At the opening, the French Canadian is living in the Yukon, working a claim that will give him the gold he needs to carry out his vengeance. The arrival of other miners leads to Jean's marriage to the daughter of an unsuccessful prospector. An attempt to murder the man and discard his wife is made, but Jean is too intelligent and has sworn to punish, and the two have a furious struggle. The girl is killed by Jean, her wife comes back to him and is forgiven.

Tom Santschi as Dan Cregan, Arthur Midgley as "Parson," Grace C. Fee as Father Paul, Jack McDonald as Justice Green, Franklin Hall as David Craig, Vivian Rich as Lola Crawford, Margaret Landis as Dorothy Nolan, and Goldie Caldwell as "Goldie" complete the cast. Photography by Joseph Brotherton.

"THE ROAD THROUGH THE DARK." Cline Kimball is a hero of Select Story That Will Arouse Different Interests.

Opinions.

Reviewed by Edward Wettel.

WHEN Maud Rudford Warren wrote "The Road Through the Dark" she was trying to produce a picture that is bound to arouse a difference of opinion as to whether its use is justified by the story and by its moral value. In order to help her country, by aiding her cause, by a young French girl from Canada, to their elusive distance, and goes to Berlin with him and lives openly with him for three years. At the end of the affair he returns to his desk, and she kills him in the struggle that ensues. Produced by Clara Kimball Young, and written by George S. Kaufman on the Select program, the picture has been adequately directed by Edmund Mortimer and given the benefit of a thoroughly competent cast. Its construction holds the interest of the story clearly and with strong dramatic effect.

Kathryn Stuart made the scenario. She has found a swashbuckler that will not be accepted by loyal Americans. No one who has followed the history of the German expedition of this present century is going to believe that His Highness, Duke Karl of Streilitz, was instructed by his advisors that the only appropriate use for military violence in the town that he had captured and where his soldiers are shown shelling houses, is to attack mothers and surrounding young girls. The sooner the Duke, with the swashbuckler cut out, the better for the picture.

According to the scenario, when the Duke finally pulls his sword, he tells the young French girl, who has just seen her aunt and little brother murdered and has been looking for protection, that Hun, that he has been instructed not to spare anyone in the village, but that she can save them all if she will marry the honor. Gabrielle consents, and for three years conceals her loathing of him so skillfully that the duke never suspects his victim is not deeply in love with him. After all, sunny the duke Gabrielle escapes across the border and joins her American lover, with whom she has kept up a correspondence that betrayed valuable secrets to the Allies.

Clara Kimball Young plays Gabrielle with a strong, graceful, and sprightly strength. Jack Holt, as the duke, is fully entitled to his position as leading support of the day. He is quite equal to Henry Woodward as John Morgan, Eleanor Fair as Marie Louise, Bobby Connolly as the impostor Alphonse and Eugenie Besserer as Aunt Julie. Arthur Edeson was the photographer."

"AND A STILL SMALL VOICE" National Film Production Starring Henry Walthall Is Based on Christian Science.

Reviewed by Edward Welzel.

THE commercial value of "And a Still Small Voice," a six-part picture produced by the National Film Corporation, with Henry Walthall starred, is bolstered by the suggestion that it attributes valuable secrets to the Allies. Followers of Mary Baker Eddy may be willing to accept the stories that are attributed to the teachings, but the general public will not be so ready to believe in the way the hero gains a life of ease.

The story starts auspiciously, but soon loses its hold on probability, and the special attraction to a hero who has been his sweetheart married to his rival, and then turns "taffles" and uses a word of French to set the lady's husband on his financial feet, when that speculative person goes broke playing the stock market. At another time the hero, who is received in excellent society and takes advantage of the fact, applies his knowledge of safe cracking to the saving of the heroine's good name.

With all the skill of rare gems attempt to force his attentions on Mrs. Dunlap, who, with her husband, is among these Worst, the hero does not self repulse, the collector removes a necklace from his safe with the intention of fencing it for a group of crooks. Clif Randolph, the society expert, steals the jewels from their owner, opens the safe, and with his own hands he selects them to be burned. When the collector goes to show his other goods he has been robbed. The jewel is discovered safely in its case in the safe.

Opening in the South, the action shows how the man finds a wife and how he tricked into robbing the bank where he was assistant cashier. Then his riveting story is related to a most attractively in a picture. The acting and production are satisfactory. Depending on the picture as a butt for the hero, and Frizzi Brunette is an attractive Mary Singleton. George Fisher as Richard Dunlap and Joseph Dowling as Colonel Robert Singleton are among the many members of the cast.

"And a Still Small Voice" is controlled by Robertson-Cole Company, and distributed by the Exhibitors' Mutual Distributing Corporation.

"WANTED FOR MURDER" Harry Rapf Presents Elaine Hammerstein in Famous Five Reel Feature Review.

By Robert C. McCravy.

A SIMPLE and effective war story in five reels is presented by Harry Rapf, the producer, under the title "Wanted for Murder." It abounds in reality of an intense sort, and running all through the picture is a story of revenge which keeps it human and appealing. The story, which was written by S. Jay Kaufman and Joseph Greenspan, consists of a series of episodes built around the experiences of an American soldier and a French girl. The combat is loose, and turns upon the natural course of their activities themselves, in which it gains rather than loses as a picture of war.

Charles Raven is cast as the hero, Dick, and Elaine Hammerstein as Corinne Waut. Both are excellent types and thoroughly representative of "Our Hero" and "Our Girl." Their actions are amusing, and the picture is immensely popular with the boys behind the times. There are few preliminaries in this offering. The hero is seen leaving his mother in America, and the action quickly piles on. Dick is injured by a shell, and wanders into the German lines. Here he finds temporary safety and is married to the girl's daughter. There is a battle near the cottage between the hero and the German man, in which the former come off victorious. But later the Germans counter with the girl and take the cottage, killing Mme. Frenaud and making Corinne captive. Dick and Corinne escape, and the story of their adventures thereafter is very interesting.

The number may be recommended as a war picture, but only with an entertaining narrative included.

The five-reel story, "The Love Note," written by Bertha A. Backus and varnished into a story by Mr. Johnson, is about a love affair that will undoubtedly prove acceptable to audiences everywhere. It has the broad, general interest of a novel, and it is a picture that is in fine form and sentiment and humor. The narrative itself resembles somewhat in its outlines the splendid Cape Cod stories by Joseph C. Lincoln, inasmuch as three old salts play a conspicuous part in it. Madame Louise McElravy, in the role of Patty Barnes, grand-daughter of Captain Amos Barnes, retired, is a child of the small screen. She is an accomplished woman with a band of boys who love to dress as pirates; the girl is known to the band as "Pirate." The chief lover of her life is her devoted grandfather and the memory of her father who is killed during the course of the story. Then a wealthy lady living near the Barnes cabin offers the girl's father and the grandfather reluctantly consents. He, himself, goes to the poor and discovers the tumor of the piece, which is very good, grows out of Patty's experience and is in four parts. The mother. She runs a machine to find hair with which to supply whiskers to her pirate father. She is made hollow by stuffing the mattress with feathers from a pillow, with disastrous results.

This, and the scene where the young pirates duck the governness in the ocean, are two of the best humorous scenes in the story, and they are excellently produced. It can safely be recommended for all ages.

The supporting cast consists of Jack Lemmon, Charles Sutton and W. T. Carleton. Lemmon, as the girl's suitor, is in his very own, entertaining; Kate Lester as the girl's mother, Charles Ascott, Blanche Craig, Sam Ryan, Pauline Jourdan, James Cecil, Estar Banks and Kathleen Black.

Clara S. Beranger wrote the continuity.

"SHE HIRED A HUSBAND." Five-Reel Bluebird Subject Features Priscilla Dean. Reviewed by Robert C. McCravy.

PRISCILLA DEAN, while always a flaxen and interesting personality, has been doing a very grand job in her medium in this story written by Rex Taylor and directed by Jack Dillon as in some previous releases. It is a pleasant, funny yarn in many respects, and one not cleverly convincing. At the same time it manages to be genuine and contains many picturesque sets and scenic effects, and it is a well directed, so that on the whole it comes out as a kind of very acceptable entertainment.

The heroine, a wife, is a perverser who lives on a fine New England estate with her aunt and uncle. When her aunt dies, her guardian says the girl must plant a shrub in a certain location or he will not give her a dowry and she so does the girl, but they always manage to smooth things over without a quarrel. Daphne falls in with a handsome young fellow named Tom Dunstan, but to herself she does not realize that the girl throws Tom overboard. The aunt then opposes Chauncey DePeyster's suit, but the girl marries the man and wins a victory.

On the eve of the wedding, with the bridesmaids and best man all in waiting, Daphne learns that her fiancé is DePeyster, and she then runs away and marries a common lumberman. The latter turns out to be the girl's own true man in true cave-man style. This story, we imagine, will certainly appeal to matinee girls who like a light, simple, true love interest above all else in a story. May McElroy, who plays the girl, and others in the cast are Marian Skinner, Frederick Vroom, F. A. Turner, Charles Garrard, Sam Appell and Harry Todd.

ONE again are Cinderella and her prince charming "The Loved Imposter," a five-part love story written by Mrs. Elizabeth J. Marian and preceded by "The Loved Cinderella." Gladys Leslie as the heroine, is one of those never-did-happen affairs that often prove entertaining for the common cause. The story is not difficult to please and relishes a modern fairy tale where the lovers are less a part of the commonplace and of wedded bliss he will enjoy this picture. At any rate, his wife or his best girl will. All that is needed is that when the audience is completely taken in by a pert young woman of eighteen, when said young woman appears as herself, length of ruff, four shirt front, little socks and slippers of a twelve-year-old gir] and has curls and manners to match.

Dick Mentor, who turned woman-hater after his wife ran away with another, is made the subject of a bet by Betty, who...
December 21, 1918

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

becomes the beloved impostor. She wagers that the man she loves will break the old adage that men in love with her, and discovers that Cupid has turned the tables on her by making her feel in love with him. The masquerading as a sweet innocent of twelve is a trap to break down Minot’s reserve, and he walks straight into it. He sees no danger in caressing the bright-eyed, young, who insists on kissing him and he finds he is too blind to notice that she is he is growing very fond of her. When Miss Betty does up her hair and lets down her hair on the streets of the city she has fooled, Minot picks her up and carries her off to his cabin in the woods. Yet he seems a great deal too interested in playing with her, until she puts her arms about his neck and owns up she’s just as fond as he is.

Gladsie Leslie hasn’t forgotten how to play the game, and she is the one with the hand of limb for the cute little folks. Huntley Gordon as Dick Mentor, Denton Vane as Gus Niles, Frances Grant as Mammy and Gwen Williams as Gertrude complete a fair cast. It meets a girl who has fled after shooting incident of Minot’s wife running away was not too well handled, but things improve in a great deal during the rest of the story.

TWO TOM MIX TWO-HEELERS
Exclusive Features, Inc., Reissues “Twisted Trails” and “The Man Within.”

By arrangement with William N. Selig, Exclusive Features, Inc., is releasing under the original titles sixteen two-reel pictures featuring Tom Mix in Western hero roles in “The Man Within” and “Twisted Trails.” The “Man Within,” augur well for the success of the series, and should fit well into the bills of all the great dramatic subjects.

Both of these pictures are full of action, and there are somewhat lacking in a little comedy. The story is interesting, and the star performs several stunts. In “Twisted Trails” the story deals with a cowboy accused of being a rustler, who escapes and is picked up by the police. Two of the officers are somewhat l d, and the hero cannot be found, as he has let temptation get the best of him, the mother, disheartened, accepts a position as cook in a questionable dance hall, where she is insulted. She manages to escape, and meets her husband, and he overcomes the craving which has nearly wrecked his happiness. Victoria Victoria appears in the prison for a moment.

Tom Mix does good work in both of these offerings, and there are several ex-

“IRISH EYES.”

Pauline Starke gives correct characteriization in Tres Two-Heeler Feature of the “Sodl Sodl.”

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

OPENING with a vivid picture of fisherman’s life on the coast of Ireland, the latest Triangular production, “Irish Eyes,” written by Catherine Carr and directed by A. E. Darrin, comes into a love romance of the conventional type. Pauline Starke as Peggy, the ill-treated daughter of a fisherman, gives a correct characterization of the girl and brings her own vibrant personality to the aid of the story.

Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.

S ET FREE (Bluebird)—A five-reel light comedy offering, adapted by Rex Taylor from a story by Soon P. Poland, and directed by Tod Browning. Edith Roberts plays the part of a high-spirited girl who runs away to become a gypsy. The plot is full of humor, and Miss Roberts makes the most of her opportunities. Reviewed at length in last week’s issue.

Exhibitors’ Mutual.

THE GIRL OF MY DREAMS (Exhibitors’ Mutual)—This five-reel offering marks the motion picture debut of Ethel Rhodes as a feature star. It is an entertaining production, although somewhat lacking in the nice thing. It is a love story, and there is quite a lot of good comedy.

Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

STRING BEANS (Paramount)—A comedy of the country life, using the names of Silas Ray, and made for comedy, with a clever choice of characters and a running gag about the horse, which is delightfully handled. It is a good piece of work, and promises to be a big hit.

GOOD-BYE, BILL (Paramount)—A new John Emerson-Anita Loos production, starring Shirley Mason and Ernest Truex, which is a good comedy and a musical burlesque of the ex-Kaiser and his court. It is reviewed at length in last week’s issue.

Fox Film Corporation.

HITTING THE HIGH SPOTS (Fox).—A very laughable “Mutt and Jeff” number. This shows Mutt conducting a history lesson to himself and Jeff climbing Mt. Blanc. It contains a great deal of first-class burlesque humor and is highly entertaining.

TREAT ‘EM ROUGH (Fox)—A “top notch muscular western.” Famous for its thrills, with Tom Mix in the leading role, assisted by Jane Novak, Charles Le Moyne, Edward Earle, Roy Stewart, and a number of other stars, which was adapted and directed by Lynn Reynolds, is remarkable in many respects. Reviewed at length elsewhere.

THE NEW CHAMPION (Fox).—Another very successful “Mutt and Jeff” number, showing the same team at work in a game of billiards. The game played by the elderly gentleman with the whiskers and the very young girl is a splendid one, particularly to persons who know the fine points of billiards.

Greater Vitagraph, Inc.

THE COMMON CAUSE (Blackton)—J. Stuart Blackton’s seven-part war drama is entertaining mixture of thrills and laughs, finely played and produced. Herbert Rawlinson and Sylvia Bressler head the cast. A longer review was printed in last week’s issue.

THE MAN WHO WOULD NOT TELL (Vitagraph)—Farje Williams and Grace Gooding are the favorites in this five-part romance that has as its distant background. The picture was directed by James W觉ke and produced by direction Earle Williams release. It is given a longer review in last week’s issue.

W. W. Hodkinson Corporation.

THE CHALLENGE ACCEPTED (W. W. Hodkinson Corporation)—A view of the effect of the army draft in the whiskey-distilling mountains of the south, with some glimpses of camp life, with the story of a country girl who parts from her country lover and goes between racketeers and a posse of citizens who capture them.

National Film Corporation.

AND A STILL SMALL VOICE (National Film Corporation)—Christian Science is introduced in this six-part picture starring Henry Walthall. The story is not very convincing, but has been well produced and acted. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

Pathé Exchange, Inc.

LIBERTY’S TRIUMPH (Pathé)—This one-reel offering is a rapid review of the history of America’s part in the war. This is accomplished by a series of wonderfully interesting pictures showing the various phases of the conflict. It makes an informing subject and one that holds the attention completely.

THE LAST CHANCE (Rolin-Pathé)—A comic number, featuring Harold Lloyd, assisted by Harry Pollard and Bebe Daniels. Bebe is a slavey and Harold takes him to a picnic, where they have some funny ex-pereinces. Harold finally gets into a clash with the p0ot and the number is amusing. WILD WOMAN (Pathé) No. 10 of “Wolves of Kultur.” This number does not advance the plot action creat-tly, but is an attempt to add to the intensity. It deals with the further adventures of Barney as helper to the spies and the efforts of little girl, who is too short to see. It should be more of a story should have been handled better.

OFFICIAL WAR REVIEW, No. 34 (Pathé)—Tanks of all sizes in action lead this number. The big scene showing the performance of the famous glass throwers, pictures the flame throwers at work, giving an illustration of fighting with the deadly liquid fire. This alone is a great feature, and the number has others of interest.

WINNING THE WAR (Pathé)—This number, by the Committee on Public Information, gives an amazing insight into the way in which our men overseas were fed during the war. The loading of great importance in that it is a memorable feature out of many others.

THE LIGHTNING RAIDER (Pathé)—This is Pearl White's new serial. If every "com comic" serial is filled with comedy and well acted by star and cast as "The Lightning RAIDER" every theatre would play they as an excellent news weeklies and comedies. It may be that serials are a business aversion of scores of editions because their patrons have been filled up with "spooky" nonsense too often found in the continued stories of the serials. Pearl White's in "The Lightning RAIDER" will do much to rehabilitate the style of screen entertainment. The first three episodes provide the best possible screen entertainment—a pretty woman daring things; good suspense, an interesting story, and thrill after thrill.

Select Pictures Corporation.
CODE OF THE TUXON (Select)—Writ-ted and directed by Anthony Steele, Kelly, this five-part story of the Northwest presents Mitchell Lewis as a star in the character he has made himself. Screen-Sized featuring a natural French Canadian who fights like a cave man in defense of a woman. The plot is a thrilling study of the character, but the picture is acted by an excellent cast. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

William L. Sherry, Inc.
WILD HONEY (De Luxe)—Doris Kenyon is seen in a stirring Western story which tells of a young French girl who tries to take her future in her own hands. Miss Kenyon is a young and pretty girl who makes the dance-hall belle a decidedly attractive pet in spite of her sur-rondings. For audiences that fancy
"Westerns" here is a play to satisfy all concerned in the exhibitor, because her patrons will be pleased, and theatergoers, for they are given the type of smashing, daring Western life that screens red-blooded entertainment—and is just that.

Triangle Film Corporation.
IRISH EYES (Triangle)—Pauline Stark plays a bare-legged fisher girl who mars a nobleman in this five-part romance.
The story is set in the picturesque atmosphere and is well acted by the entire cast. It is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

Universal Film Company.
DANGER—GO SLOW! (Universal Specicial)—A five-reel production, by Robert Leonard and Max Esch. Robert, but has a romatic atmosphere and is well acted by the entire cast. It is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

"Every Mother's Son" Coming Soon.
Cutting of the film having been completed at the studio, "Every Mother's Son," by A. Walsh's Fox drama of mother love and peace reconstruction, is scheduled for early release. The story has not been aUowed by the presence of Charlotte Whitehead as head of the cast which played the part of "Mother's Son" in "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" and other big star successes of leading actress of the stage. Another member of the cast is the noted Miss Hugo, one of the best known of the cast.

In connection with "Every Mother's Son" exceptionally fine advertising and publicity material has been prepared.

U. B. O. Will Show "Raider's Finish." All theatres controlled by the United Book Company will show "The Lightning RAIDER's Finish." A contract has been signed between the U. B. O. and the Emanee Film Company, 145 West Forty-fifth street
New York, which purchased the New York City and state rights on the production from A. Warner, whereby not only the Keith houses will play it, but also the Proctor and Meyer and Schneider circuits, embracing all of the downtown territory.
One of the first showings will have it in a house controlled by the U. B. O. will be sawed through the New York Territory.
Mr. Warner has given the role of the character that was given the star position in all of its twenty-four-sheet billings.

"The Love Nest" for Peace Party.
World Pictures announces its release of its new production, "The Love Nest," staring Mudge Evans with Jack Drummer, who is taken on board by George Washington for the purpose of being shown to President Wilson. At the same time it hope to show the "Woman!", a picture received from the Community Motion Picture Bureau:
will be glad to know that your picture, 'The Love Nest,' went to France on the George Washington, and will be seen in France next week. We are, of course, think of the picture, and we are glad to be able to give you this interesting bit of information.

Arrow Film Increases Activity.
The list of sales reported in our last issue under the heading "State Right Sales Reported This Week" indicates that the Arrow Film Corporation have not abated, but that if anything, they have increased their business, and are spending more in building up a sales record. In adin, a number of sales have been made by the company's organization, notably "The Demon Shadow" as outlined in another article in this issue.

Mr. Ralph Shiben, president of the company, announces that, owing to the increased business, it has been necessary to increase the office force, and that future he will give more of his personal attention to the foreign sales end of the business, continuing to supervise the domestic department.

Brahin to Direct Next Neshit.
Charles J. Brahlin, who directed Virginia Parker in "The Love Nest," which has won laudatory criticisms from trade press reviewers—will direct the next William Brahlin.筹划 will be by Evelyn Neshit. Miss Neshit is now (Surprise) one of the "Women!" under the direction of Keneal Buch.

The Fox corporation is negotiating for the rights to a romance story which, published recently, this story being considered exceptionally suited for Miss Neshit. The story is a romantic "Direction of "Buchanan's Wife," which was based on the novel of the same name. As the story has been the subject of favorable comments, and because of this and his previous successes, Mr. Brahlin is believed to be pecu-

1384 THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD December 21, 1918
Advertising Aids for Busy Managers

"HEARTS OF LOVE."
The American Feature Film Corporation Presents Edna Mayo in a Charming Romance of the Civil War.

Cast.
Virginia Rutledge........Edna Mayo
Capt. Bernard Tyler........Gladden James
Adair Rutledge........Frederick Lott
Mrs. Adair Rutledge........Lillian Snyder
Curtis Randolph........Victor Dougherty
Jim Rabun........Frederick Hearn
Rose Monroe........Lottie May Blair
Thomas Rutledge........William S. Christian

Directed by Charles J. Hayden.

The Story: Captain Bernard Tyler, of the United States Army, is at his southern home when the South secedes. He elects to remain with the colors and is sold to the Confederate Army. For one last meeting with Virginia Rutledge, his fiancée, whose sentiments are with the South. He is led to believe that she has betrayed him to the Confederates, but she proves her innocence. Rabun, her father's former overseer, whose discharge she caused because of his cruel treatment of the slaves, is the real cause of the attack. Rabun deserts to the enemy and seeks to use his knowledge of Tyler's whereabouts to bring Virginia, the war comes to an end and Captain Tyler, with a mix detachment of Union and Confederate soldiers, comes to her relief in the nick of time.

Feature Edna Mayo as Virginia Rutledge and Gladden James as Captain Tyler.

Program and Advertising Phrases: Edna Mayo Brilliant Star of Gripping Drama of Love and Adventure. Tremendous All-American Drama Starring Dainty Edna Mayo.

When America Long Ago Bought Its Own Battles for Democracy.

Star Cast and Magnificent Production in Every Filmed Scene.

When America Took Its Leading Place in Battles for the Right.

Released by General Film Company.

"THE SILENT RIDER."
Triangle Presents Roy Stewart in a Story of the West That Was Good and Wild.

Cast.
Bob Gordon........Roy Stewart
Jim Carson........L. D. McKee
Jean Carson........Evelyn Fleming
Dave Merrill........Leo Willis

Directed by Cliff Smith.

The Story: Jim Carson appeals to the Texas Rangers for aid in suppressing the cattle rustlers, hunting him. Shortly afterwards he hires Bob Gordon as a rider. He and Dave Merrill, Carson's foreman, quickly become embattled. Gordon catches Merrill branding a calf, but is not certain of his identity. However, he finds Merrill's hat and returns it to him. Merrill pretends that the hat had been stolen from him and seeks to throw suspicion on Gordon, but in the end the game is up and in a gun battle he stuns Carson's daughter and takes refuge in the hills. There Gordon, who is the ranger sent in response to Carson's plea, arrives just in time to save the girl and capture the rustlers.

Feature Roy Stewart as Bob Gordon and Ethel Fleming as Jean Carson.

Program and Advertising Phrases: Roy Stewart Star of Just the Kind of a Photoplay You Like to See Him Present.

Big, Breezy, Brawny Western Star in Vital Photoplay of the Plains.

Lightning Combination of Good Humor and Quick Shooting.

How the Silent Rider Cleaned Up a Gang of Thieves.

Whirlwind, Broncho Bustin', Limb of the Law Makes Good.

Advertising Angles: Get what you can out of the star's draft. To those who may not know him explain that this is a vivid story of the Texas ranchers and the cattle rustlers. Hammer on the vivid action of the story, offering a brief synopsis winding up with "of course Gordon saves the girl, but, Boy howdy! You should see him do it—it's great."

"THE LOVE NET."
World-Pictures Presents Madge Evans in a Story for Grown-Ups That Will Please the Kiddies, Too.

Patty Barnes........Madge Evans
Captain Amos Barnes........Jack Drummer
Elen..................John Harding
Jim Hardin........W. T. Carleton
Captain John Henry........James Henley
Miss Edna Mead........Charles Ascott
Mrs. Mead................Blanche Craig
Hank Hendricks...........Sam Ryan
Smuggler....Joner......Charles Jackson
Mrs. Gay..............Kate Lester
Miss Rosamond......Elen Cobb
"Mother" Cobb............Esther Banks
Marjory................Kathleen Blackburn

Directed by Teft Johnson.

The Story: Captain Amos Barnes lives in a little cottage by the sea, waiting for the return of his son, who has gone to the front. His granddaughter, Patty, is his sole companion. Mrs. Gaythorne, whose house sits back of the Barnes cottage, takes a fancy to Patty and seeks to adopt her. She is able to do so when she has Captain Amos turned out through the formation of a mortgage. She takes Patty, and Captain Amos goes to the poor farm, which is run by one of his boyhood chums, Elen Cobb. The third member of the trio, John Harding, comes to test his nephew's hospitality and winds up at the poor farm, where he finds his old chums, but he sails away with Patty and her grandfather, their troubles at an end.

Feature Madge Evans as Patty Barnes, Jack Drummer as Captain Barnes and W. T. Carlton as John Harding.

Program and Advertising Phrases: Madge Evans Charming Star in a Grown-Up, Exciting, Fascinating Drama of Love and Intrigue. One of the Most Fascinating Stories of the Year.

Dainty Madge Evans Given Especially Appealing Role.

The Quest of the Latchstring Ends in Life-Long Happiness.

Story Unusual and Different Promises Delightful Entertainment.

Advertising Angles: Play up the little star and tell enough of the story to suggest the atmosphere. If you work the story properly this should be all you need do; for the story should carry itself to a large extent, but work it strong.

Advertising Aids: Two one-sheets, two three-sheets, two eight-sheets and one 21-sheet. Eight 11x11 black-and-white, eight 11x14 colored, and two 22x28 colored lobby displays. One two-column cut, two one-column cuts. Slides, press sheets and music cues.

Released December 23.

"THE DANGER ZONE."
William Fox Presents Madiline Traverse in a Wonderfully Distracting Story of the Rise of an Operative Star.

Cast.
Lola Dupre..............Madiline Traverse
Senator Fitzmaurice.........H. B. Williams
Botti Marie, his daughter....Fritzie Ridgeway
Philip Whitney..............Edward Cecil

Directed by Frank Beal.

The Story: Lola Dupre, a singer, supports Philip Whitney out of her earnings.
Superior Film Mfg. Co.

DES MOINES, IOWA

Now under new management

Your negative developed and a print on Eastman film (we furnish the stock) for 51

c 2c foot

Good until January 1st, 1919

We guarantee our work and twenty-four to forty-eight hour service.

CAMERAMEN FURNISHED ON SHORT NOTICE

SUPERIOR FILM MFG. CO.

577 West 7th St.

Des Moines, Iowa

Choosing Between a Siren's Love and the Charm of Irish Eyes.

Toro Reineuse God and Sea with an Irish Lass as Heroine.

Advertizing Angles: In addition to the star, work on the title with an appeal to your Irish patrons. Make your appeal with the charm of the story and tell that it is a tale of sentiment that does not need railed wreckers or battle scenes to make it interesting.

“CROWN JEWELS”

Triangle Presents Claire Anderson in the Story of a French Girl and a Young American Who Saved the Treasures of a Minor Potente.

Cast:

Diana DeLilie........... Claire Anderson
Madame Levine........... Lillian Langden
Kenneth Gray........... Joe Bennett
Baron Stickland......... Frank Leish
Maxwell Gray........... Geo. Pearce
Varnet.................. Billy Musgrave
Lupino.................. H. X. Dodgeon

The Story: The monarch of one of the minor European kingdoms, fearful of the unrest in his country, sends his crown jewels to America. Levine, an adventurer, plots to gain possession of the jewels for a tool Diana DeLilie, a French refugee. She confides her suspicions to Kenneth Gray, a young American, and though Mme. Levine impersonates Madame Leopold, John Kenneth makes use of the plans of the thieves, and gains Diana as his wife.

Feature Claire Anderson as Diana DeLilie and Joe Bennett as Kenneth Gray.

Program and Advertising Phrases: How a European Monarch Forestalled Lean Days By Shipping His Jewels to America.

Baffling Situations, Big Thrills, Big Ideas and Big Climaxes.

Beautiful Claire Anderson in a Photoplay of Thrills.

Society Crook Plays a Desperate Game. Photoplay Demonstrating That King's Jobs Are Shaky Nowadays.

Adverting Angles: In addition to playing the star, give it a boost by suggesting that probably more than one minor king has his crown jewels safely stored in some American storage vault.

Work such lines as, “See how the little kings of Europe play safe—and see how safe he is, etc.” You can probably work your local paper for a news story along these lines, running in a mention of the picture. You can get the news story with one big line reading, “The red flag of anarchy,” and running on to tell in solid type that the fear of anarchy caused the shipment of the crown jewels. Try to make it look like an anarchistic circular rather than a show bill.

“THE ADVENTURE SHOP”

Vitagraph Presents Corinne Griffith in a New Story of 30,000 Miles with the Funk Who Looked for Excitement and Found More than They Wanted.

Phyllis Blake........... Corinne Griffith
Josephus Potts, Jr. ....... Walter McTrall
J. Potts, Jr. ............ Warren Chandler
John Montgomery....... Priestley Morrison
Franklin Herbert........ Robert Galliard

Directed by Kenneth Webb.

The Story: Payless encounters the head of a coterie of bored young society folks who find life too dull. They want adventure, and band together to try and find it. In the little town of Homeburg. Josephus Potts, Jr., decides that he wants to come to New York and lay the town on its back. His father dismays until a New York business associate tells him of the Adventure Shop, and assures him that Phyllis and her friends will be only too glad to share him back to Homeburg. They start on in him almost at the moment he reaches town, and Josephus stays with them to the finish, which is entirely of his own making and quite different from that which they planned.

Feature: Corinne Griffith as Phyllis Blake and Walter McGrall as Josephus Potts, Jr.

Advertising Angles: Play up the idea of the shop for your chief appeal, dwelling on the lengths to which the society folks go for amusement. Your local paper can possibly help you to dig up some facts about monkey dinners and the like. This should be the surest appeal outside of New York. You might advertise for members now and club the particulars of which will be given at your house on the showing date. Word the notice vaguely to create a curiosity.

"DOLLY'S VACATION"

Pathe Presenting the Debut: Baby Star, Marie Osborne, in the Quiet Story of How a Kiddie Won Her Hobby-Hiding Mother Back to Love.

Directed by William Bertram.

The Story: Dolly McKenzie's mother is forced to leave one town, and leaves her to the servants, while in a distant city she seeks fame as an artist and the fun that goes with it. Dolly McKenzie, troubled by her domestic affairs, loses her grip on his business, and a later strike is imminent. He sends Dolly to her uncle, but the uncle promptly writes back that he will gladly exchange Dolly for the striking workmen, as being less troublesome. Then Dolly and her little colored playfellow get lost in the woods. Word is sent to McKenzie, and the strikers call a halt in the proceedings to hunt for the little chid. She is found by her mother, who goes back to him. The little strike is settled by the fortunate father. Presence: Baby Marie Osborne as Dolly McKenzie.

Advertising Angles: Most of the effort should be centered upon the child and her colored supporter, and advertise this widely. You can make something of the labor angle if you are in a factory town by advertising a stop a strike. Advertising Aids: One one-sheet, two three-sheets, one six-sheet, one 21-sheet.

Adopt a SOLDIER and Supply him with "SMOKES" for the Duration of the WAR!

You know that our fighting men are begging for tobacco. Tobacco cheers them. They need it. "Send more cigarettes. They are good to eat and to smoke." They can't get enough smokes over here." "A cigarette is the first thing and a man needs it. Send me some." Almost every mail brings thousands of such requests. $1.00 A Month Keeps a Soldier Supplied — Will You Be a "BIG BROTHER" or a "BIG SISTER" to a Lonely Fighting Man? Every dollar sends four 45c packages of tobacco. Mail the money and coupon right now.

"OUR BOYS IN FRANCE TOBACCO FUND"

19 West 44th Street, New York City.

I wish you all possible success in your admirable effort to get our boys in France tobacco.

—THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Presidents of American Bank.

“OUR BOYS IN FRANCE TOBACCO FUND”

19 West 44th Street, New York City.

GENTLEMEN: I want to do my part to help the American soldiers who are fighting our battle in France. (Check below how you desire to contribute.)

$1.00 will enable me to select a soldier and send you $1.00 a month to supply him with "smokes" for the duration of the war.

I send you herewith ............my contribution towards .......a number of American soldiers. This does not obligate me to contribute more. Please send me the name of the soldier to whom I shall send my "smokes."

NAME:.................................................................

ADDRESS:..........................................................

Lobby displays, 11x14, both in sepia and color; also 22x28. Slide, Campaign book. Cuts. Released December 29.

"THE ETERNAL CITY"

Adolph Zukor Presents Pauline Frederick in a Reimbursement of Hall Calme's Powerfully Dramatic Story.

Cast:

Donna Roma.................Pauline Frederick David Rossa (David LeGrandon)

Lotta Roma...............Thomas Holding

Kittens Reiker.............Little David

Theophilus.................Oppenheim

Leone, a Papal Guardsman.

His Wife....................Delia Barry

Baron Bonelli..............Frank Loomes

Pier POSS PXI..............Mervin S. Melish

Charles Minghelli...........Cinqueta Louis

Doctor Roselli..............George Mairon

Bro Cudow...................Robert Sumner

The Story: The wife of a member of the Papal Guard, believing herself to have been deserted, abandons her infant son to the mercy of the Sisters of Charity, and destroys herself. Little David is brought up by the sisters, and turned over to a Padrono, who sends him to London and mistreats him. David is befriended by Dr. Roma, a political exile, and becomes the page and name of Rome, the doctor's daughter. He assumes the name of Rossa. During the boyhood of Rome, becomes the ward of Baron Bonelli, and is supposed to have become his mistress. David is a small, gentle, quiet boy, and is particularly fervent in his devotion to the baron, who is Prime Minister of Italy. The baron arranges to have David killed, but Roma saves him. Later she is induced to betray him through love, and promises to marry him for his husband. David thinks her betrayal intentional. He kills the baron, and Roma assumes the blame. David, befriended by the Pope, finds the Pope of the baron's father, and through the latter's influence Roma is freed and reunited to her husband.

Feature Pauline Frederick as Donna Roma and Thomas Holding as David Rossa.

Advertising Angles: Be frank in telling your patrons that this story is one rewritten and reissued, and had a rating as a novel. Recall the success Miss Fredericks originally won in this role. Your bookseller should be willing to make a display of this novel if he still has any in stock, and you can use slides for a window display in connection therewith. A lobby display in the papal colors (white and gold) might help, especially in Catholic neighborhoods. Cuts: Two each, three, one, three and six sheets. One 21-sheet. Lobby displays, 8x10, 11x14 and 22x28. Cuts from our to three in size and production. Advertising lay-out mats. Slide, Press book. Released December 15.

"QUICK-SAY"

Thomas H. Inman Presents Dorothy Dalton in the Story of a Woman Who Dared to Take a Chance to Save the Man She Loved from Jail.

Cast:

Mary Bowen, Jim's Wife........Dorothy Dalton
Jim Bowen, a Casinier..........Ed. Coven
Ally Perry............................Jennie Bell Cullough
John Boland, a District Leader,........Henry A. Barrows
Frankie Bowen....................Franz Lee

Directed by Victor L. Schertzinger.

The Story: Jim Bowen is sent to prison for five years for passing a fraudulent
The

Robertson Cole

Company

1600 Broadway, New York City

regrettably announce that it does not control the American rights to the

J. Warren Kerrigan

Pictures

The Robertson-Cole Company distributes these excellent film plays in the four-color field only, while W. Hodkinson, Inc., has the domestic rights.

SPECIAL ROLL

Your own special Tickets—arranged in the form of letters, inscriptions, pictures, and colors, accurately matched; every roll guaranteed.

MAPS

Drawings: of New York, Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Louis, San Francisco, etc. Your Maps or Drawings on 22x22, 2x14, 11x14, 8x10, or 5x7. Guaranteed. Your Maps or Drawings on the largest scale, for use without reduction. Your Maps or Drawings on "picture" size, guatanteed. Address, The National Ticket Co., Shomokin, Pa.

FALL BARGAIN LIST

NOW READY

P. M. CAMERAS

of all kinds

Prices cut to rock bottom.

Writs for this announcement.

BASS CAMERA CO.

119 N. Dearborn St. Dept. 11 Chicago

THE CINEMA

NEWS AND PROPERTY GAZETTE

30 Gerrard Street

W. 1. London, England

has the quality circulation of the trade in Great Britain and the Dominions. All Official Notices and News from the ASSOCIATION to its members are published in this Journal.

YEARLY RATE:

POSTPAID, WEEKLY, $7.25

ADVERTISING RATES ON REQUEST

Agreed upon by Appointment Dated 8/18/14

THE OFFICE OF H. E. C. KENAGAROPHOTOG. EXHIBITORS ASSOCIATION OF GREAT BRITAIN & IRELAND, LTD.

Released December 15.

"STRING BEANS"

Thomas H. Ince presents Charles Ray in

Cast

Toby Watkins ................. Charles Ray
Jean Morris .................. Jule Noyak
Zachary Hartrum ............ John P. Lockney
Kendall Reeves .............. Donald McDonald
Lee Morris .................... Joe Farley

Directed by Victor L. Schertzinger.

The Story: Toby Watkins, on the strength of the fact that he writes poetry, gets a job on the Sawburt Clarion. Kendall Reeves comes to town to start a fictitious candy factory, and says that if he can save the girl from Jefferson, the Mayor, he will, in the audience. He has no intention of making a fool of himself before the girl he loves. He sees a retreat, but in doing so learns of the conspiracy, saves the girl from Reeves, and makes a job for the minister.

Feature: Charles Ray as Toby Watkins and Jule Novak as Jean.

Coffee Grinders and Newspaper Subscriptions Produce Great Happiness.

Advertising Angles: Use most of your effort to capitalize the popularity of the star. Work in your groceries for window displays of canned string beans, with a display of stilts and a sign, "Our string beans cannot be beaten at any price." Use the theatre date and number, when they have Charles Ray in String Beans. Characteristic Toby Role.

Released December 22.

"THE OLD HOMESTEAD"

By Popular Request Adolph Zukor Rescues Deanna Thompson's Classic of the Spenging Stage, with Frank Losee.

Cast

Joshua Whitcomb .......... Frank Losee
Reuben Whitcomb .......... Creighton Hale
Jack Hammer (Happy) ...... Jule Novak

Ruth Stratton .............. Lorna Haff
Aunt Tilly .................. Mrs. Corbett
Mr. C. ...................... Horace Newman
Sherrill .................... Thomas Wood

Directed by Lewis Seaton.

The Story: There are few in the United States who are not familiar with the story of the play; how Reuben Whitcomb breaks jail to flee from the long imprisonment that threatens him for a bank robbery when the real thief is actually behind the bars of the same prison; how he comes to New York, where he is found and lost again—by the tramp kindly old Josh Whitcomb who befriended him, and how, eventually, they all go back to Al. Plisow Hampshire farm. It is a story as well known and perhaps better loved than Uncle Tom's Cabin.
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD
December 21, 1918

Feature
Frank Losee as Joshua Whitcomb, Creighton Hale as Reuben Whitcomb and Denman Moley as Happy Jack and Louise Huff as Bessie.

Full Gallant of Human Emotions Run by Beautiful Stage Play. Success.

Joshua Whitcomb Comes Back to His Legion of Intouch Friends.
Louise Huff and Frank Losee Stars in Famous Old Drama.

Advertising Angles: The chief need with this play is to let your patrons know that it is coming. Use plenty of paper, particularly the six-sheets, and if you have a man who can letter, build a six- and three into a twenty-four. Take extra space in the newspapers and make certain that the title is played up in legible type. Use ads wider than they are deep, to let the title get in on one line, using a six to ten-line letter, and don't fill in with too much other type. Work on title and white space.

Advertising Aids: Two each one, three and six-sheets. One 24-sheet.

Daniel Butterfield says:

"THE WAY OF A MAN WITH A MAID"

Jesse L. Lasky Presents Bryant Washburne in a Clever Arrangement of a Naturally Evening Post Story by Ida M. Evans.

Cast:
Arthur McCarrney — Bryant Washburne
Elsie Owenoson — Wanda Hawley
Rick Olsen — Fred Goodwines
Hallet — Clarence Geldart
Sankey — Jay Dwiggins
Glady — Bessie Eaton
Bill — Billy Klucher
Elsa's Father — James Nell

Directed by Donald Criss.

The Story: Arthur McCarrney makes $21 a week and tries to win the lady of his love from a broker who makes more than that much in an hour. When he hears his broker rival refer to him as "a three-dollar-a-week clerk with run down rear," his reputation is his salary and blows in $200 for an outfit that is calculated to put them through to shame. The scheme works, and quickly in knowledge of a raise to $4,000 a year, he goes to a party, and the story is laid off under the nose of his wealthier rival.

Feature: Bryant Washburn as Arthur McCarrney and Wanda Hawley as Elsie Owenoson.

Program and Advertising Phrases: Bryant Washburn Star of Fascinating Photodrama of Love and Happiness.

How a Salaried Man Tried to Live the Life of a Millionaire.

Presenting a Delightfully Human Story in Ideal Fashion.

How Love Chuckled at the Contents of a Skinny Purse.

Story of Remarkable Cleverness Presented in Brilliant Photoplay.

Advertising Angles: Get your clothing stores to give window displays and to share your advertising space for this picture with such arguments as, "Clothes do not make the man. See how Arthur McCarrney got a raise—and the girl—on the strength of his new clothes then come in and buy us." You can work the same scheme with shoe stores and furnishing. In your own advertising play on Washburn's favor, and brief the story interestingly.

Advertising Aids: Two each one, three and six-sheets. One 24-sheet.

"THE SQUAW MAN"

Jesse L. Lasky Presents An Entirely New Production of Edwin Milton Royle's Famous Play Done by Cecil B. DeMille.

Cast:
Jim Wynegate — Elliott Dexter
Naturich — Arthur Ae)
Diana, Henry's Wife — Katherine MacDonald
Cove — Theobald Roberts
Cash Hawkins — Henry, James Cousin — Thurston Hall
St. John Appleby — Frederick Bathgate
Dean of Trentham — Herbert Stairson
Bud Hardy — Edwin Stevens
Dowager Countess — Helen Cabanar
Peters — Winter Hall
Julia Faye
Talywan — Little Hall
Pat Moore

Produced by Cecil B. DeMille.

The Story: Jim Wynegate loves Diana, wife of the Earl of Kerspill, his cousin. For her sake he assumes the crime of the Earl and goes to America, where he eventually marries Nature, his dearest wife. She is a New York and go to America and find Jim, whose life for a second time is saved by Natufich, who kills the thief and appears at him from ambush. The Earl is killed, after confessing his crime, and Diana pleads with Jim to come to her. Jim refuses, but consents to let Diana take the boy to his boy to the station where he will live. Naturich kills himself, and in the end Jim marries the woman he loves.

Program and Advertising Phrases: Stage Drama of Human Interest Brought to the Screen in Brilliant Appeal.

Screened Stage Play Pilled with Pathos, Humor and Charm.

Edwin Milton Royal's Famous Stage Success Brought to the Screen.

Quick Action Drama Based on Stirring Frontier Situations.

Thrilling Baggage and Stirring Incidents Featured in Photoplay.

Advertising Angles: This picture presents a new problem for the exhibitor. The exhibitor must lay stress upon the fact that this is not a reissue, but a new version of the play made by the same director who, for years ago, made the original film version. Camp the fact home. Also dwell upon the production and the fact that the new De Mille productions represent the newest idea in cinematography in which the production is made to rise superior to the star system, though to emerge the star players. It may require extra space to cover these points, but get them all into.

Advertising Aids: One each one, three and six-sheets.

Feature: Elliott Dexter as Jim Wynegate, Ann Little as Naturich and J. Malm as Cash Hawkins.

PROMPT AND ADVERTISING PHRASES: Stage Drama of Human Interest Brought to the Screen in Brilliant Appeal.

Screened Stage Play Pilled with Pathos, Humor and Charm.

Edwin Milton Royal's Famous Stage Success Brought to the Screen.

Quick Action Drama Based on Stirring Frontier Situations.

Thrilling Baggage and Stirring Incidents Featured in Photoplay.

Advertising Angles: This picture presents a new problem for the exhibitor. The exhibitor must lay stress upon the fact that this is not a reissue, but a new version of the play made by the same director who, for years ago, made the original film version. Camp the fact home. Also dwell upon the production and the fact that the new De Mille productions represent the newest idea in cinematography in which the production is made to rise superior to the star system, though to emerge the star players. It may require extra space to cover these points, but get them all into.

Advertising Aids: One each one, three and six-sheets.

Feature: Elliott Dexter as Jim Wynegate, Ann Little as Naturich and J. Malm as Cash Hawkins.

PICTURE THEATRES PROJECTED.

CIRCLE THEATRE, GA.—Circle Theatre has been purchased by John Cain, Jr. House is devoted to moving pictures.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Lakeside Theatre at 1720 Sheridan road has been leased by Lahiero & Company.

EWFEN, KY.—Elkhorn Collieries Company, of Thornton, plans to erect theatre here.

ALHION, MICH.—Motion picture equipment will be installed at Albion College for use.

MASON, MICH.—Charles Clark, of Lansing, has purchased opera house here, and will convert it into moving picture theatre.

ST. JOHNS MICH.—R. J. McLaughlin, of Alma, has purchased Vaudette Theatre here. Changed name to Edson and renamed it the Victory Theatre.

CHASKA, MINN.—Rex Theatre is being remodeled.

GUARANTEED Mailing Lists

MOVING PICTURE THEATRES

Every State—total, 25,500; by States, $3.50 Per M.

1,500 film exchanges — 5.00
2,000 Advertiser's cards — 3.00
365 machine and supply dealers — 2.00

Further Particulars:
A. F. WILLIAMS, 166 W. Adams St., Chicago

Notice

The undersigned, J. HARTLEY MANNERS, gives notice that he has taken an appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, from the decision in his suit against Oliver Morasco, respecting the motion picture rights to "PEG O'MY HEART," and he is advised by his counsel that the appeal will be heard within two months.

J. HARTLEY MANNERS

David Gerber, Attorney
32 Broadway, New York City
The coming peace is a problem—everybody's problem.

Now is the time for the American exporters and producers to prove to the exhibitors and renters abroad their willingness and ability to shoulder their full burden of responsibility during the period of reconstruction.

The International Export and Import Section of the Moving Picture World will heartily do its share.
THE motion picture is like the magician's crystal. You gaze into it and you see life.

Life alight with gayety and purple with dreams, life astride the champing steed of adventure, life careless of death.

By what test have Paramount and Artcraft motion pictures emerged crowned monarchs in this art?

By the test of the faithfulness and clearness of their crystal-reflections of life!

By the sheer vitality of their foremost stars — by their sheer beauty — by their sheer charm — often by their sheer lovableness — by their LIFE!

And nowhere else is there such directing as in Paramount and Artcraft, such gorgeous presentation, such superb understanding of the story's artistic atmosphere, such closeness to life's richest hues!

In deed as well as in name are these motion pictures — Paramount! Artcraft!

The Crystal of Life

The popularity of American moving pictures in foreign fields and their domination of the world's markets, have been brought about by a consistent service of high-quality moving pictures.

Abroad, as in America, Paramount and Artcraft Pictures have been the greatest factor in building for moving pictures the patronage of thinking people, the patronage that has established the photoplay as the great amusement of both hemispheres.
EXPORTERS LAUNCH DRIVE FOR MUTUAL PROTECTION

Enthusiastic Meeting, Attended by Men Representing Control of 70% of Film Sold from America, Results in Definite Action Being Taken

TAKE PLEDGE TO SHOW UP ILICIT TRADE

Anyone “Willingly” and “Knowingly” Buying or Selling Pictures Without Legal Right So To Do To Be Scorched by Widest Possible Publicity—Entire Business May Be Assembled in One Building in New York City.

A gathering of film exporters, all members of the Film Exporters of America, Inc., met on December 12 in the projection room of the Export & Import Film Company for the express purpose of adopting whatever measures were found necessary to meet the new problems brought about by the ending of hostilities and the prospect of an early return to normal conditions.

About twenty men were present, representing the control of over 70 per cent. of the film exported from this country.

To Go After Illicit Traders.

The most important point discussed at the meeting referred to the protection of picture rights in foreign territories and the best means to accomplish this end. The recent lifting of the censorship ban and other Custom House regulations that, although restricting trade and causing great hardships in other directions, had proven a very effective means for preventing illicit film traffic between American ports and foreign countries, has created a problem fraught with many dangers, which, not only the exporters, but the manufacturers and foreign buyers as well, are anxious to solve as rapidly as possible.

The consensus of opinion at the gathering was that a return to the rough-and-tumble conditions prevailing before the war could not be tolerated, and that some effective plan had to be worked out that would safeguard the legitimate interests of the exporting firms owning picture rights throughout the world.

After a heated debate—originating in matters of form and not of principle, as all the members, of course, were in favor of the measure—the following resolution was adopted:

Whereas, the Film Exporters of America, Inc., a membership corporation comprising a large percentage of those engaged in the export of motion picture films from the United States to foreign countries, is desirous of furthering the common good of all those interested both in the United States and foreign countries in the export of motion pictures; and

Whereas, during the past year the Government of the United States has exercised a supervision over all pictures exported, thus protecting those owning and purchasing rights to pictures for foreign countries; and

Whereas, this Government supervision has been modified;

Be it Therefore Resolved, that this Association will use all lawful means to prevent unlawful dealings in films which shall be brought to its knowledge; and that when it is determined that any one willingly and knowingly sells or purchases a picture without the legal right to do so, this Association agrees to give such transaction the widest possible publicity, naming all parties proved to have part in the transaction.

FILM EXPORTERS OF AMERICA, INC.

Plan Alliances with Foreign Organizations

Another matter that came up for discussion was the advisability of establishing a working arrangement, on a reciprocal basis, with similar protective organizations established in other countries, so as to make the scope of the Association as international as possible.

The other point discussed and agreed upon at the meeting is only second in importance to the stand taken by the exporters on the question of illicit trading. It was decided to open suitable offices for the Association, putting in charge a man acquainted with export and import and with the producing and distributing phases of the American market. The members of the Association will sit in this office, which will also serve as clubroom and meeting place, accurate and up-to-date records of the producing activities of the United States and other countries, specifying the actual producers and the parties controlling the rights in the different parts of the world.

Will Maintain Central Offices.

 Needless to say these headquarters of the Exporters of America, Inc., will give invaluable service to all foreign buyers, as they will be able to keep in close touch with the changes of the market and place their orders with the assurance of dealing through the proper channels.

Although these were the only two measures officially adopted at the meeting, the plans of the Association, which are fast maturing, are much wider and will doubtless improve the whole export situation on this side, placing it on a thoroughly business-like and systematic basis. We understand that tentative steps have already been taken, with the enthusiastic approval of all the members, to secure a lease on ten or twelve floors of a centrally located building. One of the floors will be devoted to the general headquarters of the Association, club-rooms, restaurant, etc. Another whole floor, divided into separate offices, will be placed at the convenience of foreign buyers, who can rent these suites or rooms during their stay in New York, and more efficiently transact their business. The other floors will be taken by the offices of the various exporting houses, concentrating in this way the whole export business of the United States in one single building.
Inter-Ocean Emissary Carries
"No-Junk" Campaign to Orient

Horace G. Harper Will Be Permanently Located in Far East After He Has Completed Initial Trip of 40,000 Miles—Hurries Away to Fight Threatened Evil.

After a series of conferences with President Paul H. Cromelin and the officers of the Inter-Ocean Films Corporation, Horace G. Harper, formerly with the Australasian Films, Ltd., has left the United States for a 40,000-mile trip to the farthest corners of the Far East as an Inter-Ocean emissary. The International Section of the Moving Picture World has it on the best of authority that Mr. Harper's trip was not primarily for sales, but as part of a campaign against the use of "junk" film in foreign markets—particularly the Far Eastern ones that this paper has long and persistently urged.

The Inter-Ocean, it might be said, has for many months been waging a war on the "junk evil" through its agents in foreign lands. But in some of these lands, particularly the Far Eastern countries, there are no such representatives, and the Inter-Ocean executive board gradually determined that the only sure way of carrying the campaign into these countries was by means of a permanent field representative.

In trade paper stories that have appeared about the Harper trip a mistaken impression was created that Harper's work in connection with this campaign was looked on as complete with the finish of Mr. Harper's long journey. The truth of the matter, the World learns, is that Mr. Harper is permanently assigned to the Far East for the purpose mentioned.

Mr. Harper started the better, especially when advice was received from Inter-Ocean correspondents abroad supporting the view taken in the clipping. When the Inter-Ocean field representative is not featuring the merits of the new American films, he will attempt to find a hearing for such American-made motion picture supplies as the Speer Camera Risories and the Globe Steel Reel. The accessories field was one early largely by German manufacturers before the war, but it is hoped that with the high cost of production in the Central Empires the possibility of American accessories, through their improvements, "catching on" is bright.

Mr. Harper does first to Sydney, Australia, after which he will visit the principal exhibitors and circuits in New Zealand, China, the Philippine Islands and the Dutch East Indies. At dinner given in his honor at Reisenwein's Bambus Circle, New York, before leaving, the following members of the Inter-Ocean staff were in attendance: Paul Cromelin, Mr. Harper, Eugene H. Kaufman, Robert A. Foster, J. L. Kemper, Louis Broek, Ricardo Castro, Octa Schumaker, Bert Adler, Allen Hartle, Martin G. Cohn, Allan Lownes and E. C. Wallace.

LAMY RESIGNS FROM FOX FOREIGN DEPARTMENT

Joseph Lamy, one of the veterans in the export business, has resigned his position as foreign sales manager of the Fox Film Corporation. Mr. Lamy is making a study of conditions abroad and of the changes brought about by the recent war, and will probably head an exporting organization in the near future.

DONATI CLOSES IMPORTANT SOUTH AMERICAN CONTRACTS

Jose Donati, a member of the Cinematograafia Sudamericana, S. A., and its representative in New York, has recently purchased for Argentina, Uruguay, Paraguay and Chile all the Florence Reed, Kitty Gordon and Dustin Farnum pictures to be turned out by the United Picture Theatres of America, Inc. The deal was closed through David P. Howells, who controls the foreign rights on these productions. Two of them are already on their way to South America. Mr. Donati has also obtained half of the five-reel output of the Vitagraph Company, about two six or seven-reelers a year, for Chile, Peru and Bolivia. This contract was closed through L. H. Allen, who handles Vitagraph pictures in Latin-America.

UNIVERSAL EXCHANGE BURNS DOWN IN CUBA

The Asturianos Clubhouse, of Havana, was burned down at the beginning of the month, causing damages over a million dollars. The building occupied a whole block in the very centre of the city, facing Central Park on one side; the upper stories being taken by the club and the lower ones by several cafes, restaurants, billiard academies, shops and the famous Capomoor Theatre, the only house devoted to moving pictures on a continuous performance basis from Mexico down to Brazil. The Capomoor was exploited under a long contract by the Universal Company, and, although this part of the building was the least to suffer by the fire, the exchange and the $500 reels stored in the building ready for distribution throughout the island were ruined by the fire.

Mr. Lichtig states that the Capomoor Theatre and of the Universal exchanges in Cuba, Porto Rico and the rest of the Western Indies, is expected to be ready for distribution by the end of the month.
ROBERTSON-COLE CO.

EXPAND ORGANIZATION

The rise of the Robertson-Cole Company has been so rapid that the moving picture field has seen in years. Long experience in handling world-wide commercial enterprises has, perhaps, given this company a peculiarly keen insight into the demands of the various markets. That it is employing every possible method of promoting its films, so greatly to the advantage of the producers here and abroad.

With the inevitable expansion into the world’s rights field they make an addition to their already long list of subjects. They have purchased the rights of sixty pictures a year. These subjects are marketed in the United States and Canada through the Exhibitors’ Mutual Distributing Corporation, with branches in all important cities, and include offerings from the National Film Company of America, starring Henry B. Walthall and Billie Rhodes, and from Jesse D. Hampton, featuring William Desmond.

Bessie Barriscale has recently been added to this list to furnish the Robertson-Cole Company eight productions during the coming year. Her first picture, “All of a sudden,” has already finished shooting.

The anticipated influx of “after the war business” seems already to have made itself felt in the Robertson-Cole Company. During the past few weeks they have negotiated sales with buyers from Scandinavia, Ecuadore, China, Japan, India, Burma, Ceylon, Dutch East Indies and Philippine Islands.

With the favor imparted to the exhibition of pictures at Washington and the lowering of marine and war risk rates the broad plates which were some fore-sight of a great many of the companies sending films here to be exhibited. The familiar border scenes, which almost always show up well, have time after time been sent here to wound the feelings of a very sensitive people. The reaction after the exhibition of a film of this kind is naturally very great, and the popularity of American films suffers as a consequence. If Films with inserts written in English, or any language other than Spanish, make a bad impression, as it is impossible for the audience of all kinds, to follow the sense of the plot, and the picture falls flat. It has been noted that lately the greater part of the American films sent to Mazatlan for exhibitions have had the captions written in Spanish or in both English and Spanish.

American films are popular, reports the consul. Primarily, because of the clearness of the pictures projected, their superiority to European films being very much exerted. On the other side, the European films are on a par with American films in the estimation of the Mexican people. When the Mexican American film makers to send for exhibition in Mexico films which are of no special interest to them are of an eclectic and melodramatic films are the most popular with the public as a whole, and some of the foreign products. In the United States, the companies have recently been exhibited here with great success.

INTER-OCEAN Publishes

AN EXPORT HOUSE ORGAN

A new house organ, a unique one, has just made its bow. Its name: The Inter-Ocean Globe. Its editor: Bert Adler. Its publisher: The Inter-Ocean Film Corporation.

It represents the first house organ published by an American film exporting firm. It has news, real news, of the New York market, interesting articles on the current export problems, information on the wider activities of the Inter-Ocean Company, which are bound to be useful to foreign buyers, and all this got up and laid out in a style that reveals the hand of a veteran.

We could launch into a panegyric of its editor and his achievements—in fact, this is the case of distinction to which The Inter-Ocean Globe is heir. But perhaps—considering the greater familiarity with the industry—this favors Bert Adler too many publicity men who do not believe in publicity for themselves.

BAN ON SPANISH FILMS

CREATE BAD FEELING

A great deal of ill feeling has been caused in Spain by the ruling of the French authorities prohibiting the importation of Spanish films into France. It is hard to say what might be back of this decision, which, by reason of its arbitrary nature, will doubtless be revoked as soon as the peace treaty has been signed, unless it was intended to promote the French motion picture industry against another and perhaps—considering the greater familiarity with the French industry—such a formidable competitor than the Americans. The French studios, as well as all other industrial plants, were in some cases taken over by the military for the manufacture of articles of war and in other cases so restricted by regulations as to curtail their output to a minimum; but there was nothing to prevent the older directors, teams, films of all kinds, actresses and actors from emigrating to Spain, where capital in plenty could have been found to organise several picture enterprises, particularly with the assurance that Spanish-made film would have had unhampered access to the French and French-controlled markets. Naturally, such developments would have reacted against the French industry.

Irish Company Ready to Produce

Rumor in film circles in Dublin, Ireland, has it that the Film Company of Ireland, Ltd., is being reorganized, backed by American capital, and is about to begin the large scale production of moving pictures—on a large scale for the purpose of invading the American market. Mr. Sullivan, who has been heavily interested in the company for some time, recently visited the United States.

---

SULTAN OF PERAK APPEARS IN BURTON TRAVELOGUES

H. T. Cowling, cinematographer of the Paramount-Burton Travelogues, has just arrived at Singapore, after an interesting voyage. Leaving New York in February, 1917, he has toured through Canada, South Sea Islands, New Zealand, Tonga Islands, Philippine Islands, China, Japan, Formosa, Siam and the Federated Malay States.

In the course of his overland journey from Singapore to Hong Kong, Mr. Cowling paid a visit to the Sultan of Perak, H. H. Abdul Jalil, who most graciously consented to the filming of his entire court in full regalia, including princes and princesses. The royal body guard, composed of Indian Sikhs on Arabian horses, all decked in scarlet robes, was in attendance, affording a really magnificent sight.

Mr. Cowling also reports that the Sultan’s brother, Raja Abdul Iskand, readily consented to arrange several scenes, in which the princes appeared, as soon as it was pointed out to him how necessary it was for the Malay people to receive proper representation before the American public.

This was quite a concession, as one of the chief Mohammedan tenants. States very plainly that “thou shalt not make unto thyself the likeness of any living image.”

---

FILM SMUGGLING INTO MEXICO STILL GOING ON

L. H. Allen, on behalf of the Vitagraph Company, reports that sometime ago he sold the Cuban rights on “The Fighting Trail” and “The Woman in the Web” to Callejas & Boan, of Havana, and those on “Vengeance and the Woman” and “The Fight for Millions” to Blanco & Martinez, of the same city, both firms having already been furnished with powers of attorney for the proper registration of copyrights.

Mr. Allen now wishes to state that he has been informed by his clients that Alvarez Arrondo Co., of Mexico City, are endeavoring to introduce into Cuba, through one of the Havana renters, “The Fighting Trail” and “The Woman in the Web” under disguised titles. According to Mr. Allen, these two copies were stolen from the Vitagraph exchange in Dallas, Texas, and smuggled into Mexico by a firm doing business under the name of “La Imperial Cinematografica.”

---

POPULARITY OF AMERICAN PICTURES IN MEXICO

According to one of the U. S. consuls in Mexico, American motion picture films, like other American products, would be a much more popular item than they are at present, were it not for the foresight of a great many of the companies sending films here to be exhibited. The familiar border scenes, which almost always show up well, have time after time been sent here to wound the feelings of a very sensitive people. The reaction after the exhibition of a film of this kind is naturally very great, and the popularity of American films suffers as a consequence. If films with inserts written in English, or any language other than Spanish, make a bad impression, as it is impossible for the audience of all kinds to follow the sense of the plot, and the picture falls flat. It has been noted that lately the greater part of the American films sent to Mazatlan for exhibitions have had the captions written in Spanish or in both English and Spanish.

American films are popular, reports the consul, primarily, on account of the clearness of the pictures projected, their superiority to European films being very marked. On the other side, the European films are on a par with American films in the estimation of the Mexican people. When the Mexican American film makers to send for exhibition in Mexico films which are of no special interest to them are of an eclectic and melodramatic films are the most popular with the public as a whole, and some of the foreign products. In the United States, the companies have recently been exhibited here with great success.
Over-Seas Expressions on American and Indian Moving Pictures

Representative moving picture men in the foreign field are responding to communications from the International Export and Import Section of the Moving Picture World asking them for an expression on the subject of American-made moving pictures abroad. Touching the topic from many different angles, the extracts printed below will be of great interest and value.

Some Air Castles of India Extravagant, Says Levett

Levett & Co., buying agents for the Elphinstone Bioco company, who have extensive interests throughout India, Burmah and Ceylon, takes advantage of the opportunity afforded to write entertainingly and instructively concerning the markets in which the Elphinstone company operates from its main office in Calcutta, Bombay. The Elphinstone company is the principal owner and controller of picture theatres and exchanges in the territories already mentioned, and Levett & Co. secure the product of the Elphinstone company needs by buying in all parts of the world, including the American as well as the European markets. Extracts from the Levett letter follow:

"In the course of our dealings with America we have come across evidence of a good deal of ignorance of the actual conditions of the moving picture trade in these countries, and an erroneous exaggeration of the scope and capacity of the market, and of the class of films likely to interest the population. American producers seem to think that the consumption capacity of a market and prices obtainable therefrom for their products are in direct ratio to the number of the population, and that the percentage of picture theatres to meet the population is equal to that in all over the world. India, therefore, would seem to them to be a very fertile mine of wealth for all concerned, and themselves in particular, and it is necessary that they should be disabused of this because otherwise the extravagant claims which they make are likely to lead to much disappointment, and actual heavy loss.

"In the first place, although India is a very large country and has many millions of inhabitants, the inhabitants live in places remote from cities, and where no picture theatres ever will, or could, be established. There are only a few big cities which can accommodate permanent picture theatres in the whole territory, and in these cities the vast majority of the inhabitants are too poor to afford even the minimum sum charged for admission to any entertainment of the kind. The theatre trade is consequently from records in the whole of India, Burmah, and Ceylon, there were not more than six dozen permanent theatres, many of which, however, do not run in the hot weather, there are, of course, a number of travelling 'hit-ups' and shows given from time to time in regimental theatres, etc., as also private entertainments given by the Rajahs, rich men, etc., for the delectation of their guests or people. These shows, however, from the point of view of the purchase of films from American producers, are practically negligible, as it is not once in a thousand times that a film is shown that has not been Round the regular theatres, and these exhibitions therefore form no additional market for new films. "

"This market, limited as it is, is subject to the invasion of the whole film production of the world—American, as usual, being predominant. The consequence is that a good deal of overbuying has been, and is occasionally, done by various renters and exhibitors in the hope of getting hold of the better films and adding to the increasing congestion of stocks. "

"Certain films, American and Italian, have been bought in Singapore, sum total of $2 a reel. He complains that the film he is getting is old and far from being satisfactory, and that he is not likely to be able to find anything of the kind of an arrangement whereby he could be supplied directly from New York. Such an arrangement, he says, would require the absence of the film from New York for about a month if it were shipped by mail. On account of the small population of the city, Mr. Swedens has found it impossible to show each film more than once. His needs are for sensational serials and one-reel comedies."

Still Small Voice from St. Croix, D. W. I.

Writing for the Danish West Indies Electric Company, operating the only picture theatre in Christiansted, Mr. Croix, Edgar Swedens, managing director, contributes the information that his supply of film is at present coming from New York, where the charge for a ten-reel film is $2 a reel. He complains that the film he is getting is old and far from being satisfactory, and that he is not likely to be able to find anything of the kind. "

"What the native population like are good films of romantic adventure, well produced, as the public, even of the poorest class, is very discriminating in the matter of the quality of photography of the films, and it will not put up with 'cheap' productions of any kind. It is a further public of much fastidiousness than the American producer seems to think. For instance, the ordinary knockabout comedy film is not a huge success and is looked upon as a 'second-rate' hit-up, than as a main attraction—very few people in India are drawn to a theatre just to see the 'latest Chaplin' film, etc."

"It must be remembered that the audiences are all the same in that section of the population, and this section which goes to the theatres regularly wants something fresh, not repetition of the same ideas."

From all this it should be readily appreciated by producers that if they want a regular sale of films in India, they must not only scoop a big sum for one or two productions, thus blocking the market for the sale of further films, but they should be content with a moderate price for their films, so that a large proportion of their total output can be absorbed, which is not the case with big producers, who lay the golden eggs. The moving picture industry in India may be in its infancy, and despite the fact that it is a very small market, it will be a very slow matter indeed, and attempts to force the pace will only lead to disaster."

"We think it due to all our readers to let them know in these facts, so that they may not build extravagant air castles on the prospects of business in this particular part of the British Empire."

"As the first to give a public picture show in India, and handles, we believe, at least 5 per cent. of the business there is—though we have no exact statistics."

Brockett Says War Made Things "Darnable"

J. Frank Brockett, who is almost as well known among American film men as he is in the European markets, writes from London, where he is the manager of the E. & O. Theatres in Har-\n dour Street. An enthusiastic British subject, Mr. Brockett has been a First Lieutenant in the American Red Cross ambulance corps, and he says, about twelve hours a day toward looking the Hun, but still finding another hour or so during which he finds something moving pictures interests. Mr. Brockett writes:

"With regard to your request for particulars concerning the present war conditions, I can only say that the last four and a half years' war conditions can only be described as extremely detrimental to the film trade in this country, and the conditions of this country with regard to the film business—and that one word is 'Darnable.'"
Moving Pictures Are International

The product of the French, British, Italian, and American studios will be shown throughout the world in friendly artistic competition.

The International
Export and Import Section of
the Moving Picture
World

aims to promote the sale of American pictures abroad and to encourage the introduction of good European pictures in the United States.

Moving Pictures

THE value of a film is always in close connection with that of the scenario.

"A story well studied, well constructed and brought out at a cost of only $20,000 or $30,000 will always be more appreciated by the exhibitor and spectator than an inferior scenario, the production of which might have cost $100,000 or $200,000.

"This is the principle, both elementary and primordial, which should guide all the specialists of our profession.

"If stars, directors, and managers specially, are not convinced that the production of a negative would not be undertaken unless the story is strong (as you say), we must arrive at a common resolution that they are not unsuited to be members of this industry.

"This applies to the young as well as to those who have acquired a more or less deserved reputation.

"The young can place all hope in the future, as they alone can keep in mind the real truth that reputation and profits in the cinema business are not obtained with a quantity of negatives executed, signed or distributed, but only with quality.

"This said, you are quite right when you state that French, Italian, British, and American producers, as well as those of other countries, will always be handicapped by our American production for the conquest of the cinematographic world.

"This is caused by the enormous capital which has been invested in the American industry, which has allowed the construction of modern, perfectly equipped studios, perfectly justified by the size of your market.

"Everyone knows that American producers, very often, if not always, can consider the cost of the negative which, however high, is a direct result of the exploitation of their negatives abroad, as integral profit and supplementary, while their competitors of other countries cannot realize even a part of the huge amount of money invested in their productions on their own respective markets, are compelled (even with equally good scenarios) to exercise greater prudence in the expenses of production than their American competitors."

Charles Pathé believes in competing scenarios

Writing from Vincennes, France, Charles Pathé makes some interesting remarks on the future of the moving picture business from the production point of view, since his company received an order from the French Government to perform at the Champs Elysees. Charles Pathé is one of the best known of English showmen, directing the operation of thirty-six variety and moving picture houses in London, and the London Opera House, which is claimed to be the finest moving picture theatre in Great Britain.

Mr. Bernard says: "We find that American pictures have to be treated in accordance with the British taste, and by this treatment we have proved that the pictures which we offer the majority of the exhibitors in this country, and I think the manufacturers in America will appreciate that an important policy is being carried out, and I am satisfied that we can give it adds to its value to an enormous extent, and, by thus adding to its value, that manufacturer naturally increases its value to the British public, whereas a picture which is shown in an insignificant way is forgotten about at once."
The Great World's War's Over—
What Now of American Pictures?

The collapse of the world's war officially brought about by the signing of the armistice has produced a feverish activity in export circles and a tendency among the exporters to demand their work and make every possible effort to reduce the many problems arising out of the trade between New York and foreign countries. This is evidenced by the letters which we have recently received from well-known New York exporters, which all invoke the co-operation of the authorities in the work of restoring the film export business to normal conditions.

Favors Permanent American Representatives

W. E. Shallenberger, president of the Arrow Film Corporation, believes that the exportation of films should be closely regulated and makes some pertinent suggestions. He says:

"I vouchsafe the statement that never before in the history of any industry or enterprise that had anything to do with foreign markets were the opportunities for permanent expansion so great as now exist in connection with the motion picture industry. The 'World War' lately terminated has opened the door to what has heretofore seemed to be an impossible territory. To maintain the foothold permanently planted, will require no small amount of energy and endeavor.

"It has been established beyond the pale of a doubt that films are a vital and potent force in introducing and popularizing practically every line of merchandise, and it is for that reason among others that we will meet with a competition in foreign markets both severe and energetic.

"If I were asked to state what are the necessary conditions on the part of American exporters to maintain and extend their contract with foreign fields, I should answer as follows:

"1. Export sales by the transaction of business with local concerns in foreign countries through established American representatives.

"2. The total elimination of the sale or leasing of used or worn copies of prints.

"3. A complete and thorough compilation of data and records in the United States Bureau of Commerce and Labor in connection with the exploitation and exhibition of American produced motion pictures in the various foreign countries.

"I also believe that if the 'Moving Picture World' were properly circulated without translation among the motion picture industry in foreign countries, it would lend material assistance in creating a further demand for American-made products.

American Films Entrenched Abroad

Ben Blumenthal, president of the Export & Import Film Company, has not forgotten yet the hardships and difficulties which the industry has had to contend with during the past year. His confidence in the future, however, is revealed in the following statement:

"The temptation to complain because of difficulties which have beset American exporters during the past couple of years on account of war time conditions, rather than to look at the brighter side of the picture which logically presents itself, is strongly resisted, and yet, by a very simple process of reasoning, I find it possible to be optimistic after a couple of years of struggle which I am certain will never mark the end of our export business; certainly any nuts we exporters will be called upon to crack in the future cannot be as hard as some of us have been with the days of all kinds of governmental control from a dozen different quarters in the past. The hapsiest thought is this: American motion pictures have been firmly entrenched in the foreign field—and I say 'firmly entrenched' for the reason that not only have American pictures been booked because no other pictures were available, but for the reason that patrons in foreign countries have developed a real enthusiasm for their style and general excellence. This makes me confident that no matter what opposition may develop after the war, and no matter what difficulties may present themselves, American moving pictures will at least hold the position in the foreign market which they have secured—and this means that the American export business is always going to be about one thousand per cent, better than it was in the days when I tackled it first.

"Does this mean, however, that I believe that we are only going to hold our own. On the contrary, I am looking for a great progress. The 'World War' has unquestionably been the most powerful awakening influence of history. It has advertised the United States and every industry connected with the United States in a manner which could have been equaled in no other way. It has created a tremendous demand for everything American. The foreign markets have learned to know us—and now that the war is over will want to know us better. And if the demand is there, we'll find a way to meet it, and meeting it, our business will grow.

"The Government's attitude toward the picture export business will, of course, have a great deal to do with the future progress of the industry. The interpretation which has been made of the regulation placing a per foot tax is at least threatening, and if this regulation is enforced it would be logical for foreign buyers to look to the London market for their supply of pictures, in view of the fact that in that market they will be able to buy the identical films we sell for a half a cent less per foot than we can possibly sell them. The license plan which is still in force is another bad feature, as is also the over-strict regulation of travel from this country to the foreign markets; if foreign buyers can visit us at will while we are unable to go abroad to look after our interests at a time when our export opportunities are greatest, certainly we will be placed at a great disadvantage.

"But my optimism helps me again. I am satisfied that the part that American-made motion pictures played in moulding sentiment abroad during the war cannot be readily forgotten, and that the Government will be more willing than it has ever been to help the export business.

"We should realize, of course, that with conditions changing as rapidly as they are—almost over night, indeed—definite prophecies for the future are impossible. Let us just say that I picture a rosy future.

World-Wide Organization Necessary

David P. Howells, president of the company which bears his name, offers some constructive suggestions. His letter follows:

"If there is to be such a thing as League of Nations world business never can be carried on as before the war. Then each nation was fighting for commercial supremacy with cut-throat, fight-to-the-finish methods and now we shall have to work for some sort of co-operative scheme by which each nation will supply to the world the things which it is best suited to produce.

"Just as America is called upon to feed the world because of our abundance of all sorts of food stuffs, so it will naturally be called upon to set the pace in the production of the moving pictures, as this is one of our national specialties—one of the things which nature has best fitted us to do by giving us geographical settings typical of every place and climate, diversified types which represent every race and nation of the earth and climates and atmospheric conditions which make possible a film photography which can rarely be attained in any other part of the world.

"We gladly accept the responsibility of supplying the world with moving pictures as we believe we can do it with entire satisfaction to everyone. We are laying our plans to increase our efficiency in every respect, not only to produce better pictures but to distribute the mmore economically than we have ever been able to do in the past, and responsibility of caring for the world business falls on the shoulders of the film exporters, so we have organized ourselves into an Export Bureau of America, Inc., and can now cope with the problems offered. We are preparing to fulfill our obligations to foreign clients and American manufacturers alike."

(Continued on page 1401.)
As a last resort, the French film men have decided that the salvation of the industry can be attained by raising the tariff and by compelling the exhibitors to show French-made pictures on percentage, both measures, in our opinion, of very doubtful value.

Italy, leaving aside the sad months following the Caporetto disaster, has continued to do a large trade, although constantly losing ground through the invasion of American pictures in those markets in which she had been compelled to compete. During the past two years Italian pictures have ceased to be an important commercial factor in Latin America, and, despite the efforts of American manufacturers in general, does not seem to be able to hold her own in Spain and Portugal. She is even threatened in her home market.

Germany Advances During War.

Germany has advanced by leaps and bounds in the cinematographic field, thanks to the investment of large capital to a point as productive as that of the United States. Up to the signing of the armistice she had been supplying, beside the sixty odd million Em's in the French Empire, the fifty millions in Austria-Hungary, most of the Balkan States, and a large proportion of the film shown in the Eastern European countries with the exception of Spain.

This should not be interpreted as meaning that in the above mentioned neutrals markets, to which both belligerent groups had a more or less restricted access, German pictures were in the ascendency through superior quality. To the contrary, under these conditions the head of the cinema was indubitably Swiss, with the Allied representatives would not deal under any circumstances with that country.

Lack of space prevents us from citing even more peculiar cases in other neutral countries.

Great Britain, never a great producing nation in this field, has not been very active during the war, although in the past six months a tendency has been noticed to restrict the pressure from America (about 90 per cent. of the films shown in the United Kingdom comes from this side of the Atlantic) and some other countries, including North America, quite a few successful photoplays of British origin have made their appearance in recent months.

Let us examine now the position held by the United States.

An Unprecedented Expansion.

The popularity attained by American pictures in some markets has practically eliminated all competition. Such is the case in Latin America, from Mexico to Argentina, the Orient—Australia, New Zealand, India, Burma, Japan, China, and open ports of Great Britain, France and her colonies. They have won a prominent position in Spain, Portugal, and all the neutral nations of Europe. Discarding Italy, where an organized campaign has been foot by foot, the British, with a large number of films, from New York is shipped today most of the film exhibited throughout the world with the exception of the Central Powers and the States under their influence.

But with the signing of the armistice some radical changes have been brought about.

The menace of Germany as a producing market will not be felt for a long time, and in the near future, two or three years can be considered a “long time” in any business based on amusing the public. Unless we are being led by the daily press or the London and American news stories without foundation in fact, and always providing that we can read the signs of the times, a decline of similar importance will be reported in those countries bordering on the Germany. The red wave engulfing Europe from the Volga to the Rhine, which threatens to centralize Europe a repetition of the Russian triumph, does not in itself campaigns of commercial expansion.

With Germany out of the running, Italy, France, Great Britain, Spain, and the United States will be the only nations in a position to compete in the international market. And right here it should be made quite plain that we are not guided by any wartime prejudice in leaving Germany out of the report, the “so-called and industrial aggression do not go together.

Looking to the future, Germany will doubtless offer some brisk competition in the home market, and England will doubtless offer some limited extent, throughout the British Empire. Her better pictures are also bound to find their way to the United States. France and Italy will argue the British market—although on a restricted scale—in the available international markets. And New York will keep on supplying in predominating quantities to the Spanish and Portuguese-speaking nations of the Orient, all North America and the greater part of Europe.

The happenings of a year hence are still on the knees of the Gods, and it would be foolish to prophesy. There is one point, however, that all exproprietors and importers should do well to fix in their minds. The United States constitutes today the most stable country in the world, and this should not be forgotten when venturing into the future.

It is our firm belief that within two years—as soon as the United States has established its bank and agencies abroad and completed its vast mercantile marine—New York will be in an even more advantageous position than at present to take care of the film needs of the world.

Help Us Help the New

The Export and Import Branch of the

Moving Picture Industry

The columns of the International Section of the Moving Picture World are your ready-made pipeline for the discussion of any phase of the business.

Your Contribution Will Help

Assistant: The text is a news article about the international film market, specifically discussing the impact of the war on film distribution and the dominance of American films. It also touches on the challenges faced by European countries in maintaining their markets and the potential for future competition. The article highlights the United States' position as a major producer and exporter of films, and it discusses the strategic importance of maintaining the status quo in the film market post-war. The text is dated January 4, 1919, and the headline suggests a focus on the future of the film industry after the war. The article mentions the influence of the war on the film market in various countries, the role of American films, and the potential for European countries to regain their markets post-war. The text also touches on the concept of a film empire and the competitive landscape in the film industry. The article concludes with a call to action for contributions to the Moving Picture World to help discuss any phase of the business. The text is a historical perspective on the film industry in the early 20th century.
TRIBUTE TO THE POWER OF THE SCREEN

Serious-Minded Men of Affairs Hope to Bridge Gap of Lost Time and Opportunities in Aid of Backward Countries.

By W. H. Jackson

By a strange coincidence during the course of a few days recently, important mail came to us from the extreme points of India and Siberia. It is hardly possible to conceive two more opposite points both in nature, habits, geographical or human conditions. Although thus diametrically opposed, they are unified in thought and purpose in things pertaining to human progress, and each alike appeal to the common understanding and interest to the highest thoughts and purpose, the moving picture.

The Moving Picture World is gratified at receiving from these distant parts the information that this publication is the medium through which there has come to them the knowledge of the possibilities within their reach, and it has been the purpose to assure them that their trust in this paper will be fully ratified.

In India the moving picture has already made much headway and the immediate desire is to plan that great and immediate educational introduction. In India, as in the circulated printed circular we find the leaders in educational moving pictures in that great country sadly deplore the detracting influences of many pictures, the tone of which does not reach their own standard. It is well to remember that India and India's schools are a stable of philosophy which is easily outraged, and only the best kind of pictures intended for them are acceptable there. For the educational pictures they have nothing but high praise, hence the present written demand for more of them, a demand made stronger because of that serious-mindedness which is the common characteristic of that great people whose diversified races and differences are rapidly becoming unified under the British guidance, a guidance which has been intensified by the World War and India's part in it. Coincident with these conditions we learn that the moving pictures have proved of most timely aid, and the call for more of them is a general one.

The classes of educational pictures desired are those whose general character, dealing with social conditions as applied to all classes of people; and second, those adaptable to their own educational or scholastic conditions.

In the first of these classes, hygiene, social, educational, and industrial are the subjects desired; while in the second class, scenic and travel, art and architecture, scenic and travel, are essentially those topicalia of world-wide interest.

From Siberia the demand is of a very different character, though at the same time it is the same—it is the same wish. They have of moving pictures is not very extensive, apart from those leaders in the work, who seem to as alive in experience and interest as elsewhere. For this reason they are always anxious for such a campaign of moving picture educationalism as shall lift the inhabitants of the great land of Siberia. The Russian people are the chosen and selected or backward country to the level and average of other more favored lands. This raises these ambitions, a land and seemingly well financed "Educational Union" has been formed, including men of education, who value the moving picture and write us of their aims and requirements.

These requirements consist of several hundred projection machines, though with self light-producing power being most needed, as great stretch of country have as yet no electric power.

Several thousands of films will also be required, as it is the purpose of those in charge of this great work to commence a great sort of "drive" in this educationally backward country. They will not only be able to the pleasurable duty of the Moving Picture World and its Educational Department to do all that is possible toward the success of this work, but it affords an opportunity to many others in the various parts of the world to aid in this work. It is suggested that the times when they be advised of these openings and to encourage and help as far as lie in their power, to be possible, that they be thoroughly realized that the after-war openings for the work of the moving pictures in general and of the educational classes will be very great, and if those advance inquiries from India and Siberia are any indication, the future is great indeed.

CENSORSHIP AGITATION IN AUSTRALIA

Women's Leagues Join Hands to Insist Upon More Rigid Supervision of Pictures in Antipodes—Victorian Chief Secretary Has Bill to Introduce.

Sydney, N. S. W., Australia, Oct. 23.—The aspect of some picture productions upon the minds and morals of children, and in some cases, a lack of proper censorship, were matters trenchantly dealt with by a deputation of women which waited upon the state education in the absence of the Minister.

Among the bodies represented were the Women's Reform League, New Education Fraternity, Professional Women's Association, Girl's National League, Mother's Union, Women's Christian Temperance Union, Feminist Club, and the Kindergarten Training College.

A member of the deputation pointed out that the Women's Reform League had recently carried a resolution urging that a stricter film censorship should be instituted, and that women who had made a special study of child minds would be invited to sit on the censorship board.

The Director agreed with the deputation that some films were screened which were not in the best interests of the children. It did seem that there should be some more careful selection of subjects matter to be put upon the screens. As to how a better selection should be made was a matter on which he did not wish to speak. He was promised to bring the representation before Mr. James, the Minister for Education.

By a majority, and of the New South Wales censors, on hearing of the above deputation, made passing reference to the new censorship.
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD (International Section)

(Continued from page 138.)

maintain men in every country of the world to keep in the very closest touch with film men there in order to supply the markets with such things as are wanted. We shall ask for suggestions from all these countries and shall amalgamate their ideas with our own, thereby making the motion picture more effective than it has ever been before. We shall devote much time to the study of shipping in order to devise ways of facilitating the transportation of film stocks. Several foreign pictures in Calcutta, Buenos Aires, Petrograd and other far-off points will be a matter of weeks after their release in New York instead of months, as it used to be. We are now able to enjoy American banking facilities in practically every part of the world, making easy and convenient the transfer of credits and moneys. We shall do all in our power to increase these accommodations.

We exporters are standing solidly together—ready to "do our bit" in supplying the world with the best pictures, in the best way for the best good of all concerned."

AMERICAN FILM EXPORT NEVER WAS "WAR BABY"

Paul H. Cromelin, the dean of American film executives, whose handle is called on several occasions, insists that the growth of the film export business is based on merit. It is not a "war baby," he declares.

"Will American motion pictures retain their present strength in the foreign markets after the conclusion of peace? This is one of the strength of the American motion picture. The simple disappearance of shipping and censorship conditions are not likely to return if our films do not hold up in quality.

"While there is no doubt that the war has given American films an extra chance in some of the foreign countries principally because there was a glut of "junk," which it no longer remained profitable to ship—i, for one, do not think that the American film took its present place totally as the result of 'war luck'.

"The export side of the American film business has never appeared to me as a 'war baby'. It is true that the sale of American films abroad has had its greatest impetus since 1914, but it is also true that the export of American films was fairly well advanced in that period. Certainly, no well-balanced human would speak of the one reel of eight or ten years ago as the typical feature of this year.

"Of course, American pictures are going to retain their lead in the world market. There is a quality 'If' and no other. Our future abroad is in the hands of our directors, our players and our writers here."

Poor Merchandising Ability Has Hurt Italy's Export Chances

Ferdinando Caporin, who is the manager of the Cinematografica Nuova and one of the most prominent studios in Italy, said, in the relation of the present and past to the future, that the Italian film industry is vitally interested in the American market, as it is a well known buyer in the big market. As the industry is backed by nationality and was engaged in the film industry in his native country because of its growth in America, the Italian film industry has an interest of various big interests began. For some years the company, he said, was the buying representative of the Alber- to Cappelletti, one of the biggest operators in Brazil.

The motion picture industry in Italy is passing through a period of crisis of which are clear indexes the cries of alarm that, in the sunny peninsula, are arising from everywhere against what is being defined as "The American Peril. In fact, America has not only sold more than successfully, invaded all foreign markets where once she was a leader both for quality and quantity, but also set foot in Italy with a material that calls for attention, backed by a system that bespeaks America's thoroughness. When America appeared in the world's market Italy did not worry. Her opinion in the world market of America's production had long since been found, and was not a flattering one. She had also a great opinion about her own production, an opinion that was generally justified by its beauty and by the fact that it was enjoying the world over with the exception of America.

Why America did not buy Italian products and vice versa is not understood, but the world at large did not aim to imitate American production set America think- ing and producing. Today, however, Italy and prosper did not need to export her pictures! But that was not the point. The idea is: why did America not sell where other nations did. To know this, she sent abroad her commercial and sales agents to make a study of the situation. She found out that her main fault was with the quality of her production. To see what was needed, the agents produce plays that could appeal not only to her own folks but to the world at large. The resulting work is the last term of an artist and a property of an artist of established reputation appearing on the screen. The results of these experiments, arguments, and with the same arguments good plays and everything else was secured. Capital she had aplenty and to organise was her main business. Then America started her campaign knowing beforehand that hers was one of the successes for she had studied and she knew the wants and necessities of each country which she planned to invade and become a part of her system. It was not one of exploitation but one of sincere cooperation and help. The result was that now American films are in the language of the world bear the American trademark.

The movie was not prepared against an aggressor that possessed by this time all her good points and was so superior to her in the modern system of merchandising. Italy has never taken the pains to send out her agents to study about the conditions of the markets where she was selling, and see whether her production and her way of doing business was meeting the general wants. On the contrary, she has never paid the slightest attention to the various complaints or suggestions that were pouring in to her from her buyers, especially from the Italians, that in their sincere affection to the mother country were willing to avoid the peril that they were sensing.

Now it is not time to cry, but time to act and that which are the best methods to get again a more deserved favor.

"My friends in Europe and South America report the general idea that whenever Italian film players like Francesca Bertini, Luise Kerber, Cornelia, Alberio Capozzo, etc., are announced, the theatre is crowded to its utmost. That means that the public is still very well in favor and that the fault for its falling off must be found out, mainly, in her business methods. When all her various companies will have organized in a strong body with a unity of purposes and intent, when she will have understood that her main business is exporting, and that exporting means to work in countries where habits and moral standards are somewhat different from hers, and that there are plenty of other nations that can not fall under the latitude without falling into adulteries and exaggerated passions, when she will have understood that the main point for selling is to know the place where we want to sell, and that beside the public she has to win the actors and scenario writers, with whom, and heed their valuable suggestions, and protect their rights, and sell them at a price that must be in proportion to their possibilities, then Italy will not have found herself in a pitiful situation, because she will have learned her lesson.

To cry is useless. To efficiency, hats off."

DOES ITALY LEAD IN PRODUCING SCREEN THRILLS?

"We wonder if you will agree with us in our statement that American studios are leading in producing screen thrillers and in this lies the matter of sheer sensation?"

Godfrey Kilroy, proprietor of the Gwercot Company, manufacturers in the moving picture business, located in Duanam, N. Dakota, asserts the opinion in discussing business conditions in the field in which he operates. We are going to sidestep the issue and go along as something interesting to contemplate.

We remember "Cabrini," with its death-defying falls from the high walls of the ancient city. We recall later Italian-made pictures of lesser magnitude which have been released in this market, among them "The Circus of Death," an epic of a circus stunt in which a machine gun was used, and which, later in its action brought to the screen a wonderful fire scene with lions, tigers and other jungle animals leaping into a pool with their coats ablaze. And it is not that kinds of thrill, "The Mask of Life," re-edited for the American market from the original, "The Circus of Death," in which the flying of an almost human chimpanzee with a live baby at the top of a 200-foot factory stack, provided the "sheer sensation" that will not soon be forgotten.

As against these Italian entries, American producers—who consider the moving picture public's taste for "thrills" infinitesimally small as compared with the taking their film premieres and the features like "The Whip," with its wonderful race between a locomotive and a bicycle, and "The Circus of Death," with its aerial combat, in which dirigibles and airplanes were used, and the manne- ner in which Pearl White has lately been adding to her reputation as a daredevil of the screen.

"Hearts of the World" in Australia.

D. W. Griffith's "Hearts of the World" was given its Australian premiere at the Royal Theatres, Royal, Sydney, N. S. W., November 16th. J. C. Williams, Ltd., control of the Australian rights, and the big firm with its aerial combat, in which dirigibles and airplanes were used, and the manne- manner in which Pearl White has lately been adding to her reputation as a daredevil of the screen.

"Hearts of the World" in Australia.
THREATEN BOYCOTT ON EXCHANGES

English Exhibitors Revive Old-Time Protests Against Unfair Competition

When “Hearts of the World” Begins Run in Big Musical Comedy House—British Notes.

London, Eng., Nov. 20.—The exhibition of D. W. Griffith’s propaganda play, “Hearts of the World,” at the London Palace Theatre, a musical comedy boomed on an old grumble from exhibitors, the principle of showing special pictures at “regular” music halls and theatres in preference to independent houses. It is thought that some drastic move will be made by exhibitors in this country should the practice develop much further. Leeds exhibitors were again reported to have launched a general boycott movement against exchanges persisting in what they regard as unfair competition against them, and a similar threat came from Glasgow earlier in the year. The particular complaint against the Palace Theatre venture is that D. W. Griffith’s spectacle was the outcome of extraordinary privileges granted him by the war office when in England last year. privileges and facilities undeserved of by any motion picture produced under such auspices, particularly a propaganda picture, it is contended, should find its way to the public. In connection with this, previous publicity films have been presented and not be subjected to exploitation as an exclusive at a hall ordinarily foreign to the moving picture.

Statements published in the British trade press indicate that the Pathe Company has decided to open studios and start production in England. The opinions held by Charles Pathé on the production and marketing of moving pictures are well known. He was the first European manufacturer to advocate that all stories filmed should be handled so as to comply with the requirements of the American market, and he also was the first, and perhaps the only one, consistently and enthusiastically to follow this plan. He has always maintained that no world-wide film organization could expect a solid footing in the United States and Canada. If this is not a purely national venture, and Mr. Pathé really thinks that international exploitation is large scale enough to be obtained from the other side of the Atlantic, the producing experiment in Great Britain should be closely watched by all manufacturers.

One of our most active producing concerns at the moment is the British Actors’ Film Co., which has secured a formidable list of works of notable authors in collaboration with the director. Of necessity a number of these will be post-war undertakings, but meanwhile productions already started—and they number many—will still be completed forthwith. The proprietary interest of the B. A. F. Co. is vested for the most part in a number of famous actors and actresses and a few authors, Lauti De France, Mrs. J. Compton, A. E. Matthewes, Robt. Hale, Geo. Tully, Owen Naves and Fay Compton, to mention a handful, and naturally holds a valuable lien on their services.

The Stoll Film Co., the departure of Oswald Stoll, vaudeville magnate, into the moving picture industry, having acquired sufficient productions to engage its exchanges in business as renters of films, now turns its attention to the manufacture of moving pictures. A studio has been rented, and its first effort is a story from the pen of Louis N. Parker entitled “Comrades in Arms.” Apart from his extensive theatrical interests, Oswald Stoll is now exhibitor, renter and manufacturer of moving pictures.

In deference to requests from soldiers home on leave and from the public who were unable to follow the film in serial form, Film Booking Offices, Ltd., are arranging bookings of Ambassador Gerard’s “Four Days in Germany” complete on one program. The New Gallery Cinema in Regent street featured this way early in October, and there are several subsequent bookings in the West End and suburbs, notwithstanding its record as a ten-part serial of nearly 500 bookings in the country.

* * *

The U. S. A. Committee of Public Information is cooperating with our Ministry of Information in the distribution in Europe of American public propaganda subjects. The first, “America’s Answer to the Hun,” has already had an extensive home run, and which is more important, an enthusiastic reception on the Continent, especially Holland.—Sutcliffe.

NEW WAR TIME TAX IN AUSTRALIA

One Penny Tariff Levied on Lower Priced Admissions to Make Up Threatened Deficits—“Snowy” Baker Feature Given Premier in Sydney

Sydney, N. S. W., Australia, Oct. 12.—In the House of Representatives on Thursday of this week, the Acing Prime Minister, W. A. Lyons, moved a resolution to provide for the imposition of a tax of one penny on all entertainment admissions not exceeding one shilling. He said that this tax was part of the new taxation policy rendered necessary by the increasing burden for interest on war loans. At present admissions above one shilling were not liable to tax, but tickets over 6d. but under 1/- paid one penny. The number of amusements was increasing, and the taxable entertainments for the year 1917-18 were being 2 per cent. more than in the previous year. During last year the tax yielded a revenue of £250,000, but in the present year, without any increase in the rate, it was expected that the return would only be £200,000, chiefly owing to the curtailment of certain extra-entertainment admissions, and, also, due to the absence of boxing. The effect of the resolution was that all admissions up to and inclusive of 6d. would in future pay a tax of one penny. At the present time no alteration was proposed in the higher rates, though this might be necessary at a later date. Admission of children under 16 years of age for children exclusively were not liable for taxation at present, and would not be taxed under this proposal. Mr. Watt went on to say that while entertainments were beneficial in many ways, they were a luxury in wartime, and a fair subject for taxation. He was of the opinion that tickets at 1/- could easily pay the proposed tax. In framing the financial proposal this year, the Government realized that provisions had to be made to prevent entertainment tax being enforced next year, whether the war was over or not.

The leader of the Opposition, Mr. Tudor, said that the tax on a 3d. ticket amounted to 33 per cent., which was unfair, as for many large families the picture theatre was the only entertainment.

After discussion the motion in favor of the tax was passed by 34 votes to 14.

* * *

“The Lure of the Bush,” a five-part feature with the noted Australian all-round athlete, R. L. (Snowy) Beker, in the leading role, has been released in Sydney, where it has created a very favorable impression. The production was directed by Tom A. Park and staged by the Australian, recently from America, after an absence of several years.

* * *

The Austral Photoplay Co., Ltd., will release shortly a five-part photoplay entitled “Scars of Love,” details of which will be announced later. The production has been taken over the Victoria Theatre, Sydney, and has renamed it the “Kookooburra.” The new management will screen only high-class locally made productions, the initial attraction being “The Burke and Wills Expedition,” a dramatized version of the well-known historical event. This production was made about a year ago by the Antipodes Film Co., though it has never been released. Other coming attractions include The Life of Adam and Eve, a six-part feature, and The Last Chances, a historical subject, this film depicting the life story of the famous poet, and “Scars of Love.”

* * *

Australasian Films, Ltd., has secured the Australasian rights to the Mabel Normand feature “Mickey,” the foreign rights of which are controlled by the Western Import Company, of New York.

* * *

The Co-operative Film Exchange is making a special feature of Metro’s “Lest We Forget,” and has secured the Sydney Town Hall for a special short season.

* * *

The Essanay feature “On Trial” is drawing tremendous business this week, running at the Crystal Palace and Strand theatres, the two largest metropolitan theatres in the Union Theatres, Ltd., circuit.

* * *

J. C. Williamson Films, Ltd., has secured the sole Australian rights to the product of the Haworth Pictures Corporation, and is releasing the films at their many picture theatres throughout the country. The same firm also announces the early release of Griffith’s Heart of the World.—Imrie.
Announcement

THE GOLDWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION extends to the motion picture industry in general the superior facilities of its Department of Foreign Sales.

The Goldwyn Department of Foreign Sales will handle any production of quality in the foreign markets.

The Goldwyn Department of Foreign Sales will also act as confidential buying agent for any responsible foreign concern.

Increased office space for the conduct of this business has been taken at No. 509 Fifth Avenue, New York City, where all communications relative to the foreign film trade should be addressed.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION
SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President
Department of Foreign Sales
509 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY
Goldwyn Stars in Goldwyn Productions Are Attractions Par Excellence In the Foreign Markets

The popularity of Goldwyn Pictures abroad was established fully as quickly among motion picture devotees as it was in the United States—and for the same reasons.

Goldwyn Pictures are the most highly finished product of American motion picture studios—they represent the American motion picture ideal.

Stars of established reputation—including Geraldine Farrar, Pauline Fredericks, Mae Marsh, Madge Kennedy, Mabel Normand, and Tom Moore—working the "Goldwyn Way", in the best obtainable stories under the ablest directors, and given the best productions, compel the favorable attention of the picture loving public everywhere. "Smiling Bill" Parsons and his Capitol Comedies have won a place in the esteem of the public abroad which might well be the envy of comedy stars who have been longer in the field; there are twenty-six Capitol Comedies in the first year's output.

Goldwyn Pictures are making money for discriminating film operators the world over. They are a "good bet" for you if your territory has not been closed.

Goldwyn Distributing Corporation
Samuel Goldfish, President
Department of Foreign Sales
509 Fifth Avenue, New York City
A Great Selection for Foreign Buyers

BETZWOOD FILM CORPORATION'S
"Freedom of the East"

Six LOUIS BENNISON Pictures

RELEASES OF
WILLIAM L. SHERRY SERVICE

CATHarine CALVERT
IN
"Romance of the Underworld"     "Married"
"Out of the Night"                "Her Family Honor"

DORIS KENYON
IN
"The Inn of the Blue Moon" "The Street of Seven Stars"
"Wild Honey"

G. M. ANDERSON
IN
"Red Blood and Yellow"    "Shootin' Mad"
"Son-of-a-Gun"

Available for the Foreign Markets
Exclusively Through

GOLdWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION
SAMUEL GOLDFISH, President
Department of Foreign Sales
509 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY
Little Talks With Foreign Buyers—No. 20

BUYERS OF "THE VICTIM" WILL BE SURE TO PURCHASE THE TRANSGRESSOR

(They will thank the day they read this Talk no less than that on which "No. 13" appeared in The World)

"THE TRANSGRESSOR" is by the producers of the very successful "VICTIM." Therefore we took over the foreign rights eagerly. Especially when inspection showed just as "punchy" a picture. IT IS SUITED TO THE TIMES, as it warns against the extremists of all kinds that the governments and peoples of all lands regard with disfavor; it calls for social reform, but of the sensible sort. Like "THE VICTIM" it may be worked with Church endorsement, or just as a rattling good theatre thriller. The mob scenes in this picture are said to be the most thrilling ever shown in a melodrama made in the United States.

INTER-OCEAN FILM CORPORATION

"DOLLARS AND DESTINY," Directed by and Starring PAUL CAPELLANI, with Big Racing Scenes, made in Argentine!
A wonderful program opportunity for live foreign buyers! Twenty star feature productions all ready!

We have taken the famous Plaza Pictures for foreign distribution—twenty of them, ready in a row for booking, a feature offering that is nowhere else available to-day. Apart from this, there is no program of new, finished American pictures to be had! Don't waste time searching. Five thousand feet, average length. Here's the list:

THE ANGEL CHILD
THE LAW THAT DIVIDES MISTAKEN IDENTITY
PETTICOATS AND POLITICS
WHATEVER THE COST
THE GIRL ANGLE
PLAYING THE GAME
THE LOCKED HEART
WANTED, A BROTHER
THE MIDNIGHT BURGLAR
NO CHILDREN WANTED
MISS MISCHIEF MAKER
LITTLE MISS GROW UP SUNNY JANE WILD CAT
BIT OF KINDLING
BETTY BE GOOD
BAB THE FIXER
THE CHECKMATE
JACKIE THE HOYDEN

Full particulars and screen inspection can be obtained at 20 Complete Productions!

A WORLD-WIDE REPUTATION

Henry B. Walthall in “And a Still Small Voice” Released Dec. 29th presents this premiere dramatic actor in a picture that displays all of his diversified talents.

Billie Rhodes
The series of eight de luxe productions in which this dainty star will be presented will be inaugurated with “The Girl of My Dreams” — a charming picture full of sunny situations. It is released on Dec. 29th.

Sessue Hayakawa
His wide popularity built on past performances will be augmented in the unusual offerings he is now making. His first “Bonds of Honor” For release Jan. 19th presents him in a double role in a play that is strongly dramatic in character.

Released in United States and Canada by EXHIBITORS MUTUAL DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION BACKS THESE PICTURES

Wm. Desmond
The ideal American star who will be presented in his first
"Life's a Funny Proposition"
Will be released Jan. 12th

Bessie Barriscale
In "All of a Sudden Norma"
Released Jan. 5th
gives this charming player one of the most brilliant starring vehicles of her career. It is the first of eight unusual productions in which this popular young lady will be presented.

Wm. Desmond
The ideal American star who will be presented in his first
"Life's a Funny Proposition"
Will be released Jan. 12th

Bessie Barriscale
In "All of a Sudden Norma"
Released Jan. 5th
gives this charming player one of the most brilliant starring vehicles of her career. It is the first of eight unusual productions in which this popular young lady will be presented.

Bessie Barriscale
In "All of a Sudden Norma"
Released Jan. 5th
gives this charming player one of the most brilliant starring vehicles of her career. It is the first of eight unusual productions in which this popular young lady will be presented.

Wm. Desmond
The ideal American star who will be presented in his first
"Life's a Funny Proposition"
Will be released Jan. 12th

Bessie Barriscale
In "All of a Sudden Norma"
Released Jan. 5th
gives this charming player one of the most brilliant starring vehicles of her career. It is the first of eight unusual productions in which this popular young lady will be presented.

Bessie Barriscale
In "All of a Sudden Norma"
Released Jan. 5th
gives this charming player one of the most brilliant starring vehicles of her career. It is the first of eight unusual productions in which this popular young lady will be presented.
Mary Pickford

We Control All Foreign Rights on the

The new MARY PICKFORD contract, with the First National Exhibitors’ Circuit, calls for the release of three super-productions during 1919. The first of these pictures will be a screen version of “DADDY LONG-LEGS,” directed by Marshall Neilan, director of the Pickford Artcraft Productions, and will present the “World’s Sweetheart” in the biggest sets and best cast of her career.

Also Selling—All Foreign Rights on Entire Output of First and Entire Output of United DAVID P.

729 SEVENTH AVENUE, Supreme

Anita Stewart

New Products of These Distinguished Stars

Among the best established American motion picture stars in the foreign markets, Miss Stewart begins her new series under the management of Louis B. Mayer. Her name alone will be sufficient to insure record attendance at any theatre in the world. "Virtuous Wives," the first of the new Stewart pictures, is ready for release and advance reviews of the production indicate that Mr. Mayer's pretentious plans for the series will unquestionably result in a product of the highest order of merit. There will be six pictures the first year.

National Exhibitors' Circuit (Excepting the Chaplin Releases)

Picture Theatres of America

Howells

New York City, U. S. A.
“THE MYSTERY MASTER”

Has Made

The Master Serial of Motion Pictures
"The Master Mystery"

B. A. ROLFE PRODUCTIONS, Inc.
Filmed the Fifteen Two-Reel Episodes

WE CONTROL
ALL FOREIGN RIGHTS

Sold to Date—and Sold Rapidly!

GREAT BRITAIN
NORWAY, SWEDEN, DENMARK
INDIA, CEYLON, BURMA, STRAITS SETTLEMENTS, DUTCH EAST INDIES, CHINA, JAPAN
ARGENTINE, URUGUAY, PARAGUAY, CHILE
PHILIPPINE ISLANDS
CUBA, PORTO RICO, SANTO DOMINGO AUSTRALIA

If Your Territory Is Open, Buy Now!

Houdini is the most widely known artist in the Profession of Entertainment. He has played in person in every corner of the world.
His remarkable motion picture serial will pack your houses.

—and Listen!
We Have Two More Big Serials Coming —Watch for Them!
THE General Cine-Film of BRUSSELS (Belgium) has the finest facilities for placing all good American Films on the European Continent.

Apply urgently to the Temporary Address:
The General Cine-Film
28 Aigburth's Mansions
Chapel St., London, S. W. 9 (England)

For References and Information
To Mr. E. Lauste
441 West 22nd St., New York (City)

KHATTAU & CO.
Merchants and Commission Agents
ORIENTAL BUILDINGS, FORT BOMBAY, INDIA
Willing to represent in INDIA, BURMA and CEYLON any good Cinema Films Producing Company

Best services guaranteed

References: The Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China and The National Bank of India, Limited

THE BULL'S-EYE of the Spanish and Portuguese speaking film markets of the world is penetrated monthly by

Cine-Mundial

Place that advertisement NOW
List of Current Film Release Dates

General Film Company, Inc.

BROADWAY STAR FEATURE.

Tobin’s Palm (O. Henry Story—Two Parts—
The Halt of the Broken O (Rolfville Tale—Two Parts—
The Rose of Wolfville (Wolfville Tale—Two Parts—Drama—
A Ramble in Abyssin (O. Henry Story—Two Parts—Drama—

FORT PITT THEATRE CO.

The Italian Battletrench (Eight Parts—Patriotic).

ESSANAY COMEDIES.

Batville’s New Sheriff (One Part).

RAINBOW COMEDIES.

Nearly a Blacker, My Lady’s Slipper. (One Judge—Hooray—Nov. 15.

OAKDALE PRODUCTIONS.

The Midnight Burglar (Five Parts—Drama—
Wanted, a Brother (Five Parts—Drama—Little Miss Grows—Up (Five Parts—Drama—

SCRANTONIA FILM COMPANY.

(Featuring Charlie Fong.)

Fang’s Fate and Fortune (One Reel—Comedy—

OFFICIAL WAR FILMS.

(Committee on Public Information.)

Our Bridge of Ships (Two Reels).

AMERICAN RED CROSS.

The Historic Fourth of July in Paris (One Part—

COSMOPHOTO FILM.

I Believe (Six Parts—Drama—

AMERICAN FEATURE FILM CORP.

Erants of Love (Six Parts—Drama—

MAXWELL PRODUCTIONS.

The Married Virgin (Six Parts—Drama—

Mutual Film Corp.

STAND.

Oct. 8—The Girl in the Box (Elmer Field)—
Oct. 23—Are Brunettes False? (Elmer Field)—
Nov. 17—The Tale of a Hat (Elmer Field)—
Dec. 24—Just Home Made (Elmer Field)—
Dec. 31—Are Brunettes False? (Elmer Field)—

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION.

Sept. 29—Treasure (Edna Goodrich—Five Parts—Drama—Oct. 15—The Temple of Dusk (Sessue Hayakawa—Troy—Drma—Nov. 17—The Dare Devil (Gail Kane—Five Parts—Drma—

MUTUAL.

Nov. 5—Screen Telegram (Topical)—72-T-1.

Nov. 9—Screen Telegram (Topical)—73-T-1.

Nov. 12—Screen Telegram (Topical)—74-T-1.

Nov. 16—Screen Telegram (Topical)—75-T-1.

A. D. C. SPECIAL.

Nov. 17—Lafayette, We Come (E. K. Lincoln—Six Parts—Drma—Affiliated)---1—
Nov. 17—Pipe and Peace—O-R-1.

OUTING-CHESTER PICTURES.

OUTDOOR-HOTBACKER PICTURES.

Nov. 17—Black Feet and Flat Heads—16-D-1.

Nov. 24—Red Men and Good Trees—17-D-1.

Dec. 4—Years, Pains and Pleas—16-G-R-1.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF NOV. 24.

Wolves of Kultur (Episode No. 7—“The Leap of Despair”—Two Parts—Drma—Astra—
An Enemy of Soap (Toto—Rolin Comedy)—
Barhald Up (Elmer Field—“Singapore”)—Two Parts—Drma—Astra—
Post Travel Series No. 15 (Katherine—“Bustina”)—

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF DEC. 1.

Infatuation (Baby De Silva and Harry Picher—
Five Reels—Special Feature—Drma—Mindly of the Beastpakt (Marie Osborne—Five Reels—Wolves of Kultur (Episode No. 8—“In the Hands of the Hun”—Two Parts—Drma—

OFFICIAL WAR FILMS.

Post Travel Series No. 21—“Jr."

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF DEC. S.

Wolves of Kultur (Episode No. 9—“The Precipice of Death”—Two Parts—Drma—Astra—Just Rambling Along (Stan Laurel—Comedy—Rolin). Post Travel Series No. 22—“Cebales”.

OFFICIAL WAR FILMS.

Post Travel Series No. 23—“Borneo”.

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF DEC. 15.

The Narrow Path (Pamie Wade—Five Parts—Special Feature—Drma—Wolves of Kultur (Episode No. 10—“When Woman Wars”—Two Parts—Drma—

OFFICIAL WAR FILMS.

Post Travel Series No. 25 (Topical). Take a Chance (Rolin—Comedy—Harold Lloyd).
Post Travel Series No. 21—“Borneo”.

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF DEC. 22.

Fortunes of Corinne (Glavia Joy—Two Reel Special—Drma—Wolves of Kultur (Episode No. 11—“Betwixt Heaven and Earth”—Two Parts—Drma—Wolves of Kultur (Episode No. 12—“The Tower of Tares”—Two Parts—Drma—Post Travel Series No. 26—(Rolin Comedy—Harold Lloyd).

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF DEC. 29.

Dolly’s Vacation (Baby Marie Osborne—Five Parts—Drma—Wolves of Kultur (Episode No. 12—“The Tower of Tares”—Two Parts—Drma—

Fox Film Corporation

BIG TIMELY PICTURES.

Nov. 24—Why I Would Not Marry. Dec. 29—Every Mother’s Son.

FOX STANDARD PICTURES.

EXCEL PICTURES.

VICTORY PICTURES.

FOX-LEHRMAN SUNSHINE COMEDIES.

MUTT & JEFF ANIMATED CARTOONS.

FOX EXTRAVAGANZAS.

THE GREAT NINE.

PRODUCTIONS EXTRAORDINARY.

List of Current Film Release Dates

Metro Pictures Corporation.

METRO PICTURES CORP.
Nov. 18—Hiss Bonded Wife (Emmy Wehlen—
Nov. 23—Five Thousand an Hour (Ham Hamill—Dec. 2—Testing of Mildred Vance (May Allison—Dec. 9—Hitting the High Spots (Bert Lytell—Dec. 16—Sylvia on a Spree (Emmy Wehlen—
Dec. 23—A Poor Rich Man (Shushman and Bayne—Dec. 30—Her Inspiration (May Allison—
SCREEN CLASSICS, INC., SPECIALS.
Blue Jeans (Viola Dana—Seven Parts—Drama—To Hell With the Kaiser (Laurence Grant and Pals First (Harold Lockwood—Six Parts—Dr.—
Wilson of the Kaiser?
The Fall of the Hohenzollers.
NAZIMOVA PRODUCTIONS.
Revolution (Seven Parts—Drama).
Toys of Fate (Seven Parts—Drama).
Eye for Eye (Seven Parts—Drama).
Triangle Film Corporation.

Dates and Titles of Triangle Releases Subject to Change Without Notice.

TRIANGLE PRODUCTIONS.
Oct. 6—Tony America (Francis McDonald—
Oct. 13—The Pretender (William Desmond—
Nov. 17—Reckoning Day (Belle Bennett—
Nov. 24—Deuce Duncan (William Desmond—Dec. 1—Love's Pay Day (Rosamond Teby—Dec. 8—The Coat Rider (Roy Stewart—
Dec. 15—Irish Eyes (Pauline Stark—Dec. 22—Crown Jewels (Claire Anderson—
Dec. 29—Wife or Country (Gloria Swanson—
KEYSTONE COMEDY REISSUES.
Sept. 15—Patty and Broadway Stars (Noochie Arbuckle).
Sept. 22—Submarine Pirate (Sid Chaplin).

Greater Vitagraph Inc.

VITAGRAPH FEATURES.
Sept. 30—A Diplomatic Mission (Earle Williams—Oct. 7—The Mating (Gladya Leslie—
Oct. 14—The King of Diamonds (Harry Moran—Nov. 18—Everybody's Girl (Alice Joyce—
Nov. 25—Miss Ambitious (Corinne Griffith—Dec. 2—The Dawn of Understanding (Bessie Love—Dec. 9—The Dummy (Earle Williams—Dec. 16—The Beloved Impostor (Gladya Leslie—
Dec. 23—Haunted Assets (Harry T. Moran—Dec. 30—The Captain's Captain (Alice Joyce—Jan. 6—The Adventure Shop (Corinne Griffith—Jan. 13—The Enchanted Barn (Bessie Love—

BIG V COMEDIES.
Sept. 30—Hunts and Hypothes (Two Parts—Spe—Nov. 30—Hula Hulas and Hocus Pocus (Two Parts—Oct. 7—How to Land Bad Men (Two Parts—
Nov. 18—Frauds and Frenzies (Lawrence Semon—
Nov. 25—Submarines and Singles (Earle Montgomerie—Oct. 14—Champs and Cops (Two Parts—
Dec. 2—Hobos and Hubbards (Two Parts—Dec. 16—Farms and Fumbles (Two Parts—

VITAGRAPH SERIAL.
A Fight for Millions.
Sept. 30—Episode No. 12, "The Title of Disaster" (Two Parts—Drama).
Oct. 7—Episode No. 13, "The Engine of Terror" (Two Parts—Drama).
Oct. 21—Episode No. 15, "The Sealed Envelope" (Two Parts—Drama).

The Iron Test.
(Drama—Each Episode in Two Parts—Featuring Antonio Moreno and Cora Hollaway—
Oct. 21—The King of Hate.
Oct. 28—No. 2, "The Van of Disaster."
Nov. 4—The Title of Death.
Nov. 11—The Noise.
Nov. 18—The Title of Death.
Nov. 25—Frenzied Fate.
Dec. 2—Writhing Whirl.
Dec. 9—The Duty.
Dec. 16—The Pit of Lost Hope.
Dec. 23—In the Hour of Trouble.
Dec. 30—The Red Mask's Party.

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

ANIMATED WEEKLY.
Nov. 27—No. 52 (Topical)—03268.
Nov. 4—No. 51 (Topical)—03277.
Dec. 11—No. 51 (Topical)—03296.
Dec. 18—No. 51 (Topical)—03306.

CENTURY COMEDY.
Oct. 9—Untamed (Alice Howell—Two Parts—Comedy).
Nov. 15—The Cabbage Queen (Alice Howell—Dec. 12—The Face of the World (Two Parts—Comedy—

HEART NEWS.
Dec. 24—No. 1 (Topical)—03143.
Dec. 31—No. 2 (Topical)—03154.

L-KO.
Nov. 27—Painless Love (Babe Hardy—Two Parts—Comedy).
Dec. 4—King of the Kitchen (Harryribbin—Two Parts—Comedy).
Dec. 11—Rough on the Husbands (Marta Sertaing—Dec. 25—Work or Fugitive (Two Parts—Comedy—Jan. 1—Klever Kiddies (Two Parts—Comedy—

NESTOR.
Nov. 18—The Love Capt (Florence Lawrence Comedy).
Nov. 25—The Pickle Blacksmith (Eileen Sedgwick—Comedy).
Dec. 2—There and Back—03275.
Dec. 9—Let's Fall in Love (Ben Wilson) —03288.
Dec. 16—The Beautiful Lilar (Ben Wilson).
Dec. 23—No release this week.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL ATTRACTION.
Dec. 23—Fighting for Freedom (Episode No. 4, The Tunicator of the Royal Flying

WILLIAM AND RAILROAD DRAMAS.
Nov. 23—The Husband Hunter (Neil Hart—Two Parts).
Nov. 29—The Yellow Coat (Helen Gibson—Two Parts).
Dec. 1—The Robber (Helen Gibson).
Dec. 17—The Robber (Helen Gibson).
Dec. 21—The Robber (Helen Gibson).
Jan. 5—The Robber (Helen Gibson).

MASTER COMEDY.
Dec. 21—A Kaiser There Was—03412.
Situations wanted.

EXPERIENCED ORGANIST AT LIBERTY for immediate engagement. First-class musician. Fine picture player and recitalist. Splendid library of best music available for the work. Pipe organ and good salary essential. South preferred, but will go anywhere. Organist, Box 472, Hagerstown, Md.

Expert feature cameraman with $2,000 BELL & HOWELL camera and all dis.

duces is now at liberty to receive offer for 1918. Previous photoplay cinematographer for Charley Chaplin, Francis X. Bushman, Henry Walthall, Bryant Washburn, Beverly Bayes, etc., 10 years with large producing company as feature cameraman, expert on trick and dissolve work, photographed over 200 35mm negatives aggregating over 500 reels. Address Jay Are, c/o Moving Picture World, 61 W. Randolph St., Chicago, Ill.

HELP WANTED.

PIANIST WANTED—Must have good library. One who is competent to play pictures intelligently. Write with full particulars, to Victoria Theater, Greenfield, Mass.

WANTED—Film salesman to furnish heads as side line. Liberal remuneration; no samples to carry; no selling to do. R. M., c/o M. P. World, New York City.

Business opportunities.

LONDON FIRM, with up-to-date offices and staff, wish to act as British representatives for American syndicate purchasing high-class films in open market or sole representation for established producing company. Good connection amongst best buyers in United Kingdom. Highest credentials. Replies to "Angel American," c/o M. P. World, New York City.

For Sale or to Let, large brick corner building, 25 miles from New York City. Suitable for factory or moving picture house. Located in the busiest section of the country. D. 236, c/o M. P. World, N. Y. City.

Cameras, etc., for sale.

KINOGRAF, $80; Jurk, $80; Pittman, $82; Williamson 800-foot professional, $125; American Cinematograph, $194; P. 41 lenses on all; tripods, $25 up; printers, $15; small projector, $20. Bay, 140 West 42d street, New York City.

For Sale—A May camera fitted with spiral focusing jacket, reverse drive, film punch, one turn, one picture handle; view finder, four dark boxes, one 2-inch Zeiss lens, one 3-inch Zeiss lens, and English made.team teardrop carrying case for outfit; also one Million Picture Apparatus Company precision tripod with leather cover. Complete outfit practically unused. State best cash offer and address in the first place. Camera, Box 1100, Chicago, Ill.

Mechanical repairing, experiments, lenses, dissolvers, cameras, shutters, finders, polishing, printers, developing, emergency darkroom, novelty catalogue. Scharhald Schneider, 216 RECORD AVENUE, N. Y. CITY.

Send at once for bargain list no. 11. By far the best list of bargains ever offered in full grade motion picture cameras and everything for the amateur or professional. Studio and top grade camera film furnished in any quantity at $37.50 per thousand feet, perforated. Bass Camera Company, Charles Bass, President, 160 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

Sensational money saving bargains is the third volume of the scarce book just off the press; a 32-page catalog filled from cover to cover with wonderful offers in every standard make of tested and guaranteed motion picture apparatus, cameras, lenses, lathes, etc. It's the biggest hits in the photographic field. Worth its weight in gold to you, and in fact no cameraman in the country can afford to be without a copy. Send for it today; yours for the asking, David Stern Company; in business since 1882; 1028 Madison St., Chicago, Ill. S. A.

Theatres for sale or rent.

Theatre for lease—Located about thirty miles from Rochester, town of 7,000 inhabitants, seating and standing capacity of 500, using Wells, in new opening; two nights a week; owner is out-of-town man, cannot attend to same. Will lease for three or five years. Rent, about one thousand per month. Profit now averaging about two hundred month; can be increased in the hand. If operated seven days week. Lewin, 540 Ellicott square, Buffalo, N. Y.

Theatres wanted.

WANTED THEATRE—Will lease or purchase high-grade theatre for vaudeville, pictures or both. Scanting not less than 750, in good town of 7,000 or over. Location must be the best. In answering, give complete information. Address Purchase, c/o M. P. World, New York City.

Equipment for sale.

Big bargain—Hirtner transverter, nearly new, 35 amperes, capacity 60 cycles, 400 volts; guaranteed first-class shape, $250.00. Wire or write Orjick Theatre, Kalamazoo, Mich.

800 Upholstered Oak Chairs, first class shape, 500 steel frame veneer, good as new at slaughter prices, one flood and spot-light. J. F. Huddington, Scranton, Pa.

For Sale—$3,500 Wurlitzer organ, style H complete. One spotlight complete, brand new. One set of acoustics, complete. If you are in the market to save $2,000 act at once. Write to Paul Seidie, 461 Bunting St., West Hoboken, N. J. Phone Union 1100.

Films for Sale or Rent.

Musical Instruments for Sale.

For Sale—Four Seeburg orchestrations, two each style "T" and "Y." at bargain prices. Instruments are in first-class condition, used only for a few months at camp theatres three hours daily. Write to Adams Amusement Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Bound Volumes of The Moving Picture World

You need them in your business!

Each issue of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD represents the fruit of studied effort on the part of experts to provide just what the average reader of trade publications in the moving picture field can use to best advantage in his business.

Since this is true, the bound volumes of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD, each comprising the complete issues printed during a period of three months, take immediate standing as

The Reliable Reference Book of the Trade

NOW READY—VOL. 37.—JULY TO SEPTEMBER, 1918

We have at your disposal

Bound Volumes for the years 1913, 1914, 1915, 1916 and 1917. Four volumes each year. Shipped as per your instructions at $1.50 per volume—transportation charge additional.

CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 516 Fifth Ave., New York City

In answering advertisements please mention The Moving Picture World.
Quality DEVELOPING and PRINTING are possible only where experience guides and high standard of workmanship is maintained.

EVANS' DEVELOPING and PRINTING insure the full value of the negative being released.

EVANS FILM MFG. CO., 416-24 West 216th St., New York City

Telephone: St. Nich. 3443-3444

---

GOERZ KINO HYPAR F:3.5

There is an imperative demand today for results. Camera men cannot afford to take chances; they must be sure of their equipment. The GOERZ KINO HYPAR—due to the constant watchfulness of highly trained workmen—is sure and does produce results. It is made in 1½, 2, 2½ and 3-inch focus, and can be fitted to virtually every standard equipment now in the market. Send or call for our very latest descriptive matter about GOERZ KINO HYPAR, special GOERZ VIEWING DEVICES and GOERZ MICROMETER MOUNTS.

C. P. Goerz American Optical Company
316 East 34th Street
NEW YORK CITY

YOUR LOBBY will be most Up to Date and Complete with “Schiller’s Metal Signs”

Made of enameled metal, with a bright red background, white embossed letters, and eyeholes in the corners. Measures 28 inches long by 4 inches high.

$2.00 Per Set

Will outlast a hundred paper strips; serviceable and economical. Will stand up under any weather conditions. All shipments sent prepaid upon receipt of cash or money order.

 SCHILLER METAL SIGN CO.
605 SCHILLER BLDG., CHICAGO

KNOWLEDGE BRINGS SUCCESS

Messrs. Exhibitor, Exchangeman, Operator, and Film Men Everywhere:—The moving picture business is one of the youngest but one of the leading industries of the world today. We may well be proud to be connected with it. Are you keeping up? Do you know all about it? It will yield larger returns for an equal amount of work to the men who know. Each weekly issue of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD contains more up-to-date information than you can get from all other sources. Subscribe now if not already on our mailing list. You will get your paper hours earlier than from the newstand and it costs $4.00 less.

ONE YEAR .................................. $5.00
SIX MONTHS ................................ $1.50

See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
516 Fifth Avenue, New York
List of Current Film Release Dates

WILLIAM L. SHERRY SERVICE. 720 Seventh Avenue, N. Y. City.
Marriage (Catherine Calvert—Keeney Production).
Fearing Death on the Brunswick (Burlington—Travel). Unknown Switzerland (Berlin—Travel). The Pilatus Railway (Burlington—Travel). All Were Welcome in Switzerland (Burlington—Travel).

State Right Releases

ADVANCED MOTION PICTURE CORP. 1403 Broadway, New York City.
The Eleventh Commandment (Drama).

ARROW FILM CORPORATION. Times Building, New York.
Her Aviator.
Huns Within Our Gates.
The Perfect Model (Audrey Mason).
Sunset Princess (Margery Day).
A Woman's Law (Florence Reed—Five Parts—Drama).

ATLANTIC DISTRIBUTING CO. Times Building, New York City.
Ma-Tenah of the Law (Six Parts—Drama).
The Devil's Playground (Seven Reels—Drama).

BEAR STATE FILM COMPANY. 220 S. State St., Chicago, Ill.
The Vigilantes (Drama).

BERNARD H. BERNESTEIN. 925 Longacre Building, New York City.
The Lion of the Hills (Wn. S. Hart—Drama).

BRENTWOOD FILM CORP. 4511 Fountain Ave., Los Angeles.
The Turn in the Road.

CHESTER EECROFT. 501 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City. Reclaimed.

COSMOFOOTION FILM COMPANY, INC. 220 West 42nd Street, New York City.
I Believe.

CREST PICTURES CORP. Times Building, New York.
The Lust of the Ages.
A Quest of a Dream.
A Romance of the Air (Lieutenant Bert Hall).

THE FILM MARKET, INC. 403 Times Building, New York.
Suggestion (Six Reels).
What Becomes of the Children.
Gatomb Film Novelties (Split-reel patriotic and classic, released monthly).
The Star Spangled Banner (500 feet) (Gotham Film).
Columbia (500 feet) (Gotham Film).
Home, Sweet Home, and the Girl I Left Behind Me (Gotham Film).

FOUR SQUARE PICTURES. 720 Seventh Avenue, New York.
One Hour.
The Cast Off.
Men-Women.

GAUMONT CO. Flushing, L. I.

GAUMONT NEWS—Released every Tuesday.
GAUMONT.Graphic—Released every Friday.

Episodes No. 7—The Secret of the Two (Two Parts—Drama).
Episodes No. 8—"The Kidnapped Statesman" (Two Parts—Drama).
Episodes No. 9—"The Man in the Hotel" (Two Parts—Drama).
Episodes No. 10—A Girl's Aid (Two Parts—Drama).

GENERAL ENTERPRISES, INC. Longacre Building, New York.
Mother (Six Parts—Drama—McClure Pictures).
The Warrior (Seven Parts—Drama—McClure Picture).

HILLER & WILK, INC.
Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman.
Sept.—Sporting Life (Maurice Tourneur Production).
Woman (Maurice Tourneur Productions).
The Silent Mystery (Francie Ford serial in fifteen episodes).

GRAPHIC FILM CORPORATION. 720 Seventh Ave., N. Y. City.
When Men Betray (Drama).

H. H. HOFFMAN.
Suspicion (Six Parts—Drama).
The Craving.

IVAN FILM PRODUCTION. 130 West 46th Street, New York.
Two Men and a Woman.
Human Clay.
Life or Honor.

JESTER COMEDY CO. 220 West 42nd Street, New York.
(Drew–Roosevelt Production).

JAMES KEANE.
220 West 43rd Street, New York.
The Spreading Evil (Seven Parts—Drama).

MONOPOL PICTURE COMPANY. 1476 Broadway, N. Y. City.
Mothers of America.

PHYSICAL CULTURE PHOTO PLAYS, INC. 113 West 40th Street, New York.
Lonig (Drama).

PERRET PRODUCTIONS.
Times Building, New York.
Stars of Glory.

PIEDMONT PICTURES CORPORATION. 129 Seventh Avenue, N. Y. City.
His Daughter's Adventure.

PIONEER FILM CORP. 130 West 46th St., New York City.
The Still Alarm (Selig Production).

HARRY RAYNER.
1402 Broadway, New York.
The Hand of the Hun (Four Parts—Novelty).
The Master Crook.

ROMAYNE SUPER-FILM COMPANY. 221 Marshall Strong Bldg., Los Angeles, Calif.
Me und Gott.

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES.
The Light of Western Stars (Sherman Production—Six Parts)

ERNST SHIPMAN.
17 West 44th Street, New York City.
The Daughter of The Don (Five Parts—Drama).
Aug.—Pen Pictures (Five Reels).
Sept.—The Prisoner of War (Five Reels).

W. H. CLIFFORD PHOTOPLAY COMPANY, INC. Featuring Stanley Hamilton, One Five Reel Director Per Month.
The Coast Guard Patrol (By Neil Shipman—Seven Part Patrice Drama).
A Nugget in the Rough (Five Parts—Comedy Drama).
Trooper 44 (Five Parts—Drama).
Tiger of the Sea (Seven Parts—Drama—By Neil Shipman).

Bill Stingers’ Poems (A series of one-reel patriotic comedy-dramas issued semi-monthly)

AL and Frank Jenrough.
Lady of the Dugout (Six Parts—Drama).

Lloyd Carleton Productions.
Mother I Need You.

Edwin Frazee,
The Haunted House (Mystic Comedy—Two Parts).

United Film Corporation.
Crime of the Hour (Seven Parts—Drama).

Francis Ford Producing Co.
Berlin via America (Six Parts).
The Isle of Intrigue (Six Parts).

HARRY RAPP.
Palace Theatre Building, New York.
Sins of the Children.
Wanted for Murder.

WILLIAM STOERMER ENTERPRISES.
720 Seventh Avenue, New York.
The Tidal Wave (Five Parts—Drama).

SOUTHERN FEATURE FILM COMPANY.
1476 Broadway, New York.
Beyond the Law (Emmett Dalton—Six Parts).

TOPICS OF THE DAY FILM COMPANY.
701 Times Building, New York.
Topics of the Day (A weekly topical release).

UNIVERSAL FILM COMPANY.
1600 Broadway, New York.
Song Hits in Photoplays.

U. S. EXHIBITORS’ BOOKING CO.
Times Building, New York.
The Belgian.
Those Who Pay.
Just a Woman (Stegem Production).

W. H. PRODUCTIONS.
71 West 23rd Street, New York.
Mickey (Seven Parts).

(The Fencing Are Multiple Real W. S. Her Subjects, Released in Order Listed.)

The Hell Hound of Alaska (Five Parts—Drama).
Stalking His Life (Seven Parts—Drama).

Series of two-reel productions.

Satan's Pawn (Bessie Barriscale—Five Parts—Drama).

The Straight Road (Bessie Barriscale—Five Parts—Drama).

Series of sixteen-two-reel Shorty Hamilton two-reel Western comedy comedies.

Series of twenty-two—two-reel Mack Bennett Keystone comedies.

Series of twenty-six one- and two-reel Charlie Chaplin comedies.

Series of twenty-four single reel Fatty Arbuckle comedies.

Series of Twenty-Eight Single Reel Liberty Keystone comedies.

Series of Twenty-Eight Single Reel Eagle Keystone comedies.

Series of Fifteen Two- Reel Union-Kay Bros Western Dramas.

Series of Fifteen Two- Reel Columbia-Kay Bros Western Dramas.

WARNER BROTHERS.
220 West 42nd Street, New York.
The Kaiser’s Finish.

FELIX F. FEIST.
130 West 46th Street, N. Y. C.
Stolen Orders (Eight Reels—Drama).

PLUNKETT & CARROLL.
220 West 42nd Street, New York City.
The Woman the Germans Shot.

PRODUCERS’ DISTRIBUTING CORP.
130 West 46th Street, New York City.
Her Mistake (Evelyn Nesbit).

SCHOMER PHOTO-PLAY PRODUCING CO.
1440 Broadway, New York.
Ruling Passions.
Moving Picture Machine Patents My Specialty

PATENTS
WILLIAM N. MOORE
PATENT ATTORNEY
LOAN AND TRUST BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D. C.

The first important step is to learn whether you can obtain a patent. Please send sketch of your invention with $5.00 and I will examine the patent records and inform you whether you are entitled to a patent, the cost and manner of procedure.

Personal Attention Established 25 Years

UNIVERSAL MOTION PICTURE CAMERAS PROVIDE SPEED—EFFICIENCY—RESULTS
Although Uncle Sam is taking our entire output, we want you to get acquainted with this wonder camera now. You will want one just as soon as they are again available.

LIVE WIRE THEATRE OWNERS EVERYWHERE
Write for our latest booklet, "Three Years' Profit in One." It has a message for you.

BURLKE & JAMES, Inc.
210 E. Ontario St., CHICAGO
225 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK

PORTER EQUIPS THEATRE FOR GRIFFITH'S
SUPREME TRIUMPH "HEARTS OF THE WORLD." Installs Two UP to The Minute Type S SIMPLEX PROJECTORS with Robin TIME and SPEED INDICATORS in the 44TH ST. Theatre, New York. The Marvelous PROJECTION of this greatest picture of modern times is synchronized accurately to the fraction of a second with the beautiful music and effects.

B. F. PORTER, 729 7TH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY, 11TH FLOOR

The Essential Requirements for Improved Projection
ARE SPEER CARBONS
Speer Alterno Combinations for A. C. Work
AND
Speer Hold-Ark Combinations for D. C. Work
Produce Incomparable Results

Write today for descriptive folders.
Read the unbiased opinions of operators.

Place an order now with your Supply House.

"The Carbons with a Guarantee"
MANUFACTURED BY
SPEER CARBON COMPANY
ST. MARYS, PA.
READY FOR NEW BUSINESS

After spending the last year on a war basis and devoting our energies to taking care of old customers, we are ready for your wants in any line of TICKET MACHINES. We are the sole manufacturers of the universally-used circuits throughout the country. Consult your nearest dealer or write direct to us.

NATIONAL ELECTRIC TICKET REGISTER COMPANY
1511 North Broadway

La Cinematografia Italiana ed Estera
Office: Organ of the Italian Cinematograph Union
PUBLISHED ON THE 15th AND 30th OF EACH MONTH
Foreign Subscription: 20 francs per annum
Editorial and Business Office: Via Cumiana, 31, Turin, Italy

Duhem Motion Picture Mfg. Co.
Expert Developing, Printing and Coloring
CINEMA OUTFITS AND STREET MOVING PRINTED SUPPLIED

985 Market Street
San Francisco, Cal.

From Canton, Illinois, to Canton, China, movie fans are looking at pictures made on

EASTMAN FILM

The demand for the clearest pictures possible is world wide.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

A Dependable Mailing List Service
Saves you from 30% to 50% in postage, etc. Reaches all or selected list of theatres in any territory. Includes name of exhibitor as well as the theatre in address. A list of publicity mediums desiring motion picture news. Unaffiliated exchanges looking for features. Supply houses that are properly characterized as such. Producers with address of studios, laboratories and offices. Information in advance of theatre being or to be built.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY
50 Fifth Avenue, New York
Phone—Chelsea 3227
Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

"WE NEVER DISAPPOINT"
CROMLOW FILM LABORATORIES
INCORPORATED
220 West 42nd Street
NEW YORK
Allan A. Lowes
Gen. Mgr.

TELEPHONE BRYANT 5576

PERFECTED PROJECTION
"Movies" are made possible at any time, anywhere, with a DeVry Portable Motion Picture Projector. The DeVry is always ready and instantly ready for an evening’s entertainment or instruction; attached to any ordinary light socket, it practically runs itself.
Adopted by the United States Government in all Departments where motion pictures are used, and by the American Red Cross, at home and abroad. Used also in all Y. M. C. A. work, at home and "over there."

Write for Catalogue G-2

THE DeVRY CORPORATION
1995 North Wells St.
Chicago, U. S. A.
There are two ways of designing a Take-up Shaft

There's no need of telling the Operator that the Take-up Shaft is a mighty important part of a Projector.

It absolutely must not fail him; and to be proof against going back on him it must be designed right in the first place.

Now, there are two ways of designing a Take-up Shaft.

One way is to design it wrong, to have the belt pull sideways on the shaft, cramping it in its bearings, and then to try to overcome the difficulty by introducing ball bearings.

The other way is to design it correct in principle, like the Simplex Take-up Shaft here illustrated.

When you read the explanations you will quickly see that the belt-pull doesn't come on the shaft at all; so there's no cramping or friction to try to reduce by "anti-friction" bearings.

And, as you know, the probability of any piece of mechanism going wrong increases directly as the number of parts it contains. So, being extremely simple as well as free from blunders in design, the Simplex Take-up Shaft is dependable in the highest degree.

The Simplex wins because it is correct both in principle and in construction.
Projectionist Ray says

"Last week our film service suddenly froze up on us.

"We finally got hold of a two reeler—comedy stuff—which looked as tho it had been run through a coffee mill and then patched with chewing gum.

"Did the best I could with it and then ran it through my Cameragraph for a try out. It lost the lower loop over 50 times but each time the loop setter instantly re-set it so that it ran without a hitch.

"Emergency work! That's Power's! When a thing like that happens to you, you'll NEED the Power's Loop Setter mighty bad; it's an instant, certain remedy.

"This device is only found on Power's Cameragraph, the projector of distinction."

"IT PUTS THE PICTURE ON THE SCREEN"

Copyright, 1918
Nicholas Power Company
Incorporated
Growth

From ambitious but careful beginnings Goldwyn has grown in power until today it is one of the few great factors in the industry.

Goldwyn Pictures

are now rated by the nation's large and small exhibitors as their most dependable productions.

"This is a Goldwyn Year!"
OUTDOORS

The majesty of the mountains—
The joy of the real outdoors—
The charm of the inhabitants of the wild country.

UNUSUAL ONE REEL PICTURES

"FLAT HEADS AND BLACK FEET"
"BAD MEN AND GOOD SCENERY"
"PEAKS, PARKS AND PINES"
"A MAORI ROMANCE"
"VACATION LAND"
"HITTING THE PIKE"
"HIGH AND HUNGRY"
"TEETOTALERS, TEA AND TOTEM POLES"
"GEEZERS AND GEYSERS"

Produced by ROTHACKER

Available one a week at Exchanges of
EXHIBITORS MUTUAL DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION
They Delight the Kiddies and the Grown-ups Too!

Four more beautiful screen productions of child life can not be imagined. The kiddies like them because they echo all of their own every day joys and sorrows and appeal to childish fancies. And the grown-ups like them just as well because these feature plays take them straight back to the days of the old swimmin' hole and the rag doll. Full of pathos and whimsical humor, they are just the thing for the holiday season.
No Matter what you've booked or paid for --- Get this in!
EXTRA! EXTRA! EXTRA! The first OFFICIAL motion pictures of the greatest historical naval event in the entire world's history—"THE SURRENDER OF THE GERMAN FLEET." Remember these are the—

OFFICIAL PICTURES

—showing every detail of this colossal historical event. German fleet that menaced the world. German officers whose arrogance has been broken. The biggest motion pictures of the most tremendous naval event in the records of man.

The Surrender of the GERMAN FLEET

Entire German fleet with British escort, Close-ups of the entire German U boat flotilla with crews, with battleship New York bringing up the rear of the flotilla parade. Monster reception scenes of King George, Admirals Beatty, Sims, Rodman and the Prince of Wales. Close-up views of these and other great men. Without a single doubt, the most wonderful historical picture ever taken. WIRE your nearest Universal Exchange for booking or reservation for this amazing special release that will pour a stream of gold into your house. Book and advertise this special like the biggest feature you have ever shown. WASTE NO TIME. Get your booking by wire THIS MINUTE.

JEWEL PRODUCTIONS INCORPORATED
Executive Offices. 1600 Broadway. New York City
Follow the President thru the Expert Camera Eyes of the

HEARST NEWS

Show This World's Greatest Historical Event to Capacity Houses

Imagine the value of front page newspaper space in the newspapers throughout America! Imagine how many millions of dollars would be required if that unpurchasable space could be had for cash. That space carries your advertising message on Pres. Wilson's dramatic trip to Europe. You don't have to spend one single cent except to announce that you have the wonderful Wilson peace conference trip pictures.

That will get the public. Millions have devoured the news of every move the President has made. NOW they can SEE in pictures Pres. Wilson's indescribable reception—the French public, the parades, events, all supreme historical events. The HEARST NEWS—The SCREEN TELEGRAM and UNIVERSAL CURRENT EVENTS will show these pictures. Look now by wire thru any Universal Exchange.

UNIVERSAL FILM MFG. CO., Largest Film Mfg. Co. in the Universe, Carl Laemmle, President, 1600 Broadway, New York
"It is with pleasure that I am conveying to you the phenomenal business our circuit did on "BORROWED CLOTHES," with Mrs. CHARLIE CHAPLIN, nee Mildred Harris. All box office records on this day were smashed. The public demanded that we hold the attraction over and show it for two additional days—and the second and third equalled the first. The drawing possibilities of this picture are wonderful."

Z. M. Harris, President
Flushing Motion Pictures Corp.
New York City.

MRS. Charlie Chaplin
Mildred Harris
The Greatest Attraction in America Today.

LOIS WEBER'S
Production de Luxe
"BORROWED CLOTHES"

A picture that will fill every woman's heart to overflowing

JEWEL PRODUCTIONS
Executive Offices, 1600 Broadway, New York City
This Picture Would Be Long Enough to Measure
Circumference of Earth

We had been watching both the public and motion picture exhibitors take each new Fox production—mark it with the sign manual of success—and then wait expectantly for the next.

We, like them, saw only the individual pictures and didn't grasp the magnitude of the whole, big, vast institution grown up around the successful Fox Idea.

When William Fox began producing some five years ago even he, with his great dreams of the future, had no shadow of a thought that the Fox Film Corporation would become the tremendous institution that it is—particularly in so short a time.

No one foresaw that Fox pictures would be seen in every part of the globe—that countless millions of people would become patrons of the Fox Idea of the photoplay—not only here in this country, but in almost every section of Europe, of Asia, of Africa, of South America, of Australasia.

William Fox has been busy producing month after month, year after year, until he has a record of pictures behind him that, in quality and quantity, is the real wonder of the moving-picture business.
It Measures Likewise
The Ever-Increasing
Scope of the Fox Idea

The quality of the Fox pictures is proved by the astounding Fox success.

As to their quantity—well, up to date, Fox productions, if made into one picture, would have a footage of 200,284,160 feet or 38,000 miles, enough to reach around the earth with thirteen thousand miles of film left over.

This one picture would take a grind of five years and eight months, or over fifty thousand hours, to run—think of it!—a picture of more than two hundred thousand reels.

Does that give you any conception of the vastness of the productive growth and success of the Fox Idea?

On the basis of the Fox Idea—to give the public what it wants—William Fox has built up an edifice so stupendous in size that it is difficult to grasp its proportions.

The public has put its mark of approval on the Fox Idea as expressed in Fox pictures.

The public has made Fox success.

The public will make your success—with Fox pictures.

FOX FILM CORPORATION
It Would Take a Grind
Of 5 Years and 8 Months
To Show This Picture

Of course, it's a Fox film.
For whenever the unusual, amazing or extraordinary is done in photoplay production, 'most everybody who knows the film business just naturally says one word—"Fox."
Up to a year or so ago the photoplay world and the public were amazed at each new Fox film surprise.
Now they take each Fox surprise as a matter of course.
"The Fox way of doing things," they say, and look forward to the next.
William Fox has just gone on producing one surprise after another, until he has set a "surprise" standard of production.
So that motion-picture exhibitors and the public have become so used to the unusual from William Fox that they refuse to be surprised any more—at anything he does.
They just demand his films—and let it go at that.
True—the demand is progressive—is growing bigger and more insistent from day to day, from week to week, from month to month.
Until now—the demand is so vast that the question is—which exhibitor can get Fox productions first.
Its Footage Would Be
More Than 38,000 Miles
Filling 200,000 Reels

All this great success is very gratifying.

The public appreciates and wants Fox pictures—that's all William Fox is interested in.

The exhibitors, with their wise fingers on the public pulse, are showing Fox pictures whenever they can get them.

We congratulate these exhibitors on their sagacity—we thank them for their generous support and encouragement.

But—how many people fully realize the stupendous achievement that is the result of the Fox Idea in motion pictures?

Even we—including Mr. Fox himself—didn't fully realize it until we found time to sit back for a few days during the recent non-release period.

Then it dawned on us that we had the greatest moving-picture business in the world.
There are Loads of RICH GOLD ORE Left for EARLY BUYERS in this STATE RIGHTS GOLD MINE——

FRANCIS FORD

WITH

MAE GASTON AND
ROSEMARY THEBY

In His Newest and Greatest Serial

"The SILENT MYSTERY."

The Greatest State Rights Buy in Years——

Francis Ford's Biggest and Best—Made to Order of Millions of Serial Fans—Whom No One Can Satisfy But Francis Ford—The Master Serial Maker.

Going—GOING—GO-O

Look at this List of Territory Sold

GREATER NEW YORK and NORTHERN NEW JERSEY—Merit Film Corporation, 126 W. 46th St., N. Y. C.

EASTERN PENNSYLVANIA and SOUTHERN NEW JERSEY—Arrow Film Company, 1235 Vine St., Philadelphia, Pa.

EASTERN CANADA and WESTERN CANADA—Exhibitors' Distributing Corp., 221 Yonge St., Toronto, Canada.

MARYLAND, DELAWARE, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, NORTH CAROLINA—Super-Film Attractions, Inc., 1209 E St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA and WEST VIRGINIA—Penn Film Service, Matthew Teplitz, Pres., 936 Penn Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.

GEORGIA, FLORIDA, ALABAMA and SOUTH CAROLINA—First National Exhibitors' Circuit, 146 Marietta St., Atlanta, Ga.

LOUISIANA, TENNESSEE and MISSISSIPPI—R. Dean Craver, Charlotte, N. C.

MAINE, NEW HAMPSHIRE, VERMONT, MASSACHUSETTS, CONNECTICUT and RHODE ISLAND—Silent Mystery Corp. of N. E., 48 Piedmont St., Boston, Mass.

Buyers—WAKE-UP ! FRANCIS FORD has a tremendous following. Here you have him at his greatest and best—

With a Supreme Serial that HAS HAD A UNANIMOUS VERDICT of APPROVAL from ALL THE TRADE PAPER REVIEWERS—WITHOUT A SINGLE EXCEPTION. ALL AGREE that "THE SILENT MYSTERY" is a SURE FIRE BOX-OFFICE SUCCESS. Territory has been closing so fast as to establish new records. Write or wire for unsold territory.

LOUIS BURSTON, President

SILENT MYSTERY CORP.

HILLER & WILK, Inc., Selling Agents

42d Street and Broadway Longacre Building New York
Those were the words of the reviewing committee of the National Board of Review when they saw Mae Marsh's next Goldwyn production.

A beautiful love story of appeal and pathos; a young girl's love and loyalty for her bankrupt father; a contest against uneven odds with an unscrupulous gambler and a Saratoga race scene that will thrill your audiences as few pictures ever have done before.

A picture that wins both exhibitor and public liking is

MAE MARSH in The Racing Strain

By Tex Charwate    Directed by Emmett J. Flynn

Advertise it like this when it comes to your theatre:

"They're Off! The girl wins love—the horse wins a fortune."

"The day's best bet—fifty furlongs of daring, romance and thrilling adventure."

Released everywhere December 22.

GOLDWYN PICTURES CORPORATION
Samuel Goldfish, President    Edgar Selwyn, Vice President
16 East 42nd Street    New York City
If You Don't Like Louis Bennison You Are Not Human

THE NEW YORK TIMES says this through its critic—strong words indeed for a great conservative newspaper.

An actor's scrapbook usually reveals his real personality; you can read what authoritative critics have said of him and accurately foretell his future success.

Every able, reputable critic in the larger cities of the country has unreservedly praised Louis Bennison and predicted his future as a screen favorite. In

*Betzwood Film Company's presentation of

LOUIS BENNISON in

Oh, Johnny!

By Wilson Bavley Directed by Ira M. Lowry

you will see the critical predictions begin to come true. This is the first of six Louis Bennison Star Series productions to be released exclusively through the Goldwyn organization.

Exhibitors in every Goldwyn branch zone have been invited to trade showings to "meet Louis Bennison." The immediate results of these showings have been a heavy volume of signed contracts.

We are now awaiting your contract for another winning star.

GOLDWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

Samuel Goldfish
President
16 East 42nd Street New York City
Write Your Own Ticket

on a Comedian—

FIRST, he must be comic. He must be wholesome. He must be genuine. He need not seek to conquer the world in one picture, for if he does he will be forced and unnatural.

Naturalness and cleanliness are the elements you seek most.

Then you demand freshness, novelty, zest. These are the specifications that every exhibitor who knows his business and understands his public would write if he planned to make his own comedies for his own audiences.

And every thing we have here written is found in likable, laughable, happy-go-lucky

"Smiling Bill" Parsons

in Capitol Comedies

26 a Year Every Second Monday

You who read this are an exhibitor yourself. You know exhibitors. You know that not many of you write letters of praise. The exhibitor mind has worked out a rule that it doesn’t pay exhibitors to tell a producer how much they like a star or a production.

But despite this, of the 2,900 exhibitors who are now playing Capitol Comedies easily 1,500 customers have written to Goldwyn saying: "I like the Capitol Comedies and my audiences are growing to like "Smiling Bill" Parsons more every day."

GOLDWYN DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

Samuel Goldwyn President

16 East 42nd Street New York City
Do You Know the Real Idea Behind the Ford Educational Weekly?

Let us talk together, exhibitor and distributor, like "regular people" about the Ford Educational Weekly and the reasons both for its existence and its success.

Every great newspaper in America—every one that is rated as a successful, big money-maker—is founded upon human interest and mass appeal.

There is not a class daily paper in America with a tremendous circulation. The class dailies written for the minds of the select few have circulations ranging from 22,000 to 75,000 maximum a day.

But the papers that are built for the public taste—what a difference! There are two million-copy circulations in New York; one 448,000 daily circulation in Philadelphia; three in excess of 400,000 each daily in Chicago.

Our reason for telling you this is to give you the real reason for the success and the tremendously widespread distribution of the Ford Educational Weekly.

It is built for the American public. It is frank, open, interesting, human, vivid. It answers the multitude of questions the average alert American asks.

Goldwyn, as you have read in previous announcements, assumes the exclusive American distribution of the Ford Educational Weekly beginning with the first issue of January 12, 1919. We are frankly proud to be the marketing or releasing mechanism for this altruistic product of the greatest industrial captain in our national life.

Every Goldwyn office is now ready to sign contracts with exhibitors and the Ford Motor Company sales agents—there are 10,500 of them in the towns and villages of the country—will forward your applications for service to Goldwyn and give you any desired information promptly. Note the titles of releases under the "Educational" classification in this publication.
Honor to America's Stars of Glory
France ever grateful will keep in her heart the imperishable remembrance of these valiant heroes.
HE was only a river pirate—and he was in love with a showgirl who was "playing for big money." And when he heard of the big gold shipment headed up the river at dusk, he believed that here was his chance to make his big haul and quit the old life forever.

By a cleverly devised plan, Jerry substituted twenty kegs of sand for the twenty kegs of gold in the shipment and buried the kegs in a cove up the river. Then he started to go honest—just as an alibi, at first. And then his big man's heart told him that it was only circumstances of environment that had ever made him dishonest. Once he tasted of the comfort and security of honesty, he knew he could never go back to the old life. But there was the buried gold shipment—what of that? And what of the money needed to buy the things that he believed his wife craved?

Here is a real screen story holding every element of human appeal. And as the rugged river pirate, Harry Morey finds a role for which he is eminently fitted by physique and screen personality.
E. K. Lincoln
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

December 28, 1918

THE BROADWAY THEATRE

WANTED FOR MURDER

FROM M. KASHIN TO HARRY RAPE

ADVERTISEMENTS

The advertising possibilities of "Wanted For Murder" have been well illustrated by the campaign launched in connection with its run at the Broadway Theatre. I feel certain that thousands of exhibitors throughout the country will reap the same splendid box office results because it has so many different advertising angles.

Sincerely,
M. KASHIN

NOW INDEPENDENT SALES CORP.

BOOKINGS PLACED BY REPRESENTATIVES IN EVERY TERRITORY

THE MOST SENSATIONAL ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN, A CLEAN UP PROPSRANGA OR WAR FILM

GIVE UP KAISER AT ONCE

TO BE THE ALLIED DEMAND

WILSON GIVES NO ADVICE.

FAH MY OLD MAN. MURDERER TO THE AMERICAN AUTHORITIES. VICTORY. COME 1919 FOR WORLS

ADVENTURE

ROMANCE

THRILLS

SEEN - FRANKLIN AND BURT GREEN - WOMEN'S MOTOR CORPS OF AMERICA - SALVATION ARMY WORKERS.

NOW INDEPENDENT SALES CORP.

BOOKINGS PLACED BY REPRESENTATIVES IN EVERY TERRITORY
December 28, 1918

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

RUN ILLUSTRATED THE POSSIBILITIES OF MURDER

TRY KAISER AS PIRATE, PLAN OF ALLIES

WANTED FOR MURDER
WM. HOHENZOLLERN
ONE TIME GERMAN KAISER
FRANCE/BRITAIN

LONDON, Dec. 3.—A demand for the surrender of William Hohenzollern will be submitted to the Netherlands government in the name of all the allied cabinets, according to the Express. Views of France and Italy have been fully communicated to the British government, and President Wilson has also made suggestions relative to procedure in the case.

F. HOLLAND EXPECTED TO GIVE UP HOHENZOLLERN

President Wilson said to have made suggestions in method of procedure in getting the ex-Kaiser to trial—Dutch cut off exports to Germany.

DISTRIBUTED THROUGH
FILM CLEARING HOUSE, Inc.
EXCHANGES IN EVERY TERRITORY
A SMASHING BIG SHOW Playing Open Bookings and

Carle E. Carlton's
Marvel of the Film Firmament
A ROMANCE

BOOK IT NOW WHILE THE APPEARANCES ARE

Bookings Placed By
INDEPENDENT SALES CORP.
Representatives in Every Territory
PROPOSITION AT LAST!
Widely Advertised Special Runs SAME TIME

of the Air

Starring LIEUT. BERT HALL OF THE LAFAYETTE ESQUADRILLE and EDITH DAY

BERT HALL PERSONAL
PUBLISHED BROADCAST

Distributed Through
FILM CLEARING HOUSE, INC.
Exchanges in Every Territory
The greatest drawing attraction of motion pictures today is NAZIMOVA

The public acclaimed her in Revelation and Toys of Fate.

The public is now breaking the theatre records held by the motion picture kings and queens of yesterday by crowding to see her in Eye for Eye.

In January the fourth great Nazimova production will be released.

Exhibitors are advised in order that their schedules may be kept open.

NAZIMOVA PRODUCTIONS
METRO - EXCLUSIVE DISTRIBUTORS
With the eyes of the millions upon Woodrow Wilson, with his name on every lip - your theatre will reap the harvest of the year when you show

The GREAT VICTORY
Wilson or the Kaiser
The Fall of the Hohenzollerns

As a fascinating resume of mighty historical events this production outrivals all productions for absolute timeliness and box office power.

Directed by Charles Miller
Scenario by June Mathis and A.S. LeVino

SCREEN CLASSICS INC.

Now booking at all
METRO EXCHANGES

Story by Maxwell Karger
Director General
Metro
All Star Series
Productions are their own best advertisement.
They do more for the continuance of patronage at motion picture theatres than any other pictures in the field today.

The newest presents

Exquisite EMMY WEHLEN
in
SYLVIA on a SPREE
Done into a scenario by June Mathis from the famous story by E. Forst and directed in 5 acts by H. Franklin.

RELEASED BY METRO DECEMBER 16th
MAXWELL KARGER, DIRECTOR GENERAL
Watch for

WHY GERMANY MUST PAY

A frank portrayal that will startle America and the world.

A Screen Classics Inc. production soon to be released exclusively through METRO Pictures Corporation
This illustration is fac-simile of one side of herald which is printed in brown rotogravure

To be RELEASED
DEC. 29th

100%
A FIRST NATIONAL ATTRACTION
December 28, 1918
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

POSTPONED TO FEB. 1

THE closing date for the exhibitor advertising competition on "The Romance of Tarzan" has been postponed five weeks to give the smaller theatres, closed by the epidemic, a chance to play their delayed seasons on this great sequel picture.

YOU have just as much chance as a big theatre owner or manager to win one of the prizes among the $1,200.00 in Liberty Bonds offered by First National Exhibitors' Circuit for the best local campaign on this second big Tarzan picture.

Entry blanks, containing complete information, from your First National Exchange, Moving Picture World, or Tarzan Editor, 6 West 48th Street, New York City.
Great Special Attraction

"THE MIDNIGHT PATROL"

produced by

THOMAS H. INCE

Clean, swift and intensely American—a story of big city life today in which Duty discounts the Cost.

Splendidly cast and superbly produced—a veritable Thomas H. Ince Special.
They’re all after Constance—in “A Lady’s Name”—and, they’re all after Constance in the theatres throughout the country!

There’s something about Constance Talmadge which makes your fondness for her grow and grow, the more you see her. She combines beauty with youth, and there is also a touch of impishness about her. It is easy to understand her popularity is ever increasing.”—The Baltimore News.
A virile and compelling drama of the Southland and the Money Marts of New York. The first of a series of eight superproductions starring this premiere actor from the studios of the National Film Corporation of America.

Released December 29
They eat 'em alive

MARTIN JOHNSON'S CANNIBALS

THE SOUTH SEAS

Photographed at the risk of life

Released December 15th

BILLIE RHODES

in

"THE GIRL OF MY DREAMS"

Produced by the National Film Corporation of America

Released December 22nd

released by

EXHIBITORS MUTUAL DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

ROBERTSON-COLE COMPANY

BANKERS and EXPORTERS Season's Greetings
from Norma Talmadge.
A. H. Woods presents

FANNIE WARD

in the adaptation of the famous stage success

THE NARROW PATH

Produced by Astra • Directed by Geo. Fitzmaurice
Scenario by Ouida Bergere and Jack Cunningham

Miss Ward's Pathé pictures "Innocent," "The Yellow Ticket," and "A Japanese Nightingale" have proven conclusively that she is an artist of the first rank, and a decided box office attraction. "The Narrow Path" is a story of the Double Standard, packed full of punch.

PATHÉ
DISTRIBUTORS
Gaby Deslys

the most piquant of all personalities, in a six reel special feature, produced by Eclipse Film Co.

INFATUATION

from the story by Marcel L'Herbier, and directed by Louis Mercanton.

"Pictorially beautiful... Possesses a sturdy dramatic punch... Gaby's costumes take one's breath away...
Effects are exquisite... Acting, settings and photography can only give complete satisfaction and provoke favorable comment from patrons."

Exhibitors Trade Review

PATHÉ
DISTRIBUTORS
To see them is to laugh!

"They are all good" says F.F. Peters of the Majestic Theatre, Hornell, N.Y., of the HAROLD LLOYD COMEDIES

If you really want to know what are the best one reel comedies made ask the exhibitors who show Harold Lloyd

Produced by Rolin

PATHÉ DISTRIBUTORS
THE SURRENDER OF THE GERMAN FLEET

an event unparalleled in history, is in the regular issue of the

OFFICIAL WAR REVIEW

Number 26

The importance of this film deserved a “special” issue at special prices. In accordance with a liberal policy, strictly adhered to, it was put in the regular issue at regular prices.

Official British, French, Italian and American pictures.

Presented by

COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC INFORMATION
George Creel, Chairman

DIVISION OF FILMS
Chas. S. Hart, Director

PATHÉ
Distributors
A Woman's Love

The World's Greatest Treasure

It is the deciding factor for good or evil in most men's lives

The Challenge Accepted

Directed by Edwin L. Hollywood Produced by Arden Photoplay Company

starring Zena Keefe with Chester Barnett distributed by W.W. Hodkinson Corporation through Pathe Exchange, Inc.

WELCOME HOME!

After giving the world Peace with Victory our soldiers are coming home. The nation welcomes them with open arms.

The home folk want to know how they accomplished their huge task. "Made in America," in a series of eight episodes, tells the story graphically, dramatically, vividly, authoritatively.

Every exhibitor should show "Made in America." It is an appreciation of the American soldiers who won undying fame and the gratitude of the Allied World.

ONE REEL RELEASED EACH WEEK

Produced and directed by

MR. ASHLEY MILLER

Published and Distributed by

W. W. Hodkinson Corporation

This Dale Exchange, Inc.
Hang Up a New Box Office Record

Don't be satisfied. Beat your biggest day! That's the way to increase your income. This picture sets a new production record—you can set a new box office one.

Play "What Shall We Do With Him?" For All It's Worth

Make the most talked of subject of today get money for you! That's show-business. Be a showman!

Plan Your Voting Contest NOW!

Every man, woman and child in America has an answer to the question, "What Shall We Do With Him?" Let them vote in your theatre—again that is showmanship! You may send the votes to McClures Magazine at New York or, you can arrange to have your best newspaper receive them and publish the result.

Plan big! Cash big! Write the distributor's nearest branch now!

Produced by McClures  Distributed by World
New York Goes Over!

“UNDER FOUR FLAGS”

the 3d Government War Film, showed simultaneously at the Rialto and the Rivoli, and attracted great crowds to both these popular theatres.

“Under Four Flags” made such a tremendous hit with New Yorkers that the Rivoli Theatre, which rarely employs a “repeat,” arranged to show the film a second week!

The experience of exhibitors proves that the Government War Films go over big. They are profit-makers, too. The rental has been figured on a basis that will permit of showing at regular admission prices.

How many of these official pictures have you shown to your patrons:

The Official War Review
(Pershing’s Crusaders
Our Bridge of Ships

America’s Answer
Under Four Flags
U. S. A. Series

Available through the World Film Corporation, except FOR CALIFORNIA:
Sol. L. Lesser,
State Council of Defense, San Francisco.

FOR MICHIGAN:
Michigan War Preparedness Board,
Lansing, Mich.
(Except Detroit and Warren County, through World Film Corporation.)

Here’s what the Metropolitan dailies had to say about the new film:

NEW YORK TIMES:
The man in the street must see “Under Four Flags” to know what it is, both as a war review and as a picture.

NEW YORK SUN:
The films drew heavily yesterday in spite of the rain, and proved well worthy of expectations.

NEW YORK WORLD:
“Under Four Flags” aroused the spectators to spontaneous enthusiasm.

N. Y. EVE. TELEGRAM:
“Under Four Flags” is the most graphic presentation of the actual participation by the Americans in battle.

EVENING MAIL:
New Yorkers shouted themselves hoarse and applauded themselves limp at the achievements of America and her allies. “Under Four Flags” went over the top with a characteristic American bang.

NEW YORK AMERICAN:
Soldiers, sailors, marines, civilians, women and children stood in line for a chance to see “Under Four Flags.”

THE GLOBE:
It was the Big Chance of the movies, and the movies were equal to it. Naturally no such opportunity has occurred before in the life of the films.

The Bureau of War Photographs

The Bureau of War Expositions presented by the United States and Allied Governments

Committee on Public Information
Geo. Creel, Chairman

Through the Division of Films
Chas. S. Hart, Director, Washington, D. C.
NOW OPEN FOR BOOKING TO LIVE EXHIBITORS!

¶ The most stupendous screen drama in the annals of the motion picture—

¶ Quivering with a theme that affects every man, woman and child—

¶ Throbbing with the tensest thrills of life.

BOOK NOW
BY WIRE

¶ This magnificent feature and put the S. R. O. sign in front of your theatre.

¶ Cash in big with the timeliest subject in the market—

¶ The most certain money getter of the day—

¶ Full line of lithos, slides, photos and a handsome herald.

STATE RIGHT BUYERS,
Act quick—don’t delay—WIRE NOW.
Not a war story, but gripping with international conflict.

Written and picturized in eight wonderful parts by William Stoermer, author of the Honor System.

WILLIAM STOERMER ENTERPRISES
TEMPORARY OFFICE
SUITE 709, 729 SEVENTH AVE.
NEW YORK CITY
Phone, Bryant 10359

A Few Territories Available

“Law of the Northwoods” Triangle Presents

GLORIA SWANSON
HARRY MESTAYER

GRETCHELE LEDERER
JACK RICHARDSON

in

"WIFE OR COUNTRY"

Redemption, gratitude, love and patriotism are the motives which enhance this drama. It is not a war play but one timely in its appeal. Produced with a cast containing four players whose names are favorably known to your patrons, the Triangle trade-mark guarantees a picture at a profitable rental that will certainly entertain your patrons.

Collect the profits on this picture that should be yours and invest them in War Saving Stamps.

Triangle Distributing Corporation
1457 Broadway
New York
Adolph Zukor presents

Marguerite Clark

in

"Little Miss Hoover"

A Paramount Picture

Adapted from "The Golden Bird" by Maria Thompson Davies
Scenario by Adrian Gil-Spier. Directed by John S. Robertson.

When Marguerite Clark Raises Chickens!

WITH a few hens and a rooster she tried to frighten the wolf from the door—and you know how difficult it is for chickens to frighten a wolf!

In the midst of it all the incubator broke.

Did she sit down and cry? She did not! She took the eggs to bed with her and in the morning there they were, a whole family of little chicks.

When last seen, the wolf, his tail between his legs, was seen fleeing, scared to death, over the hill.

So will "Little Miss Hoover" chase bad business.
Marguerite Clark
in
"Little Miss Hoover"
A Paramount Picture

Adapted from "The Golden Bird" by Maria Thompson Daviess.
Scenario by Adrian Gil-Spear.
Directed by John S. Robertson.

The sweetest face he'd ever seen!

No wonder the man was smitten! Her face on a lobby poster will jam any theatre in America any day in the week! You—why you tell your wife you are devoted to Marguerite Clark, and she feels it just proves your good taste! Surest thing in the world, your seeing this picture!
The fact that big theatres use these advertisements, and keep on using them, would lead you to believe, wouldn't it, that they're business bringers and business builders.

RALPH RUFFNER, of the Jensen and Von Herberg Theatres, one of the best town moving picture theatre advertisers, says the line-cut advertisements in the Paramount and Artcraft press books are the things he wants.

He uses them continually in advertising the Rialto in Butte, Montana.

How about you?

Perhaps sometimes they don't fit in exactly with your advertising policy.

Then write to Progress-Advance, the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation's Service Magazine, and anything you ask for will be made especially to order for only the cost of engraving or electrotyping.

Rialto
Broadway at Main Street
Paramount-Burton Holmes Travel Picture.
Belgian Sisters of Luzon
Paramount-Mack Sennett Comedy, Yankee Doodle
Latest News Weeklies

Rialto
Both prize-winners
The hen won a medal and the girl won a man—in one day! But then—the girl is Marguerite Clark! The girl who has as many admirers as America has motion picture lovers. And that means millions and millions! Are you one of them? You are! And you'll be around tonight! You will!

Marguerite Clark
in Little Miss Hoover
A Paramount Picture

Adolph Zukor presents
Marguerite Clark
in
"Little Miss Hoover"
A Paramount Picture
Adapted from "The Golden Bird" by Marc Thompson Davies
Scenario by Adrian G. Spear
Directed by John S. Robertson

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION
ADOLPH ZUKOR, PRES. JESSE L. LASKY, VICE PRES. CECIL B. DE MILLE, DIRECTOR GENERAL
NEW YORK
As To The Posters

TRYING to reproduce in black and white a beautiful five-color poster is like trying to tell how a violin sounds.

These illustrations on this page can give only a small idea of the splendor of the lithographs for Marguerite Clark in "Little Miss Hoover."

The best poster artists in America make the paper for Paramount and Artcraft Pictures. Many exhibitors say it improves with each production.

We hope it's true.

What do you think?
DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS

in

"Arizona"

An ARTCRAFT Picture

Adapted from August Thomas's Play, "Arizona"
Produced by Douglas Fairbanks Film Corporation

The Villain Said the Hero was a Crook!

REMEMBER how it was in the play? Everybody does, for everybody has seen "Arizona" on the stage.
What suspense! What excitement when Lieutenant Denton started to square things with the heavy!
That was on a small stage in front of painted scenery. And even there it was a tremendous scene.
But imagine what happens when Douglas Fairbanks is the hero and he has all of the state of Arizona for the stage upon which to give the villain what's coming to him!
As surely as Douglas Fairbanks beats the villain, so will "Arizona" beat all your box-office records.
Adolph Zukor presents

ELSIE FERGUSON

in

"Under the Greenwood Tree"

By H. V. Esmond. Scenario by Adrian Gil-Spear. Directed by Emile Chautard

An ARTCRAFT Picture

ROMANCE! That's what they want now! Love and adventure and beauty. And here it is in another charming Elsie Ferguson picture.

"Elsie Ferguson can reach out across the screen and take you by the hand and lead you where she will."—New York Tribune.

" 'Under the Greenwood Tree' serves to purvey Elsie Ferguson's allurements. She appears to advantage equally in modish gowns, dishabille and a bathing suit."—New York Sun.

"Elsie Ferguson is winning new admirers at the Rivoli this week."—New York Journal of Commerce.

"Miss Ferguson is a lovely figure, graceful in every movement, charming in all she does."—New York Times.
Thos. H. Ince presents

Wm. S. Hart

in

"BRANDING BROADWAY"

An ARTCRAFT Picture

By C. Gardner Sullivan
Directed by William S. Hart
Photographed by Joe August
Supervised by Thomas H. Ince

When A Real Man Tackles
The Great White Way!

INTO New York City goes William S. Hart. Fifth Avenue puts him in a panic, the cabarets daze him but the men and women with their city stuff—they can't fool William S. Hart!

He shows them how a real man can fight and love.

It's Hart in a new sort of story that's going to set new records in your theatre.

Advertise it right! Play up the Broadway angle.

How'd you like, for instance, to use the lay-out shown above?

It's ready for you—with a line drawing in place of the half-tone cut, so it will print well in newspapers—in the office of Progress-Advance. A mat of it (4-column size) is free. An electrotype (4-column size) will cost you $2.50. Other sizes will be made especially for you for the cost of engraving.

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORPORATION

ADOLPH ZUKOR Pres. JESSE L. LASKY Vice Pres. CECIL B. De MILLE Director General

NEW YORK
In June they saw
"Old Wives for New"

In July
"We Can't Have Everything"

In August
"Till I Come Back to You"

Now Comes
Cecil B. DeMille's
"THE SQUAW MAN"
An ARTCRAFT Picture

by. Edwin Milton Royle,
Adapted for the Screen by Beulah Marie Dix

"A modern version of Edwin Milton Royle's famous play 'The Squaw Man'

His Greatest Box Office Success,
Jesse L. Lasky presents
ETHEL Clayton
in "The Mystery Girl"

Adapted from the story, "Green Fancy," by George Barr McCutcheon.
Scenario by Marion Fairfax. Directed by William C. De Mille.

A Paramount Picture  "Number 477" Had The Jewels!

"The Mystery Girl" give Ethel Clayton one of the greatest parts of her career—a stop-at-nothing heroine who sees things to be done and does them!

George Barr McCutcheon's story revolves around a box of jewels, a clever thief, a beautiful girl and of course the hero, "Number 477" is the "Mystery Girl" and that's Ethel Clayton.

Every one of Ethel Clayton's Paramount Pictures adds to her box office value. "Women's Weapons" was a big success and "The Mystery Girl" is just as good. You can't ask for anything better than that.
Progressive Exhibitors!

How many of my patrons of today saw these four new series of Re-issues—

15 KAY BEE COLUMBIA
15 KAY BEE UNION

Two-Reel Western Dramas
Directed by Thos. H. Ince

28 KEYSTONE LIBERTY
28 KEYSTONE EAGLE

Single-Reel Comedies
Produced by Mack Sennett

How many of my patrons of today who have seen these remember them more distinctly than to retain the impression that the KEYSTONES were mighty funny, and that there were plenty of thrills in the KAY BEES.

Beyond a question they are the best one and two reel subjects on the market—Re-edited, Re-constructed, Re-titled.

New advertising matter of punchy one, three and six sheets and 8x10 photographs on the Kay Bee subjects; and one and three sheets and 8x10 photographs on the Keystone subjects.

Released, commencing January first, through best Independent Exchanges.

W. H. PRODUCTIONS CO.
71 West 23rd Street New York, N. Y.
THE "HELL CAT'S" AVERAGE—

is 100%—says a well-known critic. "When Panchita O'Brien takes the law in her own hands and escapes further indignities by burying a dagger in the heart of Jim Dyke, her act more than justifies itself. In other words—Panchita is a thoroughbred."

Thoroughbreds are also found among trade papers—and the term "average" is sometimes used when talking circulation.

A thoroughbred trade paper is not afraid to print the truth, and its editorial and general text columns are not guided, governed or gulped by its advertising pages.

We know—and we seldom crow—the circulation "average" of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD tops by thousands any other paper in this particular field. It has a 100% reader circulation, and each week it circles the moving picture trade—in every country where moving pictures are bought or sold in the English language.

Our subscription department has the records—come and see them.
INDEX TO CONTENTS AND ADVERTISERS

TO CONTENTS

Gives Use of Theatre for Worship. ........ 1531
Goldwyn Signs Rogers. ........ 1505
"Hoarded Assets" (Vitagraph). ........ 1553
Huley Completes Big Theatre Plans. ....... 1527
Hutchins, Samuel S., 01 to Europe. ....... 1508
Kansas City Has New Organization. ....... 1589
Kennedy, Snag, Has Day Dreams. ......... 1581
"Lady's Name, A" (Select). ........ 1554
Lasso Misleads Exhibitors and Public.
List of Current Film Release Dates. .......... 1520
"Little Miss Hoover," Exploiting. .......... 1535
"Little Miss Hoover" (Paramount). ...... 1555
Metro's 1918 Has Been Its Best Twelve-
Month, .......... 1506
Mind, Value of an Open. ........ 1597
Ministers, North Carolina, Make Move for Censorship. .......... 1498
Moore, Lieutenant, Home from France. ..... 149
Motion Picture Educator. .......... 1521
Music for the Picture. ........ 1321
News of Los Angeles and Vicinity. ....... 1405
New Distributing Company Organized. .... 1589
Penalty Big for Exhibitors Making False Returns. .......... 1511
"Perfect 36, A" (Goldwyn). .......... 1503
Photoplaywright, The. ........ 1517
Plugs, Square, in Round Holes. .......... 1503
Prejudice Doesn't Exist. .......... 1508
Producers' and Distributors' News. ....... 1540
Projection Department. .......... 1518
"Queen of Shadow" (Paramount). ....... 1532
Quinn, John M., Named as Vitagraph Sales
Manager. .......... 1503
Rambles "Round Filmtown. .......... 1534
Reviving Suspended Theatre Projects. ....... 1534
Rialto, Moore's Beautiful, Is Open. ....... 1488
Ruthersficking in Filmland. .......... 1586
Ruffner Sees New York. .......... 1581
"Ruling Passions" (Select). .......... 1554
Screen Letter for Soldiers is Shown. ....... 1495
"Sea Flower, The" (Bluhard). .......... 1552
"Sea Wall, The" (World). ........ 1554
See Too Much U. S. A. In New Reels. ....... 1495
Sells Tickets on "3 Day" Plan. .......... 1479
Source Reviving in Many States. .......... 1498
"Spender, The" (Metro). .......... 1554
State Censorship or Tax Unlikely. ........ 1593
Sunday, In Vocation Looms Up. .......... 1487
"Surrender of the German Fleet, The" (Jewel). ..... 1551
"Sylvia on a Spree" (Metro). .......... 1551
Theatres and Pure Air. .......... 1508
Trade News Brevities. .......... 1327
"Under Four Flags" Shows Real War. ...... 1497
"Under the Greenwood Tree" (Artcraft). .... 1535 von Herberg Looks Over Newest Production. .......... 1494
"Wild Cat of Paris, The" (Universal). ..... 1552
Wiltat, Irvin V., Again Among Those
Present. .......... 1594
World Pictures Engages Meeker. .......... 1500
Zukor Men, Two, Start New Company. ..... 1492

TO ADVERTISERS

CARBON & CARBON ACCESSORIES.
National Carbon Company. ........ 1570
Speer Carbon Company. ........ 1599

ELECTRICAL & MACH. EQUIPMENT.
Amusement Supply Company. ....... 1562
Hertear Elec. Company. .......... 1562
Porter, B. F. .......... 1569
Typhoon Fan Company. .......... 1567
Universal Motor Company. ........ 1561

LOBBY DISPLAYS.
Newman Manufacturing Company. ..... 1560

MFNS, OF INDUSTRIAL PICTURES.
Duhem M. P. Co. .......... 1567
Empire City Film Laboratories. ....... 1567
Ephrathograph Company. .......... 1570
Evans Film Manufacturing Company. ..... 1579
Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company. ..... 1567

MFNS, OF MOVING PICTURES.
Committee on Public Information. ...... 1464
Essanay Film Manufacturing Company. .... 1427
Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. ..... 1467-75
First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Inc. ..... 1432-33
Fox Film Corporation. .......... 1432-35
Garson, Harry. .......... 1432-35
"Goldwyn, Harry. .......... 1432-35
Goldwyn Pictures Corporation. ...... 1437-40
Haworth Pictures Corporation. ..... 1562
Hiller & Wilk, Inc. .......... 1439
Independent Sales Corporation. ...... 1444-47
Jewel Productions, Inc. .......... 1428-29, 1431
Lincoln, E. K. .......... 1445
Metropolitan Motion Picture Company. ..... 1448-51
Mutual Allied Corporation. .......... 1429
Norma Talmadge. .......... 1458
Palmer Photo Play Corporation. ...... 1562
Pathe Exchange, Inc. .......... 1439-40
Perrot Productions, Inc. .......... 1441
Robertson-Cole Company. .......... 1456-57
Select Pictures Corporation. .......... 1454-55
Stoerner, W. .......... 1405
Triangle Distributing Corporation. ...... 1499
Universal Film Manufacturing Corporation. ..... 1439
Vitagraph Corporation. .......... 1412
W. W. Hodkinson Corporation. ...... 1461-62
W. H. Productions. .......... 1476
World Film Corporation. .......... 1463

MISCELLANEOUS.
Anti-Censorship Slides. .......... 1569
Automatic T. S. & C. R. Company. ..... 1559

Bioscope, The. .......... 1562
Cinema, The. .......... 1561
Classified Page. .......... 1565
Eastman Kodak Company. .......... 1570
La Cinematografa Italiana. .......... 1567
Manners, J. H. .......... 1559
Moore, Wm. L. .......... 1567
Moving Picture Directory Company. ...... 1567
Moving Picture Weekly Circulation. ..... 1567
Moving Picture World House Ad. ....... 1477
National Electric Ticket Register Company. ..... 1559
National Ticket Company. .......... 1561
Newman, L. C. .......... 1559
Our Boys in France Tobacco Fund. ..... 1560
Robinson, T. L. & Co. .......... 1564
Williams, A. F. .......... 1562

MOVING PICTURE CAMERAS.
Bass Camera Company. .......... 1563
Burke & James, Inc. .......... 1562

PROJECTION MACHINE MFNS.
Nichols Power Company. .......... 1579
Precision Machine Company. .......... 1580

PROJECTION SCREEN MFNS.
Gold King Screen Company. .......... 1562
Minuss Cine Screen Company. ..... 1567

The Advertisers Who Use the Columns of The Moving Picture World Represent the "Class" of the Industry

We Exercise a Strict Supervision Over the Business Announcements Which We Print
This Protects the Prospective Purchaser  It Also Adds Force to Our Advertisers' Messages

1478  THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD  December 28, 1918
THE "Dollar Day," which has been so successfully exploited as a means of community merchandising throughout the country, has again been applied to theatre picture business. Walter L. Griffith, manager of Poli's Theatre, Meriden, Conn., is the man who has achieved with gratifying success attending, the coupling of the Dollar (§) Sign with a "drive" to sell admissions. Through the courtesy of Manager Griffith and aid of excerpts from the Meriden Daily Journal we are able to present for the benefit of exhibitor-subscribers to The World a detailed explanation of the plan.

For several years, as many of our readers know, merchants of many communities have co-operated in "Dollar Days," in which business, on those special days, or at special hours, more than the same money could buy, in value, at any other time. In some towns "Dollar Day" is made a gala affair. Streets are decorated, "free vaudeville" attractions are provided, bands are hired to furnish music, and the event is generally "circused" to bring into the town residents of the surrounding country side.

Griffith Works By Himself.

In Meriden, Manager Griffith had none of these "extras" to help along his scheme. He perhaps has his own "Dollar Day," advertised it in the papers and by "throw-aways," boomed it all he could in every way, and on December 11 the Journal had this to say:

The "Dollar Day" plan which Manager Walter Griffith of Poli's Theatre will put into effect today is something entirely new in the theatrical business. The plan has already attracted advertising firms out of the city, and yesterday a representative of the Roebing system called on Mr. Griffith to find out about it. He stated that he had been instructed to watch the plan and make a report.

The present sloppy process of selling theatre tickets and the consequent inconvenience to patrons who have to wait in line before entering the theatre was too much for Mr. Griffith to think up a plan to obviate this nuisance.

Time and Money Saving Plan.

The selling of tickets now requires twice the time that it did before the war tax was imposed upon tickets. In the past the cash buyer used a pencil, so that the time consumed in making change is doubled, as it is very seldom that the operator is ready on the box office, since the passage of the law requiring the collection of wartime tax.

The matinee and night, or gallery, tickets are familiar to everyone, and Mr. Griffith's plan is similar in scope. It saves time for the patron, and at the same time it is a benefit to business, inasmuch as people do not keep it in line, out on the sidewalk, thereby discouraging others from attempting to enter.

If people will avail themselves of the offer made and buy a supply of theatre tickets today, they will avoid the congestion, and at the same time make a saving, as there will be quite a saving under Griffith's scheme. The only dollar sale which is contemplated is the one for matinee and night gallery tickets.

The other sales proposed are for $1.04, and 90 cents. The plan derives its name from the first of the three offers which are made. Twenty matinee or night gallery tickets will be sold for $1, the usual price being $2.20 for these 20 tickets. Mr. Griffith explained that the reason for this more than 50 per cent. reduction is that the attendance at matines is not usually anywhere near the capacity of the house. These 20 tickets, including the war tax, will cost box office $1.

The second offer is seven 17-cent evening tickets for $1.04, which is a saving of 15 cents. The third offer is five 22-cent evening tickets for 90 cents, which is a saving of 29 cents. All of these tickets are good for their face value, 5 cents, 17 cents or 22 cents, to apply on the cash value of tickets to any performance which is given by the management at Poli's Theatre.

Griffith Explains in Detail.

From Manager Griffith we have received other details that will be of aid to exhibitors in "putting over" the scheme. "Our idea," says Mr. Griffith in his letter, "was to increase the matinee attendance—but we could not conflict with our better seat-sales by offering a reduced admission scale to interfere with the higher priced clientele we are catering to. But Uncle Sam has something to say about admissions these days and so we figured out a plan whereby we would pay the tax and still offer "bargains.""

"Our plan was divided into three offers, as follows: twenty matinee or night gallery tickets for $1 (would cost $2.20); 7 evening tickets (17 cents) for $1.04 (would cost $1.19); 5 evening tickets (22 cents) for 90 cents (would cost $1.10)—war tax paid in all offers. We borrowed the box office at 10 A. M. and sold until the theatre closed. The gross over our regular day's business was $311.90!"

"What does that mean to a manager? Just go to the bank and try to borrow $311.90, and they will let you have it at bank interest with security that must be acceptable to them. We borrowed from our public $311.90 and nothing said about the interest. And Wednesday, December 11, was one of the most disagreeable days we have had this winter!"

Matinee Business Benefited.

"We have watched very carefully the outcome of the sale as affecting matinee business, and it has been a benefit. Only a few days have elapsed (Mr. Griffith wrote The World on December 14), but our matinee business has increased and our theatre is filled better than it has been at matines. This only proves that if they get them in their pockets they will either throw them away—just like the man who buys three cigars, intending to smoke them all himself. The matinee ticket drew the best, and that was just what we wanted it to do—all our house afternoons.

"Here is how we operated, serving out the 20 matinee or night gallery admissions, paying the war tax, and getting $1. We take eight regular tickets from the matinee roll (that is if you want the gross of your sale to apply to your regular day's business), and to this we add 12 of the Special Tickets. From this sale of 8 tickets we receive the regular price—(10 cents) with war-tax added, which totals 88 cents. This leaves us 12 cents that we are collecting from Mr. and Mrs. Public to pay for the twelve additional courtesies which Uncle Sam requires.

"The night inducements are on the same principle, only we add one ticket. The nearest we could come to even money was 7 tickets (17 cents) for $1.04, and we wondered if it would detract from the idea. But it did not and it went along with the Dollar Day idea all right. The five 22 cent tickets for 90
This Ticket is Good For Any Performance (FACE VALUE) — AT POLI'S THEATRE, Meriden, Conn.

Given in connection with

S DAY SALE Value, 17 Cts.

The object of this Sale is: Promote Sale of Tickets in Advance through with the idea we went ahead as shown.

Kept the $ Sign Before the Public.

In all the display we used or wherever we could get the slogan before the public eye we said: ‘You’ll Be There; Poli’s $ Day’—using the $ sign prominently. In our ‘readers’, on throwaways, in store-window cards and everywhere, we stuck the $ Day slogan before the eye of the public. We made a special trip to the city editor of the Journal and ‘planted’ the story we were anxious to get.

So well are we satisfied that we are after it again, in the worst week in the theatrical year—the week before Christmas. But in all the ‘boosting’ we do, for this Christmas sale, will be the idea of ‘Christmas Presents’—advising that the ladies cut out the green neck ties, handkerchiefs and cheap perfumery and give hubby something that she can help him use. Tickets are to be sold in nice envelopes, holly and all that on the outside, making it a regular Christmas present.

Manager Griffith advises The World that exhibitors everywhere are welcome to use his $ Day plan, but asks that they let him know if they work out any improvements on the scheme. Here’s a practical idea; a proved plan to do something unusual, to attract special attention to the moving picture theatre, big and little, and to benefit the business along legitimate lines.

Clark Moves to East to Direct Exhibitors Mutual

WILLIAM J. CLARK, president of the Exhibitors Mutual Distributing Corporation and vice president of Affiliated Distributors Corporation, has resigned as president of the user of the Sanitary Milk Company, Grand Rapids, and a director of the Grand Rapids Ice and Coal Company and the Commercial Savings Bank of Grand Rapids. He is a Shriner and has filled all the offices of the Masonic order up to Potentate of the Shrine.

U. S. Government War Tax has been paid on this Courtesy.

Mr. Clark plans to move to New York immediately after the first of the new year and establish his home in New York City.

Rothacker Insures Employees.

W. R. Rothacker, president of the Rothacker Manufacturing Company of Chicago, after spending a few days in New York and New Jersey, unloaded his train for “back home” on December 19. His business here consisted chiefly in supervising the work of some industrial films in New Jersey. The Rothacker plant in Chicago is well known as one of the largest and most prosperous movie picture plants in the country, being continually busy with films of either a novel or educational value. His latest series of pictures, known as the “Peaks, Parks and Pines,” was the featured educational number of a recent program of the Rialto Theatre, New York.

Mr. Rothacker, apart from his business interests in the east, was absorbed in a plan of practical benefit for his several hundred employees. In place of the usual gold piece bonus he is presenting each and every one of them with a life insurance policy on which he pays the premium for the period of time which they remain in his employ. These policies range from $500 to $1,800.

Phillips Picture Goes to Broadway.

Jewel Productions, Inc., has announced the opening of the premiere showing of its master picture, “The Heart of Humanity,” at the Broadway Theatre, New York, Sunday, December 22. The film will remain at the theatre indefinitely and will be presented with elaborate musical accompaniment and stage effects, with the aim of making extensive preparations for the showing and expects to boost it with many original advertising stunts.

The premiere will be preceded on Friday, December 20, by a special showing for critics, at which Dorothy Phillips, star of the production, and her husband, Allen Holubar, who created it, will be present.

“America’s Answer” Booking Well.

Although the war is over, it is the experience of exhibitors that there is no lessening of the demand of the public for official war pictures. This is shown in the remarkable record of bookings for “America’s Answer,” the second official United States war picture.

The picture was first shown officially in New York in July, after which official presentations were made in a number of other cities. It was released through the World Film October 11.

Up to the present time “America’s Answer” has played in 1,819 theatres and contracts are made for its exhibition in 3,394 other theatres. Contracts are now being made at the rate of 150 to 200 each week.
RUFFNER SEES NEW YORK AND TALKS

After Tasting the Ocean and Finding It Salt, He Drops In on Associated Advertisers and Relieves Pent-Up Feelings, to the Edification of His Hosts

SUNDAY morning Ralph Ruffner, of the Rialto, Butte, Montana, solemnly stalked across the somewhat soiled sands of Coney Island. Having dipped his hand in the water and tasted it, with intense interest. It was salt. He figured out that at last he had completed his journey from ocean to ocean. Just a week before (allowing for the different time) Ruff had hustled out from between the sheets in the early morning to take from a messenger a telegram from J. Von Herberg, of Jennen and Von Herberg, telling him to meet the boss for a trip to New York. Mr. Von Herberg was coming on business, but Ruffner's transportation had been "For a Good Boy" worked out on it. He is the china mugs that we used to get—well, some time ago.

They came into New York in a baby blizzard Wednesday, December 11, and registered at the Claridge. Then Ruff started out to see New York. Thursday he was invited to attend a meeting of the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers, and Ruffner surely was among those present on the occasion of that luncheon. He had never met most of the press agents who comprise the association, but he had been in correspondence with most of them, and he had much additional to say. He said it—not all of it, but as much as he could think of on such short notice, and about as much as he could get rid of between luncheon and diame.

Meets the Men He Was Looking For.

He was too much in earnest to say polite nothings and let it go at that. For years he has been on the other end of the wire trying to get cuts and stills with which to get his pictures over. Around the table was the man who had sent him one stiggy two-inch hard rubber cut with which to advertise a sensational picture. Another man represented a firm which had no newspaper stills for a picture version of a best seller, and took an encore twice on the same stunt. A third had sent him such a mass of junk for a high priced picture that he put it on the side of the table and did the best he could with what he could get from this paper.

They were all friends of his—more or less—and he had a nice, long chat with them. It's safe to say that the publicity men of the picture business never got so much information about their short-comings in the same brief space of time and it wasn't in the form of a letter they could drop into the waste basket with some comment on the "damned fool exhibitors." This was a personal message that had not improved any with being so long stored up.

Ruffner a Practical Man.

Ruffner is probably the most practical man who ever addressed the somewhat soiled sands of Coney Island. He knows the film game from the 300-seat dump to the high-grade theatres, and how it is done a complete earful, though he regrets the fact that he had not had warning of what was coming that he might have prepared his ideas more carefully and covered the ground more completely. He said plenty as it was, and gave them all food for thought—if they will only think it over.

"As an exhibitor, I know that it is just as important for the producer to have infinitely appealing advertising and publicity campaigns as it is for me to make certain that the productions themselves are up to standard in quality and entertainment value. "Black and white illustrations are the most important of the ad material I use. You fellows present here should insist that you are provided with an adequate number of worthwhile stills on each picture. It means a great deal to the exhibitor. Without advertising copy without illustration is only 50 per cent. productive. I do not use half-tone cuts except in rare instances. They do not reproduce well on newspaper stock, and with the coarse screen necessary they usually result in a blur or black splotch which destroys completely the effect and appearance of the cut. I say this because I am a part of the poster. Line illustrations are much more practicable, and the printed result is infinitely superior.

Posters Can Be Improved Too.

"There is a big opportunity for improvement in posters. I believe that other exhibitors agree with me that a well printed lithograph of the head of the man is worth ten illustrations of two and three person groups, doing nothing in particular that can be related to the title of the production. I have seen many posters that were absolutely worthless to me because their pictorial parts were without subject matter which could be identified as having to do with the action or story implied by the main title of the release.

 nuevos

My local campaign. Instead of having a set of twenty-five or more black and white stills to choose from, I have considered myself lucky if there were ten of them that were worth consideration.

"As an exhibitor, I know that it is just as important for the producer to have infinitely appealing advertising and publicity campaigns as it is for me to make certain that the productions themselves are up to standard in quality and entertainment value. "Black and white illustrations are the most important of the ad material I use. You fellows present here should insist that you are provided with an adequate number of worthwhile stills on each picture. It means a great deal to the exhibitor. Without advertising copy without illustration is only 50 per cent. productive. I do not use half-tone cuts except in rare instances. They do not reproduce well on newspaper stock, and with the coarse screen necessary they usually result in a blur or black splotch which destroys completely the effect and appearance of the cut. I say this because I am a part of the poster. Line illustrations are much more practicable, and the printed result is infinitely superior.

"Posters Can Be Improved Too.

"There is a big opportunity for improvement in posters. I believe that other exhibitors agree with me that a well printed lithograph of the head of the man is worth ten illustrations of two and three person groups, doing nothing in particular that can be related to the title of the production. I have seen many posters that were absolutely worthless to me because their pictorial parts were without subject matter which could be identified as having to do with the action or story implied by the main title of the release.

"Use prepared reviews printed in the press books some of you write are a decided help. Very often the local newspapers will request a review. I am usually very busy, and to write one properly takes time. If I can take the press book, clip out a prepared review and have it copied, I am getting practical service.

"The average story published in the press books for exhibitors to 'clip and hand to the editor' is worthless. There is too much bunk in it. If you can supply but two or three stories for every production, and have each of them contain news about the star or the story, limit yourself to that, because anything more is thrown away.

Take Care of Small Town Man.

"It would be unfair for you to gauge your work entirely by your wants from this meeting. As an exhibitor we are interested in the pictures of Butte we have advertising and publicity facilities that are not available to exhibitors in smaller places. I can buy a postcard of a king, if it is necessary. I can employ ad writers if I am too busy to prepare copy. Let the small town exhibitor predominate in your consideration of exhibitor wants, and in working to equip him thoroughly, you will more than satisfy managers like myself.

Some producers are apparently very vain and egotistical. They have their names plastered all over the posters and prepared ads, and threaded through the publicity stories like strings of scarlet. As an exhibitor I do not try to sell the public in Ruthe the name of a producer. I try, instead, to sell them the star and the story of each picture. And every time I get a prepared ad, a newspaper story, or a lithograph from which I can eliminate the name of the producer I do it. If it is impossible to eliminate it I am very apt not to use it at all.

No Use for Superlatives.

"Trade journal advertising to exhibitors amuses me. It is loaded with superlatives and adjectives. Every production, seemingly, is a wonderful picture, a sure winner at the box office, the biggest of the year, the most stupendous ever made, a riot for action, featuring the screen’s most beautiful woman or pictureland’s greatest male actor. I first look through the advertising sections of a trade paper for announcements of new pictures. I pay no attention to what the producer says about them. I want to know the title, the name of the star, or lead. Then I decide whether it is worth looking at as a prospective booking.

"I always read the editorial pages. They give me the pulse of the industry. Then I turn to the reviews, and if there are any productions in which I am interested for the Rialto, I compare the various criticisms. I look through the projection and music departments to find out whether there is anything new that I can refer to my operators or orchestra. After this I go through the news and text sections, searching for stories about how other exhibitors are handling productions. Quite often I get good ideas from such stories. Sometimes I find a good story sent out by a manufacturer or distributor as publicity, but not very often. It seems to me that this sort of bunk could be dispensed with in favor of things more valuable and interesting. None of it is convincing.

Direct-by-Mail Matter Wasted.

"There is a big item of waste in the tremendous quantities of direct-by-mail matter sent to exhibitors by producers and distributors. My desk is covered with it almost every morning. I used to make an effort to go through it, but there was hardly anything in any of it that had not been covered by a story or an ad in the trade papers or house organs. So now I consign it all to the waste basket without trying to go through it.

"I always pay particular attention to house organs. This is about the only advertising matter I receive in the mail that has any reason or excuse for its existence. You will frequently publish in your respective house organs information about forthcoming productions, perhaps a catch line I can use for advertising purposes, or a short descriptive story of the picture itself.

"One of the most common experiences I have, and one that is always discouraging, is to pore over a press sheet, making memoranda of the numbers of various black and white ad cuts you have prepared for my use, and noting other necessaries I may want, and then writing and mailing to the exchange an order for the material, to get a reply, sometimes only after I have waited a reasonable length of time and then wired a request for an answer, to be told that they do not have it in stock.

Of what use is it for you to work hard in preparing exhibitor campaigns only to have your exchanges fail to put in a stock of the accessories?

"The industry is fast approaching the time when exhibitors will not have a tremendous number of feature productions to work with in the daily and tri-weekly change system. They will have to play their bookings to longer runs. And that means that they will be obliged to intensify their ability as showmen and do better advertising and publicity work in their respective localities. When that time comes you gentlemen will find that the exhibitors will be much more dependent upon you for assistance, and that the demand for practical, beneficial advertising and publicity helps will be much greater."

Comments Favorably on Theatres Here.

Mr. Ruffner did not visit many theatres, for he was too busy, but he did manage to make most of the leaders, and his comment was generally favorable. "We have as large orchestras as you have on here," he said, "but the houses are about the same, though I think the western houses lay more stress upon real courtesy to the patron. We try to make them feel at home with small acts of service. For example, in one house I visited, six ushers watched me struggle into my overcoat with polite interest. Out west one of them would have helped me into it, as there were no incoming patrons at the time. In these little things I believe that the western houses are ahead. I was surprised to note the small spaces taken in the daily papers. Where we have but two or three in a town and with liberal space rates, we use large spaces. I can understand that here with prices so large and so many papers to be used there is not the same opportunity for effective newspaper work but it looks strange to the westerner."

Lights on Broadway Appeal.

"The electric signs are wonderful. I don't mean just the theatrical signs, but the announcements generally. It is a treat to walk up and down Broadway at night. I'm glad that I did not hit town while the Fuel Administration was on the job. I should have lost half my visit."

That's about all Ruff had to say, for publication or otherwise, and Mr. Von Herberg was even less communicative, contending himself with remarking that chaperoning Ruff was like taking a small boy to the circus. That just about describes it. Ruff was hardly interested in everything he saw or did, and he saw and did much. Most everything he saw he had already seen in the pictures, for the news weeklies have made New York more familiar to the out of town patron than to the resident New Yorker, but he was glad to see the real thing of the palaced places, and the press agents were not actuated by a sense of policy in their eagerness to enthrall him, for Ruffner is a very genuine sort of chap, clean-cut, likable, modest and with none of the breeziness that marks his advertising. He is real folks, and both he and his many hosts enjoyed every moment of his stay.

October Admission Tax $4,443,265.10.

Taxes collected on admissions to theatres, etc., during the month of October, under the war revenue act, totaled $4,443,265.10, according to a report just made by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. This brings the collections from this item for the four months from July to October, inclusive, to $15,309,359.54, which is exceeded by only two other taxes collected under this bill—those on freight and personal transportation.

"Must Sell," "Wanted to Rent," "Will Buy Theatre."—these are only a few of the business opportunities The World's Classified brings to light.
To the MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY—GREETINGS

At the end of a year of many difficulties overcome and problems solved; of many hopes deferred and disappointments manfully endured, may the joys of Christmastide restore your faith and confidence and renew your determination to enter upon the ventures of a New Year with that spirit of optimism which begets success.

To this end we bespeak for you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

The Moving Picture World
To the Motion Picture Industry the passing year "Nineteen-Eighteen" has been a strenuous one. Deep in the world war much of our country's resources and energy, together with nearly four millions of its men and women—don't forget the women—were directly engaged in war and contributing activities. To this great force striving for the Freedom of the World our industry contributed its rightful share in man and money power. In addition to this and backing up, sustaining the high morale, as it were, of these great forces of democracy our industry contributed vastly of its product and services to the common cause of the World's freedom so violently assailed by the bloodthirsty and treacherous Hun.

But Victory was for the Right. Our reward is Peace for the whole World and the privilege of returning to our vocations without fear of the invader. A new year opens before us and with it the markets of the World eager to receive our product and to extend to us the fellowship to which our valor has entitled us.

Shall we not, then, enter upon this new year, "Nineteen-Nineteen," with a broader vision, a World market for the products of our studios and factories? Is it not a great incentive to better effort and better work?

Then let us go to this new task, remembering always the supreme sacrifice that has been made by many of our fellows who died that we might enjoy that Peace and Liberty which they gave their lives to protect.
Just to Prove Exchangeman Wrong, Virginia Exhibitor Spends $225 for Two-Day Showing of Feature and $106 for Advertising—Counts Up Profit of $477

Illustrated by Brinkerhoff

SAY, don't these trade paper editorials about spending good money to advertise pictures make you sick?

"If some of those fellows up in New York who write that stuff could come down here to Hopewell, with its twelve thousand people and live theatres, and try out their tell-the-exhibitor-how-to-do-it' stuff, they'd quit shouting that tune about not knowing how to do things."

"Yes," answered Mr. Corhan, manager of the American Theatre, of Hopewell, Virginia, "the exchanges are demanding so darned much money in rentals that we can't make a decent profit. We pay a big price, and if the weather is good and there is no carnival or circus in town and our opposition hasn't got a bigger attraction, we do a little better than break even. The exchanges and producers get it all. Last week I played 'Hearts of the World,' and would have done a good business, only it rained. So bang went my profits of the week before."

K. C. Corhan was militant. And the exhibitor with whom he was talking was just as upset, but Corhan doesn't want the other fellow named.

"He's a sick man now," he explained. "Since I lost my mind and spent $106 advertising 'The Romance of Tarzan' and made $480 profit in two days, after paying the First National in Richmond $25 for the picture, he doesn't speak to me."

Mr. Corhan does not excuse his own previous attitude toward intensive exhibitor advertising and publicity for pictures.

Sometimes He Gets Investment Back.

"I figured, too," he condemns himself, "that by the time I had paid $100 a day for a two days' run on a feature, and added enough more to cover my posters, slides and a newspaper announcement, with perhaps a thousand heralds, I had spent about all I could afford. Sometimes I got my investment back. On as many other occasions I lost money. I found that the specials I ran gave me just enough profit, on an average, to make up what I lost on some of the regular program features, with just enough left over at the end of the week to serve as a bare excuse to go to the bank."

Recently Corhan got mad. He was going to quit the business. He went home one night after the show and threw himself disgustedly into a chair.

"Gee whiz," he complained to his wife, who had taken a quick peek into a bedroom to be sure that a little dark-haired son-of-his-father had not been awakened by the door slammed noisily as her husband stormed in, "this picture game is bleeding me to a standstill. I can't make any money. The profit this week won't be $100. Look at to-day's receipts. They're not quite $170. And I'm paying $100 a day for this special. By the time I charge off my rent, light, salaries to the operators and ushers, the supply bill from the exchange and my own regular salary, I'll have as much as $13 left. And the salesman told me it was a whale of a production that has played to tremendous business in this territory."

"Didn't the people like it?" queried his wife.

"Sure; they applauded like the dickens. But I tell you, on these specials I've got to get more patronage. Two full houses lets me out on the day, but if I am to have any profit I've got to fill it three times or more. And none of the pictures will draw that big here."

"But why?"

"Maybe it's because this is a town show. I'm sick of this working and worrying and trying for practically nothing but a living."

"Won't you make up with one of the two program features you have booked for the latter part of the week at $75 a day?" She was searching for a ray of optimistic there.

"No. The opposition has a big special booked for Friday and Saturday. He'll get all of the extras and many of my regulars. I can't afford to shelf one of my contract pictures and book another special. I'll only play him even money, and be out my regular rental. I'll lose as it is, but not as much as if I tried to compete with a special."

Enter James Anderson.

There was a knock at the door. Mrs. Corhan returned in a moment to announce Lieutenant James Anderson, manager of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit Exchange of Richmond. If anything Anderson is persistent and to the point.

"What have you booked for two weeks from Monday and Tuesday?" he began as an introduction.

"Nothing yet," Corhan responded, firmly determined to tell Anderson what he thought about exchanges generally.

"All right. I'm going to give you 'The Romance of Tarzan.' You played 'Tarzan of the Apes' and did a good business. You would have done twice as much had you advertised."

There you go," snapped Corhan, blaming the fact that I didn't make more than a nominal profit on to my lack of advertising. Didn't I spend $25 in newspapers and heralds? You've always got some excuse when a picture doesn't do all you claim for it. What do you want for 'The Romance of Tarzan'? About $150 for two days, I suppose?"

"Don't suppose anything. You're wrong before you start," Anderson retorted. He knew more about Corhan than Corhan suspected, and he had come to Hopewell to prove a belief he had about this particular exhibitor. "You're going to book that picture at $112 a day for two days, and spend at least $50 in advertising. You'll get your money back.

"Say, I haven't made enough on a special in the last two months to pay me $224 for two days. When you add $50 for advertising? No. Good night."

"That $224 doesn't sound good Corhan, because what it really means is $225. Never mind the contract to-night. We'll fix that up in the morning. Goodbye."

Corhan did a lot of thinking between that Friday night and the next day. He rented Anderson called at the American Theatre and found a different exhibitor from the one he had called on the night before. He called on that exhibitor going to do, "Anderson," Corhan began. "I'm going to book that Tarzan sequel and borrow money, if I have to, to advertise it. I'll either prove you are wrong or that I am."

"Fine," the exchangeman rejoined. Corhan went to work the next week to prove that there was no loss in the subject of exhibitor advertising—so strongly urged in the Moving Picture World. He was going to satisfy himself, first, by attempting to prove that any exhibitor should stand on its own merits, and that people would come to see it if he had some paper in his lobby and also the one on the lobby doors. But to be fair, he was going to resort to the opposite extreme—wanton extravagance—to convince himself. He ordered three big banners, to be painted by a local artist. He had the Richmond exchange send him a press sheet and music cue. He set to work and worked from the copy suggested in the press sheet. He ordered newspaper ads and publicity cuts until his pen ran dry. He bought enough posters to repaper the interior of the house. He took the leader of his orchestra into consultation, and they arranged an amplification of the prepared music cue, and hurried around and bought what music they needed.

Makes Ten-Reel Assault on Lobby.

Then he turned loose his native talents as a window trimmer, with a genius for arrangements which appeal to the eye and then to the reason, and made a ten-reel assault on his lobby. At the center and rear of the lobby he built an artificial cave. Ferns, palms and tree branches were artistically arranged. Inside the imitation stone entrance to the cave he placed the cutouts figures of Tarzan and the white girl, taken from one of the three-sheets. Above this, and reaching from one side of the lobby to the other, he stretched a specially painted lightweight canvas, picturing a tropical scene, lighted by a light fixture and with a suggestion of horizon and tropical trees at each side. Behind this he placed colored lights, so that the effect at night was amazingly realistic. To all of this he added the regulation lobby display cards and stock one-sheets, in their respective frames. On both of these large banners swung across the street in front of the theatre. The two others were displayed across other thoroughfares, in advantageous parts of the business district.

One of his competitors met him on the Saturday preceding the Monday he opened with "The Romance of Tarzan" and asked what the popularity of the picture was. He was asked, "I saw a big ad you ran in last night's paper. Bet it cost you $25. What? You've got another scheduled for tonight? Well, we'll be glad to get your patronage after you close. Or has one of the local banks decided to spend its surplus on the American? Gee, man, where's your good common sense? What good are those banners going to do you? Everybody in town knows where the American Theatre is. That sort of stuff won't get you any business.

Another competitor called on him at the theatre that night.

Even Competitor Expresses Concern.

"Listen, Corhan," he said, "I'm a competitor, and we've fought each other good and hard, many times. But you've always been on the level. I don't want someone else who might be a tough guy to get the American. Don't pull all this foolish stuff. The rest of us don't do it, and we're getting by and making a little money. You've not done so badly. What's the use of throwing away all this good coin just because trade paper men, press agents and exchange managers tell you you can't make a picture pay unless you spend a lot of dough advertising. That's all bunk and hokum. It's their excuse for a picture when it doesn't go. You'll go broke, sure, if you keep this up."

Corhan walked the business section of Hopewell on Sunday afternoon, studied his banners, referred occasionally to his second big ad in a copy of Saturday's paper he carried in his pocket, and stood off at several different angles to view the lobby which was to be trimmed that night.

Proposes to Learn Value of Advertising.

At midnight he went home. With the exception of one more ad, which was to appear on Monday at a cost of $15, he had invested in "The Romance of Tarzan" $225 for the rental of it, and $90 in promotion material, including his lobby trim. By noon on Monday, adding the $15 for the ad, he would be in just $331, not including the fixed charges for operating the theatre.

"Well," he told his wife, "either I'll be out a lot of money by Tuesday or I will have made a lot. The boost I'm giving this picture is going to pay big or not at all. And he who comes out with hokum, gets the opposition from two of the other houses. We'll find out exactly what advertising is worth to a picture. If it doesn't win for me, I'm going to let me get the blues before my excuse for them is established.

Corhan went down to the theatre early on Monday morning and completed the work of arranging his lobby display. Then he went uptown on business, and by the time he returned to the theatre, which he had to open at 11 o'clock, he saw, from a block distant, a big crowd around the front. Sensing something wrong—Hope- well used to have a small sized vendor, he ran the remaining distance, pushing his way through the crowd, expecting to see a body lying in the lobby, or something, and he didn't know just what. But the crowd was looking at the imitation cave, at the sky effect above it, and at the lobby posts and publicising.

"We're Packing 'Em In," Says Corhan.

"There must be something wrong with the opposition," Corhan told his assistant shortly after the night shows started. "We're packing them in."

Outside the crowds were still surging around the box office, gazing wide-eyed at the really beautiful effect given the lobby display when it was lighted. And they kept buying at 25, 35 cents, until the 600 seats were filled, not once, but twice, and then three times.

"What happened?" asked his wife when he reached home just before midnight.

"Almost $380 worth," he answered. "And say, you should have heard the comments on that lobby display of mine. It's a knockout. We played to capacity all afternoon and evening. The last show tonight fell a little short. I've cleared enough to pay $225 for the film, $106 for advertising, and my fixed expenses for the day. Tomorrow, anything I do over $75 I'll call profit." Here his old opinions flopped back in self-defense. "But probably everybody wants to see it come tonight," he added.

There was another crowd around the lobby at the starting hour on Tuesday. And it did diminish appreciably throughout the day. By noon on Thursday Corhan checked up his receipts for the day shortly before 11 o'clock in the evening, and found that the American Theatre had beaten Monday's gross by about $48. His total for Tuesday was $428.

Takes in $808 in Two Days.

"I took in $808 in two days," he said. "That $808 in film and advertising cost $331. That left me for advertising. During the balance of the week my receipts on the program releases were enough to more than pay the week's overheads. When I changed the bill the next day, the people patronized the American in greater numbers than had been usual before for a Wednesday night."

"The whole thing, thinking. Then he continued: "There's psychology in a picture properly advertised. Get them started, and the momentum keeps up for a couple of days afterward. I am going to play a repeat on "The Romance of Tarzan," for two days more, with much of the same lobby display and general advertising.

"What did your competitors say to you after you had finished the two days on the Tarzan film?" he was asked.

"Nothing. I'm satisfied now that advertising, properly done, and in a sufficiently big way to command real attention, is a mighty good investment for any exhibitor. And I've come all the way to New York to tell you about it. You know, a profit of $477 for two days in a six hundred seat house is something for any exhibitor to think about. I'll do it often now, because I think I know the combination that will keep unlocked for me the mysteries of profitable advertising and publicity."

HOW FOX HELPS WITH HIS "BULLETIN"

Editor McCarthy Has Issued a December Number Filled with Attractive Propaganda

The publicity department of the Fox Film Corporation makes a specialty of its Exhibitors' Bulletin, issued monthly as an aid to exploiting, at retail, the Fox productions. The December issue is typical of those gone before, showing an improvement over its predecessors as has each previous issue.

Charles E. McCarthy is editor of the Fox Bulletin and he has done a particularly good job in turning out the December issue. His "editorial" utterance, starting twenty-six pages of lively text and pictures, gives encouragement to the exhibitor who really wants to take advantage of the armistice. He dedicates his helpfulness "To an Exhibitor at the Dawn of Peace." In these expressions Editor McCarthy extends no end of encouragement.

Cuts and text referring to particularly successful exhibitors of Fox films occupy the early pages of the Bulletin, references to Edgar E. Duncan, manager of the Colonial, Lincoln, Neb.; John Barncord, manager of the Lamar Theatre, Phoenix, and the Opera House, Winslow, Ariz.; S. L. Baxter, manager of the New Isis Theatre, Denver, and L. M. Boas, manager for Marcus Loew of three houses in Fall River, Mass., are "among those present."

"Ye Village Post Office" is the heading of a page of lively patter, fit for programs or newspapers; and "Cut-Backs and Close-Ups," along with "Long Shots of Film Folks" are two more pages devoted to news of Fox features done in snappy paragraphs. Editor McCarthy weakens his case (in this opinion) by an imitation of K. C. B. in praise of Robert Pelzer, manager of the Bijou, Mt. Clemens, Mich.—we are getting "fed up" with space killing chatter in imitation of said K. C. B.

"What the Other Fellow Is Doing" is a "stunt" page telling how certain exhibitors have exploited Fox pictures to money-making advantage. "Says His Pocketbook to Your Pocketbook" is a collection of expressions from showmen who have had experience with the Fox brand, and then follow pages devoted to various products of the Fox loom due for immediate distribution.

To finish off the work there is a list of Fox attractions, Fox exchanges and Fox special features in classified form, and last and prettiest—a cut of Louise Lovely, who looks all her name implies. The exhibitor who comes into possession of Fox's Bulletin is going to find some real helps to picture exploitation, ready prepared to the advantage of his box-office.

HILL

Harry Carr, Sennett Booster, in Town.

Harry Carr, head of the publicity department of the Mack Sennett Studios at Los Angeles, and Sunday editor of the Los Angeles Times, arrived in New York on Monday, December 16, on a special mission for the Sennett interests. If things break right Mr. Carr may have an interesting story to relate.
EXHIBITORS HOLD OLD-TIME BEEFSTEAK

Members of Manhattan Local and Guests Enjoy Gel-Together—Schaefer for 100 Per Cent. Body

It looked auspicious to see so large an attendance so representative of the several branches of the motion picture industry at the beefsteak dinner given at Healey's on Wednesday evening, December 11, by the exhibitors of Manhattan local. It seemed like a revival of old-time interest and a general disposition to get together. Ike Hartstall, William Blumenstein and Billy Hart, who comprised the entertainment committee, deserve credit for the conduct of the affair. John Manheimer, president of the New York league, acted as toastmaster. Peter J. Schaefer, the national president of the exhibitors' association, was the first speaker. He reiterated that he would put his energies and determination into play to reorganize a 100 per cent. exhibitors' organization that would be representative of the exhibitors of the United States.

Sydney S. Cohen, president of the State league, gave an outline of the activities of the State organization in preparing for legislation to be introduced in New York legislature as affecting the exhibitors. Everything is safeguarded and provided for.

Sam Trigger said he was about to return to the exhibitors' fold and lend his attention to their interests. He had been inactive for the past year on account of his two sons being with the army, but now that they had returned he would again take up where he had left off.

Alfred S. Black, of Maine, spoke of his interest in national legislation and said he and Pete Schaefer would go to Washington that night in an effort to secure a modification of taxation.

S. J. Kaufman, of the New York Globe, caused some stir in his remarks by saying he believed too many pretty boys and ingenues were being exploited by directors. Most stories pictured a couple of silly idiots in the travails of love. There were few big ideals for the picturization of truth and mention of several present day and other subjects that would make us realize truth and would work for the betterment of mankind.

Other speakers were Rudolph Sanders, P. A. Powers, Harry Reichenbach, W. L. Sherrill and L. E. Chadwick.

A good time was had by all.

Buckland Returns with Fresh Ideas.

After several weeks spent in the eastern metropolis, Wilfred Buckland, art director, Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, has returned to Hollywood, with new enthusiasm and new ideas.

As art director Mr. Buckland has upon his shoulders the responsibility of arranging the plans for innumerable artistic settings. He has been on the coast for a number of years, however, and felt the necessity of getting into closer touch with the progressive methods of the big city.

"The importance of perfect investiture is clearly becoming more apparent, and in fact it may be said that it is imperative that the setting for pictures shall be absolutely in accord with the most modern ideas of art and beauty as well as utility," said Mr. Buckland.

Herbert Brenon Back from England.

Herbert Brenon, who has been in England for the past eight months, has returned to America. Mr. Brenon left this country in response to a call from the English Government to make a British propaganda picture. Under the auspices of the Minister of Information, Lord Beaverbrook, Mr. Brenon has been engaged on its production ever since. He is in the best of health and spirits.

Mr. Brenon did not bring his production with him, but expects it will be shown in London within the next few weeks.

Old Time Beefsteak Dinner by Exhibitors of Manhattan Local at Healey's, December 11, 1918.
SUNDAY closing for motion picture theatres is breaking out strongly in various sections of the country where the spirit of the law prevails. Ministerial associations are meeting and adopting resolutions requesting city authorities to close the theatres. Bills are being introduced in both houses of the legislature at forthcoming sessions of state legislatures, so that there is promise of lively times for exhibitors.

Jersey exhibitors have been holding meetings preparatory to offering a bill in their state legislature asking relief, and the exhibitors of Ohio have shown considerable activity along similar lines.

Ohio exhibitors, in particular, are awakening to the prospects of Sunday shows being eliminated, while in Boston the ministers have been holding meetings preparatory to offering bills in the legislature to close the theatres.

Dayton Exhibitors Meet to Discuss Sunday Closing

HARRY W. Kress, campaign manager for the Ohio State Screen League, with offices in Piqua, sent out notices from his office on December 7 that the meeting of the Dayton exhibitors would be called Friday, December 13, to arrange to get together in order that a united stand could be taken by the theatre men against the Sunday censorship law that is in effect in Ohio.

A good representation was present at the meeting and the room of the Miami Valley Exhitioners' League, which was called to order by Gus Muller, manager of the Select Exchange at Cincinnati, who has organized a temporary league of representative theatre operators.

Mr. Kress said that Piqua, Ohio, his own town, was now closed and that he controls three theatres there, including one legitimate house. Mr. Kress had devoted a lot of his time to the theatre business and was instrumental in organizing the league. The other officers of the league are H. H. Lustig, of Cleveland, president; Fred Desberg, Cleveland, secretary and treasurer.

Gus Sun of Springfield, Ohio, who was in attendance at Dayton and who controls about three legitimate theatres throughout the state, mostly vaudeville, expressed the desire to cooperate with the picture interests and consented to leaving Sunday shows out of the agreements.

A committee of five was appointed to act in the localities where the theatre is in the fight to put over a law that would set things right.

Jersey Men Take Action to Further Sunday Opening

A MEETING of the New Jersey Exhibitors' League was held at 1758 North Market Street, Thursday, December 12. Dr. Charles Hespe, the president, was in the chair. The subject of discussion was the method of procedure necessary to accomplish legislation for a local option bill for Sunday opening in the New Jersey legislature this winter.

Sunday opening is a moot question in Jersey. It is largely indorsed in cities of the first and second class, but in residential and rural communities it is an open and divided question. A committee of six was appointed with power to act in formulating a plan whereby the desired result might be accomplished. The members of the committee are James J. Lyons of Morristown; Charles L. Dooley of Patterson, Louis Rosenthal of Passaic; J. S. Stearn of Newark; George Jacobs of Newark, and Dr. Hespe of Jersey City.

Among those present were Peter J. Schaefer, Charles Hespe, Harry K. Hackett, Passaic; Joe Stearn, Newark; David Keizersten, Bayonne; George P. Williamson, Jersey City; Louis J. Ruck, Dumont; William O. Masche, Ridgefield Park; James J. Lyons, Morristown; F. C. Closs, Long Branch; H. S. Jans, Newark; B. L. Shafer, New Brunswick; Sig. Maros, Newark; B. W. Suydans, New Brunswick; Walter M. Hoffman, Orange; D. Shepherd, Orange; U. Cadugan, Jersey City; Barnett Albin, Madison; Michaelson & Baer, North Bergen; Aaron Shintleman, New Brunswick; George Gold, Paterson; S. M. Aughinsbough, Jersey City; F. A. Adams, Fleishman, Newark; Louis Rosenthal, Passaic; Edmund A. Thomaser, Rutherford and Co.; L. F. Blumenthal, Jersey City; H. F. Lane, Jersey City; Martin Singeo, Newark; F. C. Closs, Long Branch; Charles L. Dooley, Paterson; George Jacobs, Newark; Alfred Black, Maine.

Sunday Closing Wanted by Indianapolis Ministers

A COMMITTEE of Indianapolis ministers, representing the Indianapolis Ministerial Association, which recently organized to close the motion picture theatres and other places of amusement on Sundays, conferred recently with Mayor Charles W. Jewett in regard to the situation, but received very little satisfaction.

Mayor Jewett said he told the committee that he would make no announcement concerning the matter until after he has conferred with the motion picture men. The ministers' committee presented a set of resolutions to the motion picture men, and the fact that they begin an immediate enforcement of the Sunday closing laws.

It is understood that some of the ministers present at the meeting were not in sympathy with the resolutions, a number of them contending that the legal way is not the proper way to handle the situation. Some of them said that before the ministers try to keep the people away from Sunday shows they should prevail on some of the members of their own organization to remain away from such places.

In the belief of the motion picture interests that Mayor Jewett will not accede to the ministers' demands.

Sunday Closing Agitation Is Spreading

Following closely on the heels of the action taken by the members of the Indianapolis Ministerial Association, in their proposed fight against the operation of motion picture shows and other forms of amusement on Sundays, ministers in other cities have announced that they, too, will endeavor to see that the motion picture theatres there remain closed on the Sabbath.

The ministers in Dayton, however, have not only opposed the motion picture interests, but have adopted the same resolutions passed by the Indianapolis association, and are going to proceed in an effort to get busy and enforce the statutes governing Sunday amusements.

The ministers in Dayton, however, have not only opposed the motion picture interests, but have adopted the same resolutions passed by the Indianapolis association, and are going to proceed in an effort to get busy and enforce the statutes governing Sunday amusements.

Protest Sunday Concerts at Dorchester's Strand

THE mayor of Boston, Andrew J. Peters, has under consideration the protest of churches in the vicinity of Upham's Corner, Dorchester, a high-class residential section of the Hub, against Sunday night concerts being run at the new $1,000,000 Upham's Corner Strand Theatre, operated by the Nation's Gordon Interests.

A lively hearing took place in the City Council Chamber when representatives from the churches appeared in opposition to the projected Sunday night concerts. No protest was made against the weekly shows, which were highly praised. The basis of the protest was upon the fact that the theatre drew largely from the regular attendants of the churches.

The Rev. Edward E. Gaylord of Pilgrim Congregational Church handled the case for the protestants. Four churches are within a short radius of the theatre, Dr. Gaylord said, and it tends to attract the younger people, who are particularly away from the church services.

Manager J. J. McGinness of the theatre told the council that the Church did not object to the Sunday night concerts and he didn't see why others should.
KANSAS CITY HAS NEW ORGANIZATION
Association Comprised of Representatives of the Picture Industry and Speaking Stage Launched

The new organization of amusement enterprises in Kansas City was formally launched December 3. It will include speaking stage enterprises, picture industry, moving picture—exchange and exhibitor—and supply representation, and probably will follow somewhat the lines of the Chicago association.

J. E. Storey, manager of the Pathe Exchange at Kansas City, was chosen president; Mr. Robertson, formerly of the Warwick Theatre, vice-president; and George W. Curtis, proprietor of the Doric, treasurer. Mr. Storey has a wide acquaintance among Kansas City business men, both socially and in business organizations, and he is setting up high and sternly practical ideals for the operation of the association. Mr. Werner is operating one of the best of the suburban moving picture shows. Mr. Curtis has lived most of his life in Kansas City, and knows the town thoroughly and he is full of energy and fight. Mr. Curtis got busy at the organization meeting, securing the five dollars initiation that is one of thirty-seven first members, from all branches of the amusement industry.

To Aid Each Branch of the Industry.

“We will steer clear of petty quarrels, personal matters and subjects that concern only the minor details of single constituent branches of the industry,” said Mr. Storey. “The organization must stand right, with strong purpose, a desire and a willingness to do big things, to co-operate right down the line. And that’s the way we are starting—we hope that we can get real help to each branch of the industry in its own problems, each getting the backing of the entire organization when such backing is necessary, and also the occasional meetings and the constructive work we can do in the industry for the town will enhance the standing of each factor in our association, not only among business men, but before the public—and among ourselves. We will be to the amusement center of the city, the Chamber of Commerce usually is to all business in a community—the central body having representation from all, with departmental branches which have their own problems, assisted by the facilities of the Chamber, and helped by the Chamber’s force and large membership in putting over projects of particular interest to any one.”

Advantages of New Body.

Richard Robertson, Goldwyn manager at Kansas City, mentioned at the organization meeting, the advantages of being strengthened, and the advantage to be gained by the new association.

“First,” said Mr. Robertson, “there will be help in representing always on the job looking out for our interests, appearing in public and before officials, backed by the strength of the entire organization.”

“Second—and this appeals to me as if tremendous importance to the entire industry—we can, with such an organization, contact all the representatives of the world’s fifth largest industry. We will have distinguished speakers at our meetings, whose views would be of interest to the public. We will have local ministers and business men, talk to us and bring to us the contact with other phases of business and education life. Our organization will soon become as much of an institution as the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchant’s Association, the Real Estate Board, and the other groups, whose meetings are matters of public interest, and whose officers are looked to for comments on matters of public concern regarding which their industries or organizations have special facilities for information or advice. We can become the real factor in the city’s life that we should be. Perhaps I should say that we will be recognized as the factors our industry puts us in position to be. There is a wonderful future of service, aside from the purveying of pictures and of theatrical entertainment, before the amusement industry, through this organization.”

William Farnum Signs Long Time Fox Contract

MAKING him what is claimed to be the highest-salaried male star in the motion picture magazine, William Farnum has signed a contract for a period of years with William Fox. Following the execution of the agreement William Fox issued a statement in which he said:

“This announcement will set at rest all rumors being circulated throughout the country that William Farnum intended leaving Fox Film Corporation. It is true that he was approached by nearly every producing organization in the field, but he decided to renew his old associations.

“William Farnum’s salary is only commensurate with his wonderful popularity and drawing power at the box office. This new contract places William Farnum in a class by himself, a fact which makes him the highest paid male dramatic artist in the picture world today.”

Plans are said to be already under way for several big special attractions featuring Farnum. The Fox organization is negotiating with a number of America’s foremost authors for books and stories which will have dramatic power and will afford a magnitude of production commensurate with Mr. Farnum’s abilities. These stories will be announced as they are secured. So much is stated, and will be an indication of the importance of the productions in which Mr. Farnum will appear during the coming year.

Mr. Farnum will continue to be a star in the William Fox Standard Picture Magazine, as it has been under Fox’s policy that the best stars and the best stories be released under this brand.

Signings of the new contract comes at the close of the most successful year in Mr. Farnum’s career. "Les Misérables," "True Blue," "Riders of the Purple Sage" and "The Maltese Falcon" were all Farnum releases this fall, have scored tremendous successes.

Coming Farnum releases, "For Freedom," and "The Man Hunter," will be released within the next few weeks.

Hollywood Directs Arden Subject.

Edwin L. Hollywood’s introduction to the moving picture was as an actor with Vitagraph Co., was such that time a director with the same company. Hollywood and Young were friends from the days when Young starred in "Broncho Bill" and Hollywood was a lesser member of the cast. Pretty soon young Hollywood became Young’s right hand man in the direction of Vitag-"h pictures, which lay at that studio in Flatbush, Hollywood accompanied Young to World. When Young went to California, the other went along.

For two years at the Lasky Western studio Hollywood was associated with Young. Hollywood is a director and independently several subjects. His latest picture is "The Challenge Accepted," starring Zena Keefe. It is a production for the Phono Film Co., of which Mr. Hollywood is a partner, and is being distributed by the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation through the exchanges of Pathe.

Changes in Famous Players Forces.

S. R. Kent, formerly associated with Hiram Adrams in the administrative business at the home offices of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, is now recently branch manager at Kansas City, has been made special representative to exchange.

Fred C. Creswell, formerly sales manager at the Chicago office, also becomes special representative to exchanges.

W. R. Scates, who before becoming associated with the Famous Players, was manager for General Film at St. Louis and Milwaukee and handled "The Crisis" in mid Western territory and has recently been dividing the responsibilities of the Chicago branch with Mr. Creswell, now assumes full charge of the office.

Austin to Play with Chaplin.

Albert Austin, who appeared with Charlie Chaplin as a member of the Fred Karno company during its tour of England and France and later under contract by the comedian to play leads in future First National releases, and to assist him in production. Mr. Austin left the vaudeville stage for motion pictures when Mr. Chaplin was producing for Mutual Film Corporation, and has continued to work with that studio, as he was signed with First National Exhibitors’ Circuit.
SCOURGE REVIVING IN MANY STATES

Recurrance of Influenza Epidemic Reported From Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Virginia, the Carolinas and Other Sections—Ban Restored in Many Cities

A ccording to reports received by the Moving Picture World from correspondents in the affected states, the recent epidemic of influenza has made a great many of the theatres in the principal cities of the states, and the reports of the closing of a number of them have already been received. The reports from Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, and the Carolinas, and from other sections, indicate that the epidemic is reviving, and that the ban on the exhibition of films is being reimposed. This is due to the fact that the malady has broken out afresh in a number of states. There is a decided recurrence of the plague in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, and the Carolinas, and also in Michigan, in the Northwest, and in a number of the southern states. Many of the cities in Arkansas and Oklahoma are closing again, and the first big city to close for the second time in Texas is San Antonio. Portland, Ore., which has been open for but three weeks, is in danger of having the ban restored.

Washington City exhibitors are again threatened with a ban on shows, and theatres in many of the cities of the Carolinas and Virginia, where the malady on its second visitation is assuming rather alarming proportions, are again in the throes of second closing.

In some Ohio and Kentucky cities a return of the epidemic is not so serious as is a prohibition directed against the attendance of crowds at theatres. The closing ban again has been placed on all of the towns of Montana. Michigan is experiencing so severe a return of the epidemic that the authorities have threatened several times to impose a second quarantine.

In Iowa and in the San Francisco territory conditions are improving, while in Salt Lake City, where theatres have been dark for nearly nine weeks, the influenza quarantine was removed.

Reports Show the South in Throes of a Recurrence

T hat the South is in the throes of a recurrence of the influenza epidemic is evidenced by last minute reports coming in from the states of North and South Carolina and Virginia. Many towns in this territory have again been closed and health authorities are daily expected to close many others of the principal towns in the three states named. Theatres are said to be just emerging from the crisis brought on by the former closed period and business just assuming normal proportions, and the prospect of another closing order, especially through the holiday period, is indeed alarming and may cause financial embarrassment to the management of many of the theatres in that territory. A review of the towns reported as already closed reveals, however, the fact that those towns were hit less heavily by the former epidemic, suffering only short shutdowns, and in the cities where the former plague visited more heavily, no recurrence is yet in evidence.

Condensed reports from the Southern territory gathered by the Moving Picture World correspondent, Dr. W. C. Church, W. S. Stiles, in charge of United States Public Health work with supervision over the entire state during the recent influenza epidemic has called a meeting of the leading health forces and his official staff to meet at once for a review of the conditions and to determine the sequence of the epidemic in many of the principal cities of the state. Reports of the closing of a number of towns have already been received from exhibitors and Dr. Stiles is of the opinion that a serious visitation of the plague again is possible over the entire State since the percentage of cases before was small in congested districts in proportion to the total population, and it is assumed that very few individuals are immune from the disease.

Expect Closing Daily.

Locally the situation is again assuming alarming proportions and an order closing all places of public gathering is expected to be placed by Board of Health. It has issued a circular for posting throughout the State which is playing havoc with theatre attendance where it has been circulated, and has given special emphasis upon motion picture theatres as spreaders of influenza, and which has brought about a protest from various managers who feel that it is working an injustice upon their business.

Wilson Closes Again.

Wilson, N. C.—Theatres, churches, and all places of public assembly were closed by order of the health authorities on December 10 following the discovery of a recurrence of the influenza epidemic which caused a former closed period of three weeks in October. Opening will not likely occur before the middle of January.

McKenny Mount, N. C.—All theatres, churches, etc., were closed here on December 12 following a survey of the influenza, has at last developed a good percentage. Fifty new cases have been discovered within the past forty-eight hours.

Asheville, N. C.—This city, which escaped lightly in the first epidemic of influenza, has at last developed a good epidemic and authorities claim that it will be necessary to close theatres, churches, etc., unless the next few days show a rapid improvement in the visitation. Theatre managers are expecting hourly a closing order.

Charlotte, N. C.—Another visitation of the dreaded influenza plague has been experienced here and while no action toward closing the theatres has yet been taken, with the health department, the threat of closing the buildings is very real, and many of the managers fear that the houses may be closed for several days.

Several Towns Closed.

Columbus, S. C.—Spanish influenza is again assuming alarming proportions throughout the state, and several of the principal towns have been closed. Columbus has not yet noticed a recurrence of the malady and it is not likely that statewide action will be taken by the health authorities as was done previously. However, reports coming in to state headquarters are that at least several towns, including Florence, Spartanburg and Greenvile, have been closed by the local authorities and will likely not reopen before the middle of January if at that time.

Roanoke, Va.—All motion picture and other theatres were closed here on December 15 due to the severe condition of Spanish influenza in large numbers of cases. It is reported that Norfolk and Petersburg are also on the verge of closing again.

Majority of Theatres Shut in Kansas City District

M ore than 75 per cent of the moving picture theatres are closed in Kansas City territory. For every show that opens—there is one does occasionally open in a town where the epidemic recedes—a dozen are closed. There is a possibility that many of these theatres will not reopen until after the holidays. It will be several weeks before any general reopening takes place.

Conditions affecting moving picture exhibitors are almost as bad as when the epidemic was at its worst several weeks ago. At that time practically all of the theatres were closed—including the theatres in the larger cities. The bans were removed from many towns. The reopening in November in Kansas City assisted largely in raising the total of running houses at that time to about 60 per cent of the theatres of the territory. But since the first of December the closing orders have fallen thick and fast in Central and Western Kansas, and in Western Missouri.

In some of the larger towns where theatres are allowed to run the restrictions are so onerous that the exhibitors might as well shut up shop—and many of them are closing. For instance, in Kansas City, Kansas, children under 16 years of age may not visit a picture show. In Wichita and other cities no more than one person is admitted for each 100 square feet of floor space.

A Suit in Wichita.

At Wichita, the churches, schools and moving picture houses co-operated to resist an order closing them because the board of health did not at the same time close the stores—referred to as a prolific means of spreading of contagion, if the contagion is mostly spread that way. Judge R. E. Bird of the district court of Sedgwick county granted a restraining order against the city of Wichita and its health officers on the ground of discrimination. But such an order had continued to enforce the orders—and naturally the preachers and exhibitors did not care to go too strong in violation.

The health board and city officials did the worrying. They applied to the supreme court of Kansas for a writ of mandamus against Judge Bird to cause him to vacate the restraining order. The supreme court did not issue the writ, but advised the city officials of Wichita to bring an appeal from the Sedgwick county court to the Supreme Court of Kansas, according to the order.

The assistant attorney general of the state assisted the attorneys of Wichita and the Wichita board of health in the hearing before the Supreme Court. It was understood that the Wichita officials are about to comply with the order in so far as restrictions that amount to closure—prohibiting more than one person for every 100 square feet of floor space.

Ban Removed from Sale Lake City Theatres

After having remained dark for nearly nine weeks on account of the influenza quarantine, a majority of the Salt Lake City theatres reopened Monday, December 9. The ban on theatres was lifted as suddenly as it was imposed, the announcement being made by the local board of health but three days before the playhouses were reopened.

Capacity houses were reported by every theatre.

The action of the state and city boards of health in raising the quarantine on theatres and churches followed shortly on the heels of a protest lodged with Dr. T. B. Beatty, state health commissioner, by the theatre and film men of the city. Meeting in the office of the manager of Exhibitors Theatre, the several theatrical managers and film exchange managers adopted a set of resolutions, vigorously protesting against the allegedly unjust ban on the part of department stores, which were being allowed to operate as usual. It was also complained that the street car company, stores and other places were not obeying existing regulations aimed to prevent crowding.

Committees were appointed to take the matter up with the state board of health and the city department of public safety to ascertain why the regulations were not being enforced by the interests complained of. The theatre managers demanded that either they be allowed to open or other places be closed. The committees were instructed that they did not wish to place themselves in favor of any action which would tend to spread the disease, but did contend that it was time for discrimination against the place of amusement to stop since many were being called upon a bear a burden which threatened the very life of their business.

Result of Action of Film Men.

The direct result of the action of the theatre and film men was the preparation by the state board of health of a set of much more stringent rules, which are yet in effect save those which forbid opening of theatres and services in churches.

The question of compelling theatres to admit only 50 per cent. of their capacity was found objectionable to the operators of theatres and services in churches.

Indian Exhibitors Protest Against Ban Extension

If the ban on public gatherings at Gary, Ind., is not lifted by December 21, the exhibitors are planning "something doing" on the part of the Gary motion picture exhibitors and theatre managers. The theatres in Gary have become more or less isolated from the time during the last eight or ten weeks because of different outbreaks of influenza and pneumonia, and it is feared that some takeout of the ban, which has been in effect—for the third time—about two weeks, may be extended again.

A meeting of all the exhibitors and theatre managers of the city was held earlier in the week at the Orpheum Theatre, and they discussed the attitude to be taken by the theatre managers regarding a continuation of the ban. It was the consensus of the meeting that the theatre men should be discriminated against, because the stores and other places had not been forced to close.

As a result the following public protest test was adopted:

The theatres of Gary have been closed by the health authorities of the city under the quarantine regulations, which were written with the idea of providing breeding places for germs of influenza. It is well known that the health of Gary has been acting in good faith, but we do not believe that, after two months' trial, the health authorities here are dictating a policy that is apparently accomplishing very little to check the disease.

The crowded street cars, stores packed with Christmas shoppers, the theatres playing to largely crowded houses and the directors and managers of the theatre business in the downtown stores, as they did in the first period of the epidemic. The officials were so much criticized for their former laxity that they were quite willing to listen to the argument put up by the theatre men and agreed to quarantine cases in their own homes, if the disease continued to spread.

In the meantime people are not staying away from the theatres in Seattle, for all managers report splendid business. This is not the case in other towns of the state, however, where the epidemic has continued to advance. In most of these people, who are for the most part regular patrons of the shows, are staying at home, and the theatres have not the advantage of the transient population of the large cities, which insists on being entertained.

Spokane Theatres Under Modified Influenza Ban

The influenza ban has again been placed on amusements in Spokane, prohibiting all dancing, private and public, but permits the theatres to operate under rules fairly reasonable. This provides that all theatres shall use only every alternate row of seats to avoid congestion and that they shall have a minimum of 10 feet between seats p.m., giving time for complete ventilation and reheating and cleaning the theatres.

The picture managers, deprived of a large part of their normal revenues by the modified quarantine which permits seating to half capacity only, are calling for the postponement of shows to offset the enforced loss of revenues. The present service will be kept up in every instance and the patrons will not be affected by any changes found necessary.

Exchanges Reduce Rentals.

The exchanges generally have made
Another General Ban Feared by Southwest Film Men

The influenza situation which had been satisfactory for several weeks did not look so promising in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and eastern Oklahoma. The second week in December and exhibitors and film men are apprehensive as to another general closing.

From Dallas, Texas, film exchange managers under date of December 9 show that thirty-six towns and cities in the three states have closed their theatres. All of these towns and cities are not closed, however, and the week of December 9 three other theatre managers did not reopen after the first closing. The largest town to close for a second time is San Antonio, Texas. Pittsburg, Texas, Hugo, Medill, Alvah, and El Reno, Okla., are among those closing.

In Dallas the general opinion is that the theatres could not be made to bear the brunt of the closing. Exhibitors have pointed out to the authorities that should it be deemed necessary to close the city, the closing of the city should be complete. They advocate the closing of department stores during the closing of the city, the closing of churches, schools and abandonment of all public meetings.

It is likely that if any closing order goes into effect, it will not be the only one to suffer.

Kansas City Puts Ban on Children.

"Children under 16 years of age shall not be admitted to any picture show."

This was the order promulgated in Kansas City, Mo., on December 1, upon the reappearance of the influenza in that city. This order did not come from the board of health, however. It was the solution proposed by the Chamber of Commerce. And while possibly the exhibitors could easily have resisted enforcement of the suggestion, they followed it. The curtailment of business was severe. Because of the influenza, the health authority there was a disposition on the part of exhibitors to test its validity, and to bring to a direct issue the advantage of such a restriction. It is likely, however, that a test case may be made if the influenza continues and the restriction is not removed.

May Cut Operators' Salaries.

Some of the picture managers are talking of a cut in operators' salaries while the quarantine is on. This applies mainly to the operators who are the best paid employees, outside, possibly, of the larger houses. Yet, the definite has been done on the matter as the move probably would have to be voluntary on the part of the operators.

Discuss Licensence Fee Reduction.

The managers generally are discussing the question of asking the city council to release them from the city charges for the length of time the quarantine is on. Each manager pays an annual license to the city based on his seating capacity. For the larger houses it runs from $200 to $300 a year.

All during the first week of December the quarantine continues three months, including the seven weeks the houses were closed entirely, the managers will ask for a cut of 25 percent in the annual license fee.

Scourge Again Threatens

Ban on District Theatres

The continued prevalence of Spanish influenza in San Francisco and Columbia again threatens to cause the closing of the theatres there. The daily increases in the number of cases has alarmed the authorities and it is stated that a continuance of this condition will result in the closing of schools, churches, theatres and other places of amusement. The low mortality rate that has prevailed so far in the threatened recurrence of the epidemic is the only encouraging feature of the situation.

The theatre owners are only just beginning to recover from the effects of the last closing order and it is feared that a new one is likely to be issued if they are again prohibited from doing business. All of Washington's theatres are sanitary and up-to-date in every particular.

It is not likely that the film men will enter any protest, because they would not care to appear to be standing in the way of better health conditions. They do hope that the Commissioners will think well before putting another closing order into execution.

May Place Ban Against Los Angeles Visitors

When the influenza epidemic in the San Francisco territory is gradually subsiding, moving picture theatres are not being reopened as rapidly as was expected. In some parts of the city, only the single largest house is open, and the theatres closed, the resulting confusion may be imagined. At present Covington and Newport theatres are open, the balance of the moving picture houses to children under 16 years of age. However, a clash arose between the local Kentuckians and the state board to enforce in Covington its own order that moving picture theatres be closed. As the other Kentucky towns have already followed the board's order and the theatres closed, the resulting confusion may be imagined. At present Covington and Newport theatres are open, the balance of the moving picture houses to children under 16, and in Cincinnati, and the same is true of the other towns across the river.

For Sale and To Rent are business opportunities often appearing in The World's Classified department—a quick road to prompt and profitable action.
TWO ZUKOR MEN START NEW COMPANY

Hiram Abrams and Ben Schulberg Resign from Famous Players-Lasky

Hiram Abrams, vice president and managing director, and B. P. Schulberg, vice managing director of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, have resigned their offices to form their own organization and carry out certain plans which it has long been their desire to establish. The news has aroused surprise and interest in the trade, for these two men have long been known as strong pillars of the organization with which they have been identified since its inception.

In response to a request for a statement as to what general form his plans would take, Mr. Abrams remarked that they were of too much import to the trade to be presented in their present immature shape, but that they would be announced in detail within a few weeks when they would be found to contain some of the most constructive measures and some of the most equitable principles ever offered for the trade's consideration. He also added that the reason for his departure from his old company was due to the realization that it is more difficult to work out new tenets of procedure between two factors in an industry through an old company with established policies than through a new and unhampered machinery of his own construction.

Mr. Abrams is to start for Los Angeles immediately, and it is promised that the announcement will promptly follow his return to New York. In his absence, Mr. Schulberg will remain in New York adopting the preliminary steps toward the organization which they contemplate building.

They are in close touch with motion picture conditions throughout the country, and their plan to organize a new unit in the industry indicates that they believe that the after-war influence promises expansion for the entire motion picture business.

Organize Administrative Bureau.

Messrs. Abrams and Schulberg about a year ago surrendered the presidency and general management respectively of Paramount to organize the administrative bureau of the corporation, the formation of which, as was announced at that time, it was their desire to bring the exhibitors of the country closer to the producers for their common welfare, so that a direct channel of communication could be maintained between studio and theatre. In the interests of this project they made numerous tours of the country, in order to come in more direct contact with trade currents. It was as a result of these observations that it prompted the declaration by Jesse L. Lasky that the company would produce no gruesome, religions, costume plays or fairy-tales during the war, and they were also responsible for the system at present in vogue of obtaining opinions on all productions from exhibitors.

Hiram Abrams entered the film business in the early stages of its development, when his force and devotion to the exhibitors' interests rapidly made him conspicuous as one of the foremost distributors of the trade. He has always been known as a constructive organizer, and a vigorous exponent of equitable principles between producer and exhibitor. He was among the first exchange men to acquire the rights to first features produced by the Famous Players Film Company, of which he, in association with Walter E. Greene, was the sole distributor in New England. He was one of the principal factors in the formation of the Paramount Pictures Corporation.

B. P. Schulberg entered the film business ten years ago from the newspaper field, and joined the Famous Players Country" for Mary Pickford and "Wildflower" for Marguerite Clark, the first for a long time considered Mary Pickford's greatest success, and the second of which established Miss Clark overnight as one of the foremost favorites of the screen, and it was he who Mr. Zukor once publicly announced "delivered his message." When he was appointed general manager of Paramount in 1915 under Hiram Abrams, and has been closely identified with him ever since. They have been described as ideal collaborators, and their detailed announcement is awaited with interest.

December 15 Attractions at New York Theatres

Strand.—Vivian Martin in the Paramount production, "Miranda Smiles," was the screen star at the Strand the week of December 15. The picture was directed by William C. De Mille, and Douglas McLean is the leading member of the support. A new comedy, a scenic study, educational and travel studies, and the Strand Topical Review completed the picture program. Alyx Michot and the Strand Ladies Quartette were the vocal artists.

Rialto.—"Branding Broadway," with William S. Hart in evening clothes for the first time on the screen, was the leading attraction at the Rialto. Seena Owen and Arthur Shirley with Wallace in the east. Mack Sennett's latest comedy, "Hide and Seek," Detectives," a scenic of Versailles and the Rialto Animated Magazine were also shown. Vincent Ballester was the soloist.

Rivoli.—Douglas Fairbanks in his new version of the Augustus Thomas stage success, "The Trespasser." This is the program at the Rivoli. The production and company are fine and the star puts in his usual number of stunts. Marion Daw and Kathleen Kirnan are members of the cast. A new Mutt and Jeff cartoon, the Official Allied War Review and a scenic completed the screen calendar of features. The Rialto Male Quartette, Annie Rosner and Carlos Mejia were the vocalists.

Blackwood Heads Scenario Department.

The scenario department of the Robertson-Cole Company has been moved to the coast in order to effect a closer co-operation by this department with the producers, John M. Blackwood, for many years a newspaper man and for twelve years manager of the Belasco Theatre of Los Angeles, and more recently with the Thomas H. Ince scenario department, is in charge of this department.

Jack Cohn Is Commended.

Jack Cohn, editor of the Universal news bureau, has been named by the officers of the company as their representative upon the Universal's splendid work in behalf of the recent war work campaign from Edward H. Abraham, chairman motion picture committee.

What do you want? If it's anything in the moving picture line try The World's Classified Advertising.
SCREEN LETTER TAKES JOY TO Yanks

"Smiles" Picture Made on Salem Common Shown to Soldiers on Battle Front on Armistice Day

We have been indebted to George Balsdon for several interesting letters from "over there," but his report from the front line, on which the Colonel has fought his way, carries especial interest now that peace has come. In a letter sent from Paris November 17, Mr. Balsdon tells how the boys were taken into the exhibition of a "Smiles" picture on the battle line. We have had many references to these films being "produced" through the efforts of Mr. Balsdon, and now Mr. Balsdon supplies us with our first details of the fervor of joy with which the boys welcomed their loved ones, in shadowy form, over the fighting front. Mr. Balsdon writes:

"I left Paris November 5, for a trip to the front, and had about the most remarkable and exciting trip I have ever had since I came over. The Rotary Club of Salem, Mass., from which town a large number of artillerymen were recruited, conceived the idea of sending the boys from Salem and surrounding towns a moving picture letter," so they invited all the parents, wives, sweethearts and any relatives to a meeting on the Common, and then formed them into groups, and marched them in front of the movie camera; the women waving and throwing kisses and the men with hats off, and waving flags.

Soldiers Wild With Enthusiasm.

"After the picture was finished it was so strong诱惑 him to hold the boys, so I took a motion picture apparatus and screen in an auto, and started for the front. Found most of the batteries were on the front lines and could not show picture the first day I arrived; so went back to the rest line and showed it to the boys who were there—about 300. I had to use a small battery light for projection, and used a transparent screen so they could see picture on both sides of the screen. I set up the apparatus in an empty barrack and when I showed the picture they went wild with enthusiasm. Many recognized their parents and wives and kiddies, and some were filled with such mixed emotions they did not know whether to laugh or cry.

"You can imagine a soldier boy who has been over nearly a year, through the hell at the front lines, having the extreme pleasure of seeing his mother or wife and baby looking right at him and throwing kisses and smiling just as Canadian film exchanges and my! how they cheered, and during the whole show the guns were thundering, putting over a mighty offensive barrage into the Boche lines. It was real war music.

"The next day I went up to the Colonel's dugout (one built by the Boche and occupied by them for two years) and gave him a meeting a show. He saw his wife and family and enjoyed it immensely. The place was intended to hold six persons, but we got twenty into it. Had a hard time getting there as I could only take the car to a certain distance on account of the mud and shell holes in the road. So we walked the rest of the way, a detail of soldiers helping carry the apparatus. I took moving pictures of the Colonel and staff outside of his dugout.

Sees the Last Shots Fired.

"The next morning we got word that hostilities would cease at 11 A.M. and a captain went up to the front line batteries to be there when the last shot was fired. How those boys did work to put as many shots over as possible before eleven! The din was terrific, and punctually at the stroke of eleven everything stopped, and there was a quietude that was positively uncanny.

"I got some pictures of the batteries and crews (I have an official permit to take pictures), which will be sent to the Rotary Club of Salem to show to the boys and relatives, provided the censor passes them. I got permission from the Colonel to give the boys at the batteries a show if it were possible, so I set up at once and I managed to get two and a half hours in. One on each side and gave them the show.

"I wish you could have watched that scene. It's one of the most exciting I've ever seen. The boys were going everywhere, both on our lines and the enemy's, and rockets were being fired in the air celebrating the final end of the war. It was a cold but beautiful moonlight night, ammunition and supply wagons were incessantly passing to and fro and men going on outpost duty, and a real movie show going on, and the men seeing their relatives right on the front lines, with the gun battery and caissons as a background. It was wonderful. I gave three shows to as many batteries that night."

SEE TOO MUCH U. S. A. IN NEW REELS

Canadian Official Leads Protest Against Too Frequent Display of Yankee Flag and Army

In a sensational statement issued on December 4, T. W. McGarry, Provincial Treasurer for Ontario, made a bol complaint on frequency with which American war dramas and views of activities of United States troops have been presented on screens in Ontario during the past year or two, to the almost total exclusion of Canadian and English military views.

The official letter, which was sent to the Army authorities and a number of exhibitors, created a tremendous amount of comment among film men, newspapers and the general public. Immediately after the letter the Canadian Universal Film Company, Limited, announced that it had adopted the policy of eliminating foreign flags from pictures to be shown in Canada as much as possible.

The company also pointed out that cameramen frequently secured news views in Canadian cities and that these pictures eventually found their way to Canadian theatres. They also pointed out that the company permitted certain theatres to edit their news weeklies, and "American flag pictures" generally were deleted by those exhibitors.

Following the threat made by Mr. McGarry that he would order the Ontario Board of Censors to condemn all pictures in which the American Army or the American flag was "excluded" too frequently, the film exchange men of Toronto decided to hold a private meeting and discuss the subject. Mr. McGarry appealed to the exchanges to secure more Canadian or English views and he stated that he would give them an opportunity to work out their own solution. Local exchange men stated that they expected to be able to make a satisfactory adjustment without the help of the Board.

Manager Lee Devaney of the Toronto office of the Fox Film Corporation pointed out in a public interview that the American producers were interested first in producing pictures for American patrons and that the great bulk of prints are used solely in the United States. Canada and other countries are considered to a certain extent, and Mr. Devaney, but the Dominion depends upon film producers in the States almost entirely for pictures of all kinds.

Mr. Devaney added: "We are going to do our best to see that all Canadian films are given a fair chance here, and that we do not compete with each other. I believe that there is a great demand for Canadian films, but we must not be satisfied with second best, and we must not compete with each other."
LIEUTENANT MOORE HOME FROM FRANCE

Young Soldier Who Was “Brought Up” in New York Film Office Gets a Hearty Welcome

The first hero from the ranks of the motion picture industry has returned home with high honors. He is First Lieutenant William J. Moore, formerly an employe of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. The lieutenant arrived in New York on the steamer Adolphe in New York on November 17 and was the first to reach shore. On his chest was pinned the Croix de Guerre. Lieutenant Moore, immediately upon landing, went to the offices of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation on Fifth Avenue, where he was welcomed back by Adolph Zukor and other executives. In the outside offices all work was suspended.

The lieutenant is a member of the 16th Infantry, and was wounded twice and gassed once. It took much questioning on the part of his friends to ascertain how he won his French war cross. On March 7 he took command of a sector under heavy bombardment after his superior officer had been killed. He organized relief parties to dig out men who had been caught in dugouts that caved in, commanding this work and taking active part in it for twenty-four hours, holding out against a fierce bombardment in which forty-two men were lost and he himself shot through the right lung with a machine gun bullet.

"A week later I received a letter from the commanding general of the French army with the surprising information that I had been designated to receive the French decoration," said the lieutenant, "and I want to say that no amount of money would ever tempt me to part with this medal."

The bombardment in which Moore won his cross and was first wounded took place at Luneville. After recovering from his wound he again went into action at Baccarat. At Rouge Bouquet later he was severely gassed. He also took part in engagements at Badon Viller, St. Mihiel, and his latest fighting occurred in the Argonne Forest, where he was again wounded, a bullet passing through his leg.

Lieutenant Moore was connected with the National Guard, the old Sixty-ninth, New York, when the trouble with Mexico happened. At that time he resigned from Paramount and went to Mexico with his regiment as a private. His regiment sailed for France in October, 1917. He had left New York a sergeant, and after the Luneville "show" he was sent to the officers' training school upon recovering from his wounds.

John Von Herberg Looks Over Newest Production

J OHN VON HERBERG, of Jensen & Von Herberg, who control a circuit of high-grade theatres ranking among the foremost in the country, and easily the most profitable in the Northwest, arrived in town December 12 on one of his frequent visits to the city and left a week later for home, after looking over the newest films and freshening up his ideas generally. He was accompanied by Ralph Runifer, of the Rialto, the Jensen & Von Herberg house in Butte.

Mr. Von Herberg, who is better known to most of the leading film men in the business simply as "Von," is a director in the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, and in part, accounts for his frequent visits to town, but he believes in seeing what the other fellow is doing all of the time. When he does get hold of an idea not already in practice in his houses he takes it back with him, but the Jensen & Von Herberg circuit has given more to the others than it has received from them, for the prosperity of the circuit is largely based upon the intensive application of the theory that perfect management is a more important factor in the success of a theatre than a star film, and the circuit houses are models in their way.

Irvin V. Willatt Again Among Those Present

For Irvin V. Willatt, as for thousands of other soldiers, the war is over and he is back again among the home folks; said home folks including his brother, C. A. (Doc) Willatt, and Mrs. Willatt, and his mother. The family party will leave New York this week for a holiday trip to Florida, where the reunion will continue until the demands of business recall the Willatt brothers to renewed activities in the picture game.

When Irvin Willatt was last in New York he was a photographer, but when he joined Thomas H. Ince, about three years ago, he became a director. Two of his features are about to be released—a Paramount-Arcturait, "The False Face," with Henry Walthall, and a Select Special, "The Midnight Patrol"; the latter being a police propaganda picture which, Mr. Willatt says, "is the only picture in captivity in which the cops get the best of things."

Presumably, when his Florida enchantment ends, Mr. Willatt will return to Thomas H. Ince. Since becoming a director he has been working on special subjects, his thorough knowledge of every step taken in the making of moving pictures making him especially fitted to this class of work.

Bessie Barriscale in "All of a Sudden Norma" (Exhibitors' Mutual).
LOS ANGELES STILL HAS FLUPHOBIA
Too Much Publicity Has Created Unpleasant Condition—Crowd Is Crime Only When in Theatre

THEATRES in Los Angeles were opened on December 2, after having been closed for fifty-two days. A survey of the situation since the opening shows that while business is better than it was immediately before the influenza ban, it is not at all what exhibitors hoped for, or anything at all like it should be, and that in spite of the official lifting of the restrictions, the flu scare is still with us, and likely to remain with us for some time to come.

This situation is the result of too much talk and too much publicity. All during the epidemic, long stories giving the number of new cases, deaths and other direful data were published in the papers daily.

No story was complete without frequent mention being made of theatres and the strenuous efforts being made by the health officers to combat the plague by keeping theatres and places of amusement closed.

Exhibitors got in long-winded wrangles with the health officials in their endeavors to get the town opened up to amusements, but nothing came of it except statements that it would be most unwise to open up the theatres; that the theatres, if opened, would increase the number of cases; this, until many people got the foolish idea into their heads that the entire situation depended on the opening or closing of the amusement houses.

They are not afraid of crowds in theatres, but they are not afraid of crowds anywhere else, and they never were afraid of crowds anywhere else, because there were no regulations against crowds in stores, restaurants, cafes and street cars. Everything except shows and churches were practically wide open during the worst of the epidemic.

Today thousands of shoppers are crowding the big and the little stores all day long. Christmas buying is at its height. The people surge and crowd and jam, tire themselves out, lessen their resistance to disease by fatigue, stand on the street corners in the rain waiting for cars, and then ride home in the cars packed like sardines—but they are afraid to spend an hour and a half in a comfortably appointed, well-ventilated theatre in the afternoon or evening because they have the word "theatre" and the word "flu" tangled up in their minds until they are almost synonymous terms. Great damage was suffered by Los Angeles showmen during the close-down, and the loss is still going on.

Peace is here. The minds of the people are free of the strain of war. The holidays are upon us. Thousands of tourists are in town. It should be the most prosperous season of the year—of four years.

The exhibitors should appeal to the local press for a campaign of editorial advice and discussion that would serve to conquer the foolish fears of the public. Unless something is done, the loss will go on as long as there is a cough, a cold or a sneeze left in the city.

Photoplay Players Aid Christmas Fund.

At a big festival given on December 17 in the Majestic Theatre under the auspices of a Los Angeles daily newspaper, a number of players for the screen gave their services, appearing in vaudeville numbers, songs and sketches, to help swell the fund that will provide baskets of food and other cheer to innumerable poor families on Christmas Day.

Charlie Murray appeared in his familiar role of master of ceremonies, and among the players who entertained the audience were Julian Eltinge, Doralma, Ralph Herx, and all the Mack Sennett comedians. Mrs. Carrie Jacobs Bond, composer of such famous songs as "Perfect Day" and "Just a Wearin' for You," sang several of her old and new favorites.

Hayakawas Both Ill of Flu.

Sessue Hayakawa and his wife, Tsuru Aoki, were both laid up with influenza at the same time during the weeks that the epidemic was at its height in Los Angeles. No nurse could be found to take care of the invalids, but Mrs. Hayakawa's Japanese maid and the chauffeur took turns in the sick room until the patients began to recover, when Mr. Hayakawa suffered a relapse, from which he is just now recovering. He expects to begin a production within a week or so if no further complications interfere.

Parsons in New Comedies.

"Smiling" Billy Parsons is being directed in a series of six new comedies by Harry Pollard, who made a big reputation as the creator of the American Beauty comedies while with the American Film Company. Parsons will be seen in an entirely new comedy role as "Go Gettem Potts," a good-natured promoter, who, while he makes money on every proposition he touches, has many amusing experiences in rounding out his deals.

Brentwood Shows First Film.

"The Turn in the Road," the initial feature of the newly formed Brentwood Corporation, was given a preview to officials of the company, members of the cast and a number of invited guests at the Iris Theatre in Hollywood on December 10.

The photoplay, which was directed by King Vidor, who is also its author, tells a simple and wholesome story, the main incidents of which have come within the experience of many people, and it is offered by its sponsors as the beginning of a new order of pictures which they believe will be welcomed by the public.

The cast is headed by Helen Jerome Eddy, Lloyd Hughes and little Ben Alexander. Winter Hall and George Nichols are prominent in supporting roles.

New Universal Serial Begun.

J. P. MacGowan has begun the production of an eighteen episode serial entitled "The Fifth Ace" at Universal City, with Marie Walcamp in the star part. Pat O'Malley plays opposite, and Alfred Allen, Andrew Waldron, Thomas Lingham, Edgar Allen and Leon de la Mothe, erstwhile Kent, play important supporting roles.

Jack Oberle May Be Alive.

A recent letter from Ivan Kahn to his mother in Los Angeles states that Ivan talked with Jack Oberle, son of Florence Oberle, screen actress, after the armistice was signed, which means that Jack was still alive on the date of his reported death. Young Oberle had been very ill in hospital when Kahn saw him, which probably gave rise to the report of his death.

Falls Fifteen Feet.

Aurora Mandigian, the Armenian girl who is playing a leading role in a Selig production, fell fifteen feet during the making of a scene showing her escaping from a second-story window. The girl strained both her ankles severely, which will cause her to remain away from the studio for several weeks.

How About This?

One S. P. Trool, who dope out publicity for the Brentwood players, comes along with a suggestion that since the word “audiences” applies to people who congregate for the purpose of listening to things, why should not people who gather together to look at things be called “optines”? Why not, indeed? They have been called a number of things and showed no resentment—it may be that they will stand for “optines.”

Nazimova Here.

Mme. Alla Nazimova has arrived in Los Angeles, and after a brief trip to the studio she abandoned everything to search for a bungalow. Mme. Nazimova says she has lived in houses, flats, mansions, palaces and apartments, but never in a bungalow, and she is anxious to get a real bungalow in the country where they originated, and have a yard and flowers and chickens and everything.

Jack Pickford “In Wrong.”

Jack Pickford, who, with his mother, Mrs. Charlotte Pickford, returned to filmland recently, brought a contract to make at least three pictures for the First National Exhibitors’ Circuit. The first of these pictures will be “In Wrong,” similar in story and atmosphere to the Mark Twain stories, and will be given the same style of treatment in its transference to film. James Kirkwood will direct the production at the Brunton studio.

Gunn a Victim of Flu.

Charles Gunn died on December 6 at his home in Hollywood, of influenza, at the age of thirty-six years. Mr. Gunn was a well-known figure in the dramatic stock and motion picture world, having been active in screen work for the past two years.

He was leading man for the Alcazar Stock Company in San Francisco for a number of years, and played for two seasons on the New York dramatic stage. He appeared in a number of films with the Thomas H. Ince company, the Triangle, and the Brunton, where he supported Mme Yorska in “The Infernal Net,” which has just been finished.

Mr. Gunn was an officer in the Hollywood Officer’s Training School, of which he was one of the organizers. Mrs. Nina Gunn, the player’s widow, and his mother, Mrs. Samuel Gunn, survive him.

Actor’s Widow Engaged.

The widow of the late Eric Campbell, who was killed in an automobile accident about a year ago, has announced her engagement to W. H. Corcoran of Kansas City. Mrs. Campbell is a sister of Mrs. Mabel Gilman Corey, wife of the steel man. Eric Campbell was a familiar character in Chaplin comedies prior to his death.

Star Loses Mother.

Mrs. Rose Barham, of Glendale, mother of Nell Shipman, died on December 7. Miss Shipman was ill of influenza at the time of her mother’s death, and her husband, Ernest Shipman, was also having a siege of the disease at the same time.

STUDIO SHORTS

DONALD CRISP, who, besides directing Bryant Washburn in a new picture, is making the part of a warrior in a big Griffith feature, and is suffering from an injury to one of his feet at the same time.

Emory Johnson is Margarita Fisher’s new leading man.

Mahlon Hamilton will have the part of the Dakotas’ judge,” the new Mary Pickford production.

Wallace Reid is said to be suffering from golf.

William Piggett, who used to write scenarios for American at Santa Barbara, is now dopping out continuity at Universal City.

Harry Van Meter is supporting Peggy Hyland in her new film now being made at the Fox Studio. Harry is playing the heavy.

Charles Roy won a couple of turkeys at one of the beach pavilion skin games down at Venice the other day.

Kitty Gordon has been deserted by her manager, Jack Wilson, who has returned to New York, and will resume his stage activities as the partner of James J. Corbett in a vaudeville act.

Frank Keenan is back from the East, and he will get in harness at once on the new pictures he is to make for the Pathé program at the Brunton studios.

Pauline Marko is being featured in an independent production that is being filmed at Universal City under the direction of Frank Borzage.

Cecil B. DeMille has left for New York, to be gone until Christmas, a two-reeler picture, an answer to “Old Wives for New,” and called “Don’t Change Your Husband,” by the same author, Jean MacPherson, is about finished.

Dennis O’Brien, attorney for Mary Pickford, is in L. A. for a two-weeks’ stay, during which time he will attend to legal business in connection with Miss Pickford’s productions for the First National.

George Arthur is in charge of the cutting department at Universal City while Frank Lawrence, editor-in-chief, is in New York.

John Dietz used to be Jack, but he wants us to say John because that sounds more dignified. Gilbert is doing the heavy in Charlie Rea’s new and has asked us to say Charles, although we may get the request any day now for the same reason as above) Ray’s latest picture.

Eud Bennett has completed “Partners Three,” and is waiting for a new play to be finished for her by John Lynch.

Bebe Daniels is the latest film star to have contracted Spanish “flu.”

The Al Jennings outlaw film, “The Lady of the Dugout,” is now showing a three-week engagement at the Mason Opera House, and Al is making a personal appearance and a speech at the opening performance.

Monte Blue is cast opposite Ethel Clayton in her new Paramount picture.

Bessie Love has a personal representative at the Talmadge office in the person of Gerald C. Duffy, who formerly served in that capacity for William S. Hart.

Will M. Ritchey, scenario department, Lasky studios—absent from desk ten days—“flu”—back again, making old type-writer hum as usual.

John D. Frank, who has arrived in Los Angeles from New York, and is at the National studios, where he will alternate with Bertram Bracken and William Chaudet in directing Billie Rhoades and Henry Walthall.

Mitchell Lewis has been signed for a starring engagement with the Select program.

Vivian Martin, whose mother has been very ill, will accompany her mother to a health resort, taking a vacation that will extend until after the Christmas holidays.

Winter Hall, who has just finished a picture with the Brentwood Company, is going to support Nazimova in “The Red Lantern,” being made at M.K.O.

Edward R. Foyan has taken the Margarita Fisher Company somewhere out on the Mojave Desert to make a picture called “Put Your Hands Up.”

Gradner Bradford, title editor at Uni-

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

December 28, 1918

---

Gallery of Metro Stars.

HALE HAMILTON  VIOLA DANA  MAY ALLISON  EMMY WEHLEN  BERT LYTLE
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

"UNDER FOUR FLAGS" SHOWS REAL WAR
Government Film Will Give Public Reflections of Combat They Deem Their Own

THE question of the present day status of war pictures has elicited the published opinions of a number of prominent men in the industry and they seem to be about evenly divided in their views as to whether or not war pictures are going to be a larger part of the public's film diet.

An interesting and logical discourse on the subject is given by Raymond S. Harris, traveling representative of the Division of Films of the Committee on Public Information, who has recently completed a tour of the Middle West in connection with the official presentations of "Under Four Flags."

"If there is going to be a war—after the war on the question of whether war pictures are still attracting the public, I will jump very cheerfully into the discussion, because I have just been arguing and observing that exhibitor's problem," said Mr. Harris. "In connection with the special work I have been doing for the Division of Films I have traveled through the heart of the Middle West, and feel that I know from my experience to what the public will respond.

"Make no mistake, war fact will draw the crowds if the picture is presented from exactly the point of view taken, for instance, by S. Barrett McCormic, manager of the Circle Theatre at Indianapolis. He just presented 'Under Four Flags,' the latest big war feature, as a Victory Picture of America and the Allies.' His advertisement dwelt on the fact that the battles shown were the actual combats that brought about peace. McCormic evidently reasoned that people cannot be indifferent to the war; they must of course be interested in it very vitally. But they are simply no longer interested in it as combatants—they are interested as victors.

"That seems to mean the point of view every exhibitor should take, if he wants to crowd his theatre. Put on a fact picture about the war—and regard the public as victors, not combatants, in giving them information about the picture.

"Just look into your own reactions. During the war you fought every foot of a war fact picture; you ground your teeth and exulted, and drove bayonets into your foe. Now you sit back with a self-satisfied feeling of power and victory at the same sort of picture and you cheer like the very dickens when our boys come into the shabby box."

"Why? I guess because our army is us. When we fought, there were theatres during the fighting, we were fighting for ourselves; when we applaud the army now, we applaud ourselves. As long as that emotion exists—and it is a part of unchanging human nature—the right appeal will crowd the theatre that shows a war fact picture. But the appeal should be right. Remember that we are now victors—and that we want to see just how we won that war, any way!"

William Laub, Navy Cameraman.

William B. Laub, who was engaged in the photographic department of the Goldwyn Company, and assisted in the production of "The Hell Cat" and a number of other Goldwyn productions, is now a member of the Aviation Division of the Bureau of Ordnance and has been taking pictures up in the air. He intimates he has seen things that would have made life mighty unpleasant for the Kaiser if the war had continued.

Mr. Laub's present rating is "Printer, First Class," but something much better has been promised. Each photographer, he says, does most all of his own laboratory work, run and title his own stuff. Bell & Howell cinemachinery is used exclusively. With the experience he is getting Mr. Laub ought to be a valuable man to some picture producer when he gets out of the service.

JOE BRANDT'S "IT" AGAIN.

"IMPORTANT—From Tarkington Baker, Director of Publicity, Universal—For Immediate Use.

" **

"And now Brandt turns to a new field. He has been called upon to undertake another difficult task—and a bigger task. Beginning with the first of the year, Universal's assistant treasurer—for Brandt occupies that office as well—will devote himself to the promotion of the greatest cooperative story undertaken in six years. We will take Universal's assistant treasurer on frequent and extended tours of the exchanges. Brandt will carry the campaign direct to all the leading cities and all the leading newspapers. The entire campaign, in all its details, involving the most advanced step thus far undertaken by any film producing company, will rest completely in Brandt's hands.

"Not a little of his time, too, will be spent in the studios at Universal City, where he will have to do with the selection of serial scenarios particularly and with other essential phases of production.

"Brandt's assumption of these new duties means a most substantial step forward for Universal. It means, to state the matter briefly, increased cooperation for the exhibitor—the development of a new field of exploitation, and, what is of equal importance, its development in the thorough, vigorous, effective manner that is characteristic of Brandt.

"In his new capacity, the title of assistant treasurer still attaches to Brandt's name and, while he is putting his new policies into execution, he will continue, as heretofore, to discharge the duties of that important executive office as a whole.

"Now you know what Joe Brandt's going to do."

December 28, 1918
MOORE’S BEAUTIFUL RIALTO IS OPEN
Outstanding Feature of Washington City’s Newest Picture House Is Its Foyer Ballroom

THE third of the new houses to be opened in Washington, D. C., the Rialto, will stand well in comparison with any of its kind in the country. It contains many novelties that add to its beauty and attractiveness and the foyer is a place of grandeur.

The Rialto faces on Ninth street and is near G street. Its front is ofIndiana limestone with marble panels. A brightly lighted glass-roofed marquise eights from the rear bringing in the light, and the structure is surmounted by a large electric sign and clock. There is a large storeroom on each side of the entrance lobby. The ticket booth is at the building line.

The entrance lobby, in Ionic style, presents an attractive appearance, being a reproduction in marble of the Temple of Apollo. The color scheme is carried out in blue and gold. Instead of opening directly into the auditorium proper, the entrance lobby gives the Rialto one of its unique and extremely effective novelties in design—a foyer ballroom, with stained glass domed ceiling thirty-five feet high. It is sixty feet long and forty-five feet wide, in oval form.

On the evening of the opening of the theatre this room held the attention of the guests. The lighting gave to it a moonlight appearance, and in the center an electric fountain played, while around the room were singing birds in pedestal cages. Around the room also are marble rest benches and the decorative treatment of the whole place is pleasing. There are statues of Adonis and Minerva in the wall niches. There are rest rooms on each side for men and for women patrons.

2,000 Seats on Orchestra Floor.

From this room one enters the auditorium. There is not a step in the theatre and 2,000 person can be seated on the floor level. No balcony has been built, although this can be done at a later date in the event that it is desired. There are no posts, pillars or obstructions of any kind to impair the view of the spectator.

Forming a horseshoe across the middle of the house and down the sides is a tier of loge boxes, sufficiently elevated to command an unobstructed view of the screen over the heads of those occupying orchestra chairs in front, and sufficiently low to be out of the line of vision of those seated in orchestra chairs at the rear. The front row seat nearest the picture is thirty-five feet removed from the screen.

The main entrance across the proscenium arch is of silk velour. The screen curtain is of satin. The dominant color note here is plum and canary yellow. Over the proscenium and on each side are illuminated paintings, representing Greek field scenes. The walls paneled in plum-colored silk tapestry. The wide seats are upholstered in tapestry and the boxes contain comfortable wicker chairs. The railings of the box are of marble.

Orchestra on Raised Platform.

The orchestra occupies a raised platform immediately in front of the stage instead of in a pit, and supplementing it is a three-manual Austin pipe organ. The auditorium is 150 feet long, 100 feet wide, and 50 feet high. There are twice as many exits as are required by law and these are indicated by illuminated glass signs. The ventilation is very good, the outside air being drawn through to a nine-foot fan and blown over heating coils. The air is then washed, heated again and blown through tunnels to mushrooms heating the auditorium. A battery of six-foot fans take care of the exhaust and drive the stale air through the roof.

The auditorium can be emptied in two minutes in case of need. The lighting can be controlled from three different places and the lighting system is unique, not a fixture being visible. Through the entrance lobby and foyer single cove lighting is used; in the auditorium there is a three color system which permits of the blending of shades to desired colors and the intensity is controlled by dimmers.

The musicians and dressing rooms are back of the stage. The offices of Tom Moore, and of his assistants, E. G. Evans, general manager, and “Bob” Long, manager of the house, are on the second floor over the lobby. Here also are the general offices and the managers’ rest rooms. These are all attractively fitted out and are bright and cheery.

December 28, 1918

North Carolina Ministers
Make Move for Censorship

North Carolina will stage its first censorship fight during the coming session of the state legislature which meets at Raleigh early in January. The first movement for censorship of all motion picture films exhibited in the state comes from the ministerial association of Wilmington and through them is being spread throughout the principal centers of the state for similar action in these cities and indications are that the supporters of censorship will be strongly lined up before the legislature meets.

Opinion is that the clergymen would create a board of public morals in the state, and Maryland censorship organizations, the resolutions adopted suggesting procedure to the committee in charge and pointing out that the expenditure could be maintained without cost to the state through the placing of a tax on film footage or on the premises.

President Percy W. Wells, of the State Exhibitors’ League, is marshalling the official forces of the organization to make a strong fight against legal censorship in the state and a special meeting of the league will be called soon after Christmas to formulate plans for combating the movement.

Plaza Rebooks “Under Four Flags.”

The rebooking of “Under Four Flags” at the Plaza, Fifty-ninth Street and Madison Avenue, is another indication of the extreme popularity of the Government picture and of the demand of the public for its exhibition. On the first booking, December 9 and 10, special seating places in the house were given for children. Manager Gosdorfer states that 1200 children attended the first morning and 1500 the next. He is enthusiastic over the engagement, saying it was the most enjoyable booking he ever made on account of the wild enthusiasm of the youngsters. This enthusiasm was communicated to their parents who attended at night, packing the theatre to its doors. Mr. Gosdorfer has rebooked the picture for two more days.

Madge Kennedy Reaches Coast.

Madge Kennedy has joined the group of Goldwyn stars at work in the big moving picture studios of the company at Culver City, Calif. Tom Moore, who acted Mabel Normand preceded her to the Coast in the order named, leaving only Geraldine Farrar and Pauline Frederick of the presently engaged stars to follow. Miss Frederick is at work in the old Biograph studio, the Bronx, on her first appearance. Picture and Miss Farrar is busy with her opera engagements. She will not go west until spring.

E. G. EVANS.

Tom Moore.
FILMLAND is perked up this week. Almost everybody is happy, for the studios are going full blast and the shows are open. I tell you it's a grand good thing the shows opened when they did. With no movies to guide you, some of our actors were letting their art get rusty for lack of encouragement. It was as if a tailor were to try to make suits, with neither a coat or a pair of trousers passing on the street to tell him that people were still wearing clothes.

The old town is pretty gay, with the shows all running, and now, since the moist season is with us, and Jupiter Pluvius playing regular engagements, the popular outdoor sport of going downtown and watching the girls get carried across Broadway has been revived.

The two-legged ferries that operate from curb to curb on Broadway just after a heavy rain are institutions that are found in no other city. Why they are necessary, I never could figure out, and the attention of Southern California is hard to understand. Maybe it is the well-known reticence of the native son.

The exploitation system is efficacious as far as it goes, but it does not go far enough. The human gondoliers being volunteers, they choose their own freight. This results in discrimination and in confining the traffic to passengers of tender years and light tonnage. No feminine person topping those scales is allowed more than the stone need apply. Hefty Hebes must wait till the street runs dry—or worse.

One Day It Didn't Rain.

One of the days it didn't rain I went out to Culver City. The Goldwyn studios are located at Culver City. This statement is made merely to conform to local geographical detail, otherwise it might be said with perfect truth that Culver City is located at the Goldwyn studios.

Goldwyn is a whale of a place—the most impressive studio on the Coast. All of the buildings are white; tall, graceful columns reach the sky; the proportions are fine; the layout is logical. The place is wide enough to accommodate a troop of horses opens into the grounds, where more than hundred buildings, besides flowers and squares of lawn can be seen. Strangers and tourists passing the place rub their eyes and exclaim: "Hello, who's starting up a World's Fair out here?"

Goldwyn is a busy as well as a beautiful place. It used to be a busy place when Triangle was operating at the plant; but it is busier now. But busy as it is, the people out there are not too busy to be courteous and friendly.

I saw all of the official force, with the exception of Vice President Mabel Normand, who was away in the city on business. Manager of Productions Mason Litton took me over the grounds and filled me up. The studio is a chap named Buell, who can produce anything from a cook stove to a coffin at a minute's notice.

We inspected art rooms, property rooms, scene docks, the yard, the lawns, the gardens where flowers are grown for use in the sets, and more gardens with pergolas and summer houses and pavilions and bosky dells, and Abe Schultz and his very complete laboratory, and then I went over on one of the stages and watched Clarence Badger directing Mabel Normand in "Sis Hopkins." John Bowers was playing the opposite lead; Thomas Jefferson was Pa Hopkins; Eugenie Forde was Miss Peckover, and Sam De Grasse was doing the heavy.

Mabel is Creating a New "Sis."

They were working in the Hopkins kitchen, and Miss Normand was in one of her best "Sis" make-ups. I wished that Rose Melville could have seen her. I won't say that Mabel Normand is going to be a better Sis Hopkins than Rose Melville, but she is going to give a fine interpretation of the part; she is not only to make Sis a little less of a caricature than she was on the regular stage. Mabel understands Sis to be what she was—not a caricature at all, but a real fragile being under grotesque make-up.

Reginald Barker was making scenes for "The Brand," a new Rex Beach play, and Don Moore and Harry Beaumont were out on location, and I had to miss them. I particularly wanted to see Harry Beaumont's "Thames in Old Missouri," but I'll have to wait until I go out to Goldwyn again, which I am going to do as soon as Mae Marsh gets out of the hospital and Madge Kennedy and the rest of the forces come on from the East.

Detroit Exchange Managers

Adopt List of Trade Rules

THE film exchange managers of Detroit held their annual banquet and business meeting at the Board of Commerce on December 24, invited every film salesman to be present, making a total attendance with invited guests of approximately seventy-five film salesmen. It was the largest and most notable meeting ever held in Detroit by the film exchange end of the business.

The Board of Motion Picture Exchange managers, comprising 100 per cent of the members eligible in Detroit, have adopted a set of trade rules, and it was for the purpose of intelligently explaining the trade rules to the film salesmen that the meeting was held. Exchange managers are going to back up the trade rules, and will insist that the film salesmen do not deviate from them in transacting business with exhibitors through the state.

One of the big changes to come after the first of the year is the abolishing of C. O. D. shipments, and the necessity of exhibitors having their checks into the exchange before the film is shipped. This is a drastic step to take, but it is the only solution of a trade abuse that has caused a loss of thousands and thousands of dollars to film exchanges.

Soldiers Re-enter Fox Employ.

In pursuance with the Fox Film Corporation's policy of re-employed men who left the organization to enter war service, two more Fox men have returned to their former positions. Sam Dembow, Jr., formerly Fox branch manager at Atlanta, Ga., has resumed management of the Atlanta exchange, succeeding F. G Marchman, Burt C. Phillips, who left the Exhibitors Service Bureau to accept a commission as lieutenant in the Signal Corps, has returned as photographer in the bureau. Last week George Dembow, formerly branch manager at Philadelphia, resumed his old position, having having been discharged from the army after winning a lieutenant's commission.

Eugenie Maas, for the last several months the head of the exchange department in the Fox home office, has been transferred to Chicago as assistant manager of the Chicago exchange. He is succeeded in the requisition department in the home office by W. E. Sennett.
Division of Films Denies

Competing with Industry

It was hardly conceivable that the resolutions presented to the War Emergency and Reconstruction Congress at Atlantic City by the delegation from the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry should pass without a protest. Naturally, the protest would come from the Division of Films, against the activities of which the resolutions were aimed, so we present it without further comment.

New York, December 12, 1918.

To Messrs. Walter W. Irwin, John C. Flinn, William E. Downey, and Frederick S. Hennes, representing the Executive Committee of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, New York City, N. Y.

Gentlemen: The Division of Films of the United States Committee on Public Information has received a copy of the resolution drawn up by your committee at a meeting held at Atlantic City, December 5, 1918.

Your resolution features the assistance the motion picture industry has rendered to the United States Government in its Liberty Loan and Red Cross drives and departmental activities such as War, Navy, Food, Fuel, Agriculture and other departments. Such assistance and help co-operation have been acknowledged by the President of the United States and by those associated with him.

You claim that the Division of Films of the Committee on Public Information has competed with the motion picture industry on the bases of the services and the reviews at "a profit," and want these activities turned over to private film agencies.

It is certain that the Division of Films has competed with the motion picture industry, as it primarilyavenport per cents for money and settings for material, and has utilized the facilities of the United States and the splendid accomplishments of our armies on the battle fronts of Europe.

The rental prices to exhibitors of which you complain were determined by a most fair and equitable procedure in each exhibitor industry, and it is to be expected he would have to pay to return him a profit and still pay to crowd houses.

The purpose of the Division of Films of the Committee on Public Information which you apparently refer to is the act of Congress of June 17, 1917, turned over to the United States Cinematograph Service a division of films to the taxpayers. The fact that the Division of Films did operate on this basis and return such profits to the United States is a matter of general knowledge and has been growingly publicized in the past few years.

The tremendous cost of this world war.

The Division of Films was transferred to the exhibitors at cost, as you suggest, you would have been justified in claiming that the standardized price releases of privately produced features would be placed in jeopardy. This would have been "ransum competition" indeed.

Furthermore, the Committee on Public Information, through an extensive community campaign, has brought thousands upon thousands of new patrons to the motion picture industry of the country. The "people's films" had a drawing power. The films of the United States and in foreign countries these "people's films" were utilized, so that the United States must ultimately win the war, and their value in this respect can not be overestimated.

Similar to the United States government, the War Industry Board, the War Industries Board, and other government bodies, the Committee on Public Information with its fifty-three branches all over the country have been集体经济 proclamation. It has already reduced a minimum of activities, as it has no desire to penalize producers. This official war picture "Tender Four Flags," in this official feature to the defense of the United States of America, continues only during the period embraced by these various campaigns and activities.

The Division of Films is now completing a record of which it is justly proud.

The history of the United States has been immeasurably benefited by its existence.

MARCUS A. BEEMAN, Acting Director, Division of Films, Committee on Public Information.
SAMUEL S. HUTCHINSON OFF TO EUROPE

New Distribution Arrangement in British Isles for "Flying A" Pictures—Will Also Visit France

S A M U E L  S. HUTCHINSON, president of the American Film Company, Inc., left Chicago for Europe Monday evening, December 16, and sailed from New York at the close of the same week. Mr. Hutchinson states that his trip is purely on matters of business and that the sealing of his passport to the fact that he owns large interests in London and on the continent, which he has been able to visit since the fall of 1914, when the war opened. He was caught in Europe at that time.

Mr. Hutchinson states that his chief object in going abroad at present is to effect new distribution arrangements for his product in the British Isles. He will be gone several months and expects to visit France before he returns.

His headquarters will be made in London, at his London establishment, the American Company (London), Limited, 86-91 Wardour street. While there he will conclude an entirely new arrangement for the distribution of "Flying A" pictures in England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales.

"While our pictures have been enjoying great popularity all over the British Isles, I believe we can secure even better distribution for them and establish them still higher in the regard of British exhibitors under several plans which I have in mind," said Mr. Hutchinson. "I shall be glad to give you full details regarding our new distribution methods upon my return. I would do so now but for the fact that I am not sure which of several distribution arrangements will meet with the fullest approval of British exhibitors.

"As I have said, this will be the first visit I have been able to pay the London offices of American Film Company, Inc., since the Fall of 1914, and you may be sure I am expecting to note many changes. I am confident, however, that our present type of releases—the subjects starring Mary Miles Minter, William Russell and Margarita Fisher—which we are selling direct to the exhibitor in this country through special representatives in each of the Pathe exchanges, will be warmly welcomed by the British exhibitors and public.

"Speaking of your foreign sales, have you lost any shipments during the war by submarine warfare?" was asked.

"Not a foot of film," replied Mr. Hutchinson. "We have received some mighty fine appreciations of our releases from the other side." He continued, "but the films now being shown over there are those which we released in this country before we placed our own salesmen in each of the Pathe exchanges. Thus you can see that the Britishers have yet to view what we really consider our best photoplays, and I fully expect when we begin offering them these newer subjects, the "Flying A" brand will become more popular than ever before.

"Before I return to America, as I have hinted before, I shall visit France on business and, while there, hope to be able to spend some time with my son, Hobart, who is with the Motor Section, Headquarters, Battalion, Third Army, which now occupies the country along the Rhine.

"While in France I may close an arrangement by which Pathe will handle our product in territory not served by our British connection," Mr. Hutchinson remarked incidentally.

Mr. Hutchinson then laughingly related some of his experiences on his last trip to France, when he was caught in Alsace at the outbreak of the war, telling of difficulties encountered and encountered in getting back to England. He expressed the hope, in smiling fashion, that on this trip it would not be necessary for him to assume the disguise of an American "doughboy" in order to secure a return passage, after he has completed his business and heads home.

Anita Stewart Helps the Poor

Anita Stewart, the popular photoplay star, now engaged in the production of new features in Los Angeles, recently sent her check for $250 to the Chicago Herald-Examiner in aid of that paper's Christmas Fund. Not only this, Miss Stewart has volunteered to mail her autographed photo to every subscriber to the fund. This fund will be devoted to giving a Christmas dinner to poor families and others in Chicago.

Flaherty Chicago Manager of Film Clearing House, Inc.

O N December 1, Frank J. Flaherty was appointed Chicago manager of the Film Clearing House, Inc., and of the Independent Sales Corporation and the quarters formerly occupied by the Chicago exchange of the George Kleine System, at 207 South Wabash avenue, were taken over as the Chicago headquarters for both the organizations mentioned. The film Clearing House, Inc., has also taken over all the other branch offices of the George Kleine System throughout the country—nineteen in all.

Manager Flaherty moved into the new offices Monday, December 9, and is much pleased with them, as they are among the best planned and equipped in the business.

Previous to his present appointment Mr. Flaherty was connected with the Silex Film Exchange, in the Consumers Building, which had a contract with the Producing Distributors Corporation for the physical distribution of that company's product, the contract expiring when the Film Clearing House, Inc., was established. It must be understood that the Film Clearing House, Inc., engages only in the physical distribution of films subjects.

When seen last week Mr. Flaherty informed the writer that the first release on the $10, $20 and $30 plan is Evelyn Nesbit's "Heavenly Bodies," which will be released January 1. The second release on the same plan will be made February 1, and so on throughout the year, 12 subjects being released in that time, at monthly intervals. The second release is "Life's Greatest Problem" by J. Stuart Blackton, which features Mitchell Lewis and Ruby Deremer.

"Wanted for Murder," the first of the big special releases, will be out January 1. It features Elaine Hammerstein and has been showing at the Broadway Theatre, New York, where it attracted much attention.

Rex Lawhead, formerly manager of the Playhouse on Michigan avenue, and also connected with the sales department of Universal and Foursquare exchanges for about five years, has been appointed as assistant manager in the Chicago sales department of the Independent Sales Corporation, in the Chicago office. Mr. Lawhead was also the first Chicago manager of Bluebird Pictures.

H. B. Brennan, traveling auditor for the Film Clearing House, Inc., was in Chicago last week, introducing the auditing system adopted by the company. He left for Minneapolis December 14 to install the system in the office there.

Frank J. Flaherty is widely known in Chicago film circles. He has been connected with the exchange business in the city for the past seven years. No other man has claimed a more familiar acquaintance with exhibitors in Chicago territory than he, and this territory includes, besides Southern Illinois, Northern Indiana, Southern Wisconsin and the river counties of Iowa.

Mr. Flaherty first started in the business when he was 18 and handled the exchange business in Madison street, in the same building where the Pastime Theatre is now situated. Next he was salesmen at the Chicago Exchange, owned by Mr. Edward H. Upton. He then joined Standard Film Exchange for nearly two years, after which he became assistant manager of the Majestic Film Exchange, owned by Mr. R. H. screening for the city, after the Universal bought Hopp's exchange Flaherty was appointed manager and held the position for two and a half years. For the past two years he has been assistant manager of the H. & H. branch, at 119 North Dearborn street, and after six months rejoined the Universal offices, remaining there until he opened the Fourquare offices in Chicago and Minneapolis, managing both branches for one year.

As a parting shot after the interview Mr. Flaherty informed me he will attend a show on December 12, he had 100 solid, first-run days' bookings on the first release, on the $10, $20 and $30 plan, in the territory covered by the Chicago office.

And my friend Flaherty, like all other exchangesmen, always ties the ball outside when breaking point one more time.

Testing Mutual Notes.

George W. Malone has been promoted to the management of the Milwaukee Mutual office, succeeding John A. Kemp, who will take charge of the Cincinnati office. Mr. Malone has been a western division manager for all territory west of the Mississippi. Mr. Kemp made a fine record in Milwaukee and has many friends there for his success in Cincinnati.

Hugh Rennie has been appointed manager of the Cleveland Mutual offices. He comes from the Select's Office to the World Film Company in the Indianapolis, Minneapolis, Denver, Salt Lake City and Los Angeles offices, and was made western division manager for all territory west of the Mississippi. He was also manager of the Select offices in Denver for a year, and just before he took over at the Mutual, he handled the Hoffman Foursquare Pictures.

E. S. Rorer, one of the best known salesmen in Chicago, joined the Mutual offices last week. He has been connected with the General Film Company for six years.

Milwaukee's Part Closing Reduces Business One-Half

Last week I changed to meet M. Rieke, owner of the States Theatre; J. C. Stillman, manager of the Liberty, Donner and Miranda Theatres, and Mr. John Full, manager of the Grand Theatre, all of Milwaukee. They reported that a partial closing order had been issued in their city for theatres and for all public meeting places and business, except drug stores, groceries, and meat markets. The order took effect Wednesday, December 12. Only alternate houses are to be open, and some have been occupied by patrons, and children under fifteen years are barred altogether.

These exhibitors stated that quite a number of outlying towns were placed under the ban about the same time.

Mr. Rice and Mr. Stillman operate two theatres which are close together, and they claim to have eliminated all contest for pictures of the same brand. They do this by running the pictures a week apart, Mr. Rice having the first-run, and report excellent business by this plan.

Mr. Stillman, who runs the picture the second week, gets the advantage from the billing done by his competitor the week previous, and he also gets the people who failed to see it during its first showing at the opposition house, more especially if it has made a hit. All the houses mentioned book regularly Select, Artcraft-Paramount, Metro and First National subjects, also other makes once in a while. The Milwaukee partial closing order reduces theatre business by one half, while other exhibitors still believe that half a loaf is better than no bread.

Frazier Defends Himself Against Censorship Board

The regular weekly meeting of the Censorship Commission was held at the usual hour Friday, December 13, in the rooms of the judiciary committee, in the City Hall. During the proceedings Second Deputy Frazier and his chief邀 invited to the meeting and were questioned at considerable length on their manner of arriving at decisions in the censorship of films. There were quite a number of decisions already on file, which the committee expected to hear at this time. They were quite a number of decisions already on file, which the committee expected to hear this week, but it was not necessary for the secretary to make any special report.

Second Deputy Frazier held, and held rightly, that he was censoring films under the existing ordinance, but some of the members of the commission, who in the past have been firm adherents of Major Funkhouser, found fault with the Second Deputy, although he practically follows the course of his ousted predecessor.

Quite a number of interested people in the film business and others are taking an interest in the Censorship Commission because it is going outside the purpose for which it was created. It was formed to discuss the censorship question and that is exactly what it is doing, and in this respect it can certainly be said that the judiciary committee is doing the right thing.

Quite a number of interested people in the film business and others are taking an interest in the Censorship Commission because it is going outside the purpose for which it was created. It was formed to discuss the censorship question and that is exactly what it is doing, and in this respect it can certainly be said that the judiciary committee is doing the right thing.

Dan Donnellan a Benedicte.

Dan Donnellan, manager of the Chicago office of the Exhibitors Mutual Distributing Corporation, surprised many friends in the city by joining the ranks of the beneficits Tuesday evening, December 10. The bride was Miss Margaret M. Sutcliffe, of Minneapolis, who was Mr. Donnellan's stenographer while he was connected with the Minneapolis office of the Mutual. Mr. and Mrs. Donnellan are residing temporarily at the Grassmere Hotel, Sheridan Road, but will soon take up their residence on the south side of the city.

Mr. Donnellan took charge of the Chicago office of the Mutual in 1917 and has already made a host of friends among exhibitors and others in the trade.

"The Greatest Thing in Life" Great.

Griffith's picture, "The Greatest Thing in Life," is running to a fast run recently at the Ziegfeld Theatre on Michigan avenue, and is now showing to crowded houses in other sections of Chicago. This pictured story has a tremendous grip and many see it for the second time. The war scenes are about the most realistic the writer has yet seen. The acting of Lilian Gish and Robert Harron leave nothing to be desired.

Chicago Exchange Notes.

W. R. Seates has resigned as Chicago manager of Arterraft-Paramount and is now succeeded by Fred F. Creswell, who was formerly sales manager of the Chicago office of Arterraft-Paramount. Hunter Bennett, who has held the position of special representative for the U. S. Exhibitors Booking Corporation and the Mutual Film Corporation, has resigned his position due to the discharge from military service and will leave for New York in the near future to form new business connections in the trade.

"A Bit of Heaven" Booked by Sile.

Lee Herz, president of the Sile Film Exchange, in the Consumers Building this city, announces that he has closed with the Frieder Film Corporation, of Chicago, for the distribution of the picture, "A Bit of Heaven." This picture is based on the story of Kate Douglas Wiggin, "The Bird's Christmas Carol," and features Mary Louise. It is of five reel length and was released December 10.

Mr. Herlz also states that "Ashes of Love," which features James K. Hackett and Effie Shannon, is doing a fine business in Illinois, and that quite a number of exhibitors of this film are repeating its booking.

"Under Four Flags" Third Government Official War Film, Has Done So Well at the Playhouse that its run has been extended to four weeks from the original two.

George Landy Returns to Select.

George Landy, who left Select's publicity department last spring for what he expected would be a through trip to Berlin, returned last week to his old station, which he first assigned to Co. M of the Twenty-second Infantry. Landy was recommended within ten weeks by the Central Officers' Training School and earned his commission as a second lieutenant at the Camp Lee school. "Although I wasn't lucky enough to get into the infantry thing over there," says Landy, "the army has been a great training and an inspiration. But it feels fine to be back on the old job!"

Joe Lee Reports Progress.

Joe Lee, who is on his way to the location for the future St. Louis art productions, writes from Minneapolis under date of December 15 that the Mayer plan of showing the first Anita Stewart production is producing great results.
STATE CENSORSHIP OR TAX UNLIKELY
New York Legislators Inclined to Let Sleeping Dogs Lie. Also Frown on Any Sunday Agitation

Albany, Dec. 12

W ith the inauguration of the new Governor two weeks hence and with the Legislature convening which will carry with it a number of new faces, supplanting members who had been in the past more or less actively interested in the motion picture industry, interest in censorship is talked about. There is a peculiar interest in the State Capitol these days as to what, if any, motion picture legislation will probably come under consideration by the Senate and Assembly during the coming three months.

It is reasonably sure there will be no keener interest in censorship lines. That fact was clearly demonstrated a couple of years ago, when with the exception of a few it was the general consensus of those among the legislators of this State that the motion pictures being shown today needed no hand of censorship.

The reason for the change is that pictures have shown in improvement to the extent that any talk of censorship for New York State will be regarded as little more than a joke. In a real sense, Senator Henry Walters of Syracuse, who has always been a friend to the motion picture industry and who is a man of broadminded views, when he becomes the new Governor, will join in the views of Speaker Sweet and Senator Walters. Anyone who knows "Al" Smith realizes that.

DOUBTFUL IF THERE WILL BE STATE TAX

It is extremely doubtful if any action will be taken during the session towards some way imposing a footage tax on the movie industry in this State. In the minds of many of the legislators, there is no question in the minds of leaders in the motion picture industry in this State that the motion picture industry has accomplished a world of good. The industry has done through the tax imposed by the Federal authorities, turned into the national treasury millions of dollars and through industry efforts have subscribed to almost as great an extent to the various funds and benevolences.

Practically the entire world, or those who are keener abreast of the times, know what wonderful work has been accomplished on the battlefields of France, not only by members of the moving picture industry, but by men and women who enlisted in the service but also the vast amount of pleasure which has been brought to the soldiers by stars themselves, in the way of personal entertainment or through the silents of film.

Sunday Pictures Question Unanswered.

And so there remains only the question of allowing the Sundays of the State, a question which many of those in the business prefer to leave unanswered at the present time rather than to attempt forcing the issue. One case which has been hanging fire for several months will come up before the Court of Appeals for a decision.

The fight against legalizing Sunday movies in this State is well remembered by many. It died an ignominious death in committee at the closing of last year's session. Whether or not there will come some new Senator or a number this year who will attempt its revival remains a question. Like the automobile industry, the motion picture business is annually selected by some assemblyman or senator as a means of self exploitation, through the introduction of legislation which has for its purpose what is generally termed "regulatory measures."

There is a feeling, however, about the Capitol to the extent which will probably remain throughout the months to come, that the motion picture industry in this State is going along fairly well, and a good rate to follow of leaving well enough alone.

LEGISLATORS OPPOSE SUNDAY AGITATION.

The majority of the larger cities in the State are now enjoying Sunday movies. Legislators, through the fight of the last two years are frank in stating these days on their visits to the State Capitol that they can see no reason why it is necessary for continuing up this question of Sunday movies at each and every session, a question which generally arouses considerable bitterness and which each year remains unsettled.

There is no legislator from a rural section who cares to court the disfavor of his constituents from the villages by supporting Sunday movies, and so with this in view it seems improbable at the present time that even with an almost certain decision on the part of the Court, this question will be raised again any year along the line of motion picture legislation between January and the close of the session in late April or early May.

There are motion picture people who are open in saying they believe that in Governor-elect Smith they will have a friend to the extent of their interests than was Governor Whitman. And yet Governor Whitman's record shows that on more than one occasion he was able to get the consideration and principles working in the betterment of the business.

C. L. GRANT.

John M. Quinn Named as Vitagraph Sales Manager

T HE appointment of John M. Quinn as general manager of Vitagraph's sales organization was announced this week by Albert E. Smith, president of the joint Vitagraph distributing and producing organizations.

In looking about for a new chief executive for the selling organization, Mr. Smith made a point to secure a man who, combined in the highest degree an intimate knowledge of the producing end of the film industry as well as of the distributing and the exploitation end of the branch of the business.

Mr. Quinn's appointment is due to a combination of both of these qualifications. For the past year Mr. Quinn has been closely associated with Mr. Smith at the main studio of the Vitagraph Company in Brooklyn, and he has thus gained a perfect knowledge of the particular conditions and problems which Vitagraph must necessarily meet in the production of its pictures. This will stand him in good stead in directing his selling organization in their relations to exhibitors throughout the United States and Canada.

The new general manager is no stranger to Vitagraph, having been associated with the Company in 1915, at which time he assisted in the exploitation of Vitagraph's first big serial, "The Goddess."

After the completion of this work Mr. Quinn joined the Triangle, and upon the retirement of W. Griffith from the Fine Arts Studio in California Mr. Quinn assumed the post of general manager of that western studio.

One Punch Not a Story

Declares Fox Director

A LTHOUGH it is generally believed that three out of every five American writers are turning out scenarios of motion picture plays, Richard Stauton, the William Fox director, is skeptical. At least he is inclined to believe that the ratio of persons writing worthwhile scenarios is about three out of 300 not yet published at this conclusion after reading through 300 scenarios without finding a story of the type he wanted. Mr. Stanton is looking for the human, virile, snashing story, unhampered in theme, in the execution of its plot, and full of action and human drama.

"During the last two weeks," said Mr. Stanton, "I have read stories submitted by many well-known authors, have read many books and have searched every periodical, but have not come across the type of story needed. Any good story, however, would have been able to find the right kind. I am convinced there is a dearth of real scenarios."

"The typical story I have read has something to commend it, however—some big punch. But that is all; authors seem to think they need only one big scene. What I want is action every minute—snap to every foot of film. A story must have such scenes throughout."

In the years, continued the Fox Director, "apparently there the story must be human. A plain, straightforward story, with big scenes, real action, a firm adherence to entertain, is very hard to find; I believe everywhere is an author who writes that kind of story."

Old Fox Manager Back from Army

Honorably discharged from the army after having won a commission as second lieutenant, George F. Dembow, formerly manager of the Philadelphia exchange of the Fox Film Corporation, has returned to his former duties, succeeding Jack Levy, who has severed connection with the William Fox organization.

An incident of interest is that before the annual Fox convention in the Ho tels last June he suggested the name "Victory" for a new William Fox groups of pictures inaugurated this season. This name was chosen. The convention ended Dembow enlisted in the army.

Chadwick Heads F. I. L. M. Club

The annual election of officers of the F. I. L. M. Club of the moving picture industry was held on Wednesday, December 4. The following officers were elected: I. E. Chadwick, president; John Hammel, first vice-president; Lucien L. McArrell, second vice-president; Sam Eckman, treasurer; Charles B. Hoy, secretary; George Schaefer, sergeant at arms.
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

December 28, 1918

"CHAPLIN? PAH! HE ISS NOT FONNY!"

Iss Sad, With Troubles so Much I Should Die to Have, Says Smileless Winner of Griffith Tenspot

CHARLIE CHAPLIN? Pah! He iss not fonny. He iss sadt, with trouble so much what I should die to have." This is the opinion held by Mrs. Mary Veillette, 60 Fray avenue, Meriden, Conn., who won the prize of $10 offered by Walter Griffith, manager of the Poli Theatre, for anyone who could sit through "Shoulder Arms" without laughing.

The contest, announced in the local newspapers, succeeded splendidly as a publicity stunt for the comedy. Poli's Theatre was jammed at every performance, but brought no contestants until Tuesday, when Mrs. Veillette told him she had sat through the performance without laughing, or even smiling. Mr. Griffith was credulous and told her it would be necessary to have a witness to her superhuman feat.

Mrs. Veillette was determined to collect the prize. Mr. Griffith was skeptical, so the photoplay editor of the Meridan Daily Journal was asked to act as the referee for a repeat performance by Mrs. Veillette on Tuesday night. The local papers carried a big front page story to this effect in the home editions for that day and the house was fairly mobbed after the supper hour.

"Shoulder Arms" had competition during the first evening show. The crowds which succeeded in getting into theatres divided their attention between the screen and Mrs. Veillette. The photoplay editor of the Daily Journal declared he did not take his gaze off her face while the Chaplin comedy was on the screen, and that she sat through it without emotion, excepting to register a slight indication of sadness when Doughboy Charlie robbed the dugout rat trap of its cheesy bait to get even with his Buddies who were enjoying boxes from home without sharing them with him.

The next day the winner of the prize went before a notary public and signed a statement to the effect that "Shoulder Arms" had not made her laugh. With this statement and the word of the photoplay editor of the newspaper that not once had Mrs. Veillette's face been wretched in anything suggesting a smile, Mr. Griffith paid her the amount of the prize. And then came the miracle:

She smiled as she looked at the bill. Then she laughed. Then she said:

"But twice I saw the Chaplin films. Twenty dollars I should have as prizes because twice I did not do so much as laughing."

Mr. Griffith tried to explain that but would be readily admitted that Manager Griffith received good action for his "sawbuck."

Mr. Griffith has booked "Shoulder Arms" for a repeat engagement, to meet the demand of local theatregoers who were unable to get in the theatre during the early part of the week.

The Other Side of the Shield.

Charlie Chaplin has done war relief work in France by proxy, according to a dispatch cabled from abroad by a representative of the Newspaper Enterprise Association. His capers on the screen at a movie show given by the Red Cross at a hospital near Vichy cured a soldier in the audience who, for some weeks, had been suffering from shell shock. Until Charlie ambled on to the screen the soldier had not been able to speak or laugh. He can now.

Cohen Adds Another House

*to His Fast Growing Chain

SYDNEY S. COHEN, president of the New York State League of Motion Picture Exhibitors, added another theatre to his growing chain of moving picture houses last week, when he purchased the Tremont Theatre at 178th street and Webster avenue.

The Tremont is one of the largest theatres in the Bronx, seating more than a thousand persons and catering to a high class clientele. The theatre is being refurnished and remodeled throughout. Upon opening under Mr. Cohen's ownership it will present the highest grade of pictures, with atmospheric suggestions and musical programs in keeping with the most modern ideas in the exhibition of pictures.

By the acquisition of the Tremont Mr. Cohen now owns outright four large theatres in New York and has large holdings in other houses. The three others under his immediate control are the Empire and McKinley Square, also in the Bronx, and the North Star on Upper Fifth avenue. The first of these is one of the most spacious and attractive theatres in New York. It was designed by Mr. Cohen personally and possesses all the appointments and advantages of fine downtown houses.

Mrs. Mary Veillette

Connecticut Woman Who Sees Only Sadness in Chaplin Comedy.

one prize was offered. She departed, saying:

"Where there is something to laugh at, I laugh. I like same as anyone else something funny, but to Charlie Chaplin there is something to laugh. He iss only in trouble always. Poor man!"

The result of Mrs. Veillette's second effort of sitting through the picture without laughing and the winning of the prize gave Poli's Theatre a two-column front page story in the local papers. It Scenes from "Little Women" (Paramount-Artercraft Special).

THE holiday season finds the Goldwyn Pictures and the Goldwyn Studio nearing their second birthday—and expanding and prosperous. In the fall of 1916 Samuel Goldfish, then later renamed as Goldwyn, with the help of the Players-Lasky Company, reached the decision to re-enter the industry on a larger and more ambitious scale than his first. With Harry Aitken as treasurer, and to a great degree of success in the Jesse L. Lasky Company.

Into his new organization he invited Edgar and Archibald Selwyn—the Goldwyn trade name represents a merge of the "Gold" in Goldfish and "wyn" in Selwyn. The initial Goldwyn policy was to produce and release annually twenty-six productions. The stars of these productions were Mary Garden, Mabel Normand, Mae Marsh, Madge Kennedy, Jane Cowl, and Enrica. It was before the first year of Goldwyn had come to an end, those who ruled the destinies of the organization had seen it a highly important position in the industry.

The second releasing year began with an announced production of fifty pictures, which was then presented with stars offered by the organization were and were Geraldine Farrar, the Rex Beach productions, Pauline Frederick, Mabel Normand, Madge Kennedy, Mae Marsh, and Tom Moore.

Goldwyn has not existed for two years without mistakes, and it is characteristic of the company that it makes no effort to gloss over or excuse its errors of judgment, which have been kept down to a minimum.

Goldwyn has attained its productions and its distribution through a maximum of sincere, thoughtfull effort on the part of its executive organization. Next in order of importance comes the Pictures Corporation to Mr. Goldfish comes Abraham Lehr, recently made a vice president and in charge of the company's California sales and development. Mr. Lehr is an example of the Goldwyn type of man and the elevation that awaits such men within the organization.

In the Goldwyn Distribution Corporation Alfred Weiss, one of the best known figures in the film industry, and F. B. Warren, for many years a successful editor and publisher of newspapers in several of the country's larger cities, have been vice presidents from the day the company was organized. They have given every hour of their thought and effort to the creation of a distinctive, wholesome, unusual mechanism in which they have rewarded and advanced from the field the men who showed promise or achieved results for the company.

Meanwhile, in every country except the Latin American nations and their allies, the Goldwyn productions are being shown under a splendidly developed world export organization. Arthur Ziegler is the manager of the Goldwyn export department.

In Great Britain the Goldwyn distribution is in the hands of the British Goldwyn Film Company, Ltd., owned by Oswald Stoll. In Australia the Goldwyn affiliation is the J. C. Williamson Film Company, Ltd.

Gabriel L. Hess is the other member of the Goldwyn executive family. He is the secretary and treasurer of Goldwyn as well as general counsel of the two Goldwyn organizations. He is a successful and popular member of the New York Bar.

The biggest step taken by Goldwyn in recent months was the decision to move all production work to California, which has been completed. The last name to the Goldwyn Studios, giving the company the finest of all producing studios in the industry. There, in association with Mr. Lehr, is Hugo Ballin, Goldwyn's art director, and J. G. Hawks, one of the most successful scenario men in the industry.

Harry R. Durant remains in New York, where at this time he devotes the greater part of his work to discovering and purchasing material.

Goldwyn publicity, which has had much to do with the advancement of the company because of its soundness and is comprised of the interests and activities, is in charge of Dwight S. Perrin, director of publicity. Louis Sherwin is general press representative in charge of magazine promotion. Mr. Perrin is a well known newspaper man of long experience and was the first editor of the New York Tribune's graphic section. Mr. Sherwin was for eight years the dramatic critic of the New York Globe. On the Pacific Coast Norbert Lusk, detailed from the home office organization, is in charge of publicity and exhibitor exploitation.

One of the most carefully developed departments of Goldwyn is its Exhibitor Service Department, in charge of Hutt Stromberg, a young St. Louis advertising agency man.

Goldwyn Signs Rogers and Screen Is Winner

WILL ROGERS, famous star of Ziegfeld's "Follies," who scored a nation-wide personal triumph in Rex Beach's "Laughing Bill Hyde," recently reopened, and this is the latest addition to Goldwyn's group of celebrated personalities.

Samuel Goldfish, president of Goldwyn, placed Rogers under contract during his visit in Cleveland en route to the Coast. The noted cowboy wit and lariat-thrower will be starred in original dramas selected or written for him by Goldwyn authors.

Goldwyn has been negotiating with Will Rogers ever since "Laughing Bill Hyde" was released, because his personal success was so instantaneous and unquestionable that there could be no doubt about his future in the cinema.

The stories to be provided for Will Rogers will be big, gripping, human dramas. Following the expiration of his contract, Will Rogers will move his family to Culver City.

Vincent Making Patriotic Film.

A patriotic feature, which has the in-doubtment of producer Charles S. Hart, of the Government Division of Films, is being rapidly completed by James Vincent. Himself an important member of the Film Division and a well known director, Mr. Vincent is translating to the screen one of the most inspiring books produced by the war—James Mott Hallowell's "The Spirit of Lafayette."

Mr. Vincent has been in touch with the film business for many years. He started with the Kalem company in 1908, rose rapidly as a director, and, besides having made several fine feature films, has gained prominence through his work for many of the large organizations, including Fox and Pathé. Announcement of the cast and method of release will be made later. The scenario is by J. Searey Dawley.

By Ghosh? No Says District Court Judge

PRINCE SARATH GHOSH has become convinced that the United States District Court is no place for the entertainment of personalities of royal birth as the result of the polite but positive effort to become a film exhibitor. Such an attitude, he established some time ago against the Pathé Exchange, Inc.

The Prince wrote a series of six short communications, which was published in Pearson's Magazine and he complained that the film company appropriated the theme of his literary efforts in producing two pictures. Arnold A. N. Hand voiced the opinion that the theme of the stories was "old as literature and as ineradicable as human emotions." The Prince's last letter presented extremely modern ideas applicable to present day social and economic problems, Judge Hand concluded, and as the Prince failed to even establish a legal copyright title he was left out in the cold, lugubriously speaking, and hence his painful conclusions apropos of our courts.

Lehrer Becomes Select Salesman.

Al Lehrer, who is known in film circles as "Smiling Al" is about to realize his position of ready to become a film salesman. For the last two years Mr. Lehrer has been in charge of the film department of Select's New York Exchange, while holding the same position with the World. In his work as head of the film department he has become acquainted with hundreds of New York exhibitors, during which time he has entertained the belief that he could make good as a salesman. Several months ago Branch Manager Siegel promised him the most opening, and this week he fulfilled the promise.

Censors Visit Vitagraph Plant.

Henry W. Lewis, chief inspector of the Pennsylvania State Board of Censors and the chief clerk of the board, Charles E. Bell, visited the Vitagraph studio in Brooklyn, Friday, December 6. Mr. Lewis and Mr. Bell, on entering the plant, met the heads of the various depart-ments, the Vitagraph players who were at work and watched Corinne Griffith and Gladys on the set, one of the two studios.

Harris Joins Outing-Chester.

Raymond S. Harris, special representative of the Committee on Public Information, Division of Films, has re-signed to become sales manager of the Outing-Chester Camera Company, Inc., producers of the Outing-Chester "camera adventures." Mr. Harris had charge of the official presentations of Government war pictures in many cities.
In view of these indisputable facts, known to every man in the motion picture business, the resolution which suggested that the Government's film activities had interfered with the usual trend of our business was unfounded in practice and untrue in conclusion. We do not believe that it represents the opinion of the majority.

THE purpose of President Schaefer of the exhibitors' national organization to form a really substantial organization of that branch of the motion picture business is entitled to sincere consideration by all exhibitors. It is now time to lay aside all prejudices and get together on a definite program. The unit is the state organization, so that is where the start should be made. In each state there is work to be done. A beginning cannot be made too soon. A few states have going organizations, but the greater number have nothing. What are you doing in your state? Why not begin now?

FROM the story of the talk given by a house manager from the "wild and woolly" to the members of the "Almighty Press Agents" at their weekly luncheon the other day, the aforesaid press agents heard something. The story was issued by the organization and will be found elsewhere in this issue of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD and, while it does not include some of the spicy repartee, it is sufficient. That the members of the A. M. P. A. should be willing to publish so frank a report of the event is to their credit, since it indicates that they are open to conviction and willing to learn. Eventually, we hope, a distinction will be discovered between advertising aids and plain "bull."

LEGISLATURES in many states will convene in January to engage in the work of making laws upon the statute books of those states which do not already have them. To combat this situation, which is almost certain to come up, there must be immediate action upon the part of exhibitors everywhere. With this necessity the work of organization ought to receive sufficient impetus to put it over in every state that does not possess some kind of unity among the exhibitors within its borders. Ohio has already started the ball rolling; New Jersey exhibitors are also on the war path and will have their own bill favoring Sunday opening. The movement should be followed up all along the line.
VALUE OF AN OPEN MIND

By EDWARD WEITZEL.

I t is doubtful if any piece of moving picture fiction ever received more enthusiastic support from the trade papers and the New York dailies than that elicited by "The Common Cause," at its press showing this month. The moving fact that impressed itself on everyone present was the bounteous entertaining qualities of the Blackton production. With a theme broad enough to interest all grades of spectators, irrespective of its war atmosphere, the serious motive of the story is held down to the right proportion by a blend of vigorous but unforced humor. All the necessary elements to catch the sympathy and win the approval of practically the entire screen public are to be found in the picture. Loyalty to country and the cause of the Allies, courage, reparation—the tale of three human beings who find their souls as a reward for doing their duty to humanity—are mingled skillfully with frequent scenes of genuine comedy born of the characters and situations that are the logical development of the plot.

The admiration of the French soldier for his wounded chum, the British Tommy, and the fierce but amusing rivalry of the two for the favor of a vivacious little waitress is a comedy motive that is rich in humor and the source of irresistible laughter. The fun is so compelling and it has been developed with such adroitness that it becomes of more importance than ordinary comedy relief. And it is necessary to go back to the spoken drama to find a fitting comparison to the method employed in the picture's construction.

The Skill of the Dramatist Is Still Supreme.

"The Common Cause" does not come by its kinship to the stage play by accident, but by design. Written by J. Hartley Manners and Ian Hay Beith, it was originally a spoken drama and was put together by men of the theatre, who knew the rules of their profession. And it evoked precisely the same response from the audiences in the playhouse that it received from the spectators who saw the screen version. It owes the breadth and the pull of its appeal quite as much to the manner of its making as to the matter of which it is made.

For over two thousand years mankind has been interested in the art of the dramatist. The greatest mind the world has ever known was a practical playwright. Lesser men, like Moliere and Ibsen, were practical playwrights. They understood how to reach a body of spectators as if it were one man. That is the business of the dramatist. He does not write to be read in the library, and the book thrown aside at the whim of the reader. He writes because he hopes to be acted, and unless he understands the craftsmanship of his profession he is doomed to failure.

How to hold the attention of a multitude, of three hundred or a thousand men and women of different temperaments and grades of mentality, is the practical side of the playwright's art that must be mastered if he is ever to realize his ambition. This important detail was solved centuries ago and has been passed on from generation to generation. Men of the theatre understand it today and we have writers for the screen who know how the trick is done. But they are few in number. Some of the directors, also, realize their duty in the matter. A wider knowledge of the laws that have kept the spoken drama alive since its birth and practical experience in applying these laws will develop a class of screen playwrights of which there is very great need. The screen novelist has his uses. He will become more useful when he advances to the position of screen dramatist.

Ignorance and prejudice are bad advisers. If J. Stuart Blackton had hearkened to the cry against adapting stage drama to the screen that is the favorite occupation of those who have never devoted any honest thought to the subject, the followers of the moving picture would have been deprived of the excellent entertainment offered by "The Common Cause."

BULLETS AND WOUNDS

By ROBERT C. MCELRAY.

T HE oft-quoted line, "He jests at scars who never felt a wound," might have been written of certain performers in moving pictures. There is beyond doubt a great deal of truth in the criticisms which appear from time to time of the ineffective manner in which fire-arms are employed on the screen. Within one week recently we saw two dramatic or melodramatic offerings, whichever they were intended to be, in which the heroine fired point blank at the hero, by mistake. In both instances the hero fell to the ground, lay there a few moments in a stunned condition, and presently got up rubbing his head, but apparently unharmed. In neither instance was there the slightest effort to check to the probabilities, which were of course instant death for the hero in each case, or at least a long term in a hospital.

The ridiculous and deliberate misuse of weapons is a constant source of irritation to screen patrons. The practice is excusable, though perhaps greatly overdone, in knockout comedies, but it weakens some otherwise strong dramatic productions tremendously. It has been carried to such an absurd extent that it not only weakens the productions in which it occurs, but has a tendency to harm legitimate dramas as well. The mere sight of a revolver or automatic pistol in the hands of a performer should carry something of a thrill of apprehension to the observer, but in how many instances does it really have this effect? Very few, we fear, for the experienced screen-goer has been fooled so many times that the sight creates but a faint stir of emotion within him.

Speaking in all seriousness, would it not pay directors to enter into an armistice and "demobilize" their acting forces for a time at least? The use of weapons in pictures has been so abused that the dramatic value of situations in which they appear has been greatly vitiated. Actors in many instances have come to the point of letting the gun do all of the work, and the appearance of a weapon often destroys rather than creates drama.

In many states, perhaps a majority of them now, there are laws prohibiting the carrying of concealed weapons. The penalties for the violation of these laws are so great that few people feel free to "tote a gun" any more. It would seem that for the mere sake of verisimilitude in modern stories the screen should restrict the practice to duly authorized officers of the law, as in real life. It certainly does not seem proper that the hero and heroine and others in the cast, without such authority, should go about carrying weapons.

There are of course many productions which absolutely demand the use of fire-arms—border dramas, gambling house stories and the like. Most of these yarns are dated back to the days when packing a gun was not a legal offense, but in present times there is not much excuse for it. What do people do in these days under stress of high emotions when there are no guns to be had. If scenario writers will look this question over and devise some answer to it in their next stories, we might find some new work for actors and fresh situations for the screen. Merely to make an attempt to get a story across without a gun in it would be a fine bid for originality, and well worth trying.

But if there must be guns in stories, let us learn to treat the effect of them on the screen in a legitimate manner. A bullet wound is a serious matter, and in so picturing it we may at least restore to a certain extent the tragic or dramatic character of such an infliction.

PREJUDICE DOESN'T EXIST

LOOKING through a recent copy of the Bioscope, a film trade paper published in London, we came across an article headed thusly: "Britain's Opportunity—America's Film Productivity Likely to be Reduced by 50 Per Cent.—Why Should not the British Producer Make Up the Shortage?" Then we read on to discover the basis for the yarn. We discovered that the War Industries Committee were engaged upon scheduling legislation which should have as its object the reduction of American film product by one half and that the activity of the War Industries Committee was the outcome of representations made by George Kleine, who said that the supply was in excess of the demand.

We are sure that Mr. Kleine will feel flattered in being taken so seriously by our contemporary across the pond, since, up to now, no one here has credited him with such profound knowledge of motion picture conditions in this country. A case of a prophet not without honor, except in his own country.

But the war is over and the War Industries Committee is in the scrap heap from which there is no hope of conservation, so that, the wish of The Bioscope that British producers might make up the deficit which the War Industries Committee was expected to create will not materialize.

The main question still exists: Why cannot British producers sell pictures in America?

It has been suggested by Britons that there existed a prejudice against British pictures because they were British; that we ought to lay aside that prejudice and take their pictures as they take ours—frequently and liberally.

Our friends of the trade in Britain are barking up the wrong tree. There never has been any prejudice in this country against British films as such. When a picture made in England that had merit and appealed to the tastes of our public it has been successful. But that success, whatever its measure might have been, was gained solely through the merit of the picture itself. By that statement we mean that there never has been a time when a British picture had back of it the selling power of its producer.

Contrast the methods Americans adopt to sell pictures in Great Britain to those British makers follow in this country. In the item of publicity alone eighty per cent. of the advertising in British trade papers is for American productions. When do you see a like effort or a fraction of it put forth to sell a British film here?

Marketing films in this country is a business of which trade paper advertising is not more than five per cent. of the expense. An organization of competent salesmen and publicity men are required to put even the best pictures over.

If British producers will loosen up and get into the game of selling film here as it is sold by American producers they will find the market receptive to their product.

The American market is very responsive to proper promotion, but this is a competitive market and in all business transactions here friendship ceases to be a controlling factor.

THEATRES AND PURE AIR

By LOUIS REEVES HARRISON.

We need not feel sorry for ourselves that we have lost a large amount of money through the general closing of theatres unless we realize that it was to have been expected and that it may be remedied in the future. The thing to do is to purge ourselves of those conditions which contribute to epidemics of disease, get ready to meet situations which may come up again sooner than we anticipate, and profit by our losses during the period of influenza by giving more attention to instructions from health departments in great centres of population.

Our people usually like to have a good time. Most of them want to live right. To reconcile these simply use plain facts.

"About the theatres," says Dr. Royal Copeland, New York Health Commissioner, "I never had any doubt about the sanitary ones. The only question of infection was in relation to the hole-in-the-wall moving picture shows. Some of these had no direct doors and windows opening into the air. Sometimes their artificial ventilation systems were defective or not operating. Such places were breeding grounds for the disease.

His remarks are intended for limited application. Certain theatres are marked for future inspection.

But the entire industry is seriously affected. Health departments, bureaus of licenses and the police have their eyes on incompetent exhibitors, but the public is not so discriminating. Future losses from a general closing on account of such places can be avoided, but injury has been done exhibitors who co-operated with the health authorities and to moving picture shows as a whole. It is not enough that all should have a knowledge of sanitary principles—they should be more widely and intelligently utilized.

This is in common fairness to all exhibitors. A few incompetents can do large and widespread injury.

The whole game is a big one, so tremendous that it can only reach a development in proportion to its importance through scrupulous honesty in all of its departments, of production, of distribution, of exhibition, through that marvelous combination of effort which brings success to all large affairs, team work.

There should be no place in our unity of purpose to improve for those incompetents whose individual selfishness and small greed can undermine and seriously injure the entire structure.

It is obvious that we should keep our bodies healthy. Clean red blood has much to do with happiness.

Why poison it at public gatherings with foul air? Why smother one great source of enjoyment in a place supposed to be devoted to our entertainment, particularly when the facts of ventilation and its systems are widely and commonly known? There are thousands of intelligent and high-minded exhib-
EXHIBITORS RESSENT LOCALIZATION MOVE

Meeting of New Minneapolis Organization Thrown Into Disorder by Motion to Restrict Activities

A Factional fight between two clans of Minneapolis moving picture men developed a rather sensational aspect when the Theatrical Protective League, formerly by thirty Minneapolis exhibitors, was made permanent at a meeting in the West Hotel, Minneapolis, Thursday, December 12.

W. H. Deeth was elected in the new movement at the outset of the meeting, over which W. A. Steffes, a prominent Minneapolis exhibitor, acting as chairman, presided. All went well until W. H. Deeth made a motion to amend the by-laws to restrict the activities of the new organization to purely local affairs. A demonstration of wild disorder followed, and it was with difficulty that the chairman restored order. By a vote of 16 to 14 Mr. Deeth's motion to make the new organization a local one was lost.

Those of the old organization who were unfavorable to the proposed plan of operation taking in exhibitors from points tributary to Minneapolis filed out in high dudgeon, with the exception of Dan Eselin, treasurer of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Corporation of the Northwest and also elected to a place on the executive board of the new organization.

The by-laws had been accepted making the organization permanent, the acting chairman declared all officers vacant, and T. E. Mortensen, editor of Amusements, was requested to act as temporary chairman. He called the meeting and ordered the election of officers to proceed.

Bohlig Makes Nomination Speech.
S. I. Bohlig of the Emerson Theatre, who made the nomination speech, mentioned that the men who had previously been elected temporary officers be unanimously elected to the same offices permanently.

Request was made by Mr. Steffes, who had acted as temporary president during the formation of the new organization, that Mr. Bohlig withdraw his motion, suggesting that before making any further nominations those present take into consideration the advisability of placing the temporary officers back in office.

He discussed in detail the agitation against himself as president of the organization by members of the older league and stated that for the sake of harmony he would much prefer to see some one else placed at the head of the new body, "some one who would be acceptable to the bolters."

He related how some of the exhibitors had told of being approached by other exhibitors and men regarding himself as the head of the new organization. He reported the activities of a committee which had been appointed to call on the officers of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Corporation of the Northwest and ask them to resign, hold a new election of officers and merge the old organization with the Minneapolis branch of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Corporation.

The health of our manhood is a war lesson; this lesson is deeply planted in the American mind. Physical slackers do not belong to these times. With manhood meaning mental vigor and physical strength, motherhood a new happiness under finer conditions, as well as a sacred duty, childhood a time of flowering made more vital by evenly-balanced training, all to our individual advantage and to our greatness as a nation, it is just as well to give heed to sanitary regulations for picture shows and treat the question as seriously as we have done that of political liberty and world enlightenment.

W. A. Steffes two organizations into one. The purpose, he said, was to bring about harmony and insure a strong organization.

The officers of the old league, he said, agreed to resign if he, Steffes, would resign and promise not to run for office again. This, said Mr. Steffes, he was willing to do, with the provision that the officers of the old league do likewise. Mr. Steffes cited the report of the committee that the officers refused to consider the proposition in that light. "In view of these facts," he said, "there's only one thing to do and that is go ahead with the new organization and make it a success."

Steffes Elected President.
Mr. Bohlig, who made the original motion to return the temporary officers, then withdrew his motion and dramatically moved that Mr. Steffes be elected president by acclamation. A wild tumult followed and there was no evidence of a dissenting vote. Mr. Steffes took the chair in the midst of a great demonstration.

Those who served with Mr. Steffes and temporary officers were re-elected. They were: Vice-president, Jack Martin; secretary, John Bergstrom; and treasurer, George Carisch. The following were elected on the board of directors: Dan Eselin, Max Wittles, Ed Hinz, S. G. Bohlig and Mr. Dedman.

The articles of the constitution state that the corporation and officers of the organization are to "secure protection and cooperation, to raise the standard of motion picture films and the motion picture business generally, to give fair and equitable treatment from all with whom we have business transactions, to prevent breaches of contracts of whatever nature, to secure reasonable insurance rates, to secure protection against adverse legislation, to adjust difficulties with labor, to promote the spirit of good fellowship in all lines of the business, to adjust minor matters of importance to the exhibitor, and to further the best interests of the League and the public in general, all the while pertaining to the exhibitors' business."

Edna Gladys Brown Dead

After a Brief Illness

An announcement was made last week of the death of Miss Edna Gladys Brown, who succumbed to pneumonia on December 12 after a brief illness. The deceased had been connected with the motion picture business for more than ten years, beginning in 1907 as a partner of Joseph R. Miles, who was cashier of Miles Bros. Later she was cashier of the Motion Picture Distributing and Sales Company and occupied a similar position with the Film Supply Company, formed after the Sales Company was abandoned.

When the Film Supply Company dissolved she became one of the active directors of the Exclusive Supply Company, and finally, with Joseph Miles, assisted in the formation of the Lloyds Film Exchange and continued in the management of that concern up to the time of her death.

Miss Brown was probably as well informed in matters relating to motion pictures and the trade generally as any engaged in that business. Possessed of a charming disposition she made many friends who will mourn her demise.

The funeral services were held at the Funeral Church, Broadway and Sixty-seventh street, New York, on Saturday, December 14, and were attended by many members of the motion picture trade.

Pianists and other musicians may be quickly secured through The World's Classified Advertising.
MADGE KENNEDY: HER DAY DREAMS

Goldwyn Star Gives the History of the Wise Little Goosegirl and the Splendid White Knight, Born of Imagination, Who Becomes Flesh and Blood Reality

By Edward Weitzel

experienced lady-killers. But she holds to her faith, and the way the flowering of her romance is brought about in this prosaic age is novel and interesting.

"You prefer a character of this kind, perhaps, to one of the queens of polite farce you have so often impersonated?"

"Yes, indeed," Madge Kennedy exclaimed earnestly. "I love to make people laugh, but I want to make them feel deeply, also, to help them understand something of the beauty of life. I shall never want to play weepy heroines, and I hope to keep on with the characters that help people to feel light-hearted and to throw off their worries. Only, I'd like to be able, somewhere in the story, to show that the girl I am acting is strong and fine of nature and capable of true feeling and deep sympathy. My little goosegirl is like that, in spite of her day dreams and her ignorance of the world."

Praise for a Brother Professional.

At this juncture Madge Kennedy's maid appeared in the doorway and looked in anxiously.

"Have the trunks gone?" asked her mistress.

"Yes—-and the taxicab is waiting." "We'll leave in ten minutes."

It was evident the maid was not at all easy in her mind as she turned away, so the interviewer reached for his headgear.

"Don't go!" exclaimed the actress who has had so many stage and screen honeymoons during her short professional career. "I promised you my time until 12 o'clock, and I'm going to keep my word. And I must tell you about one of the geese we used in the picture. He is the leader of the flock that supported Geraldine Farrar at the Metropolitan Opera House, and a wise old bird, in every sense of the word. I was given his reputation for being a thorough artist and a gentleman both on and off the stage, but my awe of him had a strong admixture of fear. This is the reason.

I still retain a mental picture of a greatly terrifi ed small girl headed for home and mother and hotly pursued by a gentleman goose with outstretched wings who had been disturbed while taking the ladies of his family for a walk down a country road. I had heard of the powerful blow a gander can strike with his wings, so I ran and screamed with all my might when the flock turned and hissed at me. We were stopping at a farmhouse for the summer and my mother had the gate open by the time I reached it. I was only five years old when this happened, but I would not acknowledge the goose had frightened me. I had taken off my shoes and stockings and was carrying them under my arms when attacked.

"What made you run, if you were not afraid?" I was asked. And between sobs I replied: "I didn't want the old goose to steal my shoes."

"With this recollection still in your mind," Miss Kennedy, "no wonder you hesitated over trusting yourself too near the leader of the Metropolitan flock. The star of "Day Dreams" assumed an air of comic terror.

"Why, you may not believe it, but the first time I started to rehearse a scene with that feathered Brigham Young I felt the way a stunt performer must feel just before doing a leap for life over a high cliff; and it was several days before I conquered my fear of the bird sufficiently to go through the business.

Madge Kennedy in "Day Dreams" (Goldwyn).
December 28, 1918

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

1151

SOME SQUARE PLUGS IN ROUND HOLES

By FLOYD BROWN

Manager First National Exhibitors' Circuit Exchange, Indianapolis, and Director Motion Picture Division

SIFould we meet a man somewhere in the vicinity of the equator attempting to dispose of a stock of ear muffs our hearts would go out to him in pity, but when we come in contact with a man in the motion picture business trying to sell amusement merchandise on a plan equally ridiculous it causes our sympathetic heart to do the double shuffle and resolve into something bordering on derision.

Some prophet of the dim and distant past, whose foresight was as good as his hindsight, warned the world with "Know Thy Market." And let us hope the business world today is "Know Thy Market." It is just as essential for the exhibitor to know his market, by knowing his community, as it is for the exporter to keep his finger on the pulse of Paris, Peru or Polynesia.

The great big vital problem, the bomb that causes the roofies and frequently the veterans of the industry to suffer from headaches, is that the gentle public is always about two leaps ahead of the producer and exhibitor.

The public's mood and taste is in a state of constant change and evolution. The greatest danger the exhibitor has to meet is his failure to analyze conditions as they exist. If he fails to anticipate the future or even the current moods of the public, allowing tradition or past occurrences to be his guide, he is in the position of the boy who was late at school because, as he explained, every time he took a step forward he slipped back two. To the teacher's query as to how he finally arrived, he answered that he turned around and started back home. The exhibitor who finds himself in a similar predicament has only to emulate the boy by reversing the gears of his thought machine.

Many exhibitors are not in sympathy with their own business. They lack the natural imaginative and dramatic instinct so essential to its successful conduct, and thereby attribute their failure to the wrong causes.

The commandments inscribed on the stones of the amusement world are as much ignored and as often misinterpreted as the well known ten placed on Mount Sinai for the guidance of mankind, and the Billy Sundays of the business can boast of few converts.

Some whose eyes are opened up by a war picture that they should give their patrons nothing but war pictures. Cinema filmmakers for exhibition under new names and titles as new and original motion picture films, that the exhibiting of such pictures is calculated and designed to and does defraud and deceive the exhibitors who place their trust in the public, and to the belief that said picture films are new and original are and were never before exhibited or produced.

It has been given to the company that the charges of the complaint above outlined will be heard by the Federal Trade Commission at its office, Fifteenth and Indiana AVes., Northwest, Washington, January 17, 1919, or as soon thereafter as the case may be reached, at which time and place the company is directed to appear, and should not be entered by the Commission requiring it to cease and desist from the violation of law charged in the complaint. The company is required to file its answer within thirty days after service of this complaint, the date of which is December 2.

Big Penalty for Exhibitors

Making False Tax Returns

A new pronunciamento covering the penalties that will attach in the case of failure to make proper returns under the seating capacity tax provision of the new law has come from the office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. The Treasury Department some time ago announced that it was making an effort to see to it that the motion picture theatre owners, in common with all other taxpayers, turn in to the Government the exact figures to which they are entitled under the provisions of the law.

It has been whispered about that some of the theatre owners, in stating the capacity of their houses for the purpose of paying the tax, fail to put down the exact number of seats and in this way secure the advantages of a lower tax rate. In doing so these exhibitors make themselves liable to a rather heavy penalty. The text of Commissioner Roper's new ruling is as follows:

Where the proprietor of a theatre makes return of special tax within the meaning of the act provided by law for tax returns of the seating capacity, it is impossible to indicate liability to tax at a rate lower than that to which he is in fact liable, the 30 per cent. penalty does not attach to a later payment covering the same period at the proper rate. However, if the first return was fraudulent, liability to the 100 per cent. penalty will be regarded as incurred. The same rule applies where liability to tax at a rate lower than that to which the owner is actually entitled is indicated by misstatement of the population of the place in which the theatre is located.

When, after payment of special tax at a certain rate the seating capacity of a theatre is increased beyond that which had been previously made to cover, tax at a higher rate must be paid covering the period beginning with the first day of the month in which the increased capacity is indicated by misstatement in the month of June 30, following. If a return disclosing the new limitation is not made during the month in which the change takes place, the penalty of 20 to 50 per cent. of the new tax is incurred. The payment of tax at the higher rate does not entitle the taxpayer to refund of any part of the amount first paid.

Charge Lasso Misleads

Exhibitors and Public

THE Lasso Pictures Company is making a defense of a complaint issued against it by the Federal Trade Commission, which states that it has reason to believe the company has been using unfair methods of competition in interstate commerce. From a preliminary investigation made by the commission, it is found that within the year last the respondent, the Lasso Pictures Company, with the purpose, intent and effect of stifling and suppressing competition in the motion picture industry in interstate commerce has secured certain motion picture films which have been exhibited and displayed to the public by the exhibitors prior to the date respondent secured same, and that respondent changes the title and names of said motion picture films, sells, leases and offers for sale such old
What Will the Film Producer Do Toward Meeting Educational Demands of Future

It has seemed to many of us that the producer has used short sighted methods in dealing with what now promises to become the biggest assets of the screen, the educational film. In his eagerness to serve public taste he has concentrated all his efforts on a majority of his product in the form of entertainment characteristics, and has left the educational aspect of the situation to take care of itself.

That this should have been the case is much as if the reader has scattered on the surface of things no ready market for a class of film which served chiefly to educate, is not at all singular. And inasmuch as schools and other educational institutions desiring to make use of the moving picture looked for something for nothing by force of a circumstance or view whose existence was chiefly responsible, it was difficult for the producer to bring himself to a frame of mind which justified a concentrative effort on something that promised an insufficient financial return.

With one or two exceptions the educational department of the producer's war room has succeeded in the necessary elements of salesmanship. There has been little or no effort made to advertise films of an educational nature in a manner calculated to hit the ultimate consumer which is undoubtedly the educational institution. And there has been only the weakest kind of an effort made to assemble and convert if possible into brief bits of theatre entertainment to be used as "fillers." In the majority of cases these have been travel or geological subjects, and the educational film in a truly educational aspect for the time ceased to be.

This term of hibernation we have reason to believe is over. The great war has come and gone; and out of its ruins has arisen a spectre which is rapidly being transformed into a vastly real and material thing. This "thing" is a universal appreciation of the uses to which the moving picture film can be put apart from its theatrical attributes.

The tremendous possibilities of the screen in every walk of education, in every branch of science is no longer a supposition. The idea is about to evolve itself into a demand. The majority of educational institutions throughout the country are already equipped with projection machines and necessary adjuncts for the use of the film. The Department of Labor is busily at work with the awakening of sluggish responsibilities. It is probing the consciousness of the educationist. The community worker by means of the film is striving to solve social and moral problems which the war has revealed, and our Government has realized its unlimited usefulness as a distribution of propaganda. What, then, are you, the producer, going to do to meet that demand of the near future which will serve not only the purposes of the educationist, but also those of the exchequer of the industry?

MARGARET I. MACDONALD.

New England Expresses Itself.

The fresh interest of the public in the subject of motion pictures following the war was indicated at two meetings held recently in Boston, Conn., and Worcester, Mass. The former was held in the High School building of the town under the auspices of the Killington Woman's Club, and the latter in the Free Public Library building, was called the Worcester Board of Review of Motion Pictures, composed of sixty-nine representatives of civic and educational organizations of the city. Both of these meetings were addressed by Orrin G. Cocks, Assistant Secretary of the National Board of Review. At the former the subjects discussed were the importance of the motion picture in connection with the war, the advances made in the motion picture art, and the use of selected motion pictures for young people. Questions were asked, and during the discussion the possibility of greater cooperation with the exhibitor in connection with "family nights" and the use of pictures considered particularly suitable for young people.

The Worcester Board of Review of Motion Pictures, purely voluntary in its organization, works in cooperation with the National Board and the city officials. At the meeting great interest was shown in the marked developments of the motion picture in the course of the last two years, and the patriotic service of the motion picture industry. The discussion which followed the address centered around parental responsibility in the attendance of young people at motion picture exhibitions, the opportunities for the larger use of educational pictures, and the possibility of extended family programs. The audience appeared to appreciate the impracticability of State action as a means of regulating the motion picture industry, and the possibility of extended family programs. The audience was interested enough to ask a reviewer of pictures on a national basis, such as is conducted by The National Board, was more suitable in a democracy.

To Make Film in Kentucky Mountains.

Harry Levey, of the Industrial Department of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, during a recent trip into the Kentucky Mountains for the purpose of photographing conditions as they are known to exist in these parts, and also the benefits of the community work being carried on by Alice Geddes Lloyd.

It is three years now since Mrs. Lloyd journeyed into this mountains of Kentucky and laid the foundation for a philanthropic work, which has grown more and more extensive. She has taught these primitive people many of the truths regarding modern methods of living. The community work being done by her is of a most interesting type, all of which is expected to be brought out in the film which Mr. Levey is about to make.

Films of Business Active.

The Films of Business Corporation seems to be unusually active since the return of the industry to more normal conditions. It has established a service for foreign distribution of industrial pictures. This points to a larger appreciation of the values of the industrial film and suggests the existence of a cooperative spirit in the relations between commerce and screen, which should mean larger developments in the business assets of both. The first foreign shipment of industrial films from the Films of Business Corporation left for Cuba last week.

A vocational school on the Pacific Coast has just purchased for use in its class rooms a copy of this company's "Mephisto" auger bit picture, and has ordered a copy of their latest on Stanford's ink, which has just been completed.

Look to Goldwyn for Ford Weekly.

The Goldwyn Distributing Corporation has contracted for the distribution rights of the Ford Educational Weekly. This means, among other things, that all the Ford negatives, past and present, will be placed under the control of Goldwyn. It also means that the pictures will be re-edited and re-titled, and will be placed before the public à la Goldwyn. The Ford Educational Weekly has made rapid gain in popularity owing to the excellent quality of both material and photography employed in the making of it. Reviews of the first Goldwyn releases will appear in these columns very shortly.

Foreign Titles for Biological Film.

Mrs. Katherine F. Carter of the Exhibitors Booking Agency has been unusually busy for the past few weeks on work for the United States Government. This work entails the translation of the subtitles of the biological film "How Life Came Into the World," a film paralleled in the history of the world and the inserting of these translated titles into prints which are to be exhibited in France and Italy. These exhibitions were given at the various camps, and in connection with other community work and in schools abroad. The extensive success with which this film has been received in France and Italy has persuaded the Committee of the War to allow the providing of this film and of the series "To Head Food," which will be shown with the more emotional art of military propaganda. The detailed description of the picture would be futile. Suffice it to say that there are thousands of all kinds, viewed at all angles in their intercourse with the trees, the mountains and rocks, the rivers and lakes, and sometimes with the sky alone with only themselves to populate it.
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

December 28, 1918

"Celebes, in Dutch Malaysia."

A quite pleasing travel number of the Post-Path films which pictures life on the island of Celebes, in the Dutch Malaysia group. The greatest port is Manado, and the natives, who number a million and a quarter all told, resemble the Javanese. This subject shows market scenes, loading and unloading of vessels, religious edifices and various types of native faces.

"Back to Nature."

Major Jack Allen is making a series of outdoor pictures. His idea is a good one which has many possibilities, and very shortly he intends to engage even further in the production of these pictures of which but one has been shown to the public thus far.

This particular picture "Back to Nature" is a very clever composition, and is an example of the true comedy element, as well as entertaining common sense methods of living the simple life. The story of the picture is that of a man who wagered that he could live a certain length of time in the woods without the aid of outside influences. Here he found the food that nature provided, and lighted his fire with nature's own tools and lived in seeming luxury after the methods provided for by nature. This picture was shown at the Strand Theatre, New York, during the week of Dec. 8.

Industrial Producer Honored.

Camilla Donworth, president of the Films of Business Corporation has been elected a director of the Salesmanship Club of New York, and has also been made chairman of its publicity committee.

Good salesmanship affects the moving picture industry just as vitally as capable production; and to no branch of the business can it be more effectively applied than to the educational end. In fact, negligent salesmanship rather than lack of production has been the hindrance in extensive distribution of the educational film.

The Salesmanship Club of New York in that regenerative state which reorganization brings, has pledged itself to bring to the business men of the industrial world by advocating the best methods of salesmanship among its members and to inspire in them a desire to serve the best interests of their employers and industry at large.

We congratulate Miss Donworth on her election to fill the offices in which the Salesmanship Club has done her honor to place her.

Buy or sell; trade what you don't want for something you do. That's what The World's Classified Advertising is intended to accomplish.

Northeastern Theatres

To Aid in Coal Saving

At the request of the United States Fuel Administration the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry through its fuel conservation committee has launched a campaign to cover the northeastern section of the United States.

This campaign will be conducted in the motion picture theatres in the territory which the Fuel Administration regards as the most important of the regular weekly issues of the news weeklies.

Sufficient trailers have been provided to cover a case for this campaign and the plan is to release two trailers each week. The news weeklies were selected for this purpose owing to the fact that the three weeklies co-operating with the association in this work, the Universal, Pathé and Gaumont, reach practically every theatre in the territory in which the Fuel Administration believes there exists an acute necessity for the economy of coal during the coming winter months.

This territory includes New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia. The Fuel Administration has asked that these trailers be not shown outside of the above mentioned territory and exhibitors not located within the restricted zone are requested not to show the trailers in case news weeklies come to them with the trailers attached.

This campaign has been under discussion by the Fuel Conservation Committee of the National Association and the Fuel Administration for about a considerable time. This committee consists of Marcus Loew, chairman; F. A. Powers, B. S. Moss, Samuel Rothapfel, William Brandt, Sydney Cohen, Albert Lowe, Gabriel Hess and Harry Crandall.

Jam On in Adams, Mass.

There is a lively controversy on hand between Dr. A. H. Russell, chairman of the Board of Selectmen and political leader of the town, and Thomas Russell, one of the town's largest real estate developers. Russell also runs the Taylor Theatre.

The Boom-Russell controversy came to a head when Mr. Russell sought a license for a picture show on Sun-day and the license was held up to the last minute.

The two men met on the street and there was such an angry discussion that a crowd collected. Dr. Boom declared there would be no more Sunday night shows at the Taylor. Mr. Russell said that he should be able to show films as long as other theatres were allowed to have Sunday shows. The outcome of the controversy is being watched with considerable interest.

Duffy to Represent Bessie Love.

Bessie Love, who became recently affiliated with the Picturesque Photo Company, is represented by Gerald C. Duffy, as her personal representative. For the past six months Mr. Duffy has been serving in the same capacity for Wills Tobacco Co., and the decision to take to that time was made by Gerald C. Duffy's three years editor of Picture-Play Magazine. Mr. Duffy is well known as a fiction and magazine writer, and has had several published contributions on his record.
A double two and a half-inch space for "The Beast of Berlin," showing how to get an inset effect through twelve point and hairline rule.

of a special strip. Also, he gets an expanded and condensed letter of the same family. We don’t know whether this is intentional or whether the type was improperly distributed, but his yellow and dogs do not match up. If you look at the top line of the “See” bank you’ll notice that he drops them down to lower case for the last word, probably because he could not get the line all in caps. That’s cheating. The last sample is a three 1/4. We do not like the rule under the top bank. Solid would have been better. It would have been better, too, to have given the name of the opera

A three 1/4 in which the house name is omitted.

A three 1/4 in which the house name is omitted. In Virginia City this does not matter so much, for there is only one house, and everyone knows that, but, even at that, it would have been better to have put the name in. Here the copy is good, but we should have more closely linked the three special banks, “It’s a patriotic duty to see this picture. It will make you a real American and it will make you glad that you are an American. This is not gotten over as well as it might have been, but it is well done. We’re interested in this study, and the notice comes from a patriotic source.”

Connors, Post Graduate.

Dan Connors, of Piper’s Opera House, Virginia City, Nev., has been taking a post-graduate course in advertising. A long time ago Dan bought a copy of Picture Theatre Advertising and got interested to the point where he learned the types in his local office and marked his ads to get exact results. He did not know at that time how useful his knowledge would come in, but lately the draft drained the town of compositors. They have left the country towns to go to the cities to replace men called to the colors, and the small papers have shy good compositors.

This is where Dan has a cinch. He could go to the case and set his own advertising, and this is what he did. He writes that he can set the space and tear it down to improve and keep at it until he gets just what he wants. He is on his own time, so no one kicks at the time he takes, and he gets some excellent results.

As a side angle, he can stretch his space a bit without a kick coming. The office is glad enough to have him around, and he can get extra space for the same money.

The examples reproduced here are all set by Dan himself. We wonder how many managers who have not had actual newspaper experience can do the same thing. The samples are from proofs, so the lock-up is not always exact, but the proofs are on better paper than the regular issue. The first is a pair of two eights.

A couple of eights, written and set up by Dan Connors, of Piper’s Opera House, Virginia City, Nev.

The left hand example shows a lot more panel work that is generally regarded as desirable, but panel work does well for this house, and what is good for the house is good advertising. It gets the message over, and gets it over strong. We like the idea of linking the large panels with smaller ones, and we like the semi-open panel at the top better than we do the wholly closed panel below the title. Panel repeats to have bit under a main idea here that is a good one. Leaving the top and bottom open keeps the connection between the different copies.

A three 1/4 in which the house name is omitted.
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

December 28, 1918

He put the money into a showing of "The Two Orphans," and paid all of the expenses on the day. Turning over the complete receipts to the fund. He used three sixes in which to advertise the performance, and set forth the idea in this way:

The entire receipts at all performances, both afternoon and evening, will be turned over to the Red War Fund campaign as the personal contribution of Mr. Dipson. Mr. Dipson is paying all expenses incident to the presentation of the picture, salaries of emcees and pianists, and the like. The announcement that all cards paid for are taken up in a series of paragraphts.

They Got Together.

The influenza scare had at least one good result. It brought the managers in many towns closer together. When the reopening date was announced in Indianapolis, the managers met and determined to give a big display for the reestablishment of the public. They took an entire page, each house getting a proportionate space for the display of its own attractions. The combined effect got over where similar announcements in a dozen advertisements of various spaces would not have been noticed. Just in passing, doesn't the Circle's combination of "Laughing Bill Hyde" and "Nemo" hold you as being about the best that can be done in an all-laughing show?

In the "Laugh Cure"

The Famous Drury Lane Melodrama
A Sensational Tale of Fat Borses, Flying Fists and Beautiful Women, Now Produced With All The World For Its Stage

Beginning Monday . All Week

MAURICE TOUERNEUR presents

"SPORTING LIFE"

The upper portion of a Paramount mat for a four fulls on "Sporting Life."

quarter more you are twenty-five cents in, plus the value of the suggestion you have left in the mat. But it's pretty close to a cinch that a splash will do more than pay for itself, and generally it will do much more if you have the show to back it up and run the film for more than one day. Incidentally, that "Sporting Life" special mat is one of the best laid advertisements we have seen lately. We do not always like those Paramount ads, but this one is thoroughly practical. It is not possible to show it in full, but the upper half is illustrated. The top line and the four lines in the hatching give the meat of the idea. Below the announcement that all cards paid for are taken up in a series of paragraphs.

CheerUp Theatres Are Open!

You can safely start for following theatres. They are properly ventilated and carefully maintained: A perfect sanitary condition.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Circle</th>
<th>Alhambra</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Lyric</td>
<td>Rialto</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Isis</td>
<td>Keystone</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Palms</td>
<td>Bijou</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Majestic</td>
<td>Sanders</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Colonial</td>
<td>Regent</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Remember: That Clean, wholesome amusement is the World's Most Effective Antidote for All Ills

TR THE LAUGH CURE!

The Famous Drury Lane Melodrama, A Sensational Tale of Fat Borses, Flying Fists and Beautiful Women, Now Produced With All The World For Its Stage

Beginning Monday . All Week

MAURICE TOUERNEUR presents

"SPORTING LIFE"

The upper portion of a Paramount mat for a four fulls on "Sporting Life."

the display of its own attractions. The combined effect got over where similar announcements in a dozen advertisements of various spaces would not have been noticed. Just in passing, doesn't the Circle's combination of "Laughing Bill Hyde" and "Nemo" hold you as being about the best that can be done in an all-laughing show?

In the "Laugh Cure"

The Famous Drury Lane Melodrama
A Sensational Tale of Fat Borses, Flying Fists and Beautiful Women, Now Produced With All The World For Its Stage

Beginning Monday . All Week

MAURICE TOUERNEUR presents

"SPORTING LIFE"

The upper portion of a Paramount mat for a four fulls on "Sporting Life."

as well as less troublesome and expensive than billboards. We are not altogether ready to say "Amen" to that, for we think that billboards pay, and pay well, but car cards certainly reach a lot of people if they are well planned. There is a lot to the planning, though. Lately the Brooklyn cars have been carrying a tab of some sort. It cannot be read by the man with average daylight standing in front of it, and only professional curiosity led us to stand on the seat one evening when we were going home late to see who was wasting all that money. It was the annual statement of a bank. The name of the bank was prominent in twelve-point letters, and it the largest type on the card. That is a plain waste of money. We cannot reproduce the card of Mr. Barclay's that we like the best, because of the color values, but here is a black and white which stands out well except for the name of the star. We think that a blacker letter would have been better. It is remembered that that suburban run is rather long, and a card to work must be capable of attracting attention from either end. One thing we notice is that all of Mr. Barclay's cards have a big black date. The cards are changed twice a week, and the date is important. He gets a better effect with an all-type display for "The Whip." This The Stage's Biggest Melodramatic Sensation

Now the Screen's Most Gigantic Thrill Play

"THE WHIP"

One Gigantic Sensation After Another For Two Full Hours

Four Days, Beginning WEDNESDAY NOV. 20 NEMO

A car card in all type which is better calculated to get attention than the one above.

can be read no matter where a person sits. But it must be remembered that people sitting on the same side of the car as the sign cannot see it. This is one drawback of car advertising. It is too hazardous. Mr. Barclay also sends in, rather late, a stage setting used at the its depth and softness, but the effect is far from harsh with a soft red lighting. The flags cover the screen. They are correctly placed, but the effect would have been better had the canes been hung so that they are next the frame, the flag on the left being reversed. Mr. Barclay used red lights, but would you ever try the effect of a very few white lights with your colored bulbs? Do not use enough to affect the color, but in a few, well spaced, will give a brilliance to a color that you cannot get with any medium. In the days when the serpentine dance was the craze, one dancer was noted for the brilliance of her lights, and the effects got the effects merely by poking his finger through the mediums in the frames to get a little white light through, experiment with this idea and you can obtain some unusual results.

Cut Placing.

The Lyric, Toledo, shows an odd placement of cuts and dates in a throwaway. They are a bit late for Paramount week, which was in September, but the cut idea is odd. It will be noticed that the cuts and dates are thrown into the margin.

An odd placement of cuts and dates for a throwaway.

The date being connected with the attraction by a bracket. The connection would be more apparent were a small piece of rule, or two or three hyphens, as leaders, used to extend toward the title. A first might be even better to emphasize the connection, but the idea is good and shows a new way to utilize the uniform Paramount cuts.

House Names.

Here is a part of the cuts for a combined picture and vaudeville bill. We do not like the placement of the house name. In so deep a space, it is possible to get room across the top for the house name, particularly as in the vaudeville space, which is not shown, and a coming band.

The Orpheum Theatre

Today and Tomorrow

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS
IN THE Lively PART COLOR ENTITLED
FLIRTING WITH FATE

A bad placement of the house name. In such a space the article and "theatre" should be dropped.

In the Stillman, for example, the use of the star cast overshadows the title. Compare the display with that for the Knickerbocker. Here the title shows up well. There is less text, but the composition is better, too. The Stillman could have run in the names of the stars and so have gained space for a larger type for the title or, at least, for employing isolating white space, which would have served about as well. We think the lack of the larger papers to get a special companion trained in show-print work and keep him on that work alone, or, at least, to let him set all the amusement advertising. About the worst showing is for the Cedar, in which a three-eights space but is made to carry a single line of eight-point giving the title. That is disproportionate. It would be better to cut to a fourteen-point type house name, so that it would work into that one-line title. But about the worst display of the lot is that for the Orpheum, in which all the lines are about the same face, without regard to the relative values. Fairbanks, Chapman, and the word "Comedy" all get the same distinction. It could be a lot better.

A Composite.

Here is a half-page from a Terre Haute weekly paper. It has as its foundation three of the Paramount mats, worked up with a couple of boxes and the house signature. The panels are wrongly placed.

A half-page magazine advertisement, made up of individual Paramount mats.

In that the announcement reads Sunday-Monday, Thursday-Friday-Saturday, and Tuesday-Wednesday. Probably this is because two of the boxes relate to the Saturday show, but the Arbuttle panel could be shown in it, and the "Special Matinee" could have gone above the Saturday in its proper place. This would also have the advantage of centering the today and tomorrow, but this should have been dropped to the bottom with the house signature rising to the level of the centre. A good idea is suggested here, but the idea is better than its execution.

All Wrapped Up.

Herbert Jennings, of the Strand, Ottawa, used a prescription envelope to advertise "To Hell with the Kaiser. On the outside "Dr. Joy" was printed in the upper left-hand corner with a 36-point "Good dope in capitals across the centre. Inside a cardboard cut to fit read, "3 Excellent thoughts," which were, to keep your feet dry, see "To Hell with the Kaiser" and buy Victory Bonds, the Canadian equivalent of our own Liberty Loan." A straight forward pass unnoticed by themselves will often be read if they are enveloped and so appeal to the common trait of curiosity.

Picture Theatre Advertising

By EPES WINTHROP SARGENT
Conductor of Advertising for Exhibitors in the Moving Picture World

A TEXT BOOK AND A HAND BOOK, a complete "How to," guide. It tells all about advertising, about type and type-setting, printing and papers, how to run a house program, how to frame your newspaper advertisements, how to write form letters, posters, throw-aways, how to make your house an advertisement for itself. Special business, special schemes for hot weather, cool weather, on account, special because it has helped others. It will help you. By mail, postpaid, $2.50. Order from nearest office.
The Photoplaywright

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

Notice!

Questions relating to the writing of photoplays and photoplay synopses will be replied to by mail where a return envelope, properly stamped, accompanies the inquiry. No attention will be paid to questions relating to the market, or can manuscripts or parts of manuscripts be criticized.

More Coals.

CLIPPING GEMS from General Hints from this department, a recent issue of the Authors' League Bulletin is out—put and a buck, jointly, in this editorial:

Let us heap a few coals of fire. Though Epes Winthrop Sargent does not pretend to any degree of knowledge, he is not a member of the Authors' League, his is a bright page and a page full of good suggestions to photoplay writers. No doubt it is for the Bulletin.

* * * He finds fault with the Bulletin, however, for question: "Are authors endangered by joining an Authors' League author as one who knows when he is being cheated by his agents?" We accept the amendment; but if this isn't being cheated, what is? It should be one of the rules of the game to have your magazine stories stolen.

We have not the time to do an article for the Bulletin, but hope that our statements are essential to this part of the story. We find fault with the Bulletin because it is too often given to the wrong information; just as there are fifty soreheads to every satisfied running author of photoplays, just as there are fifty soreheads to every satisfied magazine. It may be politic as a matter of circulation and support, for there are a hundred thousand overflowing agents who are interested in the Bulletin, that we accept the amendment; but if this isn't being cheated, what is? It should be one of the rules of the game to have your magazine stories stolen.

We are more than willing to admit that there have been numerous well-authenticated cases of thefts—some supposed to have been done at the studio. The most striking example of such thefts was the case of the studio of Paramount Studios. It is too bad that the story of such thefts should not have been brought to the attention of the public so that the public could demand that the author have his stories protected.
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD
December 28, 1918

Projection Department
Conducted by F. H. RICHARDSON

Manufacturers’ Notice.

IT IS an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods recommended for sale shall be advertised in any form whatever, editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor.

Important Notice.

Owing to the mass of matter awaiting publication, it is impossible to reply through this column within less than two to three weeks. In order to give prompt service, those sending four cents, stamps (less than actual franc), will receive a carbon copy of the department reply, by mail, without delay. Special replies by mail on matters which may touch upon in the department, one dollar.

Both the first and second sets of questions are now ready. They are distanced at half a year, the second being seventy-six in number. Either booklet may be had by remitting 25 cents, money order, or stamps, to the editor, or both for 40 cents. Cannot use Canadian stamps. Every live reader and prospective operator should get a copy of these questions. You may be surprised to find the number 210 cannot answer without a lot of study.

Probably Burned Wires or Bad Connections.

Joseph Grasso, New York City, says:

"Am having trouble with my light. Could you help me out? Have two simplex three years old. Use 110-volt D. C. On one machine I am unable to keep steady light for more than two minutes. At end of that time I lose it. Rheostates are $5-$6 amperes. The machine you recommend will be in before. More them on full and light burning and jumping from side to side. Have examined rheostats and they seem to be O. K. We have tried every kind of carbon and experimented with all German carbons, but that does not change the result. The machine now burns under abnormal side conditions gives more light from the rheostat than does the other one."

Presumably you have each projector lamp connected to its own separate rheostat. Merely to "examine the rheostat" is not enough. You must test it out for grounds. To do this proceed as follows: With the lamp carbons separated and the arc not burning, attach one wire of your test lamp to the wick of the rheostat, first sandpapering a spot clean and bright so that the wire will make good electrical contact. Now take the other end of the opposite carbon arm of your lamp—carbon arm, wire attached to which is NOT as usual—of the wire, you might say, and make in the light. Or if you get a spark as you rub the wire end along the metal of the carbon arm, there is a dead arm between the grids or coils of the resistance and its frame, which it will be up to you to locate (see page 350 of handbook) and eliminate. If your rheostat set on an iron shelf, or on anything which grounds their frames, you might try (as small) paper or cotton ground under the legs before making the above test. In fact it is best that your rheostate rest on insulating material any how, I would strongly recommend that you establish a permanent test lamp as per figure 108, page 258 of the handbook. If you use the test lamp, it will take but a moment, if you have the permanent ground test lamp, and may save many dollars, through current leakage, in the course of a year.

Assuming that there are no unusual draughts of air inside your lamp-house, that "jumping from side to side" sounds to me like variable voltage at the arc, and that most likely means a variable ground, less contact or faulty burned wires. DON'T ASSUME A CONNECTION IS ALL RIGHT JUST BECAUSE IT LOOKS ALL RIGHT. Take it apart and examine it, remembering that all connections outside those at rheostat and inside lamp house (must be tight) excepted. Half-inch solid, carbon below is right if your amperage is below 40, though the small-diameter metal-coated carbons are still better. In front of theatre and I'll drop in and see you.

What Constitutes Competence?

"Recommending apparatus is now in charge of projectionist examinations in Greater New York City. We called attention to the utter confusion of examina tions, describing the British Columbia examination to him, citing it as a really competent examination. "But good heavens, Mr. Richardson," said he, "if we put any such examination into effect here we would not pass five applicants in a year."

And the disgrace of it is that his estimate of the number of likely to pass in perhaps twenty if three would get by. I even doubt that anything more than a very small number of men now holding permits in New York City could wrestle successfully with the British Columbia examination. And that to the credit of the First City of the Land. Let us see how true it is anyhow. Could you, Mr. Holder, set up a switchboard and, with your trusty test lamp and voltmeter, select the switches thereon carrying the following: 50-volt, 25-volt and 110-volt current of the following varieties, viz: D.C. and A.C., the latter single and three-phase or single and two-phase, remembering that on this switchboard there will be some "funny" connections made, which it is up to you to insulate. Could you then step to a pile of cables and select therefrom one of the right size and of correct insulation to connect up the motor generator (not a toy apparatus, but a big motor generator) and then connect up the motor generator, which sets there entirely disconnected and with probably several things needed in the way of adjustment before it will get on the job. Having done all this (if you are able) could you go to a table whereon lie two or three projection lenses in a completely disassembled condition, together with several condenser lenses of various kinds and focal lengths, select the right lenses, assemble them and bring out the picture in the best condition of the local condition there found, connect up the projection machine to the motor generator, adjust the projector (which will most likely not be ready to run and put a good picture on the screen? If you can do all this you are then asked to figure the cost of renting the place, number of resistance problems, such as for instance, what amperage you will get from a 110-volt trolley at 5-ampere rheostat hitched in multiples—70 volts, or in series on 50 volts; or what must you show you by the examiner, to get a certain amperage, involving use of several of them, on a given voltage. In short the examiner will ascertain whether or not you understand rheostatic resistance and its practical and theoretical application. And there are other things. Oh, no examination is none too difficult. That is what an examination is for; to prevent incompetent men from getting licenses. To-day the great city of New York "examines" an applicant for license as projectionist, gives him a license and solemnly declaring to the world at large that he is "competent," whereas, as a cold-headed matter of fact I see that forty-eight cases out of every fifty, if not an even larger percentage, he could not tell you how much your picture would have at its gate, nor could he figure out the amperage resulting from a 110-volt current though a three-phase, rheostat connected in either series or multi ple on 110-volt current though a king down and his results, or the distance of the revolving shutter from the aperture is to him a mere meaningless jumble of words. Tell him to connect up and adjust a 150-ampere motor generator set and he would have hydrophobia. Suggest to him that he assume a completely disassembled projector option system, and he would bite you. Yet he holds a New York City license declaring him to be "competent," he shall be stopped? Should an incompetent man be passed merely because the city fears threats? Yet I cannot see how I can and as his name, H. Mr. Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity.

Psychology of Projection.

Samuel Rothapfel has promised that on his return from the Pacific Coast he will prepare for their publication an article on the psychology of projection. This article will, we feel certain, be of extreme interest from many viewpoints. Mr. Rothapfel undoubtedly is past master of the art of the presentation of the photoplay, taking the presentation as a whole. He gets effects that I have seen equalled nowhere else, and in the doing of this what he terms the psychology of projection in volved. We shall wait his article with more than ordinary interest, because of the fact that it will, we believe, read us a lesson in the artistry of projection.

Ingento Sold in St. Louis.

Inquiry for address of maker of In gento Dissolving Slide Carrier brought information as to names of makers in Chicago. Frederick E. Jansen, Jr., Chicago, Ill., says the Ingento is sold by Erker Brothers Optical Co., 508 Olive St., St. Louis. Jansen says the Ingento is sold by Erker Brothers Optical Co., 508 Olive St., St. Louis and that it coats two books in wood and three and a half silver card wheels in metal. There, gosh hang it, we have the Ingento matter all fixed up, and another soul made happy.
New Lens Charts.

The accompanying charts represent the most up-to-date practice in optics of the present. They are by far the most complete of any heretofore attempted. These charts are the work of Brother John Griffiths, Ansonia, Conn., but all rights, etc., have been purchased outright by the Moving Picture World. By the use of them the projectionist may quickly, and with at least very fair accuracy, ascertain the following: (A) Proper condenser combination: remembering that in order to use such charts IT IS ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY THAT THE CONDENSER LENSES BE PLACED NOT LESS THAN 1/16 OF AN INCH APART. The curves are calculated on the A F of a condenser combination with lens apart that way. If placed further apart the A F of the condenser is altered, and the whole optical result is upset. Don't attempt to use the charts with the tip of the curved surfaces of the lenses more than 1/16 of an inch apart. (B) Correct distance from a point to center of condenser to film. (C) Correct diameter of projection lens to avoid waste of light, which means waste of electrical power, hence waste of coal. (D) Correct distance of revolving shutter from aperture, which is the point at which revolving shutter main blade may be reduced to its lowest possible width, thus conserving light and reducing flicker to the lowest practicable point.

The whole chart is based on amperage used at the arc; or, to put it in another way, the condenser combination which will automatically fix the position of an arc of any given amperage at the closest possible position to the lens consistent with prevention of abnormal condenser breakage. It therefore follows that in order to use the charts intelligently one must know the amperage with at least a very fair degree of accuracy; also whether D.C., A.C., or A.C., since combinations for the two currents are quite different. The charts are sufficiently elastic to permit of reasonable variation in amperage without seriously affecting results. For instance, if an amperage is given roughly as 50 D.C., but actually is anywhere between say 47 and 53, the chart will work fairly well, though the more nearly the amperage is to the given number, the better. Many projectionists raise their amperage while a dense scene is being projected, lowering it to normal again when the dense scene is finished. This will have the practical effect of subjecting the condenser to greater heat than is designed by the chart. There will, however, be no damage done, provided there is time before the end of the reel, when the arc is shut off, for the condenser to again cool down to normal working temperature.

I would strongly advise projectionists to frame these charts and keep them on the walls of their projection rooms. Use them intelligently and they will be your friends, giving you maximum screen illumination for wattage consumed. We shall be glad to hear particulars of any case where the charts do not seem to give desired results. We venture the assertion that it will be found in such cases that you have omitted something, or have made some error in application.

The fraternity is deeply indebted to Brother John Griffiths, Ansonia, Connecticut, president New Haven, Conn. Local Union No. 273, I. A. T. S. E. & M. P. M. O., for his really splendid work in the field of practical projection machine optics.

To those the charts proceed as follows: First ascertain (having the power company fetch an ammeter and measure it if necessary) the amperage from your arc when it is working normally. Let us assume a case where it is 45 amperes D.C., and that we desire using meniscus bi-convex condensers. Looking under the heading "Amperage" on left side of chart No. 1, we find the fourth number down to be 45 D.C. We also find this number to be almost opposite the line under 28 inches in the center column, which indicates distance from aperture. This means the center of the condenser combination must be 28 inches from the film, or, to be precise, just a trifle less than 20 inches, each division of the center column representing one full inch, with cross

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Lens Chart No. 1, © 1918 by Chalmers Publishing Company.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Lens Chart No. 2, © 1918 by Chalmers Publishing Company.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
must be 6\产业发展计划和 the front (6-convex) 6\产业发展计划和 half-inch diameter, and all your condenser lenses, measure their focal length and be sure they are what the manufacturer specifies. The minimum result from a 6\产业发展计划和-inch lens is the table calls for a 6\产业发展计划和. Of course, there is considerable latitude with the 6\产业发展计划和-inch lens, but to get maximum results from the charts you must have what the charts call for. We have now arranged our condenser system as it should be. We next project a picture, focusing and follow this by measuring the back focus of the projection lens (distance from lens to picture when picture is in sharp focus). We find, on the chart, the line opposite "45 D. See the back focus is 4\产业发展计划和 inches. Looking under the "6\产业发展计划和" line opposite "45 D. See the focus is half way between 1.3 and 1.5\产业发展计划和 inches in diameter in order not to waste light, say not less than 1.8, and in practice we would probably have to get a 2-inch-diameter lens. It is here only the difficulty of application comes in, because in order to ascertain certain diameter, back focus must be known (non-glass) and this is illustrated on the right, 4th from top. We may thus place our shutter correctly and reduce its blade width to the minimum necessary. You will find the actual measurements for the two currents are wide variance.

Any projectionist who cannot understand the method of practical application of the charts as here given, will be instructed if he gives me his amperage, kind of current and back focus of his projection lens. Might also give its diameter—diameters of course.

Note: If slide carrier is not used the diameter of aerial image will be approximately the geometric measurement of the slide carrier image.

From the Vancouver Local.
Brother B. E. Marshall, press secretary, Vancouver, B. C., local, pokes the following over the snow-capped Rockies.

"Bit Hard to Learn," thought oc- currence are in a recent issue entitled "A Bit Hard to Learn," the thought oc- curred to me, "What do the people in your part of the country know that we at this end know?" I sent you what Local 248 is doing to help returned, disabled soldiers. In the first place, we are G.O.C. in this particular view. We are, however, trying to teach a limited number of our returned, disabled soldiers how to make proper picture projection, so that they will be able to compete with the higher class projectionists, and thus be in a position to demand and earn good salaries. In other words, we are helping the men who have lost all or a large part of their limbs to become the best possible projectionists. On the day when a man is accepted as apprentice he must have the recommendation of the Vocational Train- ing School, Vancouver, B. C. Upon receiving this he is initiated into the local, and the course is laid out for him, beginning with the simpler, then the more complex of mathematics and elementary optics. After this he is given a six months' course in the Vocational Training School, studying the principles of the various elec- trical and mechanical devices of projection. He is then placed in a projection room as apprentice to one of our members, and is given a six months' course working in all the branches of practical projection, as well as the uses and abuses of the different apparatus which are endeavoring to teach in nine months (Pennsylvania and other state and U. S. officials take notice of how we are treating our hands upon the student himself. While the student is studying under the direction of our men he receives a salary of $1.00 per day, and all his expenses, including books and personal care, are paid by the Government. These men must pass the Government examination for projec- tionists, which is, as you know, a "bit stiff." At this date none are far enough advanced to take an examination, but we have hopes that all will secure a first-class card.

"From the foregoing you will see that we are trying to do our bit to help the re- turned soldier. The number of apprentices we will accept this course, we cannot and do not lose sight of the fact that many of them will have to go over seas and are entitled to positions when they come back. Best wishes to yourself and the men."

There, that is what I call hard-boiled common sense. Moreover, it is illustrative of what can be accomplished when Gover- nment officials are sincere and place utility and common sense above job-hold- ing and politics. Here is a case of intelli- gence, co-operation, and the good Government officials and departments and a labor union, which is making for the highest good of all concerned. As the return of the disabled soldiers are taken care of as can be assimilated without displace- ment, the men who have given up their jobs, pass in projection rooms to go to the front, and have the right to expect them back on turn. Now, the same men as can be used will be made competent work- men, not half-baked incompetents who must stand and be reproached by both physical disability and lack of knowledge. Brother Marshall aptly says the local is helping the Government and taking care of its own. This is a course which will work justice to the man, to the local, to the Government to the theatre, and to the entire profession. The contrast with what some of our train-him-a-week, give-him-a-license-and-set-him-to-work-f-cowardly idiots want to do down here is painful. Up there they have regard for the interest of the re- turned soldier first. They propose to make him capable of doing high class work and demanding salary commensurate there- with. Brother B. E. Marshall, I propose to shake hands with him at the hospital and shvoe [not say kick] him into the project, and where I will make him as a whole month of "lectures," and demonstration a fact. Yet, of course, know he will not be likely, hence not in a position to demand re- muneration. But it is a much better thing, to our brother in British Columbia, to its officials and to Local Union 348, I wish that I could mean measurements, but have not. To carry its card is an honor."
Music for the Picture
Conducted by GEORGE W. BEYNON

Effect of the Great War Upon Music
Is Discussed and Analyzed by Great Artists

DAVID BISPHAM, the distinguished musician and singer, has recently to the world will undoubt-ly have a great effect upon music.
In that way it will change the output not as yet apparent, for we know a cataclysm cannot take place without producing a profound effect upon every moral happening.

"It may be that some sensitive people, such as musical composers are, will be so shocked as to be scarcely able to set pen to paper at all, while others will be exalted by the tragedy of the war as to produce compositions of such granduer as never before have been heard.
"Uttered in the present time, however, all that we see is a superficial, though no doubt well intended, mass of songs and instrumental pieces, emanating from those whose musical attainments are not of the highest order. Though their intentions are of the very best, they are over-flowing with a patriotism which in itself is superb, but which in its expression lacks the depth of thought which alone can cause any work to have more than an ephemeral existence.

Some songs there are which seem immediately to have made an enormous appeal, such as 'Keep the Home Fires Burning' and 'Over There,' but in case of the latter song one may confidently say that George M. Cohan, having had the inspiration to build a song upon the familiar trumpet call which prevailed throughout the world and which did not rest until, by very hard work, he had produced what he knew would be a success, for such is the characteristic of a man trained to please the public.

"One must not make the mistake of supposing that all music used to arouse patriotism was written with the idea of the present condition in which the world finds itself. 'Tipperary,' written before the war for vaudeville performances, is known to have been so stren-ously applied to war purposes as to be come for some reason so objectionable as to be withdrawn. Elgar's magnificent military, first called 'Pomp and Circumstance' and later made into the song
'The Land of Hope and Glory,' had not war as its inspiration. It is an episode in the history of extraordinary music written for the accession of King Edward VII to the throne of England.

"Nothing in recent music has been fully comparable to the stamping upon the symphonic work produced less than two years ago at Carnegie Hall by Bloch, the French Jew.

"There is reason to be a number of fine songs, odes, choral pieces, symphonies and operas resulting from the emotions now excited in every breast. Great poems have been written and greater may be expected, which, in their turn, will doubtless inspire musicians, and we may look for still greater things in the future. The war has not appeared, in this country at least, though it is said that in England music is being written by some one, of a name hitherto unknown but of expression unsurpassed by any one of our time, unless by Richard Strauss. Indeed, the world is so engaged in war that the ame is such as to lead those who have seen it to suppose that Strauss, having taken refuge in England, is continuing his extraordinary labors there under another name. It is known that he was opposed to the war and refused high honors offered him by the Kaiser if he would sign a treaty with the Government which,
the declaration and prosecution of hostilities.

"American composers have had their thoughts turned away from the pursuit of their calling, the younger ones being engaged in war work and doing nothing of consequence; but it is to be hoped that their elders may keep alight the musical torch that so illumines the pathway of mankind.

"Whatever may be the trend of composition in America, it is very sure that 99 per cent. of the music of German origin, for so long heard in our concert rooms, will be conspicuous by its ab-ence during the approaching season and for a long time to come.

"Even the best songs by the most approved Germans are being put aside, for the present at least, and in some ways this may be a good thing. It may serve to eliminate from our concert pro-grames much music which but for its foreign flavor would have been immediately recognized as being inferior, while a great deal that is eminently worthy of attention written by our own American composers, who for so long have been struggling from under the shadow of the German colossus, will now be brought forward.

"I am the last one, however, to advise the banishment of certain classics by a dozen or so of the great musical minds of the world merely because they happen to have been born from a century to two and a half centuries ago in a country with which we now find ourselves at war.

"But there is one thing in which American music is being greatly benefitted, propaganda, but nothing else musical has thus far been unheard of. This bears the seeds of the future. It is a sign of the times, a sign like inspiration.
Let us wait patiently for the wonderful things to come, and that is by the insistence upon the use of the English in the composition of German in song. I have for years been an ardent supporter of our native tongue instead of foreign languages whenever the war has done great things for us will be heartily glad if one of the results of the war shall be a careful study of Eng-ish, both in song and speech. This is not such a small matter as may be sup-pended; the mountain is not laboring to bring forth a linguistic mouse; but this is a war as well as a war of the operations of nature, which affect art, and, indeed, pass all understanding.

Madame Matzenauer, another celebrated soprano, has very optimistic expectations regarding the future of music as an outcome of the war. She says:
"The results of the war on music will be wonderful, you may be sure. The spirit of song is emboldened by tragedy, by suffering, by sacrifice—by the emotions which stir the soul to its deeps:
The war has done great things for us, and given us the cause of music. For that I am grateful, even though I bleed for the sorrow of those who must bear its hardest burdens.
It is entirely aside from the question which it has given and will give to composers capable of handling great themes, just think of the wonderful concerts held in New York, Chicago and in all the large cities. The necessity of raising large sums of money to carry on the Red Cross work, and to stimulate interest in the Liberty Loan and War Stamp drives did put singers everywhere on their mettle.
"One thing is sure—this great war has been productive of many masterpieces during the time of fighting. After peace has been declared and the thoughts of composers, shorn
of fervent patriotism, free from anxiety, and normal in every way, go back over the historical episodes, then the music of inspiration will appeal.
"The future will have many wonderful symphonies based upon the events of this world's most horrible holocaust.

No doubt part of the future has been sensed by these great singers, but no previous war has been productive of many masterpieces during the time of fighting. After peace has been declared and the thoughts of composers, shorn
of fervent patriotism, free from anxiety,
and normal in every way, go back over the historical episodes, then the music
of inspiration will appeal.
Channon Music Company Sees Big Field in Picture Music

THE Channon Music Company, with offices at 701 Seventh avenue—owned and managed by musicians, and for musicians, is not making only a small play on the picture field with much in its favor. F. C. Collinge, who is a musician, and saw the possibilities in the film side of the showmanship of Mr. Baron on his staff of music writers. The name of Maurice Baron is well known among players of good music, for many compositions of merit are to his credit.

Although the Channon Music Company has placed on the market some fine orchestral selections, such as "Little Grey Home in the West," "Under the Moonlight Shadows Play," waltz, and another favorite called "Your Smile," it is really the "Playing Carpet" and "Moonlight Shadows." These numbers are wonderfully adaptable for scenes in a bright picture, and being new should appeal to the orchestra leader strongly.

Mr. Collinge is well and favorably known in the theatrical world as a composer and manager. He has arranged music for plays in London, and has written orchestrations for some of our best known stars. There is no question about his musical ability, his gifts of wit, and his ability should carry him far on the road to success.

Grind Organ Accompaniment at Rivoli.

An amusing accompanying to the symphony played by Emanuel L'Homme at the Grind organ heard at the Rivoli during the week of December 8. The opening adagio movement of a symphony had the strains of a grind organ were heard above the bassi passages. During the pauses, the organ continued to sound in bold relief and contributed a piece of humor that was not originally intended for the patrons of the Rivoli organ.

In spite of the diversion, the orchestra played the overture commendably. Mr. Rapes looks Listz, and is more at home than usual in the works of this composer. The poem is extremely difficult in execution and a little too "heavy" for the average patron, but this is not a fault, for the best music only should be offered, whether it is understood or not. Musical education is to be found in picture theaters these days, and it is well that such is the case.

Emanuel List tried to sing "Little Grey Home in the West." He was too certain that his efforts proved a failure. He did not sing it; he belloved the notes, but gave no indication that his voice was capable of it. Emanuel's effort is extremely faulty and he cares not where he breathes.

"Silver Threads Among the Gold," sung by Madelaine D'Empoiny, proved pleasing for more reasons that that it was well sung. In the first place, the setting showed the full moon and the stars, so the singer seemingly sang from the heavenly firmament. This picture suggested what was to follow in the opening of the feature, "Under the Greenwood Tree": secondly, the song has been heard too much, and thirdly, it is found in the feature, and thirdly, it proved a wonderful introduction to Elsie Ferguson

Before closing, we are glad to again praise the wonderful synchro of the perfections of the music which Rudolf Risti always "comes out" right on the cue, and the key sequence is perfect.

Channon Music Company Sees Big Field in Picture Music

December 28, 1918

The Moving Picture World

EXHIBITORS

If you want a real picture organ, or pianola, write us. Endorsed by biggest exhibitors East and West.

PROFESSIONAL SCHOOL OF PICTURE PLAYING

Strand Theatre

Los Angeles

AMERICAN PHOTOPLAYER Co.

(Trade Mark Registered)

The Musical Picture Catalogue

62 West 45th Street

New York City
23. T. YOU WILL SQUEAL. Agitato. Minot
2 min.

24. D. STEVE KNOCKS GROGAN DOWN. THEME
30 sec.

CHARACTER

Dramatic.

ATMOSPHERE

Patriotic.

MECHANICAL EFFECTS

Gun shots, cannon.

SPECIAL EFFECTS

Bugle.

DIRECT CUES

"Chase The."

THEME—Land of Romance. Valze Lente. Herbert
1. AT SCREENING. Richard. Masawagi
1 min. 30 sec. (Prelude Act 3.)

2. T. RICHARD HARDY. Serenade. Pierre
1 min. 45 sec.

1 min. 15 sec. Moderato.

1 min. 15 sec. Allegretto.

5. D. BAZAREE—LAWN FETE. Over the Top. Remberg
1 min. 12 sec. Allegro.

6. T. MRS. HARDY IS OUT. Charming. Joyce
1 min. 15 sec. Tempo di Valse.

7. D. AUTO STOPS. Intermezzo Chinês. Baron
1 min. 30 sec. Allegretto.

8. D. EDITH LEAVES CAR. Punjab. Aletler
1 min. 30 sec. Allegretto.

9. T. A WEEK LATER. Oriental Nights. Grant
1 min. 30 sec. Allegretto.

10. T. YOUR HUSBAND IS WROUNG. Caprice. Reisenfeld
2 min. Allegretto.

1 min. 30 sec. Allegro.

12. D. EDITH AND KARA ENTER. In a Tea House. Langay
1 min. 30 sec. Allegro.

13. D. MAN ENTERS. Romance. Mildenberg
1 min. 30 sec. (First part only.)

2 min. 30 sec. Allegro.

15. T. I'LL DO IT. Indian Legend. Baron
1 min. 30 sec. Allegro.

16. T. END OF PARTY. Sunbeam. Hether
1 min. 15 sec. Moderate Grazioso.

17. D. KARA ALONE. Oriental. Cul
2 min. 15 sec. Allegro.

18. T. THE CHEAT. Internuncio. Haidley
2 min. 15 sec. Allegro.

1 min. 30 sec. Allegro.

20. D. HUSBAND ENTERS ROOM. Hurry No. 33. Borch
2 min. 30 sec. Vivace.

21. D. EDITH HOME. Russian Band. Langay
1 min. 30 sec. Andante.

22. T. WITH MORNING LIGHT. Tschaikowsky
1 min. 30 sec. Allegro.

23. D. EDITH VISITS RICHARD. THEME
1 min. 45 sec. Allegro.

24. T. EAST IS EAST. Intermezzo Chinês. Baron
2 min. Allegro.

25. T. THE TRIAL. Prelude. Damroseh
2 min. 15 sec. Andante.

26. T. THE DEFENSE. Adagio Pathétique. Doder
3 min. Allegro.

27. D. EDITH RUNS TO STAND. Teatro No. 1. Langay
2 min. Allegro Agitato.

28. T. THE VERDICT IS SET. THEME
1 min. 30 sec. Allegro Agitato.

CHARACTER

Dramatic.

ATMOSPHERE

Neutral.

"Code of the Yukon."

THEME—Love Theme. Andante Sentimento. Lee
1. AT SCREENING. Northern Serenade. Olsen
1 min. 45 sec. Moderato.

2. D. MAN CAUGHT IN TRAP. Turbulence. Borch
1 min. 30 sec. Allegro Agitato.

3. D. DOG BIRTHS HORSE. THEME
1 min. 30 sec. Allegro.

30 sec. Allegro Agitato.

5. T. WHILE CONVAINESCING. My Paradise. Zamenhain
2 min. Allegro Agitato.

6. T. FARO LIKED. Continue to action. min.

7. T. SO THAT NIGHT FAIRO. Sinister Theme. Vely
1 min. 15 sec. Allegro Agitato.

8. T. THE TIRED CITIZENS. Perpetual Motion. Borch
1 min. 45 sec. Allegro Agitato.

9. T. ONE DAY JEAN FOUND. Continue to action.
1 min. Allegro Agitato.

10. T. JUSTICE BRENN, KNOWN. Humorous Drinking Character. Roberts
30 sec. Allegro Agitato.

11. D. CAMPS IN VIEW. Dramatic Reviving. Levy
2 min. 30 sec. Allegro Agitato.

12. T. IN A SHORT TIME. Moon Glow. Barth
1 min. Allegro Agitato.

13. D. INTERIOR OF DANCE HALL. Savannah. Rosey
2 min. 30 sec.

14. T. JEAN DECIDES TO GIVE. Allegrito. Roberts
2 min. 30 sec.

2 min. 15 sec.

17. T. COME IN AND SEE CREZAN. Allegro. Levy
1 min. 12 sec.

18. T. THAT NIGHT JEAN. Piano solo.
2 min. 30 sec.

19. T. I WANT TO BUY YOUR CLAIM. THEME
2 min. 30 sec. Improvis to action.

22. T. THE MONTHS THAT FOLLOWED. Heart of Mine. Smith
2 min. 45 sec. Moderato Cantabile.

23. T. YOU POOR DARLING. Iris. Reynolds
2 min. 15 sec. Moderato Grazioso.

24. T. THIS I DO NOT LIKE. Continue pp.

2 min. 30 sec.

27. T. CONFIDENCE IS THE. Rustle of Spring. Stirling
2 min. 30 sec. (Prelude.)

28. T. YOU COULD NOT BE. Preludios. Zanvern
2 min. 45 sec. Lento.

31. T. NEAR HEAVEN INTRODUCES. Hurry No. 33. Minot
1 min. 15 sec.

32. T. THINKING IT WOULD BE. Water Lillies. St. Clair
2 min. Allegro.

33. T. GIRL FIGHTING WITH MAN. Continue pp.

34. T. BEATEN BY THE. Continue pp.

35. T. WHO IS THIS GIRL. Continue pp.

36. D. INTERIOR OF BARROOM. Dramatic Fantasia. Bach
2 min. 50 sec.

37. T. YOU POOR FOOL, DON'T. Half Reel Dramatic Furioso.
1 min. 30 sec. Levy.

38. T. VENGEANCE IS MINE. Continue pp.

39. T. AFTHER THE STORM CAME. THEME

40. T. CHARACTER. Dramatic.

41. T. AMERICAN HEAVEN. Dramatic.

MECHANICAL EFFECTS

Dog barks; shots.

SPECIAL EFFECTS

Tympani rolls for fight.

"Dawn of Understanding, The."

THEME—Birds and Butterflies. Allegro. Levy
1. AT SCREENING. THEME
2 min. 45 sec.

2. T. I SAW A FARM FROM. Causerie. MacMillen
2 min. 30 sec. Allegro.

3. T. AND THEN THE DAY CAME. Bleeding Hearts. Levy
2 min. 15 sec.

4. T. HERETOFOR. DAWN TO IRA. THEME
2 min. 30 sec. Andante.

5. T. REMEMBERING IRA. THEME
2 min. 45 sec.

6. T. AND AS THE WEEKS PASSED. In a Shady Nook. Hildreth
2 min. 45 sec. Moderato.

7. T. IRA'S ATTITUDE TOWARD. Picking Firelight. Parks
2 min. 15 sec.

8. T. THERE'S A CIRCUS IN. Capricious Annette. Borch
2 min. 15 sec. Levy.

9. T. IT'S WARM OUTSIDE. Hunkath. Levy
1 min. 15 sec.

10. T. WHEN RINGMASTER MAKES. A La Mode. Levy
2 min. 30 sec.

1 min. 30 sec. Allegro.

12. T. THAT'S A SILENT. MAGIC. Reina's. Levy
2 min. 30 sec.

13. T. WHEN SCENE FADES TO SUE. THEME
3 min. 45 sec.

14. T. I KNOW ME FOR. Rondo. Berge
2 min. 15 sec.

15. T. THE SHERIFF CONSIDERED. The Shepherd's Pipe. Geych
45 sec. Allegro Moderato.

16. T. REMEMBER THE. Remembrance. Schumann
2 min. 30 sec.

17. T. SUE IN HER TRUSTING HEART. Third Barcarole. Rubinstein
2 min. 30 sec.

18. T. T.S.H.E.M.E AS THOUGH YOU. THEME
2 min. 30 sec.
EXHIBITORS MUTUAL

COMPLETE MUSICAL SCORES

MARTIN JOHNSON’S CANNIBALS OF THE SOUTH SEAS

FOR

BILLIE RHODES
IN
"THE GIRL OF MY DREAMS"

Through the exchanges of the Exhibitors Mutual it is possible to secure complete Musical Scores of these two productions. Their value to the proper presentation of these subjects has been attested to by the big orchestras of New York City and Canada. They are perfectly synchronized and complete in every way. They are practical for any combination, as well as organ or piano solo—and easy to play—

Exhibitors Mutual Distributing Corporation

For any further information
Address
George Beynon, 505 Fifth Ave., N. Y. C.

Piano Numbers
Organ Selections
Orchestral Pieces

music service exchange

507 FIFTH AVE., NEW YORK

NO ADVANCE ON PUBLISHERS’ PRICES

Songs
Oratorios
Anthems

send in your subscription now

for

the moving picture world

presenting

MUSIC FOR THE PICTURES

A Real Music Service to the Leader

chalmers publishing co.

516 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK

subscription rates

One year. . . . . $3.00
Canada . . . . . . $3.50
Foreign . . . . . $4.00

unified theatre organs

j. p. seeburg piano co. • republic bldg. • chicago

the world’s standard theatre organs

seeburg automatic pipe organs
18. T. THEY'VE GOING TO BE... May Dreams...Borch Moderato. 1 min. 15 sec.
19. D. WHEN IN A LEAVES HOUSE... Vivo Finale...Berger 1 min. 15 sec.
20. D. WHEN IRA SEE'S L. E. Allegro Agitato No. 8, Andante 2 min. 20 sec.
21. T. THE DAWN... Twilight...Czech 2 min. 45 sec.
22. T. WITHIN AN HOUR... Allegro Grazioso. 2 min. 45 sec.
23. T. IRA BEASLY HAS GONE... Idillo...Leck 3 min. 45 sec.
24. T. NOW, GENTS, WE GOT... Arabian Night...Mildenberg Allegro. 3 min. 30 sec.
25. T. THE DAWN OF UNDERSTANDING...THEME...2 min. 30 sec.

CHARACTER...Comedy.

ATMOSPHERE...Pastorale.

MECHANICAL EFFECTS...Farm-yard imitations, shots, horse hoofs.

THEME—When Love Comes Knocking...Moderato...Prelud.
1. AT SCREENING...Coronation March...Krentschke Maestoso. 1 min. 30 sec.
2. T. HORECK PROCEEDS...Land of Joy...Vatkerde 1 min. 30 sec.
3. T. GYPSY HARD...Hurry No. 1...Langy 2 min. 15 sec.
4. T. THE WAYS GYPSIES...Granada...Lou 1 min. 30 sec.
5. D. CHANCELLOR AND BABY...Intermezzo...Granados 1 min. 30 sec.
6. A RESISTANT FAMILY...Andante Cantabile...Straus 1 min. 30 sec.
7. T. AT FIFTEEN YEARS...Barchetta...Nevil 1 min. 45 sec.
8. T. WHILE IN ANOTHER COTTAGE, Swedish Processional 1 min. 30 sec.
9. D. RUSSET ON SHORE OF LAKE, Guards to the Front...Trotore Tempo di Marcia. 2 min. 15 sec.
10. D. DISSING TABLE...Charming...Joyce 1 min. 30 sec.
11. D. GOOSE GIRL AND GEERS...Vanity...Jackson 1 min. 45 sec.
12. T. THE DASHING DUCK...Hurry No. 26...Minot 1 min. 15 sec.
13. T. SO THE GOOSE GIRL...THEME...3 min.
14. D. GOOSE GIRL AND KING...Canzonetta...Hollander 2 min. 30 sec.
15. T. TO THE COURT OF VALETTA...Prelude ("L'Arlesienne") Bizet 1 min. 30 sec.
16. D. GOOSE GIRL AND KING...THEME...2 min.
17. T. AN INTERRUPTED COURTSHIP...Air de Ballet...Borch 2 min. 15 sec.
18. T. TWO LOVERS...March Burlesque...Giffet 1 min. 15 sec.
19. D. MEN KINDA GOOSE GIRL...Hurry No. 2...Langy 1 min. 15 sec.
20. T. IN THE IVY TOWER...Intermezzo...Grieg 2 min. 45 sec.
21. D. KING HURRYING ACROSS...Hurry No. 2...Simon 2 min. 15 sec.
22. D. GYPSY BARD AT BODY...Dramat...Andante...Borch 2 min.
23. T. I HAVE THE HONOR TO...Extease...Ganne 1 min. 45 sec.
24. D. KING LEAVES TOWER...Mother's Garden...Presto 3 min. 45 sec.
25. D. PRINCESS ENTERS ROOM...Prelud...Pompadour Fusion...Borch 2 min. 45 sec.
26. T. I DID IT FOR YOU...Ritardanc (in F)...Tschaikowsky 1 min. 45 sec.
27. T. THE DAWN OF...Canzonetta...Herbert 1 min. 45 sec.
28. T. THE SADDEST KING...Boy of Mine...Caruso 1 min. 45 sec.
29. D. KING ENTERS THRONE...THEME...1 min. 30 sec.

CHARACTER...Light drama.

ATMOSPHERE...American.

THEME—Sparkles...Allegretto...Miles 1 min. 30 sec.
1. AT SCREENING...THEME...30 sec.
2. D. INSERT OF MUSIC...The Gypsy Trail...Galloway Piano Improvising. 1 min. 45 sec.
3. D. FADE OUT OF INSERT...THEME...1 min. 45 sec.
4. T. NOW MERT A YOUNG...Dream of the Flowers...Cohen 1 min. 15 sec.
5. T. THE GIRL...THEME...Scarf Dance...Chaminade 1 min. 30 sec.
6. T. SH! I DON'T KNOW IT...Romance...Gruenfeld 1 min. 45 sec.
7. T. LISTEN NED—HE...Basket of Roses...Albers 4 min. 15 sec.
8. T. NOW TO NED'S...Ballet Egyptian...Litagli 4 min. 45 sec.
9. D. NEWSPAPER REPORTER...Pads and Painters...Gracewood 2 min. 30 sec.
10. T. CAN I USE YOUR PHONE?...THEME...45 sec.
11. T. SAY! I'M IN AN...Bon Vivant...Zamernik 4 min. 45 sec.
12. D. GALA AT PIANO SINGING...The Gypsy Trail...Galloway Piano Improvising. 2 min. 45 sec.
13. T. EDDY'S PLAN IS...Bon Vivant...Zamernik 1 min. 15 sec.
14. T. EDDY'S COUNTRY HOME...Valse Danseuse...Miles 2 min. 45 sec.
15. T. AN ADVENTURER...Agitato No. 49...Shepherd 3 min. 45 sec.
16. T. TROUBLE...The Gypsy Trail...Galloway Piano Improvising. 1 min. 45 sec.
17. T. DO YOU EVER THINK...THEME...3 min. 30 sec.
18. D. NURSE OPENS DOOR...Bagatelle...Caselli 1 min. 45 sec.
19. T. WILL YOU BE AFTER...THEME...30 sec.
20. D. WORRIED LOOKS OUT...Withered Flowers...Kieffert 3 min. 30 sec.
21. T. HE IS GOING...Visions...Buse 2 min. 15 sec.
22. T. IT ISN'T EASY...Under the Leaves...Toone 3 min. 30 sec.
23. D. INSERT OF CALLING CARD...THEME...4 min. 45 sec.
24. T. YOU! HOW DARE YOU...Agitato No. 6...Kieffert 3 min. 30 sec.
25. T. NED! I WOULDN'T LIKE...Rackety Coo...Prelud 1 min.
26. T. CLASSIC...Comedy...Moderato.
27. AT...Moderato.
28. T. ORLANDER TRAILED ALONG...Trombone Sneer...Serenity 1 min. 45 sec.
29. T. SHE GAVE MABEL A STEER...Eccentric Comedy...Theme 2 min.
30. T. THE ENGINEER WAS HITTING...A La Mode...Rose 1 min. 30 sec.
31. T. SHE COULDN'T CLOSE...Sinister Theme...Berger 1 min. 45 sec.
32. T. WHEN THE TRAIN ARRIVED...Babbling...Caselli 2 min. 30 sec.
33. T. BEEHTOWN WAS A...Continue pp...Caruso 3 min. 30 sec.
34. T. THE MANSION HOUSE...THEME...2 min. 30 sec.
35. T. IT'S BESSIE'S...Esmeralda...Lack 2 min. 45 sec.
36. T. AND WHEN BESIE ARRIVED...Continue action...1 min. 15 sec.
37. T. ONE OF THOSE HUH...Birds and Butterflies...Vesy 2 min. 45 sec.
38. D. CLOSE-UP OF NEWSPAPER...THEME...2 min. 45 sec.
39. T. LIGE PETTEGILL'S, THE...Scherzo...Albers 2 min. 15 sec.
40. T. CLOSE-UP OF NEWSPAPER...Convert Waltz...Darrand 3 min. 30 sec.
41. T. THE GIRL...THEME...2 min. 30 sec.
42. T. I'M DARNED IF I KNOW...Sparklets...Miles 2 min. 30 sec.
43. T. TON WE SENTENCE, HER...THEME...1 min. 45 sec.

CHARACTER...Comedy.

ATMOSPHERE...Neutral.

THEME—Irish Elves...Intermezzo...Borch 1 min. 30 sec.
1. T. MABEL BROWN, ONLY...Continue to action...3 min. 30 sec.
2. T. MINEVRA, MABEL'S AUNT...Comedy Allegro...2 min. 30 sec.
3. T. IN THE THIRD FLOOR...Comic Hurry...Hare 2 min. 30 sec.
4. T. HOE ROSEN WAS A GREAT...Frills and Furbehows...Crespi 1 min. 45 sec.
5. T. AS THE STAR BOARER PAID...Continue to action...2 min. 30 sec.
6. T. I AM LEAVING ON THE...Capricious Annette...Borch 3 min. 15 sec.
7. T. IN THE PERPETUAL...THEME...2 min. 45 sec.
8. T. ORLANDER TRAILED ALONG...Trombone Sneer...Serenity 1 min. 45 sec.
9. T. SHE GAVE MABEL A STEER...Eccentric Comedy...Theme 2 min.
HULSEY COMPLETES BIG THEATRE PLANS
With Embargo on Building Lifted Texas Exhibitor Will Commence Construction of Large Picture House

By Phil Fox, Times-Herald, Dallas, Tex.

With the cancellation of all building restrictions, following the cessation of hostilities, the southwest is on the verge of a theatre building era which will make this section of the country second to none when it comes to spacious and modern places of entertainment.

Many of the large Texas amusement companies and individual theatre owners are planning either to remodel or enlarge their buildings or erect new structures.

The day that building restrictions were removed in Texas E. H. Hulsey, of Dallas, announced that he had completed all arrangements for the construction of the largest motion picture theatre in the state at Houston. This theatre will cost about $250,000 and will seat 2,500 persons. It is to be located on one of the busiest corners of the city on Main street. Construction work will commence the first of the year.

Mr. Hulsey is back from Washington, where he saw Jesse Jones, Houston capitalist, who is now a Red Cross executive. He reported that he had closed the deal for his theatre site and that no further obstacle was in the way. Interior decorators and sculptors of note will be retained to make the play house one of the most artistic in this territory.

The cornerstone will be laid to allow the people of Houston to christen their new theatre. He will stage a big voting contest through the newspapers of the city.

The construction of the new Hulsey Theatre at Houston will mean that E. H. Hulsey will have ten motion picture theatres in Texas and the largest individual theatre owner in the Southwest.

Ruberts Business on Texas Border Good.

J. B. Dugger, of Vitagraph, has just returned from a trip along the Texas border, visiting El Paso, Laredo and Brownsville. He reports that business there shows signs of improving and that should the war department decide to open the border clear along the Rio Grande that things will be on the boom in this district.

The international bridges at present are fast closed by military guards of both nations. A passport is necessary to go into Mexico. The opening of the border would mean that business in all the larger border towns would pick up with a spurt and that the big winter tourist population would return.

"Eye for Eye" Plays to Big Business.

Right on the heels of a house record established by Charlie Chaplin in "Shoulder Arms" at the Old Mill Theatre, Dallas, comes another run of unprecedented business for this Hulsey house with Nazimova in "Eye for Eye." Manager Herschel Stuart reports that next to the crocuses seeing Chaplin, Nazimova in her new feature has been the best drawing card of the year.

Theatres Near Small Camps Will Close.

With the closing of many of the smaller army camps in the southwestern territory, quite a few motion picture theatres which have sprung up on the outskirts of these military communities will shortly be forced to close their doors. Motion picture exhibitors in the larger cantonment cities also expect a falling off in their business. Such a decrease they believe will be temporary and will be counteracted when soldiers return to civilian life and business in general gets back to normal.

Cleveland Trade Letter

By M. A. Malaney, 296 Slocan Building, Cleveland, Ohio.

Exchanges Resembles Army Camp.

The Standard Film Service Company's Cleveland exchange looks like an army camp these days. Louis W. Greenstine is back on the job again and you will also find Secretary-Treasurer M. A. Lebensburger, also a lieutenant here. Mr. Greenstine formerly was manager at Cincinnati.

In addition Joe Krometz, formerly with Kleine, is back from Camp Sherman and working for the Standard.

All of them look fine, feel fine and have plunged into the film business again just as though they would embrace a long lost brother.

Neuber Gets South American Post.

Elmer Neuber, assistant manager of the Cleveland Fox Exchange, has been appointed manager of the Fox Film Corporation for South America.

This position was tendered him by W. H.巧克, general manager of the Fox Corporation, while on an inspection visit in Cleveland last week.

Neuber will leave for South America January 15, spending two weeks previous to this in New York. His address will be in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Mutual to Show Cannibal Pictures.

Manager Luttner, of the Mutual Exchange, Cleveland, shortly will have a private screening of Martin Johnson's cannibal pictures. Mr. Luttner, from the east and Canada, these pictures are making as big a hit as the first submarine pictures.

Ohio Brevities.

E. E. Blair has been discharged from Camp Knox, Stilahon, Kentucky, and goes back to manage the Fayette Theatre, Celina, Ohio.

Walter E. Lusk, manager of the First National, Cleveland, has just returned from a trip to Cincinnati, where he appointed H. H. Haines manager of the offending theatre. Mr. Haines is the proud papa of a baby boy.

Spokane News Letter

By S. Clark Patchin, Spokesman-Review, Spokane.

W. H. Dietz Obtains Divorce.

Taking advantage of a trip to Spokane from Mare Island, Cal., with the United States Marines football team, W. H. (Longest) Dietz, famous football coach and well-known moving picture actor, appeared before Superior Court Judge Hugo E. Oswald November 26 and obtained a divorce from Angel Becora Dietz, who resides in Carlisle, Pa. He declares she declined to come West, where he had made a home for her.

New Yorkers Praise "Fools' Gold." Fred K. McBror, receiver of the Washington Motion Picture Company, which produced "Fools' Gold," under the direction of Larry Trimble, Wash., reported from the East and reports that at a private showing to exhibitors in New York, the men showed enthusiasm and praised the picture. Arrangements have been completed for marketing the film, according to Mr. McBror.

Rex Changes Its Policy.

Manager C. E. Stillwell, of the Stilwell Theatres Corporation, changed his program of all pictures at the Rex Theatre, to include three vaudeville acts with each performance, and the remainder of the program of pictures with matinees only.
SAYS OLD TYPE THEATRES MUST GO
Texas Exhibitor Expresses Opinion That Primitive Structures Must Vanish in Face of Modern Ones

By Phil Fox, Times-Herald, Dallas, Texas.

That the motion picture business in South Texas is in its infancy and that the old type theatres and structures must vanish to give place to the modern spacious and up-to-date playhouses are opinions of Mr. Robert P. Hart, manager of the Jefferson Amusement Company, of Beaumont, and owner of five theatres in Beaumont, Port Arthur and Orange.

Mr. Pittman, who is the largest exhibitor in South East Texas, practices what he preaches. In December he opened the new Liberty Theatre at Beaumont, a $75,000 theatre, seating 1,200 persons, and which is equipped with a $10,000 pipe organ.

When Texas went dry six months ago Mr. Pittman secured two choice saloon locations on main streets in Beaumont and Port Arthur. He remedied them into ideal theatre buildings. He reports saloon-ness unusually good in South East Texas despite to the fact that Mr. Pittman opened the new Liberty Theatre at Beaumont, early in December. He was nearly a house record.

Dallas Soldiers to Get Old Jobs Back

With scores of boys in khaki returning from their demobilization points, faces which were familiar from Dallas row for many months are beginning to appear once more.

Exchange managers are without exception finding places for the men whose absence has placed stars on the office of the managers at many of instances girls have been employed temporarily to fill the places of men going into the army. Those men will be retained and the soldiers given back their places, too.

No Abatement in War Camp Entertainment

George Fuller, director, and J. L. Butterfield, general secretary, of the Community War Camp Motion Picture Service are in Dallas during the week in December visiting film exchange managers. The organization of troops in southern training camps makes the continuation of the community service all the more important, they are mapping out programs and bookings for some months to come. The army camps in Texas and Oklahoma will be kept full of returning troops for a long while, and there will be no abatement of the entertainment programs.

Texas Short Items

Jack Lilly, manager of the Hippodrome Theatre, at Commerce, Tex., has returned to his post. He has been in the officers training camp at Camp McArthur, Waco.

Charles Osborne, who went to an officers training camp, is now back with Vitagraph, Dallas.

Al Glickman, formerly with the Dallas office of the World Film Corporation, is back home, having been mustered out of the army.

Manager LeRoy Bickel, of Metro, Dallas, has been ill with a light attack of influenza.

Manager Ned Depinet, of Consolidated, Dallas, spent the last week of December in bed with the flu.

A. J. Nelson, of the New York office of General, has been paying Jimmy Kelly a visit. Mr. Kelly was released from the hospital a short while ago.

Manager Lew Remy, of the Dallas Goldwyn office, is home sick in bed. He was taken ill while on a trip to Oklahoma City.

S. A. Lynch, of the S. A. Lynch Enterprises, is visiting Dallas during the second week in December making one of his regular inspection tours of his branch offices.

Exhibitors Visiting Dallas.

Among the exhibitors who visited Dallas during the first week in December were J. C. Barber, manager, Fair Bluff, Ark.; Miss E. Johnson, Liberty Theatre, Houston; J. J. Hegeman, Crescent Theatre, Temple; and Will Campbell, manager, Elbert Theatre, Victoria.

Indianapolis Trade Letter

By Indianapolis Trade News, 69 Lym- man Avenue, Indianapolis, Ind.

Circle Theatre Extends Newsies.

The actual appearance of the American soldiers in France could have brought little less enthusiasm than was expressed in the cheers and whistles of the audience at the Indianapolis Newsies, who were guests of the management of the Circle Theatre recently at a special showing of a Government war film, "Under Four Flags."

Photographs of the American marines at Chantilly, Le Havre, were cheered, and whenever Old Glory was flashed on the screen there was no limit to the volume of cheering. The newsies forgot to honor the flags and soldiers of the Allies, but quite naturally when they had fought and served themselves just a little more for Uncle Sam.

Before the show opened, S. Barrett McCormick, manager of the theatre, introduced Mr. Maurice as one of the best friends the newsies had. This was followed by a voluminous outburst of cheers which were accepted by Mr. McCormick as an expression of appreciation by his little friends for his generosity in giving them a free show.

Dominion Theatre to Red Cross.

David W. Maurice, general manager of the Family Theatre at Lafayette, Ind., last week donated the use of his photoplay house for the Red Cross motion picture film and the appearance of Dr. Arthur J. Francis, eminent lecturer. The program was actually planned to be held in the high school building, but the change was made because it was felt that the film would be better adapted to the showing of the pictures.

Carlton Installs Simplex Machines.

Sam Carlton, manager of the Sipe Theatre, at Plattsburgh, N. Y., has acquired two of the latest model Simplex projecting machines.

Iowa News Letter

By J. L. Shipley, 615 Locust St., Des Moines, Iowa.

Helmets to Manage Casino Theatre.

E. H. HELMUTS, formerly manager of the Auditorium Theatre, at Des Moines, and for the past several weeks road man in Iowa for Paramount, has been made house manager of the Casino Theatre here, succeeding E. L. Bernn, resigned.

Pathé Business Pleases Duffy.

Frank Duffy, general manager of special representatives for Pathé, spent several days in Des Moines the past week in conference program work of the newly planned Tom Sawyer Building, the local office. Mr. Duffy expressed himself as well pleased with the Iowa business of Paramount. He suggested that the local superintendent, C. R. Scovel, make a tour of the state and see for himself the opportunities that are available.

Kelly Takes Over the Temple-Grand.

Hal Kelly, former vaudeville, and owner of the Padlock and Gilbert theatres in Beaverton, Oregon, for several seasons, has taken over the Temple-Grand, Creston, which he formerly operated before going to Beatrice. He also controls the Colonial Theatre in St. Joseph, Mo.

Reports Goldwyn's Business Booming.

Richard Robertson, Kansas City manager of Goldwyn, a former newspaper man in Iowa and Nebraska, spent a few hours in Des Moines this week en route to Omaha. Robertson reports that Goldwyn's is booming. He has sold half a roll on the Billy Butinson comedies to A. H. Blank, of the Palace.

Becomes Manager of New Producing Company.

George D. Watters, formerly manager for Elbert & Getchell's stock theatre here, the People, leaves this week for New York, at the conclusion of the year to become manager of the newly organized Iowa corporation, the New Film Theatre, which is to produce on the Coast. The company has a capitalization of $40,000, fully paid up, and is financed by Des Moines and Iowa business men. Mr. Watters did not go into detail as to just what policy will be followed. He will make trade announcements in the near future, and expects to start production on or about February 15.

ROCHESTER NEWS LETTER

By L. B. Skelkinnston, 61 Main Street, East, Rochester, N. Y.

Raymond to Open a Waltham Theatre.

J. Raymond, manager of the Victoria Theatre, has received an invitation from Joe Raymond, formerly manager of the Waltham, Mass., theatre, to open a new theatre. The Victoria Theatre, one of the most popular and progressive moving picture theatre managers in town, and local business man doesn't want to miss his chance to open a new venture. After leaving the Gordon some months ago he was a service expert for the Fox Film Corporation.

Will Lay Down a Barrage of Publicity.

Manager Sanford, of the Princess Theatre, a neighborhood house, has arranged with the publishers of The Pictureplay News to publish and distribute a special full-size edition of that sheet in his immediate locality. Co-operating with the staff of the publication, Mr. Sanford is preparing to give the folks of the Highland district a little barrage of publicity that they will be unable to find an excuse to stay away from his house.

Dr. Lawrence Is New Lieutenant.

Dr. Raymond V. Lawrence, house physician of the Victoria Theatre, Rochester, and well known to many theatrical men, has been appointed first lieutenant of a new company located at Camp Sevier, North Carolina.

Picturplay News Moves.

The Pictureplay News has transferred its editorial and business offices from the Livingston Building to the Exchange Place Building. A fine suite of offices are occupied on the first floor. A new office is being built for the paper. The moving is due to the fact that the paper has greatly outgrown its former quarters, The Exchange Place Building is in the heart of the Geographic and business center of the city.

Judgment Closes Grand Theatre Suit.

Some time ago the Thompson-Tyler Company, operators of the Grand Theatre, brought an action against the Central Presbyterian Church and George B. Gar- rison, a contractor, for damages to the extent of $25,000, which the theatre suffered. It was claimed, on account of scaffolding erected too near the theatre, the picture house management believed the work which was done was injurious. Finally, the Grand was remodeling a building for Sunday school and social service seriously hampered the attention at the theatre. At the theatre failed to carry on business which had been entered into Equity Court which closes the incident with nominal costs.
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

December 28, 1918

MINNEAPOLIS TRADE LETTER

By William Edward Mulligan, Minneapolis Journal, Minneapolis, Minn.

Johnson Called to New York Office.

JOHN LEROY JOHNSTON, publicity expert of the Minnesota Universal Exchange for the past fourteen months, has been called to Universal’s home office in New York, where he will continue his work in a bigger field.

Through his work Johnston became widely known in the theatre business of the Northwest. He was for some time connected with the LoChern Film Service and is an ex-editor of the Minnesota Weekly, a well known time editor of “Amusements,” a local moving picture trade journal, and while with Universal he was visiting for New York, Mr. Johnston was presented with a military set by employees at the Minneapolis Universal Exchange.

Evans Returns to Minneapolis Post.

R. K. Evans has returned to Minneapolis taking charge of the newly organized Film Clearing House, Inc. Mr. Evans was formerly identified with various Minneapolis exchanges as manager and salesman and is well known in the territory.

Co-Operative Publicity Service Arranged.

W. W. Johnston, traveling representative of the Film Clearing House, Inc., spent two days in Minneapolis recently arranging for co-operative publicity service on future Hearst Weeklies released through the Hearst Minnesota Daily News and St. Paul Daily News.

These Twin City newspapers will, after December 24, publish three times each week the synopsis of various Hearst Weeklies and will be given credit for their pictures at the same time.

Porter Makes Trip to North Dakota.

E. M. Porter, vice-president of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, spent several days in Minneapolis confering with the Theatre Equipment Company of Minneapolis, northwest distributor for the Simplex projection machine. Mr. Porter, who is general manager of the Precision Machine Company, of New York, makers of Simplex machines, is on a tour of the country visiting distributors of his company’s product.

Pillar Sells Grafton Theatre.

John Pillar, pioneer northwest exhibitor, has disposed of his interests in the Strand Theatre at Grafton, N. D., to J. C. Conner of Bismarck, N. D., who will operate the house in partnership with J. O. Lein.

Winfield Sheckan in Minneapolis.

Winfield E. Sheckan, general manager of the Fox Film Corporation, spent two days here last week on a tour of inspection of plans for the great reconstruction period which he believes is at hand throughout the civilized world. Mr. Sheckan was warm in his praise of the progressive spirit of Northwest exhibitors.

CROOKSTON TRADE LETTER

By George H. Denbow, Crookston, Minn.

Books Pictures to Aid War Chest Drive.

The Minnesota State headquarters of the Young Men’s Christian Association booted theirHs to discuss the necessary navy training films to show in their War Chest booth during campaign week in Minneapolis. These pictures were “Around the Clock with the Rookie,” “Around the Clock with the Sailor” and “Around the Clock with the Marines,” totaling five reels. The Y. M. C. A. headquarters also sent out letters to all Y. M. C. A. secretaries urging them to assist in boosting these special films when shown in their local theatres.

NEW DISTRIBUTING COMPANY ORGANIZED

Philadelphia Exhibitors Form a Co-operative Exchange Plan Reduces Rentals to Members

By F. V. Armato, 144 North Salford Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

A LARGE number of exhibitors of Phila- delphia have formed a co-operative distributing film exchange under the name of the Superior Film Exchange, Inc., to take the place of the now defunct exchange recently shown in the Strand Theatre,已于 the entire week of December 15.

Williamsport to Get 2,000 Seat House.

A. Keeley, of Newark, is building a large and magnificent theatre directly next to Jack Meyer’s theatre, the Lyric, in Williamsport, Pa. The house will contain 2,000 seats.

Dayton News Letter

By Paul Gray, Dayton Theatre Building, Dayton, Ohio.

Schwerin to Handle Griffith Film for Columbus.

F. H. John Solfert, manager of the Ideal Theatre, had played the Government film, “Under Four Flags,” at the Memorial Hall, Columbus, for a week to a goodly profit, Charles Schwerin, manager of The Southern Exhibitors, of Cleveland, announces that he has bought the Columbus rights to “The Birth of a Nation” from the producers. Mr. Schwerin is to put the picture in the Southern Theatre, Columbus. The picture is to play the last of the month, for the time of writing Mr. Schwerin was making arrangements to buy the Griffith film for Dayton and perhaps the Ohio Theatre, Dayton, which seats about 2,600. The Southern opens with the Griffith production on December 29.

Mark Gates in New York.

Mark Gates, managing director of the Dayton Theatre here, left last week for New York on a business deal that demanded his attention in the metropolis. While in New York Mr. Gates will confer with Marcus Loew, with whom he is associated in business ventures. Mr. Gates when leaving Dayton expected to be gone for about ten days.

A. E. Kinzeler.

A. E. Kinzeler, secretary of the Miami Valley Exhibitors’ League, Dayton, Ohio, called a special meeting of that organization here Wednesday night and also the “standing room” decree as issued by the Dayton Board of Health. At the close of the meeting announced for the day, was ap pointed to call on the health officer and try to secure a modification of the decree, which will mean a terrible blow to urban managers, who depend on children for a majority of their business.

Pfeffer Takes Over the Edgemont Theatre.

Charles Pfeffer is to take over the management of the Edgemont Theatre, Dayton, within the next week, from its present manager, Doc Alexander, who is to spend the winter in Florida, according to a recent announcement. Mr. Pfeffer is now at the Alhambra, Dayton, and will leave as soon as possible.

Haines Made Manager of First National.

Roy H. Haines, well known in Dayton as manager for the First National Exchange at Cincinnati, and who at one time was manager of the Mutual Exchange at Cincinnati, has been appointed manager of the Cincinnati office of the First National.
FREE SHOW FAILS TO DRAW CROWDS
Public Refuses to Respond When Kansas City House Presents Battle Scenes Without Admission

By Kansas City News Service, 115 Hilldwy Exchange, Kansas City, Mo.

Mr. Irink was fortunate in securing as his right-hand man in Kansas City territory Manager W. L. Grenfell, head of the Universal's publicity department at Kansas City, who recently has been working in Chicago, before his new post.

Universal Hooker Back from Camp.

Leo J. Doty has returned to his position as booker for the Universal Film & Supply Company. Manager Doty was on furlough for six months at Camp Funston, preparing for service overseas. When E. F. Reoch, who had filled the place in Mr. Doty's absence, secured a position as booker in another exchange.

Goldfish Salesman for Equitable.

S. Goldfish has been made sales manager for the Equitable Film Corporation, and is on special missions, caring for parts of the new district not affected by the influenza bug. Mr. Goldfish has recently been manager of a box office at the corner of the theatre office at Kansas City. His connection with the equitable renews an association with Mr. Bell, vice president, and since his appointment, begun seven years ago when Mr. Bell was manager of the Select office here.

Flynn Pays Kansas City a Visit.

John F. Flynn, manager of the Strand Theatre of Barsteville, Okla., proprietor of the "Oklah" Theatre there, was in Kansas City this week, secretly getting set for resumption of regular business. "Dad" Flynn, as he is known to men, women and boys in Barsteville, had the green show in that town upstairs, in a small room, nearly twenty years ago. He built a large theatre, which he ran until the pictures came along, when he changed to "talkies."

Leonard Managing the Empress.

George E. Leonard, president of the Donnelly-Timmens Amusement Company, operating the Empire Theatre, has assumed the active management, following the death of Frank T. Montgomery, who had been general manager. The Empire is a vaudeville house which has frequently featured pictures, and is now having distinct success with "Wolves of Kultur."

McCollister Reopens at Wichita.

C. C. McCollister will soon open his new theatre at Wichita. Mr. McCollister had been remarkably successful with his four houses in the city. His new theatre, the Wichita, is a source of pride to his townsmen, who declare that its equal cannot be found in the West.

New England News Notes

SUMMER TO MANAGE THE ALLSTON.

STANLEY SUMMER, for some time manager of the Fenway Theatre, Boston, has resigned and has become manager of the Strand Theatre, Chelsea, Mass., which has reopened after being thoroughly overhauled. The theatre is now one of the finest in that city.

TRENDE SHOWING "Mickey" AT THE FENWY.

A successful trade showing of the picture "Mickey" was held at the Fenway Theatre, Boston, December 12. The picture, which is controlled for the New England states by the Boston Photoplay Company, Fred Murray, manager, under the most favorable conditions, music being supplied by an orchestra of eleven pieces under the charge of the well known music men, Dalies & Wilson, publishers of the song "Mickey," and five and ten-cent store managers co-operated after the showing by presenting their advertising schemes to the exhibitors, and promised them whatever it was that was provided the proper presentation of this feature for the theatre.

SAILORS SEE "LAFAYETTE, WE COME.""Lafayette, We Come," was given a trade showing at the Park Theatre, Boston, through Manager Thomas D. Soriero. Five hundred sailors from training stations in Boston were specifically invited to attend, the theatre managers from all parts of New England. The film aroused great enthusiasm.

PARK'S VICTORY OVERURTE A BIG HIT.

A "Victory" overture recently played by the Park Theatre orchestra and arranged through Manager John P. O'Donnell, manager of the Park, for Manager Thomas D. Soriero, was a tremendous one. The overture was started with the playing of "America," and then the national songs of England, Belgium, France and Italy were played as the leading men of these countries were shown upon the screen. The overture lasted about twelve minutes and the showing of General Pershing and President Wilson at the end caused the audience to break into cheers.

ASYLUM INMATES SEE COMEDY FILMS.

That Douglas Fairbanks and "Patty" Arbuckle can successfully entertain the inmates of a state institution is shown in the completion of arrangements for the erection of a big picture theatre in Ottawa, Canada, called the New. The theatre will seat 2,500, and work will be started at an early date. Phil Kaufman, general manager of the Monarch Film Company, Ltd., Toronto, which is also controlled by the Allen's, was in Ottawa on December 9 and 10 in connection with the new theatre matter.

The Allen's already control the Regent Theatre, one of the finest exhibition picture theatres in Ottawa.

There was an announcement made that Loew's interests would shortly erect a large vaudeville and picture theatre in Ottawa.

There is the prospect, therefore, that Ottawa will have two new houses in the coming season. The city is just over the 100,000 mark.

"STRAND HAS A "JUNE ELVIDGE WEEK"".

In view of the fact that June Elvgide, the world star, had become the wife of Lieut. Frank Todd of the R. F. C., Manager Herb. Jennings, of the Strand Theatre, Ottawa, conducted a "June Elvgide Week," during the week of December 5. Prominent in the programme of the week was Elvgide's feature film. "The Ties," which was a reference to "Ottawa's Fourth War Peace." The schedule of releases for the week were:

GIVES USE OF THEATRE FOR WORSHIP

Thanksgiving Day Service Held in the Rialto at Tacoma—Structure Filled to Overflowing

By S. J. Anderson, 807 Leary Building, Seattle, Wash.

H. T. Moore, the progressive manager of the Rialto and Colonial, the leading theatres of Tacoma, added prestige to Thanksgiving Day for the citizens of this city by devoting the afternoon service of the Rialto and Colonial to a service on Thanksgiving Day. Henry Spiller, well-known organist, who has charge of the houses, filled the organ with his choral music, and Mr. Moore, himself, to the most influential element of the city when he donated the use of the Rialto and Colonial to the diocesan service on Thanksgiving Day. Henry Spiller, well-known organist, who has charge of the houses, filled the organ with his choral music, and Mr. Moore, himself, to the most influential element of the city when he donated the use of the Rialto and Colonial to the diocesan service on Thanksgiving Day. Henry Spiller, well-known organist, who has charge of the houses, filled the organ with his choral music, and Mr. Moore, himself, to the most influential element of the city when he donated the use of the Rialto and Colonial to the diocesan service on Thanksgiving Day. Henry Spiller, well-known organist, who has charge of the houses, filled the organ with his choral music, and Mr. Moore, himself, to the most influential element of the city when he donated the use of the Rialto and Colonial to the diocesan service on Thanksgiving Day. Henry Spiller, well-known organist, who has charge of the houses, filled the organ with his choral music, and Mr. Moore, himself, to the most influential element of the city when he donated the use of the Rialto and Colonial to the diocesan service on Thanksgiving Day.

Theatre was filled to overflowing during the service, there being no standing room left in the aisles or in the foyer or in the balcony. At least five hundred persons were turned away. Mr. Moore receiving letters of commendation from Bishop Keator expressing his appreciation for the use of the theatre and calling particular attention to the wonderful atmosphere of the house. Bishop Keator also wrote Mr. Spiller a grateful letter of thanks for the services rendered.

To arouse and keep the interest of the responsible citizens of his city is one of the pet theories of Mr. Moore's method of conducting business. He is a member of the Rotary Club and is closely associated with charitable organizations. He makes it a rule always to conduct his shows so that the most dignified citizens will enjoy them. He has always been a loyal friend of the diocesan bishop and has often been a beneficiary of the good office of the diocesan bishop.

Mr. Moore considers in his forward-looking policy is that there may be some time in the future when the Rialto may come up, and he will know that the ministers are on his side.

Schaifer Buys "Me Und Gott."

L. J. Schaifer has added the six-reel picture, "Me Und Gott," to his program. The sale of productions for the Northwest. The Ford Weekly is being distributed by this company through its own organization and is receiving great demand. Frank Montgomery is in Eastern Oregon on his way to Montana and Idaho to place Schaifer attractions with exhibitors in the territory.

Takes Over Theatres in Albany.

C. F. Hill, manager of the Goldwyn Seattle office, on Friday evening, acquired control of the motion picture business in the town of Albany, Oregon, by buying both the local Goldwyn and the Globe. Mr. Hill resigned from the management of the Goldwyn office recently to run his own theater. He has been succeeded by F. M. Brockell, manager in Chicago for Paramount-Artcraft, and the Goldwyn office in St. Louis. Mr. Brockell is well known in film through the entire country as a high class business man.

Mr. Schaifer is one of the best liked exchange managers in the Northwest territory, his straightforward business methods, his tact in handling situations, and his ability to satisfy and please others have won him friends in every branch of the industry. His rise to a man agential position was rapid. Never having been associated with the film business in any way until the early spring of 1918, when he accepted a salesman's position in this territory for Paramount, he was soon in charge of the theatres of the Seattle office in a few months, and nine months after entering the business was offered the management of the Seattle office. He remained with Triangle until he opened the Goldwyn offices in this city. He has been an outstanding exhibitor in the Northwest territory for the World Company and of all Northwest Sidewalk in his charge from the distribution service until he got to the exhibiting end of the business.

Fire Closes Palace Hip for a Day.

A fire which broke out in the orchestra pit of the Palace Hip at 6:30 in the morning of December 2 was discovered in time to prevent its spreading out into the auditorium. The damage was sufficient to necessitate the closing of the theatre for a day, but by that time repairs had been made and the house was reopened.

Todd With Select.

L. A. Todd, formerly manager of the Seattle Paramount Pictures salesman out of the Seattle Select office.

Eddie Polo to Arrive on December 30.

Word has just been received by W. A. Mead, manager of the local Universal office, that Eddie Polo, star of "The Lace of the City," will arrive in Seattle on December 30 and will appear personally at the motion picture theatres in connection with the showing of the picture. This announcement was recently announced separation of Hearst and Pathé interests in the news weeklies, whereby Hearst news weeklies will be distributed by Universal offices. Mr. Mead announces that the local Hearst photographer for Seattle territory will be T. G. Randolph, and that about 300 feet of local news pictures will be taken each week and distributed throughout the territory. The fact that these news reels will be developed in Universal City, instead of their being sent back to New York, will insure the presentment of the most spontaneous and popular news value.

It has been so arranged that the three news weeklies released through the Universal office will come at intervals during the week, one being released on Tuesday, one on Wednesday, and one on Thursday. These are the Universal Current Events, the Screen Telegram and Hearst International News Views.

Exhibitors' Exchange to Have New Home.

A lease has been closed on a new building for the Exhibitors' Film Exchange, which is to be ready for them about February 1. The location is on Seattle's film row on Third avenue near Virginia street.

Chaplin Film Breaking Records.

Reports of record business on "Shoulder Arms," the latest Chaplin release, are coming in from the Northwest territory for the Seattle Exhibitors' Film Exchange. Change in the town of Everett, with a population of 35,000, the picture took in over $1,400 in two days, and it broke all records at the Liberty Theatre, Bellingham, for four days.

Gilbert Heffron in Seattle.

Gilbert Heffron, who recently resigned from the management of the Minnesota Amusement Company, of Montana, to locate in Seattle, is in this city now. He has leased the Liberty Theatre of the Bijou, the Isis and the Empire in Missoula, by Henry Turner. Mr. Turner, formerly of the firm of McCoullough-Turner Company, auto dealers, was one of the big stockholders in the Minnesota Amusement Company, and when Mr. Heffron decided to sell out he bought his stock and assumed management.

Hudson Back With Pathe.

With the splitting of the Hearst-Pathé News into two parts W. E. Hudson, local cameraman for the combined weekly, has also gone with Pathe. Mr. Hudson had been cameraman for Pathe for several years before the two were combined.

MORE WASHINGTON CITY NEWS.

Wounded Soldiers Entertained.

The exhibitors of this city are being called upon to assist the Government and the various charitable organizations in the showing of motion picture films. Last week Mr. Marceron, of the Dumbarton, in Georgetown, gave a special matinee for the wounded soldiers from Walter Reed Hospital and the soldier boys from Camp Lejeune, a number of young women acting as ushers, and during the matinee they passed cigarettes and sand-whiches twisted by the Stars and Stripes, and received their guests. The several hundred convalescents from Walter Reed Hospital were driven to the theatre in automobiles, parade fashion, supplied and driven by their owners.

Crandall's Knickerbocker Theatre was used for the showing of American battle scenes by the military intelligence division of the general staff of the army. The films were displayed Monday and Tuesday evenings and were witnessed by Vice-Admiral C. F. Crandall, Chief Justice White, of the United States Supreme Court; Governor W. H. Smith of the House of Representatives; General Pershing, Secretary of the Navy Daniels, his Imperial Highness the Prince Konigul, of Japan, and most of the diplomatic representatives and members of International organizations in Washington. Attendance was by invitation only.

Shuberts Take Over the Casino.

The Casino Theatre, on F street, near Seventh street, N.W., erstwhile motion picture house, barbwire theatre because of tab shows and vaudeville, has been taken over by the Shuberts. It is to be rechristened the Garden and opened Christmas week under the management of L. Roddard Taylor, who is also manager of the Delacorte Theatre. The building is being redecorated and changes are being made in its production. Small comedies and dramas are being planned.

There are many ways in which The Shubert Educational Advertising serves theatre managers and other individuals in the morning picture industry. The service is prompt and the appeal effective.
ALLEN THEATRE AT EDMONTON OPENS

Seats 1,100—Has a $15,000 Pipe Organ and a Big Orchestra Pit—Color Scheme is Rose, Gold and Gray

By W. M. Gladish, 32 Wineva Avenue, Toronto, Ont.

The doors of the new Allen Theatre, Edmonton, Alberta, were thrown open for the first time on Monday, December 2, with the production of Cecil B. De Mille's feature, "Hearts of the World." This house, which is the thirty-second owned or controlled by Jule and J. J. Allen in the Dominion, was started on August 2 last and, despite labor and material shortages, was opened exactly four months later.

The new house has a seating capacity of 1,106, with three groups of inner boxes at the rear of the one floor. There are one hundred loge seats altogether. The Allen stands on the site of the old Orpheum Theatre, but the latter was completely effaced, along with a number of other structures, to make room for the new theatre. The Allen has a frontage of 75 feet with a depth of 150 feet, and the location is near the intersection of Jasper avenue and 101st street.

One of its features is a great concert organ which has over 1,000 pipes, costing $15,000. In the spacious orchestra pit there is also found a grand piano. There is also accommodation for an orchestra of twenty-five musicians.

The street front is almost severe in its simplicity, the only ornamentation being in the color of the brick. The interior of the house, however, is as brilliant as a bursting war flare. The general color scheme is a combination of old rose, gold and gray, with curtains and draperies to match. The interior layout follows the Roman amphitheatre style, the one floor sloping at an angle that permits freedom of movement and ease of gaze.

The staff of the new Allen Theatre consists of the following: The manager is Max Allen, formerly of Rochester, N. Y., who has been identified with moving picture affairs in Western Canada for the past seven years. He has been the manager of the Monarch Theatre, Edmonton, which is also owned by the Allens. C. C. Ootman is the assistant manager, Miss G. Allen is the treasurer, W. Allen the mechanical engineer, E. Grace chief operator and A. Jackson house superintendent.

The musical director is A. Fratkin, who has been associated with Cohn and Son, Ltd., of Professor Auer, of Petrograd, Russia. The organist is William H. Tomkinson, who was the organist and choirmaster of the Knox Church, Edmonton, from 1913 to 1917. He was educated in Glasgow, Scotland, studying under B. W. Hartley, F.R.C.O., and J. W. Strachan. He was a church organist when he was but fifteen years of age, and he presided at organs in various Scottish churches until he came to Canada. In 1903 he gave organ recitals at the Glasgo exhibition. He has been in the employ of the Allens for the past four years. Mr. Tomkinson is a member of the executive of the local musicians' union and has an extensive teaching connection.

One feature of the opening of the Allen Theatre, the cost of which is placed at $156,000, was the publication of an "Allen Theatre Section" by the Morning Bulletin of Edmonton. Four whole pages of this section were devoted to a description of the theatre and to advertisements of the theatre and of local contractors.

Use "Fit-to-Fight" Film in Vice Crusade.

The Committee of Sixteen, in Montreal, Quebec, which is leading a crusade against commercialized vice locally, has obtained a print of the "Fit-to-Fight" picture which has been shown at army camps throughout the United States. Announcement is made that the Montreal Y. M. C. A. has arranged for the showing of the picture to soldiers at the Red Triangle Hut, Dominion Square, at regular intervals.

The Committee of Sixteen also arranged for a private presentation of the release on Friday evening, December 6. Invitations were extended to five hundred citizens of Montreal, and the latter were required to make written application for an admission ticket for the performance. Only males were admitted to this show.

Good Film Views of Canning Industry.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture has announced that it has secured excellent motion pictures of the canning industry at Guelph, Ontario, and that the prints have been placed in the Stock Film Library possessed by the Ontario Government.

The Allen Theatre, Montreal, Quebec.

The cuts on this page illustrate the new Allen Theatre, which opened September 16, in the Plateau district of Montreal. The Allen is one of the growing chain of theatres owned and operated in Canada by the Dominion Theatrical Enterprises, with offices in Toronto.

The new theatre was under construction for over six months, and is modern in every way. It has a capacity of nearly eleven hundred, the seats being all on one floor. The building occupies a lot with the frontage of eighty-five feet on Sherbrooke street and a depth of one hundred and four feet from wall to wall. It is constructed of rustic brick, and is as fireproof as it is possible for a theatre to be, being of steel construction, with cement roof and floor.

The exterior presents an almost severely plain appearance. There are two small stores on each side of the entrance. The lobby itself is quite shallow, and is divided by a double set of doors to provide against drafts during the winter. The interior decorations are carried out in old rose and ivory. The booth, which is exceptionally large, occupying the entire space over the lobby, is equipped with two Power's 6B projectors and a Horner transamer. The throw is a little over ninety feet, an Aene gold fibre screen being used.

Veterans See Own War Film.

Veterans of the famous Twenty-second French-Canadian Battalion, Montreal, saw their own war film at a special performance at the Imperial Theatre, Montreal, on December 6. Invitations were extended by the management to all former officers and members of the unit in the city to attend, and about two hundred were present. They were escorted to the theatre by the band of the Second Depot Battalion. A feature of the evening was the singing of the "Marseillaise" by M. Louis Chartier, the French-Canadian baritone, and the military band also occupied the stage for a part of the evening for a special concert. The stage was decorated with the flags of the Allies.

In addition to the special pictures of the Twenty-second Battalion, a number of Pathe war picture were also screened. French military views were shown during the rendering of a polka song.

Sturges Gives Reception to Eddie Polo.

Eddie Polo, the star of many a Universal serial, got acquainted with the moving picture patrons of Toronto, Ontario, on December 9, 10 and 11, when he made the rounds of various local show-houses. His coming was unheralded, but it was not long before the fans got wise to his presence in the city, and every theatre was packed to greet him. He made the start of his tour at the Imperial Theatre, 408 Queen Street East, and during the one evening he appeared at the Eclipse, Family, Melba, Ideal, and other houses.

He occupied the residence of Mr. and Mrs. William Sturges, 35 Lockwood road, for a reception. Mr. Sturges is the manager of the Imperial Theatre, and Mrs. Sturges made a splendid hostess. Among the guests present at the private reception were the following guests: Clair Hague, president and general manager of the Canadian Union Live Stock Exposition, Hamilton exhibitor; J. R. McKinney, sales

Two Views of Interior of the Allen Theatre of Montreal, Quebec.
EXHIBITORS ENTERTAIN FRENCH HEROES
San Francisco Theatre Men Provide Amusement for 500 Veterans on the Way to Siberia

By T. A. Church, 1507 North Street, Berkeley, Cal.

FIVE HUNDRED French aviators and expert gunners arrived in San Francisco on a seaplane, and were entertained during their stay at many affairs staged in their honor. A meeting of the managing committee of the Central Exposition Auditorium, this having been arranged by a committee consisting of Superintendents A. B. W. Tillinghast, L. D. E. Hume, of the Columbia Theatre, and Leo Weinberger, manager of the Strand Theatre, was held in the central auditorium. The afternoon meeting was addressed by M. L. Markowitz, manager Leo Weinberger of the Strand the visitors were entertained there one afternoon, the attractions being given by John C. and Charles Chaplin. This trysting on life in the trenches created great merriment among the foreign visitors. Edward Rainey, secretary to Mayor Rolf, welcomed the aviators to the theatre, and paid a glowing tribute to the heroism of the house for its patriotic efforts. The visitors were also entertained by the management of the Ratho and the theatre of the Government film "Under Four Flags."

Exhibitors Meet Affiliated Official.
C. C. Pettijohn, chief counsel of the Affiliated Distributors' Corporation, which recently took over control of the San Francisco Theatre, was a recent visitor in San Francisco, and met the leading exhibitors of the city. An informal conference was held to explain briefly the new unit booking plan. The gathering was held at the local Mutual office, and it was decided that the time for sending out announcements was short, manager Newton Levy succeeded in getting an agreement. Among those who met to welcome Mr. Pettijohn at the gathering on December 2 were Eugene H. Roth, of the California and Portola theatres; Howard J. Sheehan and George Mann, of the Rialto Theatre; Louis Greenfield, of the New Mission and Fillmore theatres; Charles Frohman, of the Queen Theatre; Frank Levy, of the Royal and Folk Theatres; Aaron Goldberg, of the Paragon and Central Theatres; Joseph Bauer, of the Wigwam Theatre, and S. H. Levin, of the Coliseum Theatre, all of San Francisco; R. M. Deering, of the American Theatre, Oakland, and the Alameda Theatre, Alameda; L. E. Lund, of the Broadway and Jungle Theatres; H. J. Levin, of the Regent Theatre, San Mateo; Charles Godard, of Godard's J Street Theatre, Sacramento; and W. F. Schriver, of the Liberty theatres of Fresno and San Jose.

This was Mr. Pettijohn's first visit to the Pacific Coast, and he expressed himself as being greatly impressed with the scenic attractions, the exhibitors met and with the excellence of the theatres. He declared that California exhibitors have a high reputation throughout the East and that he was glad to find them living up to it. Local theatres, he said, were not to be surpassed anywhere for size, beauty and the presentation of shows. His stay here was a brief one, and after the meeting he left for Denver, by way of Salt Lake City.

Select's Business Climbs.
In spite of the recent financial troubles the Select Pictures Corporation has done well this winter. As the result of the work of the company, business here is better than it has been for many years. The company is doing well, and the results are shown in the financial statements. The company is now doing business in all parts of the United States, and has plans for the future that are successful.

William Russell in Town.
William Russell, the American star, blew into town recently from the east and plans to stay for a week or so. While here he appeared in person on the stage of the Tivoli Theatre, where he was received with great enthusiasm.

Theatre Sues for Influenza Loss.
Exhibitors in general are taking much interest in a suit that has been filed in the Supreme Court to recover damages for influenza. The suit, brought by the Atlantic Film Exchange, and expresses delight with the way the plaintiffs are being received.

New Hippodrome Opens Soon.
Rapid progress is being made on the construction and furnishing of the new Hippodrome Theatre, which will be the latest addition to the great chain of combination vaudeville and moving picture houses. The construction of the Hippodrome has been under way for some time, and it is expected to be completed in the near future. The Hippodrome is one of the largest and most modern of its kind in the West, and it is expected to attract the attention of the public.

California Enlarges Orchestras.
The California Theatre has enlarged its orchestra, and is making the musical part of the program a distinct feature, under the direction of Herman Henry. The orchestra will play for the first time in this city the "American Wedding March," by John Philip Sousa.

New Films Booked at Emporium.
The Emporium, one of California's largest houses, is preparing for the opening of its new pictures in its theatre each afternoon, the entertainments being designed especially for the juvenile clientele. In addition to the films, the management has booked the entire series of eighteen Moty comedies handled by the Famous Film Exchange, and expresses delight with the way they are being received.

T. A. Church.
December 28, 1918
REVIVING SUSPENDED THEATRE PROJECTS

Edward Hart May Be First to Erect Big Picture House in Cincinnati Following Removal of Ban

By Kenneth C. Crain, 307 First

One of the results of the coming of peace was the lifting of the embargo on building which has for over a year prevented the construction of all new buildings directly connected with the war; and as several ambitious theatre building projects, besides numerous plant improvements, are now under way, plans for reviving them immediately becomes vitally important. That which seems to be the nearest to realizing is the oft-reported plan for the construction of the new theatre on Fountain Square, which is the block intersected between Vine and Walnut streets. Edward Hart, a prominent businessman, controls a substantial piece of property in this block which would furnish an ideal location for a moving picture theatre. In fact, two theatres, the Bijou and the Star, are already located in the block, and it is stated that Mr. Hart is now in contact with a leading contracting concern, discussing the project, for which plans were prepared over a year ago. Two other houses proposed are slated for Fourth street, which is now without any picture theatre between West Sixth and Vine. These are in a somewhat vague state as compared with the Hart project.

Lithographing Temporarily

A direct result of the influenza epidemic and its depressive effect on the moving picture theatres throughout this section will be the closing of a short time ago of the plant of the Donaldson Lithographing Company, in Newport, which furnished posters for the exhibitors and Illinois in a considerable district. Officers of the company stated that the widespread effect of the epidemic, which has raged without cessation in some sections for over a month, and September, has shut down so many theatres that it was decided advisable to close until the epidemic passes on.

Tell of Work Done to Improve Conditions

At a special meeting of the Film Exchange Managers' Association of the Chamber of Commerce held last night, it was announced that the Cleveland organization of exchange managers, Mr. Morgan explained fully the work which the organization of exchange managers toward eliminating abuses existing in the industry, and toward improving some of the work of showing moving pictures, especially in the projecting end of the business.

Epidemic Closes the Family Theatre

With the recurrence of the influenza epidemic the local authorities thought it wise to close the Family Theatre, Milford, Ohio, in order to avoid further spread of the disease. The local churches have also been under consideration.

Detroit News Letter

By Jacob Smith, 117 Free Press Building.

BLAIR McGILROY, of Fitzpatrick & McLaren, was in Detroit on December 20, and confirmed the report that his concern plans to build a theatre of its own under the new plan of distribution, which takes place January 13, 1918, exhibits the building will be at the $1 per month, which money goes to Goldwyn for its expense in making shipment, insurance, handling, etc. Aside from this cost the weekly is absolutely free, and is given to exhibitors regardless and independent of any program or feature with their headquarters in Chicago, 202 South State street, and operate a circuit of twenty-two theatres in Illinois and Wisconsin. The firm comprise Kenneth Fitzpatrick and Blair McElroy.

National Bank, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Changes in Kunsky Theatre Managers

There has been quite a change in the house of the H. Kunsky theatres, Detroit, as a result of the recent resignation of Fred M. Shafer at the Adaline, Charles H. Darrell, former manager of the Alhambra, goes to the Adams, while Sid Lawrence, former manager of the Alhambra, goes to the Alhambra. Tom Moul will continue to manage and book the Washington and Madison theatres, D. C. Shook will continue at the Strand, while L. H. Gardner will continue to look after the Odeon, Royal and Liberty. Mike Schoenherr is a permanent fixture at the Columbia, which is the Kunsky vaudeville theatre.

Changes in Staff at Paramount Exchange

H. A. Ross, Detroit manager for Paramount-Artemis, announces a shifting in his employes in view of certain necessary changes in the organization of the exchange. Elmer Brien is transferred from Detroit to the St. Louis exchange, where he will do sales work, as he did in Detroit. Charles R. Bounds, recently assistant manager at Fox, goes to Paramount as supervisor of booklings, in addition to which he will act as an assistant manager in any sales position to be created. T. J. Plank, a newspaper and advertising man for twenty years, is now a raising manager of the Logansport Daily Tribune, will be in charge of publicity and service department of the Paramount Exchange, effective January 1.

Planning to Retire from the Business

Morris and Tom Lynch, who operate the Cameo, Cherokee, Chenie and Catherine streets, are planning to retire from the business. They were one of the pioneers in distributing picture exchange, having been in business by theatre in Detroit, on East Jefferson avenue, near the Packard Bridge.

Madison Theatre Workers to Program

Music is playing a most important part in the weekly shows at the Madison Theatre, Detroit. Ward Johnson, the orchestra leader, is not only a thorough musician, but a showman as well, and he is injecting bits of specialties here and there that are proving the talk of the town among the lovers of first-run pictures. For instance in connection with the Breeze Educational showings he has been in each case the orchestra has played the theme tune of the show. Ward Johnson, being a trio of his musicians play in accompaniment to the scene—anyway, he is giving the people of Detroit some real musical novelties.

Richardson is a Papa

Art Richardson, who handles all bookings at the Great Eastern Exchange, and one of the best known booking managers, has become a proud papa Wednesday, November 28th, a little girl whom he has been brought forth through the seven-pound baby girl, his wife and christened Virginia Catherine. Best wishes to Art and his family.

Gardiel Books "The Cavelly Case"

Charles Garfield, of the Orpheum Theatre, Flint, has booked through Select the big special, "The Cavelly Case," with Julian Arthur as Nurse Edith Cavill. Charlie booked it immediately after seeing it, and now he intends to advertise it as he has put over any picture in the past.

New Prints of Jewel Productions

W. D. Ward, Detroit representative for Jewel Productions, says he has just booked new prints on every release. "Last week was the best we have seen new business with Jewel pictures," he said. "For House show it is booking exceptionally strong, and we are making new bookings on The Price of a Good Time and our Jewel productions."

Improvement Made in General Exchange

A. J. Reed, manager of the General Film Exchange in Detroit, has completely rearranged his exchange, and from time to time is adding new features and subject. It is announced the exchange is now releasing Sherry Pictures, in addition to its regular line of features and subject. J. C. Sollars is assistant to Mr. Reed, and six salesmen are covering the state. Mr. Reed and Mr. Sollars take care of the sales in Detroit.

Broadway-Strand Has Novel Stunt

Phil Gleichman, of the Broadway-Strand, Detroit, has adopted a novel scheme that is causing a great deal of interest in the house programs more than ever. Each week every program is changed, and the management announces a new show number. Any patron getting a program with any new number can go to the lucky one simply has to present it at the box office and get an admission ticket gratis.

Abandoning Orchestra and Raises Price.

Jack Cholewa, manager of the Lincoln Square Theatre, Detroit, has abandoned the orchestra, and is now using the organ exclusively. The same time he took this step he raised the admission price to 15, 20 and 30 cents, cutting out all 15-cent seats. What says the new policy is working out splendidly. Nobody seems to have missed the orchestra, neither do patrons complain over the new prices.

Washington News Letter

By Clarence L. Lins, 622 Riggs Building, Washington, D. C.

Famous Players' Exhibition Room Opened.

The Manager, Mr. Young-Players-Lasky Corporation production, in Washington, D. C.

In "Thing in Life," is one of the most interesting of the pictures shown in the National capital was an exhibition produced by the group of men who were the guest, John Gage, is one of the local manager for the company; Ben Rogers, of Fox Film Corporation, and the Washington correspondent of the Moving Picture World.

The party was given by the correspond- ent of this paper, with the use of the film furnished by Mr. Morgan, to show his friends how comfortable a motion picture exhibition could be made when Mr. Rogers permitted the use of his new exhibition room for that purpose. It was the Christmas day in the capital, and it was held on the third floor of the building housing the magazine; and, incidentally, so far as Washington History is concerned, it was the premiere of the picture George C. Shaffer, the "New York street fighter," sent a large vase of red roses to decorate the exhibition room.

Among those present were Representative Joseph Walsh, of Massachusetts; Frederick W. Dallinuer, of the same state, and the retiring members of The Washington Committee on Education and Labor. Among the latter a present in the defeat of the Hughes-Swift Bill, C. C. Dill, of Wash- ington (state), Burton E. Sweet and Cassius C. Dewell, of Iowa, Louis Warner, representative, and W. J. P. of Massa- chusetts, was also among the guests.

Would you find a new and better position? Try an advertisement in The World's Classified, the quick road to results.
There was a particular need for “food propaganda” when “Little Miss Hoover” first appeared on the screen, and with the arrival of peace the need for food conservation, we are told, is predicted to last for many days of war. While there are absolutely no war scenes in this latest Marguerite Clark picture, there are scenes which may now be looked upon without the strain of battle to intensify the meaning of the word “slikker.” Food made good the promise of victory, and food must still be saved to sustain life in the devastated areas swept by war, while the folks at home battle against the profiteers, shipping and saving to permit of export to the needy thousands left stranded by enemy depredation. On these advanced lines Marguerite Clark carries forward “Little Miss Hoover.”

To aid showmen and their press agents in making the most of their immediate opportunity two representatives of the Moving Picture World “sat in” at a showing of “Little Miss Hoover” exactly as it will be released to exhibitors—and not entirely as set forth in Paramount’s own press books. The material presented in the following “aids to exhibitors” has been especially prepared with the exhibitor’s needs solely in mind.

Synopsis of “Little Miss Hoover.”

From “The Golden Bird,” a story written by Maria Thompson Davies, the scenario of “Little Miss Hoover” was prepared by Adrian Gil-Spear. Under the direction of John S. Robertson, with an able company in her support, Marguerite Clark has prepared a screen drama splendidly tinged with clean comedy following this general outline as to plot: That he might better succeed in his appointed task, Adam Baldwin discards his uniform and goes into Harpeth Valley to stimulate crop production under the urging of Washington, the St. Louis farmer. He located the Craddock Farm, in which Nancy Craddock holds half interest. She has found it difficult to grow grains until at the time the play begins their Washington home is swept away by an unexplained disaster.

On the day she learns the news of these reverses, Nancy has been harassed by a speech of her husband, who is urging her to go to Harpeth Valley and create a farm, as Adam Baldwin is standing for his farm. As a way to start, Adam Baldwin intends to start chickens as her “bit.” These fowl she now determines to use as a basis of new prosperity for herself and grandfather, as she hurries away to Harpeth Valley and Craddock Farm.

Matthew Berry has romantically deserted his love for Nancy, and at each proposal of marriage has been refused because he was not in a uniform. Matthew, the Craddock’s foreman, is once more among the tasks of the Craddock Farm. When the shipboard turns him down, Matthew follows Nancy to Craddock Farm and becomes heristic man that he may gain strength and “fatten up” to pass the army examination. There he finds Polly Beardsley, matron of the work, with whom he falls totally in love—without advising Nancy of his change of heart.

Adam Baldwin, the Government specialist, has, meanwhile, helped Nancy re-instate some of the “slikker hand” labor. Matthew Berry follows her, bringing along the blushing Polly Beardsley, and, while Nancy and George are the neighbors in a lively pursuit of agriculture. The war is “getting hot,” and the other men finally question Baldwin as to why he is not in uniform. Under instructions not to disclose his identity, Baldwin suggests that almost lead to a cost of tar and feathers for the mysterious young man. But Nancy, knowing of the move, warns him, and he makes good his “get away.”

Later on at a meeting of the villagers at Orange Hall to hear a famous “Government expert” everybody is surprised to see Adam Baldwin speaking for himself, and as ends happily the story of “Little Miss Hoover,” the farm at the (insert theatre and date), with Marguerite Clark the star.

Shorter Synopsis for Program.

Marguerite Clark in “Little Miss Hoover” will be seen at (insert theatre and date) in a light comedy drama founded upon the need of food conservation. Two leading men and another pretty girl, Frances Kaye, will carry the heart interest through many engaging scenes. The story: Nancy Craddock has been left suddenly penniless by an unexpected trick of fortune, and, to make herself and her home respectable and to possess a farm in which she holds half-interest, with her uncle: raising chickens being her means of livelihood. Adam Baldwin, expert farmer, has been sent by the Government to urge an increased crop. In the crop food, food conservation is necessary to win the war and later to feed the destitute in devastated lands. Nancy and the farmers find themselves to be out in uniform.

Some Details in Short Paragraphs.

Hal Reid was known as a stage star in towns of every size throughout the country a few years ago. Not alone as star, but as author of “Human Hearts,” he was known among the foremost American professionals. Then the scenes changed for him, and he undertook writing scenarios and acting in motion pictures. His latest work is in support of Marguerite Clark, who plays “Little Miss Hoover” at the (insert theatre and date). Hal Reid plays the role of a Southern gentleman who has abandoned the cotton plantation and become a Northern farmer.

What will appear as an inconsistency in Marguerite Clark’s Paramount play, “Little Miss Hoover,” when it is presented at (insert theatre and date) will be her appearance in fine gowns and pretty negliges amid homely scenes “down on the farm.” As Nancy Craddock, Miss Clark plays the role of a girl who has turned to chicken raising and farming to rescue her lost fortune, and in what “country” girl in fashionable clothes while other women in her neighborhood wear the usual costumes of the hard working country folk might seem an inconsistency. But it must be remembered that Nancy Craddock is a farmer’s wife, and while she goes forward with farm life, using the fine gowns of fashion wherever she can make them fit in. And a prettier picture than Marguerite Clark in her many pretty dresses could hardly be imagined.

In making the scenes for “Little Miss Hoover,” the Paramount photographers worked through patriotism, with Marguerite Clark appearing at (insert theatre and date), Washington was selected for authentic shooting. The Maryland countryside also provided “locations” for the many rustic framings of pastoral beauty and vivid naturalness.
The most popular scene in the picture is likely to be about the best moving picture ever taken of President Wilson making a public address. President Wilson was “cameradized” while standing on the stage or platform outside, facing an audience of a large and enthusiastic crowd. Those who have seen the picture and read Washington correspondents’ descriptions are impressed by the President’s gestures and attitude in making addresses declare that “Little Miss Hoover” brings him the closest possible likeness and best light as a public speaker.

There is a scene in Marguerite Clark’s presentation of “Little Miss Hoover” offered as the attraction at (insert theatre and date) that is sure to delight all boxes. Both the films and the scenes ever embodied in a motion picture. As Nancy Craddock in this newest Paramount production Miss Clark has the role of a girl, once rich, who has suddenly been cast upon her own resources. To make money she enters the chicken business, buys incubators, establishes a chicken plant (on credit), and sooner or later success which not so many others have failed. But the incident that is bound to create a glut of glee and pleasurable surprise is this: At a critical moment in the hatching, Nancy Craddock’s incubator breaks down, and the girl tries the eggs fully to bed with her. She wraps them in a bath towel, surrounds them with hot-water bottles, and tries to sleep. The eggs under the bedding beside her. At dawn she is awakened by young chickens running off from under the covering of a nest that is spreading, tumbling and tugging over her face, and actively exercising their tiny legs. Miss Clark turns down Nancy Craddock’s covers, and there is the cloth which had previously warmed the eggs and imitating the motions of the chicklets. There in the bed are shown “peeps” half out of the shell, with more of them “just out” and running over the covers, and sheet. It is a surprisingly interesting novelty, sure to be remembered however the next time Miss Clark in her latest photoplay.

So popular is Marguerite Clark that her managers are scarcely able to turn out pictures fast enough to meet the demands of the many appearances of this favorite actress. Her recent marriage to a newspaper executive officer has excited much interest in her screen plays, and when she comes to the (insert theatre and date) in “Little Miss Hoover” her admirers will be delighted. For the Paramount Co., who now present her on the screen, Miss Clark has found them, and this picture—indeed, perhaps—to be exact “Little Miss Hoover” will be her twenty-seventh issue in the Paramount series.

Catch Lines for Advertising.
She went to Bed With the Eggs and Got Up with the Chickens.
She paid $1,000 for a Rooster and $5 for a Hen.
“Votes for Hens!”
When she played the part in an incubator.
She gave the Incubator the Goods.
See President Woodrow Wilson Making a Fiscal Address from the Street.
When the Town Band Played “Money Musk” the Incubator Went Cold.
Be Careful, O’Rielly! A Rooster Turned the Tide of Lowering Fortune.
If it costs $2.13 a Per Year to Keep a Hen, How Much Will It Cost for a Chicken?
Pictures Won’t Lie and Hens Will Eat.
That’s why Raw Eggs Are 19 Cents Each on Broadway.

ADVERTISING ANGLES.
There are two large angles to be played up in the story of this new chicken and egg propaganda. The production has been shown before the Food Administration, and especially endorsed by that organization. Prominent mention should be made of this fact, but the more interesting angle to the public at the present time is the star; coming as it does on the tail of a long series of conservation pictures. At the same time make use of the propaganda angle, not alone in appealing to local boards and patriotic societies, but as the excuse for additional space in the newspapers. Point out to the editor that this paragandistic picture deals with the need for conservation after the war. The picture has been adroitly retitled by these lines, and the propaganda is well defined, though it is made to appear as the motive for the plot and is not intense. Get shots of the star as your advertising entities you to the reading column, and then start a drive for additional mention for the picture. The picture is pleasant and of interest, and in its light in weight does not make the error of advertising this as the best picture in which Miss Clark has ever appeared. The story is not over-boomed, it will give complete satisfaction, but if the audience is led to expect too much, the star and the play will not then seem to be as good as it really is. Lay stress upon the fact that this is not a war picture, but a post-bellum story, a story of the moment, dealing with a situation more acute now than during the war, because of the natural tendency to lessen effort and make the stimulus of contest has been removed.

The picture was made in Washington and in the Virginia mountains. Tell that it presents a charming picture of life in the shadow of the dome of the Capitol, and of that Maryland which has changed little since the war; a new locale to a photoplay. Tell, too, that it shows some striking pictures of President Wilson addressing an outdoor audience.

Get these facts over in your press stuff and advertise your grand stand. The trick play up Miss Clark’s name heavily. The name will bring you more business than the story, the propaganda, or the character of Miss Clark heavily, but connect it with the propaganda through Miss Clark’s efforts as a chicken farmer. Make chickens your second keynote in your newspaper advertising. Try such lines as, “Did you ever raise chickens? See how Marguerite Clark made a real step-mother to a fancy brood in, etc.” “Hens helped win the war. See them scratch in your yard. With eggs close to a dollar a dozen, why not raise your own?” “Marguerite Clark did in ‘Little Miss Hoover’ what you can if you take her tips. See how she raised the country. ‘Little Miss Hoover’ loved all feathered things, but see the man she loved turred and his like that sort of feathered thing. See how she came about in ‘Little Miss Hoover’.”

For the Lobby.
Get the chickens into the lobby. If you can rent or borrow hens in the lobby with some day-old chicks, have them peck the chicks by mail. Most Sunday newspapers, just before the weekly column, a poultry journal or the country gentle- man will sell such chicks as live after the showing; or make the hens with a sign, “This is a chicken’s step-mother.”

Did it? If so, Marguerite Clark made in ‘Little Miss Hoover’ (hatching date).” Or get a setting of eggs in an incubator and display them. You can in the lobby with a display card, “This is the way Marguerite Clark started to raise hens in ‘Little Miss Hoover,’ but see how they were hatched out. You never could guess the live chicks will be far more attractive than the incubator, so use these if you can.

If you have a space in the lobby, set up a stand of eggs and chicken, and give a small prize and several of them. Make it a free-for-all, or specialize in white leghorns. If you can, you can work in with the Red Cross, and distribute an advertisement for their benefit and let them work the hens. It is possible to in the city theatres a pen of live chickens will be more of an attraction than a dozen six sheets.

Work on the line from the play that those birds worn out the American Eagle, the Chanticleer of France, and the humble hen. Show all three in your lobby, the Peace, the War, and the Valley, Md. Grown by Marguerite Clark.”

Flank any of these displays with the request to sell the eggs, and get them to O’Brien holding hens. For outside use the 24 sheets in preference to the six which are a little longer and use some of the three. Both three and 24’s are good.

Stunt Suggestions.
Instead of a billboard advertising wagon build a coop with chickens on a flat, and send this through the streets with banners reading, “See Marguerite Clark as a chicken farmer at (name). She’s some chicken herself. Don’t miss this one.” Hang the coop on the sides, and instruct the driver where possible to stop at the curb for a few minutes. Give out some free eggs.

Place pens of plain or fancy birds in store windows. You can get into the leading department stores as would do the right. Use a sign, “These chickens are from (name of owner or dealer), but you can see the real Marguerite Clark raised in Little Miss Hoover” at (house and date). See how she did it, then do it yourself. Down with the high cost of eggs.”

If you have a dealer in poultry supplies in your territory get a window display, lending him stills for an attractor. Make a special bid with help for girls and boys to buy them for dealer to take part of your space or tie up with your space. Give him a slide as an inducement. Work the same thing with dealers in fancy stock, if there are any, with an appeal to see Marguerite Clark's five thousand dollar rooster.

If you can get a few musicians send the Harpeth Valley Band through the streets with placards, dress them as rubes. Letter one of the cards, "This is the welcome Marguerite Clark received when she came to Harpeth Valley to raise chickens and save the country. She did both. See 'Little Miss Hoover' (house and date)."

Have the band play discordantly. If you cannot get men who can play, perhaps you can dig up a kazoo band.

General Suggestions.

If you have a country trade make a special appeal to them with a mailing card, telling them to come and see how a city girl made good on a farm that had gone to seed.

Work slides a week ahead showing chickens. If you cannot get these ready made, get your local photographer to copy some from some poultry journal, which you can borrow from the public library or some fancier. Letter each with a description of the bird shown, and add, "But see Marguerite Clark's $5,000 rooster in 'Little Miss Hoover' (date)." Let your pianist or drummer work the rooster crow while the pictures are being shown.

Turn a green dress loose in front of your theatre before the opening matinee or night show and offer a pair of tickets to the boy who catches it.

Advertise the feature well in advance, and you'll get a crowd.

Work on the editors of farm and garden departments in your local papers, as well as on the photoplay editors.

Billing.

The following is the correct billing as offered by Paramount:

Adolph Zukor Presents
MARGUERITE CLARK
in
"LITTLE MISS HOOVER"
A Paramount Picture
By Maria Thompson Daviess
Scenes by Adrian Gil-Spar
Directed by John S. Robertson

Sample Advertisements.

The advertisements displayed in one-column measure may be set in two or three-column width, if desired, merely by increasing the size of the type.

The cuts from the mats supplied by Paramount Service Bureau can be used in connection with the same if imitation is desired.

Finishing "When the Boys Come Home."

Director John Emerson has brought the filming of the third John Emerson-Anita Loos production, "When the Boys Come Home," to its final stages at the Fort Lee studio of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. Ernest Truex has the leading male role.

Hoffberg Renews Goldwyn South American Contract

J. F. HOFFBERG, general manager of the Co-operative Film Company of New York, announces that his firm has renewed its present contract with Goldwyn for the exclusive distribution rights for the 1918-1919 productions, including all Geraldine Farrar, Pauline Frederick, Rex Beach, Mabel Normand, Mae Marsh and Tom Moore pictures, for territory embracing Chile, Peru, Equador and Bolivia.

The Co-operative also states that arrangements with their former South American representative have discontinued, and that they are now represented by Ataliver Zepeda, and also announces that in addition to the Goldwyn pictures it has secured some of the biggest independent specials on the market.

Mr. Hoffberg is of the opinion that the former control of the South American market held by European producers will never again be realized, and gives as his reason the fact that about ninety per cent. of the exchanges in that continent have solidly contracted for North American productions for years to come; further, that fifty per cent. of the exchanges are either American owned or have American connections. In substantiation of this contention, he points to the outcome of a popularity contest held by La Semana Cinematografica, of Santiago, where nine of the first ten leading actresses are American, and among the first thirty-three names only seven Italian, French or Scandinavian actresses appear. While Francesca Bertini, Pina Menichelli and Lydia Borelli will undoubtedly remain popular, he says, they will not reach the height of popularity enjoyed by Geraldine Farrar, Mabel Normand, Pearl White, Norma Talmadge and several other American stars, and that the same applies to male stars, of whom George Walsh is the most popular.

Old Friends Now Business Partners.

Friends for twenty years—"pals," in fact—and now for the first time associated in business—that is the story, in brief, of James Vincent and James R. Sheehan.

Mr. Vincent, a director, is the head of Vincent Pictures. He is making a screen version of "The Spirit of Lafayette." Mr. Sheehan is a widely known and experienced showman, having been for many years general manager of the F. F. Shea Circuit of Theatres.

Mr. Sheehan is a born showman, and he has developed his natural talents through contact with every phase of the theatrical business. He has been an actor, a producer of repertoire and vaudeville, a theatre manager and the executive head of a large circuit.

While you have a job advertise for a better one in The World's Classified, a quick route to good results.

Tom Moore in "Go West, Young Man" (Goldwyn).
Rambles Round Filmtown
With WALTER K. HILL

LIFE IN THE INDUSTRY.

Second Spasm of Our Serial.

By Joseph F. Lee.

SYNOPTES OF PRECEDING EPISODE.—O, Fuller Bull, general sales manager for a certain Fillum Company, has been knocked out of a foreign sale by another film promoter whom Bull had introduced to his own "prospect." The tricky cuss had induced Bull's customer to sign on the dotted line just at the moment Bull expected the Foreign Buyer to do the same thing on a contract that would interest the Hoboken and other Foreign Rights to "Skipped by the Light of the Moon."

Second Episode.

For thirteen seconds Bull sat with his clenched fist resting on the desk blotter the Charter Oak Insurance Company had issued for other and such purposes. He had watched great captains of industry move in the same attitude in various super-features many a time and oft. Finally he broke his own silence; smashed it, utterly. He thus raved:

"That's what you get," said Bull to "the best little stenographer you ever saw," while his eyes glimmered and his teeth flashed back the glint of the desk light he kept burning, even at mid-day, for atmosphere: "that's what you get for treating a customer right. I gave him the time of his young life—a ride to Grant's Tomb and a midnight lunch at the Automat. And now he's done gone signed the other fellow's proposition.

"I'm done. From this minute there will be no more attempts to do business in this office by bribes, or inducements."

Looking at his watch, Bull declared an armistice with business and sounded the lunch call. He was reaching for his caned and hat when his secretary dashed in with an "important letter."

"Who's it from?" said Bull.

"From an exhibitor—kicking," replied the secretary. "You needn't act 'kickin'—they always are," said Bull, as he reached for the letter and read as follows:

"General Sales and Exploitation Manager: Dear Sir: Having a complaint to make I thought I'd write you these few lines as after playing your last feature I have just added up all of my bills. "I followed to the letter (and postal cards) your exploitation plan. Just as you said I would, on your wonderful ideas, I 'got them in'—but here's where I feel like loosenin' up a justified kick. The total postage on the letters and postals, for the title 'MTC', was 12 cents.

"My opposition across the way (Athens Theatre) gives a twelve-reel show and charges 5 cents. If another superfeature I tried raising my prices and all of my customers went to Athens. It was a long way back, and when I decided to play 'Skipped by the Light of the Moon' I decided not to raise prices."

"Well, after using all your booster ideas and paying the bills for printing, postage and renting your superfeature I figure that I did a 'believe ble' and am $12 out on that day. You know, Mr. Bull, that this can't go on."

"You write these smart letters, and after looking at your picture in the trade papers, I wonder why you can't be such a brilliant fellow as you look and think up some slick stunts that won't cost more than three or $4—one that would pack my theatre all day and make the Greek across the way sore."

"Why not figure out a cheap stunt for one of your features you offer me for $12.50 a day rental. I figure out any darn good fool can get them in' on your own exploitation plan, but someone told me once that a fellow who done a big business for some cheap, clean stunts was a showman.

"I heard of a fellow who advertised: 'The Singing Arc Lamps.' They say this stunt can be done for two or $3 and draws big. You needn't be such a smart fellow, so me maybe you can tell me how this 'Singing Arc Lamp' is done."

"Now something cheap like that would hit me right, and I'd pay a lot of your $250 features or even some of your $15 superfeatures. Waiting an early reply, I am, yours truly, Henry Shackomaxin, Somewhere, Neba."

O. Fuller Bull tossed the letter onto the Charter Oak Insurance Company desk blotter and weighed it down with a petri-field sea-shell Bull had picked up on the strand during a week-end at Long Beach. "In spite of his hero," said Bull, "I'll answer that fellow when I get back from lunch."

"Where'll I say you are," said "the best little stenographer you ever saw," as she looked up from a copy of the Moving Picture World, dated December 21, 1918, just opened before her gaze at pages 1358 and 1355.

"Page me at the Astor," said Bull. (Next Episode. This Theatre. Soon.)

May McDow Flash-Back?

Leonce Perret had the right lunch when he asked Secretary McDow to become czar of THE industry. Witness what Mr. Mac said to the employees of the Treasury on his way out:

"It might be said that I am fading out, as they speak of a moving picture at the end of a scene, but I am not going to fade out."

He Must Go to the Movies.

Some women are just kissed. Others—help.—Don Marquis, Evesun.

Fuel Orchestrations Arrangements for "Can- nibals of South Sea. — Morning Telegraph Deadline.

To be played by hot-air musicians?

Introducing a Real Contribution.

"Dear Walt," writes Ben H. Grimm, as reproduced herewith, "Did you ever before receive a contribution written in the air? I am writing this at 10,000 feet—and they're flying them higher in Hawaii."

It was Ben who left us all flat last summer to volunteer in the service of Uncle Sam, being the first of a number of our local celebrities who become members of the well known Army of Hun Exterminators.
Injecting New Blood Into the Game.

We observe from perusal of the trade papers that THE Industry is to be enriched by the arrival of several cases of stockholders in a new producing concern are noted:

These sales are certain nationally advertised food products;

The owner of a large farm not far from Boston;

The proprietor of a Boston brokerage concern;

The sales manager of nationally-linked merchandising corporation;

The principal legal light in the City of Culture.

And a State tree-constant;

We welcome him.

—W S S—

Sights of Relief from N. A. M. P. I.

The King is dead. Long live the King.

Now, lad! go to bed with the "six-bucks" dinner.

W. W. Ward, No. 11 Central Park West, will furnish details (include return postage) to all moving picture people who are eligible to membership in the United American War Veterans, of which a special moving picture division will be formed. Veterans of any armed conflict in which they have been engaged are entitled to membership.

In an expression of his opinion one of the tradepaper reviewers says:

"To be honest, I never thought such a feat as this was possible."

Swap the comma for a period.

Why Wait for Saturday.

"At the end of the week, deposit the money in the bank," is No. 11 in a series of "Things to Do" in a certain tradepaper to liquidation plans for the picture it praises.

If the ideas for "putting the picture over" are so extremely good they could drive a man to the bank every day, we think.

—W S S—

Witness the publicity copy in the tradepapers anent President Wilson's trip across on the George Washington. "World Peace" had little to do with the voyage. Mr. Wilson went abroad to see moving pictures.

—W S S—

Hitting the One-Night Stands.

Joe Lee could do it—making "one-nights" at Minneapolis .......... December 16

Des Moines .......... December 17

Omaha ................. December 18

Salt Lake City .......... December 19

Denver ................. December 21

Kansas City .......... December 22

Charlotte, N. C. ..........—W S S—

When a Name’s Only a Name.

An odd coincidence cropped up at Metro "toilet afternoon when Bert Lytell of "The Spender" was shown.

The role of Helen Stetson was played by Mary Anderson, who succeeded Clara Morris, original cast.

—W S S—

Film Stories of a New Idea.

THE hand-written notes Dorothy Phillips sent to so many of us urging attendance upon her midnight too party at the Christmas Hotel Friday evening of this week represent a new and clever idea in film promotion.

Unfortunately, however, we shall never believe Miss Phillips wrote the clever little letter which Miss Phillips—until she writes us another one saying so. We are such case-hardened old hombres that we could believe Miss Phillips in a world of press agentery everywhere we turn.

But for this once (because we have seen so many worse things of Miss Phillips which Miss Phillips has appeared with unvarying artistic success) we will add this much more to the list: She writes with the fire of a certain press agent everywhere we turn.

But for this once (because we have seen so many worse things of Miss Phillips which Miss Phillips has appeared with unvarying artistic success) we will add this much more to the list: She writes with the fire of a certain press agent everywhere we turn.

It Happened on "British Day."

INCIDENT to the presentation of "The Prize of Victory," screened at the Capitol, Sunday evening, December 8, there were several speeches and a couple of vaudeville specialists. The movie was "British Day" and great was the Anti-German enthusiasm. Capt. Tupper, who came to America to tell of the heroism of the Hun in their treatment of British sailors, told horrifying truths with great detail and earnestness.

And the orchestra played three German overtures while the film was being screened.

Rambles Round Filmtown

A WHIRL FROM DENNIS.

On the Flight of the Flu.

By James C. Quinn.

The flu has flown from me an' you,

No more over us he'll hover.

Wid dills pilla an' medics' bills;

We chased the brat thru cover.

An' wunce ag'in will move movies

In silver veils;

An' laid an' miss resume their bliss

Wid vaccinated osculation.

—W S S—

Comfort for the Suffering.

Found in the Ways of Wilson.

Miss RAMBLER has translated from Courrier des Etats-Unis the following pertinent facts, high spots as it were, in the career of President Wilson. We present them for the encouragement and benefit of superstitious players, producers, publicists, directors, camera men, film cutters and salesmen who are part and parcel of THE Industry. Woodrow Wilson.

Arrived in France Friday, December 13. There are 13 letters in "The White House."

He was elected Governor of New Jersey in the tenth year of his Princeton professorship.

His first nomination was achieved June 13, 1912.

He was inaugurated President for the first time in 1913.

There were 13 Governors present at that inauguration.

The marriage of his daughter was the 13th celebrated in the White House.

The names of the contracting parties numbered 13 letters—Jessie M. Wilson and Francis Sayers.

The United States was the 13th Power to enter the war against the Hun.

Now—would you walk under a ladder?

Do Miners Value in Size?

We are enlightened by Terry Ramsey's publicity to this extent:

"Pursing (21) is a charming story of a little miner's daughter."

—W S S—

How Does It Happen?

That:

Fish is piscatorial;

Film is photographic;

While

Success is phenomenal.

Reulah Livingston "Uppercased" her attraction, "A Romance of the Air," three times past Les Mason. Going some! eh? wot?

—W S S—

Publicity on the Const.

Charles Ray, the Ince wonder boy—

Ince Publicity man—

Why "wonder"—I wonder.

—W S S—

Thanks, Craftsman, for the Suggestion.

OUKEY at General Film headquarters they publish occasionally a joke, circulation among the employees all over the country, "The Voice of the General, or more briefly The Voice." It is edited by Fred Schaeffer evidently he gets a lot of fun out of it. "My main idea is to make it interesting," he says, "and for this reason I try to get the various correspondents to write contributions for it. Some, of course, are better at this than others, and some don't know what to write about. However, I manage to get a few out of all of the panel."

If I don't hear from a man I just spell his name wrong in the paper, and he very quickly writes in.

—W S S—

Chester Barnett, leading man for Zena King, who is credited to Hollywood, put the publicity department with the following invention:

The sections of daily newspaper reading commonly referred to as the Birth, Marriage and Death columns are termed by the leading man playing in "The Challenge Accepted" as the Hatched, Matched and Snatched section.

—W S S—

Wherein Fond Hopes Are Shattered.

Betty Blythe is provoked, put out, pepulled, and whatever the young lady really gets mad at. And justly so. It's all because her press agent spread the word about Miss Betty's cocktail cocktails.

Now that prohibition is about to be forced upon us every drinker will get the receipt and so Miss Blythe has been deluged with requests. She now declares that there never was any such thing. The P. A. grabbed the bottle before she could stop him and the effect was so startling that he went back to Broadway and spread the cocktail story broadsheet.

"Publicity can go little further," said a Western theatre press agent as he fumed. "You can't sell a drink and a voice from the gallery finished him.

"All right, old top, but don't brag."

Much of the action takes place in a field plentifully dotted with ripening pumpkin Publicity.

"The frost is on the pumpkin and the corn is in the shock,"—James Whitcomb Riley.

—W S S—

Engine Trouble and Hill Shakespeare.

Ed Welzelt is authority for this: "Enlighten Player, in "Hamlet," has this opening speech:

"Puff, thirty times hath Phocion's car gone round.

The nervous actor read it thus: "Puff, Thirty times hath I halted and a voice from the gallery finished him.

"All right, old top, but don't brag."

—W S S—

In less than a year," said S. L. Rothfapel, in his Chicago speech, "I shall be getting one dollar for every seat on the lower floor of both my houses in New York."

It can be that Boxey is going to abandon pictures and put dramatic attractions or vaudeville into his theatres?

—W S S—

Sex and problem plays seem to principally advocate "Freedom of the Squeeze."

We Don't Think So Much of This.

Douglas Fairbanks, when asked what he would do with the Kaiser, replied:

"Leave him to William for his paddled cell and make him listen to a 'day and night' Victoria playing 'Over There.'"

—W S S—

"Exhibitors Should Donate Beer and Rush Over Mountains of Beeswax to Show They Are Right," is a LCS Mason headline. "We quote it because it makes a fellow feel so good to Underwood it.

—W S S—

"I'll meet you," as Fritz Tilden says, "at band practice."

THE RAMBLER.
Yank Doughboys Balk at Playing German Soldiers

WHILE taking the camp scenes for “Made in America,” published and distributed by the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation, Ashley Miller, the producer and director, wanted to stage an attack which, for the sake of realism, required about 150 German soldiers.

He applied to the officers who had been kindness personified in supplying him details of all kinds, and volunteers were called for among the men of the battalion. But—there was a hitch! Nobody in the battalion wanted to “play German.” After considerable effort twenty men were found who were willing to lay aside their uniforms and don the hated gray uniforms. It was a serious dilemma. Finally the director hit upon a solution. He requested that he might be allowed to address the battalion officers. The meeting was arranged, and after Mr. Miller had explained what the film, “Made in America,” was going to mean and how the Government was co-operating in every way in its production and what it would mean to the folk back home, as well as to future generations, to have such a complete and accurate pictorial record of every phase of the soldier’s training, the officers readily promised to do their utmost to win over the reluctant soldiers to wear the hated livery of the Kaiser.

They were successful, and enough volunteers were secured, and Director Miller was able to get a fine picture of an American attack with enough dead Germans around to make it realistic.

Miss Clark Finishes “Mrs. Wiggs”

Marguerite Clark, Paramount star, who will next be seen in “Little Miss Hoover,” a release of December 25, has finished “Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch,” and has departed for parts unknown—on a long-deferred honeymoon. Although the dainty little star’s marriage to Lieutenant H. Palmerson Williams took place last summer, the end of the war and the completion of the “Mrs. Wiggs” pictures have combined to offer the couple their first opportunity for a real honeymoon.

Director and actor, who is now engaged in cutting and assembling the new film, is said to have made an exceedingly accurate picture based upon a novel by Alice Hegan Rice, and the dramatization by Anne Crawford Flexner.

William Fox to Reissue Two-Part Mix Comedies

IN HIS TOUR of all the William Fox exchanges in the United States, Winfield R. Sheehan, general manager of the Fox Film Corporation, has found that one of the big difficulties confronting exhibitors is the lack of obtaining two-reel comedy subjects of sufficiently high quality. Conversations with numerous exhibitors have revealed also an unprecedented demand for all Tom Mix subjects.

Because of these factors the Fox corporation have given them to two-reel Tom Mix comedy subjects that went a great way to establish the fame of the player on his present solid foundation.

The releases will be started January 12, alternating with a Fox-Lehrman Sunshine comedy.

Five of the best Mix comedy subjects are now being retitled and re-edited for their series service, and are as follows: “The Roman Cowboy,” “Six-Cylinder Love,” “The Soft Tenderfoot” and “Tom and Jerry,” and “Manslaughter.”

Everything will be done to make these comedies even faster and more hilarious than they are with their present appearance, all material which would tend to make the subjects drag is being cut out.

Exhibitors Interested in U. S. A. Series

Reports from the Division of Films of the Committee on Public Information are to the effect that exhibitors are showing wide interest in the new U. S. A. series, the two-reelers prepared by the Government and released through World Film. It would seem that the exhibitors are wise in the fact that, although the armistice has been signed, interest in the war has not waned, and that the public wants to be informed on the more intimate details of what America did as its part in the conflict. Many facts in this connection, that were necessarily kept secret as long as the war lasted, are now to be given to the public, and the Government has chosen this series of pictures as the most fitting and most interesting method of presenting the reports.

The first picture of the series, “If Your Soldier’s Hit,” will be released December 23, based in part on the reports of the President, and will be followed by the second picture, “Wings of Victory.” and for subsequent pictures. The pictures of the series will be released at the rate of one every two weeks.

May Allison a Hoyden in “Peggy Does Her Darnest”

MAY ALLISON has the role of a lovable hoyden in “Peggy Does Her Darnest,” her newest starring vehicle, which has entered upon its third week in production at the Metro studios in Hollywood. For Peggy is an out-of-doors girl, fond of athletics and able to box, wrestle, ride or swim.

Miss Allison took a course of lessons in the “manly art” especially for this picture. From Danny Hogan, Metro’s chief of properties, who, as “Kid” Hogan, fought many a ring battle, and from Bull Montana, athlete and esthete, Miss Allison derived special knowledge in the secrets of hitting, blocking and getting away.

The star proved to be an apt pupil. Dick Rosson, who plays Peggy’s brother in the new Metro picture, and who has a brisk set-to with Miss Allison in one of the picture’s most exciting scenes, bears testimony to the fact that the dainty star carries a kick in either hand.

George D. Baker is directing Miss Allison in “Peggy Does Her Darnest.” Baker also made the screen adaptation from a magazine story by Royal Brown, Robert Ellis is Miss Allison’s leading man. Others in her support are Frank Currier, Augustus Phillips, William Taylor, Dick Rosson, Rosemary Theby, Sylvia Ashton and Ernest Morrison, a colored child—a little bit of charcoal who plays “Snowball.”

George Walsh Begins “Jinx Jones”

George Walsh, the William Fox star, has begun work on “Jinx Jones,” under the direction of Edward Dillon. It bears the working title “Jinx Jones,” and is being made from an original story and scenario written by Raymond L. Schrock. The picture is described as a rapid-fire comedy. This is the second picture for George Walsh that has made under the direction of Mr. Dillon.
Hodkinson Will Continue to Release Kerrigan Film

THE W. W. Hodkinson Corporation announces that, contrary to the misunderstanding created by recent announcements, J. Y. Kerrigan features will be released solely by Hodkinson Service in the United States for the next year and possibly beyond.

W. H. Seely, of Robertson-Cole Company, released the Kerrigan program on November 11, "We regret exceedingly that such an impression should have gone abroad and caused confusion. We hasten to assure you, however, that we have no part in this matter whatever; that the program is being released by Hodkinson, and that it has nothing to do with us."

A careful perusal of our publicity and announcement of our releases will verify our statement that there has been no announcement emanating from us which could have been misconstrued in the manner indicated in your letter.

"In assuming responsibility for this impression we are obliged to say that we do it regretfully, for we like the Kerrigan pictures and would be glad if we had them."

"The Drifters," J. Warren Kerrigan's newest J. D. Hampton feature, will be the first picture to be released on the Hodkinson program for the new year. Written by Kenneth B. Clarke, and personally directed by J. D. Hampton, "The Drifters" is an Adventure story of military and romance. Following this, the star will appear in "Come Again, Smith," a modern-day comedy written by John H. Blackwood.

Brentwood Outlines What Is Aims to Do

The first picture of the Brentwood Corporation, "The Turn In The Road," directed by King Vidor, is a presentation of life with its problems and peculiarities, as it is known to the average American. There is no sex problem, no war problem, no sermonizing. It is a cross section of life of heart interest, to show the lesson of love and fearlessness in a direct and dramatic manner.

"The story is simple and human; there are no heroes, no fireworks or wild splurging of fervid emotional stuff. The plot is simple, as is a man and sane pictures that can be viewed by every member of the family with no danger of embarrassment; pictures that will stir the emotions with stories of every-day life and its problems, every-day drama that is newly blended together with strong dramatic action and interpreted by players of ability and reputation."

The Brentwooders are aiming to make pictures that will appeal to screen lovers as "The Man From Home," "Peaceful Valley," "The Country Woman," "The Fortune Hunter," and "Peg O' My Heart" appealed to patrons of the regular stage.

Will Preserve Stills of "The Cavell Case."

Select Pictures announces that it has been requested by the historical branch of the War Plans Division of the General Staff at Washington to furnish a complete set of "stills" on "The Cavell Case" to be used in the permanent records of the division. In making the request for "stills," Major Kendall Hanning said: "I feel sure that you are able to send me a collection of 'stills' made from the feature, 'The Cavell Case?' I want unmounted prints to be incorporated in the permanent records of the War Plans Division of the General Staff."

This is further illustration of the importance and timeliness of Select's special, "The Cavell Case," which picturizes the gallant life and heroic death of Edith Cavell.

Scene from "Crown Jewels" (Triangle).

Historic Settings for Artcraft's "Little Women"

WHAT press reviewers have already declared to be one of the most remarkable adaptations of well-known stories to the screen is "Little Women," from the famous novel by Louisa May Alcott, which was produced by William A. Brady, and was recently purchased by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. It will be released January 5 as the third of the series of Paramount-Artcraft Specials.

The four famous "little women"—Meg, Jo, Beth and Amy—are said to have been visualized with delightful effect, and all who have read the story will find the picture excellent. The photoplay presents every character of the novel, and will be instantly recognized by Miss Alcott's admirers. Sweet, gentle Jo, whose sacrifice of her wonderful hair in order that her mother might have money for the journey to Washington to see the father lying ill there, is appealingly played by Dorothy Bernard. Meg, who marries John Brooke after she has waited while he fights the battles of the Union, comes to life in the personage of Lillian Hall, with Henry Hull as Brooke. Beth and Amy are played by Lilian Hall and Florence Flinn respectively.

The scenes of the story were photographed in and about the old Alcott home, in Concord, Mass., where "Little Women" was written, and these lend great attractiveness to the picture. The home of Ralph Waldo Emerson is also shown, lending the production an added touch of historical and educational value. Harley Knolls, who directed the picture for Mr. Brady, provided a splendid cast of players to interpret the various roles, so that from this standpoint as well as all others the photoplay doubtless will attract widespread attention.

Two Fox Productions in One

Two productions made for one release is the record established by "Woman, Woman!" the William Fox Standard Picture, which Evelyn Nesbit is making at her own studio, Fort Lee. One of the scenes in "Woman! Woman!" shows a motion picture, "The Bride of Bushido," being photographed in a New York motion picture theatre.

To obtain "The Bride of Bushido," Japanese Nuelle, director of "Woman! Woman!" was obliged to hire a company of players to portray Japanese roles, write a scenario that would convey a point necessary in "Woman! Woman!" and then stage "The Bride of Bushido," just as if it were one of the William Fox releases. As if this were not trouble enough for one director, the Japanese actors went on strike in the midst of the filming and thus tied up not only "The Bridge of Bushido," but "Woman! Woman!" An adjustment of the wage schedule, however, soon got both plays under way again.

Greater Scope for Screen Magazine

The new year will bring with it several changes in the construction of Universal's Screen Magazine, an independent weekly release that has become popular with theatregoers during the three years of its existence.

In the future the reel will be made a composite of newspaper and magazine pictorial feature sections, combining art, science, horticulture, agriculture, floriculture, mining and other features with humor, thus making the educational subjects more enjoyable. Jack Cohn, editor of the Screen Magazine, has been preparing the plans for the new issues for six months, and he has secured the right to photograph many subjects heretofore never brought before the lens.

In addition to making improvements on the Screen Magazine itself, Universal has secured the co-operation of many of the leading newspapers in various sections of the country, and these newspapers will aid exhibitors in boosting business on the subject.

Roseco Is "Camping Out."

Patty Arbuckle, in his new Paramount comedy, "Camping Out," portrays the woes of a neglected married man whose wife won't even keep house the way it should be kept. So he leaves sady and goes to Catalina Island to camp out. On the boat he meets a woman who is just his idea of what a housewife should be, but alas she is married. Therefrom dates a story of the most wildly humorous character imaginable. It is declared, with lovely Catalina Island as a background.

Arbuckle has been in San Francisco, but has recently returned to work. He has acquired a new studio opposite the Mack Sennett studios in Los Angeles, which has every facility for his work.
Scene from "The Amazing Imposter" (American).

"The Lion and the Mouse" to Be Released in February

The full cast for the Vitagraph production of "The Lion and the Mouse," in which Alice Joyce is to be featured, has just been announced. Miss Joyce will play the role of Shirley Rossmore. Anders Randolf will play John Burkett Ryder; Mrs. John Burkett Ryder will be played by Jane Jennings; Conrad Nagel will play Jefferson Ryder; W. T. Carleton will be seen as Senator Roberts; Mona Kingesley will play Kate Roberts; Henry Hallam will play Judge Rossmore; William Carr will be seen as Mrs. Rossmore; William H. Burton plays ex-Judge Stott, and Templar Saxe will be seen as the Hon. Fitzroy Bagley. The production will be directed by Tom Terrius, who has directed the Alice Joyce productions for many months past.

The date set for the release of the picture is February 10. It will be the third of the Alice Joyce star series now being released under Vitagraph's new booking plan and policy. Miss Joyce's first production under the star series plan was "Everybody's Girl," which was released November 18; her second production, "The Captain's Captain," will be released on December 30.

"The One Woman" (Select)

When Thomas Dixon, who is also the author of "The Birth of a Nation," wrote "The One Woman," he had in mind one of those former close associates in the ministry who divorced his wife in order to enter into a marriage by proclamation with a woman who financed his new free church. At that time Mr. Dixon was a clergyman of the Baptister Church. Feeling that the term of the so-called new thought and emancipated womanhood might assume dangerous proportions, he set himself to the task of writing a drama-novel for the purpose of illustrating the folly of the new movement. How well he succeeded is evidenced by the sale of his story, "The One Woman," which, in addition to being a Select Pictures special, is in its seventh or eighth edition as a book.

"The One Woman" and the lesson it teaches is a powerful enemy to the decrees issued by the Vladimir Soviet of Workers' and Soldiers' Deputies of Russia, which recently authorized a government bureau of free love.

"Dolly's Vacation" Praised

The private showings of "Dolly's Vacation," starring Baby Marie Osborne, and which will be released by Pathe on December 29, have elicited warm praise from literary critics, especially those interested in the study of child life. Mary Edith Butler, author of "The Rose Behind the Wall," calls it "a magically stimulating draught from the fountain of youth." George Arthur Gray, magazine writer and expert on child psychology, after having witnessed Baby at work in the Biando studio, says that the little star is, in many ways, a remarkable youngster, combining all of the freshness and charm of youth with a certain touch of maturity, which is irresistible in its appeal.

Who's Who in Arden Film, "The Challenge Accepted"

Zena Keeffe is the star of "The Challenge Accepted." She is a sparkling, brown-eyed, dark-haired girl who delights in skating, skiing and swimming, as well as milder forms of outdoor sports. Edwin L. Hollywood is the director. Chester Barnett is the leading man, and he is the screen and one of the most loved. Joel Day is another character man. Donald Gordon Reid wrote the story. He was formerly connected with the Division of Films of the Committee on Public Information. The W. W. Hodgkinson Corporation is the distributor of "The Challenge Accepted," which is the first production of Arden Photoplays, Inc.

Walthall Has Leading Role in Vance-Ince Spy Drama

THOMAS H. INCE'S production of Louis Joseph Vance's thrilling story, "The False Faces," in which Henry B. Walthall plays the leading role at the head of a splendid cast, will be released as Paramount-Arctraft Special January 12. The production was directed by Irvin V. Willat.

Nobody who read Vance's first story of the fascinating French crook, "The Lone Wolf," will wish to miss the picturization of the second tale dealing with his exploits, the distributors declare. Yet this interesting character is no longer a crook, but an intelligence officer in the Allied service.

Mr. Walthall's work, in his own distinctive style, is said to be as good or better than anything he has heretofore done.

"What Shall We Do with Him?"

The advertising possibilities of the McMurie-Worlcl Picture special, "What Shall We Do with Him?" should do much to make this timely feature a devastating office magnet. This last week the New York World, in its evening edition, has given the lead of special space to a discussion by its women readers as to just what shall be done to William Hohenzoller. That subject is one which is recognized by the entire world. No problem of reconstruction nor the ways and means to work out the war have been more hotly debated, for the question of the future of the world can be settled until the determination of the future of the ex-Kaiser shall be agreed upon by the Allied's councils.

Concerning "Caught in the Act."

"Caught in the Act," featuring Peggy Hyland, is announced as the current William Fox Excel Pictures release. In this, which was written by Mr. Mary Millarde, Miss Hyland portrays the role of a young society débutante who under-goes a number of thrilling adventures.

The picture has a comic flavor, in addition to its thrills, and is declared to be one of the best productions in which Miss Hyland has appeared. Fred Jackson wrote the original story and Raymond L. Schrock the scenario. A large cast is seen in support of Miss Hyland.

"Vacation Land" Released December 15.

"Vacation Land" is the title of the Roehacker "Outdoor" pictures on the Exhibitors-Mutual schedule of December 15. These scenes were taken literally on the "roof of the world"—on top of the Rockies, which is known as the Sportsman's "paradise." Hitting the mountain trail on top of bronchos, which skim perilously near precipitous ledges, the vacationists are shown through magnificent and stimulating scenery.

"Urban Cupid, M. D." A Strand comedy starring Elinor Field, is also set for release December 15.

Strong Report from "Infatuation."

Report from Pathe branch offices all over the country indicate a great boost to Pathes feature, "Infatuation," is meeting with large success, and that Gaby Deslys has made a personal hit in the picture, and by reason of it is greatly augmenting her already large army of fan admirers.整个句子中都没有明显的语义缺失。
Pathe News to Record Large Local Happenings

The Pathe News, after December 24, will broaden its national scope, and, consequently, come into a closer relation to the big centers of population. For this purpose, more than ever before, it will operate with the efficiency of an up-to-date newspaper as to rapidity of production and circulation. Should any news of large importance develop, the Pathe camera promptly will be on the scene to make pictures which will be shown in the local houses within a few hours. The organization of these special editions has been planned with an eye to smoothness of operation and quick news service.

Vice President Paul Brunet, in a telegram to the San Francisco, Los Angeles and Seattle exchange managers, thus announced the innovation: "You may advise exhibitors that, commencing with Pathe News released December 25, all issues will come to be featured in the leading roles of 150 feet of topical stuff photographed and printed locally by our own special camera men. Mr. Charles and Mr. Blackton will be made the Pathe News bigger and better than ever.

This plan will be extended to other cities, so that, in time, Pathe will have a chain of special editions from coast to coast. The editor and the selling value of such a plan are at once apparent," commented Mr. Brunet.

This will be an elaborated picture version of Ruth Bell Boucicault's widely discussed novel, "The Substance of His House." The adaptation is the work of Anthony Paul Kelly.

Herbert Rawlinson and Sylvia Breamer are set to start next week to view the leading roles of "A House Divided." Lieutenant Lawrence Grossmith has another important part, while Charles can't seem to Blackton to again under their father's direction.

No Gun-play for Parsons.

Guns play no part in Capitol Comedies. It is the boast of "Smiling Bill" that the star is free from emergency productions, that more than twenty of them have been made without using a single firearm. He is a wielder of any kind of weapon.

"Smiling Bill's" desire to make Capitol Comedies different from the usual run of joy-provoking two-reelers dates back to the beginning. He created the character for his first Capitol comedy, "Bill's Baby." Originally, it provided that Parsons carry a revolver. "Smiling Bill" substituted a stick in the hands of an enraged Italian, whose child the comedian had stolen to enter her in a baby show.

Four Exhibitors See Jewel Production.

Four of the leading exhibitors of the country visited the New York Jewel Exchange, to inspect the new "Heart of Humanity" Allen Holubar's screen classic, featuring Dorothy Phillips. They were Frank Neil, the owner of the Royal theatres at Kansas City; M. L. Finkenstein and I. H. Ruben, of Minneapolis; and George H. and Mark Gates, owner of the Dayton theatre at Dayton, Ohio, one of the finest houses in the United States.

Mr. Neuman stated that work on his $500,000 theatre at Kansas City, and a second, which he believed will be called "The Neuman," has been begun. The new Jewel picture will be shown to an invited audience at the Broadway December 29.

Scene from "The Adventure Shop" (Vitagraph).

"The Midnight Patrol" Has Policeman for Hero

The corner cop has stood for a good deal in his more or less turbulent career, but the millennium drawn for this guardian of the peace is here at last in the form of Select Pictures' special attraction, "The Midnight Patrol." With the distribution of thin Thomas H. Ince production the policeman comes into his own, and also the exhibitor has a rich opportunity for advertising.

Thomas H. Ince is said to have produced "The Midnight Patrol" for the policeman. He declared recently that the story was written and produced for the purpose of crediting the policeman with a few of his many unheralded achievements. The plot of the story is woven around the life of a young patrolman portrayed by Thurston Hall, depicting his advance from the rank of soldier to chief of the force. The scenes are laid in the Chinese section of one of the large Western cities, while the story itself deals with the life of a Chinese underdog. Throughout the entire picture the policeman is the hero.

Without any know exception there has never been a picture in which the policeman has been shown to such good advantage, and in the face of this it is easy to believe that the average policeman will be a ready means of boosting for the exhibitors who show this special feature.

There have been several suggestions offered for enlisting the co-operation of the exhibitor's local police department in the showing of the picture. There is every reason to believe that the police of the smaller cities and towns will willingly lend their efforts to push this picture.

Triangle's "Crown Jewels" Have Title That Is Timely

Now that the crowned heads of Europe are crumbling to their doom with unexpected rapidity, what could be more appropriate than a screen drama picturing the attempts of the more thoughtful monarchs to protect their wealth? Crowns shortly may have no significance—the jewels may be removed from their royal settings; but they retain their intrinsic value.

Selecting this as a theme, Robert Hill has written what is said to be an unusually interesting crook play, "Crown Jewels." It is offered by Triangle as the release for December 22, and Claire Anderson is the featured player. It tells of a man in anticipation of losing his throne, attempts to collect the cash value for his royal gems by shipping them to his banker in the United States. Miss Anderson portrays the role of Diploma De Lille—a French refugee in America who becomes aware of the criminal activities and baffles the plan of the crooks to obtain possession of the jewels. Joe Bennett plays the male lead. Others in the supporting cast are Lilllian Langdon, George Pearce and Billy Minns rage. Roy Clemens directed this latest issue on the Triangle list.

Large Money in Small Towns.

Manager J. H. Calvert, of the Omaha Universal Exchange, has reported what he maintains is a box office record that has never been beaten. J. S. Calvert, manager of the photoplay theatre at Antioch, Neb., a town of less than 100 population, paid Mr. Calvert $155 for a two days' showing of "The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin," and, after paying all his expenses, he recorded a net profit of $80. Mr. Calvert also reports that the theatre at Broadwater, Nebr., which town has a population of 113, also paid $15 for a two days' showing of "The Kaiser," and it netted the owner a handsome profit.

A statement from Edward Armstrong, Universal's Denver manager, to the effect that a record had been established at Manville, Wyo., a town of 123 population, where "The Kaiser" drew $17 to the box office in two shows, has brought out some remarkable box office records on this unusual film attraction from exhibitors and exchangesmen.

Break Two Cameras in Getting Picture.

In the filming of Zena Keefe's first picture as a star for Arden Photoplays, Inc., "The Challenge Accepted," two cameras were smashed. The first time was when one of the actors on horseback rode into the camera. Before it was repaired the second camera fell off a fifty-foot platform, from which a panorama of Camp Dix was photographed, and literally smashed into splinters. "The Challenge Accepted" was directed by Edwin L. Hollywood from the original story by Donald Gordon Field. It will be released December 23 by the W. W. Hopkins Corporation through Pathe Exchange, Inc.

Enter Old Mill Through Dugout.

Carrying out a suggestion for lobby display made in the press sheet for "Shoulder Arms," second of the Chaplin comedies to be released through Frat National Exhbitors' Circuit, E. H. Hulsey, owner of the Old Mill Theatre at Dallas, Texas, had the entrance arranged to resemble the entrance and exit to a trench dugout.

The novelty of the effect, enhanced by special cutouts of Charlie as a doughboy, brought such big crowds to each performance that the run was extended one week, something without precedent in the history of motion pictures in Dallas.
Gloria Joy Comedy Leads Path for December 22

T he Path program for week beginning December 22 introduces the clever child star, Gloria Joy, in the first of three comedies, released two weeks apart, which deal with the surprising and amusing adventures of a precocious and lovable child. The first released, "The Adventures of Corinne," and, besides furnishing an admiration setting for Gloria, is a charming study of rural life and character, not omitting the philosophic tramp, whose stories start the wee heroine in her wanderings into the big world in search of adventure.

Toto, the clown who apparently has no bones in his structure, gives an over-flowing laughing value to the Rolin comedy, "Check Your Baggage." It may be well termed a "smashing one-reel knockout." The eleventh episode of the serial, "Wolves of Kultur," featuring Leah Baird, is called "Betwixt Heaven and Earth," which title gives a fair indication of the perils faced by the heroine high in the air, with no apparent avenue of escape.

Official War Review No. 26 gives a thrilling collection of views of the great struggle from the snow-covered heights of Italy to the lowlands of France, and shows some of the courageous work done by the Americans under heavy fire.

Singapore, which deals with the strange and populous ports of the seven seas, and, during the war, has come into more than usual prominence, is the subject of "The Corinno, No. 24, which deals with both the island and the city, is widely instructive and entertaining, and a place of interest to the people, one is given an impressive idea of how greatly Britain has marked the most important poet for her shipping.

Sennett Releases Detective Comedy

Hailed as one of the most humorous farce comedies of the current film season, "The Adventures of Ben Turpin," starring Ben Turpin, Charles Lynn, Marie Prevost, and other well-known funnymen, is the Paramount-Mack Sennett comedy released December 15.

Turpin and Lynn are detectives who pay more attention to their enjoyment than to their business. When they both fall in love with the same girl and find that they have a rival in big, burly Tom Kennedy, who resents their interference, events happen every minute. They lasso Tom, but he escapes from them, so they invent a plan to have him arrested for killing a bum they found asleep in the park.

There is a courtroom scene which is said to be one of the most farcical events ever recorded on the screen. How Tom escapes from this predicament need not be told in advance. But, anyhow, just as Ben and Charlie, with a couple of queens, are celebrating his downfall, the door opens and in comes Tom, giant himself glowing like a storm-cloud. He carefully locks the door, escorts these "queens" to the police station and gives them magazines to read while the massacre is in progress.

Edward Cline was the director.

Jewel Reports Demand for Mildred Harris' Pictures

JEWEL executives have started a nationwide campaign for a Mrs. Charlie Chaplin picture, "The Great Derangement," promising exhibitors to show one or more of Mildred Harris' productions during the week. To score of pictures in which this young woman has been featured are "The Price of a Good Time," "Doctor and the Woman," "For Husbands Only" and "Borrowed Clothes," all having been produced by Lois Weber. The idea of running three pictures in one week recently tried out by several Eastern theatres with great success. A New York exhibitor played "Doctor and the Woman," "For Husbands Only" and "Borrowed Clothes" two days each, and was forced to hold back the last named picture after the third day.

Mildred Harris' becoming Mrs. Chaplin has created an unusual amount of interest in this star, and because of the enormous amount of publicity given the marriage of the famous comedian to Lois Weber's find, Mrs. Chaplin's popularity has been doubled in the past month.

Edgar Jones Supporting Doris Kenyon

Edgar Jones, who plays the juvenile heavy in Doris Kenyon's latest release, "Wild Honey," returns to the screen as an actor in another Vitagraph release this week. During that time Mr. Jones has been directing, having produced more than a score of pictures with such players as Mary Miles Minter, Hamilton Revelle, Lois Meredith and Marguerite Snow.

"Mr. Jones is strong in Western roles, which is the kind he has in "Wild Honey," for two seasons Mr. Jones starred in "The Great Divide."

Stirring Scenes in Review

More stirring scenes depicting the passing of Prussianism, the coming of peace and the era of reconstruction, make up the Official War Review No. 26, released December 22.

The heroic "Arditi" Division of the Italian army passes in review after the advance. A wonderful scene is given of the use of flame-throwers in cleaning enemies from the trench with the advance. Desperate fighting is shown around St. Quentin, where the French-British-American forces beat the enemy back from the Hindenburg line.

Every operation of complete battle activities is shown in these scenes. Guns are rushed up with the French 75s pour out their curtain of fire, shells are seen bursting over the German positions, aircraft guns are seen in action and the effect of shrapnel on an observation balloon is shown. The Canadians are seen to advance along the ruins, where at one road, then several German tanks are captured and German prisoners begin to pour to the rear.

About those seats you have stored away, Somebody needs them and you are likely to find the customer through an advertisement in The World's Classified.

Be rid of that old projection machine and get a new one. Find a market through The World's Classified advertising department.

Brunet Announces List of Eight Months' Releases

O ur eight months' releasing schedule of Pathe feature, cards of which are sent to all exhibitors, has been productive of most satisfactory results," announces Vice President Paul Brunet, of Pathe Exchange, Inc. "The attractions embrace the Extra Selected Star Photoplays, the Pathe Program Features and the Pathe Special Features; the period covered is from December 1, 1918, to July 31, 1919. It is a permanent schedule and subject only to additions of special releases, which will in no wise affect the arrangement, which provides for monthly releases both of the Extra Selected and the Program features. "This schedule, in what it promises, is not an unaccomplished plan, but a statement of completed work, done without the rush and incomplete finish that go with what Mr. Keenan aptly calls the 'machine method of making machine pictures.' "These pictures have been made, assembled, edited and titled with ample time for the best possible results, and could be ready for immediate distribution should such a necessity arise. They comprise, under the Extra Selected classification, four features starring Fannie Ward, three starring Frank Keenan, one starring Bes- sie Love, one starring Bryan Washburn; total, eight.

"The Pathe Program Features are as follows: Five features starring Baby Marie Corinne, including Herring Helen Chadwick, one starring Henri Kraus; total, eight.

"The specials thus far are 'Infatuation,' 'The Daringly Innocent,' directed by Louis Mercante, one starring Gaby Deely, and 'Common Clay,' with Fannie Ward."

New Series of "The Littlest Scout"

In response to requests for more of the Fortissimo length children's picture, Mr. Blackton has decided to make a second series of these delightful pictures.

"The Littlest Scout," featuring Charles Stuart Blackton, is scheduled as the first of the new series. It has just been completed under the supervision of J. Stuart Blackton, who has also announced the signing of contracts providing for its booking by the Hindenburg Sales Corporation and distribution through the Film Clearing House, these two organizations also handling his latest project, "Life's Greatest Problem," which, under its original title "Safe for Democracy," was advertised at the Rivoli recently.

"The Littlest Scout" is in five-parts, and others to follow it will also be full features of the Fortissimo length. The December release plays the title role, with Sister Violet as his "leading woman."
Garson and Neilan Receive Large Offers for Nine-Reel "The Unpardonable Sin"

In these days of big productions, it seems nothing extraordinary to hear of as much as $100,000 being paid for a negative of some few film productions. But it remained for two men to be said producers to refuse just twice that sum for a negative of a nine-reel production recently completed.

According to reports emanating mostly from Los Angeles, Garson and Neilan's production of "The Unpardonable Sin," starring Blanche Sweet, has brought forth many liberat offers for the negative.

Harry Garson declares he has already turned down a $226,000 cash offer, and has not yet rendered a decision on another offer of $150,000 advance, with a sharing contract which might double that sum.

It is asserted that one particular attraction to the prospective buyer is that the war element does not predominate, and that the "Unpardonable Sin" is one of the powerful productions of the year.

Messrs. Garson and Neilan announce that territorial rights on this production are not for sale. They contemplate making a big special exploitation campaign and play the larger houses throughout the country.

Opens at Clune's, Los Angeles.

Beginning New Year's week the production starts a run at Clune's Auditorium at Los Angeles. It is said that producers immediately following the showing on the West Coast the Eastern premiere will be inaugurated at a leading Broadway theatre for a long run in New York at advanced prices.

Major Rupert Hughes' story of "The Unpardonable Sin" is said to be the biggest seller he ever wrote, and the book is reported as standing fourth on the list of best sellers of the year.

While not a war story, it is based on the world's greatest struggle, and from all reports it is full of dramatic human interest.

Blanche Sweet comes back to the screen after an eighteen months' absence in what is declared to be the best work of her career. Matt Moore is her leading man, and the entire cast is said to be especially strong in keeping with the caliber of the production.

Will Be Issued in Nine Reels,

After cutting and assembling, and also inserting the various subtitles, the production will run nine, instead of eight reels originally contemplated. And Messrs. Garson and Neilan both declare that there is no padding.

The story starts in Los Angeles, after which the scenes quickly shift to Belgium. Blanche Sweet plays two parts, the wronged sister and the sister that braves everything to save the wronged one.

Walter Heery is cast as Colonel Klem, the German officer, who imposes "Kultur" upon a defenseless American girl in Belgium. Miss Sweet is "Dimmy," the young American girl, who left Los Angeles for Belgium when she learned that her sister was in trouble.

The great difficulties of obtaining the final scenes of this production have already been noted. In one of the big scenes near the climax the health authorities in charge of the restrictions during the influenza epidemic stopped work on the production.

It required many doctors and twenty-five nurses armed with inoculators and the entire force wearing gas masks finally to receive permission to take the last stirring scene of "The Unpardonable Sin." Miss Sweet, who is now in New York for her holiday shopping, returns to the Coast as this publication goes to press to start her third picture under Mr. Garson's management.

The name of this picture has not been announced. Miss Sweet has already completed "The Honeymoon Hour," which will be released following "The Unpardonable Sin."

Four All-Stars Metro's January Contribution

FOUR Metro All-Star Series productions headed by an equal number of favorite stars comprise this firm's contribution to screen attractions for the month of January. While each will be a comedy, cheerful in tone, packed with action and wholesome pathos, great care has been taken by Richard A. Rowland, president of Metro, to supply the exhibitor and public with stories widely different in theme, treatment and locale.

The stars represented in the list are Bert Lytell, Viola Dana, Ethel Barrymore and May Allison, appearing in the order named. Two of the comedies are adaptations from extensively read stories in national magazines, one from one of the greatest stage plays of the last decade, and another is from an original scenario by an armed writer of note.

The first of these is "The Spender," starring Bert Lytell. It will be released throughout the country on January 6. It is somewhat different from Mr. Lytell's recent playscript, "The Unlawful," and, therefore, a departure from robust melodrama.

"Oh! Oh! Annie," Viola Dana's All-Star Series contribution, is a picturization of Alexine Heyland's novel. It is a most entertaining, swiftly moving and well rounded feature. It is scheduled for January 13. Miss Dana plays Annie, concerning whom the explanation is made. Her strange adventures come as a result of a lack of young men in a small town.

Ethel Barrymore's newest Metro picture is a photo version of her stage success, "Lady Frederick; or, the Diorcese," from the pen of W. Somerset Maugham. It will be released January 20.

"In for Thirty Days," an original story by Lieutenant Luther A. Hark, adapted by George D. Baker and T. Jefferson Gernsback, and directed by Webster Cullison, is a fast and sparkling comedy-romance. It features May Allison, and will be distributed January 27.

Jewel Does Quick Work on Fleet's Surrender

UNIVERSAL'S news pictorial staff has again given an exceptional demonstration of speed in handling a "red hot" subject, "The Surrender of the German Fleet."

Having obtained views of the actual surrender of the German fleet by special permission of Allied naval commanders, Universal foreign representatives sent the negatives to New York on the Adriatic, scheduled to dock December 9. The ship was not due until late, and representatives of the Fort Lee laboratories waited for three nights and three days to board the ship at quarantine and have the film ready for the customs inspectors the minute the gang-plank was let down. The negative was taken off the ship at 4:30 Thursday afternoon, December 12, and rushed to the Fort Lee laboratory, where it was cut and edited. This stage completed, the first print was put through and exhibited on Broadway at 10 o'clock the same evening—complete.

Friday, the 13th, found the film being exhibited all over New York, in Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Brooklyn and Boston, and the following day saw the film starting its first runs in Chicago, Milwaukee, Detroit, Cleveland, Toledo, Buffalo, Cincinnatì, Indianapolis, Atlanta, Pittsburgh, Charlestown, Montreal, Toronto, Albany, Syracuse and Richmond; on Sunday, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Des Moines, Omaha, St. Louis, Memphis, Oklahoma City, Cleveland, New Orleans, Atlanta, and Nashville.

Twelve special representatives left New York City December 13 to see that the films were distributed as quickly as possible. Several thousands of dollars were spent to bring exhibitors this timely film in record time. "The Surrender of the German Fleet" is being released as a Jewel production.
International Sends Two Cameramen with Wilson

N
O
T since Napoleon was alive, when the "Little Emperor" returned from the Island of Elba and was received into the hearts of his countrypeople with all the affection they are capable of displaying, have Frenchmen accorded such a wholehearted welcome to any man as they are now giving President Wilson. There isn't an American living whose heart doesn't swell with pride at the honor being bestowed upon our President, nor is there a man living who wouldn't be proud to witness these history-making events.

This is exactly what has been made possible by the enterprise of the International Film Service Company, Inc. Anticipating the President's visit, this company has sent two expert news cameramen abroad who will follow closely in the President's footsteps on his journey across the continent and back. Every incident of the momentous trip will be photographed and distributed as a matter of public interest.

These pictures will appear in the early issues of the "Big Four" news reel combination. The idea is to make it possible to see the appearance in the leading motion picture theatres of the United States in the coming week, and will mark the company's devotion to an idea that has long been in the mind of its originators.

Ever since W. R. Hearst, through his International Film Service Company, Inc., first entered the picture field, the idea of a practical "Newspaper of the Screen" has never left his head. In keeping with the "newspaper idea," to bring the news right down to the minute, three issues a week will be made by the International and distributed through Universal Current Events and Screen Telegram, to be released through the exchanges of the Universal system.

In addition to all the news that is news from everywhere another feature to appeal to newspaper interest is to be provided. Odd and young alike is timely cartoony and animated comics by all the artists of the field. Under the direction of the many masters of their art as Winsor McKay, T. A. Dorgan (Tad), Hal Coffman, Tom Ploof, others, the efficacy of such features is to be seen in their acceptance by the world-famous talent producers will be represented.

Eddie Polo Received by Large Crowds in Mid-West

E
D
D
O
P
OLO, Universal serial star, was received with enthusiasm by film followers in the first three cities visited on the circuit last week. In Cleveland, after leaving New York, Mr. Polo went to Cleveland, where he appeared at the Jefferson, Iris, Normal, bark, Sunbeam, Eliza, Eclair, Norwood, Sun and Alhambra theatres, being greeted at each theatre by an overflow crowd despite the fact that it rained steadily during his stay in the Ohio metropolis. Following his last Cleveland engagement Mr. Polo was the guest of honor at a banquet at the Hotel Winton, where Will Rogers, a star of the screen, was toastmaster, and E. J. Smith, Cleveland manager for Universal, presented Mr. Polo with a silver loving cup.

Leaving Cleveland, Mr. Polo proceeded to Detroit, where he appeared at the Cozy, Nettie, Camera, Globe, Stratford, Rosebud, Jewel, Rosedale, Circle, Quo Vadis, Russell, Dreamland and Home. After leaving Detroit, Mr. Polo appeared at the Kialto, Superba, Quo Vadis, White Eagle and Overland theatres at Toledo and was greeted by capacity houses at each theatre.

Mr. Polo left Toledo for Chicago, where he will remain several days before proceeding to Indianapolis and Kansas City. He will return to Los Angeles about January 6 and will begin work on a new serial at once.
"IT'S BIG"

THE BIGGEST PICTURE OF THE YEAR—Nine Smashing, Sensational Reels, Punch after Punch, Surprises-One after the Other—Action! Action! Action!

THE BIGGEST STORY OF THE YEAR—Stands Fourth in the List of Best Sellers. Stands First as Major Rupert Hughes' Best Seller!!!

THE BIGGEST BET OF THE YEAR—Cost More Money Time, Brains and Ingenuity than Any Other Picture This Year!!!

THE BIGGEST BUSINESS OF THE YEAR—Is Assured Because It Gets Away from the Usual Cut & Dried Moving Picture Production, the Public is Wearied of —

THANKS TO BLANCHE SWEET AND MARSHALL NEILAN

ADDRESS HARRY GARSON. AEOLIAN HALL. NEW YORK.
Even God would not forget could not forgive.
NOW READY!

HARRY GARSON
Presents

BLANCHE SWEET
in Major Rupert Hughes Astounding Story
"The UNPARDONABLE SIN"

Directed in Person by MARSHALL NEILAN

Address
AEOLIAN HALL
NEW YORK.
NOT A WAR STORY
BUT-
A STORY OF THE SACRILEGE OF WOMANHOOD THAT WOULD MAKE ANY RED BLOODED MAN FIGHT!

ADDRESS
HARRY GARSON, AEOLIAN HALL, NEW YORK
Among Independent Producers
Conducted by C. S. SEWELL

Bacon-Backer Film on Ten-Twenty-Thirty Program

Following the announcement made last week that the J. Stuart Blackton production, "Life's Greatest Problem," written by Anthony Paul Kelly and featuring Mitchell Lewis, is the second attraction in the Ten-Twenty-Thirty series, comes word that the next two pictures to be booked under this fixed price plan, will be the Bacon-Backer feature, "A Woman's Experience," with Mary Boland as the star, which enjoyed a pre-release run at the New York Theatre, New York; and Paula Blackton's five-act story, "The Little Scout," which are to be released in the order named.

"The placing of these two productions with the Independent Sales Corporation," says an official of this company, "is evidence of the fact that J. Stuart Blackton and the Bacon-Backer Film Corporation are quick to recognize the opportunity offered independent producers to find an immediate market for their productions, and to avoid the hazards and expenses which come with the expense and worries of exploitation and distribution.

By its plan, the securing of these pictures for the Ten-Twenty-Thirty series further continues exhibitors that to hold a Ten-Twenty-Thirty series and in this instance really great productions will come to their theatres at a fixed minimum price, and not on a commission basis.

The first release under this policy was "Mistake," a former Thomas Ince film, "Her Mistake," directed by Julius Rieger, and it will be followed by J. Stuart Blackton's "The Dark Horse"

It is further announced that all of the Independent Sales Corporation's releases, which are released in the Ten-Twenty-Thirty series, will be distributed through the recently opened branches of the Independent Theatre Owners of America, which has the most important film centres throughout the country.

Ralph Ince Gets Praise from E. K. Lincoln

E. K. LINCOLN, especially engaged as a star of the newly formed organization, has been highly delighted with the production methods pursued in the making of his initial starring vehicle, now under way at the Sawyer-Lubin studios in New York. Associated with the leading figure of "Lafayette, We Come" are Ralph Ince, Arthur H. Sweany and Herbert Lubin. Commenting recently on the facility with which the picture in which he is starred is being produced, together with the general excellence of the general studio management, Mr. Lincoln remarked:

"From the time the scenario was finally O.K.'d until the selection of the least important member of the cast which is working for my support, Ince & Sawyer have displayed a technical knowledge and understanding of details which to my mind will insure the picture's ultimate success. In such matters as proper studio lighting, selection of furniture, construction of sets, securing of properties, choosing of exact types to fit the various roles and the innumerable details which go to make up a successful production, the most painstaking care and effort have been exerted. My confidence in Ralph Ince as a director capable of turning out productions worthy of bearing the Ince-Sawyer name has been more than justified after witnessing this first production. His ability to secure dramatic effects, together with the talent for injecting real "punch" scenes in any production which he directs, makes me feel certain that this particular feature will stand out among the attractions of the year. Mr. Sawyer has chosen a perfect cast in my support, the leading figures of whom are Grace C. Daniels and Clara Joel. He has insured the production in every way possible."

Past Year Unique in Film Annals, Declares Carlson

CARLE E. CARLTON says, "The year 1918 will go down in the annals of motion picture history because of the uncertain conditions brought about by the war, the health epidemic and other unprecedented and unforeseen occurrences since the inception of the motion pictures. Readjustment consequently is now in order. The coming year ought to be, and if the exhibitors will work together as in other commercial and artistic enterprises, can be the most important year in the history of the industry."

"New York, since the war, has become the center of motion picture activity, which, with Little Rock and Los Angeles, is now the market of the entire world, and it is up to the producers and exhibitors to keep a firm line on production."

Mr. Carlton does not believe the coming year in any manner have a derogatory influence on the development of the art, for a war background if they are such films as have a romantic or heart-gripping interest, as well as a depiction of the life of our boys in the trenches. The big primitive emotions, patriotism, jealousy, ambition, bravery, etc., belong to no particular time or period in history, but to all times and to all peoples.

Current Number of Graphic Best Issue, Says Gaumont

WHAT is characterized by the laboratory men of the Gaumont Company as the best issue of their news reels, "Graphique" No. 35, forwarded to independent exchanges on Friday, December 13. It opens with thrilling scenes showing our boys marching into Germany; while another war picture shows many thousand soldiers at Camp Funston, saddled and waiting for the call. An addition 50,000 Italian-Americans are shown marching in the parade in Chicago celebrating the part Italy took in the defeat of the Hun.

Another scene is one showing the "Empress of Britain" bringing a load of doughboys home, with many close-up shots. The war scenes are all in black and white.

Another scene shows a Japanese prince visiting Wash¬ington. He was not found among the Chinese, and in the field of military and directions for fire from the clouds. Other scenes show the Shriners in Houston, Texas, Capt. B. H. Weeks, its president, and the chief of the Air Mail service, who resigned his post, and Vice President Marshall.

Quick Sales Campaign on Tom Mix Reissues

ONLY a short time ago Exclusive Features, Inc., announced that they would release a series of sixteen two-reel Tom Mix comedy-dramas, and already a great deal of territory has been sold.

Mr. Goldstein, of Exclusive Features, reports that contracts for the following territory have been signed: southern California, Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama and Florida; to Savini Films, Inc. of Atlanta, Ga.; eastern Pennsylvania and southern New Jersey, to Quality Film Corporation, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Michigan, to Strand Features, of Detroit, Mich.; Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia and Virginia, to Masterpiece Film Attrac¬tions, of Philadelphia, Pa.; northern New Jersey, to Frank Gersten, Inc, of 130 East 46th street, New York City; Iowa and Ne¬braska, to Star Production, of Omaha, Neb.; Texas and Arkansas, to Southwestern Film Corporation, of Dallas, Texas; Missouri, Kansas and southern Illinois, to Phil Goldstone.

There is still a good deal of choice territory left open, but it is expected that it will be disposed of within a short time, as many state rights buyers have had inquiries from exhibitors, who are showing much interest in the Tom Mix two-reelers, and who want to book them. Whether the New York territory will be sold or booked direct by Exclusive Features, Inc. has not as yet been de¬cided. An announcement regarding this will probably be made within a short time.
Stoermer Is Optimistic

The state rights field promises to come back to its own swiftly. Since the outbreak of the war, activities have multiplied, independent producers and independent buyers keeping step with each other in the stimulation of this branch of film profit. William Stoermer, author of "The Honor System," and just now releasing a new production, is an optimist.

"Optimist that I am, and I confess myself amazed at the extent geographically and financially that the state rights field holds in the cinema market," says Mr. Stoermer, "my surprise follows the campaign I am prosecuting to let the public know what my new picture, "The Tidal Wave," is about. The state rights field isn't new to me; but there's a new element in the market, and ringing down the curtain on the big tragedy abroad has given matters a new drive.

"There's scarcely a state rights block on the map that isn't indicated several times in the answers my trade advertising has generated. And the prices that are suggested in some of the inquiries prove again that the film field is productive for producers who can 'deliver the goods.'"

"The Tidal Wave," I confidently believe, will justify the interest my announcements have aroused.

"No observer so far who has seen it but expresses my own optimism regarding it. It is romance and isn't a mystery subject and yet not quite that; a detective story and yet more than that; a spectacle, yet greater than this aspect of the story is its human drama. One thing, I believe exhibits and audiences will agree, the picture is fair. It has been cut as adroitly as I believe it has been produced.

"The story was inspired by Robert Louis Stevenson's observation: 'Each of the great dramatic upheavals in the destinies of humanity are as likely to be found in countries as in individuals. This theme gave me scope for swift, varied and absorbing plot, counterplot and spectacular situations.

Regarding State Rights

Brockliss Gets Foreign Rights to S-L Pictures

An announcement of importance relating to distribution in foreign markets was made this week by Arthur H. Sawyer and Herbert Lubin, the promoters of the newly formed producing organization, "S-L Pictures," which will present E. K. Lincoln as star. Arrangements have been consummated between this organization and Sydney Garrett, president of J. Frank Brockliss, Inc., whereby Brockliss, Inc., will have the exclusive charge of the distribution in all countries exclusive of the United States and Canada for the series of Lincoln features, the first of which is in course of production under the direction of Ralph Ince.

The contract was made only after the producers of "S-L Pictures" had completed a study of the various companies handling screen productions for export. Due to the extensive knowledge of the peculiar conditions which make up the market for foreign distribution Mr. Garrett was finally selected.

The consumption of the contract is marked by the establishment of a precedent by Sawyer & Lubin. An individual series of "Linha" is designed to precede the introduction of "S-L Pictures" in countries outside of the United States and Canada. Special publicity studies for translation in various languages, and written from the viewpoint of the different nationalities, will be furnished by the promotion department by J. Frank Brockliss, Inc.

Hall Organization Gets "A Romance of the Air"

Because Frank Hall, president of the Independent Sales Corporation, has a brother in the service, it appears that some have jumped at the conclusion that Lieutenant Bert Hall, the American ace, featured with Edith Day in the Crest Picture production, "A Romance of the Air," must be at least a cousin.

Mr. Hall, however, denies that this relationship exists, saying: "I would indeed be mighty proud to claim relationship with Lieutenant Hall, one of the two survivors of the original Lafayette Escadrille, as would any American, but I do not think I can even say he is a distant cousin. However, I feel particularly honored that the Independent Sales Corporation was selected to market 'A Romance of the Air.'"

"I might add, too, that the first cousin of the Independent Sales Corporation, the Film Clearing House, an organization formed to handle the physical distribution, of films, and which has been in operation since December 1, will have the exclusive handling of 'A Romance of the Air' through its eighteen distributing units.

"There will be no releases made, however, in any one territory, of this adventurous love story of cloud-land, until after Lieutenant Hall has made a personal appearance of several weeks at one of the large theatres in that particular territory. This plan of releasing a picture while the star is arousing public interest by appearing in person and talking informally to his audiences is new, and exhibitors will recognize the value such publicity will mean to their box office.

"The only relationship between Lieuten-ant Hall and myself that I can determine is purely a business one, and exhibitors will soon have the opportunity of making Lieutenant Hall and his 'A Romance of the Air' at least a big brother to their box office."

UNIQUE-D

THIRTY-TWO SINGLE REEL RIP-ROARING COMEDIES! To be released one a week commencing December 30th. Leased to INDEPENDENT EXCHANGES in the United States and Canada at a price that guarantees a profit. They are unique and contain every element that have made screen comedies popular.

PRODUCED BY

The United States Motion Pictures Corporation

Twenty-six of these productions were originally released on the Paramount Programme under the brand of

"BLACK DIAMOND COMEDIES" and six are altogether new

We suggest in this instance that your WIRE us.

Advertising matter, one sheets and 8 x 10 photo enlargements

“Our efficiency means your success”

ARROW FILM CORPORATION

TIMES BUILDING, N. Y.

"THE DESERT SHADOW"—A ten double reel SERIAL

"THE PRIZE FIGHTER"—A six part drama with a PUNCH and a PURPOSE

COMING

Comedies
Raver Breaks Precedent With "Maciste" Serial

WHenever heard of asking a critic to contemplate twenty-four thousand feet of pictures in one production, much less sit through it and then try to renders a comment on it. The average reviewer was not quite as amiable as Mr. Raver when asked to attend a showing of "The Liberator," starring the Italian soldier-star Maciste. Yet the plan was carried out, except that two sessions of two and a half hours each were held, instead of one stretch of five hours.

According to Mr. Raver, the experiment was a success beyond his expectations, and proves his contention that the exhibitor should know all about a series of pictures before he books them and should not be kept in ignorance about the quality of any number of episodes of a production.

"That there was some slight diversity of opinion among the critics," says Mr. Raver, "may be accounted for by the fact that they had never before sat through a complete series and that the episodes were not broken up by annuity titles. At any rate, each reviewer has his opinion and none of them entirely agreed, which leads me to believe there was an unusual picture."

One reviewer said the production lacked weirdness and thrills of the American serial, which was more the sort of weird and unusual film he had ever seen. One reviewer said the production suffered from the fact that he was not shown the film in its entirety, while another said the production was of unusual thoroughness and strict conformity to each scene. One advises the picture be released in three parts of eight reels each, another says it is fine entertainment as it is because it is progressive and does not repeat itself, still another wants it done in five-reel episodes.

"That I value these opinions is evidenced by the flood of inquiries I have received since their publication, and the opportunity afforded to select a market to the best advantage. The fact remains that Maciste has proven himself a star of the first consideration and enjoys a large following, and that competent authorities on motion pictures have given him the "Liberator," a clean bill of health gives me confidence in the success of the production."

Raver breaks precedent with "Maciste" serial, but the exhibitor is considering several offers for the purchase of entire North American rights before giving definite plans for its handling. The exhibitor is in no hurry about deciding the matter of selling individual territories.

Theatres for Sale and Theatres for Rent are offered in The World's Classified Advertising.

Co-operative Exploitation Campaign for "Mickey"

AN EXCELLENT example of the full use of co-operative exploitation between leading business enterprises is the campaign worked out by H. J. Shepard, of the W. H. Productions Company, and employed in the exploitation of "Mickey," starring Mabel Normand. An added point of particular interest to exhibitors is the fact that notwithstanding the completeness of the plan devised, it is claimed by the producers that it can be carried out at practically no expense to theatre managers although securing for them window displays and other valuable advertising privileges.

The extent to which music is employed in the exploitation is the feature of this campaign, which includes a "Mickey" song with words by Harry Williams and music by Neil Moret, published by Daniels and Wilson; three different phonograph records prepared by the Columbia Phonograph Company, one of the song, one a fox-trot arrangement played by the Earl Fuller Jazz Band, and the other a double-faced record with song on one side and the Sterling Trio, while the other side is a melody taken from the orchestration prepared for this picture. In addition, the Okah Record Company and the Vocalion motion picture industry and records of the song, and the Aeolian Company and Universal Music Roll Company have prepared records of the song.

The method employed successfully by a number of prominent exhibitors to create an interest in the production consists in working in conjunction with the Woolworth or Kress five and ten cent stores and Columbia phonograph dealers. A week or two before "Mickey" is shown, window displays of the song or records are prepared with announcement that the picture will be shown in a certain theatre. In addition, copies of the song are sold in the theatre lobby, or in some instances given away during matinees to attract patronage; and during this time as well as during the showing of the picture, phonographs obtained from the dealers play "Mickey" records in the lobbies. As an advance business-getter, the song is also sung by a soloist, who along with the dialogue is thrown on the screen so the audience can join in, and some houses with drop curtain use a 24-sheet, as shown in the accompanying illustration. Announcements are also thrown into the programme. Only then that the records and piano rolls can be secured from certain dealers.

Dave Solomon Handling Keane Film in New York

THE SPREADING EVIL," James Keane's special production, released with the endorsements of Secretary Joseph DuBues and other notables, is said to be creating a mild sensation in booking circles in New York City.

Dave Solomon, long associated with Radium Gold Fibre Screen, Inc., and more recently with Count G. Scipion in the presentation of "Mickey," has secured the booking rights for this territory.

With an organization of agents that has grown through the years, Solomon has recorded approved booklings on his picture amounting to more than the outright bookings asked for New York City. Sam Rubinstein, formerly with the Universal and Famous-Square exchanges, is visiting the exhibitors in the territory south of Fourteenth street, Manhattan, and throughout Long Island, while Thomas Kelly, formerly with the General Film, Paramount and Pathé, has the territory north of Fourteenth street, reaching to Mount Vernon.

It has been the experience of those who have the Greater New York territory in charge, so they say, that the best advertisement "The Spreading Evil" has been the showing of the early engagements throughout the district. The picture appears to have a strong appeal, and in some cases has been placed in as many as three theatres within two blocks of one another, with less than two weeks separating the engagements.

Gaumont Special Sold for New York

The Gaumont Company announces that its one reel special, "Orphans Unmarried," the second showing the surrender of the German fleet to the Allied Navies on November 11, 1918, will be securing for its display by the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, 509 Fifth avenue, New York City, in the territory including Greater New York, Long Island, Westchester, Putnam and Rockland counties, New York, and Northern New Jersey.

"Mickey," Twenty-four Sheet Displayed on Drop Curtain of Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York.
Large Part of Country

A ccording to an announcement from the Silent Mystery Corporation, the “Silent Mystery,” is proving itself to be one of the best serials of the year, which is accepted as the most authentic of all. A number of prominent state right buyers have already contracted for the feature.

All of the eastern territory has been sold. Canada, east and west, and the South, the feature will be handled by companies disposed of, and Louis Burston, producer, as well as Hiller & Wilk, the selling and ad agency, to be handled by companies throughout the entire world sold by the first of the year.

Their initial announcement of closed territories was received in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York, and Northern New Jersey to Merit Film Corporation, 125 W. 46th street, New York; Eastern Pennsylvania and Wisconsin to Bee Hive Exchange, Chicago; and the New England States to the Pioneer Film Corporation, 4 Plymouth street, Boston.

The story of “The Silent Mystery” is said to be derived from actual events and is the product of Mr. Ford’s ingenuity interwoven with punch and mystery, which will add to the interest throughout the entire fifteen episodes. In addition to Mr. Ford, who enacts the role of Phil Kelly, the young hero, and Rosemary Thoby, as the Egyptian Priestess Kah.

Rapf Champions War Films

Having Good Love Stories

Harry Rapf, who for a number of years prior to entering the motion picture field, was a theatrical business, decrees those who say that war pictures are through, and calls them

Men.

“A Romance of the Rails” was used as the background for a large number of plays, vaudeville sketches and picture stories. It was a well written story.

Says Mr. Rapf, “It is only natural that pictures with the great war war are a big story, and justly so. The moving picture is different from the stage, the newspaper or magazine. Every newspaper story refers to soldiers and war material; war is the basic idea of cartoons and editorials, and why should the moving picture be different?”

“During the recent showing of the Government picture, ‘Under Four Flags,’ at the Rivoli the spontaneous applause was tremendous. Some of the biggest successes on the stage are war plays, and they are playing to capacity audiences.

D’Annunzio’s ‘The Devil’s Advocate’ and ‘The Wages of Murder,’ which was written by a newspaper man, S. Jay Kaufman, that it has sold, which contains a human love romance, and that it is different—it is not just a picture, but a big idea made in pictures.”

The Independent Sales Corporation, distributing this production through the Film Booking Distribution Company, has a large number of inquiries, both by wire and letter, were received from all parts of the world. The company, under the direction of Mr. Rapf, is regarding the manner of release and distribution for this attraction. However, that the release of the material is the only means to handle this picture, it is unnecessary to send inquiries to the New York office, and data for showings can be arranged through any of the depots

Sold on “Silent Mystery” of the Film Clearing House, which are already in operation in Atlanta, Boston, Buffalo, Cleveland, Dallas, Denver, Detroit, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, New York, Phila defphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, San Francisco and Seattle.

Attention is also called to the immense amount of material being given in the newspapers at present in the shape of news articles, editorials and cartoons. In connection with the demand that the former Kaiser be brought to trial, which indicates the timeliness of this production, and which can be handled in an effective way by enterprising exhibitors.

“Wanted for Murder” is also said to be big in England and China, where alone it would make it an attraction from a box office standpoint, and in addition the popular star, Edmund Lowe, plays the lead in the story, which is one of adventurous romance.

“Little Orphan Annie”

Appeals to Young and Old

HILC many exhibitors appear to be unanimous in their support of “Little Orphan Annie,” a “kid’s” picture, the Pioneer Film Corporation, distributing this feature, claims that this is not the case and that it is just as appealing to older people as it is to younger stars. According to Miss James Whitcomb Riley’s famous poem is a favorite with both young and old, so will the screens be packed. With the acting as charming and delightful, and with all the homely pathos and delightful painting of characters that the Hooster poet was famous for, the Alloy. “Grown folks will appreciate the more dramatic scenes, the heart interest and pathos as much as the young girls.”

There have been few dramas screened where the tug at the heart strings is more apparent than in this production. It is an excellent acting and superior plot, makes a most decided appeal to grown men and women. The fact that men and women employed as critics for the trade press admit that this production touched them deeply would not indicate that it is only a kid’s picture, but that it will appeal to audiences of all kinds.

There is, however, much in the picture that appeals to children; this, of course, to the exhibitors’ advantage, as he can, in his peculiar way, charm the young people of the fact that “Little Orphan Annie” is the kind of a picture that will appeal to both young and old; and, in fact, mothers and fathers, who are familiar with Riley’s poems, will probably be just as anxious to see the picture as the children. This picture, too, does not deal with murder, Italian causes, or any real sensational plot. The characterization that it is a picture for “young folks and young old folks aptly describes it.”

Perret to Screen Plays

by Gabriel D’Annunzio

EVERAL of the famous plays of Gabriel D’Annunzio, the Italian poet, will be screened, with Dolores Cassinelli as the star, according to an announcement issued during the past week by Leonce Perret Productions. These subjects, which have been presented in this country by the well known actress, Eleonore Duse, include such tragedies as “La Città Morta” (“The Dead City”), “La Voce del Corpo” (“The Voice of the Body”), “La Gioconda,” together with the beautiful dreamlike “Le Virtine delle Rose” and the play of passion, “In Trionfo della More.”

Arrangements for the filming of D’An nonzio’s plays have been announced by his son, Ugo D’Annunzio, who is in this country on a special mission for the Italian Government and has been direct ing the big Caproni aero plane factory in Detroit, and who has had a number of interviews with both Leonce Perret Productions and Miss Cassinelli.

D’Annunzio’s “Cassinelli” is at the present time working at the Metro Studio on the third production in which she has appeared in the past two months, both of which were directed by Madame Blanche under Leonce Perret’s supervision. Among the distinguished playwrights to whom the filming of this production was Francis Pascal, a well known French author, who wrote the stories of “Marriage of Kitty” and “The Hawk.”

Cassinelli is an officer in the French army, and what may be called adventurous mission for the efficient methods employed in a modern American studio in the filming of special productions.

Quick Showing by Gaumont of Hun Naval Surrender

T

HE Gaumont News Service did some rapid work in showing on the screen in America the surrender of the German fleet in northern waters, which negative was shipped to this country by the London branch of the Gaumont Company, and which was shown in New York on the morning of December 12, and notwithstanding the necessary delay for customs inspection and the less invidious tittled, and shown on the screen at the Rialto theatre within a few hours. On the other side of the world hundreds of copies were shipped to independent exchanges throughout the country.

Some of the Gaumont prints of “Der Tag,” for which the Frenchmen had so long waited, but it was “the day” of their great humiliation, when they were able to see the Kaisers thirteen large battle ships and battle cruisers, six light cruisers and a dozen destroyers steaming slowly through the lane formed by French, British and American warships and confidently trusting that the German fleet would be in no shape to stop them, then imprisoned in the Firth of Forth, where they were reviewed by King George, Admiral Sims, the Prince of Wales, Admiral Beatty, and other allied commanders.

Though the pictures were taken in the early morning and the weather conditions were not favorable, a U-boat camera crew has been said to have succeeded in getting some wonderful views, which are doubly interesting, as the German fleet is the last remnant of the German navy shown in this country since the beginning of the war, and the first display of American warships and giant U-boats built since 1914.

State Right Sales

Reported This Week

W. PRODUCTIONS COMPANY announces the sale of the following “territory of "Mickey" to Boston Photoplay Company for New England: Sol. L. Lesser, for California and Arizona; M. Rosenberg, of Seattle, for Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, and Nevada; Ogle Photoplay Productions, for Pennsyl

nia.  .  .  .

Hiller & Wilk announce the sale of territory in the east and south as well as all the counties on the west side of the Missouri River, being the “Silent Mystery,” in another article in this issue.  .  .  .

Exclusive Features, Inc., have disposed of rights on the series of sixteen two-reel Panzer films, which is now being made in Detroit, for Michigan; R. M. Savini, for Georgia, Florida, North and South Carolina; and to Western, Southern New Jersey, and Southwestern Film Corporation, for Texas and Oklahoma.

Several sales of territory on the new Billy West comedies, handled by the Billy West Film Corporation, are announced in another article in this department.
“SYLVA ON A SPREE”
Metro Pictures Corporation Features
Emmy Wehlen in Five-Reel Comedy.
Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

THIS five-reel subject, “Sylva on a Spree,” is an exceptionally enjoyable, polte comedy, featuring Emmy Wehlen at the head of a large and pleasing cast. This was adapted by June Mathis from the original story by E. Forst, and directed by Harry L. Franklin, under general supervision of Maxwel Karger. The production has been very carefully made in every detail, and the artistic print work itself is worthy of special commendation.

The plot of this comedy is based upon two special weaknesses that probably af-dict every sheltered girl, however well-bred, at some time in her early years. One of them is to consult a fortune teller and the other is to have a close view of her own future. The result is that the hero, Sylvia Fairpont, capably portrayed by Miss Wehlen, has been reading newspaper advertisements of “the wicked Beauieu Inn.” What she has read makes her desire of having a look at the place more than anything else in life. She consults a clairvoyant, Mme. Claire St. Claire, who readily assures Sylvia, for a trifling fee, that she will have plenty of tri-cement coming her way; also a handsome young lover. True enough, the latter comes along very speedily, and Sylvia soon demands that he take her to Beauieu Inn. The lover is naturally horrified at the thought of taking her there, but she insists, and he finally arranges, with the help of her brother, to take her to Beauieu Inn and forever cure her of a desire to see the可以通过 which this is accomplished makes a story of unusual interest and amusing.

The two good characters in this, including Francesca Ward as the clairvoyant and Frank Currier as an actor of the type, who make strong points in the offering are its enjoyable plot as a whole and the fine humor it develops. Out in fluid motion is J. Pernival, Eugene Acker, Peggy Parr, Isabel O'Madigan, Rose Wood, Bliss Milford, Alice Turer, Stephanie Anderson, Bert Tracy, Joseph Sweeney and Eddie Meyer.

“A PERFECT 36”
Goldwyn Pictures Corporation Features
Mabel Normand in Five-Reel Comedy.
Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

MABEL NORMAND is one of the few actresses who have succeeded in developing a following among picturegoers, and whose future work should be worth watching. She has come up splendidly since her early days in the one and two-reel comics, and in addition to her physical charm and general air of the first class comedienne. Her humor springs from an ability to express her comic personality so convincingly that even a lover forces it to the point of exasperating her audiences, as female humorists are so often inclined to do. But in one respect she has already brought her humor to its fullest development, unless it was in her highly successful offering, “Mickey,” which the writer has not seen, but which the public at large has taken to very kindly.

This current release, “A Perfect 36”, is a very enjoyable subject and has some fine humorous moments. But for all that, and regardless of the fact that it is well above the average offering of its kind, it could undoubtedly have been stronger. The humor is effective and delicately handled, and the plot, in which story has been accomplished makes a story of unusual interest and amusing.

The picture’s two good characters in this, including Francesca Ward as the clairvoyant and Frank Currier as the actor of the type, who make strong points in the offering are its enjoyable plot as a whole and the fine humor it develops. Out in fluid motion is J. Pernival, Eugene Acker, Peggy Parr, Isabel O’Madi-
gan, Rose Wood, Bliss Milford, Alice Turer, Stephanie Anderson, Bert Tracy, Joseph Sweeney and Eddie Meyer.

“THE RULING PASSIONS”
Select Presents Schommer Production in Which W. B. Arden Appears to Splendid Advantage.
Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

IN OUR ISSUE of October 12 a full review of “The Ruling Passions” appeared, and for that reason we will not at this time attempt to cover it in detail. The picture, which was written and produced by Abrahaw S. Schommer, with the late Edwin Arden and Julia Dean in the principal parts, has been cut down considerably since its first showing, and with good results.

The Select Pictures Corporation is proposing to present the original production as a special feature which carries with it a message of mental control. In its condensed state, which is to the very end of the picture, it is between five and six thousand feet to the good, this message is driven home with considerable force. We predict for it a successful run.

“THE SUDDEN ORUON OF THE GERMAN FLEET” Jewell Special Production Presents Thrilling 1,400-Foot Review of German Con-mobination.
Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

THIS special news film, which arrived in New York Thursday afternoon of last week, is a splendid photographic record of the most imposing naval surrender in the history of the world. One by one, sailing majestically between a line of British and American battleships thirty miles in length, the great German fightingvessels are seen at close range as they gave themselves up. The vessels, led by the Seydlitz, are identified by name, and the student of camera history will unerringly feel for his view of this great film.

It is like painting the lidly to attempt expressing what a screen version of the tremendous events mean. It is something that should and no doubt will be seen by every live citizen of the world. As a vester of permanence, historical record it is only another of those films that are destined to become of inestimable value to the world as time passes, and copies of it should accordingly be preserved by public institutions.

Not only are the great battle ships shown in the act of surrendering, but many submarines are also pictured; being turned over to the British.
proprietor of the place is in the rear of the shop, and Priscilla obligingly helps him mend the torn nylons. While she is employed in the shop, and being at once attractive and pleasant, she gives Priscilla his card and asks her to come and visit her, and mend a lot of clothes for her. The girl acts on this impulse and her visits to the place continue. Through the happy, happenings of the adventure she had expected. The situations, while broad, have been handled with delightful wit and excellent humor, and there is an abundance of plot interest in this story.

Colin, the cast are George Bunny, Mrs. Carlotta Coor, Elizabeth Garrison, Ellen Cassidy, Mr. Martin and Henry Hall.

"THE ETERNAL CITY" Five-Part Reissue of the Hall Caine Story Featuring Pauline Frederick on Paramount Program

Reviewed by Edward Weitzeil.

The latest reissue on the Paramount Success Series is a five-part version of the Hall Caine story of Rome and London, "The Eternal City," featuring Pauline Frederick. In several ways this picture is a step forward, both in its story and in the handling of it with considerable credit to itself. First of all is the fact that the outdoor scenes in it are not taken in the most famous cities themselves. In Rome, the views of the outside of the Vatican and of St. Peter's appear to be at Coliseum should give the picture unique interest. It is also thoroughly well acted by a strong Paramount cast, the leading members consisting of Thomas Holding, Frank Losee, Fuller Mollies, George Maguire, Lottie Alter and George Stillwell.

The story is one of those high pressure melodramas, which are so popular today, and which use a cast of characters, disturbing the peace of the land, be they those brought about by the presence of an abandoned infant who becomes a power in Italian politics; the other a beautiful girl, a foster sister of David's, who is known as the mistress of Baron Bonelli, but is reunited to the man she had known and loved as a child.

"CROWN JEWELS" Triangle Picture Featuring Claire Anderson in a Criminal Story with Fair Plot

Reviewed by Edward Weitzeil.

INTERNATIONAL, criminals and a few key characters are the elements of a five-part Triangle picture written by Robert Hall and directed by Roy Clemens. Claire Anderson heads the cast. The interest is fairly well sustained, and the author has contrived to keep away from the usual course of events employed in this genre of fiction. The production has merit, the acting of the star and Ilian Langdon being particularly effective.

The ruler of a European kingdom which is faced with widespread crime, though there are a dangerous sort of headgear at the present time, determines to send his jewels to prison. A series of events disclosed that the deposit vaults of one of our solidly built banks, Baron Strickland is the official chosen by the French government to handle the matter through. Madame Levine, head of a band of international crooks, finds out the jewel is in the bank, and immediately starts for this country, and puts into motion a plan to secure the treasure. The jewels are of value, so madame calls upon the banker, Maxwell Gray, who is to receive the jewels, and madame asks the banker to let her take the young French refugee, Diana Devalle, introduced to Madame Levine, and the woman’s words are carefully noted. She had always known the nature of her task.

There is quite a bit of plot and counterplot of the melodramatic sort, and a love interest that attracts. When matters are brought to a climax and the thieves apprehended, we find that the daughter of the baron, and has been employed by her father to assist in the hunt for the jewels. The male members of the cast consist of the Bennet, Frank Leish, George Pearse, Billy Musgrave and H. D. Dugdell.

"ARIZONA" Douglas Fairbanks Projects Himself Through New Version of Stage and Screen Success

Reviewed by Edward Weitzeil.

AUGUSTUS THOMAS is in his wildest dreams could never have imagined the screen treatment his "Crown Jewels" will have, flying through space like a human cannonball and projecting himself over high walls and unfathomed depths of physical superhuman power. But this is the kind of a fellow Lieutenant Denton is, as acted by Douglas Fairbanks. The stage version of the Thomas stage success produced by Aracrtex. The original play was celebrated for the strength of its story and the excellence of its cast, and the first screen version, which followed the original closely, was a wonderful release. Poor authorship is entirely to blame. "Quicksand" features Dorothy Dalton.

"THE WILD CAT OF PARIS" Priscilla Dean Featured in Six-Part Universal Special, Not Muddled with Thrills

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

TO say that this six-part Universal offering, "The Wild Cat of Paris," is interesting and thrilling is too mild. It develops a story that contains many elements of human appeal, and for the most part has been splendidly presented. There are one or two lapses in the prints, but a more desecrating criticism is unjustly.

The main theme of the story has been preserved, and the young lieutenant, who is in love with Priscilla, Dray, as works desperately as ever to save his colony from disgrace and prevent his wife from divorcing him. Denton, it will be recalled, shields the woman by allowing himself to be thought a thief, and is imprisoned to return to the army, in the present version he organizes a company of cowboys to help the Allies win the war.

The production is correct as to detail, and brings the atmosphere of Paris to the screen in a most convincing manner. It comprises Thomas Roberts as Candy, Kate Price as Mrs. Canby, Hope Alexander as Kitty, Richard Denham, Harry Northrup as Captain Hodgeman, Frank Campeau as Keller, Kathleen Kirkman as孤女, Bonita Granville as the niece, and the story is by no means cheap stuff. New life is brought to the characters of the story, and the number may be recommended for its novel and generally inspiring theme.

Cassidy, who plays the part of a girl—handy with the knife and the garrote, is the idol of the band, and beloved of the artist; but when the girl, while on the studio, she is made prisoner, the artist keeps her several days. He teaches her to pose, and her soul is awakened by hearing the story of Joan of Arc. In the course of the story she emulates Joan, and leads the Apocalypse of the twentieth century.

The picture is notable for its fine settings and atmosphere. Some of the characters are a bit too melodramatic, but all are acceptable. In the cast are Louis D'Arcy, Edward Cecil and Lucille La Verne, an excellent collection.

"THE SEA FLOWER" Jennita Hansen Featured in Strong Five-Reel Bluebird Number Written by George Hull

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

"The Sea Flower," is one of the strongest of recent Bluebird releases. It is based upon a complete original story, and is handled with distinction. Its broad, Western and Hawaiian stories may be recognized for their broad, sympathetic treatment. The adaptation is made by Brebner, and the production was in charge of Colin Campbell. Jennita Hansen is cast in the part of Lurline, a girl reared on the island of Mosna by "Brandy" Cain, a dissolute half-bre at bat, was engaged to be m arried. Old Abe, a reticent, service- tive wife. Lurline believes herself to be the daughter of this oddly assorted couple, and it is claimed by many in the story that Cain reveals the fact that she stole her as a child to revenge himself upon another man.

The heroine of the tale is a secret service man, careen, capably portrayed by Alfred Whitman, who is engaged to the girl whose name is Nellie. He finds a mission by a vessel where he had been shadowing some well-known English aristocrat, and is cast up on the beach of a far-off island as a drowning condition. Lurline discovers him, leads him to a cave, where he is to be protected from the girl who is forced into a native marriage with a strong man and the rest of the story concerns the man's deliverance from this man.

Eugenio - a whole is splendidly pro- duced, and carries the interest well. It has little of the crudeness of any sea story, and the plot and characters are unusual.

Others in the cast are Fred Huntley, Alfred Allen and George Pearce.

"FAIR ENOUGH"

Five- Reel American - Pathé Production Presents Amusing Farceful Mixture.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

People who tire of the logical order of events in the average kiddy-skelter yarn which rambles around in a mixture of comedy, burlesque and farce, will scarcely be interested in this. It features Marguerita Fisher as Ann Dickson, daughter of a newly rich family who is soon to be married to his son. Jack Mower plays the role of Carey Phelan, a wayward young man, who joins the police force in order to make himself useful.

The scenes are nearly all taken in the city streets, where Ann's auto knocks over a newsboy. The boy fortunately is not injured. In the following events, showing Carey always on the job as cop, and picturing the way he learns to love Ann, who, of course, does not suspect him of being a man of wealth. Two other individuals who play important parts are Carey's valiant imaginary admirer, Major-General by Bull Montana, and Harry McCoy as "Freddie," the young society man Ann's paramour.

At the beach Ann is arrested for stealing an auto. Her parents, who came to the police station to see how Ann was doing, are directed by Edward Sloman. Others in the cast are Eugenia Forde, Alfred Hollingsworth, Alice Knowland, Harry McCoy and J. Farrell McDonald.

"HOARDED ASSETS"

Vitagraph Production with Harrison More as Hero of Novel but Unconvincing Mixture.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

Raymond B. Spears, author of the Vitagraph picture, "Hoarded Assets," gets a fine start for his picture in several of his situations are well out of the ordinary. In working out his plot, however, he is not able to keep the line of development as Jerry Rufus, the hero of "Hoarded Assets," is a pirate who is big and strong and has a long arm that can carry a sea-going work. He is in love with an actress in a small stock company who has been under the care of the old lady who has money. He finally devised bit of construction he is able to steal a number of kegs containing two hundred thousand dollars worth of gold. Jerry sinks the treasure near the home up the Hudson he buys for his hoped-for bride, and then asks the lady to marry him. She agrees, and turns her back on the man, and she is very happy. The newly-made wife thinks her husband has always been an honest man, and Jerry goes straight after he takes a partner for life.

The couple are not left to enjoy their birth uncommonly in the form of fortune. Rufus visits her, and tells her that Jerry has been a thief and has stored away his gains. Jerry, on the contrary, is in deep distress because she is disinterested from want of money. Jerry is always on the trail of his late补偿, in tend ing which petty哪种 is the hase has been asked for. He is watched by a detective who has long been on his trail. The egg contains a check that is ten dollars in wrong kegs. The detective is disappointed. Jerry is much touched, thankful that he fooled himself. The story concludes to show how Jerry can make the best of things, and Jerry punishes to stick to the honest road.

Most of the characters have a curious moral vision, to say the least. Paul Scardon's direction is carelessly done at times. Harry More is just the build for Jerry, and acts with the necessary vigor and shading of character. Betty Blythe as Claire, George Majeroni as James Barr, Robert Gaillard as Detective Ryan and Joan Paige as Fanny are equal to all demands.

"DOLLY'S VACATION"

Five-Reel Dinand-Pathé Pictures Two Juveniles on a Hit Out in the Country.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

Dolly's Vacation contains as little plot as this Dinand-Pathé release entitled "Dolly's Vacation." The prelude of more plot would have ruined some of the exuberant humor that crops out of the very natural, life-less scenes in this comedy. Scenes include a phanta- of Baby Marie Osborne and the little davy, Sambo, on a visit to a big farm, and scenes in which they turn out the pranks they play and the mischief they get into. It might almost be called a Sambo picture, for the scenes in which he flies from his wrathful mamma, wind- ing up by locking her in a chicken house, are certainly the funniest of all, and will convince any audience.

Baby Marie appears as Dolly McKenzie, daughter of a wealthy man, and his wife, who has artistic inclinations, and neglects both husband and daughter. The latter, having strike troubles at his place of business, sends Dolly to visit his brother in the country, accompanied by Sambo and a black servant. Howard McKenzie, finds his hands full with the two children, who are up to all kinds of deviltry when they reach the farm.

After some varied and amusing exploits, the children finally wander off and get lost in the woods, and the final scenes have the children on search for them and their final recovery. There is also a reunion between Dolly's parents at the close.

The number is amusing throughout, though slight in plot. It was written by Mrs. George Climax, based by William Bertram. The cast also includes Jack Connolly, Bert Wilson and Bob Jray.

"LITTLE MISS HOODER"

Marguerite Clark in Amusing Propaganda Picture Produced by Paramount.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

For the first five minutes of "Little Miss Hooder," the heroine, Rose, is no more than a plump in a Christmas pudding. Marguerite Clark as Nancy Craddock, a Wash- ington madam, is a plump chicken raising business, and her lack of Informa tion as to the domestic habits of her live customers is amusing nothing but her. This incident is very funny. The picture is a screen version of Maria Thompson Davies' story, "The Golden Bird," and was directed by John S. Robertson for the second screen story of the famous film, "Gipsy." The title indicates, food propaganda is the theme. Like all pictures of this nature, the picture has points of furthering some special phase of war ac quaintly or its consequence, "The Golden Bird." Not another has broken the spell, but it points out the necessity for this country to put itself on the food possible, and has a love roman a.

The chicken raising scenes are amus ing. The heroine is the one where the heroine takes a number and flies up the river and wakes up in the morning to find the trees covered with feathers. While there may be some subtle consumption of chicken, feathers and tar feathers, the actual interest is introduced by a deep-laid plot to send a hero to a suit of feathers and a ride on a chicken which of course, just doesn't belong in the story. The hero is a United States Army officer, who has been appointed by the Agricultural to investigate conditions in the district where Nancy Craddock has her farm. He keeps his identity a secret, and everyone, including the heroine, knows he is a flacker. When he comes down to town he haunts the poor, sentimental blonde of "Brandy" can, but "Brandy" can, because he is a gentle. The situation fulfills the promise. The reason it falls always to entertain is because the heroine is a "farmerette" who would make cheap, but the heroine accepts the other just the same.

Marguerite Clark presents a story of a farmerette that would make love in the rural districts very attractive. She is ably supported by the leading cast, and sweat, the Gipsy, Forrest Robertson, Hal Reid, Fawcett Keys, John Tansey, J. M. Mason and J. W. Wilson.

"UNDER THE GREENWOOD TREE"

Elise Ferguson in Artcric Production of Romantic Comedy That Is Mildly Amusing.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

The array of names connected with the Artcric picture, "Under the Greenwood Tree," scenario by Adrian Gil-Spear, directed by Edward Sloman and the leading character acted by Elise Ferguson, this five-part romantic comedy promises excellent entertainment. Many of its scenes and situations fulfill that promise. The reason it fails always to entertain is because the heroine is a "farmerette" who does not want to be an "afair," as the old darkey called it. But when she makes up her mind to buy a car as well as a team, there is no reason for not having her actions plausible or else giving them the airy treatment that the most improbable romance will allow.

There are a number of scenes in the forest where Mary Hamilton pitches her camp that are very beautiful, those by near a lovely lake. A meeting with Jack Hutton, the fortunate young woman who woos her for herself alone, and he exchanges her for another, is very well done. Mary pretends to need his wife, Jack helps as a scout in saving her in his arms. Other, romantic adventures take place, including an at tactful, heroine, and a bold rescue by a gallant rescue by the hero, who puts up a stiff fight, and is rewarded by the heroine with mutual consent when he asks her to marry him. Elise Ferguson looks and acts her part most suitably. The romance which Hutton is equally satisfying. The other members of the competent cast are Billie Barry, Charles, Hugh Varley and Charles Fary.
THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

December 28, 1918

THE SPENDER

Bert Lytell Star of Cheeryfoot Metro Picture Splendidly Cast and Acted.

Reviewed by Walter K. Hill.

HERE'S another Saturday Evening Picture that promises to keep the screen warm come to the screen. Recalling "Skinner's Dress Suit" (and, yet, utterly unlike it), and his Nobleman past, here comes Warren, the youngest chap named Oliver Garret ousts the supposed husband, Cathurbt, and it is hoped he will freshen the audience with an old touring story and her stealing after they are married.

Joseph Dowling, Alfred Emery, Helen Hoy and Beulah McCall and Beulah McDowell are members of the cast.

THE SEA WAIF

Five-Role World Picture Features Louise Huff in Simple Seacoast Story.

Reviewed by Robert C. McGilvary.

In this five-role subject, "The Sea Waif," the author, Lieutenant Howard Irving Young, has devised a plot of great simplicity, which has been presented through a medium of melodrama. It cannot be said that any of the situations possess any great originality or dramatic strength, but the treatment is a quite exciting one of its kind. The developments of the story have unfortunately been overshadowed in such a way as to rob the plot of any great element of surprise; in other words, it is almost always obvious what the next move is going to be.

At the same time this is a feature that we believe will have considerable general interest. Its simplicity is in its favor, though marred by crude presentation in many instances. heroine Louise Huff, a dainty screen performer, who plays the role of Nancy, the daughter of the wealthy Colonel Britt. She had been lost in a wreck when still a baby and taken to a strange home. As the course of the story, Caton wins her love, and helps establish her identity as Colonel Britt's daughter.

The production was adapted to the screen by Harry O. Hoyt and Hamilton Smith, who directed. The cast are all first-rate in every part. Of course, the plot is well-made and thoroughly entertaining. The cast includes all of the leading world screen stars. It is a well-made story and a good one for the purposes of the screen. The cast is well-chosen and the acting is all excellent. The story is well-made and thoroughly entertaining. The cast is well-chosen and the acting is all excellent.

THE DRIFTERS

Jesse D. Hampton Presents J. Warren Kerrigan in Five-Role Alaskan Story.

Reviewed by Robert C. McGilvary.

There is strong dramatic plot interest in this five-role subject. "The Drifters," presented by Jesse D. Hampton and distributed by the W. W. Hoppin Company. The Screen is the story of a man who finds his wife in the arms of another and is determined to take revenge. The opening situation in particular is one to grasp the attention quickly. Three men are on a gold-digging expedition in the gold-digging region of the Yukon. Neither of them is well known to the other, and the first man scarcely suspects the dramatic possibilities until the story begins unfolding. The coming of the girl is also an unusual feature, her presence being unaccounted for later by the plot developments.

J. Warren Kerrigan has the role of Burke Marston, one of the three men in the cabin. He has come to the North country in the search of a wife and a wave of periodical drinking. He is looking for the man who robbed his mother and brought about her death. The mysterious girl is also searching for the man who sent her brother to prison unjustly. It is a strange story, full of suspense and excitement. The men are on a gold-digging expedition in the gold-digging region of the Yukon. Neither of them is well known to the other, and the first man scarcely suspects the dramatic possibilities until the story begins unfolding. The coming of the girl is also an unusual feature, her presence being unaccounted for later by the plot developments.

The cast includes William Conklin, Casson Ferguson, Louis Wilson and Walter Perdue. The story is written by L. B. Zell and directed by J. Warren Kerrigan and L. B. Clarke. The cast is well-chosen and the acting is all excellent. The story is well-made and thoroughly entertaining.
Exhibitors-Mutual.

ALL OF A SUDDEN NORMA (B. B. Pictures).—A knockabout story, one of the top features of the week. Directed by Mary Carr, with Norma Shearer and Scott Kolk. Shearer is also featured in a five-part story which is well acted and highly entertaining. The story of the week is well worth seeing.

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation.

A PERFECT 36 (Goldwyn).—A five-reel subject, by Tex Charwater, directed by Charles Giblyn. This is a successful offering of the humorous type, featuring Mabel Normand as a boarding house drudge, who becomes the slavish admirer of a lady and has some amusing adventures on the way. It has rather a slight plot, but is very funny and well acted. The heroine also has a chance to do some clever living stunts. Reviewed at length elsewhere.

TOWER OF TEARS (Pathe).—Episode 12 of "Wolves of Kuitan." One of the best serials ever shown at the stand of adventure and surprise, as it is performed by Alice and Bob. In climbing the tower of tears, they stop to save their friend and in coming down the rapids, they are full of interest. Reviewed from another standpoint.

FAIR ENOUGH (American-Pathe).—A four-reel comedy, written by J. Anthony Borne and directed by Edward Semon, which features Margaret Fisher and Jack Mulvihill. The story concerns the adventures of a young millionaire, who joins the police force. The situations are amusing in many ways and the film is full of fun and laughter. Reviewed at length elsewhere.

CHECK YOUR BAGGAGE (Rolin-Pathe).—An excellent film of import, featuring Toto as baggageman. He has to prove himself to the company and in the end he succeeds. He has a hard time of it, but at last he is rewarded. The story is well told and the acting is excellent, though the film is somewhat overlong. Reviewed at length elsewhere.

THE FORTUNES OF CORINNE (Pathe).—A two-reel film, featuring Baby Gloria. This is adopted by some publicists and has but little fun in life until she meets a tramp philosopher. She later starts out for "Oiled Island," herself, accompanied by a dog and gun. This is quite a pleasing little subject, though not quite up to the standard of the others. The film is simple and delightful and enjoyable.

CELEBS (Post Film-Pathe).—A travel subject of interest, picturing scenes on an island off the coast of Cuba, a population of some 1,250,000. The narratives are interesting and the trip is a great event and this shows their various activities in the way of work and play.

Harp Raff.

WANTED FOR MURDER (Harp Raff).—A five-reel story of the great war, written by S. Jay Kaufman and directed by Frank H. Crane. Elaine Hammerstein and Charles Haver have the leading roles—a French girl and an American soldier. The story is complete in itself, well acted and full of realism and contains many human incidents. Reviewed at length in last week's issue.
Universal Film Company.

THE WILD CAT OF PARIS (Universal Specialties) is presented by Harvey Gates and directed by Joseph de Grasse. This feature stars Friccilia Dean as a girl who is forced to work in a penitentiary. She hears the story of Joan of Arc and leads the Apaches into battle. The number is both dramatic and tense and artistically presented. It contains one or two bad breaks in continuity, but is splendidly entertaining. Revoir at length elsewhere.

THE LURE OF THE CIRCUS, No. 6 (Universal).—This installation opens with Eddie battling hard-hand-to-hand with a leopard in its cage. Some interesting circus acts follow, and later Eddie rides into a crowd of fighting gamblers on the back of an elephant, the latter dispensing the might of its trunk to the scene. Eddie leading a half-dozen men to help his father at the circus. The picture is titled THE TOGETHER CRAZY (Nestor).—A two-reel comic, featuring Stanley Laurel as a young man who gets a job as attendant at an insane asylum. This is full of knockabout situations, but there is no very definite trend to the various happenings, and the finished act is a bit off point in that. The number is only fairly interesting.

WOLVES OF THE RANGE (Western).—A fast and profitable picture with Helen Gibson and Lee Hall in the cast. This is a story of the Western range and abounds in fast riding and comic effects. The plot, which deals with a band of outlaws, is rather conventional and contains complications, but the finish is not entirely convincing. Its chief strength is in its picturesque atmosphere.

STRAIGHT CROOKS (Star).—A comedy subject, featuring Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran as two young men just out of the penitentiary. It is a fast moving picture and the re-appearances of their former pal gives them much trouble. In protecting the newly released boys, the law, the police, and the new bank examiner in the safe. This is well handled and gets over in good shape.

World Pictures Corporation.

THE SEA WAIF (World-Picture).—A five-reel subject, written by Liet. Howard Irving Young and directed by Frank Reichard. Louie Huff and John Bowers play the principal roles, the plot being a simple story of the seal coast, with a melodramatic finish. The situations are not particularly strong in this, but it tells a rather well acted and well handled story. Reviewd at length elsewhere.

THE LOVE NET (World-Picture).—A strong and well handled picture, starring Herbert B. Buckus and directed by Tefft Johnson. Madge Evans, Jack Drummond and Jimmie Finch star. Kate Lester have the leading roles. The yarn is unusually good, has a genuine hold on the audience, and is most entertaining. Reviewed at length last week's issue.

Unique Scene in Alice Brady Picture.

There is in the forthcoming Alice Brady feature—a two-reel released during December—a scene which is unique in dramatic literature. It is the genius of George Barr McCutcheon—author of the novel, "In the Hollow of Her Hand," from which the photographic which bears the same name has been made—is responsible for this distinctly novel treatment of an intensely dramatic scene.

Several times in recent years substantial sums have been paid for dramatic rights of the novel. Miss Brady has the role of a young English girl who comes to America to seek aid in her struggle. She is supported by, including Myrtle Stedman, A. J. Herbert, Percy Mantmon, Harold Entwistle and Mrs. Louise Clark. This is the second of Alice Brady's pictures in which Charles Maigne both directed and prepared the scenario. He will direct Miss Brady in a number of subjects released by Select.

"The Captain's Captain" (Vitagraph).

A surprise is promised the film public in viewing a forthcoming Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature. "The Captain's Captain," which is the second offering in the Alice Joyce star series. Miss Joyce reveals her acting ability as she is seen going to reports emanating from the Vitagraph's Brooklyn studio, where the picture was made. The direction is scheduled for release on December 30. An unusual supporting cast has been assembled for the picture, comprising Arthur Donaldson, Percy Standing, Julia Swaney Gordon, Elulie Jensen and Maurice Phillips.

"The Captain's Captain" is adapted from the novel, "Cap'n Abe—Storekeeper," by "Co-operative." It deals with life in a fishing village, affording singular pictorial opportunities. Types characteristic of New England, with exact locales, verity, and the romance of life in the quaint Cape Cod town is eloquently impressed in every reel.

Barracade Picture Released January 5.

Bessie Barriscale's first production, "All of a Sudden, Norma," made by her own company, the B. B. Features, Inc, for distribution through the Exhibitors' Mutual, is celebrated as is the first of eight pictures in which Miss Barriscale will be presented during the coming year.

The picture was directed by Howard Hickman. Included in the east are Joseph Donaldson, Archy Moore, Helen Grey, Frank Leigh and Melbourne McDowell.

Exhibitors Complete Deposit Plans.

The Exhibitors' Mutual Film Corporation has completed its banking arrangements for handling advance deposits made by exhibitors. The company, which is the Robertson-Cole Company, has formed a Mutual organization to distribute all of its film products. The exhibitors. Accounts have been opened in each city containing an Exhibitor's Mutural deposit and as an advance money is received it is deposited to the credit of the Robertson-Cole Company, who will service that will be rendered or money refunded.

Robertson-Cole Buys Selig Library.

Four hundred bookplate numbers of stories have been purchased by the Robertson-Cole Company from William Selig. This collection is known as the Robertson-Cole Library, and contains works by some of the biggest authors in this country and England. According to Selig, the company, during his many years in the motion picture business. The new department of Robertson-Cole will scenarioize these works, and will turn them over to the producers who are making pictures for them. It is believed that there is enough material in the library to support a number of feature pictures. This does not mean that stories will not be purchased. The Robertson-Cole Company intends to be in the market for good material.

Bessie Love's Third Vitagraph Announced.

"The Praying Man" is to be Bessie Love's next picture in Vitagraph's star series. "The picture is to be produced in Vitagraph release. Her director, David Smith, has given his star countless opportunities for making her the screen's top star. The picture is to be released on February 4. It is based on a story by Margaret Wid- dwick.

The immediate interest of exhibitors, however, will centre on "The Enchanted Castle." Miss Bessie Love appears for the first time in Shirley Hollister, Bessie Love finds a role that fits her personality. She is a working girl, but not a drab. She has imagination, which is the godmother of realization.

The picture was made at Vitagraph's West Coast studios, and concerned with it besides Miss Love were J. Frank Olen- don, Joseph Singleton, William T. Horne, Frank Butterworth, Della Wolbert, Garvey A. Walker and Jane Hathaway.

"The Married Virgin" (Maxwell).

Chosen for Bessie Love's next release is "The Married Virgin," Maxwell, which is D. W. Griffith's production. The film will be released on February 4. Miss Love is to be the starring actress. Its producers are the Vitagraph Kinema Co., and it is being promoted as "Miss Love's first picture." The picture is based on a novel, "The Virgin," by Mayne Riddle, and produced by William A. Craig, the former of the famous Mayne Riddle and Shirley Bovée partnership.

Robertson-Cole Film Company has its "The Married Virgin" under distribution at its principal exchanges, and lively interest is being manifested in the feature.

"Stolen Orders" Going Over.

William A. Brady's "Stolen Orders" is proving a box office magnet of exceptional strength throughout the town. It was an opening attraction at Loew's new Metropol-itan Theatre in Brooklyn, and its remarkable success has been duplicated in the other theatres of the Loew Circuit. An exceptionally well directed picture, it is a story of that thrills and holds. While in no sense a war picture, "Stolen Orders" is a production of interest that is not to the eye. The substantial success it has achieved in this country is being duplicated over the world. This production is an international success, and is now being shown all the way from Pekin to Paris.

Author and Director Collaborate.

Co-operation between author and direc- tor is an important element in the in- telligent production of films. Recogniz- ing this fact, James Vincent, who is pic- turing James Mott Hallowel's book, "The Spirit of Lafayette," suggested to M. T. Towend, Exhibitor of this city, that he come to New York to view the taking of some of the big scenes.

Both expressed an interest in the idea, and this week at the Ideal studios, Clisfside, N. J., Director Vincent holidayed the megaphone in some of the first scenes of the play. The author expressed his complete satisfaction with the progress being made on the picture.

Work Progressing on Bushman-Bayne Library Picture.

Tidings scoping into the Vitagraph offices from "somewhere on Long Island" tell of consistent progress in the filming of the new feature, "The Play," which is the first of four big features an- nounced for release by Vitagraph this year. The picture is based on the novel of Albert E. Smith, president of Vitagraph, and Cyrus Townsend Brady, the author. Henri Hathaway is the director.
Advertising Aids for Busy Managers

THE MYSTERY GIRL

Jesse L. Lasky Presents Ethel Clayton in a dashing story by George Barr McCutcheon of a petticoat hero who is forced to sell his country to the buns.

Cast:
Countess "Ted," Alias 477—Ethel Clayton
Capt. Thomas K. Barnes, U. S. A.—Henry Woodward
Prince Ugo—Clarence Euron
Chester Naismith, a thief—Charles West
Prince Sebastian—Winter Hall
Mercedes, an actress—Mayn Kelso
Purdiss, Equerry to Sebastian—Parks Jones

Directed by William C. De Mille.

The Story: Prince Sebastian, prince of Lurania, who has refused to sell his petticoat kingdom to the Germans, writes his niece to tell him on a certain date, bringing with her the crown jewels. The Countess, otherwise known as "Driver 477," in the French Ambulance Service, crosses on a transport on which is Captain Barnes, an American officer, invalided home because of a tobacco heart. Chester Naismith, the cleverest jewel thief in Europe, plans to get possession of the jewels, bargaining with Prince Ugo, pretender to the throne, for his assistance, the thief to get the jewels and the pretender the girl. They all arrive in the Maine town, and plot and counterplot follow, but in the end Ugo is shot attempting to double cross his partner in crime. The jewels are saved, and the Countess and the Count make up, to serve in France after their quiet marriage.

Feature: Ethel Clayton as Countess "Ted" and Henry Woodward as Captain Barnes.

Send Picturecard of Famous Novel "Fancy Free." Ethel Clayton's Personal Note of Charm, Grace and Poiy Predominates. Mystery and Love Combined in Rare Photodrama of Adventure. What Happened when a Nobleman Discovered a Thief in the Girl of His Heart.

Advertising Angles: Utilize Miss Clayton's popularity, and build the story by the fact that she is directed in a story by George Barr McCutcheon by William C. De Mille. This combination should appeal to anyone, so use it in all your advertising. Advertise it as "the war story that mostly happens to the Prince of Lurania in a Maine town." Work the same idea in telling fragments of the story to pique curiosity. This will also help in that it will take the play out of the usual war-story class. Try the lobby portrait suit from the press book. It is simple and will work.

THE PRODIGAL WIFE

Screencraft Pictures Presents Mary Bo- line in a Stirring Picture Version of Edith Barnard Delano's "Flaming Ramparts." Cast:
Marion Farnham, Mary Bo-lane, Marna, her daughter—Lucy Cotton
Dr. Frederick Farnham, Raymond Bloomer
Thomas Farnham, Alfred Kepper
Dallas Harvey—Harris Gordon
Victor Middleton—Vincent Coleman
Mrs. Dovey—Mrs. Stuart Robson

Directed by Frank Reicher.

The Story: Marion Farnham, wife of a straggling old military sergeant, is taken in by poverty and his engrossment in his profession. She elopes with a man who promises to get her daughter for her, but he reports that the child, Marna, has died in an epidemic. Meanwhile, the physician waxes fame and fortune and removes to a smaller town, where he builds for his little daughter a fable of a beautiful mother who died. Marion sinks so low in the social scale that she comes to blackmail the successful physician, but she meets instead her daughter, and the girl's faith in her mother turns her from her purpose, unwilling to shatter that beautiful, but later, to save her from the same false step, she bares her soul and finds moral rebirth in sacrifice.

Feature: Mary Boland as Marion Farnham and Raymond Bloomer as Dr. Farnham.

Heart Rendering Tribulations of a Weakling Mother.

Ten Extra Pages of Great Human Interest Skillfully Revealed.

Greatest of Modern Problems Translated to the Screen.

The Depth of Mother Love Puts Em- bittered Repentance.

Advertising Angles: Play up the forceful story rather than the individual characters, through use of the leading members of the cast. Centre on the situation in which Marion finds herself and meet a possible crime by engulfing it the new East Lynne. You can make a strong drive on this by working through the clergy and town and asking their cooperation in bringing the lesson home.

Advertising Aids: Two three-sheets, two six-sheets, twelve cut-sheets, eight 8x10, eight 11x14 and photos and twos 22x28 photos of stars.

DANGER, GO SLOW

Universal Presents Mae Murray in a Charismatic Story of True Detective Miss Muggsy Maloney as a Boy but Was a Very Human Girl After All.

Cast:
Muggsy Maloney—Mae Murray
Jimmy, "The Eel"—Jack Mulhall
Aunt Sarah—Lydia Knott
Judge Cotton—Joseph Girard
Bad Boy—Lion Chaney

Directed by Robert Leonard.

The Story: Muggsy Maloney is a girl of the slums who masquerades as a boy. She is one of the gang of crooks of which Jimmy, "The Eel," is a member. When a police raid the gang is scattered, Jimmy alone being arrested. Muggsy takes a small village, where she is befriended by Aunt Sarah, whom she finds to be Jimmy's mother. Muggsy re- sumes the garment of her own sex, saves Aunt Sarah from the foreclosure of a loan, and by her honest, genteel way of doing the deed, starts a rumor that sells half of the property for more money than Aunt Sarah can realize, and finally brings Jimmy back to his mother—and all because a railroad sign read "Danger—Go Slow."

Feature: Mae Murray as Muggsy Maloney and Jack Mulhall as Jimmy, "The Eel." "BETWEEN THE LAW"
The Southern Feature Film Corporation Pre-Release of Emmet Dalton. This is Emmet Dalton's Powerful and Romantic Story, Originally Appearing in the Wide World Magazine.

Cast:
Emmet Dalton (in his youth), William J. Davis Gordon
Emmet Dalton (later years)....By Himself
Mother Dalton....Jda Pardee
Bob Dalton....Emmet Dalton
Grat Dalton....William Dunn
Mrs. Tom Harding....William McElrath

The Story: The story tells how the Dalton boys, originally United States deputy marshals, resign because of a dishonest superior. They go to New Mexico, and one night they hold up a gambling den because they have been robbed of a crooked roulette wheel. The act brands them as outlaws, and they scatter. Grat Dalton, because of this escapade, is supposed to be connected with a train robbery, and the persecution of the Wells-Fargo officials lead the boys to accept reprisal, which end with the famous robbery of the bank at Coffeyville, Kansas, where Emmet Dalton and Bob Dalton are convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment, but is released through the efforts of a local reporter.

Program and Advertising Phrases: Thrilling Details of Great Story of Bandit Raids and How Real Outlaw Stood the Occasion.

Advertising Angles: Don't make the mistake of handling this like a dramatized dime novel. Work rather on the opposite and tell that it is a dime novel, but the life story of a little band of men who were driven to desperate deeds through oppression. Hook up with the stories in the Wide World and the Saturday Evening Post. The former is the more recent and the basis of this story, so work more upon this end. In all your advertising, stress the honest and citizen-like attitude taken by the boys, the warning against crime and not an incentive to robbery.

Advertising Aids: Three one-sheets, two three-sheets, and one 24-sheet, 24, 8x10 and 22x28 photos, one and two-column scene and ad cuts.

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD
December 25, 1918

Program and Advertising Phrases:

Dorothy Gilh, Charmimg Paramount Star, Again in Brilliant Photoplay.
"The Little Disturber" in "Hearts of the West" Returns by telegraph, The Screen's Greatest Comedienne Returns in New Comedy Medium. How programming once more packed all her troubles in a "Hope Chest." Brilliant Comedy-Drama Featuring the Screen's Favorite Female Star in "Hearts of the West." Advertising Angles: Get all you can from the use of Miss Gilh's name and merchandising of her work locally. Get well some extra copies of this. Play up the other favorites in the cast in the same way with "chocholate girl" in the lobby to sell chocolate for the benefit of a war or some local charity. Get your papers in the papers for a charity, and they will have to mention the play and your house in their explanation.

Advertising Aids: Two each one, three and six-sheets. One 24-sheet. Lobby display, 8x10, 11x14 and 22x28 from one to three columns on star and production. Advertising lay-out mats. Slides. Press book.

Released December 25.

"GOOD-BYE, BILL"
Adolph Zukor Presents Shirley Mason and Ernest Truex in the Latest Melodrama (Comedy) by John Emerson and Alva Loos.

Cast:
Elsie Dresser........Shirley Mason
Teddy Swift...........Ernest Truex
Mabel Harris..........Marshall Allen
Willie.................Carroll de Pinta
Herr Tonsi............Joseph Burke
E. Kezer..............Koos Bebe

Directed by John Emerson and Alva Loos.

The Story: Samson's strength was in his hair, but the Kaiser trusted to his whiskers, and the bristling hairs, upturned like a crest of a longhorn cow, was the secret of his power. And the secret of the whiskers was a mustache fixer, invented by a man who was an American gigantic, who lived in West Hoboken, N. J., which used Dresser to go to Berlin to brace up the whiskers and the German morale, and he took his daughter, Elsie, with him. That made her sweetheart, Teddy Swift, so sore that he welcomed our entrance into the war and the rest of the American Army to Berlin for several weeks. There he found Elsie in prison for having smashed the whiskey-drinking machinery, and in imminent danger of being married to a whiskers Fixer, but they managed to stave off death until the rest of the American Army arrived, and they make Berlin a suburb of West Hoboken, N. J.

Feature: Shirley Mason as Elsie Dresser and Ernest Truex as Teddy Swift.

Program and Advertising Phrases: Ernest Truex and Shirley Mason Have the Laugh on Bill Hunzollern, of Holland.

Advertising Angles: Do not permit anyone to go uninfomned that this is a Gilhith play, but also capitalize the stars of "Hearts of the World." At the same time all your work make it plain that it is the undoubted artistry of Gilh of which gives this play real value. Hammer on that fact, start selling beginning at it until the film is shipped back.

Released December 25.

"IN THE HOLLOW OF HER HAND"
Select Pictures Presents Alice Brady in a Realistic Production of George M.G. Cutcheron's Great Novel.

Cast:
Hetty Castleton........Alice Brady
Edward Merrick........Myron Feurdin
Mrs. Wandall............Mrs. Louise Clark
Leslie Wandall...........A. J. Herbert
John Wandall.............William Noon
Brand Bennett...........Brand Booth
Percy Marmon

Directed by Charles Maigne.

The Story: Hetty Castleton, a young English girl, falls in love with Challis
J. HARTLEY MANNERS

The undersigned, J. HARTLEY MANNERS, gives notice that he has taken an appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, from the decision in his suit against Oliver Morosco, respecting the motion picture rights to "PEG O' MY HEART," and he is advised by his counsel that the appeal will be heard within two months.

He also gives notice that under his contract with Oliver Morosco, no alteration, elimination or addition can be made in the play without the approval of the author, and Mr. Manners has not consented to any alteration, elimination or addition to his play pending the appeal.

J. HARTLEY MANNERS

David Gerber, Attorney
32 Broadway, New York City

THE AUTOMATIC TICKET SELLING AND CASH REGISTER CO.
MANUFACTURERS OF AUTOMATIC TICKET MACHINES and all Kinds of Ticketing Machines

1725 BROADWAY NEW YORK CITY

Advertising Angles: Work this on the stunts Miss Harriscalle does, such as "See Rebecca Harriscalle strike her own with one hand at, etc." See "Bessie Harriscalle capture a bandit single-handed in Two-Gun Betty," etc. They are acrobats and simulators. For a preliminary teaser try, "She makes a beautiful boy," and run the line for several days. Then make the feature.

Advertising Aids: Two designs each one and three-sheets. One six-sheet. Thumbnails and one to three-column cuts in electro or mats.

Released December 16.

"A WOMAN OF IMPULSE"

Adolph Zukor presents Lina Cavalieri in a Smart Screen Version of Louis K. Henschen's Vivid Play of the Same Name.

Cast:
La Vezz, prima donna. Lina Cavalieri
Nina, her sister. Gertrude Robinson
Count Nerval. Raymond Bloomer
Philip, Count Nerval's son. Robert Cain
Mme. Gardiner. Mrs. Wilton
Dr. Paul Spencer. Leslie Austin
Mr. Stuart. J. Clarence Haysides
Mrs. Stuart. Mrs. Matilda Brundage

Directed by Edward Jose.

The Story: Lina is a prima donna, is loved by Count Nerval, a charming ladies man. She doubts the wisdom of marrying so lavishly, and sweeps off her feet, fearful lest Philip, her son, be implicated in her. Later Philip turns up again and pays her back as Nina, Leonora's sister, Nina sends Leonora to help that the must cease his attentions, and Philip tries to win Leonora, she says he is his. Philip is again stabbed by a jealous creole, but Leonora is held for the murder until the profession of the skill of her husband's law, and she and Nerval arrive at a new understanding. Feature Lina Cavalieri as La Vezz, a prima donna, and Raymond Bloomer as Count Nerval.

Program and Advertising Phrases: Lina Cavalieri Greatest of Operatic Queens Famous Stage Success Brought to the Screen by Operatic Celebrity Interesting Dramatic Interest in Gripping Photoplay
Domestic Drama of Intense Interest Screened with Picture Problem Play of Gripping Interest Filled with True Emotions.

Advertising Angles: Play up the star heavily, and all its surroundings. Point out the fact that the play is a well known stage success. In your newspaper work play up the jealousy theme. Bang the theme with jealous husbands to bring them to the theatre.

Advertising Aids: Two designs each one and three-sheets. One six-sheet. Thumbnails and one to three-column cuts in electro or mats.

Press book.

"ARIZONA"

Here's Douglas Fairbanks in One of the Best Plays He Ever Wrote, and He's Written a Lot of Good Ones.

Cast:
Lieutenant Denton. Douglas Fairbanks
Deputy. Claude Gillingham
Edie. Portia Rice
Colonel Benham. Frederick Burton
Hannah. Harry Northrup
Jedediah. J. Edward Bromberg
Bonita. Josephine Battan
Mary. Marjorie Daw
Tony. Frederick Lonsdale
Romeo. William Boyd

The Story: Colonel Benham, of the Eleventh Cavalry, stops with a detachment at the Canyon. He has married Estrella, elder daughter of the rich rancher, Her sister, Bonita, decides to accompany her back to the post. Estrella... has a love affair with Captain Hodgeman, who has an eye to the money that eventually will be his. Distant relatives, who prevent an elopement, but is himself brought under suspicion which is forced to recant in the face of the evidence which he will not betray Estrella. He gets a position as a foreman on the Canby ranch, but Hodgeman, who has loved her and things look black when Hodgeman is shot by the man whose daughter he has ruined and Hodgeman has committed murder, crime, but Estrella at last confesses and all ends well.

Fotion Dougal Fairbanks as Lieutenant Denton and Marjorie Daw as Bonita.

Program and Advertising Phrases: Doug. Fairbanks in a Some New Rants, Jumps and Sensations. Famous Stage Play Revived with Some New Visions in Drama. Famous Play by Augustus Thomas Screen-Revived by Famous Player. Screen Visions Sensational Episodes in Famous Stage Success. Leaping, Smiling, Jumping, Crowning Doug. Fairbanks in Great Photoplay. Advertising Angles: Plaster the billboards and take extra newspaper space. Tell that the part of Denton might have been specially written for Fairbanks. Recall the local success of the drama that this enjoyed and add that Theodore Roberts plays his original role of Canby. The story of the play consists of one, three and six sheets. One 24-sheet. Lobby displays, 8x10, 11x14 and 25x28. Cuts from our own production are used in the production. Advertising lay-out mats. Press book. Released December 8.

"THE SEA WOLF"

World Pictures Present Louise Huff, with John Hower, in a Swift Moving Story of Life and Love on the Beautiful Malaco Coast.

The Story: Nancie Potter is the daughter of a fisherman on the coast of Maine. Her father is a victim of the sea, and his loves when opportunity offers. To the little fishing village comes Harry Caton, a legitimate son, and he loses his voice through alcoholic excesses, and is pursued by his brother, Colonel Brett, to go to Grampian, where he has a cottage. Jones, Potter's pal, seeks to force Nancy to marry him, and Caton saves her from the drunken brute's advances. Potter and Jones rob the home of Colonel Brett, discovering a picture of Brett's wife that is singularly like Nancie. Potter tells that Nancie is a waif, and Jones persuades him to force the girl to marry him and they will free the town from the thieves. They free Nancie from her father and finds that he has won her love.

Feature Louise Huff, as Nancie Potter and John Hower, as Harry Caton.

What Happened When a Musical Comedy Star Lost Her Heart and Voice.

They're Called/Dad—Father, Head of a Band of Thieves.

Love, Romance and Sensation Combine in Photoplay.

Advertising Angles: Bloom the players, of course, but for an interesting side angle you can deal to advantage. Lieut. Howard Irving Young, who was a photoplay writer before he went into the

---

"NEWMAN" Brass Frames and Rails

Read What Josiah Pearce & Sons Says About Our Goods

Gentlemen:

Now that you have commenced production of your new theatre here in New Orleans, and have yourselves taken this step in the theatre business, we take this means of expressing to you our appreciation of the manner in which your best interests and the business of the trade are considered.

Yours very truly,

J. E. PEARCE. New Orleans, La.

We manufacture the frames in various finishes which do not require polishing.

The Newman Mfg. Co.

ESTABLISHED 1882

Write for our Latest Catalogue.

1154 Brunswick Bldg., Ginnell, O.

88 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Ill.

Canadian Representative—J. F. Malone, Malone Theatre Hold. 85 Sparks St., Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

France, Spain, Russia, France, Russia, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, France, Spain, Russia, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland.

"OUR BOYS IN FRANCE TOBACCO FUND"

19 West 44th Street, New York City

Depository: Irving National Bank, New York

The Secretary of War Lyman Abbot

Naval Officer-in-Chief Rev. Mr. Haynes

The American Red Cross Theodore Roosevelt

Cordial Gibeon Wisconsin State Nat. H. "Estella"

OUR BOYS IN FRANCE TOBACCO FUND

19 West 44th Street, New York City

GENTLEMEN: I was personally requested by the American soldiers who are fighting our battle in France, if it were possible, to request you to assist them.

I would appreciate it if you would accept a soldier and send me $1.00 a month to supply him with "smokes" for the duration of the war.

I send you herewith $1.00 for the purpose of enlisting a soldier and send you $1.00 a month to supply him with "smokes" for the duration of the war.

If you have been a soldier and would like to contribute to the fund, please let it be known how you desire to contribute.

You can do it in a few dollars a month, but by using circus methods you will make a large profit. Begin early and keep it up until the last days of the run.

We can work street parades, boy scouts, returning soldiers, street wagons and sand castles. Use some, if not all of these aids.

Advertising Aids: One 24-sheet, two

---

"THE COMMON CAUSE"

J. Stuart Blackton's Superb Spectacle, a Magnificent War Pageant of Human Heart-Throngs and a Truly Notable Cabaret.

Two Little Refugees. (Violet Blackton)

The Pollu.——Philip Van Lorn

A French Girl.——Mlle. Marcel German General.——Louis Dean

Characters in the Prologue and Epilogue.——Catherine Deneuve—Estrella France.——Irene Castle

Bolland.——Violet Heming

The Show.——Sylvia Columbia

Marjorie Rambeau

Directed by J. Stuart Blackton.

The Most Orin Palmer is a successful consulting engineer, but his wife, Irene, is infatuated with Edward Wadsworth, a young bachelor. The war breaks out and Irene throws herself into the work, forcing Wadsworth to enlist, telling him that this is a thing far greater than their petty love. Unknown to Irene, Hulsey Palmer also enlists and goes to France with her husband. They meet at Chateau Thierry, where helium is now in charge of the Red Cross station. Wadsworth volunteers for dangerous service and, though wounded, is brought back by Palmer at the risk of his own life. During the night the Hun advances and helps by a Prussian captain, but holds him off with his own gun. She is rescued in the morning, just as her strength gives way and the German is about to overpower her.

The event is the turning point in the lives of the three, for Wadsworth tells her that the great fire of patriotism has burned the doors from their lives, and all turn to love and greater love. Then comes the armistice— the promise of long days of peace.

Feteur: Herbert Rawlinson, Orin Palmer, and Sylvia Breamer as Helena Palmer.

Advertising Angles: Start well in advertising. The story of the picture is interesting, the remarkable cast, the wonderul battle scenes and the intimate side of life in France is filled with unusual realism. Tell that it is not a picture of war, but a photographic reproduction vividly written, of the scenes of the war. Tell plenty of the six and 24-sheets and put them where no one can overlook them. Use paper and money and put it all over your regular territory with the pictorial display. Without advertising it will not make much money. Use paper and money and put it all inside your regular territory with the pictorial display. Without advertising it will not make much money. Use paper and money and put it all inside your regular territory with the pictorial display. Without advertising it will not make much money.
three-sheets, one six-sheet, two one-sheets, one window card, one special lobby display, one extra star lobby display, two advance slides, one special cut-out herald, six styles of newspaper ads, five styles of scene cuts, six styles of star cuts.

"TOO MANY MILLIONS"
Jesse L. Lasky Presents Wallace Reid in the Story of a Man Who Was Happy When He Lost Ten Million Dollars.

The Story: Walsingham Van Dorn, a book agent, falls heir to $40,000,000 by the death of two uncles, who ran a swindling stock concern. He is appalled by the responsibility and finds that so huge a sum is no joke. Desiree, the daughter of one of the men his uncle swindled, demands that he pay back her father’s two millions. He is willing to do so, but Wilkins, his confidential manager, has decamped with the money. Desiree accompanies him on his escape from his infuriated creditors. The country hotel in which they put up is burned to the ground and they escape in their night clothes. A kindly minister supplies them with clothes and marries them, and Van Dorn gets a job in a garage. Two years later Wilkins returns to make restitution. The money is too much for him, and the audience is left to guess whether Van Dorn takes it back.

Feature Wallace Reid as Walsingham Van Dorn. Orson Welles as Desiree Lane.

Advertising Angles: Play up Wallace Reid and winner of the title. Ask if forty million dollars would be too much for the reader. Put on a dollar bill to a card and letter it, "Just imagine forty millions of these! Would it be too much for you?" Use Marion Davies for Walsingham Van Dorn, as you’ll see at house and date." Use these for window cards, with stills. Offer ten dollars to any couple who will be married on the stage of your theatre in their night clothes, as were Van Dorn and Desiree. It’s a safe offer, but it will make talk.

"AND A STILL, SMALL VOICE"
The Exhibitors Mutual Distributing Corporation Presents the Distinctive Star, Henry B. Walthall, in a Story of the South.

The Story: In a Southern town, Clay Randolph holds a responsible position in the bank. His life is tampered with by Jack Hoke, who has eloped with Dunlap. He is compelled by the disgrace to leave town, and goes to New York where he turns a gentleman crook. There he again meets Dunlap and Hoke. The former has lost his money, and seeks to gain loans through the personality of his wife. Randolph saves her from disgrace. Ad through an odd combination of circumstances Dunlap is killed while about to commit the crime Randolph planned, and the latter enlists to find and apprehend the man.

Feature Henry L. Jatlah as Clay Randolph and Frizzi Brunette as Mary Singleton.

Advertising Angles: There is only one angle to this—Walthall. Tell them enough of the story to entice them that he has a congenial role, and for the rest just keep hammering on his name. That should be all you need to do.

Advertising Aids: One each one, three and six-sheets. Thirteen one-sheets, two and three column cuts and mats. Lobby displays, 11x14, 22x28. Slides. Press sheet.

"THE CHALLENGE ACCEPTED"
Pathe Presents the Arden Production of The Story of the Bravest Flying Ace with Zena Keefe and a Capital Cast.

Directed by Edwin L. Holland.

The Story: Steve Carey comes from Sparkhool, N. C., to the training camp, not knowing what the war is about and caring less. He is resentful of discipline, and takes a particular dislike to a young man who makes him the butt of his jokes. He gets tired of camp monotony, and makes his way back to his farm. Sally Haston makes him go back and take his medicine, and a sympathetic comment from Miss Keefe helps him decide. He goes to Sparkhool once more on leave, a hundred per cent. American and a better man.

Feature Zena Keefe as Sally Haston and Chester Barnett as Steve Carey.

Advertising Angles: Miss Keefe has not been to the front much of late, and may require some reintroduction, but she can easily be identified by your patrons, and your campaigns will be helpful. Edward E. Eggleston work use the making of Carey for your talking point, but switch it to Miss Keefe, who held him in her arms. Offer a little sidelight from the training camps rather than a war story.

Advertising Aids: One one-sheet, two three-sheets, one six-sheet, one 24-sheet. Lobby displays, 11x14, both in sepia and color. Also 22x28. Slides, Campaign book. Cuts Released December 23 through Tuckison.

"A LADY’S NAME"

Lever J. Selznick presents Constance Talmadge in Another Story by Cyril Humeau, in The Pair of Silk Stockings.

Cast:
Mabel Vere.................. Constance Talmadge
Noel Corcoran............... Harrison Ford
Gerald Wantage.............. Emory Johnson
Mary Bray.................... Virginia Vale
Floyd Adams................ James Parley Adams
Bird......................... Fred Huntley

(The Story: A succession of amusing and exciting events showing the adventures of an enterprising and whimsical young woman who advertises for a husband. The idea is from Mabel Vere, a writer. The reason for the advertisement is to secure material for a new novel. She is engaged to a somewhat plain man, but naturally objects to her methods. After breaking her engagement with him, being blackmailed by a butler, and changing her role from writer to cook, she becomes engaged to Noel Corcoran, the third and last applicant to her ad."

Perfection in Projection
Gold King Screen
10 Days’ Trial

No. 1 Grade, 75c.; No. 2 Grade, 90c.
Stretchers included
Try before you buy. Sold by all the leading supply dealers throughout the country.
Factory, ALTUS, OKLAHOMA

AUTHORS
Recognized photoplay and fiction writers may place their synopses with our Manuscript Sales Department for submission by personal representation to the producers of Southern California. Commission basis.
Unrecognized authors will have competent constructive advice and help through the Palmer Plan and Advisory Bureau. Write for our free explanatory booklet.

Palmer Photoplay Corporation
551 W. Hollman Bldg.
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

For our up-to-date price list

Amusement Supply Co.
Largest Exclusive Dealers to the MOTION PICTURE TRADE
300-302 Haller’s Bldg.
532 Wabash Ave.
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Dealers in Motionographs, Standard and Simplex Motion Picture Machines, National Carbons, Minus Screens and Everything for the Theatre. WE SELL ON THE INSTALLMENT PLAN

For watch for coming announcement of

SESSUE HAYAKAWA PRODUCTIONS
Haworth Pictures Corporation
H. W. Helman Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.

For the fullest and latest news of the moving picture industry in Great Britain and Europe—our authoritative article lead by British technical and pictorial brilliant and strictly impartial criticisms of all films, read THE BIOSCOPE

The Leading British Trade Journal with an International Circulation
85 Shaftesbury Avenue, London, W.
Specimen on Application of the mining company, results in his "removal" by an automobile accident, but his son, his urging carries on his father’s work. His refusal to enlist leaves him the love of Ann Blair, who promises him his way back to Parrish’s. Frankly, he was not directly responsible for the unmasking of the gigantic plot, and learns that they also seek for the wrong man in the scheme and turns again to Parrish to Wendell. Feature Claire Adams as Ann Blair and Hugh Thompson as Captain Bruce Wendell.

Advertising Angles: Work this for a timely protoerecting story, dwelling upon the fact that it shows vivid scenes in Washington and in the coal mining district of West Virginia, from which much of the coal used by steamers is obtained. For a secondary angle work on the lines of see how coal helped win the war. Work these two angles rather than the spy feature.

Picture Theatres Projected

ST. LOUIS, MO.—Charles H. Thilmimg, 158 South Jefferson avenue, and George Tompra, 1081 Girard avenue, have purchased the Avenue Church property on west side Grand avenue, for rental of $1,500 per year. Will convert edifice into modern theatre and operate it as New Grand Duchess Theatre. House will have seating capacity for about 1,000 people.

PLATTSMOUTH, NEB.—Roy Smith has disposed of his moving picture business to Brant & Christie.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y.—City Theatre has been leased by W. M. Linton, of Utica. Extensive improvements planned.

MALONE, N. Y.—Fred S. Bryant and Reay Koykirk have purchased controlling interest in Grand Theatre.

CENTRO, N. Y.—Gilmore Amusement Company has plans by Leon H. Lemport & Son, Cutter Building, Rochester, N. Y., for 50,000 moving picture theatre.

AKRON, OHIO.—Martin Lobinger, 415 Werner street, has contract to erect $150,- 000 theatre and lodge building at 225 Bardman street for Loyal Order of Moose, No. 79.

OKMULGEE, OKLA.—E. L. Winn Construction Company, Railway Building, Kansas City, Mo., has contract to remodel interior theatre for Cozy Thea- tre to cost $2,000.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—Moving picture theatre at 3625-29 North Broad street has been taken over by J. F. Brown, Jr. cost $36,500, which includes moving picture equipment and electric fans.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS.—Princess Theatre has been purchased by J. M. Donald for $550,000. Change of owners will not affect the lease, it is reported.

TransVergen

Automatically supplies only such voltage as are required. No waste of current in ballast.

HERTNER ELECTRIC CO.
West 114th Street, Cleveland, Ohio.
General Film Company, Inc.

BROADWAY STAR FEATURE.
Tobin’s Palm (O. Henry Story—Two Parts—Comedy).

The Girl of the Hidden Key (Roloffville Tales—Two Parts—Drama).

The Rose of Wolfville (Wolfville Tales—Two Parts—Drama).

A Ramble in Aphasia (O. Henry Story—Two Parts—Drama).

ESSEYAN COMEDIES.
Eskhille’s New Sheriff (One Part).
Sophie’s Birthday Party (One Part).

RAINBOW COMEDIES.
Nearly a Slackner.
My Lady’s Slipper.
Some Judge.
How She Hated Men.
The Camouflaged Baby.
The Pipe of Peace.
Hoovering.

SADDALE PRODUCTIONS.
The Midnight Burglar (Five Parts—Drama).
Wanted, a Brother (Five Parts—Drama).
Little Miss Dishwasher (One Part—Drama).

SCRANVONIA FILM COMPANY.
(Featuring Charlie Ross).
Parson Pepp (One Reel—Comedy).
Fang’s Fate and Fortune (One Reel—Comedy).

OFFICIAL WAR PICTURES.
(Committee on Public Information.)
Our Bridge of Ships (Two Reels).

AMERICAN RED CROSS.
The Historic Fourth of July in Paris (One Part—Patriotic).
Sothing the Heart of Italy (One Part—Patriotic).

Of No Use to Germany (One Part—Patriotic).
First Aid on the Plave (One Part—Patriotic).
Rebuilding Broken Lives (One Part—Patriotic).

The Kiddies of No Man’s Land (One Part—Patriotic).
Victorious Serbit (One Part—Patriotic).
A Helping Hand in Sicily (One Part—Patriotic).

PHOTOFOIL.
I Believe (Six Parts—Drama).

AMERICAN FEATURE FILM CORP.
Exacts of Love (Six Parts—Drama).

MAXWELL PRODUCTIONS.
The Married Virgin (Six Parts—Drama).

Exhibitors-Mutual

MUTUAL.
Nov. 5—Screen Telegram (Topical)—72-T-1.
Nov. 5—Screen Telegraph (Topical)—73-T-1.
Nov. 5—Screen Telegram (Topical)—75-T-1.
Nov. 16—Screen Telegraph (Topical)—77-T-1.

OUTDOOR SUBJECTS.
Oct. 6—A Tent Meeting Post—16-6-1.
Nov. 17—Black Feet and Flat Heads—16-0-R-1.
Nov. 24—Bad Men and Good Scenery—17-0-G-1.

FIVE PARTS—DRAMA—WESTERN:
Dec. 5—Maiden of Majesties.

VACATION LAND.
Dec. 15—

RELEASES OF WEEK OF JAN. 5, 1919.
Want to be a Lady? (Gloria Joy; Two Parts—Comedy—Drama—Bartlet).
The Lighting Racket (Episode No. 1, “The Era of Gold” and “Pearl White—Three Parts—Drama—Astra”)
Do You Love Your Wife? (Rolin Comedy—Stan Laurel).
Japan of Today No. 2 (Post Travel).
Official War Review No. 28 (Topical).
Pathe News No. 4 (Topical).
Pathe News No. 5 (Topical).

AMERICAN PRODUCTIONS RELEASED BY PATHIE.
The Eyes of Judith (Affiliated With Myles Minter).
Money Isn’t Everything (Marguerite Fisher).
Hubby in a Hurry (William Russell).
Rosemary Climbs the Heights (Mary Miles Minter).
The Mantle of Charity (Marguerite Fisher).
All the World to Nothing (William Russell).
Rivals and Other Women (Mary Miles Minter).
Fair Enough (Marguerite Fisher).
When a Man Rides Alone (William Russell).

FOX Film Corporation

BIG TIMELY PICTURES.
Nov. 24—Why I Would Not Marry.
Dec. 5—Every Mother’s Son.

FOX STANDARD PICTURES.
Dec. 1—The She Devil (Theda Bara).
Dec. 15—I Want to Forget (Evelyn Nesbit).
Jan. 6—Woman! Woman! (Evelyn Nesbit).
Feb. 9—The Man Hunter (Virginia Travers).
Jan. 12—The Light (Theda Bara).
Feb. 23—The Siren’s Song (Theda Bara).

EXCEL PICTURES.
Dec. 1—Euchanan’s Wife (Virginia Pearson).
Dec. 15—Caught in the Act (Peggy Hyland).
Dec. 28—The Danger Zone (Madeline Traverse).
Jan. 10—The Call of Destiny (Gladys Brockwell).
Feb. 2—Lucky and Pluck (George Walsh).
Feb. 10—The Coming of the Law (Tom Mix).

FOX-LERNAN SUNSHINE COMEDIES.
Nov. 17—Montagues.
Dec. 15—The Fatal Marriage.
Dec. 20—The Son of a Hun.

MUTT & JEFF ANIMATED CARTOONS.
Dec. 1—Pot Luck in the Army.
Dec. 8—The New Champion.
Dec. 15—Hitting the High Spots.
Dec. 22—The Draft Board.
Dec. 25—Throwing the Bull.
Jan. 10—The Lion Tamer.
Jan. 12—Here and There.

FOX EXTRAVAGANZAS.
Nov. 17—Pam Pha.
Nov. 24—Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves.

THE GREAT NINE.
Dec. 9—Fighting Blood (William Parum).
Jan. 5—The Serpent (Theda Bara).
Jan. 12—The Regiment.
Jan. 31—Under Two Fingers (Theda Bara).
Feb. 7—Idolatry (Dr. Rameau).
Feb. 9—The Soul of Broadway (Yalea Surra).
Feb. 16—The Darlings of Paris (Theda Bara).

PRODUCTIONS EXTRAORDINARY.
Cleopatra (Theda Bara).
Les Miserables (William Parum).
A Daughter of the Gods (Annette Kellerman).
List of Current Film Release Dates

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

ANIMATED WEEKLY.
Nov. 27—No. 52 (Topical)—03292.
Dec. 4—No. 53 (Topical)—03271.
Dec. 11—No. 54 (Topical)—03250.
Dec. 18—No. 55 (Topical)—03300.

CENTURY COMEDY.
Oct. 9—Umbled Ladies (Alice Howell—Two Parts—Drama).
Dec. 18—The Cabbage Queen (Alice Howell—Two Parts—Drama).

HEARST NEWS.
Dec. 24—No. 1 (Topical)—03443.
Dec. 31—No. 2 (Topical)—03434.

LKO.
Nov. 27—Painless Love (Ruth Hardy—Two Parts—Comedy)—03292.
Dec. 4—King of the Kitchen (Harry Gibbons—Two Parts—Comedy)—03275.
Dec. 11—Rough on Husbands (Merta Sterling—Two Parts—Comedy)—03250.
Dec. 18—Work or Fight (Two Parts—Comedy)—Harry Gibbons—03444.
Jan. 1—Klever Kidd (Two Parts—Comedy—Eddie Barry)—03455.

NESTOR.
Nov. 18—The Love Crazed (Florence Lawrence—Comedy)—03292.
Dec. 1—The Pickle Blockhead (Eileen Sedgwick—Comedy).
Dec. 8—Two and a Half (Bob Wilson)—03275.
Dec. 9—Let’s Fight (Ben Wilson)—03250.
Dec. 16—The Sailor (Ben Wilson)—03250.
Dec. 23—No. 1 (Topical)—03443.
Dec. 30—It’s Great to Be Crazy (All-Star—Comedy)—03453.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL ATTRACTION.
Nov. 19—Fighting for Freedom (Episode No. 4—Two Parts—Drama)—03292.
Nov. 26—Repairing War’s Ravages (Two Parts—Drama)—03275.
Dec. 3—Around the Clock with the Sailor—(Two Parts—Drama)—03444.
Jan. 1—The Wildcat of Paris (Priscilla Dean—Six Parts—Drama)—03462.
Nov. 4—Around the Clock with the Marines—(Two Parts—Drama)—03292.
Nov. 23—Kiss or Kill (Priscilla Dean—Hunting)—(Two Parts—Drama)—03444.
Dec. 2—Vanity Pool (Mary MacLane—Five Parts—Drama)—03292.
Dec. 16—Danger—Go by the Book (Mac Murray—Six Parts—Drama)—03444.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE.
Nov. 28—Issue No. 94 (Educational)—03292.
Dec. 5—Issue No. 95 (Educational)—03275.
Dec. 12—Issue No. 96 (Educational)—03453.
Dec. 19—Issue No. 97 (Educational)—03444.
Dec. 26—Issue No. 98 (Educational)—03444.
Jan. 4—Issue No. 99 (Educational)—03456.

SCREEN TELEGRAM.
Nov. 20—No. 76 (Topical)—03441.
Jan. 2—No. 77 (Topical)—03456.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.
Oct. 26—The Brass Bullet (Episode No. 12—Caught in Wire—Two Parts—Drama)—03292.
Nov. 2—The Brass Bullet (Episode No. 12—Caught in Wire—Two Parts—Drama)—03241.
Nov. 9—The Brass Bullet (Episode No. 14—On Trial for His Life—Two Parts—Drama)—03241.
Nov. 16—The Brass Bullet (Episode No. 15—In the Shadows—Two Parts—Drama)—03241.
Dec. 23—The Brass Bullet (Episode No. 16—The Two Faces of Crime—Two Parts—Drama)—03251.
Nov. 30—The Brass Bullet (Episode No. 17—The Avenger—Two Parts—Drama)—03251.
Dec. 7—The Brass Bullet (Final Episode No. 18—The Amazing Confession—Two Parts—Drama)—03251.
Dec. 14—Fighting for Freedom (Episode No. 6—Britain’s Flying Fortresses—Two Parts—Drama)—03251.
Jan. 2—No. 6 (Topical)—03449.
Jan. 30—No. 7 (Topical)—03460.

UNIVERSAL CURRENT EVENTS.
Nov. 22—Issue No. 80 (Topical)—03292.
Nov. 29—Issue No. 81 (Topical)—03292.
Dec. 7—Issue No. 82 (Topical)—03300.
Dec. 14—Issue No. 83 (Topical)—03292.
Dec. 21—Issue No. 84 (Topical)—03453.
Dec. 28—Issue No. 85 (Topical)—03444.
Jan. 5—Issue No. 86 (Topical)—03450.

STAR COMEDIES.
(Loews-Moviet Pictures.)
Nov. 22—Why Worry—03292.
Nov. 29—Maid Wanted—03300.
Dec. 6—Gritty—03292.
Dec. 20—Camping Out—03453.
Jan. 24—Straight Crooks—03464.

WESTERN AND RAILROAD DRAMAS.
Nov. 23—The Husband Hunter (Neal Hart—Two Parts—Drama)—03292.
Nov. 30—The Dead Shot (Helen Gibson—Two Parts—Drama)—03292.
Dec. 7—The Silent Sentinel (Helen Gibson—Two Parts—Drama)—03292.
Dec. 14—Carrying On! (Helen Gibson)—03292.
Dec. 21—The Robber (Helen Gibson)—03437.
Dec. 28—Wolves of the Range (Helen Gibson)—03453.
Jan. 5—The Secret Furt (Helen Gibson—Two Parts)—03459.

MASTER COMEDY.
Dec. 21—A Kaiser There Was—03442.
SITUATIONS WANTED.

UNION OPERATOR desires position. Experienced, reliable man. Address P. O. Box 468, Central Station, Toledo, Ohio.

EXPERIENCED ORGANIST—Splendid library, good picture player and first class organist. Pipe organ and good salary essential. Will go anywhere. Organist, Box 472, Hagerstown, Maryland.

HARRY KEEPERS at liberty to receive offer for 1919. Known as the globe-trotting cameraman. Many years experience in all branches of cinematography, having one of the best and most complete outfits for A-1 work of any kind. Specialize in artistic lighting and back-lighting effects. Will work East or West Coast. 811 West 4142 St., N. Y. City.

MANAGER, 8 years’ experience, at present engaged, desires to make a picture. Best references. Write M. S., c/o M. P. World, N. Y. City.

MANAGING DIRECTOR wishes connection with large theatre; thoroughly familiar with music, settings, and publicity. Have many new and novel ideas. Expert judge of film and prices. Would prefer theatre that is not now paying to manage on salary and percentage. Can furnish best of references. Address Managing Director, c/o M. P. World, N. Y. City.

HELP WANTED.

PIANIST WANTED—Must have good library. One who is competent to cue pictures intelligently. Write with full particulars, to Victoria Theatre, Greenfield, Mass.

WANTED—Film salesmen to furnish leads as side line. Liberal remuneration; no samples to carry; no selling to do. R. M., c/o M. P. World, New York City.

CAMERAS, ETC., FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—A Moy camera fitted with spiral focusing jacket, reverse drive, film punch, one turn, one picture handle; view finder, four dark boxes, one 2-inch Zeiss lens, one 3-inch Zeiss lens, and English made leather carrying case for outfit; also one Motion Picture Apparatus Company precision tripod with leather cover. Complete outfit practically unused. State best cash offer and address in the first place. Camera, Box 15, Station G, N. Y. City.

MECHANICAL REPAIRING, experimenting, lenses, dissolvers, cameras, shutters, finders, specializing in Zeiss Zeiss Tessar F 3.5 lens, 5x7 camera. Specialize gently. Director, 43rd Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

SENSATIONAL MONEY Saving bargains in the title of the latest photographic book just off the press; a 72-page catalog filled from cover to cover with wonderful offers in every standard made of tested and guaranteed motion picture apparatus, cameras, lenses, kodaks, etc. It’s the biggest little thing in the current photographic field. Worth its weight in gold to you, and in fact no cameraman in the country can afford to be without a copy. Send for it today; yours for the asking. David Stern Company; in business since 1885; 1027 Madison St., Chicago, U. S. A.

BASS offers a wonderfully fine camera; description: Lubin - Prevost Cinematograph Camera, case made of mahogany, wonderful shutter dissolve, diaphragm dissolve, adjustable film rail, perfect intermittent, scene meter, foot age meter, speed indicator, 50 M.M. Carl Zeiss Tessar F 3.5 lens, five beautiful aluminum magazines, two leather carrying cases. Superior to any camera on the market, our price $800.00. Our Bargain List No. 11 is full of other good values. Bass-Capreoli Co., Charles Bass, Pres., 100 E. N. Dearborn St., Chicago, P. S.—Bargains in Suitcase Model Projectors.
List of Current Film Release Dates

Goldwyn Distributing Corp.

STAR SERIES PRODUCTIONS. Sept. 30—Laughing Bill Hyde (Rex Beach's)
Oct. 7—Hidden Fires (Mac Marsh—Five Parts—Drama—DeLuxe)

Nov. 17—Thirty a Week (Tom Moore—Five Parts—Comedy—DeLuxe)
Nov. 24—A Perfect Match-Six (Isabel Normand-Five Parts—Comedy).
Dec. 1—The Hell Cat (Geraldine Farrar—Six Parts—Drama)
Dec. 8—A Perfect Lady (Margaret Kennedy—Five Parts—Comedy—Drama)
Dec. 15—Too Fat to Fight (Rex Beach Story—Six Parts—Drama)

GOLDWYN SPECIALS.
The Manx Man (Seven Parts—Drama)
Heart of the Sunset (Rex Beach Story—Seven Parts—Drama)
For the Freedom of the East (Betzendorf—Seven Parts—Drama)

CAPITOL COMEDIES. Sept. 22—Bill's Sweetie (Two Parts).
Oct. 1—Bill Camps Out (Two Parts).
Nov. 1—A Postcard From Bi (Two Parts).
Dec. 1—Proposing Hill.
Dec. 15—True Tramp.
Dec. 29—Poor Innocent.
Jan. 12—You Know What I Mean.

Famous Players-Lasky

PARAMOUNT-SENNETH COMEDIES.
Dec. 1—Her First Mistake.
Dec. 15—Hide and Seek, Detectives.
Dec. 25—Miss Villars, Cheshire Cat.
PARAMOUNT-ARBUCKLE COMEDIES.
Sept. 15—The Cook.
Nov. 24—The Sheriff.

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORP.

PARAMOUNT-WINGATE COMEDIES.
Dec. 1—Puss and Feathers (Edna Bennett—Five Parts—Patriotic)
Dec. 8—Too Many Millions (Wallace Reid—Five Parts—Patriotic)
Dec. 15—Good-Bye Bill (Shirley Mason and Ernest Trues—Five Parts)
Dec. 22—Strange World (Charles Hay—Five Parts)
Dec. 29—The Mystery Girl (Ethel Clayton—Five Parts)
Dec. 29—Quick and Cold (Dorothy Dalton—Five Parts)
Dec. 29—Little Miss Haver (Marguerite Clark—Five Parts)
Dec. 29—The Hope Chest (Dorothy Gil—Five Parts)
Dec. 29—The Way of a Man with a Maid (Bryan Warren—Five Parts)
Artcraft Pictures.
Dec. 1—Under the Greenwood Tree (Ethel Fergason—Five Parts)
Dec. 8—Arizona (Douglas Fairbanks—Five Parts)
Dec. 8—The Greatest Thing in the World (Five Parts—D. W. Griffith film)
Dec. 15—Branding Broadway (William S. Hart—Five Parts)
Dec. 15—The Squaw Man (Five Parts—C. B. DeMille Production)

PARAMOUNT-ARTCRAFT SPECIAL.
Oct. 3—Private Eyes (Private Eyes—Five Parts—Patriotic)
Dec. 1—Sporting Life (Maurice Tournier Production)

PARAMOUNT-FLAG COMEDIES.
Dec. 1—Tell That to the Marines.
Dec. 8—Independence O'Gosh (Two Parts).
Dec. 22—For Penny (Charles Flanagan, or the Hurt of the Dreadful West (Two Parts)

SUCCESS SERIES (REISSUES).
Dec. 1—Coppice (Mary Pickford)
Dec. 8—The Goose Girl (Marguerite Clark—Five Parts)
Dec. 15—The Eternal City (Pauline Frederick—Five Parts)
Dec. 22—The Old Homestead (Five Parts)
Dec. 29—The Virginian (Dusine Fairman—Five Parts)

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES.
Dec. 1—The Belman Susters of Luxen.
Dec. 5—The End of the Rope.
Dec. 13—Turbaned Tommies.
Dec. 22—The Gorilla of Paraiso.
Dec. 29—Two Cities of Old Cathay.

PARAMOUNT-BLAY PICTORGRAPH.
Dec. 1—Industries of Our New Possessions; The Maize of Mexico; The Great War.
Dec. 8—Patriotic.
Dec. 15—How Musen Groups are Made; New York in War-Time; Cartoon.
Dec. 29—Vanishing Skirt; Beaks; Cartoon; Uncle Sam's Coming Problem.

World Pictures Corp.

Dec. 9—The Man of Brace (Lewis Stone—Five Parts—Drama)
Dec. 16—The Zero Hour (June Evalide—Five Parts—Drama)
Dec. 23—The Love Nest (Madge Evans—Five Parts—Drama)
Dec. 30—The Horseman (Louise Huff—Five Parts—Drama)
Jan. 6—What Loveth Princes (Barbara Cates Eaton—Five Parts—Drama)
Jan. 6—Under Two Skies (Martha Judge—Five Parts—Drama)
Jan. 13—The Allies (Carlyle Blackwell and Evelyn Grosse—Five Parts)
Jan. 20—The Flirt (June Evalide—Five Parts—Drama)
Jan. 27—Mandarin Gold (Kitty Gordon—Five Parts—Drama)
Feb. 3—The Rough Neck (Montagu Love—Five Parts—Drama)
Feb. 10—Heart of Gold (Louise Huff—Five Parts—Drama)

WORLD COMEDY RELEASES.
0. Susie Behave (Pay Tincher)

Feature Releases

AFFILIATED DISTRIBUTORS CORP. 1900 Broadway.
Lafayette, We Come! Perishing, '17—(Perret Productions)

BLUEBIRD.
Nov. 30—All Night (Garnet Geers—Five Parts Drama)
Dec. 2—Tomatoes of France (Marie Walsamp—Five Parts—Drama—0528)
Dec. 9—Set Free (Idah Mollin—Five Parts—Drama—0300)
Dec. 23—The Sea Flower (June Hansen—Five Parts—Drama—0300)
Dec. 30—The Cabaret Girl (Ruth Clifford—Five Parts—Drama—0500)
Dec. 16—She Hired a Husband (Five Parts—Drama—0500)

CHRISTIE FILM COMPANY.
Oct. 7—Why Get a Divorce?
Oct. 14—Three Hours Late.
Dec. 3—All Mixed Up.
Dec. 10—Johnny Goes 'Em.
Dec. 17—Peggy Mixes In.
Dec. 23—Pears and a Peach.
Dec. 30—Know Thyself.
Jan. 6—Five Hundred or Bust.

EDUCATIONAL FILMS CORPORATION.
Aug. 26—A Mexican Venice (Wright)
Sept. 2—China (Five Parts and Millionaire (Harold Horton)

FIRST NATIONAL EXHIBITORS' CIRCUIT.
Perthering's Husband.
A Dog's Life (Charlie Chaplin). Shoulder Arms (Charlie Chaplin)
Ambassador Gerard's "My Four Years in Germany.

Tarzan of the Apes (Elmo Lincoln and Endy Oliver)
Tempered Steel (Madsie Peters)
Italian Flaming Front—Official Italian War Pictures.

Nov. 25—The Panther Woman (Olga Peters)

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CO. Times Building, N. Y.

FORD EDUCATIONAL WEEKLY.
Nationally Distributed by the Grover Distributing Corporation, 1452 Broadway, New York City.
No. 118—The Milky Way.
No. 120—The Red Cross Cares for the Wounded.
No. 121—On Foot with Our Army and Navy.

HARRIS, Aecoll Building, New York.
The Hushed Hour (Blanche Sweet). The Unpardonable Sin (Blanche Sweet).

W. W. HODGKINSON CORP. (Releasing Through Pathe) Oct. 7—Whatever the Cost (Anita King—Five Parts—Drama—Plaza).
Nov. 25—Three Cordon (J. Warren Kerrigan—Five Parts—Comedy—Hampton).
Dec. 2—Godless of Tampa (Louise Glaum—Five Parts—Drama).
Dec. 10—Two Gun Country (Bea Baricale—Five Parts—Comedy).
Dec. 29—Made in America, Episode No. 1.
Jan. 6—The Drifters (W. Warren Kerrigan—Five Parts—Drama—Hamden).

HOPP HADLEY. 130 West 46th Street, New York.
The Vow.

JEWEL PRODUCTIONS, INC.
The Gezer of Berlin (Century Production—Plaza).
The Sinking of the Lustiana (One Reel Pan Picture by Winstor McClary—03146).
For Hushandes Only (Six Parts—Drama—03189).
Crashing Through to Berlin (Seven Parts—Patricio—Topical—03138).
Nov. 4—The Yellow Dog (Six Parts—Drama—05272).

LEONIE: PERRET PRODUCTIONS. 1402 Broadway, New York.
Stairs of Glory.

GEORGE KLEINE.
Rialto Delux Production.
Conquered Hearts (Drama).

Edison.
The Unbeliever (Seven Reel).

Eseramy.
Young America (Seven Parts).
Triple Trouble (Charlie Chaplin Picture).

PSYCHO-ANALYTICAL RESEARCH ASSOCIATION.
1150 South 22nd Street, Lincoln, Neb.
What Does a Woman Need Most (Six Parts).

SELECT PICTURES.
Oct.—The One Woman (Select Special).
Oct.—Mrs. Leffingwell's Knots (Constantine Thumb).
Nov.—Her Great Chance (Alice Brady).
Nov.—The Road Through the Dark (Clara Kimball Young).
Nov.—The Cavell Case (Special).
Nov.—The Midday Light (Select).
Dec.—A Lady's Name (Constantine Talmadge).
Dec.—Heart of Woe (Norms Talmadge).
Dec.—In the Hallow of Her Hand (Alice Brady).
Dec.—Cod of the Yukon (Mitchell Lewis).
Dec.—The Midnight Patrol (Special).
COMMERCIAL LABORATORY WORK
In all its branches, receives INDIVIDUAL attention. Has the QUALITY and PUNCH which SELL prints.

RELEASE WORK
Specially equipped for QUANTITY production. Uniform SUPERIOR QUALITY such as only EXPERTS with scientific supervision can produce.

SPECIALTIES
If you have work requiring EXPERT SCIENTIFIC knowledge, we are BEST qualified to do it.

Empire City Film Lab., Inc.
345 West 40th St., New York City
Bryant 5437
Bet. Eighth and Ninth Aves.

MINUSA
Gold Fibre Screens

IMPROVE your projection
INCREASE your patronage
INFLATE your receipts
ENDORSED by all Leading Exibitors
INFORMATION and Samples upon request

DEALERS EVERYWHERE

MINUSA CINÉ SCREEN CO.
Bomont & Morgan
St. Louis, Mo.

Rothacker Prints
The Best For The Best of Them

In Answering Advertisements, Please Mention the MOVING PICTURE WORLD.

VENTILATE & COOL BY TYPHOONS
TYPHOON FAN COMPANY
NEW YORK 281 LEXINGTON AVE.

KNOWLEDGE BRINGS SUCCESS

Messrs. Exhibitor, Exchangeman, Operator, and Film Men Everywhere:—The moving picture business is one of the youngest but one of the leading industries of the world to-day. We may well be proud to be connected with it. Are you keeping up? Do you know all about it? It will yield larger returns for an equal amount of work to the men who know. Each weekly issue of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD contains more up-to-date information than you can get from all other sources. Subscribe now if not already on our mailing list. You will get your paper hours earlier than from the newsstand and it costs $4.80 less.

ONE YEAR ........................................ $3.00
SIX MONTHS ...................................... $1.50

See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
516 Fifth Avenue, New York
List of Current Film Release Dates

State Right Releases

ADVANCED MOTION PICTURE CORP.
1405 Broadway, New York City.
- The Eleventh Commandment (Drama).

ARGOY FILM COMPANY.
729 Seventh Ave., New York.
- After the War.

ARROW FILM CORPORATION.
Times Building, New York.
- Her Aviator.
- The Perfect Match (Audrey Munson).
- Sunset Princess (Margery Daw).
- A Woman's Law (Florence Reed—Five Parts—Drama).

BEAR STATE FILM COMPANY.
228 S. Halsted St., Chicago, Ill.
- The Vigilantes (Drama).

BERNARD H. BERNSTEIN.
925 Longacre Building, New York City.
- The Lion of the Hills (Wm. S. Hart—Drama)

BRENTWOOD FILM CORP.
431 Fourth Ave., Los Angeles.
- The Turn in the Road.

CHESTER BEECROFT.
501 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City.
-球名.

CREST PICTURES CORP.
Times Building, New York.
- The Last of the Apes.
- A Grain of Dust.
- A Romance of the Air (Lieutenant Bert Hall).

THE FILM MARKET, INC.
485 Times Building, New York.
- What Becomes of the Children (Cecra Beach).
- Suspicions (M. H. Hoffman Production).
- The City of Purple Dreams (Selig).
- Who Shall Take My Life? (Solie).
- Beware of Strangers (Solie).
- The Garden of Allah (Solie).
- The Spiders (Solig. Reissue).
- The Star-Spangled Banner (Gathem—Half reel).
- Columbus, the God of the Ocean (Gathem—Half reel).
- The Battle Cry of Freedom (Gathem—Half reel).
- Home Sweet Home and The Girl I Left Behind Me (Gathem).
- The Amazon Jungle (Capt. Besley Expedition).
- The Wonderland of Peru (Capt. Besley Expedition).
- The Undying Story of Captain Scott (Capt. Besley Expedition).
- Animal Life in the Antarctic (Capt Scott Antarctic Expedition).
- His Vinegar Bath (Tom Bret Comedy).
- Twin Bed Rooms (Tom Bret Comedy).
- Why Not Marry? (Tom Bret Comedy).

GAUMONT CO.
Flushing, L. I.
- Gaumont News—Released every Tuesday.
- Gaumont Graphic—Released every Friday.
- "The Hand of Vengeance."

GENERAL ENTERPRISES, INC.
Longacre Building, New York.
- Mother (Six Parts—Drama—McClure Pictures).
- The Warrior (Seven Parts—Drama—McClure Picture).

HILLER & WILK, INC.
Raffles, The Amateur Engineer.
- Sept.—Sporting Life (Maurice Tourneur Production).
- Woman (Maurice Tourneur Productions).
- The Silent Mystery (Francis Ford serial in fifteen episodes).

GRAPHIC FILM CORPORATION.
729 Seventh Ave., N. Y. City.
- When Men Betray (Drama).
- Ashes of Love.

M. H. HOFFMAN.
- Suspicion (Six Parts—Drama).
- The Craving.

IVAN FILM PRODUCTION.
130 West 46th Street, New York.
- Two Men and a Woman.
- Human Liar.
- Life or Honor.

JESTER COMEDY CO.
220 West 42nd Street, New York.
- (Features—Poode-Dom).
- Oct. 1—Ain’t It So (Two Parts).
- Nov. 1—Some Baby (Two Parts).
- Nov. 15—Clemmons (Two Parts).

JAMES KEANE.
220 West 42nd Street, New York.
- The Spreading Evil (Seven Parts—Drama).

MONOPOL PICTURE COMPANY.
1470 Broadway, N. Y. City.
- Mothers of Liberty.

PHYSICAL CULTURE PHOTO PLAYS, INC.
113 West 40th Street, New York.
- Zongar (Drama).

PERRET PRODUCTIONS.
Times Building, New York.
- Stars of Glory.

PIERSON FILM CORP.
130 West 46th St., New York City.
- The Still Alarm (Selig Production).
- Wives of Men.
- Little Orphant Annie (Six Parts—Drama).

HARRY RAVER.
1402 Broadway, New York.
- The Hand of the Hun (Four Parts—Novelty).
- The Master Crock.

ROMAYNE SUPER-FILM COMPANY.
221 March-Stanh Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.
- Me und Gott.

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES.
- The Light of Western Stars (Sherman Production—Six Parts).

ERNEST SHIPMAN.
17 West 44th Street, New York City.
- The Daughter of the Don (Five Parts—Drama).
- Aug.—Pen Vultures (Five Reels).
- Sept.—The Prisoner of War (Five Reels).

W. H. CLIFFORD PHOTOPLAY COMPANY, INC.
- Featuring Mary Hamilton, One Five-Reeler Per Month.
- The Coast Guard Patrol (By Neil Shipman—Seven-Part Patriotic Drama).
- A Nugget in the Rough (Five Parts—Comedy—Drama).
- Trooper 44 (Five Parts—Drama).
- The Tiger (Seven Parts—Drama—By Neil Shipman).
- Bill Stingers’ Poems (A Series of one-reel patriotic comedy-dramas issued semi-monthly).

Al and Frank Jeannings.
- Lady of the Dugout (Six Parts—Drama).
- Lloyd Carleton Productions.
- Mother I Need You.
- Edwin Frazee.
- The Haunted House (Mystic Comedy—Two Parts).

United Film Corporation.
- Crime of the Hour (Seven Parts—Drama).
- Francis Ford Producing Co. Berlin via America (Six Parts).
- The Isle of Istrigue (Six Parts).

HARRY RAPE.
- Palace Theatre Building, New York.
- Sins of the Children.
- Wanted for Murder.

WILLIAM STORMER ENTERPRISES.
- 720 Seventh Ave., New York.
- The Tidal Wave (Eight Parts—Drama).

SOUTHERN FEATURE FILM COMPANY.
1416 Broadway, New York.
- Beyond the Law (Emmett Soldier—Six Parts).

TOPICS OF THE DAY FILM COMPANY.
701 Times Building, New York.
- Topics of the Day (A weekly topical release).

UNIVERSAL FILM COMPANY.
300 Broadway, New York.
- Song Hits in Photoplays.

U. S. EXHIBITORS’ BOOKING CO.
Times Building, New York.
- The Belgian.
- Those Who Pay.
- The Zepplin’s Last Raid.
- Just a Woman (Steger Production).
- Men.
- The Crucible of Life.

W. H. PRODUCTIONS.
71 West 23d Street, New York.
- Mickey (Seven Parts).
- (The Following are Multiple Reel W. S. New Subjects, Released in Order Listed.)
- The Hell Hound of Alaska (Five Parts—Dr.).
- Making His Life (Five Parts—Drama).
- Series of two-reel productions.
- Satan’s Pawn (Bessie Barriscale—Five Parts—Drama).
- The Straight Road (Bessie Barriscale—Five Parts—Drama).
- Series of sixteen two-reel Shorty Hamilton two-reel Western comedies.
- Series of twenty-eight two-reel Mack Sennett Keystone comedies.
- Series of twenty-six one and two-reel Charlie Chaplin comedies.
- Series of twenty-four single reel Fatty Arbuckle comedies.
- Series of Twenty-Eight Single Reel Liberty Keystone.
- Series of Twenty-Eight Single Reel Eagle Keystone.
- Series of Fifteen Two-Reel Union-Kay-Bee Western Dramas.
- Series of Fifteen Two-Reel Columbia-Kay-Bee Western Dramas.
- WARNER BROTHERS.
- 220 West 42d Street, New York.
- The Kalser’s Finish.

FELIX F. FEIST.
- 130 West 46th Street, N. Y. C.
- Stoles Orders (Eight Reels—Drama).

PLUNKETT & CARROLL.
- 220 West 42d Street, New York City.
- The Woman the Germans Shot.

PRODUCERS’ DISTRIBUTING CORP.
- 130 West 46th Street, New York City.
- Her Mistake (Evelyn Nesbit).

SCHOMER PHOTO-PLAY PRODUCING CO.
- 1440 Broadway, New York City.
- Ruling Passions.
The Essential Requirements
for Improved Projection
are Speer Carbons
Speer Alterno Combinations
for A. C. Work
and Speer Hold-Ark Combinations
for D. C. Work
Produce Incomparable Results

Write today for descriptive folders.
Read the unbiased opinions of operators.

Place an order now with your Supply House.

"The Carbons with a Guarantee"
Manufactured by
Speer Carbon Company
St. Marys, Pa.

Profit by our experience and assistance in film DEVELOPMENT and PRINTING.
Our experience is a matter of years, not months. Our reputation a matter of record, not empty assertion.

Evan's Film Mfg. Co., 416-24 West 216th St., New York City
Telephone: St. Nicholas 3443-44

F I R E and SMOKE EFFECTS for DAY OR NIGHT BATTLE SCENES, FIRES AND CON-FLAGRATIONS

In addition to
"NEWMANLITES"
for night photography

Just the thing for effective night scenes, cloudy days, dense woods and many other exteriors where electric lighting cannot be obtained.

I. C. Newman Co., Inc.
Manufacturers of Fire and Smoke Specialties for Motion Picture Use

320 Broadway 4676 Hollywood Blvd.
New York Los Angeles
Phone: Franklin 1692 Phone: Holly 1974

PORTER EQUIPS THEATRE FOR GRIFFITH'S
Supreme triumph "Hearts of the World." Installs two up to the minute type S simplex projectors with Robin Time and Speed Indicators in the 44th St. Theatre, New York. The marvelous projection of this greatest picture of modern times is synchronized accurately to the fraction of a second with the beautiful music and effects.

B. F. Porter, 729 7th Avenue, New York City, 11th Floor

Educate Your Audience to Help Fight Censorship

Introducing a bill providing for the Censorship of Moving Pictures is a favorite indoor pastime in legislative halls throughout the country. Eternal vigilance is the price of the Exhibitor's mere safety if not his success.

Presented in the proper manner, the Censorship of Moving Pictures is just as obnoxious to the Exhibitor's audiences as it is to the Exhibitor. And public opinion aroused in behalf of moving pictures and against their unfair and discriminatory control is the surest weapon to defeat Censorship.

We have prepared a series of nine different stereopticon slides which crystallize the argument against Censorship; one of the slides is shown herewith.

These slides shown repeatedly in any theatre cannot fail to influence public opinion in that locality against Censorship. They will line up the general public on the side of the Exhibitor.

You Ought to Be Showing Them Now! Legislatures Everywhere Are Convening

Set of Nine Slides, carefully packed, will be sent postpaid on receipt of $1.00.

Moving Picture World
516 Fifth Avenue, New York City
From Canton, Illinois, to Canton, China, movie fans are looking at pictures made on

EASTMAN FILM

The demand for the clearest pictures possible is world wide.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

DIRECT CURRENT MOTION PICTURE CARBONS

The Silvertip is the standard negative carbon for direct current projection. It is of small diameter and is heavily plated with metal to give it a high current carrying capacity. When used with the Columbia upper it gives a pure white light of high intensity.

The illustration below shows clearly the difference in size of the Silvertip negative and the old negative carbon. The great improvement in positive crater is also shown.

The blunt point of the negative carbon in the old system permits the negative spot to wander since the spot covers but a small portion of the point. The negative spot on the Silvertip covers the entire point with the result that the arc cannot wander and cause a flicker on the lens and screen.

Write for circulars

National Carbon Company, Inc.
Cleveland, Ohio
THE MOVING PICTURE
WORLD

VOLUME XXXVIII
October—December 1918

J. P. CHALMERS
Founder

PUBLISHED BY

CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO.

516 Fifth Avenue, New York
—

;

——

;

;

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

574

War Hoard Meets Film Men's Requests
War Hoard Restricts Manufacture of Ma-993

Woody

West Coast Picture Folk Pile Up Big Loan
W.

824
115 1219
830

Totals
S. Rally at Baltimore's Garden

chines
56
War Displays at Motion Picture Shows.... 68
War Review, The, To Continue 1204
War Work Organizations Use Many Pic717
tures
Washington Kxebangemen Get Together.... 361
Washington Praises Liberty Films
202
Washington Records Show English Actors' Migration
052

825
Winnipeg Exhibitors to Get Rebate
Winnipeg Exhibitors to Get Rebate Legis-

Washington Wondering as to Future
Division of Films
Weber, Lois, to Direct Anita Stewart
Talks Sense to Exhibitors

Winnipeg Men Denounce Proposed Building 1201
By-Laws
Wobber Named Film Division Director.... 203

Index

to

S.

What One Player Does
What to Do if You'd Fooled
Irvin
Willat, Pn sent

the Editor

Among

Again

V.,

Those 1494

Exchange Managers Fight Pro940
Uasure

Winnipeg
po

841 lation

of 815

1065
933

December
Be

to Select's

1918

28,

General Sales Manager

824

World Do Movie, The 372
World Engages Texas Guinan
365 World Is New Born, The 827
World News Is Latest to Enter Weekly Field

1322
1500

World Pictures Engages Meeker

Z
Zukor Men. Two. Start New Company
Zukor, Day, Yields Over Half Million

1492 of Loan

577

Reviews, Comments, and Advertising Aids on the Films months ending December 31, 1918, and upon the majority of which have been published reviews, comments, or advertising aids. This list is as accurate as it is possible to make it with the information received from the companies whose productions are included. Should any of our readers detect errors, we

The letter before the folio shall be pleased to have our attention called to them so that we may correct our card index.
indicates the page where the review, comment, or advertising aids can be found. "R" stands for review; "C" for comment; and "A" lor advertising aids. Where reference letter is omitted it signifies that none was published. Of the later releases where any or all reference letters are omitted the missing information will probable be published in the next volume.
N. B. Comments or reviews of episodes .of serials or series are indexed in connection with general title of such serial or series and not under title o feach episode. Date shown for Pathe subjects indicates the week during which they were

Appended

a

is of subjects released during the three list

—

released.

Animated Weekly No. 51 (Universal) Admiral

Fleet

Beatty's Freedom)

for liting

— Oct.

Action (No. 1 of (Universal-Special)

in 5.

Adventure Shop (5 parts) (Vitagraph)
A-1387.
Aerial Circus)
R-1116.

Tim (No.

;

The Lure of the 0.

(Universal)

parts)

CJ

— Dec. 30

— Dec.

-':;

—

:

R-H15;

A-

30;

C-1119.

Sudden Norma (Exhibitors-Mutual)

— R-

1654
C-1555.
All the World to
;

Nothing (6 parts) (PatheR-988 c-1120.
Heroes Arrive in Switzerland (Wm.
L. Slier ry-Hurlingham).
Allies' Official War Review No. 13 (Pathe)
-i

Allied

i

;

War

'.'1
c-122.
i:
Sepi. 22
Allies' Official War Review
Sept. 29; C-446.
Allies' Official War Review
Oct. 6; C-447.
Allies' Official War Review
Oct. 13; C-517.
Allies' Official War Review
Oct. 20; C-623.
Allies' Official War Review
:

Oct
Allies'

27.
Official

Nov.
Allies'

:;;

No.

14

No.

15

No.

10

No.

17

No.

18

(Pathe)

—

No.

19

(Pathe)

—

War Review

No.

20

(Pathe)

No.

21

—
(Pathe) —

No.

22

(Pathe)

C-760.

OfTieial

Nov. 10; C 857.
Allies'

Official

War Review

Nov. 17.
AUK'S' Official War
Nov. 24
R-1088
:

Allies'

Official

Dec.
Allies'

1

;

Official
Dec. 15.
Official
Dec. 22.
Allies' Official
Dec. 20.

C-1120.

;

War Review

C-1251

Official

Review

.

War

Dec. 8; C 1383;
Allies'

—
—
(Pathe)
(Pathe) —
(Pathe) —
(Pathe) —

Review

War

War

No. 2.'!
R-1206; C-1555.
Review No. 24
R-1338.
Review No. 25

War Review

No.

War Review

No.

—
(Pathe) —
(Pathe) —

26

—
(Pathe) —

27

—

(Pathe)

(Pathe)

Along the Crimson Gasb (Allies' Official War Review No. 20) (Pathe)—Nov. 10; C-857.
Amazing Confe Bion, The ..<.>. ]\ ,,f "The Brass Bullet")
in parts)
Dee. 7
C-1251.

(Universal-Special)

—

;

Amazon Jm,
American

Besley Expedition).

Swim

No.

1

1

s

(

Ford

Educational

Weekly).
on Public America's An wer (World
Information)- Nov. 11 A-822,
And a Btlll Small Voice (5 parts] (Exhibitors lie,. 29
Mutual National)
R-1882 C-1383
A-1561
Animal Life in the Antarctic (Film Market Cap! Seott Antarctic Expedition).
j

;

Animated Weekly No.

II

i

(Universal)—Sept.

;

11

12

.17.

Animated Animated
Animated
Animated
Animated
Animated
Animated

Weekly
Weekly
Weekly
Weekly
Weekly
Weekly
Weokly

(Universal)— Sept. 18;

— Oct.
— Oct
(Universal)— Oct. 16.
(Universal) — Oct. 23.
(Universal)— Oct. 28.
(Universal) — Nov.
(Universal) — Nov. 13.

No. 14 (Universal)
No. 46 (Universal)

No.
No.
No.
No.
No.

46
47

48
49 50

— Nov. 20;
—
—
—
—
—
(World) —

6.

of Evil, The
Oct. 7; A-551
R-121
;

(5 parts)
C-277.

;

Are Brunettes False? (Mutual-Strand— Oi
Are Second Marriages Happy? (Christie)

— Sept.

R-U8;

C-121.
(Arteraft)
Dec. 8;
Around the Clock with the Sailor
Universal-Special
Oct. 7.
Around the Clock with the Marines
(Universal-Special)
Nov. 4.
Around the World in Nine Minutes

(Fox-Mutt

and Jeff Cartoon)— Nov. 24.
Ashes of Love (6 parts) (Graphic)

A-625

9;

Arizona

—

(5 parts)

—
—

Vol. 37-1917
C-Vol. 37-1921.
the Front (Fox-Mutt and Jeff

;

R-1552.
(2 parts)
(2

parts)

R-

;

;

At

Sept 8.
Avenger, The 1

—

—

20.

24
C-988.
British West
;

(Pathe-Post)

Indies

—

Cry of Freedom, The (Film Market—Gathem).
Battling Jane (5 parts) (Famous Players-LaskyParamount)— Oct. 6; A-693; R-275 C-446.
Beans for Two (Mutual-Strand) Dec. 11. and Had Men (2 Parts) (Vitagraph-Big Battle

—

;

V)—

Oct. 7; C-691.
n
Back (No. ." of "The Lure of the Circus) (2 parts) (Universal)
Dec. 2 R-1116:
C-1384.
Beautiful Liar, The (Universal-Nestor)
Dec.

—

;

—

10.

Behind the Lines

—

(Kleine)— R-Vol. 37-

Italy

in 1917; C-762.

Belgian Sisters of Holmes) Dec.

Luzon

(Paramount-Burton

1.

Kingdom of Grief (10 parts)
(Classic Films)— R-5
C-546; R-1338.
Bells, The (5 parts) (Pathe— Nov. 17; A-1253
The

Belgium,

2.
0.

6.

(Post Series No. 23)
(Pathe-Post)
Dec. 15: C-1555.
Borrowed Clothes (6 parts) (Jewel) Nov. 18;
A-1121
R-1115; C-1119.
Branding Broadway (5 parts) (Famous PlayersLasky-Artc raft)— R-1116; A-1389.
Brass Bullet, The (No. 9, The Room of Flame)
(2 parts) (Universal-Special)
Oct. 5.
Brass Bullet, The (No. 10, A New Peril) (2 parts) (Universal-Special)
Oct. 12; C-122.
Brass Bullet, The No. 11, Evil Waters) (2 parts)
(Universal-Special)
Oct. 19; C-1120.
Brass Bullet, The (No. 12, Caught by Wireless)
(Universal-Special)
(2 parts)
Oct.
26; C-447.
Brass Bullet, The (No. 13, Five Hundred Dollars Reward) (2 parts) (Universal-Special)

—

;

—

—

—

—

—Nov.

2.

(No. 14, On Trial for His Life)
(2 parts)
(Universal-Special)
Nov.
9; C-1120.
Brass Bullet. The (No. 15, In the Shadow) (2
parts)
(Universal-Special)
Nov.
16;
C-

—

1120.

Had Men and Good Scenery (Mutual-Rothacker)

—Nov.

;

;

27ii.

Borneo

—

B Barbados,

Border Raiders, The (5 parts) (Pathe-Diando)
—Oct. 6; A-129; R-Vol. 37-1920; C-122.
Border Wireless (5 parts) (Famous PlayersLasky-Artcraft)— Oct. 6; A-451 R-274 C-

Brass Bullet, The

(No. 17 of "The Brass Bullet")
(Universal-Special)
Nov. 30; C-

(2 parts)
1 Cartoon)

1

1

;

Beloved Imposter, The (5 parts) (Vitagraph)
Dec. 9; A-1256; R-l.",s2,
Berlin Via America (t; parts) (Shipman-FranFord Prod.).
Better Half, The (5 parts)
(Select)— Sept.
1-125; R-Vol. 37-1919; C-Vol. 37-1921.
Betwixt Heaven and Earth (No. 11 of Wolves of Kultur)
(2 parts)
(Pathe-Western)
Dec. 22.
Beware of Boarders (Paramount-Mack Sennett)
—Oct. 6; R-Vol. 37-1918; C-121.
Bi ware oi Strangers (Film Market-Selig).
Beyond the Law ((I parts) (Southern Feature)
R-1215
C-1251
A-1658.
Big Tent, The (No. 2 of The Lure of the Circus)
(2 parts)
(Universal)— Nov. 18; CL261
R-1116.

—

Brass Bullet, The (No. 16, The Noose) (2 parts)
(Universal-Special)— Nov. 23; C-1120.
Brass Bullet, The (No. 17, The Avenger) (2
parts)
(Universal-Special)
Nov. 30;
C-

—

1120.

Brass Bullet, The (No. IS, Amazing Confession,
The) (2 parts)
(Universal-Special)
Dec.

—

7; C-1251.

Brazen

Beauty,
Britain's Battling Fighting for —Dee.

The

—

parts)

(Bluebird)
37-1924; R-117 C-121.
Bulldogs The Navy (No. 7 of Freedom) (Universal-Special) (5

—

;

11.

Naval Air Power (Episode of the Far Flung Battle Line) (Pathe)— Oct. 27.
British Flying Ships (Episode of the Far Flung

Britain's

Battle Line) (Pathe)— Nov. 17.
British Indian Troops (Episode of the Far Flung Baltic Line, The) (Pathe)— C-5 17.
British Troops in Italy (Episode of the Far Flung Battle Line, The) (Pathe)— Nov. 10; C-S57.
Buchanan's Wife (Fox-Excel)— Dec. 1; A-993

R-1210; C-1250.
Building the Eagle
Oct.

Boat

(Paramount-Bray)

20.

Bulling the Bolshevik toon)
Sept. 29.

(Fox-Mutt

&

Jeff

Car-

;

—

;

;

;

;

C-277

Animated Weekly No.

52

(Universal)
Nov. 27.
53 (Universal)
Dec. 4.
54 (Universal)
Dee. 11.
55 (Universal)
Dec. 18.
West Indies
(Pathe-Post)

)

;

1123;

Oct.

No.
No.
No.
No.

Appearance

—

All of a

Weekly
Weekly
Weekly
Weekly

Antigua-British

;

-After the War (Argosy)—R-1118; C-1250.
it
So? (2 parts) (Jester Comedy)— Oct. 1.
Nov.
Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves (Fox)
V-1122; R-1115; C-1119.
All for Gold il' parts) (Universal-Western)
Oct. 5
C-4 17.
All for Liberty (Pathe)— R-91 C-122.
All Mixed Up (Christie)- Dee. :;.
(Bluebird)— Nov.
All Night (5 parts)

C-1251.

Animated
Animated
Animated
Animated

Camps Out (Goldwyn-CapitoD— Oct.

Hill

Birth

of a

War

Poster,

The

7.

(Universal)

— R-

BlaCk Feet and Flat Heads Mulual-Rothacker)
—Nov. 17; C-700.
Blade of Hate, The (No. 2 of The Iron Test)
(Vitagraph) Nov. 4; C-09I.
(

—

Bomb-Dropping stroyers
I

From

(No.

Submarine

De-

(Bluebird)

— Dec.

30.

Cabbage Queen, The (2 parts)

(Universal-Century)— Dec. 18; C-1384.

Caillaux Case, The (6 parts) (Fox-Standard)
Sept. 15; A-Vol. 36-1336; R-443
C-446.
Camouflage (Jester Comedy Co.) Nov. 15.
Camouflaged Baby, The (General-Rainbow).
Camping Out (Universal-Star)— Dec. 21; C-1384.
Cannibal Isles of the South Pacific (Martin Johnson Film Co.).

—

—

;

(5 parts) (Famous Plavers-Lasky-Success)— Dec. 1; C-1119; A-1254.
Captain's Captain, The (5 parts) (Vitagraph)
Dec. 23; A-1255.
Captured Alive (2 parts) (Universal-Western)
Carmen (5 parts) (Famous Players-Lasky-Success)— Sept. 29: A-278 R-273.
Caribbean Lapped Shores (No. 19 of Post Travel Series) (Pathe-Post)
Nov. 17; C-988; R-

Caprice

—

—

;

Aerial

Fighting for Freedom) Universal-Special)— Oct. 7.
2 of

Carabaret Girl, The (5 parts)

—

II

IMS


SIMPLEX NEVER SURRENDERS!!

—NOTE—

In the city of Chicago, the business and theatre district is centered in what is called "The Loop." This section is entirely encircled by the Elevated, which forms a structure of steel all around it, thereby giving it its name. There are nineteen Theatres within the Loop running pictures, and each one uses the Simplex, making it 100% strong; some of them run twenty-four hours a day.

FOUR years ago, in the city of Chicago, Generals "Mediocre Material" and "Questionable Quality" had possession of the "Loop." The Managers demanded day and night protection, but they weren’t getting it.

Up came the relief army of Simplex. They unlimbered their heaviest guns—trained their batteries upon the screens, and took the "loop" by storm!! An unbroken line of supreme service has entrenched them in the "Loop" as solidly as Gibraltar itself.

But now a battle was on in earnest. The ousted Generals flung their forces against the "Iron-Ring" of Simplex. "Get back into the Loop at any cost," were the orders of the day.

They made offers to the Loop Managers: They begged, pleaded and promised, but they were met by a barrage of disinterest.

And now the Simplex forces have extended their lines outside the Loop, capturing the second and third line of trenches so that 85% of the entire city of Chicago is protected by Simplex security.

The four years’ service flag of Simplex still waves with Simplex guarding the screens of the city.

The qualities that have made our army the big factor in the war, are the same qualities that enabled Simplex to "hold the fort": Masterful Material—Peerless Precision—Splendid Service.

SIMPLEX RECRUITING OFFICES
ALL OVER THE COUNTRY

JOIN THE ARMY OF SIMPLEX USERS

GUARD YOUR PROJECTION WITH A SIMPLEX

MADE AND GUARANTEED BY THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.
317 East 34th St—New York
Projectionist Ray says

"This is the time when I want to put business in the background and say, more emphatically than ever before,

Merry Christmas

"It ought to be a mighty good one, too, for everybody. You may not be thankful for what this old world has gone through, but you're pretty thankful for how gloriously it has COME through; you're glad to be alive and you're some proud of your country. What?

"So here's to you! May there be no intermittent movement in the uplifting tide of your success and may you continue to project perfectly upon the screen of Life through many a

Happy New Year

Copyright, 1918
Nicholas Power Company
Incorporated

Nicholas Power Company
Incorporated

Pioneers of Projection

90 Gold Street, New York, N.Y.